[10]So the couriers passed from city to city in the land of Ephraim and Manasseh and as far as Zebulun, but they were derided and scoffed at. [11]Nevertheless, some from Asher, Manasseh, and Zebulun humbled themselves and came to Jerusalem. [12]In Judah, however, the hand of God brought it about that the people were of one heart to carry out the command of the king and the princes by the word of the LORD. [13]Thus many people gathered in Jerusalem to celebrate the feast of Unleavened Bread in the second month; it was a very great assembly.

Passover Celebrated. [14]They proceeded to remove the altars that were in Jerusalem as well as all the altars of incense, and cast them into the Wadi Kidron. [15]They slaughtered the Passover on the fourteenth day of the second month. The priests and Levites were shamed into sanctifying themselves and brought burnt offerings into the house of the LORD. [16]They stood in the places prescribed for them according to the law of Moses, the man of God. The priests splashed the blood given them by the Levites; [17]for many in the assembly had not sanctified themselves, and the Levites were in charge of slaughtering the Passover victims for all who were unclean so as to consecrate them to the LORD. [18]The greater part of the people, in fact, chiefly from Ephraim, Manasseh, Issachar, and Zebulun, had not cleansed themselves. Nevertheless they ate the Passover, contrary to the prescription; because Hezekiah prayed for them, saying, "May the good LORD grant pardon to [19]all who have set their heart to seek God, the LORD, the God of their ancestors, even though they are not clean as holiness requires." [20]The LORD heard Hezekiah and healed the people.

[21]Thus the Israelites who were in Jerusalem celebrated the feast of Unleavened Bread with great rejoicing for seven days, and the Levites and the priests sang the praises of the LORD day after day with all their strength. [22]Hezekiah spoke encouragingly to all the Levites who had shown themselves well skilled in the service of the LORD. And when they had completed the seven days of festival, sacrificing communion offerings and singing praises to the LORD, the God of their ancestors, [23]the whole assembly agreed to celebrate another seven days. So with joy they celebrated seven days more.

[24]King Hezekiah of Judah had contributed a thousand bulls and seven thousand sheep to the assembly, and the princes a thousand bulls and ten thousand sheep. The priests sanctified themselves in great numbers, [25]and the whole assembly of Judah rejoiced, together with the priests and Levites and the rest of the assembly that had come from Israel, as well as the resident aliens from the land of Israel and those that lived in Judah. [26]There was great rejoicing in Jerusalem, for since the days of Solomon, son of David, king of Israel, there had been nothing like it in the city. [27]Then the levitical priests rose and blessed the people; their voice was heard and their prayer reached heaven, God's holy dwelling.

Liturgical Reforms. 31:1 After all this was over, those Israelites who had been present went forth to the cities of Judah and smashed the sacred pillars, cut down the asherahs, and tore down the high places and altars throughout Judah, Benjamin, Ephraim, and Manasseh, until they were all destroyed. Then the Israelites returned to their cities, each to his own possession.

[2]Hezekiah re-established the divisions of the priests and the Levites according to their former divisions, assigning to each priest and Levite his proper service, whether in regard to burnt offerings or communion offerings, thanksgiving or praise, or ministering in the gates of the encampment of the LORD. [3]From his own wealth the king allotted a portion for burnt offerings, those of morning and evening and those on sabbaths, new moons, and festivals, as is written in the law of the LORD. [4]He also commanded the people living in Jerusalem to provide for the support of the priests and Levites, that they might firmly adhere to the law of the LORD.

[5]As soon as the order was promulgated, the Israelites brought, in great quantities, the best of their grain, wine, oil, and honey, and all the produce of the fields; they gave a generous tithe of everything. [6]Israelites and Judahites living in other cities of Judah also brought in tithes of oxen, sheep, and votive offerings consecrated to the LORD, their God; these they brought in and heaped up in piles. [7]It was in the third month that they began to establish these heaps, and they completed them in the seventh month. [8]When Hezekiah and the princes had come and seen the piles, they blessed the LORD and his people Israel. [9]Then Hezekiah questioned the priests and the Levites concerning the piles, [10]and the priest Azariah, head of the house of Zadok, answered him, "Since they began to bring the offerings to the house of the LORD, we have eaten, been satisfied, and had much left over, for the LORD has blessed his people. This great supply is what was left over."

[11]Hezekiah then gave orders that chambers be constructed in the house of the LORD. When this had been done, [12]they deposited the offerings, tithes, and votive offerings there for safekeeping. The overseer of these things was Conaniah the Levite, and his brother Shimei was second in command. [13]Jehiel, Azaziah, Nahath, Asahel, Jerimoth, Jozabad, Eliel, Ismachiah, Mahath, and Benaiah were supervisors subject to Conaniah the Levite and his brother Shimei by appointment of King Hezekiah and of Azariah, the prefect of the house of God. [14]Kore, the son of Imnah, a Levite and the keeper of the eastern gate, was in charge of the voluntary offerings made to God; he distributed the offerings made to the LORD and the most holy of the votive offerings. [15]Under him in the priestly cities were Eden, Miniamin, Jeshua, Shemaiah, Amariah, and Shecaniah, who faithfully made the distribution to their brothers, great and small alike, according to their divisions.

[16]There was also a register by ancestral houses of males three years of age and over, for all priests who were eligible to enter the house of the LORD according to the daily schedule to fulfill their service in the order of their divisions. [17]The priests were inscribed in their family records according to their ancestral houses, as were the Levites twenty years of age and over according to their various offices and divisions. [18]A distribution was also made to all who were inscribed in the family records, for their little ones, wives, sons and daughters—thus for the entire assembly, since they were to sanctify themselves by sharing faithfully in the votive offerings. [19]The sons of Aaron, the priests who lived on the lands attached to their cities, had in every city men designated by name to distribute portions to every male of the priests and to every Levite listed in the family records.

[20]Hezekiah did this in all Judah. He did what was good, upright, and faithful before the LORD, his God. [21]Everything that he undertook, for the service of the house of God or for the law and the commandment, was to seek his God. He did this with all his heart, and he prospered.

Sennacherib's Invasion. 32:1 But after all this and all Hezekiah's fidelity, there came Sennacherib, king of Assyria. He invaded Judah and besieged the fortified cities, intending to breach and take them. [2]When Hezekiah saw that Sennacherib was coming with the intention of attacking Jerusalem, [3]he took the advice of his princes and warriors to stop the waters of the springs outside the city; they promised their help. [4]A large force was gathered and stopped all the springs and also the stream running nearby. For they said, "Why should the kings of Assyria come and find an abundance of water?" [5]He then looked to his defenses: he rebuilt the wall where it was broken down, raised towers upon it, and built another wall outside. He strengthened the Millo of the City of David and made a great number of spears and shields. [6]Then he appointed army commanders over the people. He gathered them together in his presence in the open space at the gate of the city and encouraged them with these words: [7]"Be strong and steadfast; do not be afraid or dismayed because of the king of Assyria and all the horde coming with him, for there is more with us than with him. [8]He has only an arm of flesh, but we have the LORD, our God, to help us and to fight our battles." And the people took confidence from the words of Hezekiah, king of Judah.

Threat of Sennacherib. [9]After this, while Sennacherib, king of Assyria, himself remained at Lachish with all his forces, he sent his officials to Jerusalem with this message for Hezekiah, king of Judah, and all the Judahites who were in Jerusalem: [10]"Thus says Sennacherib, king of Assyria: In what are you trusting, now that you are under siege in Jerusalem? [11]Is not Hezekiah deceiving you, delivering you over to a death of famine and thirst, by his claim that 'the LORD, our God, will rescue us from the grasp of the king of Assyria'? [12]Has not this same Hezekiah removed the Lord's own high places and altars and commanded Judah and Jerusalem, 'You shall bow down before one altar only, and on it alone you shall offer incense'? [13]Do you not know what my fathers and I have done to all the peoples of other lands? Were the gods of the nations in those lands able to rescue their lands from my hand? [14]Who among all the gods of those nations which my fathers put under the ban was able to rescue their people from my hand? Will your god, then, be able to rescue you from my hand? [15]Let not Hezekiah mislead you further and deceive you in any such way. Do not believe him! Since no other god of any other nation or kingdom has been able to rescue his people from my hand or the hands of my fathers, how much the less shall your god rescue you from my hand!"

[16]His officials said still more against the LORD God and against his servant Hezekiah, [17]for he had written letters to deride the LORD, the God of Israel, speaking of him in these terms: "As the gods of the nations in other lands have not rescued their people from my hand, neither shall Hezekiah's god rescue his people from my hand." [18]In a loud voice they shouted in the language of Judah to the people of Jerusalem who were on the wall, to frighten and terrify them so that they might capture their city. [19]They spoke of the God of Israel as though he were one of the gods of the other peoples of the earth, a work of human hands. [20]But because of this, King Hezekiah and Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz, prayed and cried out to heaven.

Sennacherib's Defeat. [21]Then the LORD sent an angel, who destroyed every warrior, leader, and commander in the camp of the Assyrian king, so that he had to return shamefaced to his own country. And when he entered the temple of his god, some of his own offspring struck him down there with the sword. [22]Thus the LORD saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib, king of Assyria, as from every other power; he gave them rest on every side. [23]Many brought gifts for the LORD to Jerusalem and costly objects for Hezekiah, king of Judah, who thereafter was exalted in the eyes of all the nations.

Hezekiah's Later Reign. [24]In those days Hezekiah became mortally ill. He prayed to the LORD, who answered him by giving him a sign. [25]Hezekiah, however, did not respond with like generosity, for he had become arrogant. Therefore wrath descended upon him and upon Judah and Jerusalem. [26]But then Hezekiah humbled himself for his pride —both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and therefore the wrath of the LORD did not come upon them during the time of Hezekiah.

[27]Hezekiah possessed very great wealth and glory. He made treasuries for his silver, gold, precious stones, spices, jewels, and other precious things of all kinds; [28]also storehouses for the harvest of grain, for wine and oil, and barns for the various kinds of cattle and flocks. [29]He built cities for himself, and he acquired sheep and oxen in great numbers, for God gave him very great riches. [30]This same Hezekiah stopped the upper outlet for water from Gihon and redirected it underground westward to the City of David. Hezekiah prospered in all his works. [31]Nevertheless, in respect to the ambassadors of the Babylonian officials who were sent to him to investigate the sign that had occurred in the land, God abandoned him as a test, to know all that was in his heart.

[32]The rest of Hezekiah's acts, including his good deeds, are recorded in the vision of Isaiah the prophet, son of Amoz, and in the book of the kings of Judah and Israel. [33]Hezekiah rested with his ancestors; he was buried at the approach to the tombs of the descendants of David. All Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem paid him honor at his death. His son Manasseh succeeded him as king.

The Demand for a Sign. 16:1 The Pharisees and Sadducees came and, to test him, asked him to show them a sign from heaven. [2]He said to them in reply, "[In the evening you say, 'Tomorrow will be fair, for the sky is red'; [3]and, in the morning, 'Today will be stormy, for the sky is red and threatening.' You know how to judge the appearance of the sky, but you cannot judge the signs of the times.] [4]An evil and unfaithful generation seeks a sign, but no sign will be given it except the sign of Jonah." Then he left them and went away.

The Leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees. [5]In coming to the other side of the sea, the disciples had forgotten to bring bread. [6]Jesus said to them, "Look out, and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees." [7]They concluded among themselves, saying, "It is because we have brought no bread." [8]When Jesus became aware of this he said, "You of little faith, why do you conclude among yourselves that it is because you have no bread? [9]Do you not yet understand, and do you not remember the five loaves for the five thousand, and how many wicker baskets you took up? [10]Or the seven loaves for the four thousand, and how many baskets you took up? [11]How do you not comprehend that I was not speaking to you about bread? Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees." [12]Then they understood that he was not telling them to beware of the leaven of bread, but of the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

Manasseh's Impiety. 33:1 Manasseh was twelve years old when he became king, and he reigned fifty-five years in Jerusalem. [2]He did what was evil in the LORD's sight, following the abominable practices of the nations whom the LORD dispossessed before the Israelites. [3]He rebuilt the high places which Hezekiah his father had torn down. He set up altars to the Baals, and also made asherahs. He bowed down to the whole host of heaven and served them. [4]He built altars in the house of the LORD, of which the LORD had said: In Jerusalem shall my name be forever; [5]and he built altars to the whole host of heaven in the two courts of the house of the LORD. [6]It was he, too, who immolated his children by fire in the Valley of Ben-hinnom. He practiced soothsaying and divination, and reintroduced the consulting of ghosts and spirits.

He did much evil in the LORD's sight and provoked him to anger. [7]An idol he had made he placed in the house of God, of which God had said to David and to his son Solomon: In this house and in Jerusalem, which I have chosen out of all the tribes of Israel, I shall set my name forever. [8]I will no longer make Israel step out of the land I assigned to your ancestors, provided that they are careful to observe all I commanded them, the entire law, the statutes, and the ordinances given by Moses.

[9]Manasseh misled Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem into doing even greater evil than the nations the LORD had destroyed at the coming of the Israelites. [10]The LORD spoke to Manasseh and his people, but they paid no attention.

Manasseh's Conversion. [11]Therefore the LORD brought against them the army commanders of the Assyrian king; they captured Manasseh with hooks, shackled him with chains, and transported him to Babylon. [12]In his distress, he began to appease the LORD, his God. He humbled himself abjectly before the God of his ancestors, [13]and prayed to him. The LORD let himself be won over: he heard his prayer and restored him to his kingdom in Jerusalem. Then Manasseh knew that the LORD is indeed God.

[14]Afterward he built an outer wall for the City of David to the west of Gihon in the valley, extending to the Fish Gate and encircling Ophel; he built it very high. He stationed army officers in all the fortified cities of Judah. [15]He removed the foreign gods and the idol from the LORD's house and all the altars he had built on the mount of the LORD's house and in Jerusalem, and cast them outside the city. [16]He restored the altar of the LORD, and sacrificed on it communion offerings and thank offerings, and commanded Judah to serve the LORD, the God of Israel. [17]Though the people continued to sacrifice on the high places, they now did so to the LORD, their God.

[18]The rest of the acts of Manasseh, his prayer to his God, and the words of the seers who spoke to him in the name of the LORD, the God of Israel, are written in the chronicles of the kings of Israel. [19]His prayer and how his supplication was heard, all his sins and his treachery, the sites where he built high places and set up asherahs and carved images before he humbled himself, all this is recorded in the chronicles of his seers. [20]Manasseh rested with his ancestors and was buried in his own palace. His son Amon succeeded him as king.

Reign of Amon. [21]Amon was twenty-two years old when he became king, and he reigned two years in Jerusalem.
[22]He did what was evil in the LORD's sight, as his father Manasseh had done. Amon offered sacrifice to all the idols his father Manasseh had made, and served them. [23]Moreover, he did not humble himself before the LORD as his father Manasseh had humbled himself; on the contrary, Amon only increased his guilt. [24]His officials plotted against him and put him to death in his palace, [25]but the people of the land then slew all who had plotted against King Amon, and the people of the land made his son Josiah king in his stead.

Josiah's Reforms. 34:1 Josiah was eight years old when he became king, and he reigned thirty-one years in Jerusalem. [2]He did what was right in the LORD's sight, walking in the way of David his father, not turning right or left. [3]In the eighth year of his reign, while he was still a youth, he began to seek after the God of David his father. Then in his twelfth year he began to purify Judah and Jerusalem of the high places, the asherahs, and the carved and molten images.
[4]In his presence, the altars of the Baals were torn down; the incense stands erected above them he broke down; the asherahs and the carved and molten images he smashed and beat into dust, which he scattered over the tombs of those who had sacrificed to them; [5]and the bones of the priests he burned upon their altars. Thus he purified Judah and Jerusalem. [6]He did likewise in the cities of Manasseh, Ephraim, Simeon, and in the ruined villages of the surrounding country as far as Naphtali; [7]he tore down the altars and asherahs, and the carved images he beat into dust, and broke down the incense stands throughout the land of Israel. Then he returned to Jerusalem.

The Temple Restored. [8]In the eighteenth year of his reign, in order to purify the land and the temple, he sent Shaphan, son of Azaliah, Maaseiah, the ruler of the city, and Joah, son of Joahaz, the chancellor, to restore the house of the LORD, his God. [9]They came to Hilkiah the high priest and turned over the money brought to the house of God which the Levites, the guardians of the threshold, had collected from Manasseh, Ephraim, and all the remnant of Israel, as well as from all of Judah, Benjamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [10]They turned it over to the master workers in the house of the LORD, and these in turn used it to pay the workers in the LORD's house who were restoring and repairing it.
[11]They also gave it to the carpenters and the masons to buy hewn stone and timber for the tie beams and rafters of the buildings which the kings of Judah had allowed to fall into ruin. [12]The men worked faithfully at their task; their overseers were Jahath and Obadiah, Levites of the line of Merari, and Zechariah and Meshullam, of the Kohathites, who directed them. All those Levites who were skillful with musical instruments [13]were in charge of the men who carried the burdens, and they directed all the workers in every kind of labor. Some of the other Levites were scribes, officials, and gatekeepers.

The Finding of the Law. [14]When they brought out the money that had been deposited in the house of the LORD, Hilkiah the priest found the book of the law of the LORD given through Moses. [15]He reported this to Shaphan the scribe, saying, "I have found the book of the law in the house of the LORD." Hilkiah gave the book to Shaphan, [16]who brought it to the king at the same time that he made his report to him. He said, "Your servants are doing everything that has been entrusted to them; [17]they have smelted down the silver deposited in the LORD's house and have turned it over to the overseers and the workers." [18]Then Shaphan the scribe also informed the king, "Hilkiah the priest has given me a book," and then Shaphan read it in the presence of the king.

[19]When the king heard the words of the law, he tore his garments. [20]The king then issued this command to Hilkiah, to Ahikam, son of Shaphan, to Abdon, son of Michah, to Shaphan the scribe, and to Asaiah, the king's servant: [21]"Go, consult the LORD for me and for those who are left in Israel and Judah, about the words of the book that has been found, for the anger of the LORD burns furiously against us, because our ancestors did not keep the word of the LORD and have not done all that is written in this book." [22]Then Hilkiah and others from the king went to Huldah the prophet, wife of Shallum, son of Tokhath, son of Hasrah, keeper of the wardrobe; she lived in Jerusalem, in the Second Quarter. They spoke to her as they had been instructed, [23]and she said to them: "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Say to the man who sent you to me, [24]Thus says the LORD: I am about to bring evil upon this place and upon its inhabitants, all the curses written in the book that was read before the king of Judah. [25]Because they have abandoned me and have burned incense to other gods, provoking me by all the works of their hands, my anger burns against this place and it cannot be extinguished.

[26]"But to the king of Judah who sent you to consult the LORD, give this response: Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: As for the words you have heard, [27]because you were heartsick and have humbled yourself before God when you heard his words concerning this place and its inhabitants; because you humbled yourself before me, tore your garments, and wept before me, I in turn have heard—oracle of the LORD. [28]I will gather you to your ancestors and you shall go to your grave in peace, and your eyes shall not see all the evil I am about to bring upon this place and upon its inhabitants."

Covenant Renewal. [29]The king then had all the elders of Judah and of Jerusalem summoned before him. [30]The king went up to the house of the LORD with all the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: priests, Levites, and all the people, great and small. He read aloud to them all the words of the book of the covenant that had been found in the house of the LORD. [31]The king stood by the column and made a covenant in the presence of the LORD to follow the LORD and to observe his commandments, statutes, and decrees with his whole heart and soul, carrying out the words of the covenant written in this book. [32]He thereby committed all who were in Jerusalem and Benjamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem acted according to the covenant of God, the God of their ancestors. [33]Josiah removed every abomination from all the territories belonging to the Israelites, and he obliged all who were in Israel to serve the LORD, their God. During his lifetime they did not turn away from following the LORD, the God of their ancestors.

The Passover. 35:1 Josiah celebrated in Jerusalem a Passover to honor the LORD; the Passover sacrifice was slaughtered on the fourteenth day of the first month. [2]He reappointed the priests to their duties and confirmed them in the service of the LORD's house. [3]He said to the Levites who were to instruct all Israel, and who were consecrated to the LORD: "Put the holy ark in the house built by Solomon, son of David, king of Israel. It shall no longer be a burden on your shoulders. Serve now the LORD, your God, and his people Israel. [4]Prepare yourselves by your ancestral houses and your divisions according to the prescriptions of David, king of Israel, and the prescriptions of his son Solomon. [5]Stand in the sanctuary according to the branches of the ancestral houses of your kin, the common people, so that the distribution of the Levites and the families may be the same. [6]Slaughter the Passover sacrifice, sanctify yourselves, and be at the disposition of your kin, that all may be done according to the word of the LORD given through Moses."

[7]Josiah contributed to the common people a flock of lambs and young goats, thirty thousand in number, each to serve as a Passover victim for all who were present, and also three thousand oxen; these were from the king's property. [8]His princes also gave a voluntary offering to the people, the priests, and the Levites. Hilkiah, Zechariah, and Jehiel, prefects of the house of God, gave to the priests two thousand six hundred Passover victims along with three hundred oxen. [9]Conaniah and his brothers Shemaiah, Nethanel, Hashabiah, Jehiel, and Jozabad, the rulers of the Levites, contributed to the Levites five thousand Passover victims, together with five hundred oxen.

[10]When the service had been arranged, the priests took their places, as did the Levites in their divisions according to the king's command. [11]The Passover sacrifice was slaughtered, whereupon the priests splashed some of the blood and the Levites proceeded with the skinning. [12]They separated out what was destined for the burnt offering and gave it to various groups of the ancestral houses of the common people to offer to the LORD, as is written in the book of Moses. They did the same with the oxen. [13]They cooked the Passover on the fire as prescribed, and also cooked the sacred portions in pots, caldrons, and pans, then brought them quickly to all the common people. [14]Afterward they prepared the Passover for themselves and for the priests. Indeed the priests, the sons of Aaron, were busy sacrificing burnt offerings and the fatty portions until night; therefore the Levites prepared for themselves and for the priests, the sons of Aaron. [15]The singers, the sons of Asaph, were at their posts as commanded by David and by Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun, the king's seer. The gatekeepers were at every gate; there was no need for them to leave their stations, for their fellow Levites prepared for them. [16]Thus the entire service of the LORD was arranged that day so that the Passover could be celebrated and the burnt offerings sacrificed on the altar of the LORD, as King Josiah had commanded. [17]The Israelites who were present on that occasion kept the Passover and the feast of the Unleavened Bread for seven days. [18]No such Passover had been observed in Israel since the time of Samuel the prophet; no king of Israel had observed a Passover like that celebrated by Josiah, the priests, and Levites, all of Judah and Israel that were present, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [19]It was in the eighteenth year of Josiah's reign that this Passover was observed.

Josiah's End. [20]After Josiah had done all this to restore the temple, Neco, king of Egypt, came up to fight at Carchemish on the Euphrates, and Josiah went out to meet him. [21]Neco sent messengers to him, saying: "What quarrel is between us, king of Judah? I have not come against you this day, for my war is with another kingdom, and God has told me to hasten. Do not interfere with God who is with me; let him not destroy you." [22]But Josiah would not withdraw from him, for he was seeking a pretext to fight with him. Therefore he would not listen to the words of Neco that came from the mouth of God, but went out to fight in the plain of Megiddo. [23]Then the archers shot King Josiah, who said to his servants, "Take me away, I am seriously wounded." [24]His servants took him from his own chariot, placed him in the one he had in reserve, and brought him to Jerusalem, where he died. He was buried in the tombs of his ancestors, and all Judah and Jerusalem mourned him. [25]Jeremiah also composed a lamentation for Josiah, which is recited to this day by all the male and female singers in their lamentations for Josiah. These have been made an ordinance for Israel, and can be found written in the Lamentations.

Jehoahaz. 36:1 The people of the land took Jehoahaz, son of Josiah, and made him king in Jerusalem to succeed his father. [2]Jehoahaz was twenty-three years old when he became king, and he reigned three months in Jerusalem. [3]The king of Egypt deposed him in Jerusalem and fined the land one hundred talents of silver and a talent of gold. [4]Then the king of Egypt made Eliakim, the brother of Jehoahaz, king over Judah and Jerusalem, changing his name to Jehoiakim. Neco took Jehoahaz his brother away and brought him to Egypt.

Jehoiakim. [5]Jehoiakim was twenty-five years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, his God. [6]Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, attacked and bound him in chains to take him to Babylon. [7]Nebuchadnezzar also carried away to Babylon some of the vessels of the house of the LORD and put them in his palace in Babylon. [8]The rest of the acts of Jehoiakim, the abominable things that he did, and what therefore happened to him, are recorded in the book of the kings of Israel and Judah. His son Jehoiachin succeeded him as king.

Jehoiachin. [9]Jehoiachin was eighteen years old when he became king, and he reigned three months and ten days in Jerusalem. He did what was evil in the LORD's sight. [10]At the turn of the year, King Nebuchadnezzar sent for him and had him brought to Babylon, along with precious vessels from the house of the LORD. He made his brother Zedekiah king over Judah and Jerusalem.

Zedekiah. [11]Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king, and he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. [12]He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, his God, and he did not humble himself before Jeremiah the prophet, who spoke for the LORD. [13]He also rebelled against King Nebuchadnezzar, who had made him swear by God. He became stiff-necked and hardened his heart rather than return to the LORD, the God of Israel. [14]Likewise all the princes of Judah, the priests, and the people added treachery to treachery, practicing all the abominations of the nations and defiling the LORD's house which he had consecrated in Jerusalem.

The Fall of Judah. [15]Early and often the LORD, the God of their ancestors, sent his messengers to them, for he had compassion on his people and his dwelling place. [16]But they mocked God's messengers, despised his words, and scoffed at his prophets, until the LORD's anger against his people blazed up beyond remedy. [17]Then he brought up against them the king of the Chaldeans, who killed their young men with the sword in their own sanctuary, with compassion for neither young men nor young women, neither the old nor the infirm; all of them he delivered into his power. [18]All the utensils of the house of God, large and small, the treasures of the LORD's house, and the treasures of the king and his princes, all these he brought to Babylon. [19]They burnt the house of God, tore down the walls of Jerusalem, burnt down all its palaces, and destroyed all its precious objects. [20]Those who escaped the sword he carried captive to Babylon, where they became servants to him and his sons until the Persian kingdom came to power. [21]All this was to fulfill the word of the LORD spoken by Jeremiah: Until the land has retrieved its lost sabbaths, during all the time it lies waste it shall have rest while seventy years are fulfilled.

Decree of Cyrus. [22]In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, in order to realize the word of the LORD spoken by Jeremiah, the LORD roused the spirit of Cyrus, King of Persia, to spread this proclamation throughout his kingdom, both by word of mouth and in writing: [23]"Thus says Cyrus, king of Persia: The LORD, the God of heaven, has given to me all the kingdoms of the earth. He has also charged me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. All among you, therefore, who belong to his people, may their God be with them; let them go up."

Peter's Confession about Jesus. 16:13 When Jesus went into the region of Caesarea Philippi he asked his disciples, "Who do people say that the Son of Man is?" [14]They replied, "Some say John the Baptist, others Elijah, still others Jeremiah or one of the prophets." [15]He said to them, "But who do you say that I am?" [16]Simon Peter said in reply, "You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God." [17]Jesus said to him in reply, "Blessed are you, Simon son of Jonah. For flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my heavenly Father. [18]And so I say to you, you are Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of the netherworld shall not prevail against it. [19]I will give you the keys to the kingdom of heaven. Whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." [20]Then he strictly ordered his disciples to tell no one that he was the Messiah.

☐ EZRA 1-3

The Decree of Cyrus. 1:1 In the first year of Cyrus, king of Persia, in order to fulfill the word of the LORD spoken by Jeremiah, the LORD stirred up the spirit of Cyrus king of Persia to issue a proclamation throughout his entire kingdom, both by word of mouth and in writing: [2]"Thus says Cyrus, king of Persia: 'All the kingdoms of the earth the LORD, the God of heaven, has given to me, and he has charged me to build him a house in Jerusalem, which is in Judah. [3]Those among you who belong to any part of his people, may their God be with them! Let them go up to Jerusalem in Judah to build the house of the LORD the God of Israel, that is, the God who is in Jerusalem. [4]Let all those who have survived, in whatever place they may have lived, be assisted by the people of that place with silver, gold, goods, and livestock, together with voluntary offerings for the house of God in Jerusalem.' "

[5]Then the heads of ancestral houses of Judah and Benjamin and the priests and Levites—everyone, that is, whose spirit had been stirred up by God—prepared to go up to build the house of the LORD in Jerusalem. [6]All their neighbors gave them help in every way, with silver, gold, goods, livestock, and many precious gifts, besides all their voluntary offerings. [7]King Cyrus, too, had the vessels of the house of the LORD brought forth that Nebuchadnezzar had taken from Jerusalem and placed in the house of his god. [8]Cyrus, king of Persia, had them brought forth by the treasurer Mithredath, who counted them out to Sheshbazzar, prince of Judah. [9]This was the inventory: baskets of goldware, thirty; baskets of silverware, one thousand and twenty-nine; [10]golden bowls, thirty; silver bowls, four hundred and ten; other vessels, one thousand. [11]Total of the gold and silver vessels: five thousand four hundred. All these Sheshbazzar took with him when the exiles were brought up from Babylon to Jerusalem.

A Census of the Returned Exiles. 2:1 These are the inhabitants of the province who returned from the captivity of the exiles, whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had carried away to Babylon, and who came back to Jerusalem and Judah, to their various cities [2](those who returned with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Seraiah, Reelaiah, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispar, Bigvai, Rehum, and Baanah):

The census of the people of Israel: [3]descendants of Parosh, two thousand one hundred and seventy-two;
[4]descendants of Shephatiah, three hundred and seventy-two; [5]descendants of Arah, seven hundred and seventy-five;
[6]descendants of Pahath-moab, who were descendants of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred and twelve;
[7]descendants of Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [8]descendants of Zattu, nine hundred and forty-five;
[9]descendants of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; [10]descendants of Bani, six hundred and forty-two; [11]descendants of Bebai, six hundred and twenty-three; [12]descendants of Azgad, one thousand two hundred and twenty-two;
[13]descendants of Adonikam, six hundred and sixty-six; [14]descendants of Bigvai, two thousand and fifty-six;
[15]descendants of Adin, four hundred and fifty-four; [16]descendants of Ater, who were descendants of Hezekiah, ninety-eight; [17]descendants of Bezai, three hundred and twenty-three; [18]descendants of Jorah, one hundred and twelve; [19]descendants of Hashum, two hundred and twenty-three; [20]descendants of Gibeon, ninety-five; [21]descendants of Bethlehem, one hundred and twenty-three; [22]people of Netophah, fifty-six; [23]people of Anathoth, one hundred and twenty-eight; [24]people of Beth-azmaveth, forty-two; [25]people of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, seven hundred and forty-three; [26]people of Ramah and Geba, six hundred and twenty-one; [27]people of Michmas, one hundred and twenty-two; [28]people of Bethel and Ai, two hundred and twenty-three; [29]descendants of Nebo, fifty-two; [30]descendants of Magbish, one hundred and fifty-six; [31]descendants of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [32]descendants of Harim, three hundred and twenty; [33]descendants of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred and twenty-five; [34]descendants of Jericho, three hundred and forty-five; [35]descendants of Senaah, three thousand six hundred and thirty.

[36]The priests: descendants of Jedaiah, of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred and seventy-three; [37]descendants of Immer, one thousand and fifty-two; [38]descendants of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred and forty-seven;
[39]descendants of Harim, one thousand and seventeen.

[40]The Levites: descendants of Jeshua and Kadmiel, of the descendants of Hodaviah, seventy-four.

[41]The singers: descendants of Asaph, one hundred and twenty-eight.

[42]The gatekeepers: descendants of Shallum, descendants of Ater, descendants of Talmon, descendants of Akkub, descendants of Hatita, descendants of Shobai, one hundred and thirty-nine in all.

[43]The temple servants: descendants of Ziha, descendants of Hasupha, descendants of Tabbaoth, [44]descendants of Keros, descendants of Siaha, descendants of Padon, [45]descendants of Lebanah, descendants of Hagabah, descendants of Akkub, [46]descendants of Hagab, descendants of Shamlai, descendants of Hanan, [47]descendants of Giddel, descendants of Gahar, descendants of Reaiah, [48]descendants of Rezin, descendants of Nekoda, descendants of Gazzam, [49]descendants of Uzza, descendants of Paseah, descendants of Besai, [50]descendants of Asnah, descendants of the Meunites, descendants of the Nephusites, [51]descendants of Bakbuk, descendants of Hakupha, descendants of Harhur, [52]descendants of Bazluth, descendants of Mehida, descendants of Harsha, [53]descendants of Barkos, descendants of Sisera, descendants of Temah, [54]descendants of Neziah, descendants of Hatipha.

[55]Descendants of Solomon's servants: descendants of Sotai, descendants of Hassophereth, descendants of Peruda, [56]descendants of Jaalah, descendants of Darkon, descendants of Giddel, [57]descendants of Shephatiah, descendants of Hattil, descendants of Pochereth-hazzebaim, descendants of Ami. [58]The total of the temple servants together with the descendants of Solomon's servants was three hundred and ninety-two.

[59]The following who returned from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addan, and Immer were unable to prove that their ancestral houses and their descent were Israelite: [60]descendants of Delaiah, descendants of Tobiah, descendants of Nekoda, six hundred and fifty-two. [61]Also, of the priests: descendants of Habaiah, descendants of Hakkoz, descendants of Barzillai (he had married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and was named after him).
[62]These searched their family records, but their names could not be found there, and they were excluded from the priesthood. [63]The governor ordered them not to partake of the most holy foods until there should be a priest to consult the Urim and Thummim.

[64]The entire assembly taken together came to forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, [65]not counting their male and female servants, who numbered seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven. They also had two hundred male and female singers. [66]Their horses numbered seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules two hundred and forty-five, [67]their camels four hundred and thirty-five, their donkeys six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

[68]When they arrived at the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, some of the heads of ancestral houses made voluntary offerings for the house of God, to rebuild it in its place. [69]According to their means they contributed to the treasury for the temple service: sixty-one thousand drachmas of gold, five thousand minas of silver, and one hundred priestly robes. [70]The priests, the Levites, and some of the people took up residence in Jerusalem; the singers, the gatekeepers, and the temple servants settled in their cities. Thus all the Israelites settled in their cities.

Restoration of Worship. 3:1 Now when the seventh month came, after the Israelites had settled in their cities, the people gathered as one in Jerusalem. [2]Then Jeshua, son of Jozadak, together with his kinsmen the priests, and Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, together with his kinsmen, began building the altar of the God of Israel in order to offer on it the burnt offerings prescribed in the law of Moses, the man of God. [3]They set the altar on its foundations, for they lived in fear of the peoples of the lands, and offered burnt offerings to the LORD on it, both morning and evening. [4]They also kept the feast of Booths in the manner prescribed, and they offered the daily burnt offerings in the proper number required for each day. [5]Thereafter they offered regular burnt offerings, the sacrifices prescribed for the new moons and all the festivals sacred to the LORD, and those which anyone might bring as a voluntary offering to the LORD.

Laying the Foundations of the Temple. [6]From the first day of the seventh month they reinstituted the burnt offering to the LORD, though the foundation of the LORD's temple had not yet been laid. [7]Then they hired stonecutters and carpenters, and sent food and drink and oil to the Sidonians and Tyrians that they might ship cedar trees from the Lebanon to the port of Joppa, as Cyrus, king of Persia, had authorized. [8]In the year after their coming to the house of God in Jerusalem, in the second month, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua, son of Jozadak, together with the rest of their kinsmen, the priests and Levites and all who had come from the captivity to Jerusalem, began by appointing the Levites twenty years of age and over to supervise the work on the house of the LORD. [9]Jeshua and his sons and kinsmen, with Kadmiel and Binnui, son of Hodaviah, and their sons and their kindred, the Levites, together undertook to supervise those who were engaged in the work on the house of God. [10]While the builders were laying the foundation of the LORD's temple, the priests in their vestments were stationed with trumpets and the Levites, sons of Asaph, with cymbals to praise the LORD in the manner laid down by David, king of Israel. [11]They alternated in songs of praise and thanksgiving to the LORD, "for he is good, for his love for Israel endures forever"; and all the people raised a great shout of joy, praising the LORD because the foundation of the LORD's house had been laid. [12]Many of the priests, Levites, and heads of ancestral houses, who were old enough to have seen the former house, cried out in sorrow as they watched the foundation of the present house being laid. Many others, however, lifted up their voices in shouts of joy. [13]No one could distinguish the sound of the joyful shouting from the sound of those who were weeping; for the people raised a mighty clamor which was heard far away.

The First Prediction of the Passion. 16:21 From that time on, Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer greatly from the elders, the chief priests, and the scribes, and be killed and on the third day be raised. [22]Then Peter took him aside and began to rebuke him, "God forbid, Lord! No such thing shall ever happen to you." [23]He turned and said to Peter, "Get behind me, Satan! You are an obstacle to me. You are thinking not as God does, but as human beings do."

The Conditions of Discipleship. [24]Then Jesus said to his disciples, "Whoever wishes to come after me must deny himself, take up his cross, and follow me. [25]For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will find it. [26]What profit would there be for one to gain the whole world and forfeit his life? Or what can one give in exchange for his life? [27]For the Son of Man will come with his angels in his Father's glory, and then he will repay everyone according to his conduct. [28]Amen, I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom."

☐ EZRA 4-6

Outside Interference. 4:1 When the enemies of Judah and Benjamin heard that the exiles were building a temple for the LORD, the God of Israel, 2they approached Zerubbabel and the heads of ancestral houses and said to them, "Let us build with you, for we seek your God just as you do, and we have sacrificed to him since the days of Esarhaddon, king of Assyria, who brought us here." 3But Zerubbabel, Jeshua, and the rest of the heads of ancestral houses of Israel answered them, "It is not your responsibility to build with us a house for our God, but we alone must build it for the LORD, the God of Israel, as Cyrus king of Persia has commanded us." 4Thereupon the local inhabitants discouraged the people of Judah and frightened them off from building. 5They also bribed counselors to work against them and to frustrate their plans during all the years of Cyrus, king of Persia, and even into the reign of Darius, king of Persia.

Later Hostility. 6In the reign of Ahasuerus, at the beginning of his reign, they prepared a written accusation against the inhabitants of Judah and Jerusalem.

7Again, in the time of Artaxerxes, Tabeel and the rest of his fellow officials, in concert with Mithredath, wrote to Artaxerxes, king of Persia. The document was written in Aramaic and was accompanied by a translation.

8Then Rehum, the governor, and Shimshai, the scribe, wrote the following letter against Jerusalem to King Artaxerxes: 9"Rehum, the governor, Shimshai, the scribe, and their fellow officials, judges, legates, and agents from among the Persians, Urukians, Babylonians, Susians (that is, Elamites), 10and the other peoples whom the great and illustrious Osnappar transported and settled in the city of Samaria and elsewhere in the province West-of-Euphrates, as follows…." 11This is a copy of the letter that they sent to him:

"To King Artaxerxes, your servants, the men of West-of-Euphrates, as follows: 12Let it be known to the king that the Jews who came up from you to us have arrived at Jerusalem and are now rebuilding this rebellious and evil city.
They are completing its walls, and the foundations have already been laid. 13Now let it be known to the king that if this city is rebuilt and its walls completed, they will no longer pay taxes, tributes, or tolls; eventually the throne will be harmed. 14Now, since we eat the salt of the palace and it is not fitting for us to look on while the king is being dishonored, we have sent this message to inform the king, 15so that inquiry may be made in the historical records of your fathers. In the historical records you will discover and verify that this is a rebellious city, harmful to kings and provinces; its people have been acting seditiously there since ancient times. That is why this city was destroyed. 16We therefore inform the king, that if this city is rebuilt and its walls completed again, you will thereupon not have a portion in the province West-of-Euphrates."

17The king sent this answer: "To Rehum, the governor, Shimshai, the scribe, and their fellow officials living in Samaria and elsewhere in the province West-of-Euphrates, greetings: 18The communication which you sent us has been read in translation in my presence. 19When at my command inquiry was made, it was verified that from ancient times this city has risen up against kings and that rebellion and sedition have been fostered there. 20Powerful kings once ruled in Jerusalem who controlled all West-of-Euphrates, and taxes, tributes, and tolls were paid to them. 21Give orders, therefore, to stop these men. This city may not be rebuilt until a further decree has been issued by me. 22Take care that you do not neglect this matter. Why should evil increase to harm the throne?"

23As soon as a copy of King Artaxerxes' letter had been read before Rehum, the governor, Shimshai, the scribe, and their fellow officials, they immediately went to the Jews in Jerusalem and stopped their work by force of arms. 24As a result, work on the house of God in Jerusalem ceased. This interruption lasted until the second year of the reign of Darius, king of Persia.

The Work Resumed Under Darius; Further Problems. 5:1 Then the prophets Haggai and Zechariah, son of Iddo, began to prophesy to the Jews in Judah and Jerusalem in the name of the God of Israel. 2Thereupon Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua, son of Jozadak, began again to build the house of God in Jerusalem, with the prophets of God giving them support. 3At that time Tattenai, governor of West-of-Euphrates, came to them, along with Shethar-bozenai, and their fellow officials, and asked of them: "Who issued the decree for you to build this house and complete this edifice? [4]What are the names of the men who are building this structure?" [5]But the eye of their God was upon the elders of the Jews, and they were not delayed during the time a report went to Darius and a written order came back concerning this matter.

[6]A copy of the letter which Tattenai, governor of West-of-Euphrates, along with Shethar-bozenai and their fellow officials from West-of-Euphrates, sent to King Darius; [7]they sent him a report in which was written the following:

"To King Darius, all good wishes! [8]Let it be known to the king that we have visited the province of Judah and the house of the great God: it is being rebuilt of cut stone and the walls are being reinforced with timber; the work is being carried out diligently, prospering under their hands. [9]We then questioned the elders, addressing to them the following words: 'Who issued the decree for you to build this house and complete this edifice?' [10]We also asked them their names, in order to give you a list of the men who are their leaders. [11]This was their answer to us: 'We are the servants of the God of heaven and earth, and we are rebuilding the house built here many years ago, which a great king of Israel built and completed. [12]But because our ancestors provoked the wrath of the God of heaven, he delivered them into the power of the Chaldean, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, who destroyed this house and exiled the people to Babylon. [13]However, in the first year of Cyrus, king of Babylon, King Cyrus issued a decree for the rebuilding of this house of God. [14]Moreover, the gold and silver vessels of the house of God, which Nebuchadnezzar had taken from the temple in Jerusalem and carried off to the temple in Babylon, King Cyrus ordered to be removed from the temple in Babylon, and they were given to a certain Sheshbazzar, whom he named governor. [15]He commanded him: Take these vessels and deposit them in the temple of Jerusalem, and let the house of God be rebuilt on its former site. [16]Then this same Sheshbazzar came and laid the foundations of the house of God in Jerusalem. Since that time to the present the building has been going on, and is not yet completed.' [17]Now, if it please the king, let a search be made in the royal archives of Babylon to discover whether a decree really was issued by King Cyrus for the rebuilding of this house of God in Jerusalem. And may the king's decision in this matter be communicated to us."

The Decree of Darius. 6:1 Thereupon King Darius issued an order to search the archives in which the treasures were stored in Babylon. [2]However, a scroll was found in Ecbatana, the stronghold in the province of Media, containing the following text: "Memorandum. [3]In the first year of his reign, King Cyrus issued a decree: With regard to the house of God in Jerusalem: the house is to be rebuilt as a place for offering sacrifices and bringing burnt offerings. Its height is to be sixty cubits and its width sixty cubits. [4]It shall have three courses of cut stone for each one of timber. The costs are to be borne by the royal house. [5]Also, let the gold and silver vessels of the house of God which Nebuchadnezzar took from the temple of Jerusalem and brought to Babylon be sent back; let them be returned to their place in the temple of Jerusalem and deposited in the house of God."

[6]"Now, therefore, Tattenai, governor of West-of-Euphrates, and Shethar-bozenai, and you, their fellow officials in West-of-Euphrates, stay away from there. [7]Let the governor and the elders of the Jews continue the work on that house of God; they are to rebuild it on its former site. [8]I also issue this decree concerning your dealing with these elders of the Jews in the rebuilding of that house of God: Let these men be repaid for their expenses, in full and without delay from the royal revenue, deriving from the taxes of West-of-Euphrates, so that the work not be interrupted. [9]Whatever else is required—young bulls, rams, and lambs for burnt offerings to the God of heaven, wheat, salt, wine, and oil, according to the requirements of the priests who are in Jerusalem—let that be delivered to them day by day without fail, [10]that they may continue to offer sacrifices of pleasing odor to the God of heaven and pray for the life of the king and his sons. [11]I also issue this decree: if any man alters this edict, a beam is to be taken from his house, and he is to be lifted up and impaled on it; and his house is to be reduced to rubble for this offense. [12]And may the God who causes his name to dwell there overthrow every king or people who may undertake to alter this decree or to destroy this house of God in Jerusalem. I, Darius, have issued this decree; let it be diligently executed."

The Task Finally Completed. [13]Then Tattenai, the governor of West-of-Euphrates, and Shethar-bozenai, and their fellow officials carried out with all diligence the instructions King Darius had sent them. [14]The elders of the Jews continued to make progress in the building, supported by the message of the prophets, Haggai and Zechariah, son of Iddo. They finished the building according to the command of the God of Israel and the decrees of Cyrus and Darius, and of Artaxerxes, king of Persia. [15]They completed this house on the third day of the month Adar, in the sixth year of the reign of King Darius. [16]The Israelites—priests, Levites, and the other returned exiles—celebrated the dedication of this house of God with joy. [17]For the dedication of this house of God, they offered one hundred bulls, two hundred rams, and four hundred lambs, together with twelve he-goats as a sin offering for all Israel, in keeping with the number of the tribes of Israel. [18]Finally, they set up the priests in their classes and the Levites in their divisions for the service of God in Jerusalem, as is prescribed in the book of Moses.

The Passover. [19]The returned exiles kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month. [20]The Levites, every one of whom had purified himself for the occasion, sacrificed the Passover for all the exiles, for their colleagues the priests, and for themselves. [21]The Israelites who had returned from the exile and all those who had separated themselves from the uncleanness of the Gentiles in the land shared in it, seeking the LORD, the God of Israel. [22]They joyfully kept the feast of Unleavened Bread for seven days, for the LORD had filled them with joy by making the king of Assyria favorable to them, so that he gave them help in their work on the house of God, the God of Israel.

The Transfiguration of Jesus. 17:1 After six days Jesus took Peter, James, and John his brother, and led them up a high mountain by themselves. [2]And he was transfigured before them; his face shone like the sun and his clothes became white as light. [3]And behold, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, conversing with him. [4]Then Peter said to Jesus in reply, "Lord, it is good that we are here. If you wish, I will make three tents here, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah." [5]While he was still speaking, behold, a bright cloud cast a shadow over them, then from the cloud came a voice that said, "This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased; listen to him." [6]When the disciples heard this, they fell prostrate and were very much afraid. [7]But Jesus came and touched them, saying, "Rise, and do not be afraid." [8]And when the disciples raised their eyes, they saw no one else but Jesus alone.

The Coming of Elijah. [9]As they were coming down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, "Do not tell the vision to anyone until the Son of Man has been raised from the dead." [10]Then the disciples asked him, "Why do the scribes say that Elijah must come first?" [11]He said in reply, "Elijah will indeed come and restore all things; [12]but I tell you that Elijah has already come, and they did not recognize him but did to him whatever they pleased. So also will the Son of Man suffer at their hands." [13]Then the disciples understood that he was speaking to them of John the Baptist.

Ezra, Priest and Scribe. 7:1 After these events, during the reign of Artaxerxes, king of Persia, Ezra, son of Seraiah, son of Azariah, son of Hilkiah, [2]son of Shallum, son of Zadok, son of Ahitub, [3]son of Amariah, son of Azariah, son of Meraioth, [4]son of Zerahiah, son of Uzzi, son of Bukki, [5]son of Abishua, son of Phinehas, son of Eleazar, son of Aaron, the high priest— [6]this Ezra came up from Babylon. He was a scribe, well-versed in the law of Moses given by the LORD, the God of Israel. The king granted him all that he requested, because the hand of the LORD, his God, was over him.

[7]Some of the Israelites and some priests, Levites, singers, gatekeepers, and temple servants also came up to Jerusalem in the seventh year of King Artaxerxes. [8]Ezra came to Jerusalem in the fifth month of that seventh year of the king. [9]On the first day of the first month he began the journey up from Babylon, and on the first day of the fifth month he arrived at Jerusalem, for the favoring hand of his God was over him. [10]Ezra had set his heart on the study and practice of the law of the LORD and on teaching statutes and ordinances in Israel.

The Decree of Artaxerxes. [11]This is a copy of the rescript which King Artaxerxes gave to Ezra the priest-scribe, the scribe versed in matters concerning the LORD's commandments and statutes for Israel:

[12]"Artaxerxes, king of kings, to Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of heaven, greetings! And now, [13]I have issued this decree, that anyone in my kingdom belonging to the people of Israel, its priests or Levites, who is willing to go up to Jerusalem with you, may go, [14]for you are the one sent by the king and his seven counselors to supervise Judah and Jerusalem with regard to the law of your God which is in your possession, [15]and to bring the silver and gold which the king and his counselors have freely contributed to the God of Israel, whose dwelling is in Jerusalem, [16]as well as all the silver and gold which you may receive throughout the province of Babylon, together with the voluntary offerings the people and priests freely contribute for the house of their God in Jerusalem. [17]Therefore, you must use this money with all diligence to buy bulls, rams, lambs, and the grain offerings and libations proper to these, and offer them on the altar of the house of your God in Jerusalem. [18]You and your kinsmen may do whatever seems best to you with the remainder of the silver and gold, as your God wills. [19]The vessels given to you for the service of the house of your God you are to deposit before the God of Jerusalem. [20]Whatever else you may be required to supply for the needs of the house of your God, you may draw from the royal treasury. [21]I, Artaxerxes the king, issue this decree to all the treasurers of West-of-Euphrates: Whatever Ezra the priest, scribe of the law of the God of heaven, requests of you, let it be done with all diligence, [22]within these limits: silver, one hundred talents; wheat, one hundred kors; wine, one hundred baths; oil, one hundred baths; salt, without limit. [23]Let everything that is decreed by the God of heaven be carried out exactly for the house of the God of heaven, that wrath may not come upon the realm of the king and his sons. [24]We also inform you that it is not permitted to impose taxes, tributes, or tolls on any priest, Levite, singer, gatekeeper, temple servant, or any other servant of that house of God.

[25]"As for you, Ezra, in accordance with the wisdom of your God which is in your possession, appoint magistrates and judges to administer justice to all the people in West-of-Euphrates, to all, that is, who know the laws of your God. Instruct those who do not know these laws. [26]All who will not obey the law of your God and the law of the king, let judgment be executed upon them with all diligence, whether death, or corporal punishment, or confiscation of goods, or imprisonment."

Ezra Prepares for the Journey. [27]Blessed be the LORD, the God of our ancestors, who put it into the heart of the king thus to glorify the house of the LORD in Jerusalem, [28]and who let me find favor with the king, with his counselors, and with all the most influential royal officials. I therefore took courage and, with the hand of the LORD, my God, over me, I gathered together Israelite leaders to make the return journey with me.

Ezra's Caravan. 8:1 These are the heads of the ancestral houses and the genealogies of those who returned with me from Babylon during the reign of King Artaxerxes:

[2]Of the descendants of Phinehas, Gershon; of the descendants of Ithamar, Daniel; of the descendants of David, Hattush, [3]son of Shecaniah; of the descendants of Parosh, Zechariah, and with him one hundred and fifty males were enrolled; [4]of the descendants of Pahath-moab, Eliehoenai, son of Zerahiah, and with him two hundred males; [5]of the descendants of Zattu, Shecaniah, son of Jahaziel, and with him three hundred males; [6]of the descendants of Adin, Ebed, son of Jonathan, and with him fifty males; [7]of the descendants of Elam, Jeshaiah, son of Athaliah, and with him seventy males; [8]of the descendants of Shephatiah, Zebadiah, son of Michael, and with him eighty males; [9]of the descendants of Joab, Obadiah, son of Jehiel, and with him two hundred and eighteen males; [10]of the descendants of Bani, Shelomoth, son of Josiphiah, and with him one hundred and sixty males; [11]of the descendants of Bebai, Zechariah, son of Bebai, and with him twenty-eight males; [12]of the descendants of Azgad, Johanan, son of Hakkatan, and with him one hundred and ten males; [13]of the descendants of Adonikam, younger sons, whose names were Eliphelet, Jeiel, and Shemaiah, and with them sixty males; [14]of the descendants of Bigvai, Uthai, son of Zakkur, and with him seventy males.

Final Preparations for the Journey. [15]I assembled them by the river that flows toward Ahava, where we camped for three days. There I perceived that both laymen and priests were present, but I could not discover a single Levite. [16]So I sent for discerning leaders, Eliezer, Ariel, Shemaiah, Jarib, Elnathan, Nathan, Zechariah, and Meshullam, [17]with a command for Iddo, the leader in the place Casiphia, instructing them what to say to Iddo and his kinsmen, and to the temple servants in Casiphia, in order to procure for us ministers for the house of our God. [18]Since the favoring hand of our God was over us, they sent to us a well-instructed man, one of the descendants of Mahli, son of Levi, son of Israel, namely Sherebiah, with his sons and kinsmen, eighteen men. [19]They also sent us Hashabiah, and with him Jeshaiah, descendants of Merari, and their kinsmen and their sons, twenty men. [20]Of the temple servants, those whom David and the princes appointed to serve the Levites, there were two hundred and twenty. All these were enrolled by name.

[21]Then I proclaimed a fast, there by the river of Ahava, that we might humble ourselves before our God to seek from him a safe journey for ourselves, our children, and all our possessions. [22]For I was ashamed to ask the king for troops and horsemen to protect us against enemies along the way, since we had said to the king, "The favoring hand of our God is over all who seek him, but his fierce anger is against all who forsake him." [23]So we fasted, seeking this from our God, and it was granted. [24]Next I selected twelve of the priestly leaders along with Sherebiah, Hashabiah, and ten of their kinsmen, [25]and I weighed out before them the silver and the gold and the vessels offered for the house of our God by the king, his counselors, his officials, and all the Israelites of that region. [26]I weighed out into their hands these amounts: silver, six hundred and fifty talents; silver vessels, one hundred; gold, one hundred talents; [27]twenty golden bowls valued at a thousand darics; two vases of excellent polished bronze, as precious as gold. [28]I addressed them in these words: "You are consecrated to the LORD, and the vessels are also consecrated; the silver and the gold are a voluntary offering to the LORD, the God of your ancestors. [29]Watch over them carefully until you weigh them out in Jerusalem in the presence of the chief priests and Levites and the leaders of ancestral houses of Israel, in the chambers of the house of the LORD." [30]The priests and the Levites then took over the silver, the gold, and the vessels that had been weighed out, to bring them to Jerusalem, to the house of our God.

Arrival in Jerusalem. [31]We set out from the river of Ahava on the twelfth day of the first month to go to Jerusalem.
The hand of our God remained over us, and he protected us from enemies and robbers along the way. [32]We arrived in Jerusalem, where we rested for three days. [33]On the fourth day, the silver, the gold, and the vessels were weighed out in the house of our God and given to the priest Meremoth, son of Uriah, with whom was Eleazar, son of Phinehas; they were assisted by the Levites Jozabad, son of Jeshua, and Noadiah, son of Binnui. [34]Everything was in order as to number and weight, and the total weight was registered. At that same time, [35]those who had returned from the captivity, the exiles, offered as burnt offerings to the God of Israel twelve bulls for all Israel, ninety-six rams, seventy-seven lambs, and twelve goats as sin offerings: all these as a burnt offering to the LORD. [36]Finally, the orders of the king were presented to the king's satraps and to the governors in West-of-Euphrates, who gave their support to the people and to the house of God.

The Crisis of Mixed Marriages. 9:1 When these matters had been concluded, the leaders approached me with this report: "Neither the Israelite laymen nor the priests nor the Levites have kept themselves separate from the peoples of the lands and their abominations—Canaanites, Hittites, Perizzites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites— [2]for they have taken some of their daughters as wives for themselves and their sons, thus intermingling the holy seed with the peoples of the lands. Furthermore, the leaders and rulers have taken a prominent part in this apostasy!"

Ezra's Reaction. [3]When I had heard this, I tore my cloak and my mantle, plucked hair from my head and beard, and sat there devastated. [4]Around me gathered all who were in dread of the sentence of the God of Israel on the apostasy of the exiles, while I remained devastated until the evening sacrifice. [5]Then, at the time of the evening sacrifice,
I rose in my wretchedness, and with cloak and mantle torn I fell on my knees, stretching out my hands to the LORD, my God.

A Penitential Prayer. [6]I said: "My God, I am too ashamed and humiliated to raise my face to you, my God, for our wicked deeds are heaped up above our heads and our guilt reaches up to heaven. [7]From the time of our ancestors even to this day our guilt has been great, and for our wicked deeds we have been delivered, we and our kings and our priests, into the hands of the kings of foreign lands, to the sword, to captivity, to pillage, and to disgrace, as is the case today.

[8]"And now, only a short time ago, mercy came to us from the LORD, our God, who left us a remnant and gave us a stake in his holy place; thus our God has brightened our eyes and given us relief in our slavery. [9]For slaves we are, but in our slavery our God has not abandoned us; rather, he has turned the good will of the kings of Persia toward us. Thus he has given us new life to raise again the house of our God and restore its ruins, and has granted us a protective wall in Judah and Jerusalem. [10]But now, our God, what can we say after all this? For we have abandoned your commandments, [11]which you gave through your servants the prophets: The land which you are entering to take as your possession is a land unclean with the filth of the peoples of the lands, with the abominations with which they have filled it from one end to the other by their uncleanness. 12Do not, then, give your daughters to their sons in marriage, and do not take their daughters for your sons. Never promote their welfare and prosperity; thus you will grow strong, enjoy the produce of the land, and leave it as an inheritance to your children forever.

13"After all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and our great guilt—though you, our God, have made less of our sinfulness than it deserved and have allowed us to survive as we do— 14shall we again violate your commandments by intermarrying with these abominable peoples? Would you not become so angered with us as to destroy us without remnant or survivor? 15LORD, God of Israel, you are just; yet we have been spared, the remnant we are today. Here we are before you in our sins. Because of all this, we can no longer stand in your presence."

Response to the Crisis. 10:1 While Ezra prayed and acknowledged their guilt, weeping and prostrate before the house of God, a very large assembly of Israelites gathered about him, men, women, and children; and the people wept profusely. 2Then Shecaniah, the son of Jehiel, one of the descendants of Elam, made this appeal to Ezra: "We have indeed betrayed our God by taking as wives foreign women of the peoples of the land. Yet in spite of this there still remains a hope for Israel. 3Let us therefore enter into a covenant before our God to dismiss all our foreign wives and the children born of them, in keeping with what you, my lord, advise, and those who are in dread of the commandments of our God. Let it be done according to the law! 4Rise, then, for this is your duty! We are with you, so have courage and act!"

5Ezra stood and demanded an oath from the leaders of the priests, from the Levites and from all Israel that they would do as had been proposed; and they swore it. 6Then Ezra left his place before the house of God and entered the chamber of Johanan, son of Eliashib, where he spent the night neither eating food nor drinking water, for he was in mourning over the apostasy of the exiles. 7A proclamation was made throughout Judah and Jerusalem that all the exiles should gather together in Jerusalem, 8and that whoever failed to appear within three days would, according to the judgment of the leaders and elders, suffer the confiscation of all his possessions, and would be excluded from the assembly of the exiles.

9All the men of Judah and Benjamin gathered together in Jerusalem within the three-day period: it was in the ninth month, on the twentieth day of the month. All the people, sitting in the open place before the house of God, were trembling both over the matter at hand and because it was raining. 10Then Ezra, the priest, stood up and said to them: "Your apostasy in taking foreign women as wives has added to Israel's guilt. 11But now, give praise to the LORD, the God of your ancestors, and do his will: separate yourselves from the peoples of the land and from the foreign women." 12In answer, the whole assembly cried out with a loud voice: "Yes, it is our duty to do as you say! 13But the people are numerous and it is the rainy season, so that we cannot remain outside; besides, this is not a task that can be performed in a single day or even two, for those of us who have sinned in this regard are many. 14Let our leaders represent the whole assembly; then let all those in our cities who have taken foreign women for wives appear at appointed times, accompanied by the elders and magistrates of each city in question, till we have turned away from us our God's burning anger over this affair." 15Only Jonathan, son of Asahel, and Jahzeiah, son of Tikvah, were against this proposal, with Meshullam and Shabbethai the Levite supporting them.

The List of Transgressors. 18Among the priests, the following were found to have taken foreign women for wives: Of the descendants of Jeshua, son of Jozadak, and his kinsmen: Maaseiah, Eliezer, Jarib, and Gedaliah. 19They pledged themselves to dismiss their wives, and as a guilt offering for their guilt they gave a ram from the flock. 20Of the descendants of Immer: Hanani and Zebadiah; 21of the descendants of Harim: Maaseiah, Elijah, Shemaiah, Jehiel, and Uzziah; 22of the descendants of Pashhur: Elioenai, Maaseiah, Ishmael, Nethanel, Jozabad, and Elasah.

23Of the Levites: Jozabad, Shimei, Kelaiah (also called Kelita), Pethahiah, Judah, and Eliezer.

24Of the singers: Eliashib; of the gatekeepers: Shallum, Telem, and Uri.

[25]Of the people of Israel: Of the descendants of Parosh: Ramiah, Izziah, Malchijah, Mijamin, Eleazar, Malchijah, and Benaiah; [26]of the descendants of Elam: Mattaniah, Zechariah, Jehiel, Abdi, Jeremoth, and Elijah; [27]of the descendants of Zattu: Elioenai, Eliashib, Mattaniah, Jeremoth, Zabad, and Aziza; [28]of the descendants of Bebai: Jehohanan, Hananiah, Zabbai, and Athlai; [29]of the descendants of Bani: Meshullam, Malluch, Adaiah, Jashub, Sheal, and Jeremoth; [30]of the descendants of Pahath-moab: Adna, Chelal, Benaiah, Maaseiah, Mattaniah, Bezalel, Binnui, and Manasseh; [31]of the descendants of Harim: Eliezer, Isshijah, Malchijah, Shemaiah, Shimeon, [32]Benjamin, Malluch, Shemariah; [33]of the descendants of Hashum: Mattenai, Mattattah, Zabad, Eliphelet, Jeremai, Manasseh, Shimei; [34]of the descendants of Begui: Maadai, Amram, Uel, [35]Benaiah, Bedeiah, Cheluhi, [36]Vaniah, Meremoth, Eliashib, [37]Mattaniah, Mattenai, and Jaasu; [38]of the descendants of Binnui: Shimei, [39]Shelemiah, Nathan, and Adaiah; [40]of the descendants of Zachai: Shashai, Sharai, [41]Azarel, Shelemiah, Shemariah, [42]Shallum, Amariah, Joseph; [43]of the descendants of Nebo: Jeiel, Mattithiah, Zabad, Zebina, Jaddai, Joel, Benaiah.

The Healing of a Boy with a Demon. 17:14 When they came to the crowd a man approached, knelt down before him, [15]and said, "Lord, have pity on my son, for he is a lunatic and suffers severely; often he falls into fire, and often into water. [16]I brought him to your disciples, but they could not cure him." [17]Jesus said in reply, "O faithless and perverse generation, how long will I be with you? How long will I endure you? Bring him here to me." [18]Jesus rebuked him and the demon came out of him, and from that hour the boy was cured. [19]Then the disciples approached Jesus in private and said, "Why could we not drive it out?" [20]He said to them, "Because of your little faith. Amen, I say to you, if you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you will say to this mountain, 'Move from here to there,' and it will move. Nothing will be impossible for you." [21]

☐ NEHEMIAH 1-3

Nehemiah Hears Bad News. 1:1 The words of Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah.

In the month Kislev of the twentieth year, I was in the citadel of Susa [2]when Hanani, one of my brothers, came with other men from Judah. I asked them about the Jews, the remnant preserved after the captivity, and about Jerusalem. [3]They answered me: "The survivors of the captivity there in the province are in great distress and under reproach. The wall of Jerusalem has been breached, its gates gutted by fire." [4]When I heard this report, I began to weep and continued mourning for several days, fasting and praying before the God of heaven.

[5]I prayed: "LORD, God of heaven, great and awesome God, you preserve your covenant of mercy with those who love you and keep your commandments. [6]May your ears be attentive, and your eyes open, to hear the prayer that I, your servant, now offer in your presence day and night for your servants the Israelites, confessing the sins we have committed against you, I and my ancestral house included. [7]We have greatly offended you, not keeping the commandments, the statutes, and the ordinances you entrusted to your servant Moses. [8]But remember the admonition which you addressed to Moses, your servant, when you said: If you prove faithless, I will scatter you among the peoples; [9]but if you return to me and carefully keep my commandments, even though your outcasts have been driven to the farthest corner of the world, I will gather them from there, and bring them back to the place I have chosen as the dwelling place for my name. [10]They are your servants, your people, whom you freed by your great might and strong hand. [11]LORD, may your ears be attentive to the prayer of your servant and that of all your servants who willingly revere your name. Grant success to your servant this day, and let him find favor with this man"—for I was cupbearer to the king.

Appointment by the King. 2:1 In the month Nisan of the twentieth year of King Artaxerxes, when the wine was in my charge, I took some and offered it to the king. Because I had never before been sad in his presence, [2]the king asked me, "Why do you look sad? If you are not sick, you must be sad at heart." Though I was seized with great fear, [3]I answered the king: "May the king live forever! How could I not look sad when the city where my ancestors are buried lies in ruins, and its gates consumed by fire?" [4]The king asked me, "What is it, then, that you wish?" I prayed to the God of heaven [5]and then answered the king: "If it please the king, and if your servant is deserving of your favor, send me to Judah, to the city where my ancestors are buried, that I may rebuild it." [6]Then the king, with the queen seated beside him, asked me, "How long will your journey take and when will you return?" My answer was acceptable to the king and he agreed to let me go; I set a date for my return.

[7]I asked the king further: "If it please the king, let letters be given to me for the governors of West-of-Euphrates, that they may give me safe-conduct till I arrive in Judah; [8]also a letter for Asaph, the keeper of the royal woods, that he may give me timber to make beams for the gates of the temple citadel, for the city wall and the house that I will occupy." Since I enjoyed the good favor of my God, the king granted my requests. [9]Thus I proceeded to the governors of West-of-Euphrates and presented the king's letters to them. The king also sent with me army officers and cavalry.

[10]When Sanballat the Horonite and Tobiah the Ammonite official had heard of this, they were very much displeased that someone had come to improve the lot of the Israelites.

Circuit of the City. [11]When I arrived in Jerusalem, and had been there three days, [12]I set out by night with only a few other men and with no other animals but my own mount (for I had not told anyone what my God had inspired me to do for Jerusalem). [13]I rode out at night by the Valley Gate, passed by the Dragon Spring, and came to the Dung Gate, observing how the walls of Jerusalem were breached and its gates consumed by fire. [14]Then I passed over to the Fountain Gate and to the King's Pool. Since there was no room here for my mount to pass with me astride, [15]I continued on foot up the wadi by night, inspecting the wall all the while, until I once more reached the Valley Gate, by which I went back in. [16]The magistrates knew nothing of where I had gone or what I was doing, for as yet I had disclosed nothing to the Jews, neither to the priests, nor to the nobles, nor to the magistrates, nor to the others who were to do the work.

Decision to Rebuild the City Wall. [17]Afterward I said to them: "You see the trouble we are in: how Jerusalem lies in ruins and its gates have been gutted by fire. Come, let us rebuild the wall of Jerusalem, so that we may no longer be a reproach!" [18]Then I explained to them how God had shown his gracious favor to me, and what the king had said to me. They replied, "Let us begin building!" And they undertook the work with vigor.

[19]When they heard about this, Sanballat the Horonite, Tobiah the Ammonite official, and Geshem the Arab mocked and ridiculed us. "What are you doing?" they asked. "Are you rebelling against the king?" [20]My answer to them was this: "It is the God of heaven who will grant us success. We, his servants, shall set about the rebuilding; but you have neither share nor claim nor memorial in Jerusalem."

List of Workers. 3:1 Eliashib the high priest and his priestly kinsmen took up the task of rebuilding the Sheep Gate. They consecrated it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars, then continued the rebuilding to the Tower of the Hundred, the Tower of Hananel. [2]At their side the men of Jericho were rebuilding, and next to them was Zaccur, son of Imri. [3]The Fish Gate was rebuilt by the people of Hassenaah; they timbered it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. [4]At their side Meremoth, son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, carried out the work of repair; next to him was Meshullam, son of Berechiah, son of Meshezabel; and next to him was Zadok, son of Baana. [5]Next to him the Tekoites carried out the work of repair; however, some of their most powerful men would not submit to the labor asked by their masters. [6]The Mishneh Gate was repaired by Joiada, son of Paseah; and Meshullam, son of Besodeiah; they timbered it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. [7]At their side Melatiah the Gibeonite did the repairing, together with Jadon the Meronothite, and the men of Gibeon and of Mizpah, who were under the jurisdiction of the governor of West-of-Euphrates. [8]Next to them the work of repair was carried out by Uzziel, son of Harhaiah, a member of the goldsmiths' guild, and at his side was Hananiah, one of the perfumers' guild. They restored Jerusalem as far as the Broad Wall.

[9]Next to them the work of repair was carried out by Rephaiah, son of Hur, administrator of half the district of Jerusalem, [10]and at his side was Jedaiah, son of Harumaph, who repaired opposite his own house. Next to him Hattush, son of Hashabneiah, carried out the work of repair. [11]The adjoining sector, as far as the Oven Tower, was repaired by Malchijah, son of Harim, and Hasshub, son of Pahath-moab. [12]At their side the work of repair was carried out by Shallum, son of Hallohesh, administrator of half the district of Jerusalem, together with his daughters. [13]The Valley Gate was repaired by Hanun and the inhabitants of Zanoah; they rebuilt it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. They also repaired a thousand cubits of the wall up to the Dung Gate. [14]The Dung Gate was repaired by Malchijah, son of Rechab, administrator of the district of Beth-haccherem; he rebuilt it and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. [15]The Fountain Gate was repaired by Shallum, son of Colhozeh, administrator of the district of Mizpah; he rebuilt it, roofed it, and set up its doors, its bolts, and its bars. He also repaired the wall of the Aqueduct Pool near the King's Garden as far as the steps that lead down from the City of David. [16]After him, the work of repair was carried out by Nehemiah, son of Azbuk, administrator of half the district of Beth-zur, to a place opposite the tombs of David, as far as the Artificial Pool and the barracks.

[17]After him, these Levites carried out the work of repair: Rehum, son of Bani, and next to him, for his own district, was Hashabiah, administrator of half the district of Keilah. [18]After him, their kinsmen carried out the work of repair: Binnui, son of Henadad, administrator of half the district of Keilah; [19]next to him Ezer, son of Jeshua, administrator of Mizpah, who repaired the adjoining sector, the Corner, opposite the ascent to the arsenal. [20]After him, Baruch, son of Zabbai, repaired the adjoining sector from the Corner to the entrance of the house of Eliashib, the high priest. [21]After him, Meremoth, son of Uriah, son of Hakkoz, repaired the adjoining sector from the entrance of Eliashib's house to its end.

[22]After him, the work of repair was carried out by the priests, men of the surrounding country. [23]After them, Benjamin and Hasshub carried out the repair in front of their houses; after them, Azariah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ananiah, made the repairs alongside his house. [24]After him, Binnui, son of Henadad, repaired the adjoining sector from the house of Azariah to the Corner (that is, to the Angle). [25]After him, Palal, son of Uzai, carried out the work of repair opposite the Corner and the tower projecting from the Upper Palace at the quarters of the guard. After him, Pedaiah, son of Parosh, carried out the work of repair [26]to a point opposite the Water Gate on the east, and the projecting tower. [27]After him, the Tekoites repaired the adjoining sector opposite the great projecting tower, to the wall of Ophel.

[28]Above the Horse Gate the priests carried out the work of repair, each opposite his own house. [29]After them Zadok, son of Immer, carried out the repair opposite his house, and after him the repair was carried out by Shemaiah, son of Shecaniah, keeper of the East Gate. [30]After him, Hananiah, son of Shelemiah, and Hanun, the sixth son of Zalaph, repaired the adjoining sector; after them, Meshullam, son of Berechiah, repaired the place opposite his own lodging. [31]After him, Malchijah, a member of the goldsmiths' guild, carried out the work of repair as far as the quarters of the temple servants and the merchants, in front of the Gate of Inspection and as far as the upper chamber of the Angle. [32]Between the upper chamber of the Angle and the Sheep Gate, the goldsmiths and the merchants carried out the work of repair.

Opposition from Judah's Enemies. [33]When Sanballat heard that we were rebuilding the wall, he became angry and very much incensed. He ridiculed the Jews, [34]saying in the presence of his associates and the troops of Samaria: "What are these miserable Jews trying to do? Will they complete their restoration in a single day? Will they recover these stones, burnt as they are, from the heaps of dust?" [35]Tobiah the Ammonite was beside him, and he said: "Whatever they are building—if a fox attacks it, it will breach their wall of stones!" [36]Hear, our God, how we were mocked! Turn back their reproach upon their own heads and deliver them up as plunder in a land of captivity! [37]Do not hide their crime and do not let their sin be blotted out in your sight, for they insulted the builders to their faces! [38]We, however, continued to build the wall, and soon it was completed up to half its height. The people worked enthusiastically.

The Second Prediction of the Passion. 17:22 As they were gathering in Galilee, Jesus said to them, "The Son of Man is to be handed over to men, [23]and they will kill him, and he will be raised on the third day." And they were overwhelmed with grief.

Payment of the Temple Tax. [24]When they came to Capernaum, the collectors of the temple tax approached Peter and said, "Doesn't your teacher pay the temple tax?" [25]"Yes," he said. When he came into the house, before he had time to speak, Jesus asked him, "What is your opinion, Simon? From whom do the kings of the earth take tolls or census tax? From their subjects or from foreigners?" [26]When he said, "From foreigners," Jesus said to him, "Then the subjects are exempt. [27]But that we may not offend them, go to the sea, drop in a hook, and take the first fish that comes up. Open its mouth and you will find a coin worth twice the temple tax. Give that to them for me and for you."

What is impossible to God? Not what is difficult to His power, but whatever is contrary to His nature.

4:1 When Sanballat, Tobiah, the Arabs, the Ammonites, and the Ashdodites heard that the restoration of the walls of Jerusalem was progressing—for the gaps were beginning to be closed up—they became extremely angry. [2]They all plotted together to come and fight against Jerusalem and to throw us into confusion. [3]We prayed to our God and posted a watch against them day and night for fear of what they might do. [4]Meanwhile the Judahites were saying:

"Slackened is the bearers' strength,
there is no end to the rubbish;
Never will we be able to rebuild the wall."

[5]Our enemies thought, "Before they are aware of it or see us, we will come into their midst, kill them, and put an end to the work."

[6]When the Jews who lived near them had come to us from one place after another, and had told us ten times over that they were about to attack us, [7]I stationed guards down below, behind the wall, near the exposed points, assigning them by family groups with their swords, spears, and bows. [8]I made an inspection, then addressed these words to the nobles, the magistrates, and the rest of the people: "Do not fear them! Keep in mind the LORD, who is great and to be feared, and fight for your kindred, your sons and daughters, your wives and your homes." [9]When our enemies realized that we had been warned and that God had upset their plan, we all went back, each to our own task at the wall.

[10]From that time on, however, only half my work force took a hand in the work, while the other half, armed with spears, bucklers, bows, and breastplates, stood guard behind the whole house of Judah [11]as they rebuilt the wall. The load carriers, too, were armed; each worked with one hand and held a weapon with the other. [12]Every builder, while working, had a sword tied at his side. A trumpeter stood beside me, [13]for I had said to the nobles, the magistrates, and the rest of the people: "Our work is scattered and extensive, and we are widely separated from one another along the wall; [14]wherever you hear the trumpet sound, join us there; our God will fight with us." [15]Thus we went on with the work, half with spears in hand, from daybreak till the stars came out.

[16]At the same time I told the people to spend the nights inside Jerusalem, each with an attendant, so that they might serve as a guard by night and a working force by day. [17]Neither I, nor my kindred, nor any of my attendants, nor any of the bodyguard that accompanied me took off our clothes; everyone kept a weapon at hand.

Social and Economic Problems. 5:1 Then there rose a great outcry of the people and their wives against certain of their Jewish kindred. [2]Some said: "We are forced to pawn our sons and daughters in order to get grain to eat that we may live." [3]Others said: "We are forced to pawn our fields, our vineyards, and our houses, that we may have grain during the famine." [4]Still others said: "To pay the king's tax we have borrowed money on our fields and vineyards. [5]And though these are our own kindred, and our children are as good as theirs, we have had to reduce our sons and daughters to slavery, and violence has been done to some of our daughters! Yet we can do nothing about it, for our fields and vineyards belong to others."

6I was extremely angry when I heard the reasons for their complaint. 7After some deliberation, I called the nobles and magistrates to account, saying to them, "You are exacting interest from your own kindred!" I then rebuked them severely, 8saying to them: "As far as we were able, we bought back our Jewish kindred who had been sold to Gentiles; you, however, are selling your own kindred, to have them bought back by us." They remained silent, for they could find no answer. 9I continued: "What you are doing is not good. Should you not conduct yourselves out of fear of our God rather than fear of the reproach of our Gentile enemies? 10I myself, my kindred, and my attendants have lent the people money and grain without charge. Let us put an end to this usury! 11Return to them this very day their fields, vineyards, olive groves, and houses, together with the interest on the money, the grain, the wine, and the oil that you have lent them." 12They answered: "We will return everything and exact nothing further from them. We will do just what you ask." Then I called for the priests to administer an oath to them that they would do as they had promised. 13I shook out the folds of my garment, saying, "Thus may God shake from home and fortune every man who fails to keep this promise, and may he thus be shaken out and emptied!" And the whole assembly answered, "Amen," and praised the LORD. Then the people did as they had promised.

Nehemiah's Record. 14Moreover, from the time that King Artaxerxes appointed me governor in the land of Judah, from his twentieth to his thirty-second year—during these twelve years neither I nor my kindred lived off the governor's food allowance. 15The earlier governors, my predecessors, had laid a heavy burden on the people, taking from them each day forty silver shekels for their food; then, too, their attendants oppressed the people. But I, because I feared God, did not do this. 16In addition, though I had acquired no land of my own, I did my part in this work on the wall, and all my attendants were gathered there for the work. 17Though I set my table for a hundred and fifty persons, Jews and magistrates, as well as the neighboring Gentiles who came to us, 18and though the daily preparations were made at my expense—one ox, six choice sheep, poultry—besides all kinds of wine in abundance every ten days, despite this I did not claim the governor's allowance, for the labor lay heavy upon this people. 19Keep in mind, my God, to my credit all that I did for this people.

Plots Against Nehemiah. 6:1 When it had been reported to Sanballat, Tobiah, Geshem the Arab, and our other enemies that I had rebuilt the wall and that there was no breach left in it (though up to that time I had not yet set up the doors in the gates), 2Sanballat and Geshem sent me this message: "Come, let us hold council together at Chephirim in the plain of Ono." They were planning to do me harm. 3I sent messengers to them with this reply: "I am engaged in a great enterprise and am unable to come down. Why should the work stop, while I leave it to come down to you?" 4Four times they sent me this same proposal, and each time I gave the same reply. 5Then, the fifth time, Sanballat sent me the same message by one of his servants, who bore an unsealed letter 6containing this text: "Among the nations it has been reported—Gashmu is witness to this—that you and the Jews are planning a rebellion; that for this reason you are rebuilding the wall; and that you are to be their king. 7Also, that you have set up prophets in Jerusalem to proclaim you king of Judah. Now, since matters like these will reach the ear of the king, come, let us hold council together." 8I sent him this answer: "Nothing of what you report is happening; rather, it is the invention of your own mind." 9They were all trying to intimidate us, thinking, "They will be discouraged from continuing with the work, and it will never be completed." But instead, I then redoubled my efforts.

10I went to the house of Shemaiah, son of Delaiah, son of Mehetabel, who was confined to his house, and he said: "Let us meet in the house of God, inside the temple building; let us lock the doors of the temple. For they are coming to kill you—by night they are coming to kill you." 11My answer was: "A man like me take flight? Should a man like me enter the temple to save his life? I will not go!" 12For on consideration, it was plain to me that God had not sent him; rather, because Tobiah and Sanballat had bribed him, he voiced this prophecy concerning me, 13that I might act on it out of fear and commit this sin. Then they would have had a shameful story with which to discredit me. 14Keep in mind Tobiah and Sanballat, my God, because of these things they did; keep in mind as well Noadiah the woman prophet and the other prophets who were trying to intimidate me.

Completion of the Work. [15]The wall was finished on the twenty-fifth day of Elul; the work had taken fifty-two days. [16]When all our enemies had heard of this, and all the neighboring Gentiles round about had taken note of it, they were very discouraged, for they knew that it was with our God's help that this work had been completed. [17]At that same time, however, many letters were going to Tobiah from the nobles of Judah, and Tobiah's letters were reaching them, [18]for many in Judah were in league with him, since he was the son-in-law of Shecaniah, son of Arah, and his son Jehohanan had married the daughter of Meshullam, son of Berechiah. [19]They would praise his good deeds in my presence and relate to him whatever I said; and Tobiah sent letters trying to intimidate me.

The Greatest in the Kingdom. 18:1 At that time the disciples approached Jesus and said, "Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?" [2]He called a child over, placed it in their midst, [3]and said, "Amen, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will not enter the kingdom of heaven. [4]Whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven. [5]And whoever receives one child such as this in my name receives me.

Temptations to Sin. [6]"Whoever causes one of these little ones who believe in me to sin, it would be better for him to have a great millstone hung around his neck and to be drowned in the depths of the sea. [7]Woe to the world because of things that cause sin! Such things must come, but woe to the one through whom they come! [8]If your hand or foot causes you to sin, cut it off and throw it away. It is better for you to enter into life maimed or crippled than with two hands or two feet to be thrown into eternal fire. [9]And if your eye causes you to sin, tear it out and throw it away. It is better for you to enter into life with one eye than with two eyes to be thrown into fiery Gehenna."

My Lord, if it is necessary to give the children a whipping or two to convert them, please do it, as long as their souls are saved in the end.

7:1 Now that the wall had been rebuilt, I had the doors set up, and the gatekeepers, the singers, and the Levites were put in charge of them. [2]Over Jerusalem I placed Hanani, my brother, and Hananiah, the commander of the citadel, who was more trustworthy and God-fearing than most. [3]I said to them: "The gates of Jerusalem are not to be opened until the sun is hot, and while the sun is still shining they shall shut and bar the doors. Appoint as sentinels the inhabitants of Jerusalem, some at their watch posts, and others in front of their own houses."

Census of the Province. [4]Now, the city was quite wide and spacious, but its population was small, and none of the houses had been rebuilt. [5]When my God had inspired me to gather together the nobles, the magistrates, and the people, and to examine their family records, I came upon the family list of those who had returned in the earliest period. There I found the following written:

[6]These are the inhabitants of the province who returned from the captivity of the exiles whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had carried away, and who came back to Jerusalem and Judah, to their own cities: [7]They returned with Zerubbabel, Jeshua, Nehemiah, Azariah, Raamiah, Nahamani, Mordecai, Bilshan, Mispereth, Bigvai, Nehum, and Baanah.

The census of the people of Israel: [8]descendants of Parosh, two thousand one hundred and seventy-two; [9]descendants of Shephatiah, three hundred and seventy-two; [10]descendants of Arah, six hundred and fifty-two; [11]descendants of Pahath-moab who were descendants of Jeshua and Joab, two thousand eight hundred and eighteen; [12]descendants of Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [13]descendants of Zattu, eight hundred and forty-five; [14]descendants of Zaccai, seven hundred and sixty; [15]descendants of Binnui, six hundred and forty-eight; [16]descendants of Bebai, six hundred and twenty-eight; [17]descendants of Azgad, two thousand three hundred and twenty-two;

[18]descendants of Adonikam, six hundred and sixty-seven; [19]descendants of Bigvai, two thousand and sixty-seven; [20]descendants of Adin, six hundred and fifty-five; [21]descendants of Ater who were descendants of Hezekiah, ninety-eight; [22]descendants of Hashum, three hundred and twenty-eight; [23]descendants of Bezai, three hundred and twenty-four; [24]descendants of Hariph, one hundred and twelve; [25]descendants of Gibeon, ninety-five; [26]people of Bethlehem and Netophah, one hundred and eighty-eight; [27]people of Anathoth, one hundred and twenty-eight; [28]people of Beth-azmaveth, forty-two; [29]people of Kiriath-jearim, Chephirah, and Beeroth, seven hundred and forty-three; [30]people of Ramah and Geba, six hundred and twenty-one; [31]people of Michmas, one hundred and twenty-two; [32]people of Bethel and Ai, one hundred and twenty-three; [33]people of Nebo, fifty-two; [34]descendants of the other Elam, one thousand two hundred and fifty-four; [35]descendants of Harim, three hundred and twenty; [36]descendants of Jericho, three hundred and forty-five; [37]descendants of Lod, Hadid, and Ono, seven hundred and twenty-one; [38]descendants of Senaah, three thousand nine hundred and thirty.

[39]The priests: descendants of Jedaiah of the house of Jeshua, nine hundred and seventy-three; [40]descendants of Immer, one thousand and fifty-two; [41]descendants of Pashhur, one thousand two hundred and forty-seven; [42]descendants of Harim, one thousand and seventeen.

[61]The following who returned from Tel-melah, Tel-harsha, Cherub, Addon, and Immer were unable to prove that their ancestral houses and their descent were Israelite: [62]descendants of Delaiah, descendants of Tobiah, descendants of Nekoda, six hundred and forty-two. [63]Also, of the priests: descendants of Hobaiah, descendants of Hakkoz, descendants of Barzillai (he had married one of the daughters of Barzillai the Gileadite and was named after him). [64]These men searched their family records, but their names could not be found written there; hence they were disqualified from the priesthood, [65]and the governor ordered them not to partake of the most holy foods until there should be a priest to consult the Urim and Thummim.

[66]The entire assembly taken together came to forty-two thousand three hundred and sixty, [67]not counting their male and female servants, who were seven thousand three hundred and thirty-seven. They also had two hundred male and female singers. Their horses were seven hundred and thirty-six, their mules two hundred and forty-five, [68]their camels four hundred and thirty-five, their donkeys six thousand seven hundred and twenty.

[69]Certain of the heads of ancestral houses contributed to the temple service. The governor put into the treasury one thousand drachmas of gold, fifty basins, thirty vestments for priests, and five hundred minas of silver. [70]Some of the heads of ancestral houses contributed to the treasury for the temple service: twenty thousand drachmas of gold and two thousand two hundred minas of silver. [71]The contributions of the rest of the people amounted to twenty thousand drachmas of gold, two thousand minas of silver, and sixty-seven vestments for priests.

Ezra Reads the Law. 8:1 Now when the seventh month came, the whole people gathered as one in the square in front of the Water Gate, and they called upon Ezra the scribe to bring forth the book of the law of Moses which the LORD had commanded for Israel. 2On the first day of the seventh month, therefore, Ezra the priest brought the law before the assembly, which consisted of men, women, and those children old enough to understand. 3In the square in front of the Water Gate, Ezra read out of the book from daybreak till midday, in the presence of the men, the women, and those children old enough to understand; and all the people listened attentively to the book of the law. 4Ezra the scribe stood on a wooden platform that had been made for the occasion; at his right side stood Mattithiah, Shema, Anaiah, Uriah, Hilkiah, and Maaseiah, and on his left Pedaiah, Mishael, Malchijah, Hashum, Hashbaddanah, Zechariah, Meshullam. 5Ezra opened the scroll so that all the people might see it, for he was standing higher than any of the people. When he opened it, all the people stood. 6Ezra blessed the LORD, the great God, and all the people, their hands raised high, answered, "Amen, amen!" Then they knelt down and bowed before the LORD, their faces to the ground. 7The Levites Jeshua, Bani, Sherebiah, Jamin, Akkub, Shabbethai, Hodiah, Maaseiah, Kelita, Azariah, Jozabad, Hanan, and Pelaiah explained the law to the people, who remained in their places. 8Ezra read clearly from the book of the law of God, interpreting it so that all could understand what was read. 9Then Nehemiah, that is, the governor, and Ezra the priest-scribe, and the Levites who were instructing the people said to all the people: "Today is holy to the LORD your God. Do not lament, do not weep!"—for all the people were weeping as they heard the words of the law. 10He continued: "Go, eat rich foods and drink sweet drinks, and allot portions to those who had nothing prepared; for today is holy to our LORD. Do not be saddened this day, for rejoicing in the LORD is your strength!" 11And the Levites quieted all the people, saying, "Silence! Today is holy, do not be saddened." 12Then all the people began to eat and drink, to distribute portions, and to celebrate with great joy, for they understood the words that had been explained to them.

The Feast of Booths. 13On the second day, the heads of ancestral houses of the whole people, and also the priests and the Levites, gathered around Ezra the scribe to study the words of the law. 14They found it written in the law commanded by the LORD through Moses that the Israelites should dwell in booths during the feast of the seventh month; 15and that they should have this proclamation made throughout their cities and in Jerusalem: "Go out into the hill country and bring in branches of olive, oleaster, myrtle, palm, and other trees in leaf, to make booths, as it is written." 16The people went out and brought in branches with which they made booths for themselves, on the roof of their houses, in their courtyards, in the courts of the house of God, and in the squares of the Water Gate and the Gate of Ephraim. 17So the entire assembly of the returned exiles made booths and dwelt in them. Now the Israelites had done nothing of this sort from the days of Jeshua, son of Nun, until this occasion; therefore there was very great joy. 18Ezra read from the book of the law of God day after day, from the first day to the last. They kept the feast for seven days, and the solemn assembly on the eighth day, as was required.

Public Confession of Sin. 9:1 On the twenty-fourth day of this month, the Israelites gathered together while fasting and wearing sackcloth, their heads covered with dust. 2Those of Israelite descent separated themselves from all who were of foreign extraction, then stood forward and confessed their sins and the guilty deeds of their ancestors. 3When they had taken their places, they read from the book of the law of the LORD their God, for a fourth of the day, and during another fourth they made their confession and bowed down before the LORD their God. 4Standing on the platform of the Levites were Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Shebaniah, Bunni, Sherebiah, Bani, and Chenani, who cried out to the LORD their God, with a loud voice. 5The Levites Jeshua, Kadmiel, Bani, Hashabneiah, Sherebiah, Hodiah, Shebaniah, and Pethahiah said,

"Arise, bless the LORD, your God,
from eternity to eternity!"
"And may they bless your glorious name, which is exalted above all blessing and praise."
6"You are the LORD, you alone;
You made the heavens,
the highest heavens and all their host,
The earth and all that is upon it,
the seas and all that is in them.
To all of them you give life,

the heavenly hosts bow down before you.
[7]You are the LORD God
who chose Abram,
Who brought him from Ur of the Chaldees,
who named him Abraham.
[8]You found his heart faithful in your sight,
you made the covenant with him
To give the land of the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Perizzites, Jebusites, and Girgashites
to him and his descendants.
You fulfilled your promises,
for you are just.
[9]You saw the affliction of our ancestors in Egypt,
you heard their cry by the Red Sea;
[10]You worked signs and wonders against Pharaoh,
against all his servants and the people of his land,
Because you knew of their insolence toward them;
thus you made for yourself a name even to this day.
[11]The sea you divided before them,
on dry ground they passed through the midst of the sea;
Their pursuers you hurled into the depths,
like a stone into the mighty waters.
[12]With a column of cloud you led them by day,
and by night with a column of fire,
To light the way of their journey,
the way in which they must travel.
[13]On Mount Sinai you came down,
you spoke with them from heaven;
You gave them just ordinances, true laws,
good statutes and commandments;
[14]Your holy sabbath you made known to them,
commandments, statutes, and law you prescribed for them,
by the hand of Moses your servant.
[15]Food from heaven you gave them in their hunger,
water from a rock you sent them in their thirst.
You told them to enter and occupy the land
which you had sworn to give them.
[16]But they, our ancestors, proved to be insolent;
they were obdurate and did not obey your commandments.
[17]They refused to obey and no longer remembered
the wonders you had worked for them.
They were obdurate and appointed a leader
in order to return to their slavery in Egypt.
But you are a forgiving God, gracious and merciful,
slow to anger and rich in mercy;
you did not forsake them.
[18]Though they made for themselves a molten calf, and proclaimed, 'Here is your God who brought you up from Egypt,'
and were guilty of great insults,

[19]Yet in your great mercy
you did not forsake them in the desert.
By day the column of cloud did not cease to lead them on their journey, by night the column of fire did not cease to light the way they were to travel.
[20]Your good spirit you bestowed on them,
to give them understanding;
Your manna you did not withhold from their mouths,
and you gave them water in their thirst.
[21]Forty years in the desert you sustained them:
they did not want;
Their garments did not become worn,
and their feet did not swell.
[22]You gave them kingdoms and peoples,
which you divided among them as border lands.
They possessed the land of Sihon, king of Heshbon,
and the land of Og, king of Bashan.
[23]You made their children as numerous as the stars of the heavens,
and you brought them into the land
which you had commanded their ancestors to enter and possess.
[24]The children went in to possess the land;
you humbled before them the Canaanite inhabitants and gave them into their power,
Their kings and the peoples of the land,
to do with them as they wished.
[25]They captured fortified cities and fertile land;
they took possession of houses filled with all good things, Cisterns already dug, vineyards, olive groves,
and fruit trees in abundance.
They ate and had their fill,
fattened and feasted on your great goodness.
[26]But they were contemptuous and rebelled against you:
they cast your law behind their backs.
They murdered your prophets who bore witness against them to bring them back to you:
they were guilty of great insults.
[27]Therefore you gave them into the power of their enemies, who oppressed them.
But in the time of their oppression they would cry out to you,
and you would hear them from heaven,
And according to your great mercy give them saviors
to deliver them from the power of their enemies.
[28]As soon as they had relief,
they would go back to doing evil in your sight.
Again you abandoned them to the power of their enemies,
who crushed them.
Once again they cried out to you, and you heard them from heaven and delivered them according to your mercy, many times over.
[29]You bore witness against them,
to bring them back to your law.
But they were insolent

and would not obey your commandments;
They sinned against your ordinances,
which give life to those who keep them.
They turned stubborn backs, stiffened their necks,
and would not obey.
30 You were patient with them for many years, bearing witness against them through your spirit, by means of your prophets;
Still they would not listen.
Therefore you delivered them into the power of the peoples of the lands.
31 Yet in your great mercy you did not completely destroy them and did not forsake them, for you are a gracious and merciful God.
32 Now, our God, great, mighty, and awesome God,
who preserves the covenant of mercy,
do not discount all the hardship that has befallen us,
Our kings, our princes, our priests,
our prophets, our ancestors, and your entire people,
from the time of the kings of Assyria until this day!
33 In all that has come upon us you have been just,
for you kept faith while we have done evil.
34 Yes, our kings, our princes, our priests, and our ancestors have not kept your law;
They paid no attention to your commandments
and the warnings which you gave them.
35 While they were still in their kingdom, in the midst of the many good things that you had given them
And in the wide, fertile land
that you had spread out before them,
They did not serve you
nor turn away from their evil deeds.
36 Today we are slaves!
As for the land which you gave our ancestors
That they might eat its fruits and good things—
see, we have become slaves upon it!
37 Its rich produce goes to the kings
you set over us because of our sins,
Who rule over our bodies and our cattle as they please.
We are in great distress!"

The Parable of the Lost Sheep. 18:10 "See that you do not despise one of these little ones, for I say to you that their angels in heaven always look upon the face of my heavenly Father. 11, 12 What is your opinion? If a man has a hundred sheep and one of them goes astray, will he not leave the ninety-nine in the hills and go in search of the stray? 13 And if he finds it, amen, I say to you, he rejoices more over it than over the ninety-nine that did not stray. 14 In just the same way, it is not the will of your heavenly Father that one of these little ones be lost.

A Brother Who Sins. 15 "If your brother sins [against you], go and tell him his fault between you and him alone. If he listens to you, you have won over your brother. 16 If he does not listen, take one or two others along with you, so that 'every fact may be established on the testimony of two or three witnesses.' 17 If he refuses to listen to them, tell the church. If he refuses to listen even to the church, then treat him as you would a Gentile or a tax collector. 18 Amen, I say to you, whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven. [19]Again, [amen,] I say to you, if two of you agree on earth about anything for which they are to pray, it shall be granted to them by my heavenly Father. [20] For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them."

Signatories to the Pact. 10:1 In view of all this, we are entering into a firm pact, which we are putting into writing. On the sealed document appear the names of our princes, our Levites, and our priests.

[2]On the sealed document: the governor Nehemiah, son of Hacaliah, and Zedekiah.

[3]Seraiah, Azariah, Jeremiah, [4]Pashhur, Amariah, Malchijah, [5]Hattush, Shebaniah, Malluch, [6]Harim, Meremoth, Obadiah, [7]Daniel, Ginnethon, Baruch, [8]Meshullam, Abijah, Mijamin, [9]Maaziah, Bilgai, Shemaiah: these are the priests.

[10]The Levites: Jeshua, son of Azaniah; Binnui, of the descendants of Henadad; Kadmiel; [11]and their kinsmen Shebaniah, Hodiah, Kelita, Pelaiah, Hanan, [12]Mica, Rehob, Hashabiah, [13]Zaccur, Sherebiah, Shebaniah, [14]Hodiah, Bani, Beninu.

[15]The leaders of the people: Parosh, Pahath-moab, Elam, Zattu, Bani, [16]Bunni, Azgad, Bebai, [17]Adonijah, Bigvai, Adin, [18]Ater, Hezekiah, Azzur, [19]Hodiah, Hashum, Bezai, [20]Hariph, Anathoth, Nebai, [21]Magpiash, Meshullam, Hezir, [22]Meshezabel, Zadok, Jaddua, [23]Pelatiah, Hanan, Anaiah, [24]Hoshea, Hananiah, Hasshub, [25]Hallhohesh, Pilha, Shobek, [26]Rehum, Hashabnah, Maaseiah, [27]Ahiah, Hanan, Anan, [28]Malluch, Harim, Baanah.

Provisions of the Pact. [29]The rest of the people, priests, Levites, gatekeepers, singers, temple servants, and all others who have separated themselves from the local inhabitants in favor of the law of God, with their wives, their sons, their daughters, all who are of the age of discretion, [30]join their influential kindred, and with the sanction of a curse take this oath to follow the law of God given through Moses, the servant of God, and to observe carefully all the commandments of the LORD, our Lord, his ordinances and his statutes.

[31]We will not marry our daughters to the local inhabitants, and we will not accept their daughters for our sons.

[32]When the local inhabitants bring in merchandise or any kind of grain for sale on the sabbath day, we will not buy from them on the sabbath or on any other holy day. In the seventh year we will forgo the produce, and forgive every kind of debt.

[33]We impose these commandments on ourselves: to give a third of a shekel each year for the service of the house of our God, [34]for the showbread, the daily grain offering, the daily burnt offering, for the sabbaths, new moons, and festivals, for the holy offerings and sin offerings to make atonement for Israel, for every service of the house of our God. [35]We, priests, Levites, and people, have determined by lot concerning the procurement of wood: it is to be brought to the house of our God by each of our ancestral houses at stated times each year, to be burnt on the altar of the LORD, our God, as the law prescribes. [36]We have agreed to bring each year to the house of the LORD the first fruits of our fields and of our fruit trees, of every kind; [37]also, as is prescribed in the law, to bring to the house of our God, to the priests who serve in the house of our God, the firstborn of our children and our animals, including the firstborn of our flocks and herds. [38]The first batch of our dough, and our offerings of the fruit of every tree, of wine and oil, we will bring to the priests, to the chambers of the house of our God. The tithe of our fields we will bring to the Levites; they, the

Levites, shall take the tithe in all the cities of our service. [39]An Aaronite priest shall be with the Levites when they take the tithe, and the Levites shall bring the tithe of the tithes to the house of our God, to the chambers of the treasury. [40]For to these chambers the Israelites and Levites bring the offerings of grain, wine, and oil; there also are housed the vessels of the sanctuary, and the ministering priests, the gatekeepers, and the singers. We will not neglect the house of our God.

Resettlement of Jerusalem. 11:1 The administrators took up residence in Jerusalem, and the rest of the people cast lots to bring one man in ten to reside in Jerusalem, the holy city, while the other nine would remain in the other cities. [2]The people blessed all those who willingly agreed to take up residence in Jerusalem.

[3]These are the heads of the province who took up residence in Jerusalem. In the cities of Judah dwelt Israelites, priests, Levites, temple servants, and the descendants of Solomon's servants, each on the property they owned in their own cities.

[4]In Jerusalem dwelt both Judahites and Benjaminites. Of the Judahites: Athaiah, son of Uzziah, son of Zechariah, son of Amariah, son of Shephatiah, son of Mehallalel, of the sons of Perez; [5]Maaseiah, son of Baruch, son of Colhozeh, son of Hazaiah, son of Adaiah, son of Joiarib, son of Zechariah, a son of the Shelanites. [6]The total of the descendants of Perez who dwelt in Jerusalem was four hundred and sixty-eight people of substance.

[7]These were the Benjaminites: Sallu, son of Meshullam, son of Joed, son of Pedaiah, son of Kolaiah, son of Maaseiah, son of Ithiel, son of Jeshaiah, [8]and his kinsmen, warriors, nine hundred and twenty-eight in number. [9]Joel, son of Zichri, was their commander, and Judah, son of Hassenuah, was second in command of the city.

[10]Among the priests were: Jedaiah; Joiarib; Jachin; [11]Seraiah, son of Hilkiah, son of Meshullam, son of Zadok, son of Meraioth, son of Ahitub, the ruler of the house of God, [12]and their kinsmen who carried out the temple service, eight hundred and twenty-two; Adaiah, son of Jeroham, son of Pelaliah, son of Amzi, son of Zechariah, son of Pashhur, son of Malchijah, [13]and his kinsmen, heads of ancestral houses, two hundred and forty-two; and Amasai, son of Azarel, son of Ahzai, son of Meshillemoth, son of Immer, [14]and his kinsmen, warriors, one hundred and twenty-eight. Their commander was Zabdiel, son of Haggadol.

[15]Among the Levites were Shemaiah, son of Hasshub, son of Azrikam, son of Hashabiah, son of Bunni; [16]Shabbethai and Jozabad, levitical chiefs who were placed over the external affairs of the house of God; [17]Mattaniah, son of Micah, son of Zabdi, son of Asaph, director of the psalms, who led the thanksgiving at prayer; Bakbukiah, second in rank among his kinsmen; and Abda, son of Shammua, son of Galal, son of Jeduthun. [18]The total of the Levites in the holy city was two hundred and eighty-four.

[20]The rest of Israel, including priests and Levites, were in all the other cities of Judah in their own inheritances.

[21]The temple servants lived on Ophel. Ziha and Gishpa were in charge of the temple servants.

[22]The prefect of the Levites in Jerusalem was Uzzi, son of Bani, son of Hashabiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micah; he was one of the descendants of Asaph, the singers appointed to the service of the house of God— [23]for they had been appointed by royal decree, and there was a fixed schedule for the singers assigning them their daily duties.

Other Settlements. [25]As concerns their villages with their fields: Judahites lived in Kiriath-arba and its dependencies, in Dibon and its dependencies, in Jekabzeel and its villages, [26]in Jeshua, Moladah, Beth-pelet, [27]in Hazarshual, in Beer-sheba and its dependencies, [28]in Ziklag, in Meconah and its dependencies, [29]in En-rimmon, Zorah, Jarmuth, [30]Zanoah, Adullam, and their villages, Lachish and its fields, Azekah and its dependencies. They were settled from Beer-sheba to Ge-hinnom.

[31]Benjaminites were in Geba, Michmash, Aija, Bethel and its dependencies, [32]Anathoth, Nob, Ananiah, [33]Hazor, Ramah, Gittaim, [34]Hadid, Zeboim, Neballat, [35]Lod, Ono, and the Valley of the Artisans.

Priests and Levites at the Time of Zerubbabel. 12:1 The following are the priests and Levites who returned with Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and Jeshua: Seraiah, Jeremiah, Ezra, [2]Amariah, Malluch, Hattush, [3]Shecaniah, Rehum, Meremoth, [4]Iddo, Ginnethon, Abijah, [5]Mijamin, Maadiah, Bilgah, [6]Shemaiah, and Joiarib, Jedaiah, [7]Sallu, Amok, Hilkiah, Jedaiah. These were the priestly heads and their kinsmen in the days of Jeshua.

[8]The Levites were Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel, Sherebiah, Judah, Mattaniah, who, together with his kinsmen, was in charge of the thanksgiving hymns, [9]while Bakbukiah and Unno and their kinsmen ministered opposite them by turns.

High Priests. [10]Jeshua became the father of Joiakim, Joiakim the father of Eliashib, and Eliashib the father of Joiada; [11]Joiada the father of Johanan, and Johanan the father of Jaddua.

Priests and Levites Under Joiakim. [12]In the days of Joiakim these were the priestly family heads: for Seraiah, Meraiah; for Jeremiah, Hananiah; [13]for Ezra, Meshullam; for Amariah, Jehohanan; [14]for Malluchi, Jonathan; for Shebaniah, Joseph; [15]for Harim, Adna; for Meremoth, Helkai; [16]for Iddo, Zechariah; for Ginnethon, Meshullam; [17]for Abijah, Zichri; for Miamin, … ; for Moadiah, Piltai; [18]for Bilgah, Shammua; for Shemaiah, Jehonathan; [19]and for Joiarib, Mattenai; for Jedaiah, Uzzi; [20]for Sallu, Kallai; for Amok, Eber; [21]for Hilkiah, Hashabiah; for Jedaiah, Nethanel.

[22]In the time of Eliashib, Joiada, Johanan, and Jaddua, the heads of ancestral houses of the priests were written down in the Book of Chronicles, up until the reign of Darius the Persian. [23]The sons of Levi: the family heads were written down in the Book of Chronicles, up until the time of Johanan, the son of Eliashib.

[24]The heads of the Levites were Hashabiah, Sherebiah, Jeshua, Binnui, Kadmiel. Their kinsmen who stood opposite them to sing praises and thanksgiving in fulfillment of the command of David, the man of God, one section opposite the other, [25]were Mattaniah, Bakbukiah, Obadiah.

Meshullam, Talmon, and Akkub were gatekeepers. They guarded the storerooms at the gates.

[26]All these lived in the time of Joiakim, son of Jeshua, son of Jozadak (and in the time of Nehemiah the governor and of Ezra the priest-scribe).

Dedication of the Wall. [27]At the dedication of the wall of Jerusalem, the Levites were sought out wherever they lived and were brought to Jerusalem to celebrate a joyful dedication with thanksgiving hymns and the music of cymbals, harps, and lyres. [28]The levitical singers gathered together from the region about Jerusalem, from the villages of the Netophathites, [29]from Beth-gilgal, and from the plains of Geba and Azmaveth (for the singers had built themselves settlements about Jerusalem). [30]The priests and Levites first purified themselves, then they purified the people, the gates, and the wall.

[31]I had the administrators of Judah go up on the wall, and I arranged two great choirs. The first of these proceeded to the right, along the top of the wall, in the direction of the Dung Gate, [32]followed by Hoshaiah and half the administrators of Judah, [33]along with Azariah, Ezra, Meshullam, [34]Judah, Benjamin, Shemaiah, and Jeremiah, [35]priests with the trumpets, and also Zechariah, son of Jonathan, son of Shemaiah, son of Mattaniah, son of Micaiah, son of Zaccur, son of Asaph, [36]and his kinsmen Shemaiah, Azarel, Milalai, Gilalai, Maai, Nethanel, Judah, and Hanani, with the musical instruments of David, the man of God. Ezra the scribe was at their head. [37]At the Fountain Gate they went straight up by the steps of the City of David and continued along the top of the wall above the house of David until they came to the Water Gate on the east.

[38]The second choir proceeded to the left, followed by myself and the other half of the administrators, along the top of the wall past the Oven Tower as far as the Broad Wall, [39]then past the Ephraim Gate to the Mishneh Gate, the Fish Gate, the Tower of Hananel, and the Hundred Tower, as far as the Sheep Gate. They came to a halt at the Prison Gate.

[40]Both choirs took up a position in the house of God; I, too, and half the magistrates with me, [41]together with the priests Eliakim, Maaseiah, Minjamin, Micaiah, Elioenai, Zechariah, Hananiah, with the trumpets, [42]and Maaseiah, Shemaiah, Eleazar, Uzzi, Jehohanan, Malchijah, Elam, and Ezer. The singers were heard under the leadership of Jezrahiah. [43]Great sacrifices were offered on that day, and they rejoiced, for God had given them cause for great rejoicing. The women and the children joined in, and the rejoicing at Jerusalem could be heard from far off.

[44]At that time men were appointed over the chambers set aside for stores, offerings, first fruits, and tithes; in them they were to collect from the fields of the various cities the portions legally assigned to the priests and Levites. For Judah rejoiced in its appointed priests and Levites [45]who carried out the ministry of their God and the ministry of purification (as did the singers and the gatekeepers) in accordance with the prescriptions of David and Solomon, his son. [46]For in the days of David and Asaph, long ago, there were leaders of singers for songs of praise and thanksgiving to God. [47]All Israel, in the days of Zerubbabel and in the days of Nehemiah, gave the singers and the gatekeepers their portions, according to their daily needs. They made their consecrated offering to the Levites, and the Levites made theirs to the descendants of Aaron.

13:1 At that time, when the book of Moses was being read in the hearing of the people, it was found written there: "No Ammonite or Moabite may ever be admitted into the assembly of God; [2]for they did not meet the Israelites with food and water, but they hired Balaam to curse them, though our God turned the curse into a blessing." [3]When they had heard the law, they separated all those of mixed descent from Israel.

Reform in the Temple. [4]Before this, the priest Eliashib, who had been placed in charge of the chambers of the house of our God and who was an associate of Tobiah, [5]had set aside for the latter's use a large chamber in which had previously been stored the grain offerings, incense and vessels, the tithes in grain, wine, and oil allotted to the Levites, singers, and gatekeepers, and the offerings due the priests. [6]During all this time I had not been in Jerusalem, for in the thirty-second year of Artaxerxes, king of Babylon, I had gone back to the king. After a suitable period of time, however, I asked leave of the king [7]and returned to Jerusalem, where I discovered the evil thing that Eliashib had done for Tobiah, in setting aside for him a chamber in the courts of the house of God. [8]This displeased me very much, so I had all of Tobiah's household goods thrown outside the chamber. [9]Then I gave orders to purify the chambers, and I brought back the vessels of the house of God, the grain offerings, and the incense.

[10]I learned, too, that the portions due the Levites were no longer being given, so that the Levites and the singers who should have been carrying out the services had deserted to their own fields. [11]I reprimanded the magistrates, demanding, "Why is the house of God neglected?" Then I brought the Levites together and had them resume their stations. [12]All Judah once more brought in the tithes of grain, wine, and oil to the storerooms. [13]In charge of the storerooms I appointed Shelemiah the priest, Zadok the scribe, and Pedaiah, one of the Levites, together with Hanan, son of Zaccur, son of Mattaniah, as their assistant; for they were considered trustworthy. It was their duty to make the distribution to their kinsmen. [14]Remember this to my credit, my God! Do not forget the good deeds I have done for the house of my God and its services!

Sabbath Observance. [15]In those days I perceived that people in Judah were treading the wine presses on the sabbath; that they were bringing in sheaves of grain, loading them on their donkeys, together with wine, grapes, figs, and every other kind of load, and bringing them to Jerusalem on the sabbath day. I warned them to sell none of these provisions. [16]In Jerusalem itself the Tyrians residing there were importing fish and every other kind of merchandise and selling it to the Judahites on the sabbath. [17]I reprimanded the nobles of Judah, demanding: "What is this evil thing you are doing, profaning the sabbath day? [18]Did not your ancestors act in this same way, with the result that our God has brought all this evil upon us and upon this city? Would you add to the wrath against Israel by once more profaning the sabbath?"

[19]When the shadows were falling on the gates of Jerusalem before the sabbath, I ordered the doors to be closed and prohibited their reopening until after the sabbath. I posted some of my own people at the gates so that no load might enter on the sabbath day. [20]The merchants and sellers of various kinds of merchandise spent the night once or twice outside Jerusalem, [21]but then I warned them: "Why do you spend the night alongside the wall? If you keep this up, I will beat you!" From that time on, they did not return on the sabbath. [22]Then I ordered the Levites to purify themselves and to watch the gates, so that the sabbath day might be kept holy. This, too, remember in my favor, my God, and have mercy on me in accordance with your great mercy!

Mixed Marriages. [23]Also in those days I saw Jews who had married women of Ashdod, Ammon, or Moab. [24]Of their children, half spoke the language of Ashdod, or of one of the other peoples, and none of them knew how to speak the language of Judah. [25]So I reprimanded and cursed them; I beat some of their men and pulled out their hair; and I adjured them by God: "You shall not marry your daughters to their sons nor accept any of their daughters for your sons or for yourselves! [26]Did not Solomon, the king of Israel, sin because of them? Though among the many nations there was no king like him, and though he was beloved of his God and God had made him king over all Israel, yet even he was led into sin by foreign women. [27]Must it also be heard of you that you have done this same terrible evil, betraying our God by marrying foreign women?"

[28]One of the sons of Joiada, son of Eliashib the high priest, was the son-in-law of Sanballat the Horonite! I drove him from my presence. [29]Remember against them, my God, how they defiled the priesthood and the covenant of the priesthood and the Levites!

[30]So I cleansed them of all foreign contamination. I established the various functions for the priests and Levites, so that each had an appointed task. [31]I also provided for the procurement of wood at stated times and for the first fruits. Remember this in my favor, my God!

☐ MATTHEW 18:21-35

The Parable of the Unforgiving Servant. 18:21 Then Peter approaching asked him, "Lord, if my brother sins against me, how often must I forgive him? As many as seven times?" [22]Jesus answered, "I say to you, not seven times but seventy-seven times. [23]That is why the kingdom of heaven may be likened to a king who decided to settle accounts with his servants. [24]When he began the accounting, a debtor was brought before him who owed him a huge amount. [25]Since he had no way of paying it back, his master ordered him to be sold, along with his wife, his children, and all his property, in payment of the debt. [26]At that, the servant fell down, did him homage, and said, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back in full.' [27]Moved with compassion the master of that servant let him go and forgave him the loan. [28]When that servant had left, he found one of his fellow servants who owed him a much smaller amount. He seized him and started to choke him, demanding, 'Pay back what you owe.' [29]Falling to his knees, his fellow servant begged him, 'Be patient with me, and I will pay you back.' [30]But he refused. Instead, he had him put in prison until he paid back the debt. [31]Now when his fellow servants saw what had happened, they were deeply disturbed, and went to their master and reported the whole affair. [32]His master summoned him and said to him, 'You wicked servant! I forgave you your entire debt because you begged me to. [33]Should you not have had pity on your fellow servant, as I had pity on you?' [34]Then in anger his master handed him over to the torturers until he should pay back the whole debt. [35]So will my heavenly Father do to you, unless each of you forgives his brother from his heart."

Tobit. 1:1 This book tells the story of Tobit, son of Tobiel, son of Hananiel, son of Aduel, son of Gabael, son of Raphael, son of Raguel, of the family of Asiel and the tribe of Naphtali. [2]During the days of Shalmaneser, king of the Assyrians, he was taken captive from Thisbe, which is south of Kedesh Naphtali in upper Galilee, above and to the west of Asher, north of Phogor.

His Virtue. [3]I, Tobit, have walked all the days of my life on paths of fidelity and righteousness. I performed many charitable deeds for my kindred and my people who had been taken captive with me to Nineveh, in the land of the Assyrians. [4]When I lived as a young man in my own country, in the land of Israel, the entire tribe of my ancestor Naphtali broke away from the house of David, my ancestor, and from Jerusalem, the city that had been singled out of all Israel's tribes that all Israel might offer sacrifice there. It was the place where the temple, God's dwelling, had been built and consecrated for all generations to come. [5]All my kindred, as well as the house of Naphtali, my ancestor, used to offer sacrifice on every hilltop in Galilee to the calf that Jeroboam, king of Israel, had made in Dan.

[6]But I alone used to go often to Jerusalem for the festivals, as was prescribed for all Israel by longstanding decree. Bringing with me the first fruits of crops, the firstlings of the flock, the tithes of livestock, and the first shearings of sheep, I used to hasten to Jerusalem [7]and present them to the priests, Aaron's sons, at the altar. To the Levites ministering in Jerusalem I used to give the tithe of grain, wine, olive oil, pomegranates, figs, and other fruits. Six years in a row, I used to give a second tithe in money, which each year I would go to pay in Jerusalem. [8]The third-year tithe I gave to orphans, widows, and converts who had joined the Israelites. Every third year I would bring them this offering, and we ate it in keeping with the decree laid down in the Mosaic law concerning it, and according to the commands of Deborah, the mother of my father Tobiel; for my father had died and left me an orphan.

[9]When I reached manhood, I married Anna, a woman of our ancestral family. By her I had a son whom I named Tobiah. [10]Now, after I had been deported to the Assyrians and came as a captive to Nineveh, all my kindred and my people used to eat the food of the Gentiles, [11]but I refrained from eating that Gentile food. [12]Because I was mindful of God with all my heart, [13]the Most High granted me favor and status with Shalmaneser, so that I became purchasing agent for all his needs. [14]Until he died, I would go to Media to buy goods for him there. I also deposited pouches of silver worth ten talents in trust with my kinsman Gabael, son of Gabri, who lived at Rages, in the land of Media. [15]When Shalmaneser died and his son Sennacherib came to rule in his stead, the roads to Media became unsafe, so I could no longer go to Media.

Courage in Burying the Dead. [16]In the days of Shalmaneser I had performed many charitable deeds for my kindred, members of my people. [17]I would give my bread to the hungry and clothing to the naked. If I saw one of my people who had died and been thrown behind the wall of Nineveh, I used to bury him. [18]Sennacherib returned from Judea, having fled during the days of the judgment enacted against him by the King of Heaven because of the blasphemies he had uttered; whomever he killed I buried. For in his rage he killed many Israelites, but I used to take their bodies away by stealth and bury them. So when Sennacherib looked for them, he could not find them. [19]But a certain Ninevite went and informed the king about me, that I was burying them, and I went into hiding. When I realized that the king knew about me and that I was being hunted to be put to death, I became afraid and took flight. [20]All my property was confiscated; I was left with nothing. All that I had was taken to the king's palace, except for my wife Anna and my son Tobiah.

[21]But forty days did not pass before two of the king's sons assassinated him and fled to the mountains of Ararat. A son of his, Esarhaddon, succeeded him as king. He put Ahiqar, my kinsman Anael's son, in charge of all the credit accounts of his kingdom, and he took control over the entire administration. [22]Then Ahiqar interceded on my behalf, and I returned to Nineveh. Ahiqar had been chief cupbearer, keeper of the signet ring, treasury accountant, and credit accountant under Sennacherib, king of the Assyrians; and Esarhaddon appointed him as Second to himself. He was, in fact, my nephew, of my father's house, and of my own family.

2:1 Thus under King Esarhaddon I returned to my home, and my wife Anna and my son Tobiah were restored to me. Then on our festival of Pentecost, the holy feast of Weeks, a fine dinner was prepared for me, and I reclined to eat. [2]The table was set for me, and the dishes placed before me were many. So I said to my son Tobiah: "Son, go out and bring in whatever poor person you find among our kindred exiled here in Nineveh who may be a sincere worshiper of God to share this meal with me. Indeed, son, I shall wait for you to come back."

[3]Tobiah went out to look for some poor person among our kindred, but he came back and cried, "Father!" I said to him, "Here I am, son." He answered, "Father, one of our people has been murdered! He has been thrown out into the market place, and there he lies strangled." [4]I sprang to my feet, leaving the dinner untouched, carried the dead man from the square, and put him in one of the rooms until sundown, so that I might bury him. [5]I returned and washed and in sorrow ate my food. [6]I remembered the oracle pronounced by the prophet Amos against Bethel:

"I will turn your feasts into mourning,
and all your songs into dirges."

[8]My neighbors mocked me, saying: "Does he have no fear? Once before he was hunted, to be executed for this sort of deed, and he ran away; yet here he is again burying the dead!"

Tobit's Blindness. [9]That same night I washed and went into my courtyard, where I lay down to sleep beside the wall. Because of the heat I left my face uncovered. [10]I did not know that sparrows were perched on the wall above me; their warm droppings settled in my eyes, causing white scales on them. I went to doctors for a cure, but the more they applied ointments, the more my vision was obscured by the white scales, until I was totally blind. For four years I was unable to see, and all my kindred were distressed at my condition. Ahiqar, however, took care of me for two years, until he left for Elam.

[11]At that time my wife Anna worked for hire at weaving cloth, doing the kind of work women do. [12]When she delivered the material to her employers, they would pay her a wage. On the seventh day of the month of Dystrus, she finished the woven cloth and delivered it to her employers. They paid her the full salary and also gave her a young goat for a meal. [13]On entering my house, the goat began to bleat. So I called to my wife and said: "Where did this goat come from? It was not stolen, was it? Give it back to its owners; we have no right to eat anything stolen!" [14]But she said to me, "It was given to me as a bonus over and above my wages." Yet I would not believe her and told her to give it back to its owners. I flushed with anger at her over this. So she retorted: "Where are your charitable deeds now? Where are your righteous acts? Look! All that has happened to you is well known!"

3:1 Then sad at heart, I groaned and wept aloud. With sobs I began to pray:

Tobit's Prayer for Death. [2]"You are righteous, Lord,
and all your deeds are just;
All your ways are mercy and fidelity;
you are judge of the world.
[3]And now, Lord, be mindful of me
and look with favor upon me.
Do not punish me for my sins,
or for my inadvertent offenses,
or for those of my ancestors.

"They sinned against you,
[4]and disobeyed your commandments.
So you handed us over to plunder, captivity, and death,
to become an object lesson, a byword, and a reproach
in all the nations among whom you scattered us.

[5]"Yes, your many judgments are right
in dealing with me as my sins,
and those of my ancestors, deserve.
For we have neither kept your commandments,
nor walked in fidelity before you.

[6]"So now, deal with me as you please;
command my life breath to be taken from me,
that I may depart from the face of the earth and become dust.
It is better for me to die than to live,
because I have listened to undeserved reproaches,
and great is the grief within me.

"Lord, command that I be released from such anguish;
let me go to my everlasting abode;
Do not turn your face away from me, Lord.
For it is better for me to die
than to endure so much misery in life,
and to listen to such reproaches!"

Sarah Falsely Accused. [7]On that very day, at Ecbatana in Media, it so happened that Raguel's daughter Sarah also had to listen to reproaches from one of her father's maids. [8]For she had been given in marriage to seven husbands, but the wicked demon Asmodeus kept killing them off before they could have intercourse with her, as is prescribed for wives. The maid said to her: "You are the one who kills your husbands! Look! You have already been given in marriage to seven husbands, but you do not bear the name of a single one of them. [9]Why do you beat us? Because your husbands are dead? Go, join them! May we never see son or daughter of yours!"

[10]That day Sarah was sad at heart. She went in tears to an upstairs room in her father's house and wanted to hang herself. But she reconsidered, saying to herself: "No! May people never reproach my father and say to him, 'You had only one beloved daughter, but she hanged herself because of her misfortune.' And thus would I bring my father laden with sorrow in his old age to Hades. It is far better for me not to hang myself, but to beg the Lord that I might die, and no longer have to listen to such reproaches in my lifetime."

[11]At that same time, with hands outstretched toward the window, she implored favor:

Sarah's Prayer for Death. "Blessed are you, merciful God!
Blessed be your holy and honorable name forever!
May all your works forever bless you.
[12]Now to you, Lord, I have turned my face and have lifted up my eyes.
[13]Bid me to depart from the earth,
never again to listen to such reproaches.

[14]"You know, Master, that I am clean of any defilement with a man.
[15]I have never sullied my own name or my father's name in the land of my captivity.

"I am my father's only daughter,
and he has no other child to be his heir,
Nor does he have a kinsman or close relative whose wife I should wait to become.
Seven husbands of mine have already died.
Why then should I live any longer?
But if it does not please you, Lord, to take my life,
look favorably upon me and have pity on me,
that I may never again listen to such reproaches!"

An Answer to Prayer. [16]At that very time, the prayer of both of them was heard in the glorious presence of God. [17]So Raphael was sent to heal them both: to remove the white scales from Tobit's eyes, so that he might again see with his own eyes God's light; and to give Sarah, the daughter of Raguel, as a wife to Tobiah, the son of Tobit, and to rid her of the wicked demon Asmodeus. For it fell to Tobiah's lot to claim her before any others who might wish to marry her.

At that very moment Tobit turned from the courtyard to his house, and Raguel's daughter Sarah came down from the upstairs room.

☐ MATTHEW 19:1-12

Marriage and Divorce. 19:1 When Jesus finished these words, he left Galilee and went to the district of Judea across the Jordan. [2]Great crowds followed him, and he cured them there. [3]Some Pharisees approached him, and tested him, saying, "Is it lawful for a man to divorce his wife for any cause whatever?" [4]He said in reply, "Have you not read that from the beginning the Creator 'made them male and female' [5]and said, 'For this reason a man shall leave his father and mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh'? [6]So they are no longer two, but one flesh. Therefore, what God has joined together, no human being must separate." [7]They said to him, "Then why did Moses command that the man give the woman a bill of divorce and dismiss [her]?" [8]He said to them, "Because of the hardness of your hearts Moses allowed you to divorce your wives, but from the beginning it was not so. [9]I say to you, whoever divorces his wife (unless the marriage is unlawful) and marries another commits adultery." [10][His] disciples said to him, "If that is the case of a man with his wife, it is better not to marry." [11]He answered, "Not all can accept [this] word, but only those to whom that is granted. [12]Some are incapable of marriage because they were born so; some, because they were made so by others; some, because they have renounced marriage for the sake of the kingdom of heaven. Whoever can accept this ought to accept it."

A Father's Instruction. 4:1 That same day Tobit remembered the money he had deposited in trust with Gabael at Rages in Media. [2]He thought to himself, "Now that I have asked for death, why should I not call my son Tobiah and let him know about this money before I die?" [3]So he called his son Tobiah; and when he came, he said to him: "Son, when I die, give me a decent burial. Honor your mother, and do not abandon her as long as she lives. Do whatever pleases her, and do not grieve her spirit in any way. [4]Remember, son, how she went through many dangers for you while you were in her womb. When she dies, bury her in the same grave with me.

[5]"Through all your days, son, keep the Lord in mind, and do not seek to sin or to transgress the commandments. Perform righteous deeds all the days of your life, and do not tread the paths of wickedness. [6]For those who act with fidelity, all who practice righteousness, will prosper in their affairs.

[7]"Give alms from your possessions. Do not turn your face away from any of the poor, so that God's face will not be turned away from you. [8]Give in proportion to what you own. If you have great wealth, give alms out of your abundance; if you have but little, do not be afraid to give alms even of that little. [9]You will be storing up a goodly treasure for yourself against the day of adversity. [10]For almsgiving delivers from death and keeps one from entering into Darkness. [11]Almsgiving is a worthy offering in the sight of the Most High for all who practice it.

[12]"Be on your guard, son, against every kind of fornication, and above all, marry a woman of your own ancestral family. Do not marry a foreign woman, one who is not of your father's tribe, because we are descendants of the prophets, who were the first to speak the truth. Noah prophesied first, then Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, our ancestors from the beginning of time. Son, remember that all of them took wives from among their own kindred and were blessed in their children, and that their posterity would inherit the land. [13]Therefore, son, love your kindred. Do not act arrogantly toward any of them, the sons and daughters of your people, by refusing to take a wife for yourself from among them. For in arrogance there is ruin and great instability. In idleness there is loss and dire poverty, for idleness is the mother of famine.

[14]"Do not keep with you overnight the wages of those who have worked for you, but pay them at once. If you serve God thus, you will receive your reward. Be on your guard, son, in everything you do; be wise in all that you say and discipline yourself in all your conduct. [15]Do to no one what you yourself hate. Do not drink wine till you become drunk or let drunkenness accompany you on your way.

[16]"Give to the hungry some of your food, and to the naked some of your clothing. Whatever you have left over, give away as alms; and do not let your eye begrudge the alms that you give. [17]Pour out your wine and your bread on the grave of the righteous, but do not share them with sinners.

[18]"Seek counsel from every wise person, and do not think lightly of any useful advice. [19]At all times bless the Lord, your God, and ask him that all your paths may be straight and all your endeavors and plans may prosper. For no other nation possesses good counsel, but it is the Lord who gives all good things. Whomever the Lord chooses to raise is raised; and whomever the Lord chooses to cast down is cast down to the recesses of Hades. So now, son, keep in mind these my commandments, and never let them be erased from your heart.

[20]"Now, I must tell you, son, that I have deposited in trust ten talents of silver with Gabael, the son of Gabri, at Rages in Media. [21]Do not fear, son, that we have lived in poverty. You will have great wealth, if you fear God, avoid all sin, and do what is good before the Lord your God."

The Angel Raphael. 5:1 Then Tobiah replied to his father Tobit: "Everything that you have commanded me, father, I shall do. [2]But how will I be able to get that money from him, since he does not know me, and I do not know him? What sign can I give him so that he will recognize and trust me, and give me the money? I do not even know the roads to Media, in order to go there." [3]Tobit answered his son Tobiah: "He gave me his bond, and I gave him mine; I divided his into two parts, and each of us took one part; I put one part with the money. It is twenty years since I deposited that money! So, son, find yourself a trustworthy person who will make the journey with you, and we will give him wages when you return; but bring back that money from Gabael while I am still alive."

[4]Tobiah went out to look for someone who would travel with him to Media, someone who knew the way. He went out and found the angel Raphael standing before him (though he did not know that this was an angel of God). [5]Tobiah said to him, "Where do you come from, young man?" He replied, "I am an Israelite, one of your kindred. I have come here to work." Tobiah said to him, "Do you know the way to Media?" [6]"Yes," he replied, "I have been there many times. I know the place well and am acquainted with all the routes. I have often traveled to Media; I used to stay with our kinsman Gabael, who lives at Rages in Media. It is a good two days' journey from Ecbatana to Rages, for Rages is situated in the mountains, but Ecbatana is in the middle of the plain." [7]Tobiah said to him, "Wait for me, young man, till I go in and tell my father; for I need you to make the journey with me. I will pay you your wages." [8]He replied, "Very well, I will wait; but do not be long."

[9]Tobiah went in and informed his father Tobit: "I have found someone of our own Israelite kindred who will go with me!" Tobit said, "Call the man in, so that I may find out from what family and tribe he comes, and whether he is trustworthy enough to travel with you, son."

[10]Tobiah went out to summon him, saying, "Young man, my father is calling for you." When Raphael entered the house, Tobit greeted him first. He replied, "Joyful greetings to you!" Tobit answered, "What joy is left for me? Here I am, a blind man who cannot see the light of heaven, but must remain in darkness, like the dead who no longer see the light! Though alive, I am among the dead. I can hear people's voices, but I do not see them." The young man said, "Take courage! God's healing is near; so take courage!" Tobit then said: "My son Tobiah wants to go to Media. Can you go with him to show him the way? I will pay you your wages, brother." He answered: "Yes, I will go with him, and I know all the routes. I have often traveled to Media and crossed all its plains so I know well the mountains and all its roads." [11]Tobit asked him, "Brother, tell me, please, from what family and tribe are you?" [12]He replied, "Why? What need do you have for a tribe? Aren't you looking for a hired man?" Tobit replied, "I only want to know, brother, whose son you truly are and what your name is."

[13]He answered, "I am Azariah, son of the great Hananiah, one of your own kindred." [14]Tobit exclaimed: "Welcome! God save you, brother! Do not be provoked with me, brother, for wanting to learn the truth about your family. It turns out that you are a kinsman, from a noble and good line! I knew Hananiah and Nathan, the two sons of the great Shemeliah. They used to go to Jerusalem with me, where we would worship together. They were not led astray; your kindred are good people. You are certainly of good lineage. So welcome!"

[15]Then he added: "For each day I will give you a drachma as wages, as well as expenses for you and for my son. So go with my son, and [16]I will even add a bonus to your wages!" The young man replied: "I will go with him. Do not fear. In good health we will leave you, and in good health we will return to you, for the way is safe." [17]Tobit said, "Blessing be upon you, brother." Then he called his son and said to him: "Son, prepare whatever you need for the journey, and set out with your kinsman. May God in heaven protect you on the way and bring you back to me safe and sound; may his angel accompany you for your safety, son."

Tobiah left to set out on his journey, and he kissed his father and mother. Tobit said to him, "Have a safe journey." [18]But his mother began to weep and she said to Tobit: "Why have you sent my child away? Is he not the staff of our hands, as he goes in and out before us? [19]Do not heap money upon money! Rather relinquish it in exchange for our child! [20]What the Lord has given us to live on is certainly enough for us." [21]Tobit reassured her: "Do not worry! Our son will leave in good health and come back to us in good health. Your own eyes will see the day when he returns to you safe and sound. So, do not worry; do not fear for them, my sister. [22]For a good angel will go with him, his journey will be successful, and he will return in good health." 6:1 Then she stopped weeping.

On the Way to Rages. 6:2 When the young man left home, accompanied by the angel, the dog followed Tobiah out and went along with them. Both journeyed along, and when the first night came, they camped beside the Tigris River. [3]When the young man went down to wash his feet in the Tigris River, a large fish leaped out of the water and tried to swallow his foot. He shouted in alarm. [4]But the angel said to the young man, "Grab the fish and hold on to it!" He seized the fish and hauled it up on dry land. [5]The angel then told him: "Slit the fish open and take out its gall, heart, and liver, and keep them with you; but throw away the other entrails. Its gall, heart, and liver are useful for medicine." [6]After Tobiah had slit the fish open, he put aside the gall, heart, and liver. Then he roasted and ate part of the fish; the rest he salted and kept for the journey.

Raphael's Instructions. Afterward the two of them traveled on together till they drew near to Media. [7]Then the young man asked the angel this question: "Brother Azariah, what medicine is in the fish's heart, liver, and gall?" [8]He answered: "As for the fish's heart and liver, if you burn them to make smoke in the presence of a man or a woman who is afflicted by a demon or evil spirit, any affliction will flee and never return. [9]As for the gall, if you apply it to the eyes of one who has white scales, blowing right into them, sight will be restored."

[10]When they had entered Media and were getting close to Ecbatana, [11]Raphael said to the young man, "Brother Tobiah!" He answered, "Here I am!" Raphael continued, "Tonight we must stay in the house of Raguel, who is a relative of yours. He has a beautiful daughter named Sarah, [12]but no other son or daughter apart from Sarah. Since you are Sarah's closest relative, you more than any other have the right to marry her. Moreover, her father's estate is rightfully yours to inherit. The girl is wise, courageous, and very beautiful; and her father is a good man who loves her dearly." [13]He continued: "You have the right to marry her. So listen to me, brother. Tonight I will speak to her father about the girl so that we may take her as your bride. When we return from Rages, we will have the wedding feast for her. I know that Raguel cannot keep her from you or promise her to another man; he would incur the death penalty as decreed in the Book of Moses. For he knows that you, more than anyone else, have the right to marry his daughter. Now listen to me, brother; we will speak about this girl tonight, so that we may arrange her engagement to you. Then when we return from Rages, we will take her and bring her back with us to your house."

[14]But Tobiah said to Raphael in reply, "Brother Azariah, I have heard that she has already been given in marriage to seven husbands, and that they have died in the bridal chamber. On the very night they approached her, they would die. I have also heard it said that it was a demon that killed them. [15]So now I too am afraid of this demon, because it is in love with her and does not harm her; but it kills any man who wishes to come close to her. I am my father's only child. If I should die, I would bring the life of my father and mother down to their grave in sorrow over me; they have no other son to bury them!"

[16]Raphael said to him: "Do you not remember your father's commands? He ordered you to marry a woman from your own ancestral family. Now listen to me, brother; do not worry about that demon. Take Sarah. I know that tonight she will be given to you as your wife! [17]When you go into the bridal chamber, take some of the fish's liver and the heart, and place them on the embers intended for incense, and an odor will be given off. [18]As soon as the demon smells the odor, it will flee and never again show itself near her. Then when you are about to have intercourse with her, both of you must first get up to pray. Beg the Lord of heaven that mercy and protection be granted you. Do not be afraid, for she was set apart for you before the world existed. You will save her, and she will go with you. And I assume that you will have children by her, and they will be like brothers for you. So do not worry."

When Tobiah heard Raphael's words that she was his kinswoman, and of the lineage of his ancestral house, he loved her deeply, and his heart was truly set on her.

Blessing of the Children. 19:13 Then children were brought to him that he might lay his hands on them and pray. The disciples rebuked them, [14]but Jesus said, "Let the children come to me, and do not prevent them; for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these." [15]After he placed his hands on them, he went away.

The Rich Young Man. [16]Now someone approached him and said, "Teacher, what good must I do to gain eternal life?" [17]He answered him, "Why do you ask me about the good? There is only One who is good. If you wish to enter into life, keep the commandments." [18]He asked him, "Which ones?" And Jesus replied, " 'You shall not kill; you shall not commit adultery; you shall not steal; you shall not bear false witness; [19]honor your father and your mother'; and 'you shall love your neighbor as yourself.' " [20]The young man said to him, "All of these I have observed. What do I still lack?" [21]Jesus said to him, "If you wish to be perfect, go, sell what you have and give to [the] poor, and you will have treasure in heaven. Then come, follow me." [22]When the young man heard this statement, he went away sad, for he had many possessions. [23]Then Jesus said to his disciples, "Amen, I say to you, it will be hard for one who is rich to enter the kingdom of heaven. [24]Again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for one who is rich to enter the kingdom of God." [25]When the disciples heard this, they were greatly astonished and said, "Who then can be saved?" [26]Jesus looked at them and said, "For human beings this is impossible, but for God all things are possible." [27]Then Peter said to him in reply, "We have given up everything and followed you. What will there be for us?" [28]Jesus said to them, "Amen, I say to you that you who have followed me, in the new age, when the Son of Man is seated on his throne of glory, will yourselves sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel. [29]And everyone who has given up houses or brothers or sisters or father or mother or children or lands for the sake of my name will receive a hundred times more, and will inherit eternal life. [30]But many who are first will be last, and the last will be first."

At the House of Raguel. 7:1 When they entered Ecbatana, Tobiah said, "Brother Azariah, bring me straight to the house of our kinsman Raguel." So he did, and they came to the house of Raguel, whom they found seated by his courtyard gate. They greeted him first, and he answered, "Many greetings to you, brothers! Welcome! You have come in peace! Now enter in peace!" And he brought them into his house. [2]He said to his wife Edna, "How this young man resembles Tobit, the son of my uncle!" [3]So Edna asked them, saying, "Where are you from, brothers?" They answered, "We are descendants of Naphtali, now captives in Nineveh." [4]She said to them, "Do you know our kinsman Tobit?" They answered her, "Indeed, we do know him!" She asked, "Is he well?" [5]They answered, "Yes, he is alive and well." Then Tobiah said, "He is my father!" [6]Raguel jumped up, kissed him, and broke into tears. [7]Then, finding words, he said, "A blessing upon you, son! You are the son of a good and noble father. What a terrible misfortune that a man so righteous and charitable has been afflicted with blindness!" He embraced his kinsman Tobiah and continued to weep. [8]His wife Edna also wept for Tobit; and their daughter Sarah also began to weep.

Marriage of Tobiah and Sarah. [9]Afterward, Raguel slaughtered a ram from the flock and gave them a warm reception. When they had washed, bathed, and reclined to eat and drink, Tobiah said to Raphael, "Brother Azariah, ask Raguel to give me my kinswoman Sarah." [10]Raguel overheard the words; so he said to the young man: "Eat and drink and be merry tonight, for no man has a greater right to marry my daughter Sarah than you, brother. Besides, not even I have the right to give her to anyone but you, because you are my closest relative. However, son, I must frankly tell you the truth. [11]I have given her in marriage to seven husbands who were kinsmen of ours, and all died on the very night they approached her. But now, son, eat and drink. The Lord will look after you both." Tobiah answered, "I will neither eat nor drink anything here until you settle what concerns me."

Raguel said to him: "I will do it. She is yours as decreed by the Book of Moses. It has been decided in heaven that she be given to you! Take your kinswoman; from now on you are her brother, and she is your sister. She is given to you today and here ever after. May the Lord of heaven prosper you both tonight, son, and grant you mercy and peace." [12]Then Raguel called his daughter Sarah, and she came to him. He took her by the hand and gave her to Tobiah with these words: "Take her according to the law. According to the decree written in the Book of Moses I give her to be your wife. Take her and bring her safely to your father. And may the God of heaven grant both of you a safe journey in peace!" [13]He then called her mother and told her to bring writing materials. He wrote out a copy of a marriage contract stating that he gave Sarah to Tobiah as his wife as decreed by the law of Moses. Her mother brought the material, and he drew up the contract, to which he affixed his seal.

[14]Afterward they began to eat and drink. [15]Later Raguel called his wife Edna and said, "My sister, prepare the other bedroom and bring Sarah there." [16]She went, made the bed in the room, as he had told her, and brought Sarah there. After she had cried over her, she wiped away her tears and said, [17]"Take courage, my daughter! May the Lord of heaven grant you joy in place of your grief! Courage, my daughter!" Then she left.

Expulsion of the Demon. 8:1 When they had finished eating and drinking, they wanted to retire. So they brought the young man out and led him to the bedroom. [2]Tobiah, mindful of Raphael's instructions, took the fish's liver and heart from the bag where he had them, and put them on the embers intended for incense. [3]The odor of the fish repulsed the demon, and it fled to the upper regions of Egypt; Raphael went in pursuit of it and there bound it hand and foot. Then Raphael returned immediately.

[4]When Sarah's parents left the bedroom and closed the door behind them, Tobiah rose from bed and said to his wife, "My sister, come, let us pray and beg our Lord to grant us mercy and protection." [5]She got up, and they started to pray and beg that they might be protected. He began with these words:

"Blessed are you, O God of our ancestors;
blessed be your name forever and ever!
Let the heavens and all your creation bless you forever.
[6]You made Adam, and you made his wife Eve
to be his helper and support;
and from these two the human race has come.
You said, 'It is not good for the man to be alone;
let us make him a helper like himself.'
[7]Now, not with lust,

but with fidelity I take this kinswoman as my wife.
Send down your mercy on me and on her,
and grant that we may grow old together.
Bless us with children."

[8]They said together, "Amen, amen!" [9]Then they went to bed for the night.

But Raguel got up and summoned his servants. They went out with him and dug a grave, [10]for he said, "Perhaps Tobiah will die; then we would be a laughingstock and an object of mockery." [11]When they had finished digging the grave, Raguel went back into the house and called his wife, [12]saying, "Send one of the maids in to see whether he is alive. If he has died, let us bury him without anyone knowing about it." [13]They sent the maid, lit a lamp, and opened the bedroom door; she went in and found them sleeping together. [14]The maid came out and told them that Tobiah was alive, and that nothing was wrong. [15]Then they praised the God of heaven in these words:

"Blessed are you, God, with every pure blessing!
Let all your chosen ones bless you forever!
[16]Blessed are you, for you have made me happy;
what I feared did not happen.
Rather you have dealt with us
according to your abundant mercy.
[17]Blessed are you, for you have shown mercy toward two only children.
Grant them, Master, mercy and protection,
and bring their lives to fulfillment
with happiness and mercy."

Wedding Feast. [19]He asked his wife to bake many loaves of bread; he himself went out to the herd and brought two steers and four rams, which he ordered to be slaughtered. So they began to prepare the feast. [20]He summoned Tobiah and said to him, "For fourteen days you shall not stir from here, but shall remain here eating and drinking with me; you shall bring joy to my daughter's afflicted spirit. [21]Now take half of what I own here; go back in good health to your father. The other half will be yours when I and my wife die. Take courage, son! I am your father, and Edna is your mother; we belong to you and to your sister both now and forever. So take courage, son!"

The Money Recovered. 9:1 Then Tobiah called Raphael and said to him: [2]"Brother Azariah, take along with you from here four servants and two camels and travel to Rages. Go to Gabael's house and give him this bond. Get the money and then bring him along with you to the wedding celebration. [3]For you know that my father will be counting the days. If I should delay even by a single day, I would cause him intense grief. [4]You have witnessed the oath that Raguel has sworn; I cannot violate his oath." [5]So Raphael, together with the four servants and two camels, traveled to Rages in Media, where they stayed at Gabael's house. Raphael gave Gabael his bond and told him about Tobit's son Tobiah, that he had married and was inviting him to the wedding celebration. Gabael got up and counted out for him the moneybags with their seals, and they packed them on the camels.

[6]The following morning they both got an early start and traveled to the wedding celebration. When they entered Raguel's house, they found Tobiah reclining at table. He jumped up and greeted Gabael, who wept and blessed him, exclaiming: "Good and noble child, son of a good and noble, righteous and charitable man, may the Lord bestow a heavenly blessing on you and on your wife, and on your wife's father and mother. Blessed be God, because I have seen the very image of my cousin Tobit!"

The Workers in the Vineyard. 20:1 "The kingdom of heaven is like a landowner who went out at dawn to hire laborers for his vineyard. [2]After agreeing with them for the usual daily wage, he sent them into his vineyard. [3]Going out about nine o'clock, he saw others standing idle in the marketplace, [4]and he said to them, 'You too go into my vineyard, and I will give you what is just.' [5]So they went off. [And] he went out again around noon, and around three o'clock, and did likewise. [6]Going out about five o'clock, he found others standing around, and said to them, 'Why do you stand here idle all day?' [7]They answered, 'Because no one has hired us.' He said to them, 'You too go into my vineyard.' [8]When it was evening the owner of the vineyard said to his foreman, 'Summon the laborers and give them their pay, beginning with the last and ending with the first.' [9]When those who had started about five o'clock came, each received the usual daily wage. [10]So when the first came, they thought that they would receive more, but each of them also got the usual wage. [11]And on receiving it they grumbled against the landowner, [12]saying, 'These last ones worked only one hour, and you have made them equal to us, who bore the day's burden and the heat.' [13]He said to one of them in reply, 'My friend, I am not cheating you. Did you not agree with me for the usual daily wage? [14]Take what is yours and go. What if I wish to give this last one the same as you? [15][Or] am I not free to do as I wish with my own money? Are you envious because I am generous?' [16]Thus, the last will be first, and the first will be last."

Anxiety of the Parents. 10:1 Meanwhile, day by day, Tobit was keeping track of the time Tobiah would need to go and to return. When the number of days was reached and his son did not appear, [2]he said, "Could it be that he has been detained there? Or perhaps Gabael has died, and there is no one to give him the money?" [3]And he began to grieve. [4]His wife Anna said, "My son has perished and is no longer among the living!" And she began to weep aloud and to wail over her son: [5]"Alas, child, light of my eyes, that I have let you make this journey!" [6]But Tobit kept telling her: "Be still, do not worry, my sister; he is safe! Probably they have to take care of some unexpected business there. The man who is traveling with him is trustworthy and one of our kindred. So do not grieve over him, my sister. He will be here soon." [7]But she retorted, "You be still, and do not try to deceive me! My son has perished!" She would rush out and keep watch every day at the road her son had taken. She ate nothing. After the sun had set, she would go back home to wail and cry the whole night through, getting no sleep at all.

Departure from Ecbatana. Now when the fourteen days of the wedding celebration, which Raguel had sworn to hold for his daughter, had come to an end, Tobiah went to him and said: "Send me off, now, since I know that my father and mother do not believe they will ever see me again. So I beg you, father, let me depart and go back to my own father. I have already told you how I left him." [8]Raguel said to Tobiah: "Stay, son, stay with me. I am sending messengers to your father Tobit, and they will give him news of you." [9]But Tobiah insisted, "No, I beg you to send me back to my father."

[10]Raguel then promptly handed over to Tobiah his wife Sarah, together with half of all his property: male and female slaves, oxen and sheep, donkeys and camels, clothing, money, and household goods. [11]He saw them safely off. Embracing Tobiah, he said to him: "Farewell, son. Have a safe journey. May the Lord of heaven grant prosperity to you and to your wife Sarah. And may I see children of yours before I die!" [12]Then he said to his daughter Sarah, "My daughter, honor your father-in-law and your mother-in-law, because from now on they are as much your parents as the ones who brought you into the world. Go in peace, daughter; let me hear a good report about you as long as I live." Finally he said good-bye to them and let them go.

Edna also said to Tobiah: "My child and beloved kinsman, may the Lord bring you back safely, and may I live long enough to see children of you and of my daughter Sarah before I die. Before the Lord, I entrust my daughter to your care. Never cause her grief all the days of your life. Go in peace, son. From now on I am your mother, and Sarah is your sister. Together may we all prosper throughout the days of our lives." She kissed them both and saw them safely off.

[13]Tobiah left Raguel, full of happiness and joy, and he blessed the Lord of heaven and earth, the King of all, for making his journey so successful. Finally he blessed Raguel and his wife Edna, and added, "I have been commanded by the Lord to honor you all the days of your life!"

Homeward Journey. 11:1 As they drew near to Kaserin, which is opposite Nineveh, [2]Raphael said: "You know how we left your father. [3]Let us hurry on ahead of your wife to prepare the house while they are still on the way." [4]So both went on ahead together, and Raphael said to him, "Take the gall in your hand!" And the dog ran along behind them.

[5]Meanwhile, Anna sat watching the road by which her son was to come. [6]When she saw him coming, she called to his father, "Look, your son is coming, and the man who traveled with him!"

[7]Raphael said to Tobiah before he came near to his father: "I know that his eyes will be opened. [8]Apply the fish gall to his eyes, and the medicine will make the white scales shrink and peel off from his eyes; then your father will have sight again and will see the light of day."

Sight Restored. [9]Then Anna ran up to her son, embraced him, and said to him, "Now that I have seen you again, son, I am ready to die!" And she sobbed aloud. [10]Tobit got up and stumbled out through the courtyard gate to meet his son. Tobiah went up to him [11]with the fish gall in his hand and blew into his eyes. Holding him firmly, he said, "Courage, father." Then he applied the medicine to his eyes, and it made them sting. [12, 13]Tobiah used both hands to peel the white scales from the corners of his eyes. Tobit saw his son and threw his arms around him. [14]Weeping, he exclaimed, "I can see you, son, the light of my eyes!" Then he prayed,

"Blessed be God,
  blessed be his great name,
  and blessed be all his holy angels.
May his great name be with us,
  and blessed be all the angels throughout all the ages.
[15]God it was who afflicted me,
  and God who has had mercy on me.
  Now I see my son Tobiah!"

Then Tobit went back in, rejoicing and praising God with full voice. Tobiah related to his father how his journey had been a success; that he had brought back the money; and that he had married Raguel's daughter Sarah, who was about to arrive, for she was near the gate of Nineveh.

[16]Rejoicing and blessing God, Tobit went out to the gate of Nineveh to meet his daughter-in-law. When the people of Nineveh saw him coming, walking along briskly, with no one leading him by the hand, they were amazed. [17]Before them all Tobit proclaimed how God had shown mercy to him and opened his eyes. When Tobit came up to Sarah, the wife of his son Tobiah, he blessed her and said: "Welcome, my daughter! Blessed be your God for bringing you to us, daughter! Blessed are your father and your mother. Blessed be my son Tobiah, and blessed be you, daughter! Welcome to your home with blessing and joy. Come in, daughter!" That day there was joy for all the Jews who lived in Nineveh. [18]Ahiqar and his nephew Nadin were also on hand to rejoice with Tobit. Tobiah's wedding feast was celebrated with joy for seven days, and many gifts were given to him.

Raphael's Wages. 12:1 When the wedding celebration came to an end, Tobit called his son Tobiah and said to him, "Son, see to it that you pay his wages to the man who made the journey with you and give him a bonus too." [2]Tobiah said: "Father, how much shall I pay him? It would not hurt to give him half the wealth he brought back with me. [3]He led me back safe and sound, healed my wife, brought the money back with me, and healed you. How much should I pay him?" [4]Tobit answered, "It is only fair, son, that he should receive half of all that he brought back." [5]So Tobiah called Raphael and said, "Take as your wages half of all that you have brought back, and farewell!"

Exhortation. [6]Raphael called the two of them aside privately and said to them: "Bless God and give him thanks before all the living for the good things he has done for you, by blessing and extolling his name in song. Proclaim before all with due honor the deeds of God, and do not be slack in thanking him. [7]A king's secret should be kept secret, but one must declare the works of God and give thanks with due honor. Do good, and evil will not overtake you. [8]Prayer with fasting is good. Almsgiving with righteousness is better than wealth with wickedness. It is better to give alms than to store up gold, [9]for almsgiving saves from death, and purges all sin. Those who give alms will enjoy a full life, [10]but those who commit sin and do evil are their own worst enemies.

Raphael's Identity. [11]"I shall now tell you the whole truth and conceal nothing at all from you. I have already said to you, 'A king's secret should be kept secret, but one must declare the works of God with due honor.' [12]Now when you, Tobit, and Sarah prayed, it was I who presented the record of your prayer before the Glory of the Lord; and likewise whenever you used to bury the dead. [13]When you did not hesitate to get up and leave your dinner in order to go and bury that dead man, [14]I was sent to put you to the test. At the same time, however, God sent me to heal you and your daughter-in-law Sarah. [15]I am Raphael, one of the seven angels who stand and serve before the Glory of the Lord."

[16]Greatly shaken, the two of them fell prostrate in fear. [17]But Raphael said to them: "Do not fear; peace be with you! Bless God now and forever. [18]As for me, when I was with you, I was not acting out of any favor on my part, but by God's will. So bless God every day; give praise with song. [19]Even though you saw me eat and drink, I did not eat or drink anything; what you were seeing was a vision. [20]So now bless the Lord on earth and give thanks to God. Look, I am ascending to the one who sent me. Write down all that has happened to you." And he ascended. [21]They stood up but were no longer able to see him. [22]They kept blessing God and singing his praises, and they continued to give thanks for these marvelous works that God had done, because an angel of God appeared to them.

13:1 Then Tobit spoke and composed a song of joyful praise; he said:

Blessed be God who lives forever,
because his kingship lasts for all ages.
[2]For he afflicts and shows mercy,
casts down to the depths of Hades,
brings up from the great abyss.
What is there that can snatch from his hand?

[3]Give thanks to him, you Israelites, in the presence of the nations,
for though he has scattered you among them,
[4]even there recount his greatness.
Exalt him before every living being,
because he is your Lord, and he is your God,
our Father and God forever and ever!
[5]He will afflict you for your iniquities,
but will have mercy on all of you.
He will gather you from all the nations
among whom you have been scattered.

[6]When you turn back to him with all your heart,
and with all your soul do what is right before him,
Then he will turn to you,
and will hide his face from you no longer.

Now consider what he has done for you,
and give thanks with full voice.
Bless the Lord of righteousness,
and exalt the King of the ages.

In the land of my captivity I give thanks,
and declare his power and majesty to a sinful nation.
According to your heart do what is right before him:
perhaps there will be pardon for you.

[7]As for me, I exalt my God,
my soul exalts the King of heaven,
and rejoices all the days of my life.
Let all sing praise to his greatness,
[8]let all speak and give thanks in Jerusalem.

[9]Jerusalem, holy city,
he will afflict you for the works of your hands,
but will again pity the children of the righteous.
[10]Give thanks to the Lord with righteousness, and bless the King of the ages,
so that your tabernacle may be rebuilt in you with joy.
May he gladden within you all who are captives;
may he cherish within you all who are distressed
for all generations to come.

[11]A bright light will shine to the limits of the earth.
Many nations will come to you from afar,
And inhabitants of all the ends of the earth
to your holy name,
Bearing in their hands gifts for the King of heaven.
Generation after generation will offer joyful worship in you;
your name will be great forever and ever.

[12]Cursed be all who despise you and revile you;
cursed be all who hate you and speak a harsh word against you;
cursed be all who destroy you
and pull down your walls,
And all who overthrow your towers
and set fire to your homes.
But blessed forever be all those who respect you.

[13]Go, then, rejoice and exult over the children of the righteous, for they will all be gathered together
and will bless the Lord of the ages.
[14]Happy are those who love you,
and happy are those who rejoice in your peace.
Happy too are all who grieve
over all your afflictions,
For they will rejoice over you and behold all your joy forever.

[15]My soul, bless the Lord, the great King;
[16]for Jerusalem will be rebuilt as his house forever.
Happy too will I be if a remnant of my offspring survives to see your glory and to give thanks to the King of heaven!

The gates of Jerusalem will be built with sapphire and emerald,
and all your walls with precious stones.
The towers of Jerusalem will be built with gold,
and their battlements with purest gold.
17 The streets of Jerusalem will be paved with rubies and stones of Ophir;
18 The gates of Jerusalem will sing hymns of gladness,
and all its houses will cry out, Hallelujah!
Blessed be the God of Israel for all ages!
For in you the blessed will bless the holy name forever and ever.

Parting Advice. 14:1 So the words of Tobit's hymn of praise came to an end. Tobit died in peace at the age of a hundred and twelve and was buried with honor in Nineveh. 2 He was fifty-eight years old when he lost his eyesight, and after he recovered it he lived in prosperity, giving alms; he continued to fear God and give thanks to the divine Majesty.

3 As he was dying, he summoned his son Tobiah and Tobiah's seven sons, and commanded him, "Son, take your children 4 and flee into Media, for I believe God's word that Nahum spoke against Nineveh. It will all happen and will overtake Assyria and Nineveh; indeed all that was said by Israel's prophets whom God sent will come to pass. Not one of all their words will remain unfulfilled, but everything will take place in the time appointed for it. So it will be safer in Media than in Assyria or Babylon. For I know and believe that whatever God has said will be accomplished. It will happen, and not a single word of the prophecies will fail.

As for our kindred who dwell in the land of Israel, they will all be scattered and taken into captivity from the good land. All the land of Israel will become a wilderness; even Samaria and Jerusalem will be a wilderness! For a time, the house of God will be desolate and will be burned. 5 But God will again have mercy on them and bring them back to the land of Israel. They will build the house again, but it will not be like the first until the era when the appointed times will be completed. Afterward all of them will return from their captivity, and they will rebuild Jerusalem with due honor. In it the house of God will also be rebuilt, just as the prophets of Israel said of it. 6 All the nations of the world will turn and reverence God in truth; all will cast away their idols, which have deceitfully led them into error. 7 They will bless the God of the ages in righteousness. All the Israelites truly mindful of God, who are to be saved in those days, will be gathered together and will come to Jerusalem; in security will they dwell forever in the land of Abraham, which will be given to them. Those who love God sincerely will rejoice, but those who commit sin and wickedness will disappear completely from the land.

8, 9 "Now, my children, I give you this command: serve God sincerely and do what is pleasing in his sight; you must instruct your children to do what is right and to give alms, to be mindful of God and at all times to bless his name sincerely and with all their strength. Now, as for you, son, leave Nineveh; do not stay here. 10 The day you bury your mother next to me, do not even stay overnight within the confines of the city. For I see that there is much wickedness in it, and much treachery is practiced in it, and people are not ashamed. See, my son, all that Nadin did to Ahiqar, the very one who reared him. Was not Ahiqar brought down alive into the earth? Yet God made Nadin's disgraceful crime rebound against him. Ahiqar came out again into the light, but Nadin went into the everlasting darkness, for he had tried to kill Ahiqar. Because Ahiqar had given alms he escaped from the deadly trap Nadin had set for him. But Nadin fell into the deadly trap himself, and it destroyed him. 11 So, my children, see what almsgiving does, and also what wickedness does—it kills! But now my spirit is about to leave me."

Death of Tobit and Tobiah. They laid him on his bed, and he died; and he was buried with honor. 12 When Tobiah's mother died, he buried her next to his father. He then departed with his wife and children for Media, where he settled in Ecbatana with his father-in-law Raguel. 13 He took respectful care of his aging father-in-law and mother-in-law; and he buried them at Ecbatana in Media. Then he inherited Raguel's estate as well as that of his father Tobit. 14 He died highly respected at the age of one hundred seventeen. 15 But before he died, he saw and heard of the destruction of Nineveh. He saw the inhabitants of the city being led captive into Media by Cyaxares, the king of Media. Tobiah blessed God for all that he had done against the Ninevites and Assyrians. Before dying he rejoiced over Nineveh, and he blessed the Lord God forever and ever.

The Third Prediction of the Passion. 20:17 As Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve [disciples] aside by themselves, and said to them on the way, [18]"Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man will be handed over to the chief priests and the scribes, and they will condemn him to death, [19]and hand him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and scourged and crucified, and he will be raised on the third day."

The Request of James and John. [20]Then the mother of the sons of Zebedee approached him with her sons and did him homage, wishing to ask him for something. [21]He said to her, "What do you wish?" She answered him, "Command that these two sons of mine sit, one at your right and the other at your left, in your kingdom." [22]Jesus said in reply, "You do not know what you are asking. Can you drink the cup that I am going to drink?" They said to him, "We can." [23]He replied, "My cup you will indeed drink, but to sit at my right and at my left [, this] is not mine to give but is for those for whom it has been prepared by my Father." [24]When the ten heard this, they became indignant at the two brothers. [25]But Jesus summoned them and said, "You know that the rulers of the Gentiles lord it over them, and the great ones make their authority over them felt. [26]But it shall not be so among you. Rather, whoever wishes to be great among you shall be your servant; [27]whoever wishes to be first among you shall be your slave. [28]Just so, the Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many."

Nebuchadnezzar Against Arphaxad. 1:1 It was the twelfth year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, who ruled over the Assyrians in the great city of Nineveh. At that time Arphaxad was ruling over the Medes in Ecbatana. [2]Around Ecbatana he built a wall of hewn stones, three cubits thick and six cubits long. He made the walls seventy cubits high and fifty cubits wide. [3]At its gates he raised towers one hundred cubits high with foundations sixty cubits wide. [4]He made its gates seventy cubits high and forty cubits wide to allow passage of his mighty forces, with his infantry in formation. [5]At that time King Nebuchadnezzar waged war against King Arphaxad in the vast plain that borders Ragau. [6]Rallying to him were all who lived in the hill country, all who lived along the Euphrates, the Tigris, and the Hydaspes, as well as Arioch, king of the Elamites, in the plains. Thus many nations joined the ranks of the Chelodites.

[7]Then Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, contacted all the inhabitants of Persia and all who lived in the west, the inhabitants of Cilicia and Damascus, Lebanon and Antilebanon, and all who lived along the seacoast, [8]the peoples of Carmel, Gilead, Upper Galilee, and the vast plain of Esdraelon, [9]and all in Samaria and its cities, and west of the Jordan as far as Jerusalem, Bethany, Chelous, Kadesh, and the river of Egypt; Tahpanhes, Raamses, all the land of Goshen, [10]Tanis, Memphis and beyond, and all the inhabitants of Egypt as far as the borders of Ethiopia.

[11]But all the inhabitants of the whole land made light of the summons of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, and would not join him in the war. They were not afraid of him, since he was only a single opponent. So they sent back his envoys empty-handed and disgraced. [12]Then Nebuchadnezzar fell into a violent rage against all the land, and swore by his throne and his kingdom that he would take revenge on all the territories of Cilicia, Damascus, and Syria, and would destroy with his sword all the inhabitants of Moab, Ammon, the whole of Judea, and all those living in Egypt as far as the coasts of the two seas.

Defeat of Arphaxad. [13]In the seventeenth year he mustered his forces against King Arphaxad and was victorious in his campaign. He routed the whole force of Arphaxad, his entire cavalry, and all his chariots, [14]and took possession of his cities. He pressed on to Ecbatana, took its towers, sacked its marketplaces, and turned its glory into shame. [15]He captured Arphaxad in the mountains of Ragau, ran him through with spears, and utterly destroyed him once and for all.

[16]Then he returned to Nineveh with all his consolidated forces, a very great multitude of warriors; and there he and his forces relaxed and feasted for one hundred and twenty days.

Revenge Planned Against the Western Nations. 2:1 In the eighteenth year, on the twenty-second day of the first month, there was a discussion in the palace of Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, about taking revenge on all the land, as he had threatened. [2]He summoned all his attendants and officers, laid before them his secret plan, and with his own lips recounted in full detail the wickedness of all the land. [3]They decided to destroy all who had refused to obey the order he had issued.

[4]When he had fully recounted his plan, Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Assyrians, summoned Holofernes, the ranking general of his forces, second only to himself in command, and said to him: [5]"Thus says the great king, the lord of all the earth: Go forth from my presence, take with you men of proven valor, one hundred and twenty thousand infantry and twelve thousand cavalry, [6]and proceed against all the land of the west, because they disobeyed the order I issued. [7]Tell them to have earth and water ready, for I will come against them in my wrath; I will cover all the land with the feet of my soldiers, to whom I will deliver them as spoils. [8]Their wounded will fill their ravines and wadies, the swelling river will be choked with their dead; [9]and I will deport them as exiles to the very ends of the earth.

[10]"Go before me and take possession of all their territories for me. If they surrender to you, guard them for me until the day of their sentencing. [11]As for those who disobey, show them no mercy, but deliver them up to slaughter and plunder in all the land you occupy. [12]For as I live, and by the strength of my kingdom, what I have spoken I will accomplish by my own hand. [13]Do not disobey a single one of the orders of your lord; fulfill them exactly as I have commanded you, and do it without delay."

Campaigns of Holofernes. [14]So Holofernes left the presence of his lord, and summoned all the commanders, generals, and officers of the Assyrian forces. [15]He mustered one hundred and twenty thousand picked troops, as his lord had commanded, and twelve thousand mounted archers, [16]and drew them up as a vast force organized for battle. [17]He took along a very large number of camels, donkeys, and mules for carrying their supplies; innumerable sheep, cattle, and goats for their food; [18]abundant provisions for each man, and much gold and silver from the royal palace.

[19]Then he and all his forces set out on their expedition in advance of King Nebuchadnezzar, to overrun all the lands of the western region with their chariots, cavalry, and picked infantry. [20]A huge, irregular force, too many to count, like locusts, like the dust of the earth, went along with them.

[21]After a three-day march from Nineveh, they reached the plain of Bectileth, and camped opposite Bectileth near the mountains to the north of Upper Cilicia. [22]From there Holofernes took all his forces, the infantry, cavalry, and chariots, and marched into the hill country. [23]He devastated Put and Lud, and plundered all the Rassisites and the Ishmaelites on the border of the wilderness toward the south of the Chelleans.

[24]Then, following the Euphrates, he went through Mesopotamia, and battered down every fortified city along the Wadi Abron, until he reached the sea. [25]He seized the territory of Cilicia, and cut down everyone who resisted him. Then he proceeded to the southern borders of Japheth, toward Arabia. [26]He surrounded all the Midianites, burned their tents, and sacked their encampments. [27]Descending to the plain of Damascus at the time of the wheat harvest, he set fire to all their fields, destroyed their flocks and herds, looted their cities, devastated their plains, and put all their young men to the sword.

[28]Fear and dread of him fell upon all the inhabitants of the coastland, upon those in Sidon and Tyre, and those who dwelt in Sur and Ocina, and the inhabitants of Jamnia. Those in Azotus and Ascalon also feared him greatly.

Submission of the Vassal Nations. 3:1 So they sent messengers to him to sue for peace in these words: [2]"We, the servants of Nebuchadnezzar the great king, lie prostrate before you; do with us as you will. [3]See, our dwellings and all our land and every wheat field, our flocks and herds, and all our encampments are at your disposal; make use of them as you please. [4]Our cities and their inhabitants are also at your service; come and deal with them as you see fit."

[5]After the spokesmen had reached Holofernes and given him this message, [6]he went down with his forces to the seacoast, stationed garrisons in the fortified cities, and took selected men from them as auxiliaries. [7]The people of these cities and all the inhabitants of the countryside received him with garlands and dancing to the sound of timbrels. [8]But he devastated their whole territory and cut down their sacred groves, for he was allowed to destroy all the gods of the land, so that every nation might worship only Nebuchadnezzar, and all their tongues and tribes should invoke him as a god. [9]At length Holofernes reached Esdraelon in the neighborhood of Dothan, the approach to the main ridge of the Judean mountains; [10]he set up his camp between Geba and Scythopolis, and stayed there a whole month to replenish all the supplies of his forces.

The Healing of Two Blind Men. 20:29 As they left Jericho, a great crowd followed him. [30]Two blind men were sitting by the roadside, and when they heard that Jesus was passing by, they cried out, "[Lord,] Son of David, have pity on us!" [31]The crowd warned them to be silent, but they called out all the more, "Lord, Son of David, have pity on us!" [32]Jesus stopped and called them and said, "What do you want me to do for you?" [33]They answered him, "Lord, let our eyes be opened." [34]Moved with pity, Jesus touched their eyes. Immediately they received their sight, and followed him.

Israel Prepares for War. 4:1 When the Israelites who lived in Judea heard of all that Holofernes, the ranking general of Nebuchadnezzar king of the Assyrians, had done to the nations, and how he had looted all their shrines and utterly destroyed them, [2]they were in very great fear of him, and greatly alarmed for Jerusalem and the temple of the Lord, their God. [3]Now, they had only recently returned from exile, and all the people of Judea were just now reunited, and the vessels, the altar, and the temple had been purified from profanation. [4]So they sent word to the whole region of Samaria, to Kona, Beth-horon, Belmain, and Jericho, to Choba and Aesora, and to the valley of Salem. [5]The people there secured all the high hilltops, fortified the villages on them, and since their fields had recently been harvested, stored up provisions in preparation for war.

[6]Joakim, who was high priest in Jerusalem in those days, wrote to the inhabitants of Bethulia and Betomesthaim, which is opposite Esdraelon, facing the plain near Dothan, [7]and instructed them to keep firm hold of the mountain passes, since these offered access to Judea. It would be easy to stop those advancing, as the approach was only wide enough for two at a time. [8]The Israelites carried out the orders given them by Joakim, the high priest, and the senate of the whole people of Israel, in session in Jerusalem.

Israel at Prayer. [9]All the men of Israel cried to God with great fervor and humbled themselves. [10]They, along with their wives, and children, and domestic animals, every resident alien, hired worker, and purchased slave, girded themselves with sackcloth. [11]And all the Israelite men, women, and children who lived in Jerusalem fell prostrate in front of the temple and sprinkled ashes on their heads, spreading out their sackcloth before the Lord. [12]The altar, too, they draped in sackcloth; and with one accord they cried out fervently to the God of Israel not to allow their children to be seized, their wives to be taken captive, the cities of their inheritance to be ruined, or the sanctuary to be profaned and mocked for the nations to gloat over.

[13]The Lord heard their cry and saw their distress. The people continued fasting for many days throughout Judea and before the sanctuary of the Lord Almighty in Jerusalem. [14]Also girded with sackcloth, Joakim, the high priest, and all the priests in attendance before the Lord, and those who ministered to the Lord offered the daily burnt offering, the votive offerings, and the voluntary offerings of the people. [15]With ashes upon their turbans, they cried to the Lord with all their strength to look with favor on the whole house of Israel.

Achior in the Assyrian War Council. 5:1 It was reported to Holofernes, the ranking general of the Assyrian forces, that the Israelites were ready for battle, had blocked the mountain passes, fortified the high hilltops, and placed roadblocks in the plains. [2]In great anger he summoned all the rulers of Moab, the governors of Ammon, and all the satraps of the coastland [3]and said to them: "Now tell me, you Canaanites, what sort of people is this that lives in the hill country? Which cities do they inhabit? How large is their force? In what does their power and strength consist? Who has set himself up as their king and the leader of their army? [4]Why have they alone of all the inhabitants of the west refused to come out to meet me?"

[5]Then Achior, the leader of all the Ammonites, said to him: "My lord, please listen to a report from your servant. I will tell you the truth about this people that lives in the hill country near here. No lie shall escape your servant's lips.

[6]"These people are descendants of the Chaldeans. [7]They formerly lived in Mesopotamia, for they did not wish to follow the gods of their ancestors who were in the land of the Chaldeans. [8]Since they abandoned the way of their ancestors, and worshiped the God of heaven, the God whom they had come to know, their ancestors expelled them from the presence of their gods. So they fled to Mesopotamia and lived there a long time. [9]Their God told them to leave the place where they were living and go to the land of Canaan. Here they settled, and grew very rich in gold, silver, and a great abundance of livestock. [10]Later, when famine had gripped the land of Canaan, they went down into Egypt. They stayed there as long as they found sustenance and there they grew into such a great multitude that the number of their people could not be counted. [11]The king of Egypt, however, rose up against them, and shrewdly forced them to labor at brickmaking; they were oppressed and made into slaves. [12]But they cried to their God, and he struck the whole land of Egypt with plagues for which there was no remedy. So the Egyptians drove them out. [13]Then God dried up the Red Sea before them [14]and led them along the route to Sinai and Kadesh-barnea. They drove out all the inhabitants of the wilderness [15]and settled in the land of the Amorites. By their strength they destroyed all the Heshbonites, crossed the Jordan, and took possession of all the hill country. [16]They drove out before them the Canaanites, the Perizzites, the Jebusites, the Shechemites, and all the Gergesites, and they lived there a long time.

[17]"As long as the Israelites did not sin in the sight of their God, they prospered, for their God, who hates wickedness, was with them. [18]But when they abandoned the way he had prescribed for them, they were utterly destroyed by frequent wars, and finally taken as captives into foreign lands. The temple of their God was razed to the ground, and their cities were occupied by their enemies. [19]But now they have returned to their God, and they have come back from the Diaspora where they were scattered. They have reclaimed Jerusalem, where their sanctuary is, and have settled again in the hill country, because it was unoccupied.

[20]"So now, my master and lord, if these people are inadvertently at fault, or if they are sinning against their God, and if we verify this offense of theirs, then we will be able to go up and conquer them. [21]But if they are not a guilty nation, then let my lord keep his distance; otherwise their Lord and God will shield them, and we will be mocked in the eyes of all the earth."

[22]Now when Achior had finished saying these things, all the people standing round about the tent murmured; and the officers of Holofernes and all the inhabitants of the seacoast and of Moab alike said he should be cut to pieces. [23]"We are not afraid of the Israelites," they said, "for they are a powerless people, incapable of a strong defense. [24]Therefore let us attack, master Holofernes. They will become fodder for your great army."

6:1 When the noise of the crowd surrounding the council had subsided, Holofernes, the ranking general of the Assyrian forces, said to Achior, in the presence of the whole throng of foreigners, of the Moabites, and of the Ammonite mercenaries: [2]"Who are you, Achior and the mercenaries of Ephraim, to prophesy among us as you have done today, and to tell us not to fight against the people of Israel because their God shields them? Who is God beside Nebuchadnezzar? He will send his force and destroy them from the face of the earth. Their God will not save them; [3]but we, the servants of Nebuchadnezzar, will strike them down with one blow, for they will be unable to withstand the force of our cavalry. [4]We will overwhelm them with it, and their mountains shall be drunk with their blood, and their plains filled with their corpses. Not a trace of them shall survive our attack; they will utterly perish. So says King Nebuchadnezzar, lord of all the earth. For he has spoken, and his words will not be in vain. [5]As for you, Achior, you Ammonite mercenary, for saying these things in a moment of perversity, you will not see my face after today, until I have taken revenge on this people that came out of Egypt. [6]Then at my return, the sword of my army or the spear of my attendants will pierce your sides, and you will fall among their wounded. [7]My servants will now conduct you to the hill country, and leave you at one of the cities beside the passes. [8]You will not die until you are destroyed together with them. [9]If you still harbor the hope that they will not be taken, then there is no need for you to be downcast. I have spoken, and not one of my words will fail to be fulfilled."

[10]Then Holofernes ordered the servants who were standing by in his tent to seize Achior, conduct him to Bethulia, and hand him over to the Israelites. [11]So the servants seized him and took him out of the camp into the plain. From the plain they led him up into the hill country until they reached the springs below Bethulia.

Achior in Bethulia. [14]The Israelites came down from their city and found him, untied him, and brought him into Bethulia. They placed him before the rulers of the city, [15]who in those days were Uzziah, son of Micah of the tribe of Simeon, and Chabris, son of Gothoniel, and Charmis, son of Melchiel. [16]They then convened all the elders of the city, and all their young men, as well as the women, gathered in haste at the place of assembly. They placed Achior in the center of the people, and Uzziah questioned him about what had happened. [17]He replied by giving them an account of what was said in the council of Holofernes, and of all his own words among the Assyrian rulers, and of all the boasting threats of Holofernes against the house of Israel.

[18]At this the people fell prostrate and worshiped God, and they cried out: [19]"Lord, God of heaven, look at their arrogance! Have mercy on our people in their abject state, and look with favor this day on the faces of those who are consecrated to you." [20]Then they reassured Achior and praised him highly. [21]Uzziah brought him from the place of assembly to his home, where he gave a banquet for the elders. That whole night they called upon the God of Israel for help.

The Entry into Jerusalem. 21:1 When they drew near Jerusalem and came to Bethphage on the Mount of Olives, Jesus sent two disciples, [2]saying to them, "Go into the village opposite you, and immediately you will find an ass tethered, and a colt with her. Untie them and bring them here to me. [3]And if anyone should say anything to you, reply, 'The master has need of them.' Then he will send them at once." [4]This happened so that what had been spoken through the prophet might be fulfilled:

[5]"Say to daughter Zion,
'Behold, your king comes to you,
meek and riding on an ass,
and on a colt, the foal of a beast of burden.' "

[6]The disciples went and did as Jesus had ordered them. [7]They brought the ass and the colt and laid their cloaks over them, and he sat upon them. [8]The very large crowd spread their cloaks on the road, while others cut branches from the trees and strewed them on the road. [9]The crowds preceding him and those following kept crying out and saying:

"Hosanna to the Son of David;
blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord;
hosanna in the highest."

[10]And when he entered Jerusalem the whole city was shaken and asked, "Who is this?" [11]And the crowds replied, "This is Jesus the prophet, from Nazareth in Galilee."

The Visitation of the Blessed Virgin Mary to Elizabeth

The Campaign Against Israel. 7:1 The following day Holofernes ordered his whole army, and all the troops who had come to join him, to break camp and move against Bethulia, seize the passes into the hills, and make war on the Israelites. [2]That same day all their fighting men went into action. Their forces numbered a hundred and seventy thousand infantry and twelve thousand cavalry, not counting the baggage train or the men who accompanied it on foot, a very great army. [3]They encamped at the spring in the valley near Bethulia, and spread crosswise toward Dothan as far as Balbaim, and lengthwise from Bethulia to Cyamon, which faces Esdraelon.

[4]When the Israelites saw how many there were, they were greatly distressed and said to one another, "Soon they will strip the whole land bare. Neither the high mountains nor the valleys nor the hills will bear their weight." [5]Yet they all seized their weapons, lighted fires on their towers, and kept watch throughout the night.

The Siege of Bethulia. [6]On the second day Holofernes led out all his cavalry in the sight of the Israelites who were in Bethulia. [7]He reconnoitered the ascents to their city and located their springs of water; these he seized, stationing armed detachments around them, while he himself returned to his troops.

[8]All the rulers of the Edomites, all the leaders of the Moabites, together with the generals of the coastal region, came to Holofernes and said: [9]"Master, please listen to what we have to say, that there may be no losses among your forces.
[10]These Israelite troops do not rely on their spears, but on the height of the mountains where they dwell, for it is not easy to reach the summit of their mountains. [11]Therefore, master, do not attack them in regular formation, and not a single one of your troops will fall. [12]Stay in your camp, and spare every man of your force. Have some of your servants keep control of the spring of water that flows out at the base of the mountain, [13]for that is where the inhabitants of Bethulia get their water. Then thirst will destroy them, and they will surrender their city. Meanwhile, we and our troops will go up to the nearby hilltops and encamp there to guard against anyone's leaving the city. [14]They and their wives and children will languish with hunger, and even before the sword strikes them they will be laid low in the streets where they live. [15]Thus you will render them dire punishment for their rebellion and their refusal to meet you peacefully."

[16]Their words pleased Holofernes and all his attendants, and he ordered their proposal to be carried out. [17]So the Ammonites moved camp, together with five thousand Assyrians. They encamped in the valley and held the water supply and the springs of the Israelites. [18]The Edomites and the Ammonites went up and encamped in the hill country opposite Dothan; and they sent some of their men to the southeast opposite Egrebel, near Chusi, which is on Wadi Mochmur.
The rest of the Assyrian army was encamped in the plain, covering all the land. Their tents and equipment were spread out in profusion everywhere, and they formed a vast multitude.

The Distress of the Israelites. [19]The Israelites cried to the Lord, their God, for they were disheartened, since all their enemies had them surrounded, and there was no way of escaping from them. [20]The whole Assyrian army, infantry, chariots, and cavalry, kept them thus surrounded for thirty-four days. All the reservoirs of water failed the inhabitants of Bethulia, [21]and the cisterns ran dry, so that on no day did they have enough water to drink, for their drinking water was rationed. [22]Their children were listless, and the women and youths were fainting from thirst and were collapsing in the streets and gateways of the city, with no strength left in them.

[23]So all the people, including youths, women, and children, went in a crowd to Uzziah and the rulers of the city.
They cried out loudly and said before all the elders: [24]"May God judge between you and us! You have done us grave injustice in not making peace with the Assyrians. [25]There is no one to help us now! God has sold us into their hands by laying us prostrate before them in thirst and utter exhaustion. [26]So now, summon them and deliver the whole city as plunder to the troops of Holofernes and to all his forces; [27]we would be better off to become their prey. Although we would be made slaves, at least we would live, and not have to see our little ones dying before our eyes, and our wives and children breathing their last. [28]We adjure you by heaven and earth and by our God, the Lord of our ancestors, who is punishing us for our sins and the sins of our ancestors, that this very day you do as we have proposed."

[29]All in the assembly with one accord broke into shrill wailing and cried loudly to the Lord their God. [30]But Uzziah said to them, "Courage, my brothers and sisters! Let us endure patiently five days more for the Lord our God to show mercy toward us; for God will not utterly forsake us. [31]But if these days pass and help does not come to us, I will do as you say." [32]Then he dismissed the people. The men returned to their posts on the walls and towers of the city, the women and children went back to their homes. Throughout the city they were in great misery.

Description of Judith. 8:1 Now in those days Judith, daughter of Merari, son of Ox, son of Joseph, son of Oziel, son of Elkiah, son of Ananias, son of Gideon, son of Raphain, son of Ahitub, son of Elijah, son of Hilkiah, son of Eliab, son of Nathanael, son of Salamiel, son of Sarasadai, son of Simeon, son of Israel, heard of this. [2]Her husband, Manasseh, of her own tribe and clan, had died at the time of the barley harvest. [3]While he was supervising those who bound the sheaves in the field, he was overcome by the heat; and he collapsed on his bed and died in Bethulia, his native city. He was buried with his ancestors in the field between Dothan and Balamon. [4]Judith was living as a widow in her home for three years and four months. [5]She set up a tent for herself on the roof of her house, put sackcloth about her waist, and wore widow's clothing. [6]She fasted all the days of her widowhood, except sabbath eves and sabbaths, new moon eves and new moons, feastdays and holidays of the house of Israel. [7]She was beautiful in appearance and very lovely to behold. Her husband, Manasseh, had left her gold and silver, male and female servants, livestock and fields, which she was maintaining. [8]No one had a bad word to say about her, for she feared God greatly.

Judith and the Elders. [9]So when Judith heard of the harsh words that the people, discouraged by their lack of water, had spoken against their ruler, and of all that Uzziah had said to them in reply, swearing that he would hand over the city to the Assyrians at the end of five days, [10]she sent her maid who was in charge of all her things to summon Uzziah, Chabris, and Charmis, the elders of her city. [11]When they came, she said to them: "Listen to me, you rulers of the people of Bethulia. What you said to the people today is not right. You pronounced this oath, made between God and yourselves, and promised to hand over the city to our enemies unless within a certain time the Lord comes to our aid. [12]Who are you to put God to the test today, setting yourselves in the place of God in human affairs? [13]And now it is the Lord Almighty you are putting to the test, but you will never understand anything! [14]You cannot plumb the depths of the human heart or grasp the workings of the human mind; how then can you fathom God, who has made all these things, or discern his mind, or understand his plan?

"No, my brothers, do not anger the Lord our God. [15]For if he does not plan to come to our aid within the five days, he has it equally within his power to protect us at such time as he pleases, or to destroy us in the sight of our enemies. [16]Do not impose conditions on the plans of the Lord our God. God is not like a human being to be moved by threats, nor like a mortal to be cajoled.

[17]"So while we wait for the salvation that comes from him, let us call upon him to help us, and he will hear our cry if it pleases him. [18]For there has not risen among us in recent generations, nor does there exist today, any tribe, or clan, or district, or city of ours that worships gods made by hands, as happened in former days. [19]It was for such conduct that our ancestors were handed over to the sword and to pillage, and fell with great destruction before our enemies. [20]But since we acknowledge no other god but the Lord, we hope that he will not disdain us or any of our people. [21]If we are taken, then all Judea will fall, our sanctuary will be plundered, and God will demand an account from us for their profanation. [22]For the slaughter of our kindred, for the taking of exiles from the land, and for the devastation of our inheritance, he will hold us responsible among the nations. Wherever we are enslaved, we will be a scandal and a reproach in the eyes of our masters. [23]Our servitude will not work to our advantage, but the Lord our God will turn it to disgrace.

[24]"Therefore, my brothers, let us set an example for our kindred. Their lives depend on us, and the defense of the sanctuary, the temple, and the altar rests with us. [25]Besides all this, let us give thanks to the Lord our God for putting us to the test as he did our ancestors. [26]Recall how he dealt with Abraham, and how he tested Isaac, and all that happened to Jacob in Syrian Mesopotamia while he was tending the flocks of Laban, his mother's brother. [27]He has not tested us with fire, as he did them, to try their hearts, nor is he taking vengeance on us. But the Lord chastises those who are close to him in order to admonish them."

[28]Then Uzziah said to her: "All that you have said you have spoken truthfully, and no one can deny your words. [29]For today is not the first time your wisdom has been evident, but from your earliest days all the people have recognized your understanding, for your heart's disposition is right. [30]The people, however, were so thirsty that they forced us to do for them as we have promised, and to bind ourselves by an oath that we cannot break. [31]But now, since you are a devout woman, pray for us that the Lord may send rain to fill up our cisterns. Then we will no longer be fainting from thirst."

[32]Then Judith said to them: "Listen to me! I will perform a deed that will go down from generation to generation among our descendants. [33]Stand at the city gate tonight to let me pass through with my maid; and within the days you have specified before you will surrender the city to our enemies, the Lord will deliver Israel by my hand. [34]You must not inquire into the affair, for I will not tell you what I am doing until it has been accomplished." [35]Uzziah and the rulers said to her, "Go in peace, and may the Lord God go before you to take vengeance upon our enemies!" [36]Then they withdrew from the tent and returned to their posts.

The Prayer of Judith. 9:1 Judith fell prostrate, put ashes upon her head, and uncovered the sackcloth she was wearing. Just as the evening incense was being offered in the temple of God in Jerusalem, Judith cried loudly to the Lord: [2]"Lord, God of my father Simeon, into whose hand you put a sword to take revenge upon the foreigners who had defiled a virgin by violating her, shaming her by uncovering her thighs, and dishonoring her by polluting her womb. You said, 'This shall not be done!' Yet they did it. [3]Therefore you handed over their rulers to slaughter; and you handed over to bloodshed the bed in which they lay deceived, the same bed that had felt the shame of their own deceiving. You struck down the slaves together with their masters, and the masters upon their thrones. [4]Their wives you handed over to plunder, and their daughters to captivity, and all the spoils you divided among your favored children, who burned with zeal for you and in their abhorrence of the defilement of their blood called on you for help. O God, my God, hear me also, a widow.

[5]"It is you who were the author of those events and of what preceded and followed them. The present and the future you have also planned. Whatever you devise comes into being. [6]The things you decide come forward and say, 'Here we are!' All your ways are in readiness, and your judgment is made with foreknowledge.

[7]"Here are the Assyrians, a vast force, priding themselves on horse and chariot, boasting of the power of their infantry, trusting in shield and spear, bow and sling. They do not know that you are the Lord who crushes wars; [8]Lord is your name. Shatter their strength in your might, and crush their force in your wrath. For they have resolved to profane your sanctuary, to defile the tent where your glorious name resides, and to break off the horns of your altar with the sword. [9]See their pride, and send forth your fury upon their heads. Give me, a widow, a strong hand to execute my plan. [10]By the deceit of my lips, strike down slave together with ruler, and ruler together with attendant. Crush their arrogance by the hand of a female.

[11]"Your strength is not in numbers, nor does your might depend upon the powerful. You are God of the lowly, helper of those of little account, supporter of the weak, protector of those in despair, savior of those without hope.

[12]"Please, please, God of my father, God of the heritage of Israel, Master of heaven and earth, Creator of the waters, King of all you have created, hear my prayer! [13]Let my deceitful words wound and bruise those who have planned dire things against your covenant, your holy temple, Mount Zion, and the house your children possess. [14]Make every nation and every tribe know clearly that you are God, the God of all power and might, and that there is no other who shields the people of Israel but you alone."

The Cleansing of the Temple. 21:12 Jesus entered the temple area and drove out all those engaged in selling and buying there. He overturned the tables of the money changers and the seats of those who were selling doves. [13]And he said to them, "It is written:

'My house shall be a house of prayer,'
but you are making it a den of thieves."

[14]The blind and the lame approached him in the temple area, and he cured them. [15]When the chief priests and the scribes saw the wondrous things he was doing, and the children crying out in the temple area, “Hosanna to the Son of David,” they were indignant [16]and said to him, “Do you hear what they are saying?” Jesus said to them, “Yes; and have you never read the text, ‘Out of the mouths of infants and nurslings you have brought forth praise’?” [17]And leaving them, he went out of the city to Bethany, and there he spent the night.

Judith Prepares to Depart. 10:1 As soon as Judith had ceased her prayer to the God of Israel and finished all these words, [2]she rose from the ground. She called her maid and they went down into the house, which she used only on sabbaths and feast days. [3]She took off the sackcloth she had on, laid aside the garments of her widowhood, washed her body with water, and anointed herself with rich ointment. She arranged her hair, put on a diadem, and dressed in the festive attire she had worn while her husband, Manasseh, was living. [4]She chose sandals for her feet, and put on her anklets, bracelets, rings, earrings, and all her other jewelry. Thus she made herself very beautiful, to entice the eyes of all the men who should see her.

[6]Then they went out to the gate of the city of Bethulia and found Uzziah and the elders of the city, Chabris and Charmis, standing there. [7]When they saw Judith transformed in looks and differently dressed, they were very much astounded at her beauty and said to her, [8]"May the God of our ancestors grant you favor and make your design successful, for the glory of the Israelites and the exaltation of Jerusalem." [9]Judith bowed down to God.

Judith and Her Maid Leave Bethulia. Then she said to them, "Order the gate of the city opened for me, that I may go to accomplish the matters we discussed." So they ordered the young men to open the gate for her, as she had requested, [10]and they did so. Then Judith and her maidservant went out. The men of the city kept her in view as she went down the mountain and crossed the valley; then they lost sight of her.

[11]As Judith and her maid walked directly across the valley, they encountered the Assyrian patrol. [12]The men took her in custody and asked her, "To what people do you belong? Where do you come from, and where are you going?" She replied: "I am a daughter of the Hebrews, and I am fleeing from them, because they are about to be delivered up to you as prey. [13]I have come to see Holofernes, the ranking general of your forces, to give him a trustworthy report; in his presence I will show him the way by which he can ascend and take possession of the whole hill country without a single one of his men suffering injury or loss of life."

[14]When the men heard her words and gazed upon her face, which appeared marvelously beautiful to them, they said to her, [15]"By hastening down to see our master, you have saved your life. Now go to his tent; some of us will accompany you to hand you over to him. [16]When you stand before him, have no fear in your heart; give him the report you have given us, and he will treat you well." [17]So they selected a hundred of their men as an escort for her and her maid, and these conducted them to the tent of Holofernes.

[18]As the news of her arrival spread among the tents, a crowd gathered in the camp. They came and stood around her as she waited outside the tent of Holofernes, while he was being informed about her. [19]They marveled at her beauty, regarding the Israelites with wonder because of her, and they said to one another, "Who can despise this people who have such women among them? It is not good to leave one of their men alive, for if any were to be spared they could beguile the whole earth."

Judith Meets Holofernes. [20]Then the guards of Holofernes and all his attendants came out and ushered her into the tent. [21]Holofernes was reclining on his bed under a canopy woven of purple, gold, emeralds, and other precious stones. [22]When they announced her to him, he came out to the front part of the tent, preceded by silver lamps. [23]When Judith came before Holofernes and his attendants, they all marveled at the beauty of her face. She fell prostrate and paid homage to him, but his servants raised her up.

11:1 Then Holofernes said to her: "Take courage, woman! Have no fear in your heart! I have never harmed anyone who chose to serve Nebuchadnezzar, king of all the earth. [2]As for your people who live in the hill country, I would never have raised my spear against them, had they not insulted me. They have brought this upon themselves. [3]But now tell me why you have fled from them and come to us? In any case, you have come to safety. Take courage! Your life is spared tonight and for the future. [4]No one at all will harm you. Rather, you will be well treated, as are the servants of my lord, King Nebuchadnezzar."

[5]Judith answered him: "Listen to the words of your servant, and let your maidservant speak in your presence! I will say nothing false to my lord this night. [6]If you follow the words of your maidservant, God will successfully perform a deed through you, and my lord will not fail to achieve his designs. [7]I swear by the life of Nebuchadnezzar, king of all the earth, and by the power of him who has sent you to guide all living things, that not only do human beings serve him through you; but even the wild animals, and the cattle, and the birds of the air, because of your strength, will live for Nebuchadnezzar and his whole house. [8]Indeed, we have heard of your wisdom and cleverness. The whole earth is aware that you above all others in the kingdom are able, rich in experience, and distinguished in military strategy.

[9]"As for Achior's speech in your council, we have heard it. When the men of Bethulia rescued him, he told them all he had said to you. [10]So then, my lord and master, do not disregard his word, but bear it in mind, for it is true. Indeed our people are not punished, nor does the sword prevail against them, except when they sin against their God. [11]But now their sin has caught up with them, by which they will bring the wrath of their God upon them when they do wrong;
so that my lord will not be repulsed and fail, but death will overtake them. [12]Because their food has given out and all their water is running low, they have decided to kill their animals, and are determined to consume all the things which God in his laws has forbidden them to eat. [13]They have decided that they would use the first fruits of grain and the tithes of wine and oil, which they had consecrated and reserved for the priests who minister in the presence of our God in Jerusalem—things which the people should not so much as touch with their hands. [14]They have sent messengers to Jerusalem to bring back permission from the senate, for even there people have done these things. [15]On the very day when the response reaches them and they act upon it, they will be handed over to you for destruction.

[16]"As soon as I, your servant, learned all this, I fled from them. God has sent me to perform with you such deeds as will astonish people throughout the whole earth who hear of them. [17]Your servant is, indeed, a God-fearing woman, serving the God of heaven night and day. Now I will remain with you, my lord; but each night your servant will go out into the valley and pray to God. He will tell me when they have committed their offenses. [18]Then I will come and let you know, so that you may march out with all your forces, and not one of them will be able to withstand you. [19]I will lead you through the heart of Judea until you come to Jerusalem, and there in its center I will set up your throne. You will drive them like sheep that have no shepherd, and not even a dog will growl at you. This was told to me in advance and announced to me, and I have been sent to tell you."

[20]Her words pleased Holofernes and all his attendants. They marveled at her wisdom and exclaimed, [21]"No other woman from one end of the earth to the other looks so beautiful and speaks so wisely!" [22]Then Holofernes said to her:
"God has done well in sending you ahead of your people, to bring victory to our hands, and destruction to those who have despised my lord. [23]You are not only beautiful in appearance, but you are also eloquent. If you do as you have said, your God will be my God; you will live in the palace of King Nebuchadnezzar and be renowned throughout the whole earth."

12:1 Then he ordered them to lead her into the room where his silver dinnerware was kept, and ordered them to set a table for her with his own delicacies to eat and his own wine to drink. [2]But Judith said, "I cannot eat any of them, because it would be a scandal. Besides, I will have enough with the things I brought with me." [3]Holofernes asked her,
"But if your provisions give out, where can we get more of the same to provide for you? None of your people are with us." [4]Judith answered him, "As surely as you live, my lord, your servant will not use up her supplies before the Lord accomplishes by my hand what he has determined."

[5]Then the attendants of Holofernes led her to her tent, where she slept until the middle of the night. Toward the early morning watch, she rose [6]and sent this message to Holofernes, "Give orders, my lord, to let your servant go out for prayer." [7]So Holofernes ordered his guards not to hinder her. Thus she stayed in the camp three days. Each night she went out to the valley of Bethulia, where she bathed herself at the spring of the camp. [8]After bathing, she prayed to the Lord, the God of Israel, to direct her way for the triumph of her people. [9]Then she returned purified to the tent and remained there until her food was brought to her toward evening.

Judith at the Banquet of Holofernes. [10]On the fourth day Holofernes gave a banquet for his servants alone, to which he did not invite any of the officers. [11]And he said to Bagoas, the eunuch in charge of his personal affairs, "Go and persuade the Hebrew woman in your care to come and to eat and drink with us. [12]It would bring shame on us to be with such a woman without enjoying her. If we do not seduce her, she will laugh at us."

[13]So Bagoas left the presence of Holofernes, and came to Judith and said, "So lovely a maidservant should not be reluctant to come to my lord to be honored by him, to enjoy drinking wine with us, and to act today like one of the Assyrian women who serve in the palace of Nebuchadnezzar." [14]Judith replied, "Who am I to refuse my lord? Whatever is pleasing to him I will promptly do. This will be a joy for me until the day of my death."

[15]So she proceeded to put on her festive garments and all her finery. Meanwhile her servant went ahead and spread out on the ground opposite Holofernes the fleece Bagoas had furnished for her daily use in reclining while eating. [16]Then Judith came in and reclined. The heart of Holofernes was in rapture over her and his passion was aroused. He was burning with the desire to possess her, for he had been biding his time to seduce her from the day he saw her. [17]Holofernes said to her, "Drink and be happy with us!" [18]Judith replied, "I will gladly drink, my lord, for today is the greatest day of my whole life." [19]She then took the things her servant had prepared and ate and drank in his presence. [20]Holofernes, charmed by her, drank a great quantity of wine, more than he had ever drunk on any day since he was born.

Judith Beheads Holofernes. 13:1 When it grew late, his servants quickly withdrew. Bagoas closed the tent from the outside and dismissed the attendants from their master's presence. They went off to their beds, for they were all tired because the banquet had lasted so long. [2]Judith was left alone in the tent with Holofernes, who lay sprawled on his bed, for he was drunk with wine. [3]Judith had ordered her maidservant to stand outside the bedchamber and to wait, as on the other days, for her to come out; she had said she would be going out for her prayer. She had also said this same thing to Bagoas.

[4]When all had departed, and no one, small or great, was left in the bedchamber, Judith stood by Holofernes' bed and prayed silently, "O Lord, God of all might, in this hour look graciously on the work of my hands for the exaltation of Jerusalem. [5]Now is the time for aiding your heritage and for carrying out my design to shatter the enemies who have risen against us." [6]She went to the bedpost near the head of Holofernes, and taking his sword from it, [7]she drew close to the bed, grasped the hair of his head, and said, "Strengthen me this day, Lord, God of Israel!" [8]Then with all her might she struck his neck twice and cut off his head. [9]She rolled his body off the bed and took the canopy from its posts. Soon afterward, she came out and handed over the head of Holofernes to her maid, [10]who put it into her food bag. Then the two went out together for prayer as they were accustomed to do.

Judith and Her Maid Return to Bethulia. They passed through the camp, and skirting that valley, went up the mountain to Bethulia, and approached its gates. [11]From a distance, Judith shouted to the guards at the gates: "Open! Open the gate! God, our God, is with us. Once more he has shown his strength in Israel and his power against the enemy, as he has today!"

Judith Displays the Head of Holofernes. [12]When the citizens heard her voice, they hurried down to their city gate and summoned the elders of the city. [13]All the people, from the least to the greatest, hurriedly assembled, for her return seemed unbelievable. They opened the gate and welcomed the two women. They made a fire for light and gathered around the two. [14]Judith urged them with a loud voice: "Praise God, give praise! Praise God, who has not withdrawn his mercy from the house of Israel, but has shattered our enemies by my hand this very night!" [15]Then she took the head out of the bag, showed it to them, and said: "Here is the head of Holofernes, the ranking general of the Assyrian forces, and here is the canopy under which he lay in his drunkenness. The Lord struck him down by the hand of a female! [16]Yet I swear by the Lord, who has protected me in the way I have walked, that it was my face that seduced Holofernes to his ruin, and that he did not defile me with sin or shame."

[17]All the people were greatly astonished. They bowed down and worshiped God, saying with one accord, "Blessed are you, our God, who today have humiliated the enemies of your people." [18]Then Uzziah said to her, "Blessed are you, daughter, by the Most High God, above all the women on earth; and blessed be the Lord God, the creator of heaven and earth, who guided your blow at the head of the leader of our enemies. [19]Your deed of hope will never be forgotten by those who recall the might of God. [20]May God make this redound to your everlasting honor, rewarding you with blessings, because you risked your life when our people were being oppressed, and you averted our disaster, walking in the straight path before our God." And all the people answered, "Amen! Amen!"

The Cursing of the Fig Tree. 21:18 When he was going back to the city in the morning, he was hungry. [19]Seeing a fig tree by the road, he went over to it, but found nothing on it except leaves. And he said to it, "May no fruit ever come from you again." And immediately the fig tree withered. [20]When the disciples saw this, they were amazed and said, "How was it that the fig tree withered immediately?" [21]Jesus said to them in reply, "Amen, I say to you, if you have faith and do not waver, not only will you do what has been done to the fig tree, but even if you say to this mountain, 'Be lifted up and thrown into the sea,' it will be done. [22]Whatever you ask for in prayer with faith, you will receive."

The Authority of Jesus Questioned. [23]When he had come into the temple area, the chief priests and the elders of the people approached him as he was teaching and said, "By what authority are you doing these things? And who gave you this authority?" [24]Jesus said to them in reply, "I shall ask you one question, and if you answer it for me, then I shall tell you by what authority I do these things. [25]Where was John's baptism from? Was it of heavenly or of human origin?" They discussed this among themselves and said, "If we say 'Of heavenly origin,' he will say to us, 'Then why did you not believe him?' [26]But if we say, 'Of human origin,' we fear the crowd, for they all regard John as a prophet." [27]So they said to Jesus in reply, "We do not know." He himself said to them, "Neither shall I tell you by what authority I do these things."

Judith's Plan of Attack. 14:1 Then Judith said to them: "Listen to me, my brothers and sisters. Take this head and hang it on the parapet of your wall. [2]At daybreak, when the sun rises on the earth, each of you seize your weapons, and let all the able-bodied men rush out of the city under command of a captain, as if about to go down into the valley against the Assyrian patrol, but without going down. [3]The Assyrians will seize their weapons and hurry to their camp to awaken the generals of the army. When they run to the tent of Holofernes and do not find him, panic will seize them, and they will flee before you. [4]Then you and all the other inhabitants of the whole territory of Israel will pursue them and strike them down in their tracks. [5]But before doing this, summon for me Achior the Ammonite, that he may see and recognize the one who despised the house of Israel and sent him here to meet his death."

Achior's Conversion. [6]So they called Achior from the house of Uzziah. When he came and saw the head of Holofernes in the hand of one of the men in the assembly of the people, he collapsed in a faint. [7]Then, after they lifted him up, he threw himself at the feet of Judith in homage, saying: "Blessed are you in every tent of Judah! In every nation, all who hear your name will be struck with terror. [8]But now, tell me all that you did during these days." So Judith told him, in the midst of the people, all that she had done, from the day she left until the time she began speaking to them. [9]When she had finished her account, the people cheered loudly, so that the city resounded with shouts of joy. [10]Now Achior, seeing all that the God of Israel had done, believed firmly in God. He circumcised the flesh of his foreskin and he has been united with the house of Israel to the present day.

Panic in the Assyrian Camp. [11]At daybreak they hung the head of Holofernes on the wall. Then all the Israelite men took up their weapons and went out by groups to the mountain passes. [12]When the Assyrians saw them, they notified their commanders, who, in turn, went to their generals, their division leaders, and all their other leaders. [13]They came to the tent of Holofernes and said to the one in charge of all his things, "Awaken our lord, for the slaves have dared come down against us in battle, to their utter destruction." [14]So Bagoas went in and knocked at the entry of the tent, presuming that Holofernes was sleeping with Judith. [15]When no one answered, he parted the curtains, entered the bedchamber, and found him thrown on the floor dead, with his head gone! [16]He cried out loudly, weeping, groaning, and howling, and tore his garments. [17]Then he entered the tent where Judith had her quarters; and, not finding her, he rushed out to the troops and cried: [18]"The slaves have duped us! One Hebrew woman has brought shame on the house of King Nebuchadnezzar. Look! Holofernes on the ground—without a head!"

[19]When the leaders of the Assyrian forces heard these words, they tore their tunics and were overcome with great distress. Their loud cries and shouts were heard throughout the camp.

15:1 On hearing what had happened, those still in their tents were horrified. [2]Overcome with fear and dread, no one kept ranks any longer. They scattered in all directions, and fled along every path, both through the valley and in the hill country. [3]Those who were stationed in the hill country around Bethulia also took to flight. Then the Israelites, every warrior among them, came charging down upon them.

[4]Uzziah sent messengers to Betomasthaim, to Choba and Kona, and to the whole territory of Israel to report what had happened and to urge them all to attack the enemy and destroy them. [5]On hearing this, all the Israelites, with one accord, attacked them and cut them down as far as Choba. Even those from Jerusalem and the rest of the hill country took part in this, for they too had been notified of the happenings in the camp of their enemy. The Gileadites and the Galileans struck the enemy's flanks with great slaughter, even beyond Damascus and its borders. [6]The remaining people of Bethulia swept down on the camp of the Assyrians, plundered it, and acquired great riches. [7]The Israelites, when they returned from the slaughter, took possession of what was left. Even the towns and villages in the hill country and on the plain got an enormous quantity of spoils, for there was a tremendous amount of it.

Israel Celebrates Judith's Victory. [8]Then the high priest Joakim and the senate of the Israelites who lived in Jerusalem came to see for themselves the good things that the Lord had done for Israel, and to meet and congratulate Judith. [9]When they came to her, all with one accord blessed her, saying:

"You are the glory of Jerusalem!
You are the great pride of Israel!
You are the great boast of our nation!
[10]By your own hand you have done all this.
You have done good things for Israel,
and God is pleased with them.
May the Almighty Lord bless you forever!"

And all the people said, "Amen!"

[11]For thirty days all the people plundered the camp, giving Judith the tent of Holofernes, with all his silver, his beds, his dishes, and all his furniture. She took them and loaded her mule, hitched her carts, and loaded these things on them.

[12]All the women of Israel gathered to see her, and they blessed her and performed a dance in her honor. She took branches in her hands and distributed them to the women around her, [13]and she and the other women crowned themselves with olive leaves. Then, at the head of all the people, she led the women in the dance, while the men of Israel followed, bearing their weapons, wearing garlands and singing songs of praise. [14]Judith led all Israel in this song of thanksgiving, and the people loudly sang this hymn of praise:

16:1 And Judith sang:

"Strike up a song to my God with tambourines,
sing to the Lord with cymbals; Improvise for him a new song,

exalt and acclaim his name.
[2]For the Lord is a God who crushes wars;
he sets his encampment among his people;
he delivered me from the hands of my pursuers.

[3]"The Assyrian came from the mountains of the north,
with myriads of his forces he came;
Their numbers blocked the wadis,
their cavalry covered the hills.
[4]He threatened to burn my territory,
put my youths to the sword,
Dash my infants to the ground,
seize my children as plunder.
And carry off my virgins as spoil.

[5]"But the Lord Almighty thwarted them,
by the hand of a female!
[6]Not by youths was their champion struck down,
nor did Titans bring him low,
nor did tall giants attack him;
But Judith, the daughter of Merari,
by the beauty of her face brought him down.
[7]She took off her widow's garb
to raise up the afflicted in Israel.
She anointed her face with fragrant oil;
[8]fixed her hair with a diadem,
and put on a linen robe to beguile him.
[9]Her sandals ravished his eyes,
her beauty captivated his mind,
the sword cut through his neck!

[10]"The Persians trembled at her boldness,
the Medes were daunted at her daring.
[11]When my lowly ones shouted,
and my weak ones cried out,
The enemy was terrified,
screamed and took to flight.
[12]Sons of maidservants pierced them through;
wounded them like deserters' children.
They perished before the ranks of my Lord.

[13]"I will sing a new song to my God.
O Lord, great are you and glorious,
marvelous in power and unsurpassable.
[14]Let your every creature serve you;
for you spoke, and they were made.
You sent forth your spirit, and it created them;
no one can resist your voice.
[15]For the mountains to their bases
are tossed with the waters;
the rocks, like wax, melt before your glance.

"But to those who fear you,
you will show mercy.
16Though the sweet fragrance of every sacrifice is a trifle,
and the fat of all burnt offerings but little in your sight,
one who fears the Lord is forever great.

17"Woe to the nations that rise against my people!
the Lord Almighty will requite them;
in the day of judgment he will punish them:
He will send fire and worms into their flesh,
and they will weep and suffer forever."

18When they arrived at Jerusalem, they worshiped God. As soon as the people were purified, they offered their burnt offerings, voluntary offerings, and donations. 19Judith dedicated to God all the things of Holofernes that the people had given her, putting under the ban the canopy that she herself had taken from his bedchamber. 20For three months the people continued their celebration in Jerusalem before the sanctuary, and Judith remained with them.

The Renown and Death of Judith. 21When those days were over, all of them returned to their inheritance. Judith went back to Bethulia and remained on her estate. For the rest of her life she was renowned throughout the land. 22Many wished to marry her, but she gave herself to no man all the days of her life from the time her husband, Manasseh, died and was gathered to his people. 23Her fame continued to increase, and she lived in the house of her husband, reaching the advanced age of one hundred and five. She set her maid free. And when she died in Bethulia, they buried her in the cave of her husband, Manasseh; 24and the house of Israel mourned her for seven days. Before she died, she distributed her property to the relatives of her husband, Manasseh, and to her own relatives.

25During the lifetime of Judith and for a long time after her death, no one ever again spread terror among the Israelites.

☐ MATTHEW 21:28-46

The Parable of the Two Sons. 21:28 "What is your opinion? A man had two sons. He came to the first and said, 'Son, go out and work in the vineyard today.' 29He said in reply, 'I will not,' but afterwards he changed his mind and went. 30The man came to the other son and gave the same order. He said in reply, 'Yes, sir,' but did not go. 31Which of the two did his father's will?" They answered, "The first." Jesus said to them, "Amen, I say to you, tax collectors and prostitutes are entering the kingdom of God before you. 32When John came to you in the way of righteousness, you did not believe him; but tax collectors and prostitutes did. Yet even when you saw that, you did not later change your minds and believe him.

The Parable of the Tenants. 33"Hear another parable. There was a landowner who planted a vineyard, put a hedge around it, dug a wine press in it, and built a tower. Then he leased it to tenants and went on a journey. 34When vintage time drew near, he sent his servants to the tenants to obtain his produce. 35But the tenants seized the servants and one they beat, another they killed, and a third they stoned. 36Again he sent other servants, more numerous than the first ones, but they treated them in the same way. 37Finally, he sent his son to them, thinking, 'They will respect my son.' 38But when the tenants saw the son, they said to one another, 'This is the heir. Come, let us kill him and acquire his inheritance.' 39They seized him, threw him out of the vineyard, and killed him. 40What will the owner of the vineyard do to those tenants when he comes?" 41They answered him, "He will put those wretched men to a wretched death and lease his vineyard to other tenants who will give him the produce at the proper times." 42Jesus said to them, "Did you never read in the scriptures:

'The stone that the builders rejected
has become the cornerstone;
by the Lord has this been done,
and it is wonderful in our eyes'?

[43]Therefore, I say to you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people that will produce its fruit. [44][The one who falls on this stone will be dashed to pieces; and it will crush anyone on whom it falls.]" [45]When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they knew that he was speaking about them. [46]And although they were attempting to arrest him, they feared the crowds, for they regarded him as a prophet.

Bless the martyrs heartily, that you may be a martyr by intention. Thus, even though you depart this life without persecutor, fire, or lash, you will still be found worthy of the same reward.

Dream of Mordecai. A:1 In the second year of the reign of Ahasuerus the great, on the first day of Nisan, Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, of the tribe of Benjamin, had a dream. [2]He was a Jew residing in the city of Susa, a prominent man who served at the king's court, [3]and one of the captives whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had taken from Jerusalem with Jeconiah, king of Judah.

[4]This was his dream. There was noise and tumult, thunder and earthquake—confusion upon the earth. [5]Two great dragons advanced, both poised for combat. They uttered a mighty cry, [6]and at their cry every nation prepared for war, to fight against the nation of the just. [7]It was a dark and gloomy day. Tribulation and distress, evil and great confusion, lay upon the earth. [8]The whole nation of the just was shaken with fear at the evils to come upon them, and they expected to perish. [9]Then they cried out to God, and from their crying there arose, as though from a tiny spring, a mighty river, a flood of water. [10]The light of the sun broke forth; the lowly were exalted and they devoured the boastful.

[11]Having seen this dream and what God intended to do, Mordecai awoke. He kept it in mind, and tried in every way, until night, to understand its meaning.

Mordecai Thwarts an Assassination. [12]Mordecai lodged in the courtyard with Bigthan and Teresh, two eunuchs of the king who guarded the courtyard. [13]He overheard them plotting, investigated their plans, and discovered that they were preparing to assassinate King Ahasuerus. So he informed the king about them. [14]The king had the two eunuchs questioned and, upon their confession, put to death. [15]Then the king had these things recorded; Mordecai, too, put them into writing. [16]The king also appointed Mordecai to serve at the court, and rewarded him for his actions.

[17]Haman, however, son of Hammedatha, a Bougean, who was held in high honor by the king, sought to harm Mordecai and his people because of the two eunuchs of the king.

The Banquet of Ahasuerus. 1:1 During the reign of Ahasuerus—the same Ahasuerus who ruled over a hundred and twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia— [2]while he was occupying the royal throne in the royal precinct of Susa, [3]in the third year of his reign, he gave a feast for all his officials and ministers: the Persian and Median army officers, the nobles, and the governors of the provinces. [4]For as many as a hundred and eighty days, he displayed the glorious riches of his kingdom and the resplendent wealth of his royal estate.

[5]At the end of this time the king gave a feast of seven days in the garden court of the royal palace for all the people, great and small, who were in the royal precinct of Susa. [6]There were white cotton draperies and violet hangings, held by cords of fine crimson linen from silver rings on marble pillars. Gold and silver couches were on a mosaic pavement, which was of porphyry, marble, mother-of-pearl, and colored stones. [7]Drinks were served in a variety of golden cups, and the royal wine flowed freely, as befitted the king's liberality. [8]By ordinance of the king the drinking was unstinted, for he had instructed all the stewards of his household to comply with the good pleasure of everyone. [9]Queen Vashti also gave a feast for the women in the royal palace of King Ahasuerus.

Refusal of Vashti. [10]On the seventh day, when the king was merry with wine, he instructed Mehuman, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagtha, Zethar, and Carkas, the seven eunuchs who attended King Ahasuerus, [11]to bring Queen Vashti into his presence wearing the royal crown, that he might display her beauty to the populace and the officials, for she was lovely to behold. [12]But Queen Vashti refused to come at the royal order issued through the eunuchs. At this the king's wrath flared up, and he burned with fury. [13]He conferred with the sages who understood the times, because the king's business was conducted in general consultation with lawyers and jurists. [14]He summoned Carshena, Shethar, Admatha, Tarshish, Meres, Marsena, and Memucan, the seven Persian and Median officials who were in the king's personal service and held first rank in the realm, [15]and asked them, "What is to be done by law with Queen Vashti for disobeying the order of King Ahasuerus issued through the eunuchs?"

[16]In the presence of the king and of the officials, Memucan answered: "Queen Vashti has not wronged the king alone, but all the officials and the populace throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus. [17]For the queen's conduct will become known to all the women, and they will look with disdain upon their husbands when it is reported, 'King Ahasuerus commanded that Queen Vashti be ushered into his presence, but she would not come.' [18]This very day the Persian and Median noblewomen who hear of the queen's conduct will recount it to all the royal officials, and disdain and rancor will abound. [19]If it please the king, let an irrevocable royal decree be issued by him and inscribed among the laws of the Persians and Medes, forbidding Vashti to come into the presence of King Ahasuerus and authorizing the king to give her royal dignity to one more worthy than she. [20]Thus, when the decree that the king will issue is published throughout his realm, vast as it is, all wives will honor their husbands, from the greatest to the least."

[21]This proposal pleased the king and the officials, and the king acted on the advice of Memucan. [22]He sent letters to all the royal provinces, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language, to the effect that every man should be lord in his own home.

The Search for a New Queen. 2:1 After this, when King Ahasuerus' wrath had cooled, he thought over what Vashti had done and what had been decreed against her. [2]Then the king's personal attendants suggested: "Let beautiful young virgins be sought for the king. [3]Let the king appoint emissaries in all the provinces of his realm to gather all beautiful young virgins into the harem in the royal precinct of Susa. Under the care of the royal eunuch Hegai, guardian of the women, let cosmetics be given them. [4]Then the young woman who pleases the king shall reign in place of Vashti." This suggestion pleased the king, and he acted accordingly.

[5]There was in the royal precinct of Susa a certain Jew named Mordecai, son of Jair, son of Shimei, son of Kish, a Benjaminite, [6]who had been exiled from Jerusalem with the captives taken with Jeconiah, king of Judah, whom Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had deported. [7]He became foster father to his cousin Hadassah, that is, Esther, when she lost both father and mother. The young woman was beautifully formed and lovely to behold. On the death of her father and mother, Mordecai adopted her as his own daughter.

[8]When the king's order and decree had been proclaimed and many young women brought together to the royal precinct of Susa under the care of Hegai, Esther also was brought in to the royal palace under the care of Hegai, guardian of the women. [9]The young woman pleased him and won his favor. So he promptly furnished her with cosmetics and provisions. Then choosing seven maids for her from the royal palace, he transferred both her and her maids to the best place in the harem. [10]Esther did not reveal her nationality or family, for Mordecai had commanded her not to do so.

[12]After the twelve months' preparation decreed for the women, each one went in turn to visit King Ahasuerus. During this period of beautifying treatment, six months were spent with oil of myrrh, and the other six months with perfumes and cosmetics. [13]Then, when each one was to visit the king, she was allowed to take with her from the harem to the royal palace whatever she chose. [14]She would go in the evening and return in the morning to a second harem under the care of the royal eunuch Shaashgaz, guardian of the concubines. She could not return to the king unless he was pleased with her and had her summoned by name. [15]As for Esther, daughter of Abihail and adopted daughter of his nephew Mordecai, when her turn came to visit the king, she did not ask for anything but what the royal eunuch Hegai, guardian of the women, suggested. And she won the admiration of all who saw her.

Ahasuerus Chooses Esther. [16]Esther was led to King Ahasuerus in his palace in the tenth month, Tebeth, in the seventh year of his reign. [17]The king loved Esther more than all other women, and of all the virgins she won his favor and good will. So he placed the royal crown on her head and made her queen in place of Vashti. [18]Then the king gave a great feast in honor of Esther to all his officials and servants, granting a holiday to the provinces and bestowing gifts with royal generosity.

Mordecai Thwarts an Assassination. [19]As was said, from the time the virgins had been brought together, and while Mordecai was passing his time at the king's gate, [20]Esther had not revealed her family or nationality, because Mordecai had told her not to; and Esther continued to follow Mordecai's instructions, just as she had when she was being brought up by him. [21]During the time that Mordecai spent at the king's gate, Bigthan and Teresh, two of the royal eunuchs who guarded the entrance, became angry and plotted to assassinate King Ahasuerus. [22]When the plot became known to Mordecai, he told Queen Esther, who in turn informed the king in Mordecai's name. [23]The matter was investigated and verified, and both of them were impaled on stakes. This was written in the annals in the king's presence.

Mordecai Refuses to Honor Haman. 3:1 After these events King Ahasuerus promoted Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, to high rank, seating him above all his fellow officials. [2]All the king's servants who were at the royal gate would kneel and bow down to Haman, for that is what the king had ordered in his regard. Mordecai, however, would not kneel and bow down. [3]The king's servants who were at the royal gate said to Mordecai, "Why do you disobey the king's order?" [4]When they had reminded him day after day and he would not listen to them, they informed Haman, to see whether Mordecai's explanation would prevail, since he had told them that he was a Jew.

Haman's Reprisal. [5]When Haman observed that Mordecai would not kneel and bow down to him, he was filled with anger. [6]But he thought it was beneath him to attack only Mordecai. Since they had told Haman of Mordecai's nationality, he sought to destroy all the Jews, Mordecai's people, throughout the realm of King Ahasuerus. [7]In the first month, Nisan, in the twelfth year of King Ahasuerus, the pur, or lot, was cast in Haman's presence to determine the day and the month for the destruction of Mordecai's people on a single day, and the lot fell on the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar.

Decree Against the Jews. [8]Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus: "Dispersed among the nations throughout the provinces of your kingdom, there is a certain people living apart. Their laws differ from those of every other people and they do not obey the laws of the king; so it is not proper for the king to tolerate them. [9]If it please the king, let a decree be issued to destroy them; and I will deliver to the procurators ten thousand silver talents for deposit in the royal treasury." [10]The king took the signet ring from his hand and gave it to Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the enemy of the Jews. [11]The king said to Haman, "The silver is yours, as well as the people, to do with as you please."

[12]So the royal scribes were summoned on the thirteenth day of the first month, and they wrote, at the dictation of Haman, an order to the royal satraps, the governors of every province, and the officials of every people, to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language. It was written in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with the royal signet ring. [13]Letters were sent by couriers to all the royal provinces, to destroy, kill and annihilate all the Jews, young and old, including women and children in one day, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, and to seize their goods as spoil.

B:1 This is a copy of the letter:

"The great King Ahasuerus writes to the satraps of the hundred and twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia, and the governors subordinate to them, as follows: [2]When I came to rule many peoples and to hold sway over the whole world, not being carried away by a sense of my own authority but always acting fairly and with mildness, I determined to provide for my subjects a life of lasting tranquility; and, by making my kingdom civilized and safe for travel to its farthest borders, to restore the peace desired by all people. [3]When I consulted my counselors as to how this might be accomplished, Haman, who excels among us in discretion, who is outstanding for constant good will and steadfast loyalty, and who has gained a place in the kingdom second only to me, [4]brought it to our attention that, mixed among all the nations throughout the world, there is one people of ill will, which by its laws is opposed to every other people and continually disregards the decrees of kings, so that the unity of empire blamelessly designed by us cannot be established.

[5]"Having noted, therefore, that this nation, and it alone, is continually at variance with all people, lives by divergent and alien laws, is inimical to our government, and does all the harm it can to undermine the stability of the kingdom, [6]we hereby decree that all those who are indicated to you in the letters of Haman, who is in charge of the administration and is a second father to us, shall, together with their wives and children, be utterly destroyed by the swords of their enemies, without any pity or mercy, on the fourteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, of the current year; [7]so that when these people, whose present ill will is of long standing, have gone down into Hades by a violent death on a single day, they may leave our government completely stable and undisturbed for the future."

3:14 A copy of the decree to be promulgated as law in every province was published to all the peoples, that they might be prepared for that day. [15]The couriers set out in haste at the king's command; meanwhile, the decree was promulgated in the royal precinct of Susa. The king and Haman then sat down to drink, but the city of Susa was thrown into confusion.

The Parable of the Wedding Feast. 22:1 Jesus again in reply spoke to them in parables, saying, [2]"The kingdom of heaven may be likened to a king who gave a wedding feast for his son. [3]He dispatched his servants to summon the invited guests to the feast, but they refused to come. [4]A second time he sent other servants, saying, 'Tell those invited: "Behold, I have prepared my banquet, my calves and fattened cattle are killed, and everything is ready; come to the feast."' [5]Some ignored the invitation and went away, one to his farm, another to his business. [6]The rest laid hold of his servants, mistreated them, and killed them. [7]The king was enraged and sent his troops, destroyed those murderers, and burned their city. [8]Then he said to his servants, 'The feast is ready, but those who were invited were not worthy to come. [9]Go out, therefore, into the main roads and invite to the feast whomever you find.' [10]The servants went out into the streets and gathered all they found, bad and good alike, and the hall was filled with guests. [11]But when the king came in to meet the guests he saw a man there not dressed in a wedding garment. [12]He said to him, 'My friend, how is it that you came in here without a wedding garment?' But he was reduced to silence. [13]Then the king said to his attendants, 'Bind his hands and feet, and cast him into the darkness outside, where there will be wailing and grinding of teeth.' [14]Many are invited, but few are chosen."

Mordecai Exhorts Esther. 4:1 When Mordecai learned all that was happening, he tore his garments, put on sackcloth and ashes, and went through the city crying out loudly and bitterly, [2]till he came before the royal gate, which no one clothed in sackcloth might enter. [3]Likewise in each of the provinces, wherever the king's decree and law reached, the Jews went into deep mourning, with fasting, weeping, and lament; most of them lay on sackcloth and ashes.

[4]Esther's maids and eunuchs came and told her. Overwhelmed with anguish, the queen sent garments for Mordecai to put on, so that he might take off his sackcloth; but he refused. [5]Esther then summoned Hathach, one of the king's eunuchs whom he had placed at her service, and commanded him to find out what this action of Mordecai meant and the reason for it. [6]So Hathach went out to Mordecai in the public square in front of the royal gate, [7]and Mordecai recounted all that had happened to him, as well as the exact amount of silver Haman had promised to pay to the royal treasury for the slaughter of the Jews. [8]He also gave him a copy of the written decree for their destruction that had been promulgated in Susa, to show and explain to Esther. Hathach was to instruct her to go to the king and to plead and intercede with him on behalf of her people.

[9]Hathach returned to Esther and told her what Mordecai had said. [10]Then Esther replied to Hathach and gave him this message for Mordecai: [11]"All the servants of the king and the people of his provinces know that any man or woman who goes to the king in the inner court without being summoned is subject to the same law—death. Only if the king extends the golden scepter will such a person live. Now as for me, I have not been summoned to the king for thirty days."

[12]When Esther's words were reported to Mordecai, [13]he had this reply brought to her: "Do not imagine that you are safe in the king's palace, you alone of all the Jews. [14]Even if you now remain silent, relief and deliverance will come to the Jews from another source; but you and your father's house will perish. Who knows—perhaps it was for a time like this that you became queen?"

[15]Esther sent back to Mordecai the response: [16]"Go and assemble all the Jews who are in Susa; fast on my behalf, all of you, not eating or drinking night or day for three days. I and my maids will also fast in the same way. Thus prepared, I will go to the king, contrary to the law. If I perish, I perish!" [17]Mordecai went away and did exactly as Esther had commanded.

Prayer of Mordecai. C:1 Recalling all that the Lord had done, Mordecai prayed to the Lord [2]and said: "Lord, Lord, King and Ruler of all, everything is in your power, and there is no one to oppose you when it is your will to save Israel. [3]You made heaven and earth and every wonderful thing under heaven. [4]You are Lord of all, and there is no one who can resist you, the Lord. [5]You know all things. You know, Lord, that it was not out of insolence or arrogance or desire for glory that I acted thus in not bowing down to the arrogant Haman. [6]I would have gladly kissed the soles of his feet for the salvation of Israel. [7]But I acted as I did so as not to place the honor of a mortal above that of God. I will not bow down to anyone but you, my Lord. It is not out of arrogance that I am acting thus. [8]And now, Lord God, King, God of Abraham, spare your people, for our enemies regard us with deadly envy and are bent upon destroying the inheritance that was yours from the beginning. [9]Do not spurn your portion, which you redeemed for yourself out of the land of Egypt. [10]Hear my prayer; have pity on your inheritance and turn our mourning into feasting, that we may live to sing praise to your name, Lord. Do not silence the mouths of those who praise you."

Prayer of Esther. [12]Queen Esther, seized with mortal anguish, fled to the Lord for refuge. [13]Taking off her splendid garments, she put on garments of distress and mourning. In place of her precious ointments she covered her head with dung and ashes. She afflicted her body severely and in place of her festive adornments, her tangled hair covered her.

[14]Then she prayed to the Lord, the God of Israel, saying: "My Lord, you alone are our King. Help me, who am alone and have no help but you, [15]for I am taking my life in my hand. [16]From birth, I have heard among my people that you, Lord, chose Israel from among all nations, and our ancestors from among all their forebears, as a lasting inheritance, and that you fulfilled all your promises to them. [17]But now we have sinned in your sight, and you have delivered us into the hands of our enemies, [18]because we worshiped their gods. You are just, O Lord. [19]But now they are not satisfied with our bitter servitude, but have sworn an oath to their idols [20]to do away with the decree you have pronounced, to destroy your inheritance, to close the mouths of those who praise you, to extinguish the glory of your house and your altar, [21]to open the mouths of the nations to acclaim their worthless gods, and to extol a mortal king forever.

[26]"You know all things. You know that I hate the pomp of the lawless, and abhor the bed of the uncircumcised or of any foreigner. [27]You know that I am under constraint, that I abhor the sign of grandeur that rests on my head when I appear in public. I abhor it like a polluted rag, and do not wear it in private. [28]I, your servant, have never eaten at the table of Haman, nor have I graced the banquet of the king or drunk the wine of libations. [29]From the day I was brought here till now, your servant has had no joy except in you, Lord, God of Abraham. [30]O God, whose power is over all, hear the voice of those in despair. Save us from the power of the wicked, and deliver me from my fear."

Esther Goes to Ahasuerus. D:1 On the third day, ending her prayers, she took off her prayer garments and arrayed herself in her splendid attire. [2]In making her appearance, after invoking the all-seeing God and savior, she took with her two maids; [3]on the one she leaned gently for support, [4]while the other followed her, bearing her train. [5]She glowed with perfect beauty and her face was as joyous as it was lovely, though her heart was pounding with fear. [6]She passed through all the portals till she stood before the king, who was seated on his royal throne, clothed in full robes of state, and covered with gold and precious stones, so that he inspired great awe. [7]As he looked up in extreme anger, his features fiery and majestic, the queen staggered, turned pale and fainted, collapsing against the maid in front of her. [8]But God changed the king's anger to gentleness. In great anxiety he sprang from his throne, held her in his arms until she recovered, and comforted her with reassuring words. [9]"What is it, Esther?" he said to her. "I am your brother. Take courage! [10]You shall not die; this order of ours applies only to our subjects. [11]Come near!" [12]Raising the golden scepter, he touched her neck with it, embraced her, and said, "Speak to me."

[13]She replied: "I saw you, my lord, as an angel of God, and my heart was shaken by fear of your majesty. [14]For you are awesome, my lord, though your countenance is full of mercy." [15]As she said this, she fainted. [16]The king was shaken and all his attendants tried to revive her.

5:1 [Now on the third day, Esther put on her royal garments and stood in the inner courtyard, looking toward the royal palace, while the king was seated on his royal throne in the audience chamber, facing the palace doorway. [2]When he saw Queen Esther standing in the courtyard, she won his favor and he extended toward her the golden scepter he held. She came up to him, and touched the top of the scepter.]

[3]Then the king said to her, "What is it, Queen Esther? What is your request? Even if it is half of my kingdom, it shall be granted you." [4]Esther replied, "If it please your majesty, come today with Haman to a banquet I have prepared." [5]The king ordered, "Have Haman make haste to fulfill the wish of Esther."

First Banquet of Esther. So the king went with Haman to the banquet Esther had prepared. [6]During the drinking of the wine, the king said to Esther, "Whatever you ask for shall be granted, and whatever request you make shall be honored, even if it is for half my kingdom." [7]Esther replied: "This is my petition and request: [8]if I have found favor with the king and if it pleases your majesty to grant my petition and honor my request, let the king come with Haman tomorrow to a banquet I will prepare; and tomorrow I will do as the king asks."

Haman's Plot Against Mordecai. [9]That day Haman left happy and in good spirits. But when he saw that Mordecai at the royal gate did not rise, and showed no fear of him, he was filled with anger toward him. [10]Haman restrained himself, however, and went home, where he summoned his friends and his wife Zeresh. [11]He recounted the greatness of his riches, the large number of his sons, and how the king had promoted him and placed him above the officials and royal servants. [12]"Moreover," Haman added, "Queen Esther invited no one but me to come with the king to the banquet she prepared; again tomorrow I am to be her guest with the king. [13]Yet none of this satisfies me as long as I continue to see the Jew Mordecai sitting at the royal gate." [14]His wife Zeresh and all his friends said to him, "Have a stake set up, fifty cubits in height, and in the morning ask the king to have Mordecai impaled on it. Then go to the banquet with the king in good spirits." This suggestion pleased Haman, and he had the stake erected.

Paying Taxes to the Emperor. 22:15 Then the Pharisees went off and plotted how they might entrap him in speech. [16]They sent their disciples to him, with the Herodians, saying, "Teacher, we know that you are a truthful man and that you teach the way of God in accordance with the truth. And you are not concerned with anyone's opinion, for you do not regard a person's status. [17]Tell us, then, what is your opinion: Is it lawful to pay the census tax to Caesar or not?"

[18]Knowing their malice, Jesus said, “Why are you testing me, you hypocrites? [19]Show me the coin that pays the census tax.” Then they handed him the Roman coin. [20]He said to them, “Whose image is this and whose inscription?” [21]They replied, “Caesar’s.” At that he said to them, “Then repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God.” [22]When they heard this they were amazed, and leaving him they went away.

Mordecai’s Reward from the King. 6:1 That night the king, unable to sleep, asked that the chronicle of notable events be brought in. While this was being read to him, [2]the passage occurred in which Mordecai reported Bigthan and Teresh, two of the royal eunuchs who guarded the entrance, for seeking to assassinate King Ahasuerus. [3]The king asked, “What was done to honor and exalt Mordecai for this?” The king’s attendants replied, “Nothing was done for him.”

[4]“Who is in the court?” the king asked. Now Haman had entered the outer court of the king’s palace to suggest to the king that Mordecai should be impaled on the stake he had raised for him. [5]The king’s attendants answered him, “Haman is waiting in the court.” The king said, “Let him come in.” [6]When Haman entered, the king said to him, “What should be done for the man whom the king wishes to reward?” Now Haman thought to himself, “Whom would the king wish to honor more than me?” [7]So he replied to the king: “For the man whom the king wishes to honor [8]there should be brought the royal robe the king wore and the horse the king rode with the royal crest placed on its head. [9]The robe and the horse should be given to one of the noblest of the king’s officials, who must clothe the man the king wishes to reward, have him ride on the horse in the public square of the city, and cry out before him, ‘This is what is done for the man whom the king wishes to honor!’ ” [10]Then the king said to Haman: “Hurry! Take the robe and horse as you have proposed, and do this for the Jew Mordecai, who is sitting at the royal gate. Do not omit anything you proposed.” [11]So Haman took the robe and horse, clothed Mordecai, had him ride in the public square of the city, and cried out before him, “This is what is done for the man whom the king wishes to honor!”

[12]Mordecai then returned to the royal gate, while Haman hurried home grieving, with his head covered. [13]When he told his wife Zeresh and all his friends everything that had happened to him, his advisers and his wife Zeresh said to him, “If Mordecai, before whom you are beginning to fall, is of Jewish ancestry, you will not prevail against him, but will surely be defeated by him.”

Esther’s Second Banquet. [14]While they were speaking with him, the king’s eunuchs arrived and hurried Haman off to the banquet Esther had prepared.

7:1 So the king and Haman went to the banquet with Queen Esther. [2]Again, on this second day, as they were drinking wine, the king said to Esther, “Whatever you ask, Queen Esther, shall be granted you. Whatever request you make, even for half the kingdom, shall be honored.” [3]Queen Esther replied: “If I have found favor with you, O king, and if it pleases your majesty, I ask that my life be spared, and I beg that you spare the lives of my people. [4]For we have been sold, I and my people, to be destroyed, killed, and annihilated. If we were only to be sold into slavery I would remain silent, for then our distress would not have been worth troubling the king.” [5]King Ahasuerus said to Queen Esther, “Who and where is the man who has dared to do this?” [6]Esther replied, “The enemy oppressing us is this wicked Haman.” At this, Haman was seized with dread of the king and queen.

7The king left the banquet in anger and went into the garden of the palace, but Haman stayed to beg Queen Esther for his life, since he saw that the king had decided on his doom. 8When the king returned from the palace garden to the banquet hall, Haman had thrown himself on the couch on which Esther was reclining; and the king exclaimed, "Will he also violate the queen while she is with me in my own house!" Scarcely had the king spoken when the face of Haman was covered over.

Punishment of Haman. 9Harbona, one of the eunuchs who attended the king, said, "At the house of Haman stands a stake fifty cubits high. Haman made it for Mordecai, who gave the report that benefited the king." The king answered,
"Impale him on it." 10So they impaled Haman on the stake he had set up for Mordecai, and the anger of the king abated.

8:1 That day King Ahasuerus gave the house of Haman, enemy of the Jews, to Queen Esther; and Mordecai was admitted to the king's presence, for Esther had revealed his relationship to her. 2The king removed his signet ring that he had taken away from Haman, and gave it to Mordecai; and Esther put Mordecai in charge of the house of Haman.

The Second Royal Decree. 3Esther again spoke to the king. She fell at his feet and tearfully implored him to revoke the harm done by Haman the Agagite and the plan he had devised against the Jews. 4The king stretched forth the golden scepter to Esther. So she rose and, standing before him, 5said: "If it seems good to the king and if I have found favor with him, if the thing seems right to the king and I am pleasing in his eyes, let a document be issued to revoke the letters that the schemer Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, wrote for the destruction of the Jews in all the royal provinces. 6For how can I witness the evil that is to befall my people, and how can I behold the destruction of my kindred?"

7King Ahasuerus then said to Queen Esther and to the Jew Mordecai: "Now that I have given Esther the house of Haman, and they have impaled him on the stake because he was going to attack the Jews, 8you in turn may write in the king's name what you see fit concerning the Jews and seal the letter with the royal signet ring." For a decree written in the name of the king and sealed with the royal signet ring cannot be revoked.

9At that time, on the twenty-third day of the third month, Sivan, the royal scribes were summoned. Exactly as Mordecai dictated, they wrote to the Jews and to the satraps, governors, and officials of the hundred and twenty-seven provinces from India to Ethiopia: to each province in its own script and to each people in its own language, and to the Jews in their own script and language. 10These letters, which he wrote in the name of King Ahasuerus and sealed with the royal signet ring, he sent by mounted couriers riding thoroughbred royal steeds. 11In these letters the king authorized the Jews in each and every city to gather and defend their lives, to destroy, kill, and annihilate every armed group of any nation or province that might attack them, along with their wives and children, and to seize their goods as spoil 12on a single day throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar.

E:1 The following is a copy of the letter:

"The great King Ahasuerus to the governors of the provinces in the hundred and twenty-seven satrapies from India to Ethiopia, and to those who are loyal to our government: Greetings!

2"Many have become more ambitious the more they were showered with honors through the bountiful generosity of their patrons. 3Not only do they seek to do harm to our subjects but, incapable of dealing with such greatness, they even begin plotting against their own benefactors. 4Not only do they drive out gratitude from among humankind but, with the arrogant boastfulness of those to whom goodness has no meaning, they suppose they will escape the stern judgment of the all-seeing God.

5"Often, too, the fair speech of friends entrusted with the administration of affairs has induced many placed in authority to become accomplices in the shedding of innocent blood, and has involved them in irreparable calamities 6by deceiving with malicious slander the sincere good will of rulers. 7This can be verified in the ancient stories that have been handed down to us, but more fully when you consider the wicked deeds perpetrated in your midst by the pestilential influence of those undeserving of authority. 8We must provide for the future, so as to render the kingdom undisturbed and peaceful for all people, 9taking advantage of changing conditions and always deciding matters coming to our attention with equitable treatment.

10"For instance, Haman, son of Hammedatha, a Macedonian, certainly not of Persian blood, and very different from us in generosity, was hospitably received by us. 11He benefited so much from the good will we have toward all peoples that he was proclaimed 'our father,' before whom everyone was to bow down; and he attained a position second only to the royal throne. 12But, unable to control his arrogance, he strove to deprive us of kingdom and of life, 13and by weaving intricate webs of deceit he demanded the destruction of Mordecai, our savior and constant benefactor, and of Esther, our blameless royal consort, together with their whole nation. [14]For by such measures he hoped to catch us defenseless and to transfer the rule of the Persians to the Macedonians. [15]But we find that the Jews, who were doomed to extinction by this archcriminal, are not evildoers, but rather are governed by very just laws [16]and are the children of the Most High, the living God of majesty, who has maintained the kingdom in a flourishing condition for us and for our forebears.

[17]"You will do well, then, to ignore the letter sent by Haman, son of Hammedatha, [18]for he who composed it has been impaled, together with his entire household, before the gates of Susa. Thus swiftly has God, who governs all, brought just punishment upon him.

[19]"You shall exhibit a copy of this letter publicly in every place to certify that the Jews may follow their own laws [20]and that you may help them on the day set for their ruin, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, to defend themselves against those who attack them. [21]For God, the ruler of all, has turned that day from one of destruction of the chosen people into one of joy for them. [22]Therefore, you too must celebrate this memorable day among your designated feasts with all rejoicing, [23]so that both now and in the future it may be a celebration of deliverance for us and for Persians of good will, but for those who plot against us a reminder of destruction.

[24]"Every city and province without exception that does not observe this decree shall be ruthlessly destroyed with fire and sword, so that it will be left not merely untrodden by people, but even shunned by wild beasts and birds forever."

8:13 A copy of the letter to be promulgated as law in each and every province was published among all the peoples, so that the Jews might be prepared on that day to avenge themselves on their enemies. [14]Couriers mounted on royal steeds sped forth in haste at the king's order, and the decree was promulgated in the royal precinct of Susa.

[15]Mordecai left the king's presence clothed in a royal robe of violet and of white cotton, with a large crown of gold and a mantle of fine crimson linen. The city of Susa shouted with joy, [16]and for the Jews there was splendor and gladness, joy and triumph. [17]In each and every province and in each and every city, wherever the king's order arrived, there was merriment and joy, banqueting and feasting for the Jews. And many of the peoples of the land identified themselves as Jews, for fear of the Jews fell upon them.

The Question about the Resurrection. 22:23 On that day Sadducees approached him, saying that there is no resurrection. They put this question to him, [24]saying, "Teacher, Moses said, 'If a man dies without children, his brother shall marry his wife and raise up descendants for his brother.' [25]Now there were seven brothers among us. The first married and died and, having no descendants, left his wife to his brother. [26]The same happened with the second and the third, through all seven. [27]Finally the woman died. [28]Now at the resurrection, of the seven, whose wife will she be? For they all had been married to her." [29]Jesus said to them in reply, "You are misled because you do not know the scriptures or the power of God. [30]At the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage but are like the angels in heaven. [31]And concerning the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God, [32]'I am the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob'? He is not the God of the dead but of the living." [33]When the crowds heard this, they were astonished at his teaching.

The Massacre Reversed. 9:1 When the day arrived on which the order decreed by the king was to be carried out, the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, Adar, on which the enemies of the Jews had expected to overpower them, the situation was reversed: the Jews overpowered those who hated them. [2]The Jews mustered in their cities throughout the provinces of King Ahasuerus to attack those who sought to do them harm, and no one could withstand them, for fear of them fell upon all the peoples. [3]Moreover, all the officials of the provinces, the satraps, governors, and royal procurators supported the Jews out of fear of Mordecai; [4]for Mordecai was powerful in the royal palace, and the report was spreading through all the provinces that he was continually growing in power.

[5]The Jews struck down all their enemies with the sword, killing and destroying them; they did to those who hated them as they pleased. [6]In the royal precinct of Susa, the Jews killed and destroyed five hundred people. [7]They also killed Parshandatha, Dalphon, Aspatha, [8]Poratha, Adalia, Aridatha, [9]Parmashta, Arisai, Aridai, and Vaizatha, [10]the ten sons of Haman, son of Hammedatha, the foe of the Jews. However, they did not engage in plundering.

[11]On the same day, when the number of those killed in the royal precinct of Susa was reported to the king, [12]he said to Queen Esther: "In the royal precinct of Susa the Jews have killed and destroyed five hundred people, as well as the ten sons of Haman. What must they have done in the other royal provinces! You shall again be granted whatever you ask, and whatever you request shall be honored." [13]So Esther said, "If it pleases your majesty, let the Jews in Susa be permitted again tomorrow to act according to today's decree, and let the ten sons of Haman be impaled on stakes." [14]The king then gave an order that this be done, and the decree was published in Susa. So the ten sons of Haman were impaled, [15]and the Jews in Susa mustered again on the fourteenth of the month of Adar and killed three hundred people in Susa. However, they did not engage in plundering.

[16]The other Jews, who dwelt in the royal provinces, also mustered and defended themselves, and obtained rest from their enemies. They killed seventy-five thousand of those who hated them, but they did not engage in plunder. [17]This happened on the thirteenth day of the month of Adar.

The Feast of Purim. On the fourteenth of the month they rested, and made it a day of feasting and rejoicing.

[18]The Jews in Susa, however, mustered on the thirteenth and fourteenth of the month. But on the fifteenth they rested, and made it a day of joyful banqueting. [19]That is why the rural Jews, who dwell in villages, celebrate the fourteenth of the month of Adar as a day of joyful banqueting, a holiday on which they send food to one another.

[20]Mordecai recorded these events and sent letters to all the Jews, both near and far, in all the provinces of King Ahasuerus. [21]He ordered them to celebrate every year both the fourteenth and the fifteenth of the month of Adar [22]as the days on which the Jews obtained rest from their enemies and as the month which was turned for them from sorrow into joy, from mourning into celebration. They were to observe these days with joyful banqueting, sending food to one another and gifts to the poor. [23]The Jews adopted as a custom what they had begun doing and what Mordecai had written to them.

Summary of the Story. [24]Haman, son of Hammedatha the Agagite, the foe of all the Jews, had planned to destroy them and had cast the pur, or lot, for the time of their defeat and destruction. [25]Yet, when the plot became known to the king, the king ordered in writing that the wicked plan Haman had devised against the Jews should instead be turned against Haman and that he and his sons should be impaled on stakes. [26]And so these days have been named Purim after the word pur.

Thus, because of all that was contained in this letter, and because of what they had witnessed and experienced in this event, [27]the Jews established and adopted as a custom for themselves, their descendants, and all who should join them, the perpetual obligation of celebrating these two days every year in the manner prescribed by this letter, and at the time appointed. [28]These days were to be commemorated and kept in every generation, by every clan, in every province, and in every city. These days of Purim were never to be neglected among the Jews, nor forgotten by their descendants.

Esther and Mordecai Act in Concert. [29]Queen Esther, daughter of Abihail, and Mordecai the Jew, wrote to confirm with full authority this second letter about Purim, [30]and Mordecai sent documents concerning peace and security to all the Jews in the hundred and twenty-seven provinces of Ahasuerus' kingdom. [31]Thus were established, for their appointed time, these days of Purim which Mordecai the Jew and Queen Esther had designated for the Jews, just as they had previously enjoined upon themselves and upon their descendants the duty of fasting and supplication. [32]The command of Esther confirmed these prescriptions for Purim and was recorded in the book.

The Rise of Mordecai Completed. 10:1 King Ahasuerus levied a tax on the land and on the islands of the sea. [2]All the acts of his power and valor, as well as a detailed account of the greatness of Mordecai, whom the king promoted, are recorded in the chronicles of the kings of Media and Persia. [3]The Jew Mordecai was next in rank to King Ahasuerus, in high standing among the Jews, popular with many of his kindred, seeking the good of his people and speaking out on behalf of the welfare of all its descendants.

Mordecai's Dream Fulfilled. F:1 Then Mordecai said: "This is the work of God. [2]I recall the dream I had about these very things, and not a single detail has been left unfulfilled— [3]the tiny spring that grew into a river, and there was light, and sun, and many waters. The river is Esther, whom the king married and made queen. [4]The two dragons are myself and Haman. [5]The nations are those who assembled to destroy the name of the Jews, [6]but my people is Israel, who cried to God and was saved.

"The Lord saved his people and delivered us from all these evils. God worked signs and great wonders, such as have not occurred among the nations. [7]For this purpose he arranged two lots: one for the people of God, the second for all the other nations. [8]These two lots were fulfilled in the hour, the time, and the day of judgment before God and among all the nations. [9]God remembered his people and rendered justice to his inheritance.

Colophon. [11]In the fourth year of the reign of Ptolemy and Cleopatra, Dositheus, who said he was a priest and Levite, and his son Ptolemy brought the present letter of Purim, saying that it was genuine and that Lysimachus, son of Ptolemy, of the community of Jerusalem, had translated it.

☐ MATTHEW 22:34-46

The Greatest Commandment. 22:34 When the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together, [35]and one of them [a scholar of the law] tested him by asking, [36]"Teacher, which commandment in the law is the greatest?" [37]He said to him, "You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind. [38]This is the greatest and the first commandment. [39]The second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself. [40]The whole law and the prophets depend on these two commandments."

The Question about David's Son. [41]While the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus questioned them, [42]saying, "What is your opinion about the Messiah? Whose son is he?" They replied, "David's." [43]He said to them, "How, then, does David, inspired by the Spirit, call him 'lord,' saying:

> [44]'The Lord said to my lord,
> "Sit at my right hand
> until I place your enemies under your feet"'?

[45]If David calls him 'lord,' how can he be his son?" [46]No one was able to answer him a word, nor from that day on did anyone dare to ask him any more questions.

☐ 1 MACCABEES 1-2

From Alexander to Antiochus. 1:1 After Alexander the Macedonian, Philip's son, who came from the land of Kittim, had defeated Darius, king of the Persians and Medes, he became king in his place, having first ruled in Greece. [2]He fought many battles, captured fortresses, and put the kings of the earth to death. [3]He advanced to the ends of the earth, gathering plunder from many nations; the earth fell silent before him, and his heart became proud and arrogant. [4]He collected a very strong army and won dominion over provinces, nations, and rulers, and they paid him tribute.

[5]But after all this he took to his bed, realizing that he was going to die. [6]So he summoned his noblest officers, who had been brought up with him from his youth, and divided his kingdom among them while he was still alive. [7]Alexander had reigned twelve years when he died.

[8]So his officers took over his kingdom, each in his own territory, [9]and after his death they all put on diadems, and so did their sons after them for many years, multiplying evils on the earth.

Lawless Jews. [11]In those days there appeared in Israel transgressors of the law who seduced many, saying: "Let us go and make a covenant with the Gentiles all around us; since we separated from them, many evils have come upon us." [12]The proposal was agreeable; [13]some from among the people promptly went to the king, and he authorized them to introduce the ordinances of the Gentiles. [14]Thereupon they built a gymnasium in Jerusalem according to the Gentile custom. [15]They disguised their circumcision and abandoned the holy covenant; they allied themselves with the Gentiles and sold themselves to wrong doing.

Antiochus in Egypt. [16]When his kingdom seemed secure, Antiochus undertook to become king of the land of Egypt and to rule over both kingdoms. [17]He invaded Egypt with a strong force, with chariots, elephants and cavalry, and with a large fleet, [18]to make war on Ptolemy, king of Egypt. Ptolemy was frightened at his presence and fled, and many were wounded and fell dead. [19]The fortified cities in the land of Egypt were captured, and Antiochus plundered the land of Egypt.

Robbery of the Temple. [20]After Antiochus had defeated Egypt in the one hundred and forty-third year, he returned and went up against Israel and against Jerusalem with a strong force. [21]He insolently entered the sanctuary and took away the golden altar, the lampstand for the light with all its utensils, [22]the offering table, the cups and bowls, the golden censers, and the curtain. The cornices and the golden ornament on the facade of the temple—he stripped it all off. [23]And he took away the silver and gold and the precious vessels; he also took all the hidden treasures he could find. [24]Taking all this, he went back to his own country. He shed much blood and spoke with great arrogance.

[25]And there was great mourning throughout all Israel,
[26]and the rulers and the elders groaned.
Young women and men languished,
and the beauty of the women faded.
[27]Every bridegroom took up lamentation,
while the bride sitting in her chamber mourned, [28]And the land quaked on account of its inhabitants,
and all the house of Jacob was clothed with shame.

Attack and Occupation. [29]Two years later, the king sent the Mysian commander to the cities of Judah, and he came to Jerusalem with a strong force. [30]He spoke to them deceitfully in peaceful terms, and they believed him. Then he attacked the city suddenly, in a great onslaught, and destroyed many of the people in Israel. [31]He plundered the city and set fire to it, demolished its houses and its surrounding walls. [32]And they took captive the women and children, and seized the animals. [33]Then they built up the City of David with a high, strong wall and strong towers, and it became their citadel. [34]There they installed a sinful race, transgressors of the law, who fortified themselves inside it. [35]They stored up weapons and provisions, depositing there the plunder they had collected from Jerusalem, and they became a great snare.

[36]The citadel became an ambush against the sanctuary,
and a wicked adversary to Israel at all times.
[37]They shed innocent blood around the sanctuary;

they defiled the sanctuary.
[38]Because of them the inhabitants of Jerusalem fled away,
she became the abode of strangers.
She became a stranger to her own offspring,
and her children forsook her.
[39]Her sanctuary became desolate as a wilderness;
her feasts were turned into mourning,
Her sabbaths to shame,
her honor to contempt.
[40]As her glory had been, so great was her dishonor:
her exaltation was turned into mourning.

Religious Persecution. [41]Then the king wrote to his whole kingdom that all should be one people, [42]and abandon their particular customs. All the Gentiles conformed to the command of the king, [43]and many Israelites delighted in his religion; they sacrificed to idols and profaned the sabbath.

[44]The king sent letters by messenger to Jerusalem and to the cities of Judah, ordering them to follow customs foreign to their land; [45]to prohibit burnt offerings, sacrifices, and libations in the sanctuary, to profane the sabbaths and feast days, [46]to desecrate the sanctuary and the sacred ministers, [47]to build pagan altars and temples and shrines, to sacrifice swine and unclean animals, [48]to leave their sons uncircumcised, and to defile themselves with every kind of impurity and abomination; [49]so that they might forget the law and change all its ordinances. [50]Whoever refused to act according to the command of the king was to be put to death.

[51]In words such as these he wrote to his whole kingdom. He appointed inspectors over all the people, and he ordered the cities of Judah to offer sacrifices, each city in turn. [52]Many of the people, those who abandoned the law, joined them and committed evil in the land. [53]They drove Israel into hiding, wherever places of refuge could be found.

[54]On the fifteenth day of the month Kislev, in the year one hundred and forty-five, the king erected the desolating abomination upon the altar of burnt offerings, and in the surrounding cities of Judah they built pagan altars. [55]They also burned incense at the doors of houses and in the streets. [56]Any scrolls of the law that they found they tore up and burned. [57]Whoever was found with a scroll of the covenant, and whoever observed the law, was condemned to death by royal decree. [58]So they used their power against Israel, against those who were caught, each month, in the cities. [59]On the twenty-fifth day of each month they sacrificed on the pagan altar that was over the altar of burnt offerings. [60]In keeping with the decree, they put to death women who had their children circumcised, [61]and they hung their babies from their necks; their families also and those who had circumcised them were killed.

[62]But many in Israel were determined and resolved in their hearts not to eat anything unclean; [63]they preferred to die rather than to be defiled with food or to profane the holy covenant; and they did die. [64]And very great wrath came upon Israel.

Mattathias and His Sons. 2:1 In those days Mattathias, son of John, son of Simeon, a priest of the family of Joarib, left Jerusalem and settled in Modein. [2]He had five sons: John, who was called Gaddi; [3]Simon, who was called Thassi; [4]Judas, who was called Maccabeus; [5]Eleazar, who was called Avaran; and Jonathan, who was called Apphus. [6]When he saw the sacrileges that were being committed in Judah and in Jerusalem, [7]he said:

"Woe is me! Why was I born to see the ruin of my people,
the ruin of the holy city—
To dwell there
as it was given into the hands of enemies,
the sanctuary into the hands of strangers?
[8]Her temple has become like a man disgraced,
[9]her glorious vessels carried off as spoils,
Her infants murdered in her streets,
her youths by the sword of the enemy.

[10]What nation has not taken its share of her realm,
and laid its hand on her spoils?
[11]All her adornment has been taken away.
Once free, she has become a slave.
[12]We see our sanctuary laid waste,
our beauty, our glory.
The Gentiles have defiled them!
[13]Why are we still alive?"

Pagan Worship Refused and Resisted. [15]The officers of the king in charge of enforcing the apostasy came to the city of Modein to make them sacrifice. [16]Many of Israel joined them, but Mattathias and his sons drew together. [17]Then the officers of the king addressed Mattathias: "You are a leader, an honorable and great man in this city, supported by sons and kindred. [18]Come now, be the first to obey the king's command, as all the Gentiles and Judeans and those who are left in Jerusalem have done. Then you and your sons shall be numbered among the King's Friends, and you and your sons shall be honored with silver and gold and many gifts."

[19]But Mattathias answered in a loud voice: "Although all the Gentiles in the king's realm obey him, so that they forsake the religion of their ancestors and consent to the king's orders, [20]yet I and my sons and my kindred will keep to the covenant of our ancestors. [21]Heaven forbid that we should forsake the law and the commandments. [22]We will not obey the words of the king by departing from our religion in the slightest degree."

[23]As he finished saying these words, a certain Jew came forward in the sight of all to offer sacrifice on the altar in Modein according to the king's order. [24]When Mattathias saw him, he was filled with zeal; his heart was moved and his just fury was aroused; he sprang forward and killed him upon the altar. [25]At the same time, he also killed the messenger of the king who was forcing them to sacrifice, and he tore down the altar. [26]Thus he showed his zeal for the law, just as Phinehas did with Zimri, son of Salu.

[27]Then Mattathias cried out in the city, "Let everyone who is zealous for the law and who stands by the covenant follow me!" [28]Then he and his sons fled to the mountains, leaving behind in the city all their possessions.

[29]At that time many who sought righteousness and justice went out into the wilderness to settle there, [30]they and their children, their wives and their animals, because misfortunes pressed so hard on them. [31]It was reported to the officers and soldiers of the king who were in the City of David, in Jerusalem, that those who had flouted the king's order had gone out to secret refuges in the wilderness. [32]Many hurried out after them, and having caught up with them, camped opposite and prepared to attack them on the sabbath. [33]The pursuers said to them, "Enough of this! Come out and obey the king's command, and you will live." [34]But they replied, "We will not come out, nor will we obey the king's command to profane the sabbath." [35]Then the enemy attacked them at once. [36]But they did not retaliate; they neither threw stones, nor blocked up their secret refuges. [37]They said, "Let us all die in innocence; heaven and earth are our witnesses that you destroy us unjustly." [38]So the officers and soldiers attacked them on the sabbath, and they died with their wives, their children and their animals, to the number of a thousand persons.

[39]When Mattathias and his friends heard of it, they mourned deeply for them. [40]They said to one another, "If we all do as our kindred have done, and do not fight against the Gentiles for our lives and our laws, they will soon destroy us from the earth." [41]So on that day they came to this decision: "Let us fight against anyone who attacks us on the sabbath, so that we may not all die as our kindred died in their secret refuges."

[42]Then they were joined by a group of Hasideans, mighty warriors of Israel, all of them devoted to the law. [43]And all those who were fleeing from the persecutions joined them and supported them. [44]They gathered an army and struck down sinners in their wrath and the lawless in their anger, and the survivors fled to the Gentiles for safety. [45]Mattathias and his friends went about and tore down the pagan altars; [46]they also forcibly circumcised any uncircumcised boys whom they found in the territory of Israel. [47]They put to flight the arrogant, and the work prospered in their hands. [48]They saved the law from the hands of the Gentiles and of the kings and did not let the sinner triumph.

Farewell of Mattathias. [49]When the time came for Mattathias to die, he said to his sons: "Arrogance and scorn have now grown strong; it is a time of disaster and violent wrath. [50]Therefore, my children, be zealous for the law and give your lives for the covenant of our ancestors.

[51]"Remember the deeds that our ancestors did in their times,
and you shall win great honor and an everlasting name.
[52]Was not Abraham found faithful in trial,
and it was credited to him as righteousness?
[53]Joseph, when in distress, kept the commandment,
and he became master of Egypt.
[54]Phinehas our ancestor, for his burning zeal, received the covenant of an everlasting priesthood.
[55]Joshua, for executing his commission,
became a judge in Israel.
[56]Caleb, for bearing witness before the assembly,
received an inheritance in the land.
[57]David, for his loyalty,
received as a heritage a throne of eternal kingship.
[58]Elijah, for his burning zeal for the law,
was taken up to heaven.
[59]Hananiah, Azariah and Mishael, for their faith,
were saved from the fire.
[60]Daniel, for his innocence,
was delivered from the mouths of lions.
[61]And so, consider this from generation to generation,
that none who hope in Heaven shall fail in strength.
[62]Do not fear the words of sinners,
for their glory ends in corruption and worms.
[63]Today exalted, tomorrow not to be found,
they have returned to dust,
their schemes have perished.
[64]Children! be courageous and strong in keeping the law,
for by it you shall be honored.

[65]"Here is your brother Simeon who I know is a wise counselor; listen to him always, and he will be a father to you. [66]And Judas Maccabeus, a mighty warrior from his youth, shall be the leader of your army and wage the war against the nations. [67]Gather about you all who observe the law, and avenge your people. [68]Pay back the Gentiles what they deserve, and observe the precepts of the law."

[69]Then he blessed them, and he was gathered to his ancestors. [70]He died in the year one hundred and forty-six, and was buried in the tombs of his ancestors in Modein, and all Israel mourned him greatly.

☐ MATTHEW 23:1-12

Denunciation of the Scribes and Pharisees. 23:1 Then Jesus spoke to the crowds and to his disciples, [2]saying, "The scribes and the Pharisees have taken their seat on the chair of Moses. [3]Therefore, do and observe all things whatsoever they tell you, but do not follow their example. For they preach but they do not practice. [4]They tie up heavy burdens [hard to carry] and lay them on people's shoulders, but they will not lift a finger to move them. [5]All their works are performed to be seen. They widen their phylacteries and lengthen their tassels. [6]They love places of honor at banquets, seats of honor in synagogues, [7]greetings in marketplaces, and the salutation 'Rabbi.' [8]As for you, do not be called 'Rabbi.' You have but one teacher, and you are all brothers. [9]Call no one on earth your father; you have but one Father in heaven. [10]Do not be called 'Master'; you have but one master, the Messiah. [11]The greatest among you must be your servant. [12]Whoever exalts himself will be humbled; but whoever humbles himself will be exalted."

☐ 1 MACCABEES 3-5

Judas and His Early Victories. 3:1 Then his son Judas, who was called Maccabeus, took his place. [2]All his brothers and all who had joined his father supported him, and they gladly carried on Israel's war.

[3]He spread abroad the glory of his people,
and put on his breastplate like a giant.
He armed himself with weapons of war;
he fought battles and protected the camp with his sword.
[4]In his deeds he was like a lion,
like a young lion roaring for prey.
[5]He pursued the lawless, hunting them out,
and those who troubled his people he destroyed by fire.
[6]The lawless were cowed by fear of him,
and all evildoers were dismayed.
By his hand deliverance was happily achieved,
[7]and he afflicted many kings.
He gave joy to Jacob by his deeds,
and his memory is blessed forever.
[8]He went about the cities of Judah destroying the renegades there.
He turned away wrath from Israel,
[9]was renowned to the ends of the earth;
and gathered together those who were perishing.

[10]Then Apollonius gathered together the Gentiles, along with a large army from Samaria, to fight against Israel. [11]When Judas learned of it, he went out to meet him and struck and killed him. Many fell wounded, and the rest fled. [12]They took their spoils, and Judas took the sword of Apollonius and fought with it the rest of his life.

[13]But Seron, commander of the Syrian army, heard that Judas had mustered an assembly of faithful men ready for war. [14]So he said, "I will make a name for myself and win honor in the kingdom. I will wage war against Judas and his followers, who have despised the king's command." [15]And again a large company of renegades advanced with him to help him take revenge on the Israelites.

[16]When he reached the ascent of Beth-horon, Judas went out to meet him with a few men. [17]But when they saw the army coming against them, they said to Judas: "How can we, few as we are, fight such a strong host as this? Besides, we are weak since we have not eaten today." [18]But Judas said: "Many are easily hemmed in by a few; in the sight of Heaven there is no difference between deliverance by many or by few; [19]for victory in war does not depend upon the size of the army, but on strength that comes from Heaven. [20]With great presumption and lawlessness they come against us to destroy us and our wives and children and to despoil us; [21]but we are fighting for our lives and our laws. [22]He will crush them before us; so do not fear them." [23]When he finished speaking, he rushed suddenly upon Seron and his army, who were crushed before him. [24]He pursued Seron down the descent of Beth-horon into the plain. About eight hundred of their men fell, and the rest fled to the land of the Philistines. [25]Then Judas and his brothers began to be feared, and dread fell upon the Gentiles about them. [26]His fame reached the king, and the Gentiles talked about the battles of Judas.

The King's Strategy. [27]When King Antiochus heard these reports, he was filled with rage; so he ordered that all the forces of his kingdom be gathered, a very strong army. [28]He opened his treasury, gave his soldiers a year's pay, and commanded them to be prepared for anything. [29]But then he saw that this exhausted the money in his treasury; moreover the tribute from the province was small because of the dissension and distress he had brought upon the land by abolishing the laws which had been in effect from of old. [30]He feared that, as had happened once or twice, he would not have enough for his expenses and for the gifts that he was accustomed to give with a lavish hand—more so than all previous kings. [31]Greatly perplexed, he decided to go to Persia and levy tribute on those provinces, and so raise a large sum of money.

[32]He left Lysias, a noble of royal descent, in charge of the king's affairs from the Euphrates River to the frontier of Egypt, [33]and commissioned him to take care of his son Antiochus until his return. [34]He entrusted to him half of his forces, and the elephants, and gave him instructions concerning everything he wanted done. As for the inhabitants of Judea and Jerusalem, [35]Lysias was to send an army against them to crush and destroy the power of Israel and the remnant of Jerusalem and efface their memory from the place. [36]He was to settle foreigners in all their territory and distribute their land by lot. [37]The king took the remaining half of the army and set out from Antioch, his capital, in the year one hundred and forty-seven; he crossed the Euphrates River and went through the provinces beyond.

Preparations for Battle. [38]Lysias chose Ptolemy, son of Dorymenes, and Nicanor and Gorgias, powerful men among the King's Friends, [39]and with them he sent forty thousand foot soldiers and seven thousand cavalry to invade and ravage the land of Judah according to the king's orders. [40]Setting out with their whole force, they came and pitched their camp near Emmaus in the plain. [41]When the merchants of the region heard of their prowess, they came to the camp, bringing a huge sum of silver and gold, along with fetters, to buy the Israelites as slaves. A force from Edom and from Philistia joined with them.

[42]Judas and his brothers saw that evils had multiplied and that armies were encamped within their territory. They learned of the orders which the king had given to destroy and utterly wipe out the people. [43]So they said to one another, "Let us raise our people from their ruin and fight for them and for our sanctuary!"

[45]Jerusalem was uninhabited, like a wilderness;
not one of her children came in or went out.
The sanctuary was trampled on,
and foreigners were in the citadel;
it was a habitation for Gentiles.
Joy had disappeared from Jacob,
and the flute and the harp were silent.

[46]Thus they assembled and went to Mizpah near Jerusalem, because formerly at Mizpah there was a place of prayer for Israel. [47]That day they fasted and wore sackcloth; they sprinkled ashes on their heads and tore their garments. [48]They unrolled the scroll of the law, to learn about the things for which the Gentiles consulted the images of their idols. [49]They brought with them the priestly garments, the first fruits, and the tithes; and they brought forward the nazirites who had completed the time of their vows. [50]And they cried aloud to Heaven: "What shall we do with these, and where shall we take them? [51]For your sanctuary has been trampled on and profaned, and your priests are in mourning and humbled. [52]Now the Gentiles are gathered together against us to destroy us. You know what they plot against us. [53]How shall we be able to resist them unless you help us?" [54]Then they blew the trumpets and cried out loudly.

[55]After this Judas appointed officers for the people, over thousands, over hundreds, over fifties, and over tens. [56]He proclaimed that those who were building houses, or were just married, or were planting vineyards, and those who were afraid, could each return home, according to the law. [57]Then the army moved off, and they camped to the south of Emmaus. [58]Judas said: "Arm yourselves and be brave; in the morning be ready to fight these Gentiles who have assembled against us to destroy us and our sanctuary. [59]It is better for us to die in battle than to witness the evils befalling our nation and our sanctuary. [60]Whatever is willed in heaven will be done."

Victory over Gorgias. 4:1 Now Gorgias took five thousand infantry and a thousand picked cavalry, and this detachment set out at night [2]in order to fall upon the camp of the Jews in a surprise attack. Some from the citadel were his guides. [3]Judas heard of it and himself set out with his soldiers to attack the king's army at Emmaus [4]while these forces were still scattered away from the camp. [5]During the night Gorgias came into the camp of Judas, and found no one there; so he sought them in the mountains, saying, "They are fleeing from us."

[6]But at daybreak Judas appeared in the plain with three thousand men; furthermore they lacked the helmets and swords they wanted. [7]They saw the army of the Gentiles, strong, breastplated, and flanked with cavalry, and made up of experienced soldiers. [8]Judas said to the men with him: "Do not fear their numbers or dread their attack. [9]Remember how our ancestors were saved in the Red Sea, when Pharaoh pursued them with an army. [10]So now let us cry to Heaven in the hope that he will favor us, remember the covenant with our ancestors, and destroy this army before us today. [11]All the Gentiles shall know that there is One who redeems and delivers Israel."

[12]When the foreigners looked up and saw them marching toward them, [13]they came out of their camp for battle. The men with Judas blew the trumpet, and [14]joined the battle. They crushed the Gentiles, who fled toward the plain. [15]Their whole rear guard fell by the sword, and they were pursued as far as Gazara and the plains of Idumaea, to Azotus and Jamnia. About three thousand of their men fell.

[16]When Judas and the army returned from the pursuit, [17]he said to the people: "Do not be greedy for plunder; for there is a fight ahead of us, [18]and Gorgias and his army are near us on the mountain. But now stand firm against our enemies and fight them. Afterward you can freely take the plunder."

[19]As Judas was finishing this speech, a detachment appeared, looking down from the mountain. [20]They saw that their army had been put to flight and their camp was burning. The smoke they saw revealed what had happened.
[21]When they realized this, they completely lost heart; and when they also saw the army of Judas in the plain ready to attack, [22]they all fled to the land of the foreigners.

[23]Then Judas went back to plunder the camp, and they took much gold and silver, cloth dyed blue and marine purple, and great treasure. [24]As they returned, they were singing hymns and glorifying Heaven, "who is good, whose mercy endures forever." [25]Thus Israel experienced a great deliverance that day.

Victory over Lysias. [26]But those of the foreigners who had escaped went and told Lysias all that had occurred.
[27]When he heard it he was disturbed and discouraged, because things had not turned out in Israel as he intended and as the king had ordered.

[28]So the following year he gathered together sixty thousand picked men and five thousand cavalry, to fight them.
[29]They came into Idumea and camped at Beth-zur, and Judas met them with ten thousand men. [30]Seeing that the army was strong, he prayed thus:

"Blessed are you, Savior of Israel, who crushed the attack of the mighty one by the hand of your servant David and delivered the foreign camp into the hand of Jonathan, the son of Saul, and his armor-bearer. [31]Give this army into the hands of your people Israel; make them ashamed of their troops and their cavalry. [32]Strike them with cowardice, weaken the boldness of their strength, and let them tremble at their own destruction. [33]Strike them down by the sword of those who love you, that all who know your name may sing your praise."

[34]Then they engaged in battle, and about five thousand of Lysias' army fell in hand-to-hand fighting. [35]When Lysias saw the tide of the battle turning, and the increased boldness of Judas, whose men were ready either to live or to die nobly, he withdrew to Antioch and began to recruit mercenaries so as to return to Judea with greater numbers.

Purification and Rededication of the Temple. [36]Then Judas and his brothers said, "Now that our enemies have been crushed, let us go up to purify the sanctuary and rededicate it." [37]So the whole army assembled, and went up to Mount Zion. [38]They found the sanctuary desolate, the altar desecrated, the gates burnt, weeds growing in the courts as in a thicket or on some mountain, and the priests' chambers demolished. [39]Then they tore their garments and made great lamentation; they sprinkled their heads with ashes [40]and prostrated themselves. And when the signal was given with trumpets, they cried out to Heaven.

[41]Judas appointed men to attack those in the citadel, while he purified the sanctuary. [42]He chose blameless priests, devoted to the law; [43]these purified the sanctuary and carried away the stones of the defilement to an unclean place.
[44]They deliberated what ought to be done with the altar for burnt offerings that had been desecrated. [45]They decided it best to tear it down, lest it be a lasting shame to them that the Gentiles had defiled it; so they tore down the altar. [46]They stored the stones in a suitable place on the temple mount, until the coming of a prophet who could determine what to do with them. [47]Then they took uncut stones, according to the law, and built a new altar like the former one. [48]They also repaired the sanctuary and the interior of the temple and consecrated the courts. [49]They made new sacred vessels and brought the lampstand, the altar of incense, and the table into the temple. [50]Then they burned incense on the altar and lighted the lamps on the lampstand, and these illuminated the temple. [51]They also put loaves on the table and hung up the curtains. Thus they finished all the work they had undertaken.

[52]They rose early on the morning of the twenty-fifth day of the ninth month, that is, the month of Kislev, in the year one hundred and forty-eight, [53]and offered sacrifice according to the law on the new altar for burnt offerings that they had made. [54]On the anniversary of the day on which the Gentiles had desecrated it, on that very day it was rededicated with songs, harps, lyres, and cymbals. [55]All the people prostrated themselves and adored and praised Heaven, who had given them success.

[56]For eight days they celebrated the dedication of the altar and joyfully offered burnt offerings and sacrifices of deliverance and praise. [57]They ornamented the facade of the temple with gold crowns and shields; they repaired the gates and the priests' chambers and furnished them with doors. [58]There was great joy among the people now that the disgrace brought by the Gentiles was removed. [59]Then Judas and his brothers and the entire assembly of Israel decreed that every year for eight days, from the twenty-fifth day of the month Kislev, the days of the dedication of the altar should be observed with joy and gladness on the anniversary.

[60]At that time they built high walls and strong towers around Mount Zion, to prevent the Gentiles from coming and trampling it as they had done before. [61]Judas also placed a garrison there to protect it, and likewise fortified Beth-zur, that the people might have a stronghold facing Idumea.

Victories over Hostile Neighbors. 5:1 When the nations round about heard that the altar had been rebuilt and the sanctuary restored as before, they were enraged. [2]So they decided to destroy the descendants of Jacob who were among them, and they began to kill and eradicate the people. [3]Then Judas attacked the Edomites at Akrabattene in Idumea, because they were blockading Israel; he dealt them a heavy blow, humbled and despoiled them. [4]He also remembered the malice of the Baeanites, who had become a snare and a stumbling block to the people by ambushing them along the roads. [5]He forced them to take refuge in towers, which he besieged; he put them under the ban and burned down their towers along with all who were in them. [6]Then he crossed over to the Ammonites, where he found a strong army and a large body of people with Timothy as their leader. [7]He fought many battles with them, routed them, and struck them down. [8]After seizing Jazer and its villages, he returned to Judea.

Liberation of Jews in Galilee and Gilead. [9]The Gentiles in Gilead assembled to destroy the Israelites who were in their territory; these then fled to the stronghold of Dathema. [10]They sent a letter to Judas and his brothers saying: "The Gentiles around us have assembled against us to destroy us, [11]and they are preparing to come and seize this stronghold to which we have fled. Timothy is the leader of their army. [12]Come at once to rescue us from them, for many of us have fallen. [13]All our kindred who were in the territory of the Tobiads have been killed; the Gentiles have captured their wives, their children and their goods, and they have slain there about a thousand men."

[14]While they were reading this letter, suddenly other messengers, with garments torn, arrived from Galilee to deliver a similar message: [15]that "the inhabitants of Ptolemais, Tyre, and Sidon, and the whole of Gentile Galilee have joined forces to destroy us." [16]When Judas and the people heard this, a great assembly convened to consider what they should do for their kindred who were in distress and being attacked by enemies.

[17]Judas said to his brother Simon: "Choose men for yourself, and go, rescue your kindred in Galilee; my brother Jonathan and I will go to Gilead."

[18]He left Joseph, son of Zechariah, and Azariah, leader of the people, with the rest of the army in Judea to guard it. [19]He commanded them, "Take charge of these people, but do not join battle against the Gentiles until we return." [20]Three thousand men were allotted to Simon to go into Galilee, and eight thousand men to Judas, for Gilead.

[21]Simon went into Galilee and fought many battles with the Gentiles. They were crushed before him, [22]and he pursued them to the very gate of Ptolemais. About three thousand of the Gentiles fell, and he gathered their spoils. [23]He took with him the Jews who were in Galilee and in Arbatta, with their wives and children and all that they had, and brought them to Judea with great rejoicing.

[24]Judas Maccabeus and his brother Jonathan crossed the Jordan and marched for three days through the wilderness. [25]There they met some Nabateans, who received them peaceably and told them all that had happened to their kindred in Gilead: [26]"Many of them are shut up in Bozrah, in Bosor near Alema, in Chaspho, Maked, and Carnaim"—all of these are large, fortified cities— [27]"and some are shut up in other cities of Gilead. Tomorrow their enemies plan to attack the strongholds and to seize and destroy all these people in one day."

[28]Thereupon Judas suddenly changed direction with his army, marched across the wilderness to Bozrah, and captured the city. He put every male to the sword, took all their spoils, and set fire to the city. [29]He led his army from that place by night, and they marched toward the stronghold. [30]When morning came, they looked ahead and saw a countless multitude, with ladders and machines for capturing the stronghold, beginning to attack. [31]When Judas perceived that the struggle had begun and that the noise of the battle was resounding to heaven with trumpet blasts and loud shouting, [32]he said to the men of his army, "Fight for our kindred today." [33]He came up behind them with three columns blowing their trumpets and crying out in prayer. [34]When the army of Timothy realized that it was Maccabeus, they fled before him, and he inflicted on them a great defeat. About eight thousand of their men fell that day.

[35]Then he turned toward Alema and attacked and captured it; he killed every male, took spoils, and burned it down. [36]From there he moved on and took Chaspho, Maked, Bosor, and the other cities of Gilead.

[37]After these events Timothy assembled another army and camped opposite Raphon, on the other side of the wadi. [38]Judas sent men to spy on the camp, and they reported to him: "All the Gentiles around us have rallied to him, making a very large force; [39]they have also hired Arabians to help them, and have camped beyond the wadi, ready to attack you." So Judas went forward to meet them.

[40]As Judas and his army were approaching the flowing wadi, Timothy said to the officers of his army: "If he crosses over to us first, we shall not be able to resist him; he will certainly defeat us. [41]But if he is hesitant and camps on the other side of the river, we will cross over to him and defeat him." [42]But when Judas reached the flowing wadi, he stationed the officers of the people beside it and gave them this order: "Do not allow anyone to encamp; all must go into battle." [43]He was the first to cross to the attack, with all the people behind him, and all the Gentiles were crushed before them. They threw away their arms and fled to the temple enclosure at Carnaim. [44]But Judas' troops captured the city and burnt the temple enclosure with all who were in it. So Carnaim was subdued, and Judas met with no more resistance.

Return to Jerusalem. [45]Then Judas assembled all the Israelites, great and small, who were in Gilead, with their wives and children and their goods, a very large company, to go into the land of Judah. [46]When they reached Ephron, a large and strongly fortified city along the way, they found it impossible to go around it on either the right or the left; they would have to march right through it. [47]But the people in the city shut them out and blocked up the gates with stones. [48]Then Judas sent them this peaceful message: "Let us cross your territory in order to reach our own; no one will harm you; we will only march through." But they would not open to him. [49]So Judas ordered a proclamation to be made in the camp that everyone should take up positions where they were. [50]When the men of the army took up their positions, he assaulted the city all that day and night, and it was delivered into his hand. [51]He put every male to the sword, leveled the city, took spoils and passed through it over the slain.

[52]Then they crossed the Jordan to the great plain in front of Beth-shan; [53]and Judas kept gathering the stragglers and encouraging the people the whole way, until he reached the land of Judah. [54]They ascended Mount Zion in joy and gladness and sacrificed burnt offerings, because not one of them had fallen; they had returned in safety.

Joseph and Azariah Defeated. [55]In those days when Judas and Jonathan were in the land of Gilead, and Simon his brother was in Galilee opposite Ptolemais, [56]Joseph, son of Zechariah, and Azariah, the leaders of the army, heard about the brave deeds and the fighting that they were doing. [57]They said, "Let us also make a name for ourselves by going out and fighting against the Gentiles around us." [58]They gave orders to those of their army who were with them, and marched against Jamnia. [59]But Gorgias and his men came out of the city to meet them in battle. [60]Joseph and Azariah were routed and were pursued to the frontiers of Judea, and about two thousand Israelites fell that day. [61]It was a great setback for the people, because they had not obeyed Judas and his brothers, thinking that they would do brave deeds. [62]But they were not of the family through whom Israel's deliverance was given.

Victories at Hebron and Azotus. [63]The valiant Judas and his brothers were greatly honored in all Israel and among all the Gentiles, wherever their name was heard; [64]and people gathered about them and praised them.

[65]Then Judas and his brothers went out and attacked the Edomites in the land toward the south; he took Hebron and its villages, and he destroyed its strongholds and burned the towers around it. [66]He then set out for the land of the foreigners and passed through Marisa. [67]On that day some priests fell in battle who had gone out rashly to fight in their desire to do brave deeds. [68]Judas then turned toward Azotus in the land of the foreigners. He destroyed their altars and burned the carved images of their gods; and after plundering their cities he returned to the land of Judah.

23:13 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, you hypocrites. You lock the kingdom of heaven before human beings. You do not enter yourselves, nor do you allow entrance to those trying to enter. [14]

[15]"Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, you hypocrites. You traverse sea and land to make one convert, and when that happens you make him a child of Gehenna twice as much as yourselves.

[16]"Woe to you, blind guides, who say, 'If one swears by the temple, it means nothing, but if one swears by the gold of the temple, one is obligated.' [17]Blind fools, which is greater, the gold, or the temple that made the gold sacred? [18]And you say, 'If one swears by the altar, it means nothing, but if one swears by the gift on the altar, one is obligated.' [19]You blind ones, which is greater, the gift, or the altar that makes the gift sacred? [20]One who swears by the altar swears by it and all that is upon it; [21]one who swears by the temple swears by it and by him who dwells in it; [22]one who swears by heaven swears by the throne of God and by him who is seated on it.

[23]"Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, you hypocrites. You pay tithes of mint and dill and cummin, and have neglected the weightier things of the law: judgment and mercy and fidelity. [But] these you should have done, without neglecting the others. [24]Blind guides, who strain out the gnat and swallow the camel!"

6:1 As King Antiochus passed through the eastern provinces, he heard that in Persia there was a city, Elam, famous for its wealth in silver and gold, [2]and that its temple was very rich, containing gold helmets, breastplates, and weapons left there by the first king of the Greeks, Alexander, son of Philip, king of Macedon. [3]He went therefore and tried to capture and loot the city. But he could not do so, because his plan became known to the people of the city [4]who rose up in battle against him. So he fled and in great dismay withdrew from there to return to Babylon.

[5]While he was in Persia, a messenger brought him news that the armies that had gone into the land of Judah had been routed; [6]that Lysias had gone at first with a strong army and been driven back; that the people of Judah had grown strong by reason of the arms, wealth, and abundant spoils taken from the armies they had cut down; [7]that they had pulled down the abomination which he had built upon the altar in Jerusalem; and that they had surrounded with high walls both the sanctuary, as it had been before, and his city of Beth-zur.

[8]When the king heard this news, he was astonished and very much shaken. Sick with grief because his designs had failed, he took to his bed. [9]There he remained many days, assailed by waves of grief, for he thought he was going to die. [10]So he called in all his Friends and said to them: "Sleep has departed from my eyes, and my heart sinks from anxiety. [11]I said to myself: 'Into what tribulation have I come, and in what floods of sorrow am I now! Yet I was kindly and beloved in my rule.' [12]But I now recall the evils I did in Jerusalem, when I carried away all the vessels of silver and gold that were in it, and for no cause gave orders that the inhabitants of Judah be destroyed. [13]I know that this is why these evils have overtaken me; and now I am dying, in bitter grief, in a foreign land."

[14]Then he summoned Philip, one of his Friends, and put him in charge of his whole kingdom. [15]He gave him his diadem, his robe, and his signet ring, so that he might guide the king's son Antiochus and bring him up to be king. [16]So King Antiochus died there in the one hundred and forty-ninth year. [17]When Lysias learned that the king was dead, he set up the king's son Antiochus, whom he had reared as a child, to be king in his place; and he gave him the title Eupator.

Siege of the Citadel. [18]Those in the citadel were hemming Israel in around the sanctuary, continually trying to harm them and to strengthen the Gentiles. [19]And so Judas planned to destroy them, and assembled the people to besiege them. [20]So in the one hundred and fiftieth year they assembled and besieged the citadel, for which purpose he constructed platforms and siege engines. [21]But some of the besieged escaped, and some renegade Israelites joined them. [22]They went to the king and said: "How long will you fail to do justice and to avenge our kindred? [23]We agreed to serve your father and to follow his orders and obey his edicts. [24]And for this our own people have become our enemies; they have put to death as many of us as they could find and have seized our inheritances. [25]They have acted aggressively not only against us, but throughout their whole territory. [26]Look! Today they have besieged the citadel in Jerusalem in order to capture it, and they have fortified the sanctuary and Beth-zur. [27]Unless you act quickly to prevent them, they will do even worse things than these, and you will not be able to stop them."

[28]When the king heard this he was enraged, and he called together all his Friends, the officers of his army, and the commanders of the cavalry. [29]Mercenary forces also came to him from other kingdoms and from the islands of the seas. [30]His army numbered a hundred thousand footsoldiers, twenty thousand cavalry, and thirty-two elephants trained for war. [31]They passed through Idumea and camped before Beth-zur. For many days they attacked it; they constructed siege engines, but the besieged made a sortie and burned these, and they fought bravely.

Battle of Beth-zechariah. [32]Then Judas marched away from the citadel and moved his camp to Beth-zechariah, opposite the king's camp. [33]The king, rising before dawn, moved his force hastily along the road to Beth-zechariah; and the troops prepared for battle and sounded the trumpet. [34]They made the elephants drunk on the juice of grapes and mulberries to get them ready to fight. [35]The beasts were distributed along the phalanxes, each elephant having assigned to it a thousand men in coats of mail, with bronze helmets on their heads, and five hundred picked cavalry. [36]These accompanied the beast wherever it was; wherever it moved, they moved too and never left it. [37]Each elephant was outfitted with a strong wooden tower, fastened to it by a harness; each tower held three soldiers who fought from it, besides the Indian driver. [38]The remaining cavalry were stationed on one or the other of the two flanks of the army, to harass the enemy and to be protected by the phalanxes. [39]When the sun shone on the gold and bronze shields, the mountains gleamed with their brightness and blazed like flaming torches. [40]Part of the king's army spread out along the heights, while some were on low ground, and they marched forward steadily in good order. [41]All who heard the noise of their numbers, the tramp of their marching, and the clanging of the arms, trembled; for the army was very great and strong.

[42]Judas with his army advanced to fight, and six hundred men of the king's army fell. [43]Eleazar, called Avaran, saw one of the beasts covered with royal armor and bigger than any of the others, and so he thought the king was on it. [44]He gave up his life to save his people and win an everlasting name for himself. [45]He dashed courageously up to it in the middle of the phalanx, killing men right and left, so that they parted before him. [46]He ran under the elephant, stabbed it and killed it. The beast fell to the ground on top of him, and he died there. [47]But when Judas' troops saw the strength of the royal army and the ardor of its forces, they retreated from them.

The Siege of Jerusalem. [48]Some of the king's army went up to Jerusalem to attack them, and the king established camps in Judea and at Mount Zion. [49]He made peace with the people of Beth-zur, and they evacuated the city, because they had no food there to enable them to withstand a siege, for that was a sabbath year in the land. [50]The king took Beth-zur and stationed a garrison there to hold it. [51]For many days he besieged the sanctuary, setting up platforms and siege engines, fire-throwers, catapults and mechanical bows for shooting arrows and projectiles. [52]The defenders countered by setting up siege engines of their own, and kept up the fight a long time. [53]But there were no provisions in the storerooms, because it was the seventh year, and the reserves had been eaten up by those who had been rescued from the Gentiles and brought to Judea. [54]Few men remained in the sanctuary because the famine was too much for them; the rest scattered, each to his own home.

Peace Treaty. [55]Lysias heard that Philip, whom King Antiochus, before his death, had appointed to train his son Antiochus to be king, [56]had returned from Persia and Media with the army that accompanied the king, and that he was seeking to take over the government. [57]So he hastily decided to withdraw. He said to the king, the leaders of the army, and the soldiers: "We are growing weaker every day, our provisions are scanty, the place we are besieging is strong, and it is our duty to take care of the affairs of the kingdom. [58]Therefore let us now come to terms with these people and make peace with them and all their nation. [59]Let us grant them freedom to live according to their own laws as formerly; it was on account of their laws, which we abolished, that they became enraged and did all these things."

[60]The proposal pleased the king and the leaders; he sent peace terms to the Jews, and they accepted. [61]So the king and the leaders swore an oath to them, and on these terms the Jews evacuated the fortification. [62]But when the king entered Mount Zion and saw how the place was fortified, he broke the oath he had sworn and gave orders to tear down the encircling wall. [63]Then he departed in haste and returned to Antioch, where he found Philip in control of the city. He fought against him and took the city by force.

Expedition of Bacchides and Alcimus. 7:1 In the one hundred and fifty-first year, Demetrius, son of Seleucus, set out from Rome, arrived with a few men at a coastal city, and began to rule there. [2]As he was entering the royal palace of his ancestors, the soldiers seized Antiochus and Lysias to bring them to him. [3]When he was informed of this, he said, "Do not show me their faces." [4]So the soldiers killed them, and Demetrius assumed the royal throne.

[5]Then all the lawless men and renegades of Israel came to him. They were led by Alcimus, who desired to be high priest. [6]They made this accusation to the king against the people: "Judas and his brothers have destroyed all your friends and have driven us out of our land. [7]So now, send a man whom you trust to go and see all the destruction Judas has wrought on us and on the king's territory, and let him punish them and all their supporters."

[8]So the king chose Bacchides, one of the King's Friends, who ruled the province of West-of-Euphrates, a great man in the kingdom, and faithful to the king. [9]He sent him and the renegade Alcimus, to whom he granted the high priesthood, with orders to take revenge on the Israelites. [10]They set out and, on arriving in the land of Judah with a great army, sent messengers who spoke deceitfully to Judas and his brothers in peaceful terms. [11]But these paid no attention to their words, seeing that they had come with a great army.

[12]A group of scribes, however, gathered about Alcimus and Bacchides to ask for a just agreement. [13]The Hasideans were the first among the Israelites to seek peace with them, [14]for they said, "A priest of the line of Aaron has come with the army, and he will not do us any wrong." [15]He spoke with them peacefully and swore to them, "We will not seek to injure you or your friends." [16]So they trusted him. But he arrested sixty of them and killed them in one day, according to the words that he wrote:

[17]"The flesh of your faithful,
and their blood they have spilled all around about Jerusalem,
and no one was left to bury them."

[18]Then fear and dread of them came upon all the people, who said: "There is no truth or justice among them; they violated the agreement and the oath that they swore."

[19]Bacchides withdrew from Jerusalem and camped in Beth-zaith. He had many of the men who deserted to him arrested and some of the people. He killed them and threw them into a great cistern. [20]He handed the province over to Alcimus, leaving troops to help him, while he himself returned to the king.

[21]Alcimus struggled to maintain his high priesthood, [22]and all those who were troubling the people gathered about him. They took possession of the land of Judah and caused great distress in Israel. [23]When Judas saw all the evils that Alcimus and those with him were bringing upon the Israelites, even more than the Gentiles had, [24]he went about all the borders of Judea and took revenge on the men who had deserted, preventing them from going out into the country. [25]But when Alcimus saw that Judas and his followers were gaining strength and realized that he could not resist them, he returned to the king and accused them of grave crimes.

Defeat of Nicanor. [26]Then the king sent Nicanor, one of his honored officers, who was a bitter enemy of Israel, with orders to destroy the people. [27]Nicanor came to Jerusalem with a large force and deceitfully sent to Judas and his brothers this peaceable message: [28]"Let there be no fight between me and you. I will come with a few men to meet you face to face in peace."

[29]So he came to Judas, and they greeted one another peaceably. But Judas' enemies were prepared to seize him. [30]When he became aware that Nicanor had come to him with deceit in mind, Judas was afraid of him and would not meet him again. [31]When Nicanor saw that his plan had been discovered, he went out to fight Judas near Capharsalama. [32]About five hundred men of Nicanor's army fell; the rest fled to the City of David.

[33]After this, Nicanor went up to Mount Zion. Some of the priests from the sanctuary and some of the elders of the people came out to greet him peaceably and to show him the burnt offering that was being sacrificed for the king. [34]But he mocked and ridiculed them, defiled them, and spoke arrogantly. [35]In a rage he swore: "If Judas and his army are not delivered to me at once, when I return victorious I will burn this temple down." He went away in great anger. [36]The priests, however, went in and stood before the altar and the sanctuary. They wept and said: [37]"You have chosen this house to bear your name, to be a house of prayer and supplication for your people. [38]Take revenge on this man and his army, and let them fall by the sword. Remember their blasphemies, and do not let them continue."

[43]The armies met in battle on the thirteenth day of the month Adar. Nicanor's army was crushed, and he himself was the first to fall in the battle. [44]When his army saw that Nicanor had fallen, they threw down their weapons and fled. [45]The Jews pursued them a day's journey from Adasa to near Gazara, blowing the trumpets behind them as signals. [46]From all the surrounding villages of Judea people came out and outflanked them. They turned them back, and all the enemies fell by the sword; not a single one escaped.

[47]Then the Jews collected the spoils and the plunder; they cut off Nicanor's head and his right arm, which he had lifted up so arrogantly. These they brought and displayed in the sight of Jerusalem. [48]The people rejoiced greatly, and observed that day as a day of much joy. [49]They decreed that it should be observed every year on the thirteenth of Adar. [50]And so for a few days the land of Judah was at rest.

Eulogy of the Romans. 8:1 Judas had heard of the reputation of the Romans. They were valiant fighters and acted amiably to all who took their side. They established a friendly alliance with all who applied to them. [2]He was also told of their battles and the brave deeds that they performed against the Gauls, conquering them and forcing them to pay tribute; [3]and what they did in Spain to get possession of the silver and gold mines there. [4]By planning and persistence they subjugated the whole region, although it was very remote from their own. They also subjugated the kings who had come against them from the far corners of the earth until they crushed them and inflicted on them severe defeat. The rest paid tribute to them every year. [5]Philip and Perseus, king of the Macedonians, and the others who opposed them in battle they overwhelmed and subjugated. [6]Antiochus the Great, king of Asia, who fought against them with a hundred and twenty elephants and with cavalry and chariots and a very great army, was defeated by them. [7]They took him alive and obliged him and the kings who succeeded him to pay a heavy tribute, to give hostages and to cede [8]Lycia, Mysia, and Lydia from among their best provinces. The Romans took these from him and gave them to King Eumenes. [9]When the Greeks planned to come and destroy them, [10]the Romans discovered it, and sent against the Greeks a single general who made war on them. Many were wounded and fell, and the Romans took their wives and children captive. They plundered them, took possession of their land, tore down their strongholds and reduced them to slavery even to this day. [11]All the other kingdoms and islands that had ever opposed them they destroyed and enslaved; with their friends, however, and those who relied on them, they maintained friendship. [12]They subjugated kings both near and far, and all who heard of their fame were afraid of them. [13]Those whom they wish to help and to make kings, they make kings; and those whom they wish, they depose; and they were greatly exalted. [14]Yet with all this, none of them put on a diadem or wore purple as a display of grandeur. [15]But they made for themselves a senate chamber, and every day three hundred and twenty men took counsel, deliberating on all that concerned the people and their well-being. [16]They entrust their government to one man every year, to rule over their entire land, and they all obey that one, and there is no envy or jealousy among them.

Treaty with the Romans. [17]So Judas chose Eupolemus, son of John, son of Accos, and Jason, son of Eleazar, and sent them to Rome to establish friendship and alliance with them. [18]He did this to lift the yoke from Israel, for it was obvious that the kingdom of the Greeks was subjecting them to slavery. [19]After making a very long journey to Rome, the envoys entered the senate chamber and spoke as follows: [20]"Judas, called Maccabeus, and his brothers, with the Jewish people, have sent us to you to establish alliance and peace with you, and to be enrolled among your allies and friends." [21]The proposal pleased the Romans, [22]and this is a copy of the reply they inscribed on bronze tablets and sent to Jerusalem, to remain there with the Jews as a record of peace and alliance:

[23]"May it be well with the Romans and the Jewish nation at sea and on land forever; may sword and enemy be far from them. [24]But if war is first made on Rome, or any of its allies in any of their dominions, [25]the Jewish nation will fight along with them wholeheartedly, as the occasion shall demand; [26]and to those who wage war they shall not give or provide grain, weapons, money, or ships, as seems best to Rome. They shall fulfill their obligations without receiving any recompense. [27]In the same way, if war is made first on the Jewish nation, the Romans will fight along with them willingly, as the occasion shall demand, [28]and to those who attack them there shall not be given grain, weapons, money, or ships, as seems best to Rome. They shall fulfill their obligations without deception. [29]On these terms the Romans have made an agreement with the Jewish people. [30]But if both parties hereafter agree to add or take away anything, they shall do as they choose, and whatever they shall add or take away shall be valid.

[31]"Moreover, concerning the wrongs that King Demetrius is doing to them, we have written to him thus: 'Why have you made your yoke heavy upon our friends and allies the Jews? [32]If they petition against you again, we will enforce justice and make war on you by sea and land.' "

Death of Judas. 9:1 When Demetrius heard that Nicanor and his army had fallen in battle, he again sent Bacchides and Alcimus into the land of Judah, along with the right wing of his army. [2]They took the road to Galilee, and camping opposite the ascent at Arbela, they captured it and killed many people. [3]In the first month of the one hundred and fifty-second year, they encamped against Jerusalem. [4]Then they set out for Berea with twenty thousand men and two thousand cavalry. [5]Judas, with three thousand picked men, had camped at Elasa. [6]When they saw the great number of the troops, they were very much afraid, and many slipped away from the camp, until only eight hundred of them remained.

[7]When Judas saw that his army was melting away just as the battle was imminent, he was brokenhearted, because he had no time to gather them together. [8]In spite of his discouragement he said to those who remained: "Let us go forward to meet our enemies; perhaps we can put up a good fight against them." [9]They tried to dissuade him, saying: "We certainly cannot. Let us save our own lives now, and come back with our kindred, and then fight against them. Now we are too few." [10]But Judas said: "Far be it from me to do such a thing as to flee from them! If our time has come, let us die bravely for our kindred and not leave a stain upon our honor!"

[11]Then the army of Bacchides moved out of camp and took its position for combat. The cavalry were divided into two squadrons, and the slingers and the archers came on ahead of the army, and in the front line were all the best warriors. Bacchides was on the right wing. [12]Flanked by the two squadrons, the phalanx attacked as they blew their trumpets. Those who were on Judas' side also blew their trumpets. [13]The earth shook with the noise of the armies, and the battle raged from morning until evening.

[19]Jonathan and Simon took their brother Judas and buried him in the tomb of their ancestors at Modein. [20]All Israel wept for him with great lamentation. They mourned for him many days, and they said, [21]"How the mighty one has fallen, the savior of Israel!" [22]The other acts of Judas, his battles, the brave deeds he performed, and his greatness have not been recorded; but they were very many.

Jonathan Succeeds Judas. [23]After the death of Judas, the lawless raised their heads in every part of Israel, and all kinds of evildoers appeared. [24]In those days there was a very great famine, and the country deserted to them. [25]Bacchides chose renegades and made them masters of the country. [26]These sought out and hunted down the friends of Judas and brought them to Bacchides, who punished and derided them. [27]There was great tribulation in Israel, the like of which had not been since the time prophets ceased to appear among them.

[28]Then all the friends of Judas came together and said to Jonathan: [29]"Ever since your brother Judas died, there has been no one like him to lead us against our enemies, both Bacchides and those of our nation who are hostile to us. [30]Now therefore we have chosen you today to be our ruler and leader in his place, to fight our battle." [31]From that moment Jonathan accepted the leadership, and took the place of Judas his brother.

Bacchides Pursues Jonathan. [32]When Bacchides learned of it, he sought to kill him. [33]But Jonathan and his brother Simon and all who were with him discovered this, and they fled to the wilderness of Tekoa and camped by the waters of the pool of Asphar. [34]

[35]Jonathan sent his brother as leader of the convoy to implore his friends, the Nabateans, to let them deposit with them their great quantity of baggage. [36]But the tribe of Jambri from Medaba made a raid and seized and carried off John and everything he had.

[43]When Bacchides heard of it, he came on the sabbath to the banks of the Jordan with a large force. [44]Then Jonathan said to his companions, "Let us rise up now and fight for our lives, for today is not like yesterday and the day before. [45]The battle is before us, behind us are the waters of the Jordan, on either side of us, marsh and thickets; there is no way of escape. [46]Cry out now to Heaven so that you may be delivered from the hand of our enemies." [47]When they joined battle, Jonathan raised his hand to strike Bacchides, but Bacchides backed away from him. [48]Jonathan and those with him jumped into the Jordan and swam across to the other side, but the enemy did not pursue them across the Jordan. [49]About a thousand men on Bacchides' side fell that day.

[50]On returning to Jerusalem, Bacchides built strongholds in Judea: the Jericho fortress, as well as Emmaus, Beth-horon, Bethel, Timnath, Pharathon, and Tephon, with high walls and gates and bars. [51]In each he put a garrison to harass Israel. [52]He fortified the city of Beth-zur, Gazara and the citadel, and put troops in them and stores of provisions. [53]He took as hostages the sons of the leading people of the country and put them in custody in the citadel at Jerusalem.

[54]In the one hundred and fifty-third year, in the second month, Alcimus ordered the wall of the inner court of the sanctuary to be torn down, thus destroying the work of the prophets. But he only began to tear it down. [55]Just at that time Alcimus was stricken, and his work was interrupted; his mouth was closed and he was paralyzed, so that he could no longer utter a word or give orders concerning his household. [56]Alcimus died in great agony at that time. [57]Seeing that Alcimus was dead, Bacchides returned to the king, and the land of Judah was at rest for two years.

[58]Then all the lawless took counsel and said: "Jonathan and those with him are living in peace and security. Now then, let us have Bacchides return, and he will capture all of them in a single night." [59]So they went and took counsel with him. [60]When Bacchides was setting out with a large force, he sent letters secretly to all his allies in Judea, telling them to seize Jonathan and his companions. They were not able to do this, however, because their plan became known. [61]In fact, Jonathan's men seized about fifty of the men of the country who were leaders in the conspiracy and put them to death.

[62]Then Jonathan and those with him, along with Simon, withdrew to Bethbasi in the wilderness; he rebuilt its ruins and fortified it. [63]When Bacchides learned of this, he gathered together his whole force and sent word to those who were in Judea. [64]He came and camped before Bethbasi, and constructing siege engines, he fought against it for many days.

[65]Leaving his brother Simon in the city, Jonathan, accompanied by a small group of men, went out into the countryside. [66]He struck down Odomera and his kindred and the tribe of Phasiron in their encampment; these men had begun to attack and they were going up with their forces. [67]Simon and those with him then sallied forth from the city and set fire to the siege engines. [68]They fought against Bacchides, and he was crushed. They caused him great distress, because the enterprise he had planned was in vain. [69]He was enraged with the lawless men who had advised him to invade the province. He killed many of them and resolved to return to his own country.

[70]Jonathan learned of this and sent ambassadors to agree on peace with him and to obtain the release of the prisoners. [71]He agreed to do as Jonathan asked. He swore an oath to him that he would never try to do him any harm for the rest of his life; [72]and he released to him the prisoners he had previously taken from the land of Judah. Thereupon he returned to his own land and never came into their territory again. [73]Then the sword ceased from Israel. Jonathan settled in Michmash; he began to judge the people and he eliminated the renegades from Israel.

23:25 "Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, you hypocrites. You cleanse the outside of cup and dish, but inside they are full of plunder and self-indulgence. [26]Blind Pharisee, cleanse first the inside of the cup, so that the outside also may be clean.

[27]"Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, you hypocrites. You are like whitewashed tombs, which appear beautiful on the outside, but inside are full of dead men's bones and every kind of filth. [28]Even so, on the outside you appear righteous, but inside you are filled with hypocrisy and evildoing.

[29]"Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, you hypocrites. You build the tombs of the prophets and adorn the memorials of the righteous, [30]and you say, 'If we had lived in the days of our ancestors, we would not have joined them in shedding the prophets' blood.' [31]Thus you bear witness against yourselves that you are the children of those who murdered the prophets; [32]now fill up what your ancestors measured out! [33]You serpents, you brood of vipers, how can you flee from the judgment of Gehenna? [34]Therefore, behold, I send to you prophets and wise men and scribes; some of them you will kill and crucify, some of them you will scourge in your synagogues and pursue from town to town, [35]so that there may come upon you all the righteous blood shed upon earth, from the righteous blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah, the son of Barachiah, whom you murdered between the sanctuary and the altar. [36]Amen, I say to you, all these things will come upon this generation.

The Lament over Jerusalem. [37]"Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you, how many times I yearned to gather your children together, as a hen gathers her young under her wings, but you were unwilling! [38]Behold, your house will be abandoned, desolate. [39]I tell you, you will not see me again until you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.' "

Jonathan Becomes High Priest. 10:1 In the one hundred and sixtieth year, Alexander Epiphanes, son of Antiochus, came up and took Ptolemais. They accepted him as king and he began to reign there. [2]When King Demetrius heard of it, he mustered a very large army and marched out to engage him in battle. [3]Demetrius sent a letter to Jonathan written in peaceful terms, to exalt him; [4]for he said: "Let us be the first to make peace with him, before he makes peace with Alexander against us, [5]since he will remember all the wrongs we have done to him, his brothers, and his nation."

[6]So Demetrius authorized him to gather an army and procure arms as his ally; and he ordered that the hostages in the citadel be released to him. [7]Accordingly Jonathan went to Jerusalem and read the letter to all the people and to those who were in the citadel. [8]They were struck with fear when they heard that the king had given him authority to gather an army. [9]Those in the citadel released the hostages to Jonathan, and he gave them back to their parents.

[10]Thereafter Jonathan dwelt in Jerusalem, and began to build and restore the city. [11]He ordered those doing the work to build the walls and to encircle Mount Zion with square stones for its fortification, and they did so. [12]The foreigners in the strongholds that Bacchides had built took flight; [13]all of them left their places and returned to their own lands. [14]Only in Beth-zur did some remain of those who had abandoned the law and the commandments, for it was a place of refuge.

[15]King Alexander heard of the promises that Demetrius had made to Jonathan; he was also told of the battles and brave deeds of Jonathan and his brothers and of the troubles that they had endured. [16]He said, "Shall we ever find another man like him? Let us now make him our friend and ally." [17]So he sent Jonathan a letter written in these terms:
[18]"King Alexander sends greetings to his brother Jonathan. [19]We have heard of you, that you are a mighty warrior and worthy to be our friend. [20]We have therefore appointed you today to be high priest of your nation; you are to be called the King's Friend, and you are to look after our interests and preserve friendship with us." He also sent him a purple robe and a crown of gold. [21]Jonathan put on the sacred vestments in the seventh month of the one hundred and sixtieth year at the feast of Booths, and he gathered an army and procured many weapons.

A Letter from Demetrius to Jonathan. [22]When Demetrius heard of these things, he was distressed and said:
[23]"Why have we allowed Alexander to get ahead of us by gaining the friendship of the Jews and thus strengthening himself? [24]I too will write them encouraging words and offer honors and gifts, so that they may support me." [25]So he sent them this message: "King Demetrius sends greetings to the Jewish nation. [26]We have heard how you have kept the treaty with us and continued in our friendship and not gone over to our enemies, and we are glad. [27]Continue, therefore, to keep faith with us, and we will reward you with favors in return for what you do in our behalf. [28]We will grant you many exemptions and will bestow gifts on you.

[29]"I now free you and exempt all the Jews from the tribute, the salt tax, and the crown levies. [30]Instead of collecting the third of the grain and the half of the fruit of the trees that should be my share, I renounce the right from this day forward. Neither now nor in the future will I collect them from the land of Judah or from the three districts annexed from Samaria. [31]Let Jerusalem and her territory, her tithes and her tolls, be sacred and free from tax. [32]I also yield my authority over the citadel in Jerusalem, and I transfer it to the high priest, that he may put in it such men as he shall choose to guard it. [33]Every Jew who has been carried into captivity from the land of Judah into any part of my kingdom
I set at liberty without ransom; and let all their taxes, even those on their cattle, be canceled.

[34]Let all feast days, sabbaths, new moon festivals, appointed days, and the three days that precede each feast day, and the three days that follow, be days of immunity and exemption for all Jews in my kingdom. [35]No one will have authority to exact payment from them or to harass any of them in any matter.

[36]"Let thirty thousand Jews be enrolled in the king's army and allowances be given them, as is due to all the king's soldiers. [37]Let some of them be stationed in the king's principal strongholds, and of these let some be given positions of trust in the affairs of the kingdom. Let their superiors and their rulers be chosen from among them, and let them follow their own laws, as the king has commanded in the land of Judah.

[38]"Let the three districts that have been added to Judea from the province of Samaria be annexed to Judea so that they may be under one rule and obey no other authority than the high priest. [39]Ptolemais and its confines I give as a present to the sanctuary in Jerusalem for the necessary expenses of the sanctuary. [40]I make a yearly personal grant of fifteen thousand silver shekels out of the royal revenues, taken from appropriate places. [41]All the additional funds that the officials did not hand over as they had done in the first years shall henceforth be handed over for the services of the temple. [42]Moreover, the dues of five thousand silver shekels that used to be taken from the revenue of the sanctuary every year shall be canceled, since these funds belong to the priests who perform the services. [43]All who take refuge in the temple of Jerusalem or in any of its precincts, because of money they owe the king, or because of any other debt, shall be released, together with all the goods they possess in my kingdom. [44]The cost of rebuilding and restoring the structures of the sanctuary shall be covered out of the royal revenue. [45]Likewise the cost of building the walls of Jerusalem and fortifying it all around, and of building walls in Judea, shall be donated from the royal revenue."

[46]When Jonathan and the people heard these words, they neither believed nor accepted them, for they remembered the great evil that Demetrius had done in Israel, and the great tribulation he had brought upon them. [47]They therefore decided in favor of Alexander, for he had been the first to address them peaceably, and they remained his allies for the rest of his life.

[48]Then King Alexander gathered together a large army and encamped opposite Demetrius. [49]The two kings joined battle, and when the army of Demetrius fled, Alexander pursued him, and overpowered his soldiers. [50]He pressed the battle hard until sunset, and Demetrius fell that day.

Treaty of Ptolemy and Alexander. [51]Alexander sent ambassadors to Ptolemy, king of Egypt, with this message: [52]"Now that I have returned to my realm, taken my seat on the throne of my ancestors, and established my rule by crushing Demetrius and gaining control of my country— [53]for I engaged him in battle, he and his army were crushed by us, and we assumed his royal throne— [54]let us now establish friendship with each other. Give me now your daughter for my wife; and as your son-in-law, I will give to you and to her gifts worthy of you."

[55]King Ptolemy answered in these words: "Happy the day on which you returned to the land of your ancestors and took your seat on their royal throne! [56]I will do for you what you have written; but meet me in Ptolemais, so that we may see each other, and I will become your father-in-law as you have proposed."

[57]So Ptolemy with his daughter Cleopatra set out from Egypt and came to Ptolemais in the one hundred and sixty-second year. [58]There King Alexander met him, and Ptolemy gave him his daughter Cleopatra in marriage. Their wedding was celebrated at Ptolemais with great splendor according to the custom of kings.

[59]King Alexander also wrote to Jonathan to come and meet him. [60]So he went with pomp to Ptolemais, where he met the two kings and gave them and their friends silver and gold and many gifts and thus won their favor. [61]Some villainous men of Israel, transgressors of the law, united against him to accuse him, but the king paid no heed to them. [62]The king ordered Jonathan to be divested of his garments and to be clothed in royal purple; and so it was done. [63]The king also had him seated at his side. He said to his magistrates: "Go with him to the center of the city and make a proclamation that no one is to bring charges against him on any grounds or be troublesome to him for any reason." [64]When his accusers saw the honor paid to him according to the king's proclamation, and him clothed in purple, they all fled. [65]And so the king honored him, enrolling him among his Chief Friends, and he made him governor and chief of the province. [66]So Jonathan returned in peace and happiness to Jerusalem.

Jonathan Defeats Apollonius. [67]In the one hundred and sixty-fifth year, Demetrius, son of Demetrius, came from Crete to the land of his ancestors. [68]When King Alexander heard of it he was greatly troubled, and returned to Antioch. [69]Demetrius set Apollonius over Coelesyria. Having gathered a large army, Apollonius encamped at Jamnia. From there he sent this message to Jonathan the high priest:

[70]"You are the only one who resists us. I am laughed at and put to shame on your account. Why are you exercising authority against us in the mountains? [71]If you have confidence in your forces, come down now to us in the plain, and let us test each other's strength there; for the forces of the cities are on my side. [72]Inquire and find out who I am and who the others are who are helping me. People are saying that you cannot make a stand against us because your ancestors were twice put to flight in their own land. [73]Now you too will be unable to withstand our cavalry and such a force as this in the plain, where there is not a stone or a pebble or a place to flee."

[74]When Jonathan heard the message of Apollonius, he was provoked. Choosing ten thousand men, he set out from Jerusalem, and Simon his brother joined him to help him. [75]He encamped near Joppa, but the people of the city shut him out because Apollonius had a garrison in Joppa. When they attacked it, [76]the people of the city became afraid and opened the gates, and so Jonathan took possession of Joppa.

[77]When Apollonius heard of it, he drew up three thousand cavalry and a large force of infantry. He marched toward Azotus as though he were going on through, but at the same time he was advancing into the plain, because he had such a large number of cavalry to rely on. [78]Jonathan pursued him toward Azotus, and the armies engaged in battle. [79]Apollonius, however, had left a thousand cavalry in hiding behind them. [80]Jonathan discovered that there was an ambush behind him; his army was surrounded. From morning until evening they showered his troops with arrows. [81]But his troops held their ground, as Jonathan had commanded, while the enemy's horses became tired out.

[82]Then Simon brought forward his force, and engaged the phalanx in battle. Since the cavalry were exhausted, the phalanx was crushed by him and fled, [83]while the cavalry too were scattered over the plain. They fled to Azotus and entered Beth-dagon, the temple of their idol, to save themselves. [84]But Jonathan burned and plundered Azotus with its neighboring towns, and destroyed by fire both the temple of Dagon and those who had taken refuge in it. [85]Those who fell by the sword, together with those who were burned alive, came to about eight thousand.

[86]Then Jonathan left there and encamped at Askalon, and the people of that city came out to meet him with great pomp. [87]Jonathan and those with him then returned to Jerusalem, with much spoil. [88]When King Alexander heard of these events, he accorded new honors to Jonathan. [89]He sent him a gold buckle, such as is usually given to King's Kinsmen; he also gave him Ekron and all its territory as a possession.

Alliance of Ptolemy and Demetrius II. 11:1 Then the king of Egypt gathered forces as numerous as the sands of the seashore, and many ships; and he sought by deceit to take Alexander's kingdom and add it to his own. [2]He set out for Syria with peaceful words, and the people in the cities opened their gates to welcome him, as King Alexander had ordered them to do, since Ptolemy was his father-in-law. [3]But when Ptolemy entered the cities, he stationed a garrison of troops in each one.

[4]As they neared Azotus, they showed him the temple of Dagon destroyed by fire, Azotus and its suburbs demolished, corpses lying about, and the charred bodies of those burned in the war, for they had heaped them up along his route. [5]They told the king what Jonathan had done in order to denigrate him; but the king said nothing. [6]Jonathan met the king with pomp at Joppa, and they greeted each other and spent the night there. [7]Jonathan accompanied the king as far as the river called Eleutherus and then returned to Jerusalem.

[8]And so King Ptolemy took possession of the cities along the seacoast as far as Seleucia by the sea, plotting evil schemes against Alexander all the while. [9]He sent ambassadors to King Demetrius, saying: "Come, let us make a covenant with each other; I will give you my daughter whom Alexander has married, and you shall reign over your father's kingdom. [10]I regret that I gave him my daughter, for he has sought to kill me." [11]He was criticizing Alexander, however, because he coveted his kingdom. [12]After taking his daughter away, Ptolemy gave her to Demetrius and broke with Alexander; the enmity between them was now evident. [13]Then Ptolemy entered Antioch and assumed the crown of Asia; thus he set upon his head two crowns, that of Egypt and that of Asia.

[14]Now King Alexander was in Cilicia at that time, because the people of that region had revolted. [15]When Alexander heard the news, he came against Ptolemy in battle. Ptolemy marched out and met him with a strong force and routed him. [16]When Alexander fled to Arabia to seek protection, King Ptolemy was triumphant. [17]Zabdiel the Arabian cut off Alexander's head and sent it to Ptolemy. [18]But three days later King Ptolemy himself died, and his troops in the strongholds were killed by the inhabitants of the strongholds. [19]Thus Demetrius became king in the one hundred and sixty-seventh year.

Alliance of Jonathan and Demetrius II. [20]In those days Jonathan gathered together the people of Judea to attack the citadel in Jerusalem, and they set up many siege engines against it. [21]But some transgressors of the law, enemies of their own nation, went to the king and informed him that Jonathan was besieging the citadel. [22]When Demetrius heard this, he was enraged; and as soon as he heard it, he set out and came to Ptolemais. He wrote to Jonathan to discontinue the siege and to meet him for a conference at Ptolemais as soon as possible.

[23]On hearing this, Jonathan ordered the siege to continue. He selected some elders and priests of Israel and put himself at risk. [24]Taking with him silver, gold and apparel, and many other presents, he went to the king at Ptolemais, and found favor with him. [25]Although certain renegades of his own nation kept on bringing charges against him, [26]the king treated him just as his predecessors had done and exalted him in the presence of all his Friends. [27]He confirmed him in the high priesthood and in the other honors he had previously held, and had him enrolled among his Chief Friends.

[28]Jonathan asked the king to exempt Judea and the three districts of Samaria from tribute, promising him in return three hundred talents. [29]The king agreed and wrote a letter to Jonathan about all these matters as follows:

[30]"King Demetrius sends greetings to his brother Jonathan and to the Jewish nation. [31]We are sending you, for your information, a copy of the letter that we wrote to Lasthenes our Kinsman concerning you. [32]'King Demetrius sends greetings to his father Lasthenes. [33]Upon the Jewish nation, who are our friends and observe their obligations to us, we have decided to bestow benefits because of the good will they show us. [34]Therefore we confirm their possession, not only of the territory of Judea, but also of the three districts of Aphairema, Lydda, and Ramathaim. These districts, together with all their dependencies, are hereby transferred from Samaria to Judea for those who offer sacrifices in Jerusalem in lieu of the royal taxes the king used to receive yearly from the produce of earth and trees. [35]From payment of the other things that would henceforth be due to us, namely, the tithes and taxes, as well as the salt tax, and the crown tax—from all these we grant them release. [36]Henceforth and forever not one of these provisions shall ever be revoked. [37]See to it, therefore, that a copy of these instructions be made and given to Jonathan. Let it be displayed on the holy mountain in a conspicuous place.' "

The Intrigue of Trypho. [38]When King Demetrius saw that the land was peaceful under his rule and that he had no opposition, he dismissed his entire army, each to his own home, except the foreign troops which he had hired from the islands of the nations. So all the soldiers who had served under his predecessors became hostile to him. [39]When a certain Trypho, who had previously supported Alexander, saw that all the troops were grumbling against Demetrius, he went to Imalkue the Arabian, who was raising Alexander's young son Antiochus. [40]Trypho kept urging Imalkue to hand over the boy to him, so that he might succeed his father as king. He told him of all that Demetrius had done and of the hostility his soldiers had for him; and he remained there for many days.

Jonathan Aids Demetrius II. [41]Meanwhile Jonathan sent the request to King Demetrius to withdraw the troops in the citadel from Jerusalem and from the other strongholds, for they were constantly waging war on Israel. [42]Demetrius, in turn, sent this word to Jonathan: "I will do not only this for you and your nation, but I will greatly honor you and your nation when I find the opportunity. [43]Now, therefore, you will do well to send men to fight for me, because all my troops have revolted."

[44]So Jonathan sent three thousand good fighting men to him at Antioch. When they came to the king, he was delighted over their arrival. [45]The populace, one hundred and twenty thousand strong, massed in the center of the city in an attempt to kill the king. [46]So the king took refuge in the palace, while the populace gained control of the main streets of the city and prepared for battle. [47]Then the king called the Jewish force to his aid. They all rallied around him and spread out through the city. On that day they killed about a hundred thousand in the city. [48]At the same time, they set the city on fire and took much spoil. Thus they saved the king. [49]When the populace saw that the Jewish force controlled the city, they lost courage and cried out to the king in supplication, [50]"Extend the hand of friendship to us, and make the Jews stop attacking us and the city." [51]So they threw down their weapons and made peace. The Jews thus gained honor in the eyes of the king and all his subjects, and they became renowned throughout his kingdom. Finally they returned to Jerusalem with much plunder.

[52]But when King Demetrius was sure of his royal throne, and the land was peaceful under his rule, [53]he broke all his promises and became estranged from Jonathan. Instead of repaying Jonathan for all the favors he had received from him, he caused him much distress.

Alliance of Jonathan and Antiochus VI. [54]After this, Trypho returned and brought with him the young boy Antiochus, who became king and put on the diadem. [55]All the soldiers whom Demetrius had discharged rallied around Antiochus and fought against Demetrius, who was routed and fled. [56]Trypho captured the elephants and occupied Antioch. [57]Then young Antiochus wrote to Jonathan: "I confirm you in the high priesthood and appoint you ruler over the four districts, and to be one of the King's Friends." [58]He also sent him gold dishes and a table service, gave him the right to drink from gold cups, to dress in royal purple, and to wear a gold buckle. [59]Likewise, he made Jonathan's brother Simon governor of the region from the Ladder of Tyre to the borders of Egypt.

Campaigns of Jonathan and Simon. [60]Jonathan set out and traveled through the province of West-of-Euphrates and its cities, and all the forces of Syria espoused his cause as allies. When he arrived at Askalon, the citizens welcomed him with pomp. [61]But when he set out for Gaza, the people of Gaza shut him out. So he besieged it, and burned and plundered its suburbs. [62]Then the people of Gaza appealed to Jonathan, and he granted them terms of peace. He took the sons of their leaders as hostages and sent them to Jerusalem. He then traveled on through the province as far as Damascus.

[63]Jonathan heard that the generals of Demetrius had come with a strong force to Kadesh in Galilee, intending to remove him from office. [64]So he went to meet them, leaving his brother Simon in the province. [65]Simon encamped against Beth-zur, attacked it for many days, and shut in the inhabitants. [66]They appealed to him, and he granted them terms of peace. He expelled them from the city, took possession of it, and put a garrison there.

[67]Meanwhile, Jonathan and his army pitched their camp near the waters of Gennesaret, and at daybreak they went to the plain of Hazor. [68]There the army of the foreigners met him on the plain. Having first detached an ambush in the mountains, this army mounted a frontal attack. [69]Then those in ambush rose out of their places and joined in the battle. [70]All of Jonathan's men fled; no one stayed except the army commanders Mattathias, son of Absalom, and Judas, son of Chalphi. [71]Jonathan tore his clothes, threw dust on his head, and prayed. [72]Then he went back to the battle and routed them, and they fled. [73]Those of his men who were running away saw it and returned to him; and with him they pursued the enemy as far as their camp in Kadesh, and there they encamped. [74]About three thousand of the foreign troops fell on that day. Then Jonathan returned to Jerusalem.

Alliances with Rome and Sparta. 12:1 When Jonathan saw that the time was right, he chose men and sent them to Rome to confirm and renew the friendship with the Romans. [2]He also sent letters to the Spartans and other places to the same effect.

[3]After reaching Rome, the men entered the senate chamber and said, "The high priest Jonathan and the Jewish people have sent us to renew the friendship and alliance of earlier times with them." [4]The Romans gave them letters addressed to authorities in various places, with the request to provide them with safe conduct to the land of Judah.

[5]This is a copy of the letter that Jonathan wrote to the Spartans: [6]"Jonathan the high priest, the senate of the nation, the priests, and the rest of the Jewish people send greetings to their brothers the Spartans. [7]Long ago a letter was sent to the high priest Onias from Arius, who then reigned over you, stating that you are our brothers, as the attached copy shows. [8]Onias welcomed the envoy with honor and received the letter, which spoke clearly of alliance and friendship. [9]Though we have no need of these things, since we have for our encouragement the holy books that are in our possession, [10]we have ventured to send word to you for the renewal of brotherhood and friendship, lest we become strangers to you; a long time has passed since you sent your message to us. [11]We, on our part, have unceasingly remembered you in the sacrifices and prayers that we offer on our feasts and other appropriate days, as it is right and proper to remember brothers. [12]We likewise rejoice in your renown. [13]But many tribulations and many wars have beset us, and the kings around us have attacked us. [14]We did not wish to be troublesome to you and to the rest of our allies and friends in these wars. [15]For we have the help of Heaven for our support, and we have been saved from our enemies, and our enemies have been humbled. [16]So we have chosen Numenius, son of Antiochus, and Antipater, son of Jason, and we have sent them to the Romans to renew with them the friendship and alliance of earlier times. [17]We have also ordered them to come to you and greet you, and to deliver to you our letter concerning the renewal of our brotherhood. [18]Therefore kindly send us an answer on this matter."

[19]This is a copy of the letter that they sent to Onias: [20]"Arius, king of the Spartans, sends greetings to Onias the high priest. [21]A document has been found stating that the Spartans and the Jews are brothers and that they are of the family of Abraham. [22]Now that we have learned this, kindly write to us about your welfare. [23]We, for our part, declare to you that your animals and your possessions are ours, and ours are yours. We have, therefore, given orders that you should be told of this."

More Campaigns of Jonathan and Simon. [24]Then Jonathan heard that the officers of Demetrius had returned to attack him with a stronger army than before. [25]So he set out from Jerusalem and met them in the territory of Hamath, giving them no opportunity to enter his province. [26]The spies he had sent into their camp came back and reported to him that the enemy were preparing to attack them that night. [27]Therefore, when the sun set, Jonathan ordered his men to keep watch, with their weapons at the ready for battle, throughout the night; and he set outposts around the camp. [28]When the enemy heard that Jonathan and his men were ready for battle, their hearts sank with fear and dread. They lighted fires in their camp and then withdrew. [29]But because Jonathan and his men were watching the campfires burning, they did not know until the morning what had happened. [30]Then Jonathan pursued them, but he could not overtake them, for they had crossed the river Eleutherus. [31]So Jonathan turned aside against the Arabians who are called Zabadeans, and he struck them down and plundered them. [32]Then he broke camp, marched on toward Damascus and traveled through the whole region.

[33]Simon also set out and traveled as far as Askalon and its neighboring strongholds. He then turned to Joppa and took it by surprise, [34]for he heard that its people intended to hand over the stronghold to the supporters of Demetrius. He left a garrison there to guard it.

[35]When Jonathan returned, he assembled the elders of the people, and with them he made plans for building strongholds in Judea, [36]for making the walls of Jerusalem still higher, and for erecting a high barrier between the citadel and the city, to separate it from the city and isolate it, so that its garrison could neither buy nor sell. [37]The people therefore gathered together to build up the city, for part of the wall of the eastern valley had collapsed. And Jonathan repaired the quarter called Chaphenatha. [38]Simon likewise built up Adida in the Shephelah, and fortified it by installing gates and bars.

Capture of Jonathan. [39]Then Trypho sought to become king of Asia, assume the diadem, and do violence to King Antiochus. [40]But he was afraid that Jonathan would not permit him, but would fight against him. Looking for a way to seize and kill him, he set out and came to Beth-shan. [41]Jonathan marched out to meet him with forty thousand picked fighting men and came to Beth-shan. [42]But when Trypho saw that Jonathan had arrived with a large army he was afraid to do him violence. [43]Instead, he received him with honor, introduced him to all his friends, and gave him presents. He also ordered his friends and soldiers to obey him as they would himself. [44]Then he said to Jonathan: "Why have you put all these people to so much trouble when we are not at war? [45]Now pick out a few men to stay with you, send the rest to their homes, and then come with me to Ptolemais. I will hand it over to you together with other strongholds and the remaining troops, as well as all the officials; then I will turn back and go home. That is why I came here."

[46]Jonathan trusted him and did as he said. He dismissed his troops, and they returned to the land of Judah. [47]But he kept with him three thousand men, of whom he left two thousand in Galilee while one thousand accompanied him. [48]Then as soon as Jonathan entered Ptolemais, the people of Ptolemais closed the gates and seized him; all who had entered with him, they killed with the sword.

[49]Then Trypho sent soldiers and cavalry to Galilee and the Great Plain to destroy all Jonathan's men. [50]These, upon learning that Jonathan had been captured and killed along with his companions, encouraged one another and went out in close formation, ready to fight. [51]As their pursuers saw that they were ready to fight for their lives, they turned back. [52]Thus all Jonathan's men came safely into the land of Judah. They mourned Jonathan and those who were with him. They were in great fear, and all Israel fell into deep mourning. [53]All the nations round about sought to crush them. They said, "Now that they have no leader or helper, let us make war on them and wipe out their memory from the earth."

Simon as Leader. 13:1 When Simon heard that Trypho was gathering a large army to invade and ravage the land of Judah, [2]and saw that the people were trembling with terror, he went up to Jerusalem. There he assembled the people [3]and exhorted them in these words: "You know what I, my brothers, and my father's house have done for the laws and the sanctuary; what battles and hardships we have seen. [4]For the sake of this, for the sake of Israel, all my brothers have perished, and I alone am left. [5]Far be it from me, then, to save my own life in any time of distress, for I am not better than my brothers. [6]But I will avenge my nation and the sanctuary, as well as your wives and children, for out of hatred all the Gentiles have united to crush us."

[7]As the people heard these words, their spirit was rekindled. [8]They shouted in reply: "You are our leader in place of your brothers Judas and Jonathan. [9]Fight our battles, and we will do everything that you tell us." [10]So Simon mustered all the men able to fight, and hastening to complete the walls of Jerusalem, fortified it on every side. [11]He sent Jonathan, son of Absalom, to Joppa with a strong force; Jonathan drove out the occupants and remained there.

Trypho's Deceit. [12]Then Trypho moved from Ptolemais with a large army to invade the land of Judah, bringing Jonathan with him as a prisoner. [13]Simon encamped at Adida, facing the plain. [14]When Trypho learned that Simon had succeeded his brother Jonathan, and that he intended to fight him, he sent ambassadors to him with this message: [15]"It was on account of the money your brother Jonathan owed the royal treasury in connection with the offices that he held, that we have detained him. [16]Now send a hundred talents of silver, and two of his sons as hostages to guarantee that when he is set free he will not revolt against us, and we will release him."

[17]Simon knew that they were speaking deceitfully to him. Nevertheless, for fear of provoking much hostility among the people, he sent for the money and the boys, [18]lest the people say "Jonathan perished because I would not send Trypho the money and the boys." [19]So he sent the boys and the hundred talents; but Trypho broke his promise and would not release Jonathan.

[20]Next Trypho moved to invade and ravage the country. His troops went around by the road that leads to Adora, but Simon and his army moved along opposite him everywhere he went. [21]The people in the citadel kept sending emissaries to Trypho, pressing him to come to them by way of the wilderness, and to send them provisions. [22]Although Trypho got all his cavalry ready to go, there was a very heavy snowfall that night, and he could not go on account of the snow. So he left for Gilead. [23]When he was approaching Baskama, he had Jonathan killed and buried him there. [24]Then Trypho returned to his own land.

Jonathan's Tomb. [25]Simon sent for the remains of his brother Jonathan, and buried him in Modein, the city of his ancestors. [26]All Israel bewailed him with solemn lamentation, mourning over him for many days. [27]Then Simon erected over the tomb of his father and his brothers a monument of stones, polished front and back, and raised high enough to be seen at a distance. [28]He set up seven pyramids facing one another for his father and his mother and his four brothers. [29]For the pyramids he devised a setting of massive columns, which he adorned with suits of armor as a perpetual memorial, and next to the armor carved ships, which could be seen by all who sailed the sea. [30]This tomb which he built at Modein is there to the present day.

Alliance of Simon and Demetrius II. [31]Trypho dealt treacherously with the young King Antiochus. He killed him [32]and became king in his place, putting on the crown of Asia. Thus he brought much evil on the land. [33]Simon, for his part, built up the strongholds of Judea, fortifying them all around with high towers, thick walls, and gates with bars, and he stored up provisions in the strongholds. [34]Simon also chose men and sent them to King Demetrius to obtain for the land an exemption from taxation, since Trypho did nothing but plunder. [35]King Demetrius replied favorably and sent him the following letter:

[36]"King Demetrius sends greetings to Simon, high priest and friend of kings, and to the elders and the Jewish people. [37]We have received the gold crown and the palm branch that you sent. We are ready to make a lasting peace with you and to write to our officials to grant you exemption. [38]Whatever decrees we have made in your regard remain in force, and the strongholds that you have built you may keep. [39]We pardon any oversights and offenses committed up to now, as well as the crown tax that you owe. Any other tax that used to be collected in Jerusalem shall no longer be collected there. [40]Any of you qualified for enrollment in our service may be enrolled. Let there be peace between us."

Simon Captures Gazara. [43]In those days Simon besieged Gazara and surrounded it with troops. He made a siege machine, brought it up against the city, and attacked and captured one of the towers. [44]Those in the siege machine leaped down into the city and a great tumult arose there. [45]Those in the city, together with their wives and children, went up on the wall, with their garments rent, and cried out in loud voices, begging Simon to grant them terms of peace. [46]They said, "Treat us not according to our evil deeds but according to your mercy." [47]So Simon came to terms with them and did not attack them. He expelled them from the city, however, and he purified the houses in which there were idols. Then he entered the city with hymns and songs of praise. [48]After removing from it everything that was impure, he settled there people who observed the law. He improved its fortifications and built himself a residence.

Simon Captures the Citadel. [49]The people in the citadel in Jerusalem were prevented from going out into the country and back to buy or sell; they suffered greatly from hunger, and many of them died of starvation. [50]They finally cried out to Simon, and he gave them terms of peace. He expelled them from the citadel and cleansed it of impurities. [51]On the twenty-third day of the second month, in the one hundred and seventy-first year, the Jews entered the citadel with shouts of praise, the waving of palm branches, the playing of harps and cymbals and lyres, and the singing of hymns and canticles, because a great enemy of Israel had been crushed. [52]Simon decreed that this day should be celebrated every year with rejoicing. He also strengthened the fortifications of the temple mount alongside the citadel, and he and his people dwelt there. [53]Seeing that his son John was now a grown man, Simon made him commander of all his soldiers, and he dwelt in Gazara.

The Destruction of the Temple Foretold. 24:1 Jesus left the temple area and was going away, when his disciples approached him to point out the temple buildings. [2]He said to them in reply, "You see all these things, do you not? Amen, I say to you, there will not be left here a stone upon another stone that will not be thrown down."

The Beginning of Calamities. [3]As he was sitting on the Mount of Olives, the disciples approached him privately and said, "Tell us, when will this happen, and what sign will there be of your coming, and of the end of the age?" [4]Jesus said to them in reply, "See that no one deceives you. [5]For many will come in my name, saying, 'I am the Messiah,' and they will deceive many. [6]You will hear of wars and reports of wars; see that you are not alarmed, for these things must happen, but it will not yet be the end. [7]Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom; there will be famines and earthquakes from place to place. [8]All these are the beginning of the labor pains. [9]Then they will hand you over to persecution, and they will kill you. You will be hated by all nations because of my name. [10]And then many will be led into sin; they will betray and hate one another. [11]Many false prophets will arise and deceive many; [12]and because of the increase of evildoing, the love of many will grow cold. [13]But the one who perseveres to the end will be saved. [14]And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached throughout the world as a witness to all nations, and then the end will come."

☐ 1 MACCABEES 14-16

Capture of Demetrius II. 14:1 In the one hundred and seventy-second year, King Demetrius assembled his army and marched into Media to obtain help so that he could fight Trypho. [2]When Arsaces, king of Persia and Media, heard that Demetrius had entered his territory, he sent one of his generals to take him alive. [3]The general went forth and attacked the army of Demetrius; he captured him and brought him to Arsaces, who put him under guard.

Praise of Simon. [4]The land was at rest all the days of Simon, who sought the good of his nation.
His rule delighted his people
and his glory all his days.
[5]As his crowning glory he took Joppa for a port and made it a gateway to the isles of the sea.
[6]He enlarged the borders of his nation
and gained control of the country.
[7]He took many prisoners of war and made himself master of Gazara, Beth-zur, and the citadel.
He cleansed the citadel of its impurities;
there was no one to withstand him.
[8]The people cultivated their land in peace;
the land yielded its produce,
the trees of the field their fruit.
[9]Old men sat in the squares,
all talking about the good times,
while the young men put on the glorious raiment of war.
[10]He supplied the cities with food
and equipped them with means of defense,
till his glorious name reached the ends of the earth.
[11]He brought peace to the land,
and Israel was filled with great joy.
[12]Every one sat under his vine and fig tree,
with no one to disturb them.
[13]No attacker was left in the land;
the kings in those days were crushed.

[14]He strengthened all the lowly among his people and was zealous for the law;
he destroyed the lawless and the wicked.
[15]The sanctuary he made splendid and multiplied its furnishings.

Alliance with Rome and Sparta. [16]When people in Rome and even in Sparta heard that Jonathan had died, they were deeply grieved. [17]But when they heard that his brother Simon had become high priest in his place and was master of the territory and its cities, [18]they sent him inscribed tablets of bronze to renew with him the friendship and alliance that they had established with his brothers Judas and Jonathan. [19]These were read before the assembly in Jerusalem.

[20]This is a copy of the letter that the Spartans sent: "The rulers and the city of the Spartans send greetings to Simon the high priest, the elders, the priests, and the rest of the Jewish people, our brothers. [21]The ambassadors sent to our people have informed us of your glory and renown, and we rejoiced at their coming. [22]In accordance with what they said we have recorded the following in the public decrees: Numenius, son of Antiochus, and Antipater, son of Jason, ambassadors of the Jews, have come to us to renew their friendship with us. [23]The people have resolved to receive these men with honor, and to deposit a copy of their words in the public archives, so that the people of Sparta may have a record of them. A copy of this decree has been made for Simon the high priest."

Official Honors for Simon. [25]When the people heard of these things, they said, "How shall we thank Simon and his sons? [26]He and his brothers and his father's house have stood firm and repulsed Israel's enemies, and so have established its freedom." So they made an inscription on bronze tablets, which they affixed to pillars on Mount Zion.

[27]The following is a copy of the inscription: "On the eighteenth day of Elul, in the one hundred and seventy-second year, that is, the third year under Simon the great high priest in Asaramel, [28]in a great assembly of priests, people, rulers of the nation, and elders of the region, the following proclamation was made to us:

[29]" 'Since there have often been wars in our country, Simon, son of the priest Mattathias, descendant of Joarib, and his brothers have put themselves in danger and resisted the enemies of their nation, so that their sanctuary and law might be maintained, and they have thus brought great glory to their nation. [30]Jonathan rallied the nation, became their high priest, and was gathered to his people. [31]When their enemies sought to invade and ravage their country and to violate their sanctuary, [32]Simon rose up and fought for his nation, spending large sums of his own money to equip his nation's forces and give them their pay. [33]He fortified the cities of Judea, especially the border city of Beth-zur, formerly the site of the enemy's weaponry, and he stationed there a garrison of Jewish soldiers. [34]He also fortified Joppa by the sea and Gazara on the border of Azotus, a place previously occupied by the enemy; these cities he settled with Jews and furnished them with all that was necessary for their restoration. [35]When the people saw Simon's fidelity and the glory he planned to bring to his nation, they made him their leader and high priest because of all he had accomplished and the justice and fidelity he had shown his nation. In every way he sought to exalt his people.

[36]" 'In his time and under his guidance they succeeded in driving the Gentiles out of their country and those in the City of David in Jerusalem, who had built for themselves a citadel from which they used to sally forth to defile the environs of the sanctuary and inflict grave injury on its purity. [37]In this citadel he stationed Jewish soldiers, and he strengthened its fortifications for the security of the land and the city, while he also built up the wall of Jerusalem to a greater height. [38]Consequently, King Demetrius confirmed him in the high priesthood, [39]made him one of his Friends, and conferred great honor on him. [40]This was because he had heard that the Romans had addressed the Jews as friends, allies, and brothers, that they had received Simon's envoys with honor, [41]and that the Jewish people and their priests had decided the following: Simon shall be their leader and high priest forever until a trustworthy prophet arises. [42]He shall act as governor over them, and shall have charge of the sanctuary, to make regulations concerning its functions and concerning the country, its weapons and strongholds. [43]He shall be obeyed by all. All contracts in the country shall be written in his name, and he shall be clothed in purple and gold. [44]It shall not be lawful for any of the people or priests to nullify any of these decisions, or to contradict the orders given by him, or to convene an assembly in the country without his consent, to be clothed in purple or wear a gold buckle. [45]Whoever acts otherwise or violates any of these prescriptions shall be liable to punishment.

[46]" 'Thus all the people approved of granting Simon the right to act in accord with these decisions, [47]and Simon accepted and agreed to be high priest, governor, and ethnarch of the Jewish people and priests, and to have authority over all.' "

[48]It was decreed that this inscription should be engraved on bronze tablets, to be set up in a conspicuous place in the precincts of the sanctuary, [49]and that copies of it should be deposited in the treasury, where they would be available to Simon and his sons.

Letter of Antiochus VII. 15:1 Antiochus, son of King Demetrius, sent a letter from the islands of the sea to Simon, the priest and ethnarch of the Jews, and to all the nation, [2]which read as follows:

"King Antiochus sends greetings to Simon, the high priest and ethnarch, and to the Jewish nation. [3]Whereas certain villains have gained control of the kingdom of our ancestors, I intend to reclaim it, that I may restore it to its former state. I have recruited a large number of mercenary troops and equipped warships. [4]I intend to make a landing in the country so that I may take revenge on those who have ruined our country and laid waste many cities in my kingdom.

[5]"Now, therefore, I confirm to you all the tax exemptions that the kings before me granted you and whatever other privileges they conceded to you. [6]I authorize you to coin your own money, as legal tender in your country. [7]Jerusalem and its sanctuary shall be free. All the weapons you have prepared and all the strongholds you have built and now occupy shall remain in your possession. [8]All debts, present or future, due to the royal treasury shall be canceled for you, now and for all time. [9]When we establish our kingdom, we will greatly honor you and your nation and the temple, so that your glory will be manifest in all the earth."

[10]In the one hundred and seventy-fourth year Antiochus invaded the land of his ancestors, and all the troops rallied to him, so that few were left with Trypho. [11]Pursued by Antiochus, Trypho fled to Dor, by the sea, [12]realizing what troubles had come upon him now that his soldiers had deserted him. [13]Antiochus encamped before Dor with a hundred and twenty thousand infantry and eight thousand cavalry. [14]While he surrounded the city, his ships closed from the sea, so that he pressed it hard by land and sea and let no one go in or out.

Roman Alliance Renewed. [15]Meanwhile, Numenius and his companions came from Rome with letters containing this message to various kings and countries: [16]"Lucius, Consul of the Romans, sends greetings to King Ptolemy. [17]Ambassadors of the Jews, our friends and allies, have come to us to renew their earlier friendship and alliance. They had been sent by Simon the high priest and the Jewish people, [18]and they brought with them a gold shield of a thousand minas. [19]Therefore we have decided to write to various kings and countries, that they are not to venture to harm them, or wage war against them or their cities or their country, and are not to assist those who fight against them. [20]We have also decided to accept the shield from them. [21]If, then, any troublemakers from their country take refuge with you, hand them over to Simon the high priest, so that he may punish them according to their law."

[22]The consul sent identical letters to Kings Demetrius, Attalus, Ariarthes and Arsaces; [23]to all the countries—Sampsames, the Spartans, Delos, Myndos, Sicyon, Caria, Samos, Pamphylia, Lycia, Halicarnassus, Rhodes, Phaselis, Cos, Side, Aradus, Gortyna, Cnidus, Cyprus, and Cyrene. [24]A copy of the letter was also sent to Simon the high priest.

Hostility from Antiochus VII. [25]When King Antiochus encamped before Dor, he assaulted it continuously both with troops and with the siege engines he had made. He blockaded Trypho by preventing anyone from going in or out. [26]Simon sent to Antiochus' support two thousand elite troops, together with silver and gold and much equipment. [27]But he refused to accept the aid; in fact, he broke all the agreements he had previously made with Simon and became hostile toward him.

[28]He sent Athenobius, one of his Friends, to confer with Simon and say: "You are occupying Joppa and Gazara and the citadel of Jerusalem; these are cities of my kingdom. [29]You have laid waste their territories, done great harm to the land, and taken possession of many districts in my kingdom. [30]Now, therefore, give up the cities you have seized and the tribute money of the districts you control outside the territory of Judea; [31]or instead, pay me five hundred talents of silver for the devastation you have caused and five hundred talents more for the tribute money of the cities. If you do not do this, we will come and make war on you."

[32]So Athenobius, the king's Friend, came to Jerusalem and on seeing the splendor of Simon's court, the gold and silver plate on the sideboard, and his rich display, he was amazed. When he gave him the king's message, [33]Simon said to him in reply: "It is not foreign land we have taken nor have we seized the property of others, but only our ancestral heritage which for a time had been unjustly held by our enemies. [34]Now that we have the opportunity, we are holding on to the heritage of our ancestors. [35]As for Joppa and Gazara, which you demand, those cities were doing great harm to our people and our country. For these we will give you a hundred talents." Athenobius made no reply, [36]but returned to the king in anger. When he told him of Simon's words, of his splendor, and of all he had seen, the king fell into a violent rage.

Victory over Cendebeus. [37]Trypho had boarded a ship and escaped to Orthosia. [38]Then the king appointed Cendebeus commander-in-chief of the seacoast, and gave him infantry and cavalry forces. [39]He ordered him to encamp against Judea and to fortify Kedron and strengthen its gates, so that he could wage war on the people. Meanwhile the king went in pursuit of Trypho. [40]When Cendebeus came to Jamnia, he began to harass the people and to make incursions into Judea, where he took people captive and massacred them. [41]As the king ordered, he fortified Kedron and stationed cavalry and infantry there, so that they could go out and patrol the roads of Judea.

16:1 John then went up from Gazara and told his father Simon what Cendebeus was doing. [2]Simon called his two oldest sons, Judas and John, and said to them: "I and my brothers and my father's house have fought the wars of Israel from our youth until today, and many times we succeeded in saving Israel. [3]I have now grown old, but you, by the mercy of Heaven, have come to maturity. Take my place and my brother's, and go out and fight for our nation; and may the help of Heaven be with you!"

[4]John then mustered in the land twenty thousand warriors and cavalry. Setting out against Cendebeus, they spent the night at Modein, [5]rose early, and marched into the plain. There, facing them, was an immense army of foot soldiers and cavalry, and between the two armies was a wadi. [6]John and his people took their position against the enemy. Seeing that his people were afraid to cross the wadi, John crossed first. When his men saw this, they crossed over after him. [7]Then he divided his infantry and put his cavalry in the center, for the enemy's cavalry were very numerous. [8]They blew the trumpets, and Cendebeus and his army were routed; many of them fell wounded, and the rest fled toward the stronghold. [9]It was then that John's brother Judas fell wounded; but John pursued them until Cendebeus reached Kedron, which he had fortified. [10]Some took refuge in the towers on the plain of Azotus, but John set fire to these, and about two thousand of the enemy perished. He then returned to Judea in peace.

Murder of Simon and His Sons. [11]Ptolemy, son of Abubus, had been appointed governor of the plain of Jericho, and he had much silver and gold, [12]being the son-in-law of the high priest. [13]But his heart became proud and he was determined to get control of the country. So he made treacherous plans to do away with Simon and his sons. [14]As Simon was inspecting the cities of the country and providing for their needs, he and his sons Mattathias and Judas went down to Jericho in the one hundred and seventy-seventh year, in the eleventh month (that is, the month Shebat). [15]The son of Abubus gave them a deceitful welcome in the little stronghold called Dok which he had built. He served them a sumptuous banquet, but he had his men hidden there. [16]Then, when Simon and his sons were drunk, Ptolemy and his men sprang up, weapons in hand, rushed upon Simon in the banquet hall, and killed him, his two sons, and some of his servants. [17]By this vicious act of treachery he repaid good with evil.

[18]Then Ptolemy wrote a report and sent it to the king, asking him to send troops to help him and to turn over to him their country and its cities. [19]He sent other men to Gazara to do away with John. To the army officers he sent letters inviting them to come to him so that he might present them with silver, gold, and gifts. [20]He also sent others to seize Jerusalem and the temple mount. [21]But someone ran ahead and brought word to John at Gazara that his father and his brothers had perished, and "Ptolemy has sent men to kill you also." [22]On hearing this, John was utterly astounded. When the men came to kill him, he seized them and put them to death, for he knew that they sought to kill him.

[23]Now the rest of the acts of John, his wars and the brave deeds he performed, his rebuilding of the walls, and all his achievements— [24]these are recorded in the chronicle of his high priesthood, from the time that he succeeded his father as high priest.

The Great Tribulation. 24:15 "When you see the desolating abomination spoken of through Daniel the prophet standing in the holy place (let the reader understand), [16]then those in Judea must flee to the mountains, [17]a person on the housetop must not go down to get things out of his house, [18]a person in the field must not return to get his cloak. [19]Woe to pregnant women and nursing mothers in those days. [20]Pray that your flight not be in winter or on the sabbath, [21]for at that time there will be great tribulation, such as has not been since the beginning of the world until now, nor ever will be. [22]And if those days had not been shortened, no one would be saved; but for the sake of the elect they will be shortened. [23]If anyone says to you then, 'Look, here is the Messiah!' or, 'There he is!' do not believe it. [24]False messiahs and false prophets will arise, and they will perform signs and wonders so great as to deceive, if that were possible, even the elect. [25]Behold, I have told it to you beforehand. [26]So if they say to you, 'He is in the desert,' do not go out there; if they say, 'He is in the inner rooms,' do not believe it. [27]For just as lightning comes from the east and is seen as far as the west, so will the coming of the Son of Man be. [28]Wherever the corpse is, there the vultures will gather."

Whatever has been prophesied in Scripture is coming to pass, and as the end of the world approaches, it tests both men and the times.

Letter 1: 124 B.C. 1:1 The Jews in Jerusalem and in the land of Judea send greetings to their kindred, the Jews in Egypt, and wish them true peace! [2]May God do good to you and remember his covenant with his faithful servants, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, [3]give to all of you a heart to worship him and to do his will wholeheartedly and with a willing spirit, [4]open your heart to his law and commandments and grant you peace, [5]hear your prayers, and be reconciled to you, and never forsake you in time of adversity. [6]Even now we are praying for you here.

[7]In the reign of Demetrius, the one hundred and sixty-ninth year, we Jews wrote to you during the height of the distress that overtook us in those years after Jason and his followers revolted against the holy land and the kingdom, [8]set fire to the gatehouse and shed innocent blood. But we prayed to the Lord, and our prayer was heard; we offered sacrifices and fine flour; we lighted the lamps and set out the loaves of bread. [9]We are now reminding you to celebrate the feast of Booths in the month of Kislev. [10]Dated in the one hundred and eighty-eighth year.

Letter 2: 164 B.C. The people of Jerusalem and Judea, the senate, and Judas send greetings and good wishes to Aristobulus, teacher of King Ptolemy and member of the family of the anointed priests, and to the Jews in Egypt. [11]Since we have been saved by God from grave dangers, we give him great thanks as befits those who fought against the king; [12]for it was God who drove out those who fought against the holy city. [13]When their leader arrived in Persia with his seemingly irresistible army, they were cut to pieces in the temple of the goddess Nanea through a deceitful stratagem employed by Nanea's priests. [14]On the pretext of marrying the goddess, Antiochus with his Friends had come to the place to get its great treasures as a dowry. [15]When the priests of Nanea's temple had displayed the treasures and Antiochus with a few attendants had come inside the wall of the temple precincts, the priests locked the temple as soon as he entered. [16]Then they opened a hidden trapdoor in the ceiling, and hurling stones at the leader and his companions, struck them down. They dismembered the bodies, cut off their heads and tossed them to the people outside. [17]Forever blessed be our God, who has thus punished the impious!

[18]Since we shall be celebrating the purification of the temple on the twenty-fifth day of the month Kislev, we thought it right to inform you, that you too may celebrate the feast of Booths and of the fire that appeared when Nehemiah, the rebuilder of the temple and the altar, offered sacrifices. [19]For when our ancestors were being led into captivity in Persia, devout priests at the time took some of the fire from the altar and hid it secretly in the hollow of a dry cistern, making sure that the place would be unknown to anyone. [20]Many years later, when it so pleased God, Nehemiah, commissioned by the king of Persia, sent the descendants of the priests who had hidden the fire to look for it. [21]When they informed us that they could not find any fire, but only a thick liquid, he ordered them to scoop some out and bring it. After the material for the sacrifices had been prepared, Nehemiah ordered the priests to sprinkle the wood and what lay on it with the liquid. [22]This was done, and when at length the sun, which had been clouded over, began to shine, a great fire blazed up, so that everyone marveled. [23]While the sacrifice was being burned, the priests recited a prayer, and all present joined in with them. Jonathan led and the rest responded with Nehemiah.

[24]The prayer was as follows: "Lord, Lord God, creator of all things, awesome and strong, just and merciful, the only king and benefactor, [25]who alone are gracious, just, almighty, and eternal, Israel's savior from all evil, who chose our ancestors and sanctified them: [26]accept this sacrifice on behalf of all your people Israel and guard and sanctify your portion. [27]Gather together our scattered people, free those who are slaves among the Gentiles, look kindly on those who are despised and detested, and let the Gentiles know that you are our God. [28]Punish those who lord it over us and in their arrogance oppress us. [29]Plant your people in your holy place, as Moses said."

[30]Then the priests sang hymns. [31]After the sacrifice was consumed, Nehemiah ordered the rest of the liquid to be poured upon large stones. [32]As soon as this was done, a flame blazed up, but its light was lost in the brilliance coming from the altar. [33]When the event became known and the king of the Persians was told that, in the very place where the exiled priests had hidden the fire, a liquid was found with which Nehemiah and his people had burned the sacrifices, [34]the king, after verifying the fact, fenced the place off and declared it sacred. [35]To those whom the king favored, he distributed many benefits he received. [36]Nehemiah and his companions called the liquid nephthar, meaning purification, but most people named it naphtha.

2:1 In the records it will be found that Jeremiah the prophet ordered the deportees to take some of the fire with them as indicated, [2]and that the prophet, in giving them the law, directed the deportees not to forget the commandments of the Lord or be led astray in their thoughts, when seeing the gold and silver idols and their adornments. [3]With other similar words he exhorted them that the law should not depart from their hearts.

[4]The same document also tells how the prophet, in virtue of an oracle, ordered that the tent and the ark should accompany him, and how he went to the very mountain that Moses climbed to behold God's inheritance. [5]When Jeremiah arrived there, he found a chamber in a cave in which he put the tent, the ark, and the altar of incense; then he sealed the entrance. [6]Some of those who followed him came up intending to mark the path, but they could not find it. [7]When Jeremiah heard of this, he reproved them: "The place is to remain unknown until God gathers his people together again and shows them mercy. [8]Then the Lord will disclose these things, and the glory of the Lord and the cloud will be seen, just as they appeared in the time of Moses and of Solomon when he prayed that the place might be greatly sanctified."

[9]It is also related how Solomon in his wisdom offered a sacrifice for the dedication and the completion of the temple. [10]Just as Moses prayed to the Lord and fire descended from the sky and consumed the sacrifices, so also Solomon prayed and fire came down and consumed the burnt offerings. [11]Moses had said, "Because it had not been eaten, the purification offering was consumed." [12]Solomon also celebrated the feast in the same way for eight days.

[13]These same things are also told in the records and in Nehemiah's memoirs, as well as how he founded a library and collected the books about the kings and the prophets, the books of David, and the royal letters about votive offerings. [14]In like manner Judas also collected for us all the books that had been scattered because of the war, and we now have them in our possession. [15]If you need them, send messengers to get them for you.

[16]As we are about to celebrate the purification, we are writing: you should celebrate the feast days. [17]It is God who has saved all his people and has restored to all of them their inheritance, the kingdom, the priesthood, and the sacred rites, [18]as he promised through the law. For we hope in God, that he will soon have mercy on us and gather us together from everywhere under the heavens to his holy place, for he has rescued us from great perils and has purified the place.

[19]This is the story of Judas Maccabeus and his brothers, of the purification of the great temple, the dedication of the altar, [20]the campaigns against Antiochus Epiphanes and his son Eupator, [21]and of the heavenly manifestations accorded to the heroes who fought bravely for the Jewish people. Few as they were, they plundered the whole land, put to flight the barbarian hordes, [22]regained possession of the temple renowned throughout the world, and liberated the city. They re-established the laws that were in danger of being abolished, while the Lord favored them with every kindness. [23]All this, detailed by Jason of Cyrene in five volumes, we will try to condense into a single book.

[24]For in view of the flood of data, and the difficulties encountered, given such abundant material, by those who wish to plunge into accounts of the history, [25]we have aimed to please those who prefer simply to read, to make it easy for the studious who wish to commit things to memory, and to be helpful to all. [26]For us who have undertaken the labor of making this digest, the task, far from being easy, is one of sweat and of sleepless nights. [27]Just so, the preparation of a festive banquet is no light matter for one who seeks to give enjoyment to others. Similarly, to win the gratitude of many we will gladly endure this labor, [28]leaving the responsibility for exact details to the historian, and confining our efforts to presenting only a summary outline. [29]As the architect of a new house must pay attention to the whole structure, while the one who undertakes the decoration and the frescoes has to be concerned only with what is needed for ornamentation, so I think it is with us. [30]To enter into questions and examine them from all sides and to be busy about details is the task of the historian; [31]but one who is making an adaptation should be allowed to aim at brevity of expression and to forgo complete treatment of the matter. [32]Here, then, let us begin our account without adding to what has already been said; it would be silly to lengthen the preface to the history and then cut short the history itself.

☐ MATTHEW 24:29-51

The Coming of the Son of Man. 24:29 "Immediately after the tribulation of those days,

the sun will be darkened,
and the moon will not give its light,
and the stars will fall from the sky,
and the powers of the heavens will be shaken.

[30]And then the sign of the Son of Man will appear in heaven, and all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming upon the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. [31]And he will send out his angels with a trumpet blast, and they will gather his elect from the four winds, from one end of the heavens to the other.

The Lesson of the Fig Tree. [32]"Learn a lesson from the fig tree. When its branch becomes tender and sprouts leaves, you know that summer is near. [33]In the same way, when you see all these things, know that he is near, at the gates. [34]Amen, I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all these things have taken place. [35]Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

The Unknown Day and Hour. [36]"But of that day and hour no one knows, neither the angels of heaven, nor the Son, but the Father alone. [37]For as it was in the days of Noah, so it will be at the coming of the Son of Man. [38]In [those] days before the flood, they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, up to the day that Noah entered the ark. [39]They did not know until the flood came and carried them all away. So will it be [also] at the coming of the Son of Man. [40]Two men will be out in the field; one will be taken, and one will be left. [41]Two women will be grinding at the mill; one will be taken, and one will be left. [42]Therefore, stay awake! For you do not know on which day your Lord will come. [43]Be sure of this: if the master of the house had known the hour of night when the thief was coming, he would have stayed awake and not let his house be broken into. [44]So too, you also must be prepared, for at an hour you do not expect, the Son of Man will come.

The Faithful or the Unfaithful Servant. [45]"Who, then, is the faithful and prudent servant, whom the master has put in charge of his household to distribute to them their food at the proper time? [46]Blessed is that servant whom his master on his arrival finds doing so. [47]Amen, I say to you, he will put him in charge of all his property. [48]But if that wicked servant says to himself, 'My master is long delayed,' [49]and begins to beat his fellow servants, and eat and drink with drunkards, [50]the servant's master will come on an unexpected day and at an unknown hour [51]and will punish him severely and assign him a place with the hypocrites, where there will be wailing and grinding of teeth."

If things created are so full of loveliness, how resplendent with beauty must be the One who made them! The wisdom of the Worker is apparent in His handiwork.

☐ 2 MACCABEES 3-4

Heliodorus' Arrival in Jerusalem. 3:1 While the holy city lived in perfect peace and the laws were strictly observed
because of the piety of the high priest Onias and his hatred of evil, [2]the kings themselves honored the place and glorified the temple with the most magnificent gifts. [3]Thus Seleucus, king of Asia, defrayed from his own revenues all the expenses necessary for the liturgy of sacrifice.

[4]But a certain Simon, of the priestly clan of Bilgah, who had been appointed superintendent of the temple, had a quarrel with the high priest about the administration of the city market. [5]Since he could not prevail against Onias, he went to Apollonius of Tarsus, who at that time was governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, [6]and reported to him that the treasury in Jerusalem was full of such untold riches that the sum total of the assets was past counting and that since they did not belong to the account of the sacrifices, it would be possible for them to fall under the authority of the king.

[7]When Apollonius had an audience with the king, he informed him about the riches that had been reported to him.
The king chose his chief minister Heliodorus and sent him with instructions to seize those riches. [8]So Heliodorus immediately set out on his journey, ostensibly to visit the cities of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, but in reality to carry out the king's purpose.

[9]When he arrived in Jerusalem and had been graciously received by the high priest of the city, he told him about the information that had been given, and explained the reason for his presence, and he inquired if these things were really true. [10]The high priest explained that there were deposits for widows and orphans, [11]and some was the property of Hyrcanus, son of Tobias, a man who occupied a very high position. Contrary to the misrepresentations of the impious Simon, the total amounted only to four hundred talents of silver and two hundred of gold. [12]It was utterly unthinkable to defraud those who had placed their trust in the sanctity of the place and in the sacred inviolability of a temple venerated all over the world.

Heliodorus' Plan To Rob the Temple. [13]But Heliodorus, because of the orders he had from the king, said that in any case this money must be confiscated for the royal treasury. [14]So on the day he had set he went in to take an inventory of the funds. There was no little anguish throughout the city. [15]Priests prostrated themselves before the altar in their priestly robes, and called toward heaven for the one who had given the law about deposits to keep the deposits safe for those who had made them. [16]Whoever saw the appearance of the high priest was pierced to the heart, for the changed complexion of his face revealed his mental anguish. [17]The terror and bodily trembling that had come over the man clearly showed those who saw him the pain that lodged in his heart. [18]People rushed out of their houses and crowded together making common supplication, because the place was in danger of being profaned. [19]Women, girded with sackcloth below their breasts, filled the streets. Young women secluded indoors all ran, some to the gates, some to the walls, others peered through the windows— [20]all of them with hands raised toward heaven, making supplication. [21]It was pitiful to see the populace prostrate everywhere and the high priest full of dread and anguish. [22]While they were imploring the almighty Lord to keep the deposits safe and secure for those who had placed them in trust, [23]Heliodorus went on with his plan.

God Protects the Temple. [24]But just as Heliodorus was arriving at the treasury with his bodyguards, the Lord of spirits and all authority produced an apparition so great that those who had been bold enough to accompany Heliodorus were panic-stricken at God's power and fainted away in terror. [25]There appeared to them a richly caparisoned horse, mounted by a fearsome rider. Charging furiously, the horse attacked Heliodorus with its front hooves. The rider was seen wearing golden armor. [26]Then two other young men, remarkably strong, strikingly handsome, and splendidly attired, appeared before him. Standing on each side of him, they flogged him unceasingly, inflicting innumerable blows.
[27]Suddenly he fell to the ground, enveloped in great darkness. His men picked him up and laid him on a stretcher. [28]They carried away helpless the man who a moment before had entered that treasury under arms with a great retinue and his whole bodyguard. They clearly recognized the sovereign power of God.

The Restoration and Testimony of Heliodorus. [29]As Heliodorus lay speechless because of God's action and deprived of any hope of recovery, [30]the people praised the Lord who had marvelously glorified his own place; and the temple, charged so shortly before with fear and commotion, was filled with joy and gladness, now that the almighty Lord had appeared. [31]Quickly some of the companions of Heliodorus begged Onias to call upon the Most High to spare the life of one who was about to breathe his last. [32]The high priest, suspecting that the king might think that Heliodorus had suffered some foul play at the hands of the Jews, offered a sacrifice for the man's recovery. [33]While the high priest was offering the sacrifice of atonement, the same young men dressed in the same clothing again appeared and stood before Heliodorus. “Be very grateful to the high priest Onias,” they told him. “It is for his sake that the Lord has spared your life. 34Since you have been scourged by Heaven, proclaim to all God’s great power.” When they had said this, they disappeared.

35After Heliodorus had offered a sacrifice to the Lord and made most solemn vows to the one who had spared his life, he bade Onias farewell, and returned with his soldiers to the king. 36Before all he gave witness to the deeds of the most high God that he had seen with his own eyes. 37When the king asked Heliodorus what sort of person would be suitable to be sent to Jerusalem next, he answered: 38“If you have an enemy or one who is plotting against the government, send him there, and you will get him back with a flogging, if indeed he survives at all; for there is certainly some divine power about the place. 39The one whose dwelling is in heaven watches over that place and protects it, and strikes down and destroys those who come to harm it.” 40This was how the matter concerning Heliodorus and the preservation of the treasury turned out.

Simon Accuses Onias. 4:1 The Simon mentioned above as the informer about the funds against his own country slandered Onias as the one who incited Heliodorus and instigated the whole miserable affair. 2He dared to brand as a schemer against the government the man who was the benefactor of the city, the protector of his compatriots, and a zealous defender of the laws. 3When Simon’s hostility reached such a pitch that murders were being committed by one of his henchmen, 4Onias saw that the opposition was serious and that Apollonius, son of Menestheus, the governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, was abetting Simon’s wickedness. 5So he had recourse to the king, not as an accuser of his compatriots, but as one looking to the general and particular good of all the people. 6He saw that without royal attention it would be impossible to have a peaceful government, and that Simon would not desist from his folly.

Jason as High Priest. 7But Seleucus died, and when Antiochus surnamed Epiphanes succeeded him on the throne, Onias’ brother Jason obtained the high priesthood by corrupt means: 8in an interview, he promised the king three hundred and sixty talents of silver, as well as eighty talents from another source of income. 9Besides this he would undertake to pay a hundred and fifty more, if he was given authority to establish a gymnasium and a youth center for it and to enroll Jerusalemites as citizens of Antioch.

10When Jason received the king’s approval and came into office, he immediately initiated his compatriots into the Greek way of life. 11He set aside the royal concessions granted to the Jews through the mediation of John, father of Eupolemus (that Eupolemus who would later go on an embassy to the Romans to establish friendship and alliance with them); he set aside the lawful practices and introduced customs contrary to the law. 12With perverse delight he established a gymnasium at the very foot of the citadel, where he induced the noblest young men to wear the Greek hat. 13The craze for Hellenism and the adoption of foreign customs reached such a pitch, through the outrageous wickedness of Jason, the renegade and would-be high priest, 14that the priests no longer cared about the service of the altar. Disdaining the temple and neglecting the sacrifices, they hastened, at the signal for the games, to take part in the unlawful exercises at the arena. 15What their ancestors had regarded as honors they despised; what the Greeks esteemed as glory they prized highly. 16For this reason they found themselves in serious trouble: the very people whose manner of life they emulated, and whom they desired to imitate in everything, became their enemies and oppressors. 17It is no light matter to flout the laws of God, as subsequent events will show.

21When Apollonius, son of Menestheus, was sent to Egypt for the coronation of King Philometor, Antiochus learned from him that the king was opposed to his policies. He took measures for his own security; so after going to Joppa, he proceeded to Jerusalem. 22There he was received with great pomp by Jason and the people of the city, who escorted him with torchlights and acclamations; following this, he led his army into Phoenicia.

Menelaus as High Priest. [23]Three years later Jason sent Menelaus, brother of the aforementioned Simon, to deliver the money to the king, and to complete negotiations on urgent matters. [24]But after his introduction to the king, he flattered him with such an air of authority that he secured the high priesthood for himself, outbidding Jason by three hundred talents of silver. [25]He returned with the royal commission, but with nothing that made him worthy of the high priesthood; he had the temper of a cruel tyrant and the rage of a wild beast. [26]So Jason, who had cheated his own brother and now saw himself cheated by another man, was driven out as a fugitive to the country of the Ammonites. [27]But Menelaus, who obtained the office, paid nothing of the money he had promised to the king, [28]in spite of the demand of Sostratus, the commandant of the citadel, whose duty it was to collect the taxes. For this reason, both were summoned before the king. [29]Menelaus left his brother Lysimachus as his deputy in the high priesthood, while Sostratus left Crates, commander of the Cypriots.

Murder of Onias. [30]While these things were taking place, the people of Tarsus and Mallus rose in revolt, because their cities had been given as a gift to Antiochis, the king's concubine. [31]So the king hastened off to settle the affair, leaving Andronicus, one of his nobles, as his deputy. [32]Menelaus, for his part, thinking this a good opportunity, stole some gold vessels from the temple and presented them to Andronicus; he had already sold other vessels in Tyre and in the neighboring cities. [33]When Onias had clear evidence, he accused Menelaus publicly, after withdrawing to the inviolable sanctuary at Daphne, near Antioch. [34]Thereupon Menelaus approached Andronicus privately and urged him to seize Onias. So Andronicus went to Onias, treacherously reassuring him by offering his right hand in oath, and persuaded him, in spite of his suspicions, to leave the sanctuary. Then, with no regard for justice, he immediately put him to death.

[35]As a result, not only the Jews, but many people of other nations as well, were indignant and angry over the unjust murder of the man. [36]When the king returned from the region of Cilicia, the Jews of the city, together with the Greeks who detested the crime, went to see him about the murder of Onias. [37]Antiochus was deeply grieved and full of pity; he wept as he recalled the prudence and noble conduct of the deceased. [38]Inflamed with anger, he immediately stripped Andronicus of his purple robe, tore off his garments, and had him led through the whole city to the very place where he had committed the outrage against Onias; and there he put the murderer to death. Thus the Lord rendered him the punishment he deserved.

More Outrages. [39]Many acts of sacrilege had been committed by Lysimachus in the city with the connivance of Menelaus. When word spread, the people assembled in protest against Lysimachus, because a large number of gold vessels had been stolen. [40]As the crowds, now thoroughly enraged, began to riot, Lysimachus launched an unjustified attack against them with about three thousand armed men under the leadership of a certain Auranus, a man as advanced in folly as he was in years. [41]Seeing Lysimachus' attack, people picked up stones, pieces of wood or handfuls of the ashes lying there and threw them in wild confusion at Lysimachus and his men. [42]As a result, they wounded many of them and even killed a few, while they put all to flight. The temple robber himself they killed near the treasury.

[43]Charges about this affair were brought against Menelaus. [44]When the king came to Tyre, three men sent by the senate pleaded the case before him. [45]But Menelaus, seeing himself on the losing side, promised Ptolemy, son of Dorymenes, a substantial sum of money if he would win the king over. [46]So Ptolemy took the king aside into a colonnade, as if to get some fresh air, and persuaded him to change his mind. [47]Menelaus, who was the cause of all the trouble, the king acquitted of the charges, while he condemned to death those poor men who would have been declared innocent even if they had pleaded their case before Scythians. [48]Thus, those who had prosecuted the case on behalf of the city, the people, and the sacred vessels, quickly suffered unjust punishment. [49]For this reason, even Tyrians, detesting the crime, provided sumptuously for their burial. [50]But Menelaus, thanks to the greed of those in power, remained in office, where he grew in wickedness, scheming greatly against his fellow citizens.

The Parable of the Ten Virgins. 25:1 "Then the kingdom of heaven will be like ten virgins who took their lamps and went out to meet the bridegroom. [2]Five of them were foolish and five were wise. [3]The foolish ones, when taking their lamps, brought no oil with them, [4]but the wise brought flasks of oil with their lamps. [5]Since the bridegroom was long delayed, they all became drowsy and fell asleep. [6]At midnight, there was a cry, 'Behold, the bridegroom! Come out to meet him!' [7]Then all those virgins got up and trimmed their lamps. [8]The foolish ones said to the wise, 'Give us some of your oil, for our lamps are going out.' [9]But the wise ones replied, 'No, for there may not be enough for us and you. Go instead to the merchants and buy some for yourselves.' [10]While they went off to buy it, the bridegroom came and those who were ready went into the wedding feast with him. Then the door was locked. [11]Afterwards the other virgins came and said, 'Lord, Lord, open the door for us!' [12]But he said in reply, 'Amen, I say to you, I do not know you.' [13]Therefore, stay awake, for you know neither the day nor the hour."

The fullness of life that God rightly expects from His children means that they have to have a careful concern for the quality of their everyday work, because it is this work, even in its most minor aspects, which they must sanctify.

Jason's Revolt. 5:1 About this time Antiochus sent his second expedition into Egypt. [2]It then happened that all over the city, for nearly forty days, there appeared horsemen, clothed in garments of a golden weave, charging in midair—companies fully armed with lances and drawn swords; [3]squadrons of cavalry in battle array, charges and countercharges on this side and that, with brandished shields and bristling spears, flights of arrows and flashes of gold ornaments, together with armor of every sort. [4]Therefore all prayed that this vision might be a good omen.

[5]But when a false rumor circulated that Antiochus was dead, Jason gathered at least a thousand men and suddenly attacked the city. As the defenders on the walls were forced back and the city was finally being taken, Menelaus took refuge in the citadel. [6]For his part, Jason continued the merciless slaughter of his fellow citizens, not realizing that triumph over one's own kindred is the greatest calamity; he thought he was winning a victory over his enemies, not over his own people. [7]Even so, he did not gain control of the government, but in the end received only disgrace for his treachery, and once again took refuge in the country of the Ammonites. [8]At length he met a miserable end. Called to account before Aretas, ruler of the Arabians, he fled from city to city, hunted by all, hated as an apostate from the laws, abhorred as the executioner of his country and his compatriots. Driven into Egypt, [9]he set out by sea for the Lacedaemonians, among whom he hoped to find protection because of his relations with them. He who had exiled so many from their country perished in exile; [10]and he who had cast out so many to lie unburied went unmourned and without a funeral of any kind, nor any place in the tomb of his ancestors.

Revenge by Antiochus. [11]When these happenings were reported to the king, he thought that Judea was in revolt. Raging like a wild animal, he set out from Egypt and took Jerusalem by storm. [12]He ordered his soldiers to cut down without mercy those whom they met and to slay those who took refuge in their houses. [13]There was a massacre of young and old, a killing of women and children, a slaughter of young women and infants. [14]In the space of three days, eighty thousand were lost, forty thousand meeting a violent death, and the same number being sold into slavery.

[15]Not satisfied with this, the king dared to enter the holiest temple in the world; Menelaus, that traitor both to the laws and to his country, served as guide. [16]He laid his impure hands on the sacred vessels and swept up with profane hands the votive offerings made by other kings for the advancement, the glory, and the honor of the place. [17]Antiochus became puffed up in spirit, not realizing that it was because of the sins of the city's inhabitants that the Sovereign Lord was angry for a little while: hence the disregard of the place. [18]If they had not become entangled in so many sins, this man, like that Heliodorus sent by King Seleucus to inspect the treasury, would have been flogged and turned back from his presumptuous act as soon as he approached. [19]The Lord, however, had not chosen the nation for the sake of the place, but the place for the sake of the nation. [20]Therefore, the place itself, having shared in the nation's misfortunes, afterward participated in their good fortune; and what the Almighty had forsaken in wrath was restored in all its glory, once the great Sovereign Lord became reconciled.

[21]Antiochus carried off eighteen hundred talents from the temple and hurried back to Antioch, thinking in his arrogance that he could make the land navigable and the sea passable on foot, so carried away was he with pride. [22]He left governors to harass the nation: at Jerusalem, Philip, a Phrygian by birth, and in character more barbarous than the man who appointed him; [23]at Mount Gerizim, Andronicus; and besides these, Menelaus, who lorded it over his fellow citizens more than the others. Out of hatred for the Jewish citizens, [24]the king sent Apollonius, commander of the Mysians, at the head of an army of twenty-two thousand, with orders to kill all the grown men and sell the women and children into slavery. [25]When this man arrived in Jerusalem, he pretended to be peacefully disposed and waited until the holy day of the sabbath; then, finding the Jews refraining from work, he ordered his men to parade fully armed. [26]All those who came out to watch, he massacred, and running through the city with armed men, he cut down a large number of people.

[27]But Judas Maccabeus and about nine others withdrew to the wilderness to avoid sharing in defilement; there he and his companions lived like the animals in the hills, eating what grew wild.

Abolition of Judaism. 6:1 Not long after this the king sent an Athenian senator to force the Jews to abandon the laws of their ancestors and live no longer by the laws of God, [2]also to profane the temple in Jerusalem and dedicate it to Olympian Zeus, and the one on Mount Gerizim to Zeus the Host to Strangers, as the local inhabitants were wont to be. [3]This was a harsh and utterly intolerable evil. [4]The Gentiles filled the temple with debauchery and revelry; they amused themselves with prostitutes and had intercourse with women even in the sacred courts. They also brought forbidden things into the temple, [5]so that the altar was covered with abominable offerings prohibited by the laws.

[8]Following upon a vote of the citizens of Ptolemais, a decree was issued ordering the neighboring Greek cities to adopt the same measures, obliging the Jews to partake of the sacrifices [9]and putting to death those who would not consent to adopt the customs of the Greeks. It was obvious, therefore, that disaster had come upon them. [10]Thus, two women who were arrested for having circumcised their children were publicly paraded about the city with their babies hanging at their breasts and then thrown down from the top of the city wall. [11]Others, who had assembled in nearby caves to observe the seventh day in secret, were betrayed to Philip and all burned to death. In their respect for the holiness of that day, they refrained from defending themselves.

God's Purpose. [12]Now I urge those who read this book not to be disheartened by these misfortunes, but to consider that these punishments were meant not for the ruin but for the correction of our nation. [13]It is, in fact, a sign of great kindness to punish the impious promptly instead of letting them go for long. [14]Thus, in dealing with other nations, the Sovereign Lord patiently waits until they reach the full measure of their sins before punishing them; but with us he has decided to deal differently, [15]in order that he may not have to punish us later, when our sins have reached their fullness. [16]Therefore he never withdraws his mercy from us. Although he disciplines us with misfortunes, he does not abandon his own people. [17]Let these words suffice for recalling this truth. Without further ado we must go on with our story.

Martyrdom of Eleazar. [18]Eleazar, one of the foremost scribes, a man advanced in age and of noble appearance, was being forced to open his mouth to eat pork. [19]But preferring a glorious death to a life of defilement, he went forward of his own accord to the instrument of torture, [20]spitting out the meat as they should do who have the courage to reject food unlawful to taste even for love of life.

[21]Those in charge of that unlawful sacrifice took the man aside, because of their long acquaintance with him, and privately urged him to bring his own provisions that he could legitimately eat, and only to pretend to eat the sacrificial meat prescribed by the king. [22]Thus he would escape death, and be treated kindly because of his old friendship with them. [23]But he made up his mind in a noble manner, worthy of his years, the dignity of his advanced age, the merited distinction of his gray hair, and of the admirable life he had lived from childhood. Above all loyal to the holy laws given by God, he swiftly declared, "Send me to Hades!"

[24]"At our age it would be unbecoming to make such a pretense; many of the young would think the ninety-year-old Eleazar had gone over to an alien religion. [25]If I dissemble to gain a brief moment of life, they would be led astray by me, while I would bring defilement and dishonor on my old age. [26]Even if, for the time being, I avoid human punishment, I shall never, whether alive or dead, escape the hand of the Almighty. [27]Therefore, by bravely giving up life now, I will prove myself worthy of my old age, [28]and I will leave to the young a noble example of how to die willingly and nobly for the revered and holy laws."

He spoke thus, and went immediately to the instrument of torture. [29]Those who shortly before had been kindly disposed, now became hostile toward him because what he had said seemed to them utter madness. [30]When he was about to die under the blows, he groaned, saying: "The Lord in his holy knowledge knows full well that, although I could have escaped death, I am not only enduring terrible pain in my body from this scourging, but also suffering it with joy in my soul because of my devotion to him." [31]This is how he died, leaving in his death a model of nobility and an unforgettable example of virtue not only for the young but for the whole nation.

The Parable of the Talents. 25:14 "It will be as when a man who was going on a journey called in his servants and entrusted his possessions to them. [15]To one he gave five talents; to another, two; to a third, one—to each according to his ability. Then he went away. Immediately [16]the one who received five talents went and traded with them, and made another five. [17]Likewise, the one who received two made another two. [18]But the man who received one went off and dug a hole in the ground and buried his master's money. [19]After a long time the master of those servants came back and settled accounts with them. [20]The one who had received five talents came forward bringing the additional five. He said, 'Master, you gave me five talents. See, I have made five more.' [21]His master said to him, 'Well done, my good and faithful servant. Since you were faithful in small matters, I will give you great responsibilities. Come, share your master's joy.' [22][Then] the one who had received two talents also came forward and said, 'Master, you gave me two talents. See, I have made two more.' [23]His master said to him, 'Well done, my good and faithful servant. Since you were faithful in small matters, I will give you great responsibilities. Come, share your master's joy.' [24]Then the one who had received the one talent came forward and said, 'Master, I knew you were a demanding person, harvesting where you did not plant and gathering where you did not scatter; [25]so out of fear I went off and buried your talent in the ground. Here it is back.' [26]His master said to him in reply, 'You wicked, lazy servant! So you knew that I harvest where I did not plant and gather where I did not scatter? [27]Should you not then have put my money in the bank so that I could have got it back with interest on my return? [28]Now then! Take the talent from him and give it to the one with ten. [29]For to everyone who has, more will be given and he will grow rich; but from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. [30]And throw this useless servant into the darkness outside, where there will be wailing and grinding of teeth.' "

St. Germaine Cousin

Dear God, please don't let me be too hungry or too thirsty. Help me to please my mother. And help me to please You.

— St. Germaine Cousin

Martyrdom of a Mother and Her Seven Sons. 7:1 It also happened that seven brothers with their mother were arrested and tortured with whips and scourges by the king to force them to eat pork in violation of God's law. [2]One of the brothers, speaking for the others, said: "What do you expect to learn by questioning us? We are ready to die rather than transgress the laws of our ancestors."

[3]At that the king, in a fury, gave orders to have pans and caldrons heated. [4]These were quickly heated, and he gave the order to cut out the tongue of the one who had spoken for the others, to scalp him and cut off his hands and feet, while the rest of his brothers and his mother looked on. [5]When he was completely maimed but still breathing, the king ordered them to carry him to the fire and fry him. As a cloud of smoke spread from the pan, the brothers and their mother encouraged one another to die nobly, with these words: [6]"The Lord God is looking on and truly has compassion on us, as Moses declared in his song, when he openly bore witness, saying, 'And God will have compassion on his servants.' "

[7]After the first brother had died in this manner, they brought the second to be made sport of. After tearing off the skin and hair of his head, they asked him, "Will you eat the pork rather than have your body tortured limb by limb?" [8]Answering in the language of his ancestors, he said, "Never!" So he in turn suffered the same tortures as the first. [9]With his last breath he said: "You accursed fiend, you are depriving us of this present life, but the King of the universe will raise us up to live again forever, because we are dying for his laws."

[10]After him the third suffered their cruel sport. He put forth his tongue at once when told to do so, and bravely stretched out his hands, [11]as he spoke these noble words: "It was from Heaven that I received these; for the sake of his laws I disregard them; from him I hope to receive them again." [12]Even the king and his attendants marveled at the young man's spirit, because he regarded his sufferings as nothing.

[13]After he had died, they tortured and maltreated the fourth brother in the same way. [14]When he was near death, he said, "It is my choice to die at the hands of mortals with the hope that God will restore me to life; but for you, there will be no resurrection to life."

[15]They next brought forward the fifth brother and maltreated him. [16]Looking at the king, he said: "Mortal though you are, you have power over human beings, so you do what you please. But do not think that our nation is forsaken by God. [17]Only wait, and you will see how his great power will torment you and your descendants."

[18]After him they brought the sixth brother. When he was about to die, he said: "Have no vain illusions. We suffer these things on our own account, because we have sinned against our God; that is why such shocking things have happened. [19]Do not think, then, that you will go unpunished for having dared to fight against God."

[24]Antiochus, suspecting insult in her words, thought he was being ridiculed. As the youngest brother was still alive, the king appealed to him, not with mere words, but with promises on oath, to make him rich and happy if he would abandon his ancestral customs: he would make him his Friend and entrust him with high office. [25]When the youth paid no attention to him at all, the king appealed to the mother, urging her to advise her boy to save his life. [26]After he had urged her for a long time, she agreed to persuade her son. [27]She leaned over close to him and, in derision of the cruel tyrant, said in their native language: "Son, have pity on me, who carried you in my womb for nine months, nursed you for three years, brought you up, educated and supported you to your present age. [28]I beg you, child, to look at the heavens and the earth and see all that is in them; then you will know that God did not make them out of existing things. In the same way humankind came into existence. [29]Do not be afraid of this executioner, but be worthy of your brothers and accept death, so that in the time of mercy I may receive you again with your brothers."

[30]She had scarcely finished speaking when the youth said: "What is the delay? I will not obey the king's command. I obey the command of the law given to our ancestors through Moses. [31]But you, who have contrived every kind of evil for the Hebrews, will not escape the hands of God. [32]We, indeed, are suffering because of our sins. [33]Though for a little while our living Lord has been angry, correcting and chastising us, he will again be reconciled with his servants. [34]But you, wretch, most vile of mortals, do not, in your insolence, buoy yourself up with unfounded hopes, as you raise your hand against the children of heaven. [35]You have not yet escaped the judgment of the almighty and all-seeing God. [36]Our brothers, after enduring brief pain, have drunk of never-failing life, under God's covenant. But you, by the judgment of God, shall receive just punishments for your arrogance. [37]Like my brothers, I offer up my body and my life for our ancestral laws, imploring God to show mercy soon to our nation, and by afflictions and blows to make you confess that he alone is God. [38]Through me and my brothers, may there be an end to the wrath of the Almighty that has justly fallen on our whole nation."

Resistance from Judas Maccabeus. 8:1 Judas Maccabeus and his companions entered the villages secretly, summoned their kindred, and enlisted others who had remained faithful to Judaism. Thus they assembled about six thousand men. [2]They implored the Lord to look kindly upon this people, who were being oppressed by all; to have pity on the sanctuary, which was profaned by renegades; [3]to have mercy on the city, which was being destroyed and was about to be leveled to the ground; to listen to the blood that cried out to him; [4]to remember the criminal slaughter of innocent children and the blasphemies uttered against his name; and to manifest his hatred of evil.

[5]Once Maccabeus got his men organized, the Gentiles could not withstand him, for the Lord's wrath had now changed to mercy. [6]Coming by surprise upon towns and villages, he set them on fire. He captured strategic positions, and put to flight not a few of the enemy. [7]He preferred the nights as being especially favorable for such attacks. Soon talk of his valor spread everywhere.

First Victory over Nicanor. [8]When Philip saw that Judas was gaining ground little by little and that his successful advances were becoming more frequent, he wrote to Ptolemy, governor of Coelesyria and Phoenicia, to come to the aid of the king's interests. [9]Ptolemy promptly selected Nicanor, son of Patroclus, one of the Chief Friends, and sent him at the head of at least twenty thousand armed men of various nations to wipe out the entire Jewish nation. With him he associated Gorgias, a general, experienced in the art of war. [10]Nicanor planned to raise the two thousand talents of tribute owed by the king to the Romans by selling captured Jews into slavery. [11]So he immediately sent word to the coastal cities, inviting them to buy Jewish slaves and promising to deliver ninety slaves for a talent—little anticipating the punishment that was to fall upon him from the Almighty.

[12]When Judas learned of Nicanor's advance and informed his companions about the approach of the army, [13]those who were fearful and those who lacked faith in God's justice deserted and got away. [14]But the others sold everything they had left, and at the same time entreated the Lord to deliver those whom the ungodly Nicanor had sold before even capturing them. [15]They entreated the Lord to do this, if not for their sake, at least for the sake of the covenants made with their ancestors, and because they themselves invoked his holy and glorious name. [16]Maccabeus assembled his forces, six thousand strong, and exhorted them not to be panic-stricken before the enemy, nor to fear the very large number of Gentiles unjustly attacking them, but to fight nobly. [17]They were to keep before their eyes the lawless outrage perpetrated by the Gentiles against the holy place and the affliction of the humiliated city, as well as the subversion of their ancestral way of life. [18]He said, "They trust in weapons and acts of daring, but we trust in almighty God, who can by a mere nod destroy not only those who attack us but even the whole world." [19]He went on to tell them of the times when help had been given their ancestors: both the time of Sennacherib, when a hundred and eighty-five thousand of his men perished, [20]and the time of the battle in Babylonia against the Galatians, when only eight thousand Jews fought along with four thousand Macedonians; yet when the Macedonians were hard pressed, the eight thousand, by the help they received from Heaven, destroyed one hundred and twenty thousand and took a great quantity of spoils. [21]With these words he encouraged them and made them ready to die for their laws and their country.

Then Judas divided his army into four, [22]placing his brothers, Simon, Joseph, and Jonathan, each over a division, assigning them fifteen hundred men apiece. [23]There was also Eleazar. After reading to them from the holy book and giving them the watchword, "The help of God," Judas himself took charge of the first division and joined in battle with Nicanor. [24]With the Almighty as their ally, they killed more than nine thousand of the enemy, wounded and disabled the greater part of Nicanor's army, and put all of them to flight. [25]They also seized the money of those who had come to buy them as slaves. When they had pursued the enemy for some time, they were obliged to return by reason of the late hour. [26]It was the day before the sabbath, and for that reason they could not continue the pursuit. [27]They collected the enemy's weapons and stripped them of their spoils, and then observed the sabbath with fervent praise and thanks to the Lord who kept them safe for that day on which he allotted them the beginning of his mercy. [28]After the sabbath, they gave a share of the spoils to those who were tortured and to widows and orphans; the rest they divided among themselves and their children. [29]When this was done, they made supplication in common, imploring the merciful Lord to be completely reconciled with his servants.

Other Victories. [30]They also challenged the forces of Timothy and Bacchides, killed more than twenty thousand of them, and captured some very high fortresses. They divided the considerable plunder, allotting half to themselves and the rest to victims of torture, orphans, widows, and the aged. [31]They collected the enemies' weapons and carefully stored them in strategic places; the rest of the spoils they carried to Jerusalem. [32]They also killed the commander of Timothy's forces, a most wicked man, who had done great harm to the Jews. [33]While celebrating the victory in their ancestral city, they burned both those who had set fire to the sacred gates and Callisthenes, who had taken refuge in a little house; so he received the reward his wicked deeds deserved.

[34]The thrice-accursed Nicanor, who had brought the thousand slave dealers to buy the Jews, [35]after being humbled through the Lord's help by those whom he had thought of no account, laid aside his fine clothes and fled alone across country like a runaway slave, until he reached Antioch. He was eminently successful in destroying his own army. [36]So he who had promised to provide tribute for the Romans by the capture of the people of Jerusalem proclaimed that the Jews had a champion, and that because they followed the laws laid down by him, they were unharmed.

The Judgment of the Nations. 25:31 "When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, he will sit upon his glorious throne, [32]and all the nations will be assembled before him. And he will separate them one from another, as a shepherd separates the sheep from the goats. [33]He will place the sheep on his right and the goats on his left. [34]Then the king will say to those on his right, 'Come, you who are blessed by my Father. Inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. [35]For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, a stranger and you welcomed me, [36]naked and you clothed me, ill and you cared for me, in prison and you visited me.' [37]Then the righteous will answer him and say, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? [38]When did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? [39]When did we see you ill or in prison, and visit you?' [40]And the king will say to them in reply, 'Amen, I say to you, whatever you did for one of these least brothers of mine, you did for me.' [41]Then he will say to those on his left, 'Depart from me, you accursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels. [42]For I was hungry and you gave me no food, I was thirsty and you gave me no drink, [43]a stranger and you gave me no welcome, naked and you gave me no clothing, ill and in prison, and you did not care for me.' [44]Then they will answer and say, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry or thirsty or a stranger or naked or ill or in prison, and not minister to your needs?' [45]He will answer them, 'Amen, I say to you, what you did not do for one of these least ones, you did not do for me.' [46]And these will go off to eternal punishment, but the righteous to eternal life."

If God allows some people to pile up riches instead of making themselves poor as Jesus did, it is so they may use what He has entrusted to them as loyal servants, in accordance with the Master's will, to do spiritual and temporal good to others.

☐ 2 MACCABEES 9-11

Punishment and Death of Antiochus IV. 9:1 About that time Antiochus retreated in disgrace from the region of Persia. [2]He had entered the city called Persepolis and attempted to rob the temples and gain control of the city. Thereupon the people had swift recourse to arms, and Antiochus' forces were routed, so that in the end Antiochus was put to flight by the people of that region and forced to beat a shameful retreat. [3]On his arrival in Ecbatana, he learned what had happened to Nicanor and to Timothy's forces. [4]Overcome with anger, he planned to make the Jews suffer for the injury done by those who had put him to flight. Therefore he ordered his charioteer to drive without stopping until he finished the journey. Yet the condemnation of Heaven rode with him, because he said in his arrogance, "I will make Jerusalem the common graveyard of Jews as soon as I arrive there."

[5]So the all-seeing Lord, the God of Israel, struck him down with an incurable and invisible blow; for scarcely had he uttered those words when he was seized with excruciating pains in his bowels and sharp internal torment, [6]a fit punishment for him who had tortured the bowels of others with many barbarous torments. [7]Far from giving up his insolence, he was all the more filled with arrogance. Breathing fire in his rage against the Jews, he gave orders to drive even faster. As a result he hurtled from the speeding chariot, and every part of his body was racked by the violent fall. [8]Thus he who previously, in his superhuman presumption, thought he could command the waves of the sea, and imagined he could weigh the mountaintops in his scales, was now thrown to the ground and had to be carried on a litter, clearly manifesting to all the power of God. [9]The body of this impious man swarmed with worms, and while he was still alive in hideous torments, his flesh rotted off, so that the entire army was sickened by the stench of his corruption. [10]Shortly before, he had thought that he could reach the stars of heaven, and now, no one could endure to transport the man because of this intolerable stench.

[11]At last, broken in spirit, he began to give up his excessive arrogance, and to gain some understanding, under the scourge of God, for he was racked with pain unceasingly. [12]When he could no longer bear his own stench, he said, "It is right to be subject to God, and not to think one's mortal self equal to God." [13]Then this vile man vowed to him who would never again show him mercy, the Sovereign Lord, [14]that the holy city, toward which he had been hurrying with the intention of leveling it to the ground and making it a common graveyard, he would now set free; [15]that the Jews, whom he had judged not even worthy of burial, but fit only to be thrown out with their children to be eaten by vultures and wild animals—all of them he would make equal to the Athenians; [16]that he would adorn with the finest offerings the holy temple which he had previously despoiled, restore all the sacred vessels many times over, and provide from his own revenues the expenses required for the sacrifices. [17]Besides all this, he would become a Jew himself and visit every inhabited place to proclaim there the power of God. [18]But since his sufferings were not lessened, for God's just judgment had come upon him, he lost hope for himself and wrote the following letter to the Jews in the form of a supplication. It read thus:

[19]"To the worthy Jewish citizens, Antiochus, king and general, sends hearty greetings and best wishes for their health and prosperity. [20]If you and your children are well and your affairs are going as you wish, I thank God very much, for my hopes are in heaven. [21]Now that I am ill, I recall with affection your esteem and goodwill. On returning from the regions of Persia, I fell victim to a troublesome illness; so I thought it necessary to form plans for the general security of all. [22]I do not despair about my health, since I have much hope of recovering from my illness. [23]Nevertheless, I know that my father, whenever he went on campaigns in the hinterland, would name his successor, [24]so that, if anything unexpected happened or any unwelcome news came, the people throughout the realm would know to whom the government had been entrusted, and so not be disturbed. [25]I am also bearing in mind that the neighboring rulers, especially those on the borders of our kingdom, are on the watch for opportunities and waiting to see what will happen.

I have therefore appointed as king my son Antiochus, whom I have often before entrusted and commended to most of you, when I made hurried visits to the outlying provinces. I have written to him what is written here. [26]Therefore I beg and entreat each of you to remember the general and individual benefits you have received, and to continue to show goodwill toward me and my son. [27]I am confident that, following my policy, he will treat you with equity and kindness in his relations with you."

[28]So this murderer and blasphemer, after extreme sufferings, such as he had inflicted on others, died a miserable death in the mountains of a foreign land. [29]His foster brother Philip brought the body home; but fearing Antiochus' son, he later withdrew into Egypt, to Ptolemy Philometor.

Purification of the Temple. 10:1 When Maccabeus and his companions, under the Lord's leadership, had recovered the temple and the city, [2]they destroyed the altars erected by the foreigners in the marketplace and the sacred shrines. [3]After purifying the temple, they made another altar. Then, with fire struck from flint, they offered sacrifice for the first time in two years, burned incense, and lighted lamps. They also set out the showbread. [4]When they had done this, they prostrated themselves and begged the Lord that they might never again fall into such misfortunes, and that if they should sin at any time, he might chastise them with moderation and not hand them over to blasphemous and barbarous Gentiles. [5]On the anniversary of the day on which the temple had been profaned by the foreigners, that is, the twenty-fifth of the same month Kislev, the purification of the temple took place. [6]The Jews celebrated joyfully for eight days as on the feast of Booths, remembering how, a little while before, they had spent the feast of Booths living like wild animals in the mountains and in caves. [7]Carrying rods entwined with leaves, beautiful branches and palms, they sang hymns of grateful praise to him who had successfully brought about the purification of his own place. [8]By public decree and vote they prescribed that the whole Jewish nation should celebrate these days every year. [9]Such was the end of Antiochus surnamed Epiphanes.

Accession of Antiochus V. [10]Now we shall relate what happened under Antiochus Eupator, the son of that godless man, and shall give a summary of the chief evils caused by the wars. [11]When Eupator succeeded to the kingdom, he put a certain Lysias in charge of the government as commander-in-chief of Coelesyria and Phoenicia. [12]Ptolemy, called Macron, had taken the lead in treating the Jews fairly because of the previous injustice that had been done them, and he endeavored to have peaceful relations with them. [13]As a result, he was accused before Eupator by the King's Friends. In fact, on all sides he heard himself called a traitor for having abandoned Cyprus, which Philometor had entrusted to him, and for having gone over to Antiochus Epiphanes. Since he could not command the respect due to his high office, he ended his life by taking poison.

Victory over the Idumeans. [14]When Gorgias became governor of the region, he employed foreign troops and used every opportunity to attack the Jews. [15]At the same time the Idumeans, who held some strategic strongholds, were harassing the Jews; they welcomed fugitives from Jerusalem and endeavored to continue the war. [16]Maccabeus and his companions, after public prayers asking God to be their ally, moved quickly against the strongholds of the Idumeans. [17]Attacking vigorously, they gained control of the places, drove back all who were fighting on the walls, and cut down those who opposed them, killing no fewer than twenty thousand. [18]When at least nine thousand took refuge in two very strong towers, well equipped to sustain a siege, [19]Maccabeus left Simon and Joseph, along with Zacchaeus and his forces, in sufficient numbers to besiege them, while he himself went off to places where he was more urgently needed. [20]But some of those in Simon's force who were lovers of money let themselves be bribed by some of those in the towers; on receiving seventy thousand drachmas, they allowed a number of them to escape. [21]When Maccabeus was told what had happened, he assembled the rulers of the people and accused those men of having sold their kindred for money by setting their enemies free to fight against them. [22]So he put them to death as traitors, and without delay captured the two towers. [23]As he was successful at arms in all his undertakings, he destroyed more than twenty thousand in the two strongholds.

Victory over Timothy. [24]Timothy, who had previously been defeated by the Jews, gathered a tremendous force of foreign troops and collected a large number of cavalry from Asia; then he appeared in Judea, ready to conquer it by force. [25]At his approach, Maccabeus and his companions made supplication to God, sprinkling earth upon their heads and girding their loins in sackcloth. [26]Lying prostrate at the foot of the altar, they begged him to be gracious to them, and to be an enemy to their enemies, and a foe to their foes, as the law declares. [27]After the prayer, they took up their weapons and advanced a considerable distance from the city, halting when they were close to the enemy. [28]As soon as dawn broke, the armies joined battle, the one having as pledge of success and victory not only their valor but also their reliance on the Lord, and the other taking fury as their leader in the fight.

[29]In the midst of the fierce battle, there appeared to the enemy five majestic men from the heavens riding on golden-bridled horses, leading the Jews. [30]They surrounded Maccabeus, and shielding him with their own armor, kept him from being wounded. They shot arrows and hurled thunderbolts at the enemy, who were bewildered and blinded, routed in utter confusion. [31]Twenty thousand five hundred of their foot soldiers and six hundred cavalry were slain.

[32]Timothy, however, fled to a well-fortified stronghold called Gazara, where Chaereas was in command. [33]For four days Maccabeus and his forces eagerly besieged the fortress. [34]Those inside, relying on the strength of the place, kept repeating outrageous blasphemies and uttering abominable words. [35]When the fifth day dawned, twenty young men in the army of Maccabeus, angered over such blasphemies, bravely stormed the wall and with savage fury cut down everyone they encountered. [36]Similarly, others climbed up and swung around on the defenders; they put the towers to the torch, spread the fire and burned the blasphemers alive. Still others broke down the gates and let in the rest of the troops, who took possession of the city. [37]Timothy had hidden in a cistern, but they killed him, along with his brother Chaereas, and Apollophanes. [38]On completing these exploits, they blessed, with hymns of grateful praise, the Lord who shows great kindness to Israel and grants them victory.

Defeat of Lysias. 11:1 Very soon afterward, Lysias, guardian and kinsman of the king and head of the government, being greatly displeased at what had happened, [2]mustered about eighty thousand infantry and all his cavalry and marched against the Jews. His plan was to make their city a Greek settlement; [3]to levy tribute on the temple, as he did on the shrines of the other nations; and to put the high priesthood up for sale every year. [4]He did not take God's power into account at all, but felt exultant confidence in his myriads of foot soldiers, his thousands of cavalry, and his eighty elephants. [5]So he invaded Judea, and when he reached Beth-zur, a fortified place about five stadia from Jerusalem, launched a strong attack against it.

[6]When Maccabeus and his companions learned that Lysias was besieging the strongholds, they and all the people begged the Lord with lamentations and tears to send a good angel to save Israel. [7]Maccabeus himself was the first to take up arms, and he exhorted the others to join him in risking their lives to help their kindred. Then they resolutely set out together. [8]Suddenly, while they were still near Jerusalem, a horseman appeared at their head, clothed in white garments and brandishing gold weapons. [9]Then all of them together thanked the merciful God, and their hearts were filled with such courage that they were ready to assault not only human beings but even the most savage beasts, or even walls of iron. [10]Now that the Lord had shown mercy toward them, they advanced in battle order with the aid of their heavenly ally. [11]Hurling themselves upon the enemy like lions, they laid low eleven thousand foot soldiers and sixteen hundred cavalry, and put all the rest to flight. [12]Most of those who survived were wounded and disarmed, while Lysias himself escaped only by shameful flight.

Peace Negotiations. [13]But Lysias was not a stupid man. He reflected on the defeat he had suffered, and came to realize that the Hebrews were invincible because the mighty God was their ally. He therefore sent a message [14]persuading them to settle everything on just terms, and promising to persuade the king also, and to induce him to become their friend. [15]Maccabeus, solicitous for the common good, agreed to all that Lysias proposed; and the king granted on behalf of the Jews all the written requests of Maccabeus to Lysias.

[16]These are the terms of the letter which Lysias wrote to the Jews: "Lysias sends greetings to the Jewish people. [17]John and Absalom, your envoys, have presented your signed communication and asked about the matters contained in it. [18]Whatever had to be referred to the king I called to his attention, and the things that were acceptable he has granted. [19]If you maintain your loyalty to the government, I will endeavor to further your interests in the future. [20]On the details of these matters I have authorized my representatives, as well as your envoys, to confer with you. [21]Farewell." The one hundred and forty-eighth year, the twenty-fourth of Dioscorinthius.

[22]The king's letter read thus: "King Antiochus sends greetings to his brother Lysias. [23]Now that our father has taken his place among the gods, we wish the subjects of our kingdom to be undisturbed in conducting their own affairs. [24]We have heard that the Jews do not agree with our father's change to Greek customs but prefer their own way of life. They are petitioning us to let them retain their own customs. [25]Since we desire that this people too should be undisturbed, our decision is that their temple be restored to them and that they live in keeping with the customs of their ancestors. [26]Accordingly, please send them messengers to give them our assurances of friendship, so that, when they learn of our decision, they may have nothing to worry about but may contentedly go about their own business."

[27]The king's letter to the people was as follows: "King Antiochus sends greetings to the Jewish senate and to the rest of the Jews. [28]If you are well, it is what we desire. We too are in good health. [29]Menelaus has told us of your wish to return home and attend to your own affairs. [30]Therefore, those who return by the thirtieth of Xanthicus will have our assurance of full permission [31]to observe their dietary and other laws, just as before, and none of the Jews shall be molested in any way for faults committed through ignorance. [32]I have also sent Menelaus to reassure you. [33]Farewell." In the one hundred and forty-eighth year, the fifteenth of Xanthicus.

[34]The Romans also sent them a letter as follows: "Quintus Memmius and Titus Manius, legates of the Romans, send greetings to the Jewish people. [35]What Lysias, kinsman of the king, has granted you, we also approve. [36]But for the matters that he decided should be submitted to the king, send someone to us immediately with your decisions so that we may present them to your advantage, for we are on our way to Antioch. [37]Make haste, then, to send us those who can inform us of your preference. [38]Farewell." In the one hundred and forty-eighth year, the fifteenth of Xanthicus.

The Conspiracy against Jesus. 26:1 When Jesus finished all these words, he said to his disciples, [2]"You know that in two days' time it will be Passover, and the Son of Man will be handed over to be crucified." [3]Then the chief priests and the elders of the people assembled in the palace of the high priest, who was called Caiaphas, [4]and they consulted together to arrest Jesus by treachery and put him to death. [5]But they said, "Not during the festival, that there may not be a riot among the people."

The Anointing at Bethany. [6]Now when Jesus was in Bethany in the house of Simon the leper, [7]a woman came up to him with an alabaster jar of costly perfumed oil, and poured it on his head while he was reclining at table. [8]When the disciples saw this, they were indignant and said, "Why this waste? [9]It could have been sold for much, and the money given to the poor." [10]Since Jesus knew this, he said to them, "Why do you make trouble for the woman? She has done a good thing for me. [11]The poor you will always have with you; but you will not always have me. [12]In pouring this perfumed oil upon my body, she did it to prepare me for burial. [13]Amen, I say to you, wherever this gospel is proclaimed in the whole world, what she has done will be spoken of, in memory of her."

The Betrayal by Judas. [14]Then one of the Twelve, who was called Judas Iscariot, went to the chief priests [15]and said, "What are you willing to give me if I hand him over to you?" They paid him thirty pieces of silver, [16]and from that time on he looked for an opportunity to hand him over.

Preparations for the Passover. [17]On the first day of the Feast of Unleavened Bread, the disciples approached Jesus and said, "Where do you want us to prepare for you to eat the Passover?" [18]He said, "Go into the city to a certain man and tell him, 'The teacher says, "My appointed time draws near; in your house I shall celebrate the Passover with my disciples."' " [19]The disciples then did as Jesus had ordered, and prepared the Passover.

> Do not, therefore, regard the Bread and Wine as simply that, for they are, according to the Master's declaration, the Body and Blood of Christ. Even though the senses suggest to you the other, let faith make you firm. Do not judge in this matter by taste, but be fully assured by faith, not doubting that you have been deemed worthy of the Body and Blood of Christ.

☐ 2 MACCABEES 12-13

Incidents at Joppa and Jamnia. 12:1 After these agreements were made, Lysias returned to the king, and the Jews went about their farming. [2]But some of the local governors, Timothy and Apollonius, son of Gennaeus, as also Hieronymus and Demophon, to say nothing of Nicanor, the commander of the Cyprians, would not allow them to live in peace and quiet.

[3]Some people of Joppa also committed this outrage: they invited the Jews who lived among them, together with their wives and children, to embark on boats which they had provided. There was no hint of enmity toward them. [4]This was done by public vote of the city. When the Jews, wishing to live on friendly terms and not suspecting anything, accepted the invitation, the people of Joppa took them out to sea and drowned at least two hundred of them.

[5]As soon as Judas heard of the barbarous deed perpetrated against his compatriots, he summoned his men; [6]and after calling upon God, the just judge, he marched against the murderers of his kindred. In a night attack he set the harbor on fire, burned the boats, and put to the sword those who had taken refuge there. [7]Because the gates of the town were shut, he withdrew, intending to come back later and wipe out the entire population of Joppa.

[8]On hearing that the people of Jamnia planned in the same way to wipe out the Jews who lived among them, [9]he attacked the Jamnians by night, setting fire to the harbor and the fleet, so that the glow of the flames was visible as far as Jerusalem, thirty miles away.

More Victories by Judas. [10]When the Jews had gone about a mile from there in the march against Timothy, they were attacked by Arabians numbering at least five thousand foot soldiers and five hundred cavalry. [11]After a hard fight, Judas and his companions, with God's help, were victorious. The defeated nomads begged Judas to give pledges of friendship, and they promised to supply the Jews with livestock and to be of service to them in any other way. [12]Realizing that they could indeed be useful in many respects, Judas agreed to make peace with them. After the pledges of friendship had been exchanged, the Arabians withdrew to their tents.

[13]He also attacked a certain city called Caspin, fortified with earthworks and walls and inhabited by a mixed population of Gentiles. [14]Relying on the strength of their walls and their supply of provisions, the besieged treated Judas and his men with contempt, insulting them and even uttering blasphemies and profanity. [15]But Judas and his men invoked the aid of the great Sovereign of the world, who, in the days of Joshua, overthrew Jericho without battering rams or siege engines; then they furiously stormed the walls. [16]Capturing the city by the will of God, they inflicted such indescribable slaughter on it that the adjacent pool, which was about a quarter of a mile wide, seemed to be filled with the blood that flowed into it.

[17]When they had gone on some ninety miles, they reached Charax, where there were certain Jews known as Toubians. [18]But they did not find Timothy in that region, for he had already departed from there without having done anything except to leave behind in one place a very strong garrison. [19]But Dositheus and Sosipater, two of Maccabeus' captains, marched out and destroyed the force of more than ten thousand men that Timothy had left in the stronghold. [20]Meanwhile, Maccabeus divided his army into cohorts, with a commander over each cohort, and went in pursuit of Timothy, who had a force of a hundred and twenty thousand foot soldiers and twenty-five hundred cavalry. [21]When Timothy learned of the approach of Judas, he sent on ahead of him the women and children, as well as the baggage, to a place called Karnion, which was hard to besiege and even hard to reach because of the difficult terrain of that region. [22]But when Judas' first cohort appeared, the enemy was overwhelmed with fear and terror at the manifestation of the all-seeing One. Scattering in every direction, they rushed away in such headlong flight that in many cases they wounded one another, pierced by the points of their own swords. [23]Judas pressed the pursuit vigorously, putting the sinners to the sword and destroying as many as thirty thousand men.

[24]Timothy himself fell into the hands of those under Dositheus and Sosipater; but with great cunning, he begged them to spare his life and let him go, because he had in his power the parents and relatives of many of them, and would show them no consideration. [25]When he had fully confirmed his solemn pledge to restore them unharmed, they let him go for the sake of saving their relatives.

[26]Judas then marched to Karnion and the shrine of Atargatis, where he killed twenty-five thousand people. [27]After the defeat and destruction of these, he moved his army to Ephron, a fortified city inhabited by Lysias and people of many nationalities. Robust young men took up their posts in defense of the walls, from which they fought valiantly; inside were large supplies of war machines and missiles. [28]But the Jews, invoking the Sovereign who powerfully shatters the might of enemies, got possession of the city and slaughtered twenty-five thousand of the people in it.

[29]Then they set out from there and hastened on to Scythopolis, seventy-five miles from Jerusalem. [30]But when the Jews who lived there testified to the goodwill shown by the Scythopolitans and to their kind treatment even in times of adversity, [31]Judas and his men thanked them and exhorted them to be well disposed to their nation in the future also. Finally they arrived in Jerusalem, shortly before the feast of Weeks.

[32]After this feast, also called Pentecost, they lost no time in marching against Gorgias, governor of Idumea, [33]who opposed them with three thousand foot soldiers and four hundred cavalry. [34]In the ensuing battle, a few of the Jews were slain. [35]A man called Dositheus, a powerful horseman and one of Bacenor's men, caught hold of Gorgias, grasped his military cloak and dragged him along by brute strength, intending to capture the vile wretch alive, when a Thracian horseman attacked Dositheus and cut off his arm at the shoulder. Then Gorgias fled to Marisa.

[36]After Esdris and his men had been fighting for a long time and were weary, Judas called upon the Lord to show himself their ally and leader in the battle. [37]Then, raising a battle cry in his ancestral language, and with hymns, he charged Gorgias' men when they were not expecting it and put them to flight.

Expiation for the Dead. [38]Judas rallied his army and went to the city of Adullam. As the seventh day was approaching, they purified themselves according to custom and kept the sabbath there. [39]On the following day, since the task had now become urgent, Judas and his companions went to gather up the bodies of the fallen and bury them with their kindred in their ancestral tombs. [40]But under the tunic of each of the dead they found amulets sacred to the idols of Jamnia, which the law forbids the Jews to wear. So it was clear to all that this was why these men had fallen. [41]They all therefore praised the ways of the Lord, the just judge who brings to light the things that are hidden. [42]Turning to supplication, they prayed that the sinful deed might be fully blotted out. The noble Judas exhorted the people to keep themselves free from sin, for they had seen with their own eyes what had happened because of the sin of those who had fallen. [43]He then took up a collection among all his soldiers, amounting to two thousand silver drachmas, which he sent to Jerusalem to provide for an expiatory sacrifice. In doing this he acted in a very excellent and noble way, inasmuch as he had the resurrection in mind; [44]for if he were not expecting the fallen to rise again, it would have been superfluous and foolish to pray for the dead. [45]But if he did this with a view to the splendid reward that awaits those who had gone to rest in godliness, it was a holy and pious thought. [46]Thus he made atonement for the dead that they might be absolved from their sin.

Death of Menelaus. 13:1 In the one hundred and forty-ninth year, Judas and his men learned that Antiochus Eupator was invading Judea with a large force, [2]and that with him was Lysias, his guardian, who was in charge of the government. They led a Greek army of one hundred and ten thousand foot soldiers, fifty-three hundred cavalry, twenty-two elephants, and three hundred chariots armed with scythes.

[3]Menelaus also joined them, and with great duplicity kept urging Antiochus on, not for the welfare of his country, but in the hope of being established in office. [4]But the King of kings aroused the anger of Antiochus against the scoundrel. When the king was shown by Lysias that Menelaus was to blame for all the trouble, he ordered him to be taken to Beroea and executed there in the customary local method. [5]There is at that place a tower seventy-five feet high, full of ashes, with a circular rim sloping down steeply on all sides toward the ashes. [6]Anyone guilty of sacrilege or notorious for certain other crimes is brought up there and then hurled down to destruction. [7]In such a manner was Menelaus, that transgressor of the law, fated to die, deprived even of burial. [8]It was altogether just that he who had committed so many sins against the altar with its pure fire and ashes, in ashes should meet his death.

Battle near Modein. [9]The king was advancing, his mind full of savage plans for inflicting on the Jews things worse than those they suffered in his father's time. [10]When Judas learned of this, he urged the people to call upon the Lord day and night, now more than ever, to help them when they were about to be deprived of their law, their country, and their holy temple; [11]and not to allow this people, which had just begun to revive, to be subjected again to blasphemous Gentiles. [12]When they had all joined in doing this, and had implored the merciful Lord continuously with weeping and fasting and prostrations for three days, Judas encouraged them and told them to stand ready.

[13]After a private meeting with the elders, he decided that, before the king's army could invade Judea and take possession of the city, the Jews should march out and settle the matter with God's help. [14]Leaving the outcome to the Creator of the world, and exhorting his followers to fight nobly to death for the laws, the temple, the city, the country, and the government, he encamped near Modein. [15]Giving his troops the battle cry "God's Victory," he made a night attack on the king's pavilion with a picked force of the bravest young men and killed about two thousand in the camp. He also stabbed the lead elephant and its rider. [16]Finally they withdrew in triumph, having filled the camp with terror and confusion. [17]Day was just breaking when this was accomplished with the help and protection of the Lord.

Treaty with Antiochus V. [18]The king, having had a taste of the Jews' boldness, tried to take their positions by a stratagem. [19]So he marched against Beth-zur, a strong fortress of the Jews; but he was driven back, checked, and defeated. [20]Judas sent supplies to the men inside, [21]but Rhodocus, of the Jewish army, betrayed military secrets to the enemy. He was found out, arrested, and imprisoned. [22]The king made a second attempt by negotiating with the people of Beth-zur. After giving them his pledge and receiving theirs, he withdrew [23]and attacked Judas' men. But he was defeated. Next he heard that Philip, who was left in charge of the government in Antioch, had rebelled. Dismayed, he negotiated with the Jews, submitted to their terms, and swore to observe all their rights. Having come to this agreement, he offered a sacrifice, and honored the sanctuary and the place with a generous donation. [24]He received Maccabeus, and left Hegemonides as governor of the territory from Ptolemais to the region of the Gerrhenes. [25]When he came to Ptolemais, the people of Ptolemais were angered by the peace treaty; in fact they were so indignant that they wanted to annul its provisions. [26]But Lysias took the platform, defended the treaty as well as he could and won them over by persuasion. After calming them and gaining their goodwill, he returned to Antioch. That is the story of the king's attack and withdrawal.

The Betrayer. 26:20 When it was evening, he reclined at table with the Twelve. [21]And while they were eating, he said, "Amen, I say to you, one of you will betray me." [22]Deeply distressed at this, they began to say to him one after another, "Surely it is not I, Lord?" [23]He said in reply, "He who has dipped his hand into the dish with me is the one who will betray me. [24]The Son of Man indeed goes, as it is written of him, but woe to that man by whom the Son of Man is betrayed. It would be better for that man if he had never been born." [25]Then Judas, his betrayer, said in reply, "Surely it is not I, Rabbi?" He answered, "You have said so."

The Lord's Supper. [26]While they were eating, Jesus took bread, said the blessing, broke it, and giving it to his disciples said, "Take and eat; this is my body." [27]Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and gave it to them, saying, "Drink from it, all of you, [28]for this is my blood of the covenant, which will be shed on behalf of many for the forgiveness of sins. [29]I tell you, from now on I shall not drink this fruit of the vine until the day when I drink it with you new in the kingdom of my Father." [30]Then, after singing a hymn, they went out to the Mount of Olives.

Peter's Denial Foretold. [31]Then Jesus said to them, "This night all of you will have your faith in me shaken, for it is written:

'I will strike the shepherd,
and the sheep of the flock will be dispersed';

[32]but after I have been raised up, I shall go before you to Galilee." [33]Peter said to him in reply, "Though all may have their faith in you shaken, mine will never be." [34]Jesus said to him, "Amen, I say to you, this very night before the cock crows, you will deny me three times." [35]Peter said to him, "Even though I should have to die with you, I will not deny you." And all the disciples spoke likewise.

The Agony in the Garden. [36]Then Jesus came with them to a place called Gethsemane, and he said to his disciples, "Sit here while I go over there and pray." [37]He took along Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to feel sorrow and distress. [38]Then he said to them, "My soul is sorrowful even to death. Remain here and keep watch with me." [39]He advanced a little and fell prostrate in prayer, saying, "My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me; yet, not as I will, but as you will." [40]When he returned to his disciples he found them asleep. He said to Peter, "So you could not keep watch with me for one hour? [41]Watch and pray that you may not undergo the test. The spirit is willing, but the flesh is weak." [42]Withdrawing a second time, he prayed again, "My Father, if it is not possible that this cup pass without my drinking it, your will be done!" [43]Then he returned once more and found them asleep, for they could not keep their eyes open. [44]He left them and withdrew again and prayed a third time, saying the same thing again. [45]Then he returned to his disciples and said to them, "Are you still sleeping and taking your rest? Behold, the hour is at hand when the Son of Man is to be handed over to sinners. [46]Get up, let us go. Look, my betrayer is at hand."

14:1 Three years later, Judas and his companions learned that Demetrius, son of Seleucus, had sailed into the port of Tripolis with a powerful army and a fleet, [2]and that he had occupied the country, after doing away with Antiochus and his guardian Lysias.

[3]A certain Alcimus, a former high priest, who had willfully incurred defilement before the time of the revolt, realized that there was no way for him to be safe and regain access to the holy altar. [4]So he went to King Demetrius around the one hundred and fifty-first year and presented him with a gold crown and a palm branch, as well as some of the customary olive branches from the temple. On that day he kept quiet. [5]But he found an opportunity to further his mad scheme when he was invited to the council by Demetrius and questioned about the dispositions and intentions of the Jews. He replied: [6]"Those Jews called Hasideans, led by Judas Maccabeus, are warmongers, who stir up sedition and keep the kingdom from enjoying peace. [7]For this reason, now that I am deprived of my ancestral dignity, that is to say, the high priesthood, I have come here, [8]first, out of my genuine concern for the king's interests, and second, out of consideration for my own compatriots, since our entire nation is suffering no little affliction from the rash conduct of the people just mentioned. [9]When you have informed yourself in detail on these matters, O king, provide for our country and its hard-pressed people with the same gracious consideration that you show toward all. [10]As long as Judas is around, it is impossible for the government to enjoy peace." [11]When he had said this, the other Friends who were hostile to Judas quickly added fuel to Demetrius' indignation.

Dealings with Nicanor. [12]The king immediately chose Nicanor, who had been in command of the elephants, and appointed him governor of Judea. He sent him off [13]with orders to put Judas to death, to disperse his followers, and to set up Alcimus as high priest of the great temple. [14]The Gentiles from Judea, who had fled before Judas, flocked to Nicanor, thinking that the misfortunes and calamities of the Jews would mean prosperity for themselves.

[15]When the Jews heard of Nicanor's coming, and that the Gentiles were rallying to him, they sprinkled themselves with earth and prayed to him who established his people forever, and who always comes to the aid of his heritage by manifesting himself. [16]At their leader's command, they set out at once from there and came upon the enemy at the village of Adasa. [17]Judas' brother Simon had engaged Nicanor, but he suffered a slight setback because of the sudden appearance of the enemy.

[18]However, when Nicanor heard of the valor of Judas and his companions, and the great courage with which they fought for their country, he shrank from deciding the issue by bloodshed. [19]So he sent Posidonius, Theodotus and Mattathias to exchange pledges of friendship. [20]After a long discussion of the terms, each leader communicated them to his troops; and when general agreement was expressed, they assented to the treaty. [21]A day was set on which the leaders would meet by themselves. From each side a chariot came forward, and thrones were set in place. [22]Judas had posted armed men in readiness at strategic points for fear that the enemy might suddenly commit some treachery. But the conference was held in the proper way.

[23]Nicanor stayed on in Jerusalem, where he did nothing out of place. He disbanded the throngs of people who gathered around him; [24]and he always kept Judas in his company, for he felt affection for the man. [25]He urged him to marry and have children; so Judas married and settled into an ordinary life.

Nicanor's Threat Against Judas. [26]When Alcimus saw their mutual goodwill, he took the treaty that had been made, went to Demetrius, and said that Nicanor was plotting against the government, for he had appointed Judas, that conspirator against the kingdom, as his successor. [27]Stirred up by the villain's slander, the king became enraged. He wrote to Nicanor, stating that he was displeased with the treaty, and ordering him to send Maccabeus at once as a prisoner to Antioch. [28]When this message reached Nicanor he was dismayed and troubled at the thought of annulling his agreement with a man who had done no wrong. [29]However, there was no way of opposing the king, so he watched for an opportunity to carry out this order by a stratagem. [30]But Maccabeus, noticing that Nicanor was more harsh in his dealings with him, and acting with unaccustomed rudeness when they met, concluded that this harshness was not a good sign. So he gathered together not a few of his men, and went into hiding from Nicanor.

[31]When Nicanor realized that he had been cleverly outwitted by the man, he went to the great and holy temple, at a time when the priests were offering the customary sacrifices, and ordered them to surrender Judas. [32]As they declared under oath that they did not know where the man they sought was, [33]he stretched out his right arm toward the temple and swore this oath: "If you do not hand Judas over to me as prisoner, I will level this shrine of God to the ground; I will tear down the altar, and erect here a splendid temple to Dionysus."

[34]With these words he went away. The priests stretched out their hands toward heaven, calling upon the unfailing defender of our nation in these words: [35]"Lord of all, though you are in need of nothing, you were pleased to have a temple for your dwelling place among us. [36]Therefore, Holy One, Lord of all holiness, preserve forever undefiled this house, which has been so recently purified."

Martyrdom of Razis. [37]A certain Razis, one of the elders of Jerusalem, was denounced to Nicanor as a patriot. A man highly regarded, he was called a father of the Jews because of his goodwill toward them. [38]In the days before the revolt, he had been convicted of being a Jew, and had risked body and soul in his ardent zeal for Judaism. [39]Nicanor, to show his disdain for the Jews, sent more than five hundred soldiers to arrest him. [40]He thought that by arresting that man he would deal the Jews a hard blow.

[41]But when the troops, on the point of capturing the tower, were forcing the outer gate and calling for fire to set the door ablaze, Razis, now caught on all sides, turned his sword against himself, [42]preferring to die nobly rather than fall into the hands of vile men and suffer outrages unworthy of his noble birth. [43]In the excitement of the struggle he failed to strike exactly. So while the troops rushed in through the doors, he gallantly ran up to the top of the wall and courageously threw himself down into the crowd. [44]But as they quickly drew back and left an opening, he fell into the middle of the empty space. [45]Still breathing, and inflamed with anger, he got up and ran through the crowd, with blood gushing from his frightful wounds. Then, standing on a steep rock, [46]as he lost the last of his blood, he tore out his entrails and flung them with both hands into the crowd, calling upon the Lord of life and of spirit to give these back to him again. Such was the manner of his death.

Nicanor's Arrogance. 15:1 When Nicanor learned that Judas and his companions were in the territory of Samaria, he decided he could attack them in complete safety on the day of rest. [2]The Jews who were forced to accompany him pleaded, "Do not massacre them so savagely and barbarously, but show respect for the day which the All-seeing has exalted with holiness above all other days." [3]At this the thrice-accursed wretch asked if there was a ruler in heaven who prescribed the keeping of the sabbath day. [4]They replied, "It is the living Lord, the ruler in heaven, who commands the observance of the sabbath day." [5]Then he said, "I, the ruler on earth, command you to take up arms and carry out the king's business." Nevertheless he did not succeed in carrying out his cruel plan.

[6]In his utter boastfulness and arrogance Nicanor had determined to erect a public victory monument over Judas and his companions. [7]But Maccabeus remained confident, fully convinced that he would receive help from the Lord. [8]He urged his men not to fear the attack of the Gentiles, but mindful of the help they had received in the past from Heaven, to expect now the victory that would be given them by the Almighty. [9]By encouraging them with words from the law and the prophets, and by reminding them of the battles they had already won, he filled them with fresh enthusiasm. [10]Having stirred up their courage, he gave his orders and pointed out at the same time the perfidy of the Gentiles and their violation of oaths. [11]When he had armed each of them, not so much with the security of shield and spear as with the encouragement of noble words, he cheered them all by relating a dream, a kind of waking vision, worthy of belief.

[12]What he saw was this: Onias, the former high priest, a noble and good man, modest in bearing, gentle in manner, distinguished in speech, and trained from childhood in all that belongs to excellence, was praying with outstretched arms for the whole Jewish community. [13]Then in the same way another man appeared, distinguished by his white hair and dignity, and with an air of wondrous and majestic authority. [14]Onias then said of him, "This is a man who loves his fellow Jews and fervently prays for the people and the holy city—the prophet of God, Jeremiah." [15]Stretching out his right hand, Jeremiah presented a gold sword to Judas. As he gave it to him he said, [16]"Accept this holy sword as a gift from God; with it you shall shatter your adversaries."

Defeat of Nicanor. [21]Maccabeus, surveying the hosts before him, the variety of weaponry, and the fierceness of their beasts, stretched out his hands toward heaven and called upon the Lord who works wonders; for he knew that it is not weapons but the Lord's decision that brings victory to those who deserve it. [22]Calling upon God, he spoke in this manner: "You, master, sent your angel in the days of King Hezekiah of Judea, and he slew a hundred and eighty-five thousand men of Sennacherib's camp. [23]And now, Sovereign of the heavens, send a good angel to spread fear and trembling ahead of us. [24]By the might of your arm may those be struck down who have blasphemously come against your holy people!" With these words he ended his prayer.

[25]Nicanor and his troops advanced to the sound of trumpets and battle songs. [26]But Judas and his troops met the enemy with supplication and prayers. [27]Fighting with their hands and praying to God with their hearts, they laid low at least thirty-five thousand, and rejoiced greatly over this manifestation of God's power. [28]When the battle was over and they were joyfully departing, they discovered Nicanor fallen there in all his armor; [29]so they raised tumultuous shouts in their ancestral language in praise of the divine Sovereign.

[30]Then Judas, that man who was ever in body and soul the chief defender of his fellow citizens, and had maintained from youth his affection for his compatriots, ordered Nicanor's head and right arm up to the shoulder to be cut off and taken to Jerusalem. [31]When he arrived there, he assembled his compatriots, stationed the priests before the altar, and sent for those in the citadel. [32]He showed them the vile Nicanor's head and the wretched blasphemer's arm that had been boastfully stretched out against the holy dwelling of the Almighty. [33]He cut out the tongue of the godless Nicanor, saying he would feed it piecemeal to the birds and would hang up the other wages of his folly opposite the temple. [34]At this, everyone looked toward heaven and praised the Lord who manifests himself: "Blessed be the one who has preserved undefiled his own place!" [35]Judas hung Nicanor's head and arm on the wall of the citadel, a clear and evident sign to all of the Lord's help. [36]By public vote it was unanimously decreed never to let this day pass unobserved, but to celebrate the thirteenth day of the twelfth month, called Adar in Aramaic, the eve of Mordecai's Day.

Compiler's Apology. [37]Since Nicanor's doings ended in this way, with the city remaining in the possession of the Hebrews from that time on, I will bring my story to an end here too. [38]If it is well written and to the point, that is what I wanted; if it is poorly done and mediocre, that is the best I could do. [39]Just as it is unpleasant to drink wine by itself or just water, whereas wine mixed with water makes a delightful and pleasing drink, so a skillfully composed story delights the ears of those who read the work. Let this, then, be the end.

The Betrayal and Arrest of Jesus. 26:47 While he was still speaking, Judas, one of the Twelve, arrived, accompanied by a large crowd, with swords and clubs, who had come from the chief priests and the elders of the people. [48]His betrayer had arranged a sign with them, saying, "The man I shall kiss is the one; arrest him." [49]Immediately he went over to Jesus and said, "Hail, Rabbi!" and he kissed him. [50]Jesus answered him, "Friend, do what you have come for." Then stepping forward they laid hands on Jesus and arrested him. [51]And behold, one of those who accompanied Jesus put his hand to his sword, drew it, and struck the high priest's servant, cutting off his ear. [52]Then

Jesus said to him, "Put your sword back into its sheath, for all who take the sword will perish by the sword. [53]Do you think that I cannot call upon my Father and he will not provide me at this moment with more than twelve legions of angels? [54]But then how would the scriptures be fulfilled which say that it must come to pass in this way?" [55]At that hour Jesus said to the crowds, "Have you come out as against a robber, with swords and clubs to seize me? Day after day I sat teaching in the temple area, yet you did not arrest me. [56]But all this has come to pass that the writings of the prophets may be fulfilled." Then all the disciples left him and fled.

Jesus before the Sanhedrin. [57]Those who had arrested Jesus led him away to Caiaphas the high priest, where the scribes and the elders were assembled. [58]Peter was following him at a distance as far as the high priest's courtyard, and going inside he sat down with the servants to see the outcome. [59]The chief priests and the entire Sanhedrin kept trying to obtain false testimony against Jesus in order to put him to death, [60]but they found none, though many false witnesses came forward. Finally two came forward [61]who stated, "This man said, 'I can destroy the temple of God and within three days rebuild it.' " [62]The high priest rose and addressed him, "Have you no answer? What are these men testifying against you?" [63]But Jesus was silent. Then the high priest said to him, "I order you to tell us under oath before the living God whether you are the Messiah, the Son of God." [64]Jesus said to him in reply, "You have said so. But I tell you:

> From now on you will see 'the Son of Man > seated at the right hand of the Power'
> and 'coming on the clouds of heaven.' "

[65]Then the high priest tore his robes and said, "He has blasphemed! What further need have we of witnesses? You have now heard the blasphemy; [66]what is your opinion?" They said in reply, "He deserves to die!" [67]Then they spat in his face and struck him, while some slapped him, [68] saying, "Prophesy for us, Messiah: who is it that struck you?"

Peter's Denial of Jesus. [69]Now Peter was sitting outside in the courtyard. One of the maids came over to him and said, "You too were with Jesus the Galilean." [70]But he denied it in front of everyone, saying, "I do not know what you are talking about!" [71]As he went out to the gate, another girl saw him and said to those who were there, "This man was with Jesus the Nazorean." [72]Again he denied it with an oath, "I do not know the man!" [73]A little later the bystanders came over and said to Peter, "Surely you too are one of them; even your speech gives you away." [74]At that he began to curse and to swear, "I do not know the man." And immediately a cock crowed. [75]Then Peter remembered the word that Jesus had spoken: "Before the cock crows you will deny me three times." He went out and began to weep bitterly.

Job's Piety. 1:1 In the land of Uz there was a blameless and upright man named Job, who feared God and avoided evil. [2]Seven sons and three daughters were born to him; [3]and he had seven thousand sheep, three thousand camels, five hundred yoke of oxen, five hundred she-donkeys, and a very large household, so that he was greater than anyone in the East. [4]His sons used to take turns giving feasts, sending invitations to their three sisters to eat and drink with them. [5]And when each feast had run its course, Job would send for them and sanctify them, rising early and offering sacrifices for every one of them. For Job said, "It may be that my children have sinned and cursed God in their hearts." Job did this habitually.

The Interview Between the Lord and the Satan. 6One day, when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, the satan also came among them. 7The LORD said to the satan, "Where have you been?" Then the satan answered the LORD and said, "Roaming the earth and patrolling it." 8The LORD said to the satan, "Have you noticed my servant Job? There is no one on earth like him, blameless and upright, fearing God and avoiding evil." 9The satan answered the LORD and said, "Is it for nothing that Job is God-fearing? 10Have you not surrounded him and his family and all that he has with your protection? You have blessed the work of his hands, and his livestock are spread over the land. 11But now put forth your hand and touch all that he has, and surely he will curse you to your face." 12The LORD said to the satan, "Very well, all that he has is in your power; only do not lay a hand on him." So the satan went forth from the presence of the LORD.

The First Trial. 13One day, while his sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their eldest brother, 14a messenger came to Job and said, "The oxen were plowing and the donkeys grazing beside them, 15and the Sabeans carried them off in a raid. They put the servants to the sword, and I alone have escaped to tell you." 16He was still speaking when another came and said, "God's fire has fallen from heaven and struck the sheep and the servants and consumed them; I alone have escaped to tell you." 17He was still speaking when another came and said, "The Chaldeans formed three columns, seized the camels, carried them off, and put the servants to the sword; I alone have escaped to tell you." 18He was still speaking when another came and said, "Your sons and daughters were eating and drinking wine in the house of their eldest brother, 19and suddenly a great wind came from across the desert and smashed the four corners of the house. It fell upon the young people and they are dead; I alone have escaped to tell you."

Job's Reaction. 20Then Job arose and tore his cloak and cut off his hair. He fell to the ground and worshiped. 21He said,

"Naked I came forth from my mother's womb,
and naked shall I go back there.
The LORD gave and the LORD has taken away;
blessed be the name of the LORD!"

22In all this Job did not sin, nor did he charge God with wrong.

The Second Interview. 2:1 One day, when the sons of God came to present themselves before the LORD, the satan also came with them. 2The LORD said to the satan, "Where have you been?" Then the satan answered the LORD and said, "Roaming the earth and patrolling it." 3The LORD said to the satan, "Have you noticed my servant Job? There is no one on earth like him, blameless and upright, fearing God and avoiding evil. He still holds fast to his innocence although you incited me against him to ruin him for nothing." 4The satan answered the LORD and said, "Skin for skin! All that a man has he will give for his life. 5But put forth your hand and touch his bone and his flesh. Then surely he will curse you to your face." 6And the LORD said to the satan, "He is in your power; only spare his life."

The Second Trial. 7So the satan went forth from the presence of the LORD and struck Job with severe boils from the soles of his feet to the crown of his head.

Job's Reaction. 8He took a potsherd to scrape himself, as he sat among the ashes. 9Then his wife said to him, "Are you still holding to your innocence? Curse God and die!" 10But he said to her, "You speak as foolish women do. We accept good things from God; should we not accept evil?" Through all this, Job did not sin in what he said.

Job's Three Friends. 11Now when three of Job's friends heard of all the misfortune that had come upon him, they set out each one from his own place: Eliphaz from Teman, Bildad from Shuh, and Zophar from Naamath. They met and journeyed together to give him sympathy and comfort. 12But when, at a distance, they lifted up their eyes and did not recognize him, they began to weep aloud; they tore their cloaks and threw dust into the air over their heads. 13Then they sat down upon the ground with him seven days and seven nights, but none of them spoke a word to him; for they saw how great was his suffering.

Job's Complaint. 3:1 After this, Job opened his mouth and cursed his day. 2Job spoke out and said:

3Perish the day on which I was born,
the night when they said, "The child is a boy!"

[4]May that day be darkness:
may God above not care for it,
may light not shine upon it!
[5]May darkness and gloom claim it,
clouds settle upon it,
blackness of day affright it!
[6]May obscurity seize that night;
may it not be counted among the days of the year,
nor enter into the number of the months!
[7]May that night be barren;
let no joyful outcry greet it!
[8]Let them curse it who curse the Sea,
those skilled at disturbing Leviathan!
[9]May the stars of its twilight be darkened;
may it look for daylight, but have none,
nor gaze on the eyes of the dawn,
[10]Because it did not keep shut the doors of the womb
to shield my eyes from trouble!
[11]Why did I not die at birth,
come forth from the womb and expire?
[12]Why did knees receive me,
or breasts nurse me?
[13]For then I should have lain down and been tranquil;
had I slept, I should then have been at rest [14]With kings and counselors of the earth
who rebuilt what were ruins [15]Or with princes who had gold and filled their houses with silver.
[16]Or why was I not buried away like a stillborn child, like babies that have never seen the light?
[17]There the wicked cease from troubling,
there the weary are at rest.
[18]The captives are at ease together,
and hear no overseer's voice.
[19]Small and great are there;
the servant is free from the master.
[20]Why is light given to the toilers,
life to the bitter in spirit?
[21]They wait for death and it does not come;
they search for it more than for hidden treasures.
[22]They rejoice in it exultingly,
and are glad when they find the grave:
[23]A man whose path is hidden from him,
one whom God has hemmed in!
[24]For to me sighing comes more readily than food;
my groans well forth like water.
[25]For what I feared overtakes me;
what I dreaded comes upon me.
[26]I have no peace nor ease;
I have no rest, for trouble has come!

☐ MATTHEW 27:1-31

Jesus before Pilate. 27:1 When it was morning, all the chief priests and the elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death. [2]They bound him, led him away, and handed him over to Pilate, the governor.

The Death of Judas. [3]Then Judas, his betrayer, seeing that Jesus had been condemned, deeply regretted what he had done. He returned the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and elders, [4]saying, "I have sinned in betraying innocent blood." They said, "What is that to us? Look to it yourself." [5]Flinging the money into the temple, he departed and went off and hanged himself. [6]The chief priests gathered up the money, but said, "It is not lawful to deposit this in the temple treasury, for it is the price of blood." [7]After consultation, they used it to buy the potter's field as a burial place for foreigners. [8]That is why that field even today is called the Field of Blood. [9]Then was fulfilled what had been said through Jeremiah the prophet, "And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the value of a man with a price on his head, a price set by some of the Israelites, [10]and they paid it out for the potter's field just as the Lord had commanded me."

Jesus Questioned by Pilate. [11]Now Jesus stood before the governor, and he questioned him, "Are you the king of the Jews?" Jesus said, "You say so." [12]And when he was accused by the chief priests and elders, he made no answer. [13]Then Pilate said to him, "Do you not hear how many things they are testifying against you?" [14]But he did not answer him one word, so that the governor was greatly amazed.

The Sentence of Death. [15]Now on the occasion of the feast the governor was accustomed to release to the crowd one prisoner whom they wished. [16]And at that time they had a notorious prisoner called [Jesus] Barabbas. [17]So when they had assembled, Pilate said to them, "Which one do you want me to release to you, [Jesus] Barabbas, or Jesus called Messiah?" [18]For he knew that it was out of envy that they had handed him over. [19]While he was still seated on the bench, his wife sent him a message, "Have nothing to do with that righteous man. I suffered much in a dream today because of him." [20]The chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowds to ask for Barabbas but to destroy Jesus. [21]The governor said to them in reply, "Which of the two do you want me to release to you?" They answered, "Barabbas!" [22]Pilate said to them, "Then what shall I do with Jesus called Messiah?" They all said, "Let him be crucified!" [23]But he said, "Why? What evil has he done?" They only shouted the louder, "Let him be crucified!" [24]When Pilate saw that he was not succeeding at all, but that a riot was breaking out instead, he took water and washed his hands in the sight of the crowd, saying, "I am innocent of this man's blood. Look to it yourselves." [25]And the whole people said in reply, "His blood be upon us and upon our children." [26]Then he released Barabbas to them, but after he had Jesus scourged, he handed him over to be crucified.

Mockery by the Soldiers. [27]Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus inside the praetorium and gathered the whole cohort around him. [28]They stripped off his clothes and threw a scarlet military cloak about him. [29]Weaving a crown out of thorns, they placed it on his head, and a reed in his right hand. And kneeling before him, they mocked him, saying, "Hail, King of the Jews!" [30]They spat upon him and took the reed and kept striking him on the head. [31]And when they had mocked him, they stripped him of the cloak, dressed him in his own clothes, and led him off to crucify him.

Eliphaz's First Speech. 4:1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

[2]If someone attempts a word with you, would you mind?
How can anyone refrain from speaking?
[3]Look, you have instructed many,
and made firm their feeble hands.

[4]Your words have upheld the stumbler;
you have strengthened faltering knees.
[5]But now that it comes to you, you are impatient;
when it touches you, you are dismayed.
[6]Is not your piety a source of confidence,
and your integrity of life your hope?
[7]Reflect now, what innocent person perishes?
Where are the upright destroyed?
[8]As I see it, those who plow mischief and sow trouble will reap them.
[9]By the breath of God they perish,
and by the blast of his wrath they are consumed.
[10]Though the lion roars, though the king of beasts cries out,
yet the teeth of the young lions are broken;
[11]The old lion perishes for lack of prey,
and the cubs of the lioness are scattered.
[12]A word was stealthily brought to me,
my ear caught a whisper of it.
[13]In my thoughts during visions of the night,
when deep sleep falls on mortals, [14]Fear came upon me, and shuddering,
that terrified me to the bone.
[15]Then a spirit passed before me,
and the hair of my body stood on end.
[16]It paused, but its likeness I could not recognize;
a figure was before my eyes,
in silence I heard a voice:
[17]"Can anyone be more in the right than God?
Can mortals be more blameless than their Maker?
[18]Look, he puts no trust in his servants,
and even with his messengers he finds fault.
[19]How much more with those who dwell in houses of clay, whose foundation is in the dust,
who are crushed more easily than a moth!
[20]Morning or evening they may be shattered;
unnoticed, they perish forever.
[21]The pegs of their tent are plucked up;
they die without knowing wisdom."

5:1 Call now! Will anyone respond to you?
To which of the holy ones will you turn?
[2]Surely impatience kills the fool
and indignation slays the simpleton.
[3]I have seen a fool spreading his roots,
but I cursed his household suddenly:
[4]May his children be far from safety;
may they be crushed at the gate without a rescuer.
[5]What they have reaped may the hungry eat up,
or God take away by blight,
or the thirsty swallow their substance.

[6]For not from dust does mischief come,
nor from the soil does trouble sprout.
[7]Human beings beget mischief
as sparks fly upward.
[8]In your place, I would appeal to God,
and to God I would state my plea.
[9]He does things great and unsearchable,
things marvelous and innumerable.
[10]He gives rain upon the earth and sends water upon the fields; [11]He sets up the lowly on high,
and those who mourn are raised to safety.
[12]He frustrates the plans of the cunning,
so that their hands achieve no success;
[13]He catches the wise in their own ruses,
and the designs of the crafty are routed.
[14]They meet with darkness in the daytime,
at noonday they grope as though it were night.
[15]But he saves the poor from the sword of their mouth,
from the hand of the mighty.
[16]Thus the needy have hope,
and iniquity closes its mouth.
[17]Happy the one whom God reproves!
The Almighty's discipline do not reject.
[18]For he wounds, but he binds up;
he strikes, but his hands give healing.
[19]Out of six troubles he will deliver you,
and at the seventh no evil shall touch you.
[20]In famine he will deliver you from death,
and in war from the power of the sword;
[21]From the scourge of the tongue you shall be hidden,
and you shall not fear approaching ruin.
[22]At ruin and want you shall laugh;
the beasts of the earth, do not fear.
[23]With the stones of the field shall your covenant be,
and the wild beasts shall be at peace with you.
[24]And you shall know that your tent is secure;
taking stock of your household, you shall miss nothing.
[25]You shall know that your descendants are many,
and your offspring like the grass of the earth.
[26]You shall approach the grave in full vigor,
as a shock of grain comes in at its season.
[27]See, this we have searched out; so it is!
This we have heard, and you should know.

Job's First Reply. 6:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]Ah, could my anguish but be measured and my calamity laid with it in the scales,
[3]They would now outweigh the sands of the sea!
Because of this I speak without restraint.

[4]For the arrows of the Almighty are in me,
and my spirit drinks in their poison;
the terrors of God are arrayed against me.
[5]Does the wild donkey bray when it has grass?
Does the ox low over its fodder?
[6]Can anything insipid be eaten without salt?
Is there flavor in the white of an egg?
[7]I refuse to touch them;
they are like loathsome food to me.
[8]Oh, that I might have my request, and that God would grant what I long for:
[9]Even that God would decide to crush me, that he would put forth his hand and cut me off!
[10]Then I should still have consolation
and could exult through unremitting pain, because I have not transgressed the commands of the Holy One.
[11]What strength have I that I should endure,
and what is my limit that I should be patient?
[12]Have I the strength of stones,
or is my flesh of bronze?
[13]Have I no helper,
and has my good sense deserted me?
[14]A friend owes kindness to one in despair,
though he has forsaken the fear of the Almighty.
[15]My companions are undependable as a wadi,
as watercourses that run dry in the wadies;
[16]Though they may be black with ice,
and with snow heaped upon them, [17]Yet once they flow, they cease to be;
in the heat, they disappear from their place.
[18]Caravans wander from their routes;
they go into the wasteland and perish.
[19]The caravans of Tema search,
the companies of Sheba have hopes;
[20]They are disappointed, though they were confident;
they come there and are frustrated.
[21]It is thus that you have now become for me;
you see a terrifying thing and are afraid.
[22]Have I said, "Give me something,
make a bribe on my behalf from your possessions"?
[23]Or "Deliver me from the hand of the enemy, redeem me from oppressors"?
[24]Teach me, and I will be silent;
make me understand how I have erred.
[25]How painful honest words can be;
yet how unconvincing is your argument!
[26]Do you consider your words as proof,
but the sayings of a desperate man as wind?
[27]You would even cast lots for the orphan,
and would barter over your friend!

[28]Come, now, give me your attention;
surely I will not lie to your face.
[29]Think it over; let there be no injustice.
Think it over; I still am right.
[30]Is there insincerity on my tongue,
or cannot my taste discern falsehood?

7:1 Is not life on earth a drudgery,
its days like those of a hireling?
[2]Like a slave who longs for the shade,
a hireling who waits for wages,
[3]So I have been assigned months of futility,
and troubled nights have been counted off for me.
[4]When I lie down I say, "When shall I arise?"
then the night drags on;
I am filled with restlessness until the dawn.
[5]My flesh is clothed with worms and scabs;
my skin cracks and festers;
[6]My days are swifter than a weaver's shuttle;
they come to an end without hope.
[7]Remember that my life is like the wind;
my eye will not see happiness again.
[8]The eye that now sees me shall no more behold me;
when your eye is on me, I shall be gone.
[9]As a cloud dissolves and vanishes,
so whoever goes down to Sheol shall not come up.
[10]They shall not return home again;
their place shall know them no more.
[11]My own utterance I will not restrain;
I will speak in the anguish of my spirit;
I will complain in the bitterness of my soul.
[12]Am I the Sea, or the dragon,
that you place a watch over me?
[13]When I say, "My bed shall comfort me,
my couch shall ease my complaint," [14]Then you frighten me with dreams
and terrify me with visions, [15]So that I should prefer strangulation
and death rather than my existence.
[16]I waste away: I will not live forever;
let me alone, for my days are but a breath.
[17]What are human beings, that you make much of them,
or pay them any heed?
[18]You observe them every morning
and try them at every moment!
[19]How long before you look away from me,
and let me alone till I swallow my spit?
[20]If I sin, what do I do to you,
O watcher of mortals?
Why have you made me your target?

Why should I be a burden for you?
[21]Why do you not pardon my offense,
or take away my guilt?
For soon I shall lie down in the dust;
and should you seek me I shall be gone.

☐ MATTHEW 27:32-66

The Way of the Cross. 27:32 As they were going out, they met a Cyrenian named Simon; this man they pressed into service to carry his cross.

The Crucifixion. [33]And when they came to a place called Golgotha (which means Place of the Skull), [34]they gave Jesus wine to drink mixed with gall. But when he had tasted it, he refused to drink. [35]After they had crucified him, they divided his garments by casting lots; [36]then they sat down and kept watch over him there. [37]And they placed over his head the written charge against him: This is Jesus, the King of the Jews. [38]Two revolutionaries were crucified with him, one on his right and the other on his left. [39]Those passing by reviled him, shaking their heads [40]and saying, "You who would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days, save yourself, if you are the Son of God, [and] come down from the cross!" [41]Likewise the chief priests with the scribes and elders mocked him and said, [42]"He saved others; he cannot save himself. So he is the king of Israel! Let him come down from the cross now, and we will believe in him. [43]He trusted in God; let him deliver him now if he wants him. For he said, 'I am the Son of God.' " [44]The revolutionaries who were crucified with him also kept abusing him in the same way.

The Death of Jesus. [45]From noon onward, darkness came over the whole land until three in the afternoon. [46]And about three o'clock Jesus cried out in a loud voice, "Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?" which means, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?" [47]Some of the bystanders who heard it said, "This one is calling for Elijah." [48]Immediately one of them ran to get a sponge; he soaked it in wine, and putting it on a reed, gave it to him to drink. [49]But the rest said, "Wait, let us see if Elijah comes to save him." [50]But Jesus cried out again in a loud voice, and gave up his spirit. [51]And behold, the veil of the sanctuary was torn in two from top to bottom. The earth quaked, rocks were split, [52]tombs were opened, and the bodies of many saints who had fallen asleep were raised. [53]And coming forth from their tombs after his resurrection, they entered the holy city and appeared to many. [54]The centurion and the men with him who were keeping watch over Jesus feared greatly when they saw the earthquake and all that was happening, and they said, "Truly, this was the Son of God!" [55]There were many women there, looking on from a distance, who had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering to him. [56]Among them were Mary Magdalene and Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

The Burial of Jesus. [57]When it was evening, there came a rich man from Arimathea named Joseph, who was himself a disciple of Jesus. [58]He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus; then Pilate ordered it to be handed over. [59]Taking the body, Joseph wrapped it [in] clean linen [60]and laid it in his new tomb that he had hewn in the rock. Then he rolled a huge stone across the entrance to the tomb and departed. [61]But Mary Magdalene and the other Mary remained sitting there, facing the tomb.

The Guard at the Tomb. [62]The next day, the one following the day of preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered before Pilate [63]and said, "Sir, we remember that this impostor while still alive said, 'After three days I will be raised up.' [64]Give orders, then, that the grave be secured until the third day, lest his disciples come and steal him and say to the people, 'He has been raised from the dead.' This last imposture would be worse than the first." [65]Pilate said to them, "The guard is yours; go secure it as best you can." [66]So they went and secured the tomb by fixing a seal to the stone and setting the guard.

Of what use are riches in eternity?

— St. Aloysius Gonzaga

☐ JOB 8-10

Bildad's First Speech. 8:1 Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

[2]How long will you utter such things?
The words from your mouth are a mighty wind!
[3]Does God pervert judgment,
does the Almighty pervert justice?
[4]If your children have sinned against him and he has left them in the grip of their guilt, [5]Still, if you yourself have recourse to God
and make supplication to the Almighty, [6]Should you be blameless and upright, surely now he will rouse himself for you and restore your rightful home.
[7]Though your beginning was small,
your future will flourish indeed.
[8]Inquire of the former generations,
pay attention to the experience of their ancestors—[9]As we are but of yesterday and have no knowledge, because our days on earth are but a shadow—[10]Will they not teach you and tell you and utter their words of understanding?
[11]Can the papyrus grow up without mire?
Can the reed grass flourish without water?
[12]While it is yet green and uncut,
it withers quicker than any grass.
[13]So is the end of everyone who forgets God,
and so shall the hope of the godless perish.
[14]His confidence is but a gossamer thread,
his trust is a spider's house.
[15]He shall lean upon his house, but it shall not stand;
he shall cling to it, but it shall not endure.
[16]He thrives in full sun,
and over his garden his shoots go forth;
[17]About a heap of stones his roots are entwined;
among the rocks he takes hold.
[18]Yet if one tears him from his place,
it will disown him: "I have never seen you!"
[19]There he lies rotting beside the road,
and out of the soil another sprouts.
[20]Behold, God will not cast away the upright;
neither will he take the hand of the wicked.
[21]Once more will he fill your mouth with laughter
and your lips with rejoicing.
[22]Those who hate you shall be clothed with shame,
and the tent of the wicked shall be no more.

Job's Second Reply. 9:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]I know well that it is so;
but how can anyone be in the right before God?
[3]Should one wish to contend with him,
he could not answer him once in a thousand times.
[4]God is wise in heart and mighty in strength;
who has withstood him and remained whole?
[5]He removes the mountains before they know it;
he overturns them in his anger.
[6]He shakes the earth out of its place,
and the pillars beneath it tremble.
[7]He commands the sun, and it does not rise;
he seals up the stars.
[8]He alone stretches out the heavens
and treads upon the back of the sea.
[9]He made the Bear and Orion,
the Pleiades and the constellations of the south;
[10]He does things great and unsearchable,
things marvelous and innumerable.
[11]Should he come near me, I do not see him;
should he pass by, I am not aware of him;
[12]Should he seize me forcibly, who can resist?
Who can say to him, "What are you doing?"
[13]He is God and he does not relent;
the helpers of Rahab bow beneath him.
[14]How then could I give him any answer,
or choose out arguments against him!
[15]Even though I were right, I could not answer,
but should rather beg for what was due me.
[16]If I appealed to him and he answered me,
I could not believe that he would listen to me;
[17]With a storm he might overwhelm me,
and multiply my wounds for nothing;
[18]He would not allow me to draw breath,
but might fill me with bitter griefs.
[19]If it be a question of strength, he is mighty;
or of judgment, who will call him to account?
[20]Though I were right, my own mouth might condemn me;
were I innocent, it might put me in the wrong.
[21]I am innocent, but I cannot know it;
I despise my life.
[22]It is all one! therefore I say:
Both the innocent and the wicked he destroys.
[23]When the scourge slays suddenly,
he scoffs at the despair of the innocent.
[24]The earth is given into the hands of the wicked;
he covers the faces of its judges.
If it is not he, who then is it?
[25]My days are swifter than a runner,

they flee away; they see no happiness;
[26]They shoot by like skiffs of reed,
like an eagle swooping upon its prey.
[27]If I say: I will forget my complaining,
I will lay aside my sadness and be of good cheer,
[28]Then I am in dread of all my pains;
I know that you will not hold me innocent.
[29]It is I who will be accounted guilty;
why then should I strive in vain?
[30]If I should wash myself with soap
and cleanse my hands with lye, [31]Yet you would plunge me in the ditch,
so that my garments would abhor me.
[32]For he is not a man like myself, that I should answer him,
that we should come together in judgment.
[33]Would that there were an arbiter between us, who could lay his hand upon us both [34]and withdraw his rod from me,
So that his terrors did not frighten me;
[35]that I might speak without being afraid of him.
Since this is not the case with me,
10:1 I loathe my life.

I will give myself up to complaint;
I will speak from the bitterness of my soul.
[2]I will say to God: Do not put me in the wrong!
Let me know why you oppose me.
[3]Is it a pleasure for you to oppress,
to spurn the work of your hands,
and shine on the plan of the wicked?
[4]Have you eyes of flesh?
Do you see as mortals see?
[5]Are your days like the days of a mortal,
and are your years like a human lifetime, [6]That you seek for guilt in me
and search after my sins, [7]Even though you know that I am not wicked,
and that none can deliver me out of your hand?
[8]Your hands have formed me and fashioned me;
will you then turn and destroy me?
[9]Oh, remember that you fashioned me from clay!
Will you then bring me down to dust again?
[10]Did you not pour me out like milk,
and thicken me like cheese?
[11]With skin and flesh you clothed me,
with bones and sinews knit me together.
[12]Life and love you granted me,
and your providence has preserved my spirit.
[13]Yet these things you have hidden in your heart;
I know they are your purpose:

[14]If I should sin, you would keep a watch on me,
and from my guilt you would not absolve me.
[15]If I should be wicked, alas for me!
even if righteous, I dare not hold up my head,
sated with shame, drenched in affliction!
[16]Should it lift up, you hunt me like a lion:
repeatedly you show your wondrous power against me, [17]You renew your attack upon me
and multiply your harassment of me;
in waves your troops come against me.
[18]Why then did you bring me forth from the womb?
I should have died and no eye have seen me.
[19]I should be as though I had never lived;
I should have been taken from the womb to the grave.
[20]Are not my days few? Stop!
Let me alone, that I may recover a little [21]Before I go whence I shall not return, to the land of darkness and of gloom, [22]The dark, disordered land
where darkness is the only light.

The Resurrection of Jesus. 28:1 After the sabbath, as the first day of the week was dawning, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary came to see the tomb. [2]And behold, there was a great earthquake; for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven, approached, rolled back the stone, and sat upon it. [3]His appearance was like lightning and his clothing was white as snow. [4]The guards were shaken with fear of him and became like dead men. [5]Then the angel said to the women in reply, "Do not be afraid! I know that you are seeking Jesus the crucified. [6]He is not here, for he has been raised just as he said. Come and see the place where he lay. [7]Then go quickly and tell his disciples, 'He has been raised from the dead, and he is going before you to Galilee; there you will see him.' Behold, I have told you." [8]Then they went away quickly from the tomb, fearful yet overjoyed, and ran to announce this to his disciples. [9]And behold, Jesus met them on their way and greeted them. They approached, embraced his feet, and did him homage. [10]Then Jesus said to them, "Do not be afraid. Go tell my brothers to go to Galilee, and there they will see me."

The Report of the Guard. [11]While they were going, some of the guard went into the city and told the chief priests all that had happened. [12]They assembled with the elders and took counsel; then they gave a large sum of money to the soldiers, [13]telling them, "You are to say, 'His disciples came by night and stole him while we were asleep.' [14]And if this gets to the ears of the governor, we will satisfy [him] and keep you out of trouble." [15]The soldiers took the money and did as they were instructed. And this story has circulated among the Jews to the present [day].

The Commissioning of the Disciples. [16]The eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain to which Jesus had ordered them. [17]When they saw him, they worshiped, but they doubted. [18]Then Jesus approached and said to them, "All power in heaven and on earth has been given to me. [19]Go, therefore, and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the holy Spirit, [20]teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, until the end of the age."

St. Paulinus of Nola; St. John Fisher and St. Thomas More

We must have such great love for the truth that our words will take on the character of oaths.

— St. Paulinus of Nola

☐ JOB 11-14

Zophar's First Speech. 11:1 And Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

[2]Should not many words be answered,
or must the garrulous man necessarily be right?
[3]Shall your babblings keep others silent,
and shall you deride and no one give rebuke?
[4]Shall you say: "My teaching is pure,
and I am clean in your sight"?
[5]But oh, that God would speak,
and open his lips against you,
[6]And tell you the secrets of wisdom,
for good sense has two sides;
So you might learn that God overlooks some of your sinfulness.
[7]Can you find out the depths of God?
or find out the perfection of the Almighty?
[8]It is higher than the heavens; what can you do?
It is deeper than Sheol; what can you know?
[9]It is longer than the earth in measure,
and broader than the sea.
[10]If he should seize and imprison or call to judgment, who then could turn him back?
[11]For he knows the worthless
and sees iniquity; will he then ignore it?
[12]An empty head will gain understanding,
when a colt of a wild jackass is born human.
[13]If you set your heart aright
and stretch out your hands toward him, [14]If iniquity is in your hand, remove it,
and do not let injustice dwell in your tent, [15]Surely then you may lift up your face in innocence;
you may stand firm and unafraid.
[16]For then you shall forget your misery,
like water that has ebbed away you shall regard it.
[17]Then your life shall be brighter than the noonday;
its gloom shall become like the morning,
[18]And you shall be secure, because there is hope;
you shall look round you and lie down in safety;
[19]you shall lie down and no one will disturb you.
Many shall entreat your favor,
[20]but the wicked, looking on, shall be consumed with envy.
Escape shall be cut off from them,
their only hope their last breath.

Job's Third Reply. 12:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]No doubt you are the people with whom wisdom shall die!
[3]But I have intelligence as well as you;
I do not fall short of you;
for who does not know such things as these?
[4]I have become the sport of my neighbors:
"The one whom God answers when he calls upon him,
The just, the perfect man," is a laughingstock;
[5]The undisturbed esteem my downfall a disgrace
such as awaits unsteady feet;
[6]Yet the tents of robbers are prosperous,
and those who provoke God are secure,
whom God has in his power.
[7]But now ask the beasts to teach you,
the birds of the air to tell you;
[8]Or speak to the earth to instruct you,
and the fish of the sea to inform you.
[9]Which of all these does not know that the hand of God has done this?
[10]In his hand is the soul of every living thing,
and the life breath of all mortal flesh.
[11]Does not the ear judge words
as the mouth tastes food?
[12]So with old age is wisdom,
and with length of days understanding.
[13]With him are wisdom and might;
his are counsel and understanding.
[14]If he knocks a thing down, there is no rebuilding;
if he imprisons, there is no release.
[15]He holds back the waters and there is drought;
he sends them forth and they overwhelm the land.
[16]With him are strength and prudence;
the misled and the misleaders are his.
[17]He sends counselors away barefoot,
makes fools of judges.
[18]He loosens the belt of kings,
ties a waistcloth on their loins.
[19]He sends priests away barefoot,
leads the powerful astray.
[20]He silences the trusted adviser,
takes discretion from the elders.
[21]He pours shame on nobles,
the waistband of the strong he loosens.
[22]He uncovers deep things from the darkness,
brings the gloom into the light.
[23]He makes nations great and destroys them,
spreads peoples abroad and abandons them.
[24]He takes understanding from the leaders of the land,
makes them wander in a pathless desert.
[25]They grope in the darkness without light;

he makes them wander like drunkards.

13:1 All this my eye has seen;
my ear has heard and perceived it.
[2]What you know, I also know;
I do not fall short of you.
[3]But I would speak with the Almighty;
I want to argue with God.
[4]But you gloss over falsehoods,
you are worthless physicians, every one of you!
[5]Oh, that you would be altogether silent;
that for you would be wisdom!
[6]Hear now my argument
and listen to the accusations from my lips.
[7]Is it for God that you speak falsehood?
Is it for him that you utter deceit?
[8]Is it for him that you show partiality?
Do you make accusations on behalf of God?
[9]Will it be well when he shall search you out?
Can you deceive him as you do a mere human being?
[10]He will openly rebuke you
if in secret you show partiality.
[11]Surely his majesty will frighten you and dread of him fall upon you.
[12]Your reminders are ashy maxims,
your fabrications mounds of clay.
[13]Be silent! Let me alone that I may speak,
no matter what happens to me.
[14]I will carry my flesh between my teeth,
and take my life in my hand.
[15]Slay me though he might, I will wait for him;
I will defend my conduct before him.
[16]This shall be my salvation:
no impious man can come into his presence.
[17]Pay close attention to my speech,
give my statement a hearing.
[18]Behold, I have prepared my case,
I know that I am in the right.
[19]If anyone can make a case against me,
then I shall be silent and expire.
[20]Two things only do not use against me,
then from your presence I need not hide:
[21]Withdraw your hand far from me,
do not let the terror of you frighten me.
[22]Then call me, and I will respond;
or let me speak first, and answer me.
[23]What are my faults and my sins?
My misdeed, my sin make known to me!
[24]Why do you hide your face
and consider me your enemy?

25 Will you harass a wind-driven leaf
or pursue a withered straw?
26 For you draw up bitter indictments against me,
and punish in me the faults of my youth.
27 You put my feet in the stocks;
you watch all my paths
and trace out all my footsteps, 28 Though I wear out like a leather bottle,
like a garment the moth has consumed.

14:1 Man born of woman
is short-lived and full of trouble, 2 Like a flower that springs up and fades,
swift as a shadow that does not abide.
3 Upon such a one will you set your eyes,
bringing me into judgment before you?
4 Can anyone make the unclean clean?
No one can.
5 Since his days are determined—
you know the number of his months;
you have fixed the limit which he cannot pass—6 Look away from him and let him be,
while, like a hireling, he completes his day.
7 For a tree there is hope;
if it is cut down, it will sprout again,
its tender shoots will not cease.
8 Even though its root grow old in the earth and its stump die in the dust, 9 Yet at the first whiff of water it sprouts
and puts forth branches like a young plant.
10 But when a man dies, all vigor leaves him;
when a mortal expires, where then is he?
11 As when the waters of a lake fail,
or a stream shrivels and dries up,
12 So mortals lie down, never to rise.
Until the heavens are no more, they shall not awake,
nor be roused out of their sleep.
13 Oh, that you would hide me in Sheol, shelter me till your wrath is past,
fix a time to remember me!
14 If a man were to die, and live again,
all the days of my drudgery I would wait
for my relief to come.
15 You would call, and I would answer you;
you would long for the work of your hands.
16 Surely then you would count my steps,
and not keep watch for sin in me.
17 My misdeeds would be sealed up in a pouch,
and you would cover over my guilt.
18 Mountains fall and crumble,

rocks move from their place, 19 And water wears away stone,
and floods wash away the soil of the land—
so you destroy the hope of mortals!
20 You prevail once for all against them and they pass on;
you dismiss them with changed appearance.
21 If their children are honored, they are not aware of it;
or if disgraced, they do not know about them.
22 Only for themselves, their pain;
only for themselves, their mourning.

☐ 1 TIMOTHY 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by command of God our savior and of Christ Jesus our hope, 2 to Timothy, my true child in faith: grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Warning against False Doctrine. 3 I repeat the request I made of you when I was on my way to Macedonia, that you stay in Ephesus to instruct certain people not to teach false doctrines 4 or to concern themselves with myths and endless genealogies, which promote speculations rather than the plan of God that is to be received by faith. 5 The aim of this instruction is love from a pure heart, a good conscience, and a sincere faith. 6 Some people have deviated from these and turned to meaningless talk, 7 wanting to be teachers of the law, but without understanding either what they are saying or what they assert with such assurance.

8 We know that the law is good, provided that one uses it as law, 9 with the understanding that law is meant not for a righteous person but for the lawless and unruly, the godless and sinful, the unholy and profane, those who kill their fathers or mothers, murderers, 10 the unchaste, sodomites, kidnapers, liars, perjurers, and whatever else is opposed to sound teaching, 11 according to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, with which I have been entrusted.

Gratitude for God's Mercy. 12 I am grateful to him who has strengthened me, Christ Jesus our Lord, because he considered me trustworthy in appointing me to the ministry. 13 I was once a blasphemer and a persecutor and an arrogant man, but I have been mercifully treated because I acted out of ignorance in my unbelief. 14 Indeed, the grace of our Lord has been abundant, along with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. 15 This saying is trustworthy and deserves full acceptance: Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners. Of these I am the foremost. 16 But for that reason I was mercifully treated, so that in me, as the foremost, Christ Jesus might display all his patience as an example for those who would come to believe in him for everlasting life. 17 To the king of ages, incorruptible, invisible, the only God, honor and glory forever and ever. Amen.

Responsibility of Timothy. 18 I entrust this charge to you, Timothy, my child, in accordance with the prophetic words once spoken about you. Through them may you fight a good fight 19 by having faith and a good conscience. Some, by rejecting conscience, have made a shipwreck of their faith, 20 among them Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have handed over to Satan to be taught not to blaspheme.

St. Joseph Cafasso

We are born to love, we live to love, and we will die to love still more.

— St. Joseph Cafasso

☐ JOB 15-17

Second Speech of Eliphaz. 15:1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

[2]Does a wise man answer with windy opinions,
or puff himself up with the east wind?
[3]Does he argue in speech that does not avail,
and in words that are to no profit?
[4]You in fact do away with piety,
you lessen devotion toward God,
[5]Because your wickedness instructs your mouth,
and you choose to speak like the crafty.
[6]Your own mouth condemns you, not I;
your own lips refute you.
[7]Were you the first to be born?
Were you brought forth before the hills?
[8]Do you listen in on God's council and restrict wisdom to yourself?
[9]What do you know that we do not know,
or understand that we do not?
[10]There are gray-haired old men among us,
more advanced in years than your father.
[11]Are the consolations of God not enough for you,
and speech that deals gently with you?
[12]Why does your heart carry you away,
and why do your eyes flash,
[13]So that you turn your anger against God
and let such words escape your mouth!
[14]How can any mortal be blameless,
anyone born of woman be righteous?
[15]If in his holy ones God places no confidence,
and if the heavens are not without blame in his sight, [16]How much less so is the abominable and corrupt:
people who drink in iniquity like water!
[17]I will show you, if you listen to me;
what I have seen I will tell—[18]What the wise relate and have not contradicted since the days of their ancestors, [19]To whom alone the land was given,
when no foreigner moved among them:
[20]The wicked is in torment all his days,
and limited years are in store for the ruthless;
[21]The sound of terrors is in his ears;
when all is prosperous, a spoiler comes upon him.
[22]He despairs of escaping the darkness,
and looks ever for the sword;
[23]A wanderer, food for vultures,
he knows destruction is imminent.
[24]A day of darkness fills him with dread;
distress and anguish overpower him,
like a king expecting an attack.
[25]Because he has stretched out his hand against God
and arrogantly challenged the Almighty, [26]Rushing defiantly against him,

with the stout bosses of his shields.
[27]Although he has covered his face with his crassness, padded his loins with blubber, [28]He shall dwell in ruined cities,
in houses that are deserted,
crumbling into rubble.
[29]He shall not be rich, his possessions shall not endure;
his property shall not spread over the land.
[30]A flame shall sear his early growth,
and with the wind his blossoms shall disappear.
[31]Let him not trust in his height, misled,
even though his height be like the palm tree.
[32]He shall wither before his time,
his branches no longer green.
[33]He shall be like a vine that sheds its grapes unripened,
like an olive tree casting off its blossom.
[34]For the breed of the impious shall be sterile,
and fire shall consume the tents of extortioners.
[35]They conceive malice, bring forth deceit,
give birth to fraud.

Job's Fourth Reply. 16:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]I have heard this sort of thing many times.
Troublesome comforters, all of you!
[3]Is there no end to windy words?
What sickness makes you rattle on?
[4]I also could talk as you do,
were you in my place.
I could declaim over you,
or wag my head at you;
[5]I could strengthen you with talk,
with mere chatter give relief.
[6]If I speak, my pain is not relieved;
if I stop speaking, nothing changes.
[7]But now he has exhausted me;
you have stunned all my companions.
[8]You have shriveled me up; it is a witness,
my gauntness rises up to testify against me;
[9]His wrath tears and assails me,
he gnashes his teeth against me;
My enemy looks daggers at me.
[10]They gape at me with their mouths;
They strike me on the cheek with insults;
they are all enlisted against me.
[11]God has given me over to the impious;
into the hands of the wicked he has cast me.
[12]I was in peace, but he dislodged me,
seized me by the neck, dashed me to pieces.
He has set me up for a target;
[13]his arrows strike me from all directions.

He pierces my sides without mercy,
pours out my gall upon the ground.
14 He pierces me, thrust upon thrust,
rushes at me like a warrior.
15 I have sewn sackcloth on my skin,
laid my horn low in the dust.
16 My face is inflamed with weeping,
darkness covers my eyes,
17 Although my hands are free from violence,
and my prayer sincere.
18 O earth, do not cover my blood,
nor let my outcry come to rest!
19 Even now my witness is in heaven,
my advocate is on high.
20 My friends it is who wrong me;
before God my eyes shed tears,
21 That justice may be done for a mortal with God:
as for a man with his neighbor.
22 For my years are numbered,
and I go the road of no return.

17:1 My spirit is broken, my days finished,
my burial at hand.
2 Surely mockers surround me,
at their provocation, my eyes grow dim.
3 Put up a pledge for me with you:
who is there to give surety for me?
4 You darken their minds to knowledge;
therefore you will not exalt them.
5 For a share of property he informs on friends,
while the eyes of his children grow dim.
6 I am made a byword of the people;
I am one at whom people spit.
7 My eyes are blind with anguish,
and my whole frame is like a shadow.
8 The upright are astonished at this,
the innocent aroused against the wicked.
9 The righteous holds to his way,
the one with clean hands increases in strength.
10 But turn now, and come on again;
I do not find a wise man among you!
11 My days pass by, my plans are at an end,
the yearning of my heart.
12 They would change the night into day;
where there is darkness they talk of approaching light.
13 If my only hope is dwelling in Sheol,
and spreading my couch in darkness,
14 If I am to say to the pit, "You are my father,"
and to the worm "my mother," "my sister," 15 Where then is my hope,

my happiness, who can see it?
[16]Will they descend with me into Sheol?
Shall we go down together into the dust?

☐ 1 TIMOTHY 2

Prayer and Conduct. 2:1 First of all, then, I ask that supplications, prayers, petitions, and thanksgivings be offered for everyone, [2]for kings and for all in authority, that we may lead a quiet and tranquil life in all devotion and dignity. [3]This is good and pleasing to God our savior, [4]who wills everyone to be saved and to come to knowledge of the truth.

[5]For there is one God.
There is also one mediator between God and the human race, Christ Jesus, himself human,
[6]who gave himself as ransom for all.

This was the testimony at the proper time. [7]For this I was appointed preacher and apostle (I am speaking the truth, I am not lying), teacher of the Gentiles in faith and truth.

[8]It is my wish, then, that in every place the men should pray, lifting up holy hands, without anger or argument. [9]Similarly, [too,] women should adorn themselves with proper conduct, with modesty and self-control, not with braided hairstyles and gold ornaments, or pearls, or expensive clothes, [10]but rather, as befits women who profess reverence for God, with good deeds. [11]A woman must receive instruction silently and under complete control. [12]I do not permit a woman to teach or to have authority over a man. She must be quiet. [13]For Adam was formed first, then Eve. [14]Further, Adam was not deceived, but the woman was deceived and transgressed. [15]But she will be saved through motherhood, provided women persevere in faith and love and holiness, with self-control.

The Birth of St. John the Baptist

Those who, to please their listeners, avoid giving a forthright declaration of the will of God become the slaves of those they would please, and abandon the service of God.

— St. Basil the Great

☐ JOB 18-21

Bildad's Second Speech. 18:1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

[2]When will you put an end to words?
Reflect, and then we can have discussion.
[3]Why are we accounted like beasts,
equal to them in your sight?
[4]You who tear yourself in your anger—
shall the earth be neglected on your account or the rock be moved out of its place?
[5]Truly, the light of the wicked is extinguished;
the flame of his fire casts no light.
[6]In his tent light is darkness;
the lamp above him goes out.
[7]His vigorous steps are hemmed in,

his own counsel casts him down.
[8]A net catches him by the feet,
he wanders into a pitfall.
[9]A trap seizes him by the heel,
a snare lays hold of him.
[10]A noose is hidden for him on the ground,
a netting for him on the path.
[11]On every side terrors frighten him;
they harry him at each step.
[12]His strength is famished,
disaster is ready at his side, [13]His skin is eaten to the limbs,
the firstborn of Death eats his limbs.
[14]He is plucked from the security of his tent;
and marched off to the king of terrors.
[15]Fire lodges in his tent,
over his abode brimstone is scattered.
[16]Below, his roots dry up,
and above, his branches wither.
[17]His memory perishes from the earth,
and he has no name in the countryside.
[18]He is driven from light into darkness,
and banished from the world.
[19]He has neither offshoot nor offspring among his people,
no survivor where once he dwelt.
[20]Those who come after shall be appalled at his fate;
those who went before are seized with horror.
[21]So is it then with the dwelling of the impious;
such is the place of the one who does not know God!

Job's Fifth Reply. 19:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]How long will you afflict my spirit,
grind me down with words?
[3]These ten times you have humiliated me,
have assailed me without shame!
[4]Even if it were true that I am at fault,
my fault would remain with me;
[5]If truly you exalt yourselves at my expense,
and use my shame as an argument against me, [6]Know then that it is God who has dealt unfairly with me,
and compassed me round with his net.
[7]If I cry out "Violence!" I am not answered.
I shout for help, but there is no justice.
[8]He has barred my way and I cannot pass;
veiled my path in darkness;
[9]He has stripped me of my glory,
taken the diadem from my brow.
[10]He breaks me down on every side, and I am gone;
he has uprooted my hope like a tree.
[11]He has kindled his wrath against me;

he counts me one of his enemies.
[12]His troops advance as one;
they build up their road to attack me,
encamp around my tent.
[13]My family has withdrawn from me,
my friends are wholly estranged.
[14]My relatives and companions neglect me,
my guests have forgotten me.
[15]Even my maidservants consider me a stranger;
I am a foreigner in their sight.
[16]I call my servant, but he gives no answer, though I plead aloud with him.
[17]My breath is abhorrent to my wife;
I am loathsome to my very children.
[18]Even young children despise me;
when I appear, they speak against me.
[19]All my intimate friends hold me in horror;
those whom I loved have turned against me!
[20]My bones cling to my skin,
and I have escaped by the skin of my teeth.
[21]Pity me, pity me, you my friends,
for the hand of God has struck me!
[22]Why do you pursue me like God,
and prey insatiably upon me?
[23]Oh, would that my words were written down!
Would that they were inscribed in a record:
[24]That with an iron chisel and with lead
they were cut in the rock forever!
[25]As for me, I know that my vindicator lives,
and that he will at last stand forth upon the dust.
[26]This will happen when my skin has been stripped off,
and from my flesh I will see God:
[27]I will see for myself,
my own eyes, not another's, will behold him:
my inmost being is consumed with longing.
[28]But you who say, "How shall we persecute him, seeing that the root of the matter is found in him?"
[29]Be afraid of the sword for yourselves,
for your anger is a crime deserving the sword;
that you may know that there is a judgment.

Zophar's Second Speech. 20:1 Then Zophar the Naamathite answered and said:

[2]So now my thoughts provide an answer for me,
because of the feelings within me.
[3]A rebuke that puts me to shame I hear,
and from my understanding a spirit gives me a reply.
[4]Do you not know this: from of old,
since human beings were placed upon the earth,
[5]The triumph of the wicked is short and the joy of the impious but for a moment?

[6]Though his pride mount up to the heavens
and his head reach to the clouds, [7]Yet he perishes forever like the dung he uses for fuel, and onlookers say, “Where is he?”
[8]Like a dream he takes flight and cannot be found;
he fades away like a vision of the night.
[9]The eye which saw him does so no more;
nor shall his dwelling again behold him.
[10]His sons will restore to the poor,
and his hands will yield up his riches.
[11]Though his bones are full of youthful vigor,
it shall lie with him in the dust.
[12]Though wickedness is sweet in his mouth,
and he hides it under his tongue, [13]Though he retains it and will not let it go
but keeps it still within his mouth, [14]Yet in his stomach the food shall turn;
it shall be venom of asps inside him.
[15]The riches he swallowed he shall vomit up;
God shall make his belly disgorge them.
[16]The poison of asps he shall drink in;
the viper’s fangs shall slay him.
[17]He shall see no streams of oil,
no torrents of honey or milk.
[18]He shall give back his gains, never used;
like his profit from trade, never enjoyed.
[19]Because he has oppressed and neglected the poor,
and stolen a house he did not build;
[20]For he has known no quiet in his greed,
in his treasure he cannot save himself.
[21]None of his survivors will consume it,
therefore his prosperity shall not endure.
[22]When he has more than enough, distress shall be his,
every sort of trouble shall come upon him.
[23]When he has filled his belly,
God shall send against him the fury of his wrath
and rain down his missiles upon him.
[24]Should he escape an iron weapon,
a bronze bow shall pierce him through;
[25]The dart shall come out of his back,
a shining point out of his gall-bladder:
terrors fall upon him.
[26]Complete darkness is in store for his treasured ones;
a fire unfanned shall consume him;
any survivor in his tent shall be destroyed.
[27]The heavens shall reveal his guilt,
and the earth rise up against him.
[28]The flood shall sweep away his house, torrents in the day of God’s anger.
[29]This is the portion of the wicked,

the heritage appointed him by God.

Job's Sixth Reply. 21:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]At least listen to my words,
and let that be the consolation you offer.
[3]Bear with me while I speak;
and after I have spoken, you can mock!
[4]Is my complaint toward any human being?
Why should I not be impatient?
[5]Look at me and be appalled,
put your hands over your mouths.
[6]When I think of it, I am dismayed,
and shuddering seizes my flesh.
[7]Why do the wicked keep on living,
grow old, become mighty in power?
[8]Their progeny is secure in their sight;
their offspring are before their eyes.
[9]Their homes are safe, without fear,
and the rod of God is not upon them.
[10]Their bulls breed without fail;
their cows calve and do not miscarry.
[11]They let their young run free like sheep,
their children skip about.
[12]They sing along with drum and lyre,
and make merry to the sound of the pipe.
[13]They live out their days in prosperity,
and tranquilly go down to Sheol.
[14]Yet they say to God, "Depart from us,
for we have no desire to know your ways!
[15]What is the Almighty that we should serve him?
And what do we gain by praying to him?"
[16]Their happiness is not in their own hands.
The designs of the wicked are far from me!
[17]How often is the lamp of the wicked put out?
How often does destruction come upon them,
the portion God allots in his anger?
[18]Let them be like straw before the wind,
like chaff the storm carries away!
[19]"God is storing up the man's misery for his children"?—
let him requite the man himself so that he knows it!
[20]Let his own eyes behold his calamity,
and the wrath of the Almighty let him drink!
[21]For what interest has he in his family after him,
when the number of his months is finished?
[22]Can anyone teach God knowledge,
seeing that he judges those on high?
[23]One dies in his full vigor,
wholly at ease and content;
[24]His figure is full and nourished,
his bones are moist with marrow.

[25]Another dies with a bitter spirit,
never having tasted happiness.
[26]Alike they lie down in the dust,
and worms cover them both.
[27]See, I know your thoughts,
and the arguments you plot against me.
[28]For you say, “Where is the house of the great,
and where the dwelling place of the wicked?”
[29]Have you not asked the wayfarers and do you not acknowledge the witness they give?
[30]On the day of calamity the evil man is spared,
on the day that wrath is released.
[31]Who will charge him to his face about his conduct,
and for what he has done who will repay him?
[32]He is carried to the grave
and at his tomb they keep watch.
[33]Sweet to him are the clods of the valley.
All humankind will follow after him,
and countless others before him.
[34]How empty the consolation you offer me!
Your arguments remain a fraud.

Qualifications of Various Ministers. 3:1 This saying is trustworthy: whoever aspires to the office of bishop desires a noble task. [2]Therefore, a bishop must be irreproachable, married only once, temperate, self-controlled, decent, hospitable, able to teach, [3]not a drunkard, not aggressive, but gentle, not contentious, not a lover of money. [4]He must manage his own household well, keeping his children under control with perfect dignity; [5]for if a man does not know how to manage his own household, how can he take care of the church of God? [6]He should not be a recent convert, so that he may not become conceited and thus incur the devil's punishment. [7]He must also have a good reputation among outsiders, so that he may not fall into disgrace, the devil's trap.

[8]Similarly, deacons must be dignified, not deceitful, not addicted to drink, not greedy for sordid gain, [9]holding fast to the mystery of the faith with a clear conscience. [10]Moreover, they should be tested first; then, if there is nothing against them, let them serve as deacons. [11]Women, similarly, should be dignified, not slanderers, but temperate and faithful in everything. [12]Deacons may be married only once and must manage their children and their households well. [13]Thus those who serve well as deacons gain good standing and much confidence in their faith in Christ Jesus.

The Mystery of Our Religion. [14]I am writing you about these matters, although I hope to visit you soon. [15]But if I should be delayed, you should know how to behave in the household of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and foundation of truth. [16]Undeniably great is the mystery of devotion,

Who was manifested in the flesh,
vindicated in the spirit,
seen by angels,
proclaimed to the Gentiles,
believed in throughout the world,
taken up in glory.

☐ JOB 22-24

Eliphaz's Third Speech. 22:1 Then Eliphaz the Temanite answered and said:

[2]Can a man be profitable to God?
Can a wise man be profitable to him?
[3]Does it please the Almighty that you are just?
Does he gain if your ways are perfect?
[4]Is it because of your piety that he reproves you—that he enters into judgment with you?
[5]Is not your wickedness great,
your iniquity endless?
[6]You keep your relatives' goods in pledge unjustly,
leave them stripped naked of their clothing.
[7]To the thirsty you give no water to drink,
and from the hungry you withhold bread;
[8]As if the land belonged to the powerful,

and only the privileged could dwell in it!
[9]You sent widows away empty-handed,
and the resources of orphans are destroyed.
[10]Therefore snares are round about you,
sudden terror makes you panic,
[11]Or darkness—you cannot see!
A deluge of waters covers you.
[12]Does not God, in the heights of the heavens,
behold the top of the stars, high though they are?
[13]Yet you say, "What does God know?
Can he judge through the thick darkness?
[14]Clouds hide him so that he cannot see
as he walks around the circuit of the heavens!" [15]Do you indeed keep to the ancient way
trodden by the worthless?
[16]They were snatched before their time;
their foundations a river swept away.
[17]They said to God, "Let us alone!"
and, "What can the Almighty do to us?"
[18]Yet he had filled their houses with good things.
The designs of the wicked are far from me!
[19]The just look on and are glad,
and the innocent deride them:
[20]"Truly our enemies are destroyed,
and what was left to them, fire has consumed!"
[21]Settle with him and have peace.
That way good shall come to you:
[22]Receive instruction from his mouth,
and place his words in your heart.
[23]If you return to the Almighty, you will be restored;
if you put iniquity far from your tent, [24]And treat raw gold as dust,
the fine gold of Ophir as pebbles in the wadi, [25]Then the Almighty himself shall be your gold and your sparkling silver.
[26]For then you shall delight in the Almighty,
you shall lift up your face toward God.
[27]Entreat him and he will hear you,
and your vows you shall fulfill.
[28]What you decide shall succeed for you,
and upon your ways light shall shine.
[29]For when they are brought low, you will say, "It is pride!"
But downcast eyes he saves.
[30]He will deliver whoever is innocent;
you shall be delivered if your hands are clean.

Job's Seventh Reply. 23:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]Today especially my complaint is bitter,
his hand is heavy upon me in my groanings.
[3]Would that I knew how to find him,

that I might come to his dwelling!
4 I would set out my case before him,
fill my mouth with arguments;
5 I would learn the words he would answer me,
understand what he would say to me.
6 Would he contend against me with his great power?
No, he himself would heed me!
7 There an upright man might argue with him,
and I would once and for all be delivered from my judge.
8 But if I go east, he is not there;
or west, I cannot perceive him;
9 The north enfolds him, and I cannot catch sight of him;
The south hides him, and I cannot see him.
10 Yet he knows my way;
if he tested me, I should come forth like gold.
11 My foot has always walked in his steps;
I have kept his way and not turned aside.
12 From the commands of his lips I have not departed;
the words of his mouth I have treasured in my heart.
13 But once he decides, who can contradict him?
What he desires, that he does.
14 For he will carry out what is appointed for me,
and many such things he has in store.
15 Therefore I am terrified before him;
when I take thought, I dread him.
16 For it is God who has made my heart faint,
the Almighty who has terrified me.
17 Yes, would that I had vanished in darkness,
hidden by the thick gloom before me.

24:1 Why are times not set by the Almighty,
and why do his friends not see his days?
2 People remove landmarks;
they steal herds and pasture them.
3 The donkeys of orphans they drive away;
they take the widow's ox for a pledge.
4 They force the needy off the road;
all the poor of the land are driven into hiding.
5 Like wild donkeys in the wilderness,
they go forth to their task of seeking prey;
the steppe provides food for their young;
6 They harvest fodder in the field,
and glean in the vineyard of the wicked.
7 They pass the night naked, without clothing;
they have no covering against the cold;
8 They are drenched with rain from the mountains,
and for want of shelter they cling to the rock.
9 Orphans are snatched from the breast,
infants of the needy are taken in pledge.
10 They go about naked, without clothing,

and famished, they carry the sheaves.
[11]Between the rows they press out the oil;
they tread the wine presses, yet are thirsty.
[12]In the city the dying groan,
and the souls of the wounded cry out.
Yet God does not treat it as a disgrace!
[13]They are rebels against the light:
they do not recognize its ways;
they do not stay in its paths.
[14]When there is no light the murderer rises,
to kill the poor and needy;
in the night he acts like a thief.
[15]The eye of the adulterer watches for the twilight;
he says, "No eye will see me."
He puts a mask over his face;
[16]in the dark he breaks into houses;
By day they shut themselves in;
they do not know the light.
[17]Indeed, for all of them morning is deep darkness;
then they recognize the terrors of deep darkness.
[18]He is swift on the surface of the water:
their portion in the land is accursed,
they do not turn aside by way of the vineyards.
[19]Drought and heat snatch away the snow waters,
Sheol, those who have sinned.
[20]May the womb forget him,
may the worm find him sweet,
may he no longer be remembered;
And may wickedness be broken like a tree.
[21]May his companion be barren, unable to give birth,
may his widow not prosper!
[22]He sustains the mighty by his strength,
to him who rises without assurance of his life [23]he gives safety and support,
and his eyes are on their ways.
[24]They are exalted for a while, and then are no more;
laid low, like everyone else they are gathered up;
like ears of grain they shrivel.
[25]If this be not so, who can make me a liar,
and reduce my words to nothing?

□ 1 TIMOTHY 4

False Asceticism. 4:1 Now the Spirit explicitly says that in the last times some will turn away from the faith by paying attention to deceitful spirits and demonic instructions [2]through the hypocrisy of liars with branded consciences. [3]They forbid marriage and require abstinence from foods that God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and know the truth. [4]For everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected when received with thanksgiving, [5]for it is made holy by the invocation of God in prayer.

Counsel to Timothy. [6]If you will give these instructions to the brothers, you will be a good minister of Christ Jesus, nourished on the words of the faith and of the sound teaching you have followed. [7]Avoid profane and silly myths. Train yourself for devotion, [8]for, while physical training is of limited value, devotion is valuable in every respect, since it holds a promise of life both for the present and for the future. [9]This saying is trustworthy and deserves full acceptance. [10]For this we toil and struggle, because we have set our hope on the living God, who is the savior of all, especially of those who believe.

[11]Command and teach these things. [12]Let no one have contempt for your youth, but set an example for those who believe, in speech, conduct, love, faith, and purity. [13]Until I arrive, attend to the reading, exhortation, and teaching. [14]Do not neglect the gift you have, which was conferred on you through the prophetic word with the imposition of hands of the presbyterate. [15]Be diligent in these matters, be absorbed in them, so that your progress may be evident to everyone. [16]Attend to yourself and to your teaching; persevere in both tasks, for by doing so you will save both yourself and those who listen to you.

St. Josemaría Escrivá

Why lose your temper if by doing so you offend God, annoy other people, give yourself a bad time ... and in the end have to find it again?

— St. Josemaría Escrivá

☐ JOB 25-28

Bildad's Third Speech. 25:1 Then Bildad the Shuhite answered and said:

[2]Dominion and dread are his who brings about harmony in his heavens.
[3]Is there any numbering of his troops?
Yet on which of them does his light not rise?
[4]How can anyone be in the right against God,
or how can any born of woman be innocent?
[5]Even the moon is not bright and the stars are not clean in his eyes.
[6]How much less a human being, who is but a worm,
a mortal, who is only a maggot?

Job's Reply. 26:1 Then Job answered and said:

[2]What help you give to the powerless,
what strength to the feeble arm!
[3]How you give counsel to one without wisdom;
how profuse is the advice you offer!
[4]With whose help have you uttered those words,
whose breath comes forth from you?
[5]The shades beneath writhe in terror,
the waters, and their inhabitants.
[6]Naked before him is Sheol,
and Abaddon has no covering.
[7]He stretches out Zaphon over the void,
and suspends the earth over nothing at all;

[8]He binds up the waters in his clouds,
yet the cloud is not split by their weight;
[9]He holds back the appearance of the full moon
by spreading his clouds before it.
[10]He has marked out a circle on the surface of the deep
as the boundary of light and darkness.
[11]The pillars of the heavens tremble
and are stunned at his thunderous rebuke; [12]By his power he stilled Sea,
by his skill he crushed Rahab;
[13]By his wind the heavens were made clear,
his hand pierced the fleeing serpent.
[14]Lo, these are but the outlines of his ways,
and what a whisper of a word we hear of him:
Who can comprehend the thunder of his power?

Job's Reply. 27:1 Job took up his theme again and said:

[2]As God lives, who takes away my right,
the Almighty, who has made my life bitter,
[3]So long as I still have life breath in me,
the breath of God in my nostrils, [4]My lips shall not speak falsehood,
nor my tongue utter deceit!
[5]Far be it from me to account you right;
till I die I will not renounce my innocence.
[6]My justice I maintain and I will not relinquish it;
my heart does not reproach me for any of my days.
[7]Let my enemy be as the wicked
and my adversary as the unjust!
[8]For what hope has the impious when he is cut off,
when God requires his life?
[9]Will God then listen to his cry
when distress comes upon him, [10]If he delights in the Almighty
and calls upon God constantly?
[11]I will teach you what is in God's hand,
and the way of the Almighty I will not conceal.
[12]Look, you yourselves have all seen it;
why do you spend yourselves in empty words!
[13]This is the portion of the wicked with God,
the heritage oppressors receive from the Almighty:
[14]Though his children be many, the sword awaits them.
His descendants shall want for bread.
[15]His survivors shall be buried in death;
their widows shall not weep.
[16]Though he heap up silver like dust
and store away mounds of clothing, [17]What he has stored the righteous shall wear,
and the innocent shall divide the silver.
[18]He builds his house as of cobwebs,

or like a booth put up by a watchman.
19 He lies down a rich man, one last time;
he opens his eyes—nothing is there.
20 Terrors flood over him like water,
at night the tempest carries him off.
21 The east wind seizes him and he is gone;
it sweeps him from his place;
22 It hurls itself at him without pity,
as he tries to flee from its power.
23 It claps its hands at him,
and whistles at him from its place.

Where Is Wisdom to be Found? 28:1

There is indeed a mine for silver,
and a place for refining gold.
2 Iron is taken from the earth,
and copper smelted out of stone.
3 He sets a boundary for the darkness;
the farthest confines he explores.
4 He breaks open a shaft far from habitation,
unknown to human feet;
suspended, far from people, they sway.
5 The earth, though out of it comes forth bread,
is in fiery upheaval underneath.
6 Its stones are the source of lapis lazuli,
and there is gold in its dust.
7 The path no bird of prey knows,
nor has the hawk's eye seen it.
8 The proud beasts have not trodden it,
nor has the lion gone that way.
9 He sets his hand to the flinty rock,
and overturns the mountains at their root.
10 He splits channels in the rocks;
his eyes behold all that is precious.
11 He dams up the sources of the streams,
and brings hidden things to light.
12 As for wisdom—where can she be found?
Where is the place of understanding?
13 Mortals do not know her path,
nor is she to be found in the land of the living.
14 The Deep says, "She is not in me";
and the Sea says, "She is not with me."
15 Solid gold cannot purchase her,
nor can her price be paid with silver.
16 She cannot be bought with gold of Ophir,
with precious onyx or lapis lazuli, 17 Gold or crystal cannot equal her,
nor can golden vessels be exchanged for her.
18 Neither coral nor crystal should be thought of;

the value of wisdom surpasses pearls.
[19]Ethiopian topaz does not equal her,
nor can she be weighed out for pure gold.
[20]As for wisdom, where does she come from?
Where is the place of understanding?
[21]She is hidden from the eyes of every living thing;
even from the birds of the air she is concealed.
[22]Abaddon and Death say,
"Only by rumor have we heard of her."
[23]But God understands the way to her;
it is he who knows her place.
[24]For he beholds the ends of the earth and sees all that is under the heavens.
[25]When he weighed out the wind,
and measured out the waters;
[26]When he made a rule for the rain
and a path for the thunderbolts, [27]Then he saw wisdom and appraised her,
established her, and searched her out.
[28]And to mortals he said:
See: the fear of the Lord is wisdom;
and avoiding evil is understanding.

☐ 1 TIMOTHY 5

5:1 Do not rebuke an older man, but appeal to him as a father. Treat younger men as brothers, [2]older women as mothers, and younger women as sisters with complete purity.

Rules for Widows. [3]Honor widows who are truly widows. [4]But if a widow has children or grandchildren, let these first learn to perform their religious duty to their own family and to make recompense to their parents, for this is pleasing to God. [5]The real widow, who is all alone, has set her hope on God and continues in supplications and prayers night and day. [6]But the one who is self-indulgent is dead while she lives. [7]Command this, so that they may be irreproachable. [8]And whoever does not provide for relatives and especially family members has denied the faith and is worse than an unbeliever.

[9]Let a widow be enrolled if she is not less than sixty years old, married only once, [10]with a reputation for good works, namely, that she has raised children, practiced hospitality, washed the feet of the holy ones, helped those in distress, involved herself in every good work. [11]But exclude younger widows, for when their sensuality estranges them from Christ, they want to marry [12]and will incur condemnation for breaking their first pledge. [13]And furthermore, they learn to be idlers, going about from house to house, and not only idlers but gossips and busybodies as well, talking about things that ought not to be mentioned. [14]So I would like younger widows to marry, have children, and manage a home, so as to give the adversary no pretext for maligning us. [15]For some have already turned away to follow Satan. [16]If any woman believer has widowed relatives, she must assist them; the church is not to be burdened, so that it will be able to help those who are truly widows.

Rules for Presbyters. [17]Presbyters who preside well deserve double honor, especially those who toil in preaching and teaching. [18]For the scripture says, "You shall not muzzle an ox when it is threshing," and, "A worker deserves his pay." [19]Do not accept an accusation against a presbyter unless it is supported by two or three witnesses. [20]Reprimand publicly those who do sin, so that the rest also will be afraid. [21]I charge you before God and Christ Jesus and the elect angels to keep these rules without prejudice, doing nothing out of favoritism. [22]Do not lay hands too readily on anyone, and do not share in another's sins. Keep yourself pure. [23]Stop drinking only water, but have a little wine for the sake of your stomach and your frequent illnesses. [24]Some people's sins are public, preceding them to judgment; but other people are followed by their sins. [25]Similarly, good works are also public; and even those that are not cannot remain hidden.

St. Cyril of Alexandria

> Even if we make images of pious men, it is not so that we might adore them as gods, but that when we see them, we might be prompted to imitate them. And if we make images of Christ, it is so that our minds might soar aloft in yearning for Him.

☐ JOB 29-31

29:1 Job took up his theme again and said:

[2]Oh, that I were as in the months past,
as in the days when God watched over me:
[3]While he kept his lamp shining above my head,
and by his light I walked through darkness;
[4]As I was in my flourishing days,
when God sheltered my tent;
[5]When the Almighty was still with me,
and my children were round about me;
[6]When my footsteps were bathed in cream,
and the rock flowed with streams of oil.
[7]Whenever I went out to the gate of the city and took my seat in the square, [8]The young men saw me and withdrew,
and the elders rose up and stood;
[9]Officials refrained from speaking and covered their mouths with their hands;
[10]The voice of the princes was silenced,
and their tongues stuck to the roofs of their mouths.
[11]The ear that heard blessed me;
the eye that saw acclaimed me.
[12]For I rescued the poor who cried out for help,
the orphans, and the unassisted;
[13]The blessing of those in extremity came upon me,
and the heart of the widow I made joyful.
[14]I wore my righteousness like a garment;
justice was my robe and my turban.
[15]I was eyes to the blind,
and feet to the lame was I.
[16]I was a father to the poor;
the complaint of the stranger I pursued, [17]And I broke the jaws of the wicked man;

from his teeth I forced the prey.
[18]I said: "In my own nest I shall grow old;
I shall multiply years like the phoenix.
[19]My root is spread out to the waters;
the dew rests by night on my branches.
[20]My glory is fresh within me,
and my bow is renewed in my hand!"
[21]For me they listened and waited;
they were silent for my counsel.
[22]Once I spoke, they said no more,
but received my pronouncement drop by drop.
[23]They waited for me as for the rain;
they drank in my words like the spring rains.
[24]When I smiled on them they could not believe it;
they would not let the light of my face be dimmed.
[25]I decided their course and sat at their head,
I lived like a king among the troops,
like one who comforts mourners.

30:1 But now they hold me in derision
who are younger than I,
Whose fathers I should have disdained
to rank with the dogs of my flock.
[2]Such strength as they had meant nothing to me;
their vigor had perished.
[3]In want and emaciating hunger
they fled to the parched lands:
to the desolate wasteland by night.
[4]They plucked saltwort and shrubs;
the roots of the broom plant were their food.
[5]They were banished from the community,
with an outcry like that against a thief—[6]To dwell on the slopes of the wadies,
in caves of sand and stone;
[7]Among the bushes they brayed;
under the nettles they huddled together.
[8]Irresponsible, of no account,
they were driven out of the land.
[9]Yet now they sing of me in mockery;
I have become a byword among them.
[10]They abhor me, they stand aloof,
they do not hesitate to spit in my face!
[11]Because he has loosened my bowstring and afflicted me,
they have thrown off restraint in my presence.
[12]On my right the young rabble rise up;
they trip my feet,
they build their approaches for my ruin.
[13]They tear up my path,
they promote my ruin,
no helper is there against them.

[14]As through a wide breach they advance;
amid the uproar they come on in waves;
[15]terrors roll over me.
My dignity is driven off like the wind,
and my well-being vanishes like a cloud.
[16]And now my life ebbs away from me,
days of affliction have taken hold of me.
[17]At night he pierces my bones,
my sinews have no rest.
[18]With great difficulty I change my clothes,
the collar of my tunic fits around my waist.
[19]He has cast me into the mire;
I have become like dust and ashes.
[20]I cry to you, but you do not answer me;
I stand, but you take no notice.
[21]You have turned into my tormentor,
and with your strong hand you attack me.
[22]You raise me up and drive me before the wind;
I am tossed about by the tempest.
[23]Indeed I know that you will return me to death
to the house destined for everyone alive.
[24]Yet should not a hand be held out to help a wretched person in distress?
[25]Did I not weep for the hardships of others;
was not my soul grieved for the poor?
[26]Yet when I looked for good, evil came;
when I expected light, darkness came.
[27]My inward parts seethe and will not be stilled;
days of affliction have overtaken me.
[28]I go about in gloom, without the sun;
I rise in the assembly and cry for help.
[29]I have become a brother to jackals,
a companion to ostriches.
[30]My blackened skin falls away from me;
my very frame is scorched by the heat.
[31]My lyre is tuned to mourning,
and my reed pipe to sounds of weeping.

31:1 I made a covenant with my eyes
not to gaze upon a virgin.
[2]What portion comes from God above,
what heritage from the Almighty on high?
[3]Is it not calamity for the unrighteous,
and woe for evildoers?
[4]Does he not see my ways,
and number all my steps?
[5]If I have walked in falsehood
and my foot has hastened to deceit, [6]Let God weigh me in the scales of justice;
thus will he know my innocence!

[7]If my steps have turned out of the way,
and my heart has followed my eyes,
or any stain clings to my hands,
[8]Then may I sow, but another eat,
and may my produce be rooted up!
[9]If my heart has been enticed toward a woman,
and I have lain in wait at my neighbor's door;
[10]Then may my wife grind for another,
and may others kneel over her!
[11]For that would be heinous,
a crime to be condemned, [12]A fire that would consume down to Abaddon
till it uprooted all my crops.
[13]Had I refused justice to my manservant or to my maidservant, when they had a complaint against me, [14]What then should I do when God rises up?
What could I answer when he demands an account?
[15]Did not he who made me in the belly make him?
Did not the same One fashion us in the womb?
[16]If I have denied anything that the poor desired,
or allowed the eyes of the widow to languish [17]While I ate my portion alone,
with no share in it for the fatherless, [18]Though like a father he has reared me from my youth, guiding me even from my mother's womb—[19]If I have seen a wanderer without clothing, or a poor man without covering, [20]Whose limbs have not blessed me
when warmed with the fleece of my sheep;
[21]If I have raised my hand against the innocent
because I saw that I had supporters at the gate—[22]Then may my arm fall from the shoulder,
my forearm be broken at the elbow!
[23]For I dread calamity from God,
and his majesty will overpower me.
[24]Had I put my trust in gold or called fine gold my security; [25]Or had I rejoiced that my wealth was great,
or that my hand had acquired abundance—[26]Had I looked upon the light as it shone,
or the moon in the splendor of its progress, [27]And had my heart been secretly enticed
to blow them a kiss with my hand, [28]This too would be a crime for condemnation,
for I should have denied God above.
[29]Had I rejoiced at the destruction of my enemy or exulted when evil came upon him, [30]Even though I had not allowed my mouth to sin
by invoking a curse against his life—[31]Had not the men of my tent exclaimed,

"Who has not been filled with his meat!"
[32]No stranger lodged in the street,
for I opened my door to wayfarers—[33]Had I, all too human, hidden my sins and buried my guilt in my bosom [34]Because I feared the great multitude and the scorn of the clans terrified me—
then I should have remained silent, and not come out of doors!
[35]Oh, that I had one to hear my case:
here is my signature: let the Almighty answer me!
Let my accuser write out his indictment!
[36]Surely, I should wear it on my shoulder or put it on me like a diadem;
[37]Of all my steps I should give him an account;
like a prince I should present myself before him.
[38]If my land has cried out against me
till its furrows wept together;
[39]If I have eaten its strength without payment and grieved the hearts of its tenants; [40]Then let the thorns grow instead of wheat and stinkweed instead of barley!

The words of Job are ended.

☐ 1 TIMOTHY 6

Rules for Slaves. 6:1 Those who are under the yoke of slavery must regard their masters as worthy of full respect, so that the name of God and our teaching may not suffer abuse. [2]Those whose masters are believers must not take advantage of them because they are brothers but must give better service because those who will profit from their work are believers and are beloved.

Teach and urge these things. [3]Whoever teaches something different and does not agree with the sound words of our Lord Jesus Christ and the religious teaching [4]is conceited, understanding nothing, and has a morbid disposition for arguments and verbal disputes. From these come envy, rivalry, insults, evil suspicions, [5]and mutual friction among people with corrupted minds, who are deprived of the truth, supposing religion to be a means of gain. [6]Indeed, religion with contentment is a great gain. [7]For we brought nothing into the world, just as we shall not be able to take anything out of it. [8]If we have food and clothing, we shall be content with that. [9]Those who want to be rich are falling into temptation and into a trap and into many foolish and harmful desires, which plunge them into ruin and destruction. [10]For the love of money is the root of all evils, and some people in their desire for it have strayed from the faith and have pierced themselves with many pains.

Exhortations to Timothy. [11]But you, man of God, avoid all this. Instead, pursue righteousness, devotion, faith, love, patience, and gentleness. [12]Compete well for the faith. Lay hold of eternal life, to which you were called when you made the noble confession in the presence of many witnesses. [13]I charge [you] before God, who gives life to all things, and before Christ Jesus, who gave testimony under Pontius Pilate for the noble confession, [14]to keep the commandment without stain or reproach until the appearance of our Lord Jesus Christ [15]that the blessed and only ruler will make manifest at the proper time, the King of kings and Lord of lords, [16]who alone has immortality, who dwells in unapproachable light, and whom no human being has seen or can see. To him be honor and eternal power. Amen.

Right Use of Wealth. [17]Tell the rich in the present age not to be proud and not to rely on so uncertain a thing as wealth but rather on God, who richly provides us with all things for our enjoyment. [18]Tell them to do good, to be rich in good works, to be generous, ready to share, [19]thus accumulating as treasure a good foundation for the future, so as to win the life that is true life.

[20]O Timothy, guard what has been entrusted to you. Avoid profane babbling and the absurdities of so-called knowledge. [21]By professing it, some people have deviated from the faith.

Grace be with all of you.

St. Irenaeus

The Church is the entrance to life; all the others are thieves and robbers.

— St. Irenaeus

32:1 Then the three men ceased to answer Job, because in his own eyes he was in the right. [2]But the anger of Elihu, son of Barachel the Buzite, of the clan of Ram, was kindled. He was angry with Job for considering himself rather than God to be in the right. [3]He was angry also with the three friends because they had not found a good answer and had not condemned Job. [4]But since these men were older than he, Elihu bided his time before addressing Job. [5]When, however, Elihu saw that there was no reply in the mouths of the three men, his wrath was inflamed. [6]So Elihu, son of Barachel the Buzite, answered and said:

I am young and you are very old;
therefore I held back and was afraid to declare to you my knowledge.
[7]I thought, days should speak,
and many years teach wisdom!
[8]But there is a spirit in human beings,
the breath of the Almighty, that gives them understanding.
[9]It is not those of many days who are wise,
nor the aged who understand the right.
[10]Therefore I say, listen to me;
I also will declare my knowledge!
[11]Behold, I have waited for your words,
have given ear to your arguments,
as you searched out what to say.
[12]Yes, I followed you attentively:
And look, none of you has convicted Job,
not one could refute his statements.
[13]So do not say, "We have met wisdom;
God can vanquish him but no mortal!"
[14]For had he addressed his words to me,
I would not then have answered him with your words.
[15]They are dismayed, they make no more reply;
words fail them.
[16]Must I wait? Now that they speak no more,
and have ceased to make reply,
[17]I too will speak my part;
I also will declare my knowledge!
[18]For I am full of words;
the spirit within me compels me.

[19]My belly is like unopened wine,
like wineskins ready to burst.
[20]Let me speak and obtain relief;
let me open my lips, and reply.
[21]I would not be partial to anyone,
nor give flattering titles to any.
[22]For I know nothing of flattery;
if I did, my Maker would soon take me away.

33:1 Therefore, O Job, hear my discourse;
listen to all my words.
[2]Behold, now I open my mouth;
my tongue and voice form words.
[3]I will state directly what is in my mind,
my lips shall speak knowledge clearly;
[4]For the spirit of God made me,
the breath of the Almighty keeps me alive.
[5]If you are able, refute me;
draw up your arguments and take your stand.
[6]Look, I am like you before God,
I too was pinched from clay.
[7]Therefore fear of me should not dismay you,
nor should I weigh heavily upon you.
[8]But you have said in my hearing,
as I listened to the sound of your words:
[9]"I am clean, without transgression;
I am innocent, there is no guilt in me.
[10]Yet he invents pretexts against me
and counts me as an enemy.
[11]He puts my feet in the stocks,
watches all my paths!"
[12]In this you are not just, let me tell you;
for God is greater than mortals.
[13]Why, then, do you make complaint against him that he gives no reply to their words?
[14]For God does speak, once,
even twice, though you do not see it:
[15]In a dream, in a vision of the night,
when deep sleep falls upon mortals
as they slumber in their beds.
[16]It is then he opens their ears
and with a warning, terrifies them, [17]By turning mortals from acting and keeping pride away from a man, [18]He holds his soul from the pit,
his life from passing to the grave.
[19]Or he is chastened on a bed of pain,
suffering continually in his bones, [20]So that to his appetite food is repulsive,
his throat rejects the choicest nourishment.

[21]His flesh is wasted, it cannot be seen;
bones, once invisible, appear;
[22]His soul draws near to the pit,
his life to the place of the dead.
[23]If then there be a divine messenger,
a mediator, one out of a thousand,
to show him what is right, [24]He will take pity on him and say,
"Deliver him from going down to the pit;
I have found him a ransom."
[25]Then his flesh shall become soft as a boy's;
he shall be again as in the days of his youth.
[26]He shall pray and God will favor him;
he shall see God's face with rejoicing;
for he restores a person's righteousness.
[27]He shall sing before all and say,
"I sinned and did wrong,
yet I was not punished accordingly.
[28]He delivered me from passing to the pit,
and my life sees light."
[29]See, all these things God does,
two, even three times, for a man, [30]Bringing back his soul from the pit
to the light, in the light of the living.
[31]Be attentive, Job, listen to me!
Be silent and I will speak.
[32]If you have anything to say, then answer me.
Speak out! I should like to see you justified.
[33]If not, then you listen to me;
be silent, and I will teach you wisdom.

34:1 Then Elihu answered and said:

[2]Hear my discourse, you that are wise;
you that have knowledge, listen to me!
[3]For the ear tests words,
as the palate tastes food.
[4]Let us choose what is right;
let us determine among ourselves what is good.
[5]For Job has said, "I am innocent,
but God has taken away what is my right.
[6]I declare the judgment on me to be a lie;
my arrow-wound is incurable, sinless though I am."
[7]What man is like Job?
He drinks in blasphemies like water,
[8]Keeps company with evildoers
and goes along with the wicked, [9]When he says, "There is no profit
in pleasing God."
[10]Therefore, you that have understanding, hear me:
far be it from God to do wickedness;

far from the Almighty to do wrong!
[11]Rather, he requites mortals for their conduct,
and brings home to them their way of life.
[12]Surely, God cannot act wickedly,
the Almighty cannot pervert justice.
[13]Who gave him charge over the earth,
or who set all the world in its place?
[14]If he were to set his mind to it,
gather to himself his spirit and breath, [15]All flesh would perish together,
and mortals return to dust.
[16]Now you—understand, hear this!
Listen to the words I speak!
[17]Can an enemy of justice be in control,
will you condemn the supreme Just One, [18]Who says to a king, "You are worthless!"
and to nobles, "You are wicked!"
[19]Who neither favors the person of princes,
nor respects the rich more than the poor?
For they are all the work of his hands;
[20]in a moment they die, even at midnight.
People are shaken, and pass away,
the powerful are removed without lifting a hand;
[21]For his eyes are upon our ways,
and all our steps he sees.
[22]There is no darkness so dense that evildoers can hide in it.
[23]For no one has God set a time to come before him in judgment.
[24]Without inquiry he shatters the mighty,
and appoints others in their place, [25]Thus he discerns their works;
overnight they are crushed.
[26]Where the wicked are, he strikes them,
in a place where all can see, [27]Because they turned away from him
and did not understand his ways at all:
[28]And made the cry of the poor reach him,
so that he heard the cry of the afflicted.
[29]If he is silent, who then can condemn?
If he hides his face, who then can behold him,
whether nation or individual?
[30]Let an impious man not rule,
nor those who ensnare their people.
[31]Should anyone say to God,
"I accept my punishment; I will offend no more;
[32]What I cannot see, teach me:
if I have done wrong, I will do so no more," [33]Would you then say that God must punish,
when you are disdainful?

It is you who must choose, not I;
speak, therefore, what you know.
34Those who understand will say to me,
all the wise who hear my views:
35"Job speaks without knowledge,
his words make no sense.
36Let Job be tested to the limit,
since his answers are those of the impious;
37For he is adding rebellion to his sin
by brushing off our arguments and addressing many words to God."

☐ TITUS 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, a slave of God and apostle of Jesus Christ for the sake of the faith of God's chosen ones and the recognition of religious truth, 2in the hope of eternal life that God, who does not lie, promised before time began, 3who indeed at the proper time revealed his word in the proclamation with which I was entrusted by the command of God our savior, 4to Titus, my true child in our common faith: grace and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our savior.

Titus in Crete. 5For this reason I left you in Crete so that you might set right what remains to be done and appoint presbyters in every town, as I directed you, 6on condition that a man be blameless, married only once, with believing children who are not accused of licentiousness or rebellious. 7For a bishop as God's steward must be blameless, not arrogant, not irritable, not a drunkard, not aggressive, not greedy for sordid gain, 8but hospitable, a lover of goodness, temperate, just, holy, and self-controlled, 9holding fast to the true message as taught so that he will be able both to exhort with sound doctrine and to refute opponents. 10For there are also many rebels, idle talkers and deceivers, especially the Jewish Christians. 11It is imperative to silence them, as they are upsetting whole families by teaching for sordid gain what they should not. 12One of them, a prophet of their own, once said,

"Cretans have always been liars, vicious beasts, and lazy gluttons."

13That testimony is true. Therefore, admonish them sharply, so that they may be sound in the faith, 14instead of paying attention to Jewish myths and regulations of people who have repudiated the truth. 15To the clean all things are clean, but to those who are defiled and unbelieving nothing is clean; in fact, both their minds and their consciences are tainted. 16They claim to know God, but by their deeds they deny him. They are vile and disobedient and unqualified for any good deed.

Sts. Peter and Paul

When a fire is lit to clear a field, it burns off all the dry and useless weeds and thorns. When the sun rises and darkness is dispelled, robbers, night prowlers, and burglars hide away. In the same way, when the apostle Paul's voice was raised to preach the Gospel to the nations, like a great clap of thunder in the sky, his preaching was a blazing fire carrying all before it. It was the sun rising in full glory.

— St. Bernardine of Siena

☐ JOB 35-37

35:1 Then Elihu answered and said:

[2]Do you think it right to say,
"I am in the right, not God"?
[3]When you ask what it profits you,
"What advantage do I have from not sinning?"
[4]I have words for a reply to you and your friends as well.
[5]Look up to the skies and see;
behold the heavens high above you.
[6]If you sin, what do you do to God?
Even if your offenses are many, how do you affect him?
[7]If you are righteous, what do you give him,
or what does he receive from your hand?
[8]Your wickedness affects only someone like yourself,
and your justice, only a fellow human being.
[9]In great oppression people cry out;
they call for help because of the power of the great, [10]No one says, "Where is God, my Maker,
who gives songs in the night,
[11]Teaches us more than the beasts of the earth,
and makes us wiser than the birds of the heavens?"
[12]Though thus they cry out, he does not answer
because of the pride of the wicked.
[13]But it is idle to say God does not hear or that the Almighty does not take notice.
[14]Even though you say, "You take no notice of it,"
the case is before him; with trembling wait upon him.
[15]But now that you have done otherwise, God's anger punishes,
nor does he show much concern over a life.
[16]Yet Job to no purpose opens his mouth,
multiplying words without knowledge.

36:1 Elihu continued and said:

[2]Wait a little and I will instruct you,
for there are still words to be said for God.
[3]I will assemble arguments from afar,
and for my maker I will establish what is right.
[4]For indeed, my words are not a lie;
one perfect in knowledge is before you.
[5]Look, God is great, not disdainful;
his strength of purpose is great.
He does not preserve the life of the wicked.
[6]He establishes the right of the poor;
he does not divert his eyes from the just [7]But he seats them upon thrones with kings, exalted forever.
[8]If they are bound with fetters,
held fast by bonds of affliction, [9]He lets them know what they have done,
and how arrogant are their sins.
[10]He opens their ears to correction

and tells them to turn back from evil.
[11]If they listen and serve him,
they spend their days in prosperity,
their years in happiness.
[12]But if they do not listen, they pass to the grave,
they perish for lack of knowledge.
[13]The impious in heart lay up anger;
they do not cry for help when he binds them;
[14]They will die young—
their life among the reprobate.
[15]But he saves the afflicted through their affliction,
and opens their ears through oppression.
[16]He entices you from distress,
to a broad place without constraint;
what rests on your table is rich food.
[17]Though you are full of the judgment of the wicked,
judgment and justice will be maintained.
[18]Let not anger at abundance entice you,
nor great bribery lead you astray.
[19]Will your wealth equip you against distress,
or all your exertions of strength?
[20]Do not long for the night,
when peoples vanish in their place.
[21]Be careful; do not turn to evil;
for this you have preferred to affliction.
[22]Look, God is exalted in his power.
What teacher is there like him?
[23]Who prescribes for him his way?
Who says, "You have done wrong"?
[24]Remember, you should extol his work,
which people have praised in song.
[25]All humankind beholds it;
everyone views it from afar.
[26]See, God is great beyond our knowledge,
the number of his years past searching out.
[27]He holds in check the waterdrops
that filter in rain from his flood, [28]Till the clouds flow with them
and they rain down on all humankind.
[29]Can anyone understand the spreading clouds,
the thunderings from his tent?
[30]Look, he spreads his light over it,
it covers the roots of the sea.
[31]For by these he judges the nations,
and gives food in abundance.
[32]In his hands he holds the lightning,
and he commands it to strike the mark.
[33]His thunder announces him
and incites the fury of the storm.

37:1 At this my heart trembles
and leaps out of its place.
[2]Listen to his angry voice
and the rumble that comes forth from his mouth!
[3]Everywhere under the heavens he sends it,
with his light, to the ends of the earth.
[4]Again his voice roars,
his majestic voice thunders;
he does not restrain them when his voice is heard.
[5]God thunders forth marvels with his voice;
he does great things beyond our knowing.
[6]He says to the snow, "Fall to the earth";
likewise to his heavy, drenching rain.
[7]He shuts up all humankind indoors,
so that all people may know his work.
[8]The wild beasts take to cover
and remain quiet in their dens.
[9]Out of its chamber the tempest comes forth;
from the north winds, the cold.
[10]With his breath God brings the frost,
and the broad waters congeal.
[11]The clouds too are laden with moisture,
the storm-cloud scatters its light.
[12]He it is who changes their rounds, according to his plans,
to do all that he commands them
across the inhabited world.
[13]Whether for punishment or mercy,
he makes it happen.
[14]Listen to this, Job!
Stand and consider the marvels of God!
[15]Do you know how God lays his command upon them,
and makes the light shine forth from his clouds?
[16]Do you know how the clouds are banked,
the marvels of him who is perfect in knowledge?
[17]You, who swelter in your clothes
when calm lies over the land from the south, [18]Can you with him spread out the firmament of the skies,
hard as a molten mirror?
[19]Teach us then what we shall say to him;
we cannot, for the darkness, make our plea.
[20]Will he be told about it when I speak?
Can anyone talk when he is being destroyed?
[21]Rather, it is as the light that cannot be seen
while it is obscured by the clouds,
till the wind comes by and sweeps them away.
[22]From Zaphon the golden splendor comes,
surrounding God's awesome majesty!
[23]The Almighty! We cannot find him, preeminent in power and judgment,
abundant in justice, who never oppresses.

[24]Therefore people fear him;
none can see him, however wise their hearts.

☐ TITUS 2

Christian Behavior. 2:1 As for yourself, you must say what is consistent with sound doctrine, namely, [2]that older men should be temperate, dignified, self-controlled, sound in faith, love, and endurance. [3]Similarly, older women should be reverent in their behavior, not slanderers, not addicted to drink, teaching what is good, [4]so that they may train younger women to love their husbands and children, [5]to be self-controlled, chaste, good homemakers, under the control of their husbands, so that the word of God may not be discredited.

[6]Urge the younger men, similarly, to control themselves, [7]showing yourself as a model of good deeds in every respect, with integrity in your teaching, dignity, [8]and sound speech that cannot be criticized, so that the opponent will be put to shame without anything bad to say about us.

[9]Slaves are to be under the control of their masters in all respects, giving them satisfaction, not talking back to them [10]or stealing from them, but exhibiting complete good faith, so as to adorn the doctrine of God our savior in every way.

Transformation of Life. [11]For the grace of God has appeared, saving all [12]and training us to reject godless ways and worldly desires and to live temperately, justly, and devoutly in this age, [13]as we await the blessed hope, the appearance of the glory of the great God and of our savior Jesus Christ, [14]who gave himself for us to deliver us from all lawlessness and to cleanse for himself a people as his own, eager to do what is good.

[15]Say these things. Exhort and correct with all authority. Let no one look down on you.

The First Martyrs of the Church of Rome

The martyrs were bound, imprisoned, scourged, racked, burned, torn apart, butchered — and they multiplied.

— St. Augustine of Hippo

☐ JOB 38-42

38:1 Then the LORD answered Job out of the storm and said:

[2]Who is this who darkens counsel
with words of ignorance?
[3]Gird up your loins now, like a man;
I will question you, and you tell me the answers!
[4]Where were you when I founded the earth?
Tell me, if you have understanding.
[5]Who determined its size? Surely you know?
Who stretched out the measuring line for it?
[6]Into what were its pedestals sunk,
and who laid its cornerstone,
[7]While the morning stars sang together
and all the sons of God shouted for joy?
[8]Who shut within doors the sea,
when it burst forth from the womb, [9]When I made the clouds its garment
and thick darkness its swaddling bands?

[10]When I set limits for it and fastened the bar of its door, [11]And said: Thus far shall you come but no farther,
and here shall your proud waves stop?
[12]Have you ever in your lifetime commanded the morning and shown the dawn its place [13]For taking hold of the ends of the earth,
till the wicked are shaken from it?
[14]The earth is changed as clay by the seal,
and dyed like a garment;
[15]But from the wicked their light is withheld,
and the arm of pride is shattered.
[16]Have you entered into the sources of the sea,
or walked about on the bottom of the deep?
[17]Have the gates of death been shown to you,
or have you seen the gates of darkness?
[18]Have you comprehended the breadth of the earth?
Tell me, if you know it all.
[19]What is the way to the dwelling of light,
and darkness—where is its place?
[20]That you may take it to its territory
and know the paths to its home?
[21]You know, because you were born then,
and the number of your days is great!
[22]Have you entered the storehouses of the snow,
and seen the storehouses of the hail [23]Which I have reserved for times of distress,
for a day of war and battle?
[24]What is the way to the parting of the winds,
where the east wind spreads over the earth?
[25]Who has laid out a channel for the downpour
and a path for the thunderstorm [26]To bring rain to uninhabited land,
the unpeopled wilderness;
[27]To drench the desolate wasteland
till the desert blooms with verdure?
[28]Has the rain a father?
Who has begotten the drops of dew?
[29]Out of whose womb comes the ice,
and who gives the hoarfrost its birth in the skies, [30]When the waters lie covered as though with stone that holds captive the surface of the deep?
[31]Have you tied cords to the Pleiades,
or loosened the bonds of Orion?
[32]Can you bring forth the Mazzaroth in their season,
or guide the Bear with her children?
[33]Do you know the ordinances of the heavens;
can you put into effect their plan on the earth?
[34]Can you raise your voice to the clouds,
for them to cover you with a deluge of waters?

35 Can you send forth the lightnings on their way,
so that they say to you, “Here we are”?
36 Who gives wisdom to the ibis,
and gives the rooster understanding?
37 Who counts the clouds with wisdom?
Who tilts the water jars of heaven 38 So that the dust of earth is fused into a mass and its clods stick together?
39 Do you hunt the prey for the lion or appease the hunger of young lions, 40 While they crouch in their dens,
or lie in ambush in the thicket?
41 Who provides nourishment for the raven
when its young cry out to God,
wandering about without food?

39:1 Do you know when mountain goats are born,
or watch for the birth pangs of deer,
2 Number the months that they must fulfill,
or know when they give birth,
3 When they crouch down and drop their young,
when they deliver their progeny?
4 Their offspring thrive and grow in the open,
they leave and do not return.
5 Who has given the wild donkey his freedom,
and who has loosed the wild ass from bonds?
6 I have made the wilderness his home
and the salt flats his dwelling.
7 He scoffs at the uproar of the city,
hears no shouts of a driver.
8 He ranges the mountains for pasture,
and seeks out every patch of green.
9 Will the wild ox consent to serve you,
or pass the nights at your manger?
10 Will you bind the wild ox with a rope in the furrow,
and will he plow the valleys after you?
11 Will you depend on him for his great strength and leave to him the fruits of your toil?
12 Can you rely on him to bring in your grain and gather in the yield of your threshing floor?
13 The wings of the ostrich flap away;
her plumage is lacking in feathers.
14 When she abandons her eggs on the ground
and lets them warm in the sand, 15 She forgets that a foot may crush them,
that the wild beasts may trample them;
16 She cruelly disowns her young and her labor is useless; she has no fear.
17 For God has withheld wisdom from her
and given her no share in understanding.

[18]Yet when she spreads her wings high,
she laughs at a horse and rider.
[19]Do you give the horse his strength,
and clothe his neck with a mane?
[20]Do you make him quiver like a locust,
while his thunderous snorting spreads terror?
[21]He paws the valley, he rejoices in his strength,
and charges into battle.
[22]He laughs at fear and cannot be terrified;
he does not retreat from the sword.
[23]Around him rattles the quiver,
flashes the spear and the javelin.
[24]Frenzied and trembling he devours the ground;
he does not hold back at the sound of the trumpet;
[25]at the trumpet's call he cries, "Aha!"
Even from afar he scents the battle,
the roar of the officers and the shouting.
[26]Is it by your understanding that the hawk soars,
that he spreads his wings toward the south?
[27]Does the eagle fly up at your command
to build his nest up high?
[28]On a cliff he dwells and spends the night,
on the spur of cliff or fortress.
[29]From there he watches for his food;
his eyes behold it afar off.
[30]His young ones greedily drink blood;
where the slain are, there is he.

40:1 The LORD then answered Job and said:

[2]Will one who argues with the Almighty be corrected?
Let him who would instruct God give answer!

[3]Then Job answered the LORD and said:

[4]Look, I am of little account; what can I answer you?
I put my hand over my mouth.
[5]I have spoken once, I will not reply;
twice, but I will do so no more.

[6]Then the LORD answered Job out of the storm and said:

[7]Gird up your loins now, like a man.
I will question you, and you tell me the answers!
[8]Would you refuse to acknowledge my right?
Would you condemn me that you may be justified?
[9]Have you an arm like that of God,
or can you thunder with a voice like his?
[10]Adorn yourself with grandeur and majesty,
and clothe yourself with glory and splendor.
[11]Let loose the fury of your wrath;

look at everyone who is proud and bring them down.
12 Look at everyone who is proud, and humble them.
Tear down the wicked in their place, 13 bury them in the dust together;
in the hidden world imprison them.
14 Then will I too praise you,
for your own right hand can save you.
15 Look at Behemoth, whom I made along with you,
who feeds on grass like an ox.
16 See the strength in his loins,
the power in the sinews of his belly.
17 He carries his tail like a cedar;
the sinews of his thighs are like cables.
18 His bones are like tubes of bronze;
his limbs are like iron rods.
19 He is the first of God's ways,
only his maker can approach him with a sword.
20 For the mountains bring him produce,
and all wild animals make sport there.
21 Under lotus trees he lies,
in coverts of the reedy swamp.
22 The lotus trees cover him with their shade;
all about him are the poplars in the wadi.
23 If the river grows violent, he is not disturbed;
he is tranquil though the Jordan surges about his mouth.
24 Who can capture him by his eyes,
or pierce his nose with a trap?
25 Can you lead Leviathan about with a hook,
or tie down his tongue with a rope?
26 Can you put a ring into his nose,
or pierce through his cheek with a gaff?
27 Will he then plead with you, time after time,
or address you with tender words?
28 Will he make a covenant with you that you may have him as a slave forever?
29 Can you play with him, as with a bird?
Can you tie him up for your little girls?
30 Will the traders bargain for him?
Will the merchants divide him up?
31 Can you fill his hide with barbs,
or his head with fish spears?
32 Once you but lay a hand upon him,
no need to recall any other conflict!

41:1 Whoever might vainly hope to do so need only see him to be overthrown.
2 No one is fierce enough to arouse him;
who then dares stand before me?
3 Whoever has assailed me, I will pay back—
Everything under the heavens is mine.

[4]I need hardly mention his limbs,
his strength, and the fitness of his equipment.
[5]Who can strip off his outer garment,
or penetrate his double armor?
[6]Who can force open the doors of his face,
close to his terrible teeth?
[7]Rows of scales are on his back,
tightly sealed together;
[8]They are fitted so close to each other
that no air can come between them;
[9]So joined to one another
that they hold fast and cannot be parted.
[10]When he sneezes, light flashes forth;
his eyes are like the eyelids of the dawn.
[11]Out of his mouth go forth torches;
sparks of fire leap forth.
[12]From his nostrils comes smoke
as from a seething pot or bowl.
[13]His breath sets coals afire;
a flame comes from his mouth.
[14]Strength abides in his neck,
and power leaps before him.
[15]The folds of his flesh stick together,
it is cast over him and immovable.
[16]His heart is cast as hard as stone;
cast as the lower millstone.
[17]When he rises up, the gods are afraid;
when he crashes down, they fall back.
[18]Should a sword reach him, it will not avail;
nor will spear, dart, or javelin.
[19]He regards iron as chaff,
and bronze as rotten wood.
[20]No arrow will put him to flight;
slingstones used against him are but straw.
[21]Clubs he regards as straw;
he laughs at the crash of the spear.
[22]Under him are sharp pottery fragments,
spreading a threshing sledge upon the mire.
[23]He makes the depths boil like a pot;
he makes the sea like a perfume bottle.
[24]Behind him he leaves a shining path;
you would think the deep had white hair.
[25]Upon the earth there is none like him,
he was made fearless.
[26]He looks over all who are haughty,
he is king over all proud beasts.

42:1 Then Job answered the LORD and said:

[2]I know that you can do all things,
and that no purpose of yours can be hindered.

[3]"Who is this who obscures counsel with ignorance?"
I have spoken but did not understand;
things too marvelous for me, which I did not know.
[4]"Listen, and I will speak;
I will question you, and you tell me the answers."
[5]By hearsay I had heard of you,
but now my eye has seen you.
[6]Therefore I disown what I have said,
and repent in dust and ashes.

Job's Restoration. [7]And after the LORD had spoken these words to Job, the LORD said to Eliphaz the Temanite, "My anger blazes against you and your two friends! You have not spoken rightly concerning me, as has my servant Job. [8]So now take seven bulls and seven rams, and go to my servant Job, and sacrifice a burnt offering for yourselves, and let my servant Job pray for you. To him I will show favor, and not punish your folly, for you have not spoken rightly concerning me, as has my servant Job." [9]Then Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, and Zophar the Naamathite, went and did as the LORD had commanded them. The LORD showed favor to Job.

[10]The LORD also restored the prosperity of Job, after he had prayed for his friends; the LORD even gave to Job twice as much as he had before. [11]Then all his brothers and sisters came to him, and all his former acquaintances, and they dined with him in his house. They consoled and comforted him for all the evil the LORD had brought upon him, and each one gave him a piece of money and a gold ring.

[12]Thus the LORD blessed the later days of Job more than his earlier ones. Now he had fourteen thousand sheep, six thousand camels, a thousand yoke of oxen, and a thousand she-donkeys. [13]He also had seven sons and three daughters: [14]the first daughter he called Jemimah, the second Keziah, and the third Keren-happuch. [15]In all the land no other women were as beautiful as the daughters of Job; and their father gave them an inheritance among their brothers.

[16]After this, Job lived a hundred and forty years; and he saw his children, his grandchildren, and even his great-grandchildren. [17]Then Job died, old and full of years.

☐ TITUS 3

3:1 Remind them to be under the control of magistrates and authorities, to be obedient, to be open to every good enterprise. [2]They are to slander no one, to be peaceable, considerate, exercising all graciousness toward everyone. [3]For we ourselves were once foolish, disobedient, deluded, slaves to various desires and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful ourselves and hating one another.

[4]But when the kindness and generous love of God our savior appeared, [5]not because of any righteous deeds we had done
but because of his mercy,
he saved us through the bath of rebirth
and renewal by the holy Spirit, [6]whom he richly poured out on us through Jesus Christ our savior, [7]so that we might be justified by his grace and become heirs in hope of eternal life.

[8]This saying is trustworthy.

Advice to Titus. I want you to insist on these points, that those who have believed in God be careful to devote themselves to good works; these are excellent and beneficial to others. [9]Avoid foolish arguments, genealogies, rivalries, and quarrels about the law, for they are useless and futile. [10]After a first and second warning, break off contact with a heretic, [11]realizing that such a person is perverted and sinful and stands self-condemned.

Directives, Greetings, and Blessing. [12]When I send Artemas to you, or Tychicus, try to join me at Nicopolis, where I have decided to spend the winter. [13]Send Zenas the lawyer and Apollos on their journey soon, and see to it that they have everything they need. [14]But let our people, too, learn to devote themselves to good works to supply urgent needs, so that they may not be unproductive.

[15]All who are with me send you greetings. Greet those who love us in the faith.

Grace be with all of you.

☐ PSALMS 1-5

True Happiness in God's Law.* 1:1

Blessed is the man who does not walk
in the counsel of the wicked,
Nor stand in the way of sinners,
nor sit in company with scoffers.
[2]Rather, the law of the LORD is his joy;
and on his law he meditates day and night.
[3]He is like a tree planted near streams of water,
that yields its fruit in season;
Its leaves never wither;
whatever he does prospers.

[4]But not so are the wicked, not so!
They are like chaff driven by the wind.
[5]Therefore the wicked will not arise at the judgment,
nor will sinners in the assembly of the just.
[6]Because the LORD knows the way of the just,
but the way of the wicked leads to ruin.

A Psalm for a Royal Coronation.* 2:1

Why do the nations protest
and the peoples conspire in vain?
[2]Kings on earth rise up and princes plot together
against the LORD and against his anointed one:
[3]"Let us break their shackles and cast off their chains from us!"
[4]The one enthroned in heaven laughs;
the Lord derides them,
[5]Then he speaks to them in his anger,
in his wrath he terrifies them:
[6]"I myself have installed my king
on Zion, my holy mountain."
[7]I will proclaim the decree of the LORD,
he said to me, "You are my son;
today I have begotten you.
[8]Ask it of me,
and I will give you the nations as your inheritance,
and, as your possession, the ends of the earth.
[9]With an iron rod you will shepherd them,

like a potter's vessel you will shatter them." [10]And now, kings, give heed;
take warning, judges on earth.
[11]Serve the LORD with fear;
exult with trembling,
Accept correction
lest he become angry and you perish along the way
when his anger suddenly blazes up.
Blessed are all who take refuge in him!

Threatened but Trusting. 3:1 A psalm of David, when he fled from his son Absalom.

[2]How many are my foes, LORD!
How many rise against me!
[3]How many say of me,
"There is no salvation for him in God."

Selah

[4]But you, LORD, are a shield around me;
my glory, you keep my head high.

[5]With my own voice I will call out to the LORD,
and he will answer me from his holy mountain.

Selah

[6]I lie down and I fall asleep,
[and] I will wake up, for the LORD sustains me.
[7]I do not fear, then, thousands of people
arrayed against me on every side.

[8]Arise, LORD! Save me, my God!
For you strike the cheekbone of all my foes;
you break the teeth of the wicked.
[9]Salvation is from the LORD!
May your blessing be upon your people!

Selah

Trust in God. 4:1 For the leader; with stringed instruments. A psalm of David.

[2]Answer me when I call, my saving God.
When troubles hem me in, set me free;
take pity on me, hear my prayer.

[3]How long, O people, will you be hard of heart?
Why do you love what is worthless, chase after lies?

Selah

[4]Know that the LORD works wonders for his faithful one;
The LORD hears when I call out to him.
[5]Tremble and sin no more;
weep bitterly within your hearts,
wail upon your beds,
[6]Offer fitting sacrifices and trust in the LORD.

[7]Many say, "May we see better times!
LORD, show us the light of your face!"

Selah

[8]But you have given my heart more joy
than they have when grain and wine abound.
[9]In peace I will lie down and fall asleep,
for you alone, LORD, make me secure.

Prayer for Divine Help. 5:1 For the leader; with wind instruments. A psalm of David.

[2]Give ear to my words, O LORD;
understand my sighing.
[3]Attend to the sound of my cry,
my king and my God!
For to you I will pray, LORD;
[4]in the morning you will hear my voice;
in the morning I will plead before you and wait.

[5]You are not a god who delights in evil;
no wicked person finds refuge with you;
[6]the arrogant cannot stand before your eyes.
You hate all who do evil;
[7]you destroy those who speak falsely.
A bloody and fraudulent man
the LORD abhors.

[8]But I, through the abundance of your mercy,
will enter into your house.
I will bow down toward your holy sanctuary
out of fear of you.
[9]LORD, guide me in your justice because of my foes;
make straight your way before me.

[10]For there is no sincerity in their mouth;
their heart is corrupt.
Their throat is an open grave;
on their tongue are subtle lies.
[11]Declare them guilty, God;
make them fall by their own devices.
Drive them out for their many sins;
for they have rebelled against you.

[12]Then all who trust in you will be glad
and forever shout for joy.
You will protect them and those will rejoice in you who love your name.
[13]For you, LORD, bless the just one;
you surround him with favor like a shield.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 1:1-2:4

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, to the church of God that is in Corinth, with all the holy ones throughout Achaia: [2]grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving. [3]Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of compassion and God of all encouragement, [4]who encourages us in our every affliction, so that we may be able to encourage those who are in any affliction with the encouragement with which we ourselves are encouraged by God. [5]For as Christ's sufferings overflow to us, so through Christ does our encouragement also overflow. [6]If we are afflicted, it is for your encouragement and salvation; if we are encouraged, it is for your encouragement, which enables you to endure the same sufferings that we suffer. [7]Our hope for you is firm, for we know that as you share in the sufferings, you also share in the encouragement.

[8]We do not want you to be unaware, brothers, of the affliction that came to us in the province of Asia; we were utterly weighed down beyond our strength, so that we despaired even of life. [9]Indeed, we had accepted within ourselves the sentence of death, that we might trust not in ourselves but in God who raises the dead. [10]He rescued us from such great danger of death, and he will continue to rescue us; in him we have put our hope [that] he will also rescue us again, [11]as you help us with prayer, so that thanks may be given by many on our behalf for the gift granted us through the prayers of many.

Paul's Sincerity and Constancy. [12]For our boast is this, the testimony of our conscience that we have conducted ourselves in the world, and especially toward you, with the simplicity and sincerity of God, [and] not by human wisdom but by the grace of God. [13]For we write you nothing but what you can read and understand, and I hope that you will understand completely, [14]as you have come to understand us partially, that we are your boast as you also are ours, on the day of [our] Lord Jesus.

[15]With this confidence I formerly intended to come to you so that you might receive a double favor, [16]namely, to go by way of you to Macedonia, and then to come to you again on my return from Macedonia, and have you send me on my way to Judea. [17]So when I intended this, did I act lightly? Or do I make my plans according to human considerations, so that with me it is "yes, yes" and "no, no"? [18]As God is faithful, our word to you is not "yes" and "no." [19]For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was proclaimed to you by us, Silvanus and Timothy and me, was not "yes" and "no," but "yes" has been in him. [20]For however many are the promises of God, their Yes is in him; therefore, the Amen from us also goes through him to God for glory. [21]But the one who gives us security with you in Christ and who anointed us is God; [22]he has also put his seal upon us and given the Spirit in our hearts as a first installment.

Paul's Change of Plan. [23]But I call upon God as witness, on my life, that it is to spare you that I have not yet gone to Corinth. [24]Not that we lord it over your faith; rather, we work together for your joy, for you stand firm in the faith.

2:1 For I decided not to come to you again in painful circumstances. [2]For if I inflict pain upon you, then who is there to cheer me except the one pained by me? [3]And I wrote as I did so that when I came I might not be pained by those in whom I should have rejoiced, confident about all of you that my joy is that of all of you. [4]For out of much affliction and anguish of heart I wrote to you with many tears, not that you might be pained but that you might know the abundant love I have for you.

☐ PSALMS 6-10

Prayer in Distress.* 6:1 For the leader; with stringed instruments, "upon the eighth."

A psalm of David.

[2]Do not reprove me in your anger, LORD,
nor punish me in your wrath.
[3]Have pity on me, LORD, for I am weak;
heal me, LORD, for my bones are shuddering.
[4]My soul too is shuddering greatly—
and you, LORD, how long…?
[5]Turn back, LORD, rescue my soul;
save me because of your mercy.
[6]For in death there is no remembrance of you.
Who praises you in Sheol?

[7]I am wearied with sighing;
all night long I drench my bed with tears;
I soak my couch with weeping.
[8]My eyes are dimmed with sorrow,
worn out because of all my foes.

[9]Away from me, all who do evil!
The LORD has heard the sound of my weeping.
[10]The LORD has heard my plea;
The LORD will receive my prayer.
[11]My foes will all be disgraced and will shudder greatly;
they will turn back in sudden disgrace.

God the Vindicator. 7:1 A plaintive song of David, which he sang to the LORD concerning Cush, the Benjaminite.

[2]LORD my God, in you I trusted;
save me; rescue me from all who pursue me,
[3]Lest someone maul me like a lion,
tear my soul apart with no one to deliver.

[4]LORD my God, if I have done this,
if there is guilt on my hands,
[5]If I have maltreated someone treating me equitably—
or even despoiled my oppressor without cause—[6]Then let my enemy pursue and overtake my soul, trample my life to the ground,
and lay my honor in the dust.

Selah

[7]Rise up, LORD, in your anger;
be aroused against the outrages of my oppressors.
Stir up the justice, my God, you have commanded.
[8]Have the assembly of the peoples gather about you;
and return on high above them,
[9]the LORD will pass judgment on the peoples.
Judge me, LORD, according to my righteousness,
and my integrity.
[10]Let the malice of the wicked end.

Uphold the just one,
O just God,
who tries hearts and minds.

[11]God is a shield above me saving the upright of heart.
[12]God is a just judge, powerful and patient,
not exercising anger every day.
[13]If one does not repent,
God sharpens his sword,
strings and readies the bow, [14]Prepares his deadly shafts,
makes arrows blazing thunderbolts.

[15]Consider how one conceives iniquity;
is pregnant with mischief,
and gives birth to deception.
[16]He digs a hole and bores it deep,
but he falls into the pit he has made.
[17]His malice turns back upon his head;
his violence falls on his own skull.
[18]I will thank the LORD in accordance with his justice;
I will sing the name of the LORD Most High.

Divine Majesty and Human Dignity. 8:1 For the leader; "upon the gittith." A psalm of David.
[2]O LORD, our Lord,
how awesome is your name through all the earth!

I will sing of your majesty above the heavens
[3]with the mouths of babes and infants.
You have established a bulwark against your foes,
to silence enemy and avenger.

[4]When I see your heavens, the work of your fingers,
the moon and stars that you set in place—
[5]What is man that you are mindful of him,
and a son of man that you care for him?
[6]Yet you have made him little less than a god,
crowned him with glory and honor.
[7]You have given him rule over the works of your hands,
put all things at his feet:
[8]All sheep and oxen,
even the beasts of the field,
[9]The birds of the air, the fish of the sea,
and whatever swims the paths of the seas.

[10]O LORD, our Lord,
how awesome is your name through all the earth!

Thanksgiving for Victory and Prayer for Justice. 9:1 For the leader; according to Muth Labben. A psalm of David.

[2]I will praise you, LORD, with all my heart;
I will declare all your wondrous deeds.
[3]I will delight and rejoice in you;
I will sing hymns to your name, Most High.
[4]When my enemies turn back,
they stumble and perish before you.

[5]For you upheld my right and my cause,
seated on your throne, judging justly.
[6]You rebuked the nations, you destroyed the wicked;
their name you blotted out for all time.
[7]The enemies have been ruined forever;
you destroyed their cities;
their memory has perished.

[8]The LORD rules forever,
has set up his throne for judgment.
[9]It is he who judges the world with justice,
who judges the peoples with fairness.
[10]The LORD is a stronghold for the oppressed,
a stronghold in times of trouble.
[11]Those who know your name trust in you;
you never forsake those who seek you, LORD.

[12]Sing hymns to the LORD enthroned on Zion;
proclaim his deeds among the nations!
[13]For the avenger of bloodshed remembers,
does not forget the cry of the afflicted.

[14]Be gracious to me, LORD;
see how my foes afflict me!
You alone can raise me from the gates of death.
[15]Then I will declare all your praises, sing joyously of your salvation
in the gates of daughter Zion.

[16]The nations fall into the pit they dig;
in the snare they hide, their own foot is caught.
[17]The LORD is revealed in making judgments:
by the deeds they do the wicked are trapped.

Higgaion. Selah

[18]To Sheol the wicked will depart,
all the nations that forget God.
[19]For the needy will never be forgotten,
nor will the hope of the afflicted ever fade.
[20]Arise, LORD, let no mortal prevail;
let the nations be judged in your presence.

21 Strike them with terror, LORD;
show the nations they are only human.

Selah

10:1 Why, LORD, do you stand afar
and pay no heed in times of trouble?
2 Arrogant scoundrels pursue the poor;
they trap them by their cunning schemes.

3 The wicked even boast of their greed;
these robbers curse and scorn the LORD.
4 In their insolence the wicked boast:
"God does not care; there is no God."
5 Yet their affairs always succeed;
they ignore your judgment on high;
they sneer at all who oppose them.
6 They say in their hearts, "We will never fall;
never will we see misfortune."
7 Their mouths are full of oaths, violence, and lies;
discord and evil are under their tongues.
8 They wait in ambush near towns;
their eyes watch for the helpless
to murder the innocent in secret.
9 They lurk in ambush like lions in a thicket,
hide there to trap the poor,
snare them and close the net.
10 The helpless are crushed, laid low;
they fall into the power of the wicked, 11 Who say in their hearts, "God has forgotten, shows no concern, never bothers to look."

12 Rise up, LORD! God, lift up your hand!
Do not forget the poor!
13 Why should the wicked scorn God,
say in their hearts, "God does not care"?
14 But you do see;
you take note of misery and sorrow;
you take the matter in hand.
To you the helpless can entrust their cause;
you are the defender of orphans.
15 Break the arm of the wicked and depraved;
make them account for their crimes;
let none of them survive.

16 The LORD is king forever;
the nations have vanished from his land.
17 You listen, LORD, to the needs of the poor;
you strengthen their heart and incline your ear.
18 You win justice for the orphaned and oppressed;
no one on earth will cause terror again.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 2:5-17

The Offender. 2:5 If anyone has caused pain, he has caused it not to me, but in some measure (not to exaggerate) to all of you. [6]This punishment by the majority is enough for such a person, [7]so that on the contrary you should forgive and encourage him instead, or else the person may be overwhelmed by excessive pain. [8]Therefore, I urge you to reaffirm your love for him. [9]For this is why I wrote, to know your proven character, whether you were obedient in everything. [10]Whomever you forgive anything, so do I. For indeed what I have forgiven, if I have forgiven anything, has been for you in the presence of Christ, [11]so that we might not be taken advantage of by Satan, for we are not unaware of his purposes.

Paul's Anxiety. [12]When I went to Troas for the gospel of Christ, although a door was opened for me in the Lord, [13]I had no relief in my spirit because I did not find my brother Titus. So I took leave of them and went on to Macedonia.

Ministers of a New Covenant. [14]But thanks be to God, who always leads us in triumph in Christ and manifests through us the odor of the knowledge of him in every place. [15]For we are the aroma of Christ for God among those who are being saved and among those who are perishing, [16]to the latter an odor of death that leads to death, to the former an odor of life that leads to life. Who is qualified for this? [17]For we are not like the many who trade on the word of God; but as out of sincerity, indeed as from God and in the presence of God, we speak in Christ.

☐ PSALMS 11-15

Confidence in the Presence of God. 11:1 For the leader. Of David.

In the LORD I take refuge;
how can you say to me,
"Flee like a bird to the mountains!
[2]See how the wicked string their bows,
fit their arrows to the string
to shoot from the shadows at the upright of heart.
[3]If foundations are destroyed,
what can the just one do?"

[4]The LORD is in his holy temple;
The LORD's throne is in heaven.
God's eyes keep careful watch;
they test the children of Adam.
[5]The LORD tests the righteous and the wicked,
hates those who love violence,
[6]And rains upon the wicked
fiery coals and brimstone,
a scorching wind their allotted cup.
[7]The LORD is just and loves just deeds;
the upright will see his face.

Prayer Against Evil Tongues. 12:1 For the leader; "upon the eighth." A psalm of David.

[2]Help, LORD, for no one loyal remains;
the faithful have vanished from the children of men.
[3]They tell lies to one another,
speak with deceiving lips and a double heart.

[4]May the LORD cut off all deceiving lips,
and every boastful tongue,
[5]Those who say, "By our tongues we prevail;
when our lips speak, who can lord it over us?"

[6]"Because they rob the weak, and the needy groan,
I will now arise," says the LORD;
"I will grant safety to whoever longs for it."

[7]The promises of the LORD are sure,
silver refined in a crucible,
silver purified seven times.
[8]You, O LORD, protect us always;
preserve us from this generation.
[9]On every side the wicked roam;
the shameless are extolled by the children of men.

Prayer for Help. 13:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]How long, LORD? Will you utterly forget me?
How long will you hide your face from me?
[3]How long must I carry sorrow in my soul,
grief in my heart day after day?
How long will my enemy triumph over me?

[4]Look upon me, answer me, LORD, my God!
Give light to my eyes lest I sleep in death,
[5]Lest my enemy say, "I have prevailed," lest my foes rejoice at my downfall.

[6]But I trust in your mercy.
Grant my heart joy in your salvation,
I will sing to the LORD,
for he has dealt bountifully with me!

A Lament over Widespread Corruption. 14:1 For the leader. Of David.

The fool says in his heart,
"There is no God."
Their deeds are loathsome and corrupt;
not one does what is good.
[2]The LORD looks down from heaven
upon the children of men,
To see if even one is wise,

if even one seeks God.
[3]All have gone astray;
all alike are perverse.
Not one does what is good,
not even one.

[4]Will these evildoers never learn?
They devour my people as they devour bread;
they do not call upon the LORD.
[5]They have good reason, then, to fear;
God is with the company of the just.
[6]They would crush the hopes of the poor,
but the poor have the LORD as their refuge.

[7]Oh, that from Zion might come
the salvation of Israel!
Jacob would rejoice, and Israel be glad when the LORD restores his people!

The Righteous Israelite. 15:1 A psalm of David.

LORD, who may abide in your tent?
Who may dwell on your holy mountain?

[2]Whoever walks without blame,
doing what is right,
speaking truth from the heart;
[3]Who does not slander with his tongue,
does no harm to a friend,
never defames a neighbor;
[4]Who disdains the wicked,
but honors those who fear the LORD;
Who keeps an oath despite the cost,
[5]lends no money at interest,
accepts no bribe against the innocent.

Whoever acts like this shall never be shaken.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 3

3:1 Are we beginning to commend ourselves again? Or do we need, as some do, letters of recommendation to you or from you? [2]You are our letter, written on our hearts, known and read by all, [3]shown to be a letter of Christ administered by us, written not in ink but by the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets that are hearts of flesh.

[4]Such confidence we have through Christ toward God. [5]Not that of ourselves we are qualified to take credit for anything as coming from us; rather, our qualification comes from God, [6]who has indeed qualified us as ministers of a new covenant, not of letter but of spirit; for the letter brings death, but the Spirit gives life.

Contrast with the Old Covenant. 7Now if the ministry of death, carved in letters on stone, was so glorious that the Israelites could not look intently at the face of Moses because of its glory that was going to fade, 8how much more will the ministry of the Spirit be glorious? 9For if the ministry of condemnation was glorious, the ministry of righteousness will abound much more in glory. 10Indeed, what was endowed with glory has come to have no glory in this respect because of the glory that surpasses it. 11For if what was going to fade was glorious, how much more will what endures be glorious.

12Therefore, since we have such hope, we act very boldly 13and not like Moses, who put a veil over his face so that the Israelites could not look intently at the cessation of what was fading. 14Rather, their thoughts were rendered dull, for to this present day the same veil remains unlifted when they read the old covenant, because through Christ it is taken away. 15To this day, in fact, whenever Moses is read, a veil lies over their hearts, 16but whenever a person turns to the Lord the veil is removed. 17Now the Lord is the Spirit, and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is freedom. 18All of us, gazing with unveiled face on the glory of the Lord, are being transformed into the same image from glory to glory, as from the Lord who is the Spirit.

☐ PSALMS 16-20

God the Supreme Good. 16:1 A miktam of David.

Keep me safe, O God;
in you I take refuge.
2I say to the LORD,
you are my Lord,
you are my only good.
3As for the holy ones who are in the land,
they are noble,
in whom is all my delight.
4They multiply their sorrows
who court other gods.
Blood libations to them I will not pour out,
nor will I take their names upon my lips.
5LORD, my allotted portion and my cup,
you have made my destiny secure.
6Pleasant places were measured out for me;
fair to me indeed is my inheritance.

7I bless the LORD who counsels me;
even at night my heart exhorts me.
8I keep the LORD always before me;
with him at my right hand, I shall never be shaken.
9Therefore my heart is glad, my soul rejoices;
my body also dwells secure, 10For you will not abandon my soul to Sheol,

nor let your devout one see the pit.
[11]You will show me the path to life,
abounding joy in your presence,
the delights at your right hand forever.

Prayer for Rescue from Persecutors. 17:1 A prayer of David.

Hear, LORD, my plea for justice;
pay heed to my cry;
Listen to my prayer
from lips without guile.
[2]From you let my vindication come;
your eyes see what is right.
[3]You have tested my heart,
searched it in the night.
You have tried me by fire,
but find no malice in me.
My mouth has not transgressed
[4]as others often do.
As your lips have instructed me,
I have kept from the way of the lawless.
[5]My steps have kept to your paths;
my feet have not faltered.

[6]I call upon you; answer me, O God.
Turn your ear to me; hear my speech.
[7]Show your wonderful mercy,
you who deliver with your right arm
those who seek refuge from their foes.
[8]Keep me as the apple of your eye;
hide me in the shadow of your wings
[9]from the wicked who despoil me.

My ravenous enemies press upon me;
[10]they close their hearts,
they fill their mouths with proud roaring.
[11]Their steps even now encircle me;
they watch closely, keeping low to the ground, [12]Like lions eager for prey,
like a young lion lurking in ambush.
[13]Rise, O LORD, confront and cast them down;
rescue my soul from the wicked.
[14]Slay them with your sword;
with your hand, LORD, slay them;
snatch them from the world in their prime.
Their bellies are being filled with your friends;
their children are satisfied too,
for they share what is left with their young.
[15]I am just—let me see your face;
when I awake, let me be filled with your presence.

A King's Thanksgiving for Victory. 18:1 For the leader. Of David, the servant of the LORD, who sang to the LORD the words of this song after the LORD had rescued him from the clutches of all his enemies and from the hand of Saul.
[2]He said:

I love you, LORD, my strength,
[3]LORD, my rock, my fortress, my deliverer,
My God, my rock of refuge,
my shield, my saving horn, my stronghold!
[4]Praised be the LORD, I exclaim!
I have been delivered from my enemies.

[5]The cords of death encompassed me;
the torrents of destruction terrified me.
[6]The cords of Sheol encircled me;
the snares of death lay in wait for me.
[7]In my distress I called out: LORD!
I cried out to my God.
From his temple he heard my voice;
my cry to him reached his ears.
[8]The earth rocked and shook;
the foundations of the mountains trembled;
they shook as his wrath flared up.
[9]Smoke rose from his nostrils,
a devouring fire from his mouth;
it kindled coals into flame.
[10]He parted the heavens and came down,
a dark cloud under his feet.
[11]Mounted on a cherub he flew,
borne along on the wings of the wind.
[12]He made darkness his cloak around him;
his canopy, water-darkened stormclouds.
[13]From the gleam before him, his clouds passed,
hail and coals of fire.
[14]The LORD thundered from heaven;
the Most High made his voice resound.
[15]He let fly his arrows and scattered them;
shot his lightning bolts and dispersed them.
[16]Then the bed of the sea appeared;
the world's foundations lay bare,
At your rebuke, O LORD,
at the storming breath of your nostrils.
[17]He reached down from on high and seized me;
drew me out of the deep waters.
[18]He rescued me from my mighty enemy,
from foes too powerful for me.
[19]They attacked me on my day of distress,
but the LORD was my support.
[20]He set me free in the open;
he rescued me because he loves me.

[21]The LORD acknowledged my righteousness, rewarded my clean hands.

[22]For I kept the ways of the LORD;
I was not disloyal to my God.
[23]For his laws were all before me,
his decrees I did not cast aside.
[24]I was honest toward him;
I was on guard against sin.
[25]So the LORD rewarded my righteousness,
the cleanness of my hands in his sight.
[26]Toward the faithful you are faithful;
to the honest man you are honest;
[27]Toward the pure, you are pure;
but to the perverse you are devious.
[28]For humble people you save;
haughty eyes you bring low.
[29]For you, LORD, give light to my lamp;
my God brightens my darkness.
[30]With you I can rush an armed band,
with my God to help I can leap a wall.
[31]God's way is unerring;
The LORD's promise is refined;
he is a shield for all who take refuge in him.

[32]Truly, who is God except the LORD?
Who but our God is the rock?
[33]This God who girded me with might,
kept my way unerring, [34]Who made my feet like a deer's,
and set me on the heights, [35]Who trained my hands for war,
my arms to string a bow of bronze.

[36]You have given me your saving shield;
your right hand has upheld me;
your favor made me great.
[37]You made room for my steps beneath me;
my ankles never twisted.
[38]I pursued my enemies and overtook them;
I did not turn back till I destroyed them.
[39]I decimated them; they could not rise;
they fell at my feet.
[40]You girded me with valor for war,
subjugated my opponents beneath me.
[41]You made my foes expose their necks to me;
those who hated me I silenced.
[42]They cried for help, but no one saved them;
cried to the LORD but received no answer.
[43]I ground them to dust before the wind;
I left them like mud in the streets.
[44]You rescued me from the strife of peoples;

you made me head over nations.
A people I had not known served me;
45as soon as they heard of me they obeyed.
Foreigners submitted before me;
46foreigners cringed;
they came cowering from their dungeons.

47The LORD lives! Blessed be my rock!
Exalted be God, my savior!
48O God who granted me vengeance,
made peoples subject to me,
49and saved me from my enemies,
Truly you have elevated me above my opponents,
from a man of lawlessness you have rescued me.
50Thus I will praise you, LORD, among the nations;
I will sing praises to your name.
51You have given great victories to your king,
and shown mercy to his anointed,
to David and his posterity forever.

God's Glory in the Heavens and in the Law. 19:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

2The heavens declare the glory of God;
the firmament proclaims the works of his hands.
3Day unto day pours forth speech;
night unto night whispers knowledge.
4There is no speech, no words;
their voice is not heard;
5A report goes forth through all the earth,
their messages, to the ends of the world.
He has pitched in them a tent for the sun;
6it comes forth like a bridegroom from his canopy,
and like a hero joyfully runs its course.
7From one end of the heavens it comes forth;
its course runs through to the other;
nothing escapes its heat.

8The law of the LORD is perfect, refreshing the soul.
The decree of the LORD is trustworthy,
giving wisdom to the simple.
9The precepts of the LORD are right,
rejoicing the heart.
The command of the LORD is clear,
enlightening the eye.
10The fear of the LORD is pure,
enduring forever.
The statutes of the LORD are true,
all of them just;
11More desirable than gold,

than a hoard of purest gold, Sweeter also than honey
or drippings from the comb.
[12]By them your servant is warned;
obeying them brings much reward.

[13]Who can detect trespasses?
Cleanse me from my inadvertent sins.
[14]Also from arrogant ones restrain your servant;
let them never control me.
Then shall I be blameless,
innocent of grave sin.
[15]Let the words of my mouth be acceptable,
the thoughts of my heart before you,
LORD, my rock and my redeemer.

Prayer for the King in Time of War. 20:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]The LORD answer you in time of distress;
the name of the God of Jacob defend you!
[3]May he send you help from the sanctuary,
from Zion be your support.
[4]May he remember your every offering,
graciously accept your burnt offering,

Selah

[5]Grant what is in your heart,
fulfill your every plan.
[6]May we shout for joy at your victory,
raise the banners in the name of our God.
The LORD grant your every petition!

[7]Now I know the LORD gives victory
to his anointed.
He will answer him from the holy heavens
with a strong arm that brings victory.
[8]Some rely on chariots, others on horses,
but we on the name of the LORD our God.
[9]They collapse and fall,
but we stand strong and firm.
[10]LORD, grant victory to the king;
answer when we call upon you.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 4:1-15

Integrity in the Ministry. 4:1 Therefore, since we have this ministry through the mercy shown us, we are not discouraged. [2]Rather, we have renounced shameful, hidden things; not acting deceitfully or falsifying the word of God, but by the open declaration of the truth we commend ourselves to everyone's conscience in the sight of God. [3]And even though our gospel is veiled, it is veiled for those who are perishing, [4]in whose case the god of this age has blinded the minds of the unbelievers, so that they may not see the light of the gospel of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God. [5]For we do not preach ourselves but Jesus Christ as Lord, and ourselves as your slaves for the sake of Jesus. [6]For God who said, "Let light shine out of darkness," has shone in our hearts to bring to light the knowledge of the glory of God on the face of [Jesus] Christ.

The Paradox of the Ministry. [7]But we hold this treasure in earthen vessels, that the surpassing power may be of God and not from us. [8]We are afflicted in every way, but not constrained; perplexed, but not driven to despair; [9]persecuted, but not abandoned; struck down, but not destroyed; [10]always carrying about in the body the dying of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus may also be manifested in our body. [11]For we who live are constantly being given up to death for the sake of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus may be manifested in our mortal flesh.

[12]So death is at work in us, but life in you. [13]Since, then, we have the same spirit of faith, according to what is written, "I believed, therefore I spoke," we too believe and therefore speak, [14]knowing that the one who raised the Lord Jesus will raise us also with Jesus and place us with you in his presence. [15]Everything indeed is for you, so that the grace bestowed in abundance on more and more people may cause the thanksgiving to overflow for the glory of God.

☐ PSALMS 21-25

Thanksgiving and Assurances for the King. 21:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]LORD, the king finds joy in your power;
in your victory how greatly he rejoices!
[3]You have granted him his heart's desire;
you did not refuse the request of his lips.

Selah

[4]For you welcomed him with goodly blessings;
you placed on his head a crown of pure gold.
[5]He asked life of you;
you gave it to him,
length of days forever.
[6]Great is his glory in your victory;
majesty and splendor you confer upon him.
[7]You make him the pattern of blessings forever,
you gladden him with the joy of your face.
[8]For the king trusts in the LORD,
stands firm through the mercy of the Most High.

[9]Your hand will find all your enemies;
your right hand will find your foes!
[10]At the time of your coming
you will make them a fiery furnace.
Then the LORD in his anger will consume them,
devour them with fire.

[11]Even their descendants you will wipe out from the earth,
their offspring from the human race.
[12]Though they intend evil against you,
devising plots, they will not succeed, [13]For you will put them to flight;
you will aim at their faces with your bow.

[14]Arise, LORD, in your power!
We will sing and chant the praise of your might.

The Prayer of an Innocent Person.* 22:1 For the leader; according to "The deer of the dawn." A psalm of David.

[2]My God, my God, why have you abandoned me?
Why so far from my call for help,
from my cries of anguish?
[3]My God, I call by day, but you do not answer;
by night, but I have no relief.
[4]Yet you are enthroned as the Holy One;
you are the glory of Israel.
[5]In you our fathers trusted;
they trusted and you rescued them.
[6]To you they cried out and they escaped;
in you they trusted and were not disappointed.
[7]But I am a worm, not a man,
scorned by men, despised by the people.
[8]All who see me mock me;
they curl their lips and jeer;
they shake their heads at me:
[9]"He relied on the LORD—let him deliver him;
if he loves him, let him rescue him."
[10]For you drew me forth from the womb,
made me safe at my mother's breasts.
[11]Upon you I was thrust from the womb;
since my mother bore me you are my God.
[12]Do not stay far from me,
for trouble is near,
and there is no one to help.

[13]Many bulls surround me;
fierce bulls of Bashan encircle me.
[14]They open their mouths against me,
lions that rend and roar.
[15]Like water my life drains away;
all my bones are disjointed.
My heart has become like wax,
it melts away within me.
[16]As dry as a potsherd is my throat;
my tongue cleaves to my palate;
you lay me in the dust of death.
[17]Dogs surround me;

a pack of evildoers closes in on me.
They have pierced my hands and my feet
[18]I can count all my bones.
They stare at me and gloat;
[19]they divide my garments among them;
for my clothing they cast lots.
[20]But you, LORD, do not stay far off;
my strength, come quickly to help me.
[21]Deliver my soul from the sword,
my life from the grip of the dog.
[22]Save me from the lion's mouth,
my poor life from the horns of wild bulls.

[23]Then I will proclaim your name to my brethren;
in the assembly I will praise you:
[24]"You who fear the LORD, give praise!
All descendants of Jacob, give honor;
show reverence, all descendants of Israel!
[25]For he has not spurned or disdained
the misery of this poor wretch,
Did not turn away from me,
but heard me when I cried out.
[26]I will offer praise in the great assembly;
my vows I will fulfill before those who fear him.
[27]The poor will eat their fill;
those who seek the LORD will offer praise.
May your hearts enjoy life forever!"

[28]All the ends of the earth will remember and turn to the LORD;
All the families of nations
will bow low before him.
[29]For kingship belongs to the LORD,
the ruler over the nations.
[30]All who sleep in the earth
will bow low before God;
All who have gone down into the dust
will kneel in homage.
[31]And I will live for the LORD;
my descendants will serve you.
[32]The generation to come will be told of the Lord,
that they may proclaim to a people yet unborn
the deliverance you have brought.

The Lord, Shepherd and Host. 23:1 A psalm of David.

The LORD is my shepherd;
there is nothing I lack.
[2]In green pastures he makes me lie down;
to still waters he leads me;

[3]he restores my soul.
He guides me along right paths
for the sake of his name.
[4]Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,
I will fear no evil, for you are with me;
your rod and your staff comfort me.

[5]You set a table before me
in front of my enemies;
You anoint my head with oil;
my cup overflows.
[6]Indeed, goodness and mercy will pursue me
all the days of my life;
I will dwell in the house of the LORD
for endless days.

The Glory of God in Procession to Zion. 24:1 A psalm of David.

The earth is the LORD's and all it holds,
the world and those who dwell in it.
[2]For he founded it on the seas,
established it over the rivers.

[3]Who may go up the mountain of the LORD?
Who can stand in his holy place?
[4]"The clean of hand and pure of heart,
who has not given his soul to useless things,
what is vain.
[5]He will receive blessings from the LORD,
and justice from his saving God.
[6]Such is the generation that seeks him,
that seeks the face of the God of Jacob."

Selah

[7]Lift up your heads, O gates;
be lifted, you ancient portals,
that the king of glory may enter.
[8]Who is this king of glory?
The LORD, strong and mighty,
The LORD, mighty in war.
[9]Lift up your heads, O gates;
rise up, you ancient portals,
that the king of glory may enter.
[10]Who is this king of glory?
The LORD of hosts, he is the king of glory.

Selah

Confident Prayer for Forgiveness and Guidance. 25:1 Of David.

To you, O LORD, I lift up my soul,

[2]my God, in you I trust;
do not let me be disgraced;
do not let my enemies gloat over me.
[3]No one is disgraced who waits for you,
but only those who are treacherous without cause.
[4]Make known to me your ways, LORD;
teach me your paths.
[5]Guide me by your fidelity and teach me,
for you are God my savior,
for you I wait all the day long.
[6]Remember your compassion and your mercy, O LORD,
for they are ages old.
[7]Remember no more the sins of my youth;
remember me according to your mercy,
because of your goodness, LORD.

[8]Good and upright is the LORD,
therefore he shows sinners the way,
[9] He guides the humble in righteousness,
and teaches the humble his way.
[10]All the paths of the LORD are mercy and truth toward those who honor his covenant and decrees.
[11]For the sake of your name, LORD,
pardon my guilt, though it is great.
[12]Who is the one who fears the LORD?
God shows him the way he should choose.
[13] He will abide in prosperity,
and his descendants will inherit the land.
[14]The counsel of the LORD belongs to those who fear him;
and his covenant instructs them.
[15]My eyes are ever upon the LORD,
who frees my feet from the snare.

[16]Look upon me, have pity on me,
for I am alone and afflicted.
[17]Relieve the troubles of my heart;
bring me out of my distress.
[18] Look upon my affliction and suffering;
take away all my sins.
[19]See how many are my enemies,
see how fiercely they hate me.
[20]Preserve my soul and rescue me;
do not let me be disgraced, for in you I seek refuge.
[21]Let integrity and uprightness preserve me;
I wait for you, O LORD.
[22]Redeem Israel, O God,
from all its distress!

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 4:16-5:10

4:16 Therefore, we are not discouraged; rather, although our outer self is wasting away, our inner self is being renewed day by day. [17]For this momentary light affliction is producing for us an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison, [18]as we look not to what is seen but to what is unseen; for what is seen is transitory, but what is unseen is eternal.

Our Future Destiny. 5:1 For we know that if our earthly dwelling, a tent, should be destroyed, we have a building from God, a dwelling not made with hands, eternal in heaven. [2]For in this tent we groan, longing to be further clothed with our heavenly habitation [3]if indeed, when we have taken it off, we shall not be found naked. [4]For while we are in this tent we groan and are weighed down, because we do not wish to be unclothed but to be further clothed, so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by life. [5]Now the one who has prepared us for this very thing is God, who has given us the Spirit as a first installment.

[6]So we are always courageous, although we know that while we are at home in the body we are away from the Lord, [7]for we walk by faith, not by sight. [8]Yet we are courageous, and we would rather leave the body and go home to the Lord. [9]Therefore, we aspire to please him, whether we are at home or away. [10]For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each one may receive recompense, according to what he did in the body, whether good or evil.

☐ PSALMS 26-30

Prayer of Innocence.* 26:1 Of David.

Judge me, LORD!
For I have walked in my integrity.
In the LORD I trust;
I do not falter.
[2]Examine me, Lord, and test me;
search my heart and mind.
[3]Your mercy is before my eyes;
I walk guided by your faithfulness.

[4]I do not sit with worthless men,
nor with hypocrites do I mingle.
[5]I hate an evil assembly;
with the wicked I do not sit.
[6]I will wash my hands in innocence
so that I may process around your altar, Lord, [7]To hear the sound of thanksgiving,
and recount all your wondrous deeds.
[8]Lord, I love the refuge of your house,
the site of the dwelling-place of your glory.

[9]Do not take me away with sinners,

nor my life with the men of blood, [10]In whose hands there is a plot,
their right hands full of bribery.
[11]But I walk in my integrity;
redeem me, be gracious to me!
[12]My foot stands on level ground;
in assemblies I will bless the LORD.

Trust in God. 27:1 Of David.

The LORD is my light and my salvation;
whom should I fear?
The LORD is my life's refuge;
of whom should I be afraid?
[2]When evildoers come at me
to devour my flesh,
These my enemies and foes
themselves stumble and fall.
[3]Though an army encamp against me,
my heart does not fear;
Though war be waged against me,
even then do I trust.

[4]One thing I ask of the LORD;
this I seek:
To dwell in the LORD's house
all the days of my life,
To gaze on the LORD's beauty,
to visit his temple.
[5]For God will hide me in his shelter
in time of trouble,
He will conceal me in the cover of his tent;
and set me high upon a rock.
[6]Even now my head is held high above my enemies on every side!
I will offer in his tent
sacrifices with shouts of joy;
I will sing and chant praise to the LORD.

[7]Hear my voice, LORD, when I call;
have mercy on me and answer me.
[8]"Come," says my heart, "seek his face";
your face, LORD, do I seek!
[9]Do not hide your face from me;
do not repel your servant in anger.
You are my salvation; do not cast me off;
do not forsake me, God my savior!
[10]Even if my father and mother forsake me,
The LORD will take me in.

[11]LORD, show me your way;
lead me on a level path
because of my enemies.
[12]Do not abandon me to the desire of my foes;
malicious and lying witnesses have risen against me.
[13]I believe I shall see the LORD's goodness
in the land of the living.
[14]Wait for the LORD, take courage;
be stouthearted, wait for the LORD!

Petition and Thanksgiving. 28:1 Of David.

To you, LORD, I call;
my Rock, do not be deaf to me,
Do not be silent toward me,
so that I join those who go down to the pit.
[2]Hear the sound of my pleading when I cry to you for help when I lift up my hands toward your holy place.
[3]Do not drag me off with the wicked,
with those who do wrong,
Who speak peace to their neighbors
though evil is in their hearts.
[4]Repay them for their deeds,
for the evil that they do.
For the work of their hands repay them;
give them what they deserve.
[5]Because they do not understand the LORD's works,
the work of his hands,
He will tear them down,
never to rebuild them.

[6]Blessed be the LORD,
who has heard the sound of my pleading.
[7]The LORD is my strength and my shield,
in whom my heart trusts.
I am helped, so my heart rejoices;
with my song I praise him.

[8]LORD, you are a strength for your people,
the saving refuge of your anointed.
[9]Save your people, bless your inheritance;
pasture and carry them forever!

The Lord of Majesty Acclaimed as King of the World. 29:1 A psalm of David.

Give to the LORD, you sons of God,
give to the LORD glory and might;
[2]Give to the LORD the glory due his name.
Bow down before the LORD's holy splendor!

[3]The voice of the LORD is over the waters;
the God of glory thunders,
the LORD, over the mighty waters.
[4]The voice of the LORD is power;
the voice of the LORD is splendor.
[5]The voice of the LORD cracks the cedars;
The LORD splinters the cedars of Lebanon,
[6]Makes Lebanon leap like a calf,
and Sirion like a young bull.
[7]The voice of the LORD strikes with fiery flame;
[8]the voice of the LORD shakes the desert;
The LORD shakes the desert of Kadesh.
[9]The voice of the LORD makes the deer dance and strips the forests bare.
All in his Temple say, "Glory!"

[10]The LORD sits enthroned above the flood!
The LORD reigns as king forever!
[11]May the LORD give might to his people;
may the LORD bless his people with peace!

Thanksgiving for Deliverance. 30:1 A psalm. A song for the dedication of the Temple. Of David.

[2]I praise you, LORD, for you raised me up and did not let my enemies rejoice over me.
[3]O LORD, my God,
I cried out to you for help and you healed me.
[4]LORD, you brought my soul up from Sheol;
you let me live, from going down to the pit.

[5]Sing praise to the LORD, you faithful;
give thanks to his holy memory.
[6]For his anger lasts but a moment;
his favor a lifetime.
At dusk weeping comes for the night;
but at dawn there is rejoicing.

[7]Complacent, I once said,
"I shall never be shaken."
[8]LORD, you showed me favor, established for me mountains of virtue.
But when you hid your face
I was struck with terror.
[9]To you, LORD, I cried out;
with the Lord I pleaded for mercy:
[10]"What gain is there from my lifeblood,
from my going down to the grave?
Does dust give you thanks
or declare your faithfulness?
[11]Hear, O LORD, have mercy on me;

LORD, be my helper."

12 You changed my mourning into dancing;
you took off my sackcloth
and clothed me with gladness.
13 So that my glory may praise you and not be silent.
O LORD, my God,
forever will I give you thanks.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 5:11-21

The Ministry of Reconciliation. 5:11 Therefore, since we know the fear of the Lord, we try to persuade others; but we are clearly apparent to God, and I hope we are also apparent to your consciousness. 12 We are not commending ourselves to you again but giving you an opportunity to boast of us, so that you may have something to say to those who boast of external appearance rather than of the heart. 13 For if we are out of our minds, it is for God; if we are rational, it is for you. 14 For the love of Christ impels us, once we have come to the conviction that one died for all; therefore, all have died. 15 He indeed died for all, so that those who live might no longer live for themselves but for him who for their sake died and was raised.

16 Consequently, from now on we regard no one according to the flesh; even if we once knew Christ according to the flesh, yet now we know him so no longer. 17 So whoever is in Christ is a new creation: the old things have passed away; behold, new things have come. 18 And all this is from God, who has reconciled us to himself through Christ and given us the ministry of reconciliation, 19 namely, God was reconciling the world to himself in Christ, not counting their trespasses against them and entrusting to us the message of reconciliation. 20 So we are ambassadors for Christ, as if God were appealing through us. We implore you on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God. 21 For our sake he made him to be sin who did not know sin, so that we might become the righteousness of God in him.

☐ PSALMS 31-35

Prayer in Distress and Thanksgiving for Escape. 31:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

2 In you, LORD, I take refuge;
let me never be put to shame.
In your righteousness deliver me;
3 incline your ear to me;
make haste to rescue me!
Be my rock of refuge,
a stronghold to save me.
4 For you are my rock and my fortress;
for your name's sake lead me and guide me.
5 Free me from the net they have set for me,

for you are my refuge.
[6]Into your hands I commend my spirit;
you will redeem me, LORD, God of truth.
[7]You hate those who serve worthless idols,
but I trust in the LORD.
[8]I will rejoice and be glad in your mercy,
once you have seen my misery,
[and] gotten to know the distress of my soul.
[9]You will not abandon me into enemy hands,
but will set my feet in a free and open space.

[10]Be gracious to me, LORD, for I am in distress; affliction is wearing down my eyes,
my throat and my insides.
[11]My life is worn out by sorrow,
and my years by sighing.
My strength fails in my affliction;
my bones are wearing down.
[12]To all my foes I am a thing of scorn,
and especially to my neighbors
a horror to my friends.
When they see me in public,
they quickly shy away.
[13]I am forgotten, out of mind like the dead;
I am like a worn-out tool.
[14]I hear the whispers of the crowd;
terrors are all around me.
They conspire together against me;
they plot to take my life.
[15]But I trust in you, LORD;
I say, "You are my God."
[16]My destiny is in your hands;
rescue me from my enemies,
from the hands of my pursuers.
[17]Let your face shine on your servant;
save me in your mercy.
[18]Do not let me be put to shame,
for I have called to you, LORD.
Put the wicked to shame;
reduce them to silence in Sheol.
[19]Strike dumb their lying lips,
which speak arrogantly against the righteous
in contempt and scorn.

[20]How great is your goodness, Lord, stored up for those who fear you.
You display it for those who trust you,
in the sight of the children of Adam.
[21]You hide them in the shelter of your presence,
safe from scheming enemies.

You conceal them in your tent,
away from the strife of tongues.
22 Blessed be the LORD,
marvelously he showed to me
his mercy in a fortified city.
23 Though I had said in my alarm,
"I am cut off from your eyes."
Yet you heard my voice, my cry for mercy,
when I pleaded with you for help.
24 Love the LORD, all you who are faithful to him.
The LORD protects the loyal,
but repays the arrogant in full.
25 Be strong and take heart,
all who hope in the LORD.

Remission of Sin. 32:1 Of David. A maskil.

Blessed is the one whose fault is removed,
whose sin is forgiven.
2 Blessed is the man to whom the LORD imputes no guilt,
in whose spirit is no deceit.

3 Because I kept silent, my bones wasted away;
I groaned all day long.
4 For day and night your hand was heavy upon me;
my strength withered as in dry summer heat.
Selah

5 Then I declared my sin to you;
my guilt I did not hide.
I said, "I confess my transgression to the LORD,"
and you took away the guilt of my sin.
Selah

6 Therefore every loyal person should pray to you in time of distress.
Though flood waters threaten,
they will never reach him.
7 You are my shelter; you guard me from distress;
with joyful shouts of deliverance you surround me.
Selah

8 I will instruct you and show you the way you should walk, give you counsel with my eye upon you.
9 Do not be like a horse or mule, without understanding;
with bit and bridle their temper is curbed,
else they will not come to you.

10 Many are the sorrows of the wicked one,
but mercy surrounds the one who trusts in the LORD.
11 Be glad in the LORD and rejoice, you righteous;
exult, all you upright of heart.

Praise of God's Power and Providence. 33:1 Rejoice, you righteous, in the LORD;
praise from the upright is fitting.
[2]Give thanks to the LORD on the harp;
on the ten-stringed lyre offer praise.
[3]Sing to him a new song;
skillfully play with joyful chant.
[4]For the LORD's word is upright;
all his works are trustworthy.
[5]He loves justice and right.
The earth is full of the mercy of the LORD.

[6]By the LORD's word the heavens were made;
by the breath of his mouth all their host.
[7]He gathered the waters of the sea as a mound;
he sets the deep into storage vaults.

[8]Let all the earth fear the LORD;
let all who dwell in the world show him reverence.
[9]For he spoke, and it came to be,
commanded, and it stood in place.
[10]The LORD foils the plan of nations,
frustrates the designs of peoples.
[11]But the plan of the LORD stands forever,
the designs of his heart through all generations.
[12]Blessed is the nation whose God is the LORD,
the people chosen as his inheritance.

[13]From heaven the LORD looks down and observes the children of Adam, [14]From his dwelling place he surveys
all who dwell on earth.
[15]The One who fashioned together their hearts is the One who knows all their works.

[16]A king is not saved by a great army,
nor a warrior delivered by great strength.
[17]Useless is the horse for safety;
despite its great strength, it cannot be saved.
[18]Behold, the eye of the LORD is upon those who fear him,
upon those who count on his mercy, [19]To deliver their soul from death,
and to keep them alive through famine.

[20]Our soul waits for the LORD,
he is our help and shield.
[21]For in him our hearts rejoice;
in his holy name we trust.
[22]May your mercy, LORD, be upon us;
as we put our hope in you.

Thanksgiving to God Who Delivers the Just. 34:1 Of David, when he feigned madness before Abimelech, who drove him out and he went away.

[2]I will bless the LORD at all times;
his praise shall be always in my mouth.
[3]My soul will glory in the LORD;
let the poor hear and be glad.
[4]Magnify the LORD with me;
and let us exalt his name together.

[5]I sought the LORD, and he answered me, delivered me from all my fears.
[6]Look to him and be radiant,
and your faces may not blush for shame.
[7]This poor one cried out and the LORD heard,
and from all his distress he saved him.
[8]The angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear him, and he saves them.
[9]Taste and see that the LORD is good;
blessed is the stalwart one who takes refuge in him.
[10]Fear the LORD, you his holy ones;
nothing is lacking to those who fear him.
[11]The rich grow poor and go hungry,
but those who seek the LORD lack no good thing.

[12]Come, children, listen to me;
I will teach you fear of the LORD.
[13]Who is the man who delights in life,
who loves to see the good days?
[14]Keep your tongue from evil,
your lips from speaking lies.
[15]Turn from evil and do good;
seek peace and pursue it.
[16]The eyes of the LORD are directed toward the righteous and his ears toward their cry.
[17]The LORD's face is against evildoers
to wipe out their memory from the earth.
[18]The righteous cry out, the LORD hears and he rescues them from all their afflictions.
[19]The LORD is close to the brokenhearted, saves those whose spirit is crushed.
[20]Many are the troubles of the righteous,
but the LORD delivers him from them all.
[21]He watches over all his bones;
not one of them shall be broken.
[22]Evil will slay the wicked;
those who hate the righteous are condemned.
[23]The LORD is the redeemer of the souls of his servants;
and none are condemned who take refuge in him.

Prayer for Help Against Unjust Enemies. 35:1 Of David.

Oppose, O LORD, those who oppose me;
war upon those who make war upon me.
[2]Take up the shield and buckler;
rise up in my defense.
[3]Brandish lance and battle-ax against my pursuers.
Say to my soul,
"I am your salvation."
[4]Let those who seek my life
be put to shame and disgrace.
Let those who plot evil against me
be turned back and confounded.
[5]Make them like chaff before the wind,
with the angel of the LORD driving them on.
[6]Make their way slippery and dark,
with the angel of the LORD pursuing them.

[7]Without cause they set their snare for me;
without cause they dug a pit for me.
[8]Let ruin overtake them unawares;
let the snare they have set catch them;
let them fall into the pit they have dug.
[9]Then I will rejoice in the LORD,
exult in God's salvation.
[10]My very bones shall say,
"O LORD, who is like you,
Who rescue the afflicted from the powerful,
the afflicted and needy from the despoiler?"

[11]Malicious witnesses rise up, accuse me of things I do not know.
[12]They repay me evil for good;
my soul is desolate.
[13]Yet I, when they were ill, put on sackcloth,
afflicted myself with fasting,
sobbed my prayers upon my bosom.
[14]I went about in grief as for my brother,
bent in mourning as for my mother.
[15]Yet when I stumbled they gathered with glee, gathered against me and I did not know it.
They slandered me without ceasing;
[16]without respect they mocked me,
gnashed their teeth against me.

[17]O Lord, how long will you look on?
Restore my soul from their destruction,
my very life from lions!
[18]Then I will thank you in the great assembly;
I will praise you before the mighty throng.

[19]Do not let lying foes rejoice over me,
my undeserved enemies wink knowingly.
[20]They speak no words of peace,
but against the quiet in the land
they fashion deceitful speech.
[21]They open wide their mouths against me.
They say, "Aha! Good!
Our eyes have seen it!"
[22]You see this, LORD; do not be silent;
Lord, do not withdraw from me.
[23]Awake, be vigilant in my defense,
in my cause, my God and my Lord.
[24]Defend me because you are just, LORD;
my God, do not let them rejoice over me.
[25]Do not let them say in their hearts,
"Aha! Our soul!"
Do not let them say,
"We have devoured that one!"
[26]Put to shame and confound
all who relish my misfortune.
Clothe with shame and disgrace
those who lord it over me.
[27]But let those who favor my just cause
shout for joy and be glad.
May they ever say, "Exalted be the LORD who delights in the peace of his loyal servant."
[28]Then my tongue shall recount your justice, declare your praise, all the day long.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 6:1-7:1

The Experience of the Ministry. 6:1 Working together, then, we appeal to you not to receive the grace of God in vain. [2]For he says:

"In an acceptable time I heard you,
and on the day of salvation I helped you."

Behold, now is a very acceptable time; behold, now is the day of salvation. [3]We cause no one to stumble in anything, in order that no fault may be found with our ministry; [4]on the contrary, in everything we commend ourselves as ministers of God, through much endurance, in afflictions, hardships, constraints, [5]beatings, imprisonments, riots, labors, vigils, fasts; [6]by purity, knowledge, patience, kindness, in a holy spirit, in unfeigned love, [7]in truthful speech, in the power of God; with weapons of righteousness at the right and at the left; [8]through glory and dishonor, insult and praise. We are treated as deceivers and yet are truthful; [9]as unrecognized and yet acknowledged; as dying and behold we live; as chastised and yet not put to death; [10]as sorrowful yet always rejoicing; as poor yet enriching many; as having nothing and yet possessing all things.

[11]We have spoken frankly to you, Corinthians; our heart is open wide. [12]You are not constrained by us; you are constrained by your own affections. [13]As recompense in kind (I speak as to my children), be open yourselves.

Call to Holiness. [14]Do not be yoked with those who are different, with unbelievers. For what partnership do righteousness and lawlessness have? Or what fellowship does light have with darkness? [15]What accord has Christ with Beliar? Or what has a believer in common with an unbeliever? [16]What agreement has the temple of God with idols? For we are the temple of the living God; as God said:

"I will live with them and move among them,
and I will be their God
and they shall be my people.
[17]Therefore, come forth from them
and be separate," says the Lord,
"and touch nothing unclean;
then I will receive you [18]and I will be a father to you, and you shall be sons and daughters to me,
says the Lord Almighty."

7:1 Since we have these promises, beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from every defilement of flesh and spirit, making holiness perfect in the fear of God.

Do not be afraid of death. Death is only God passing by.

— St. Jeanne-Marie Kerguin

☐ PSALMS 36-39

Human Wickedness and Divine Providence. 36:1 For the leader. Of David, the servant of the LORD.

[2]Sin directs the heart of the wicked man;
his eyes are closed to the fear of God.
[3]For he lives with the delusion:
his guilt will not be known and hated.
[4]Empty and false are the words of his mouth;
he has ceased to be wise and do good.
[5]On his bed he hatches plots;
he sets out on a wicked way;
he does not reject evil.

[6]LORD, your mercy reaches to heaven;
your fidelity, to the clouds.
[7]Your justice is like the highest mountains;
your judgments, like the mighty deep;
human being and beast you sustain, LORD.
[8]How precious is your mercy, O God!
The children of Adam take refuge in the shadow of your wings.
[9]They feast on the rich food of your house;
from your delightful stream you give them drink.

[10]For with you is the fountain of life,
and in your light we see light.
[11]Show mercy on those who know you,
your just defense to the upright of heart.
[12]Do not let the foot of the proud overtake me,
nor the hand of the wicked disturb me.
[13]There make the evildoers fall;
thrust them down, unable to rise.

The Fate of Sinners and the Reward of the Just. 37:1 Of David.

Aleph. Do not be provoked by evildoers;
do not envy those who do wrong.
[2]Like grass they wither quickly;
like green plants they wilt away.

Beth. [3]Trust in the LORD and do good that you may dwell in the land and live secure.
[4]Find your delight in the LORD
who will give you your heart's desire.

Gimel. [5]Commit your way to the LORD;
trust in him and he will act
[6]And make your righteousness shine like the dawn,
your justice like noonday.

Daleth. [7]Be still before the LORD;
wait for him.
Do not be provoked by the prosperous,
nor by malicious schemers.

He. [8]Refrain from anger; abandon wrath;
do not be provoked; it brings only harm.
[9]Those who do evil will be cut off,
but those who wait for the LORD will inherit the earth.

Waw. [10]Wait a little, and the wicked will be no more;
look for them and they will not be there.
[11]But the poor will inherit the earth,
will delight in great prosperity.

Zayin. [12]The wicked plot against the righteous and gnash their teeth at them;
[13]But my Lord laughs at them,
because he sees that their day is coming.

Heth. [14]The wicked unsheath their swords;
they string their bows
To fell the poor and oppressed,
to slaughter those whose way is upright.
[15]Their swords will pierce their own hearts;

their bows will be broken.

Teth. [16]Better the meagerness of the righteous one than the plenty of the wicked.
[17]The arms of the wicked will be broken,
while the LORD will sustain the righteous.

Yodh. [18]The LORD knows the days of the blameless;
their heritage lasts forever.
[19]They will not be ashamed when times are bad;
in days of famine they will be satisfied.

Kaph. [20]The wicked perish,
enemies of the LORD;
They shall be consumed like fattened lambs;
like smoke they disappear.

Lamedh. [21]The wicked one borrows but does not repay;
the righteous one is generous and gives.
[22]For those blessed by the Lord will inherit the earth,
but those accursed will be cut off.

Mem. [23]The valiant one whose steps are guided by the LORD,
who will delight in his way, [24]May stumble, but he will never fall,
for the LORD holds his hand.

Nun. [25]Neither in my youth, nor now in old age have I seen the righteous one abandoned or his offspring begging for bread.
[26] All day long he is gracious and lends,
and his offspring become a blessing.

Samekh. [27]Turn from evil and do good,
that you may be settled forever.
[28]For the LORD loves justice
and does not abandon the faithful.

Ayin. When the unjust are destroyed,
and the offspring of the wicked cut off, [29]The righteous will inherit the earth
and dwell in it forever.

Pe. [30]The mouth of the righteous utters wisdom;
his tongue speaks what is right.
[31]God's teaching is in his heart;
his steps do not falter.

Sadhe. [32]The wicked spies on the righteous and seeks to kill him.
[33]But the LORD does not abandon him in his power,
nor let him be condemned when tried.

Qoph. [34]Wait eagerly for the LORD,
and keep his way;
He will raise you up to inherit the earth;
you will see when the wicked are cut off.

Resh. [35]I have seen a ruthless scoundrel, spreading out like a green cedar.
[36]When I passed by again, he was gone;
though I searched, he could not be found.

Shin. [37]Observe the person of integrity and mark the upright;
Because there is a future for a man of peace.
[38]Sinners will be destroyed together;
the future of the wicked will be cut off.

Taw. [39]The salvation of the righteous is from the LORD,
their refuge in a time of distress.
[40]The LORD helps and rescues them,
rescues and saves them from the wicked,
because they take refuge in him.

Prayer of an Afflicted Sinner. 38:1 A psalm of David. For remembrance.

[2]LORD, do not punish me in your anger;
in your wrath do not chastise me!
[3]Your arrows have sunk deep in me;
your hand has come down upon me.
[4]There is no wholesomeness in my flesh because of your anger;
there is no health in my bones because of my sin.
[5]My iniquities overwhelm me,
a burden too heavy for me.

[6]Foul and festering are my sores because of my folly.
[7]I am stooped and deeply bowed;
every day I go about mourning.
[8]My loins burn with fever;
there is no wholesomeness in my flesh.
[9]I am numb and utterly crushed;
I wail with anguish of heart.
[10]My Lord, my deepest yearning is before you;
my groaning is not hidden from you.
[11]My heart shudders, my strength forsakes me;
the very light of my eyes has failed.
[12]Friends and companions shun my disease;
my neighbors stand far off.
[13]Those who seek my life lay snares for me;
they seek my misfortune, they speak of ruin;
they plot treachery every day.

[14]But I am like the deaf, hearing nothing,

like the mute, I do not open my mouth, 15 I am even like someone who does not hear,
who has no answer ready.
16 LORD, it is for you that I wait;
O Lord, my God, you respond.
17 For I have said that they would gloat over me, exult over me if I stumble.

18 I am very near to falling;
my wounds are with me always.
19 I acknowledge my guilt
and grieve over my sin.
20 My enemies live and grow strong,
those who hate me grow numerous fraudulently, 21 Repaying me evil for good,
accusing me for pursuing good.
22 Do not forsake me, O LORD;
my God, be not far from me!
23 Come quickly to help me,
my Lord and my salvation!

The Vanity of Life. 39:1 For the leader, for Jeduthun. A psalm of David.

2 I said, "I will watch my ways,
lest I sin with my tongue;
I will keep a muzzle on my mouth."
3 Mute and silent before the wicked,
I refrain from good things.
But my sorrow increases;
4 my heart smolders within me.
In my sighing a fire blazes up,
and I break into speech:

5 LORD, let me know my end, the number of my days,
that I may learn how frail I am.
6 To be sure, you establish the expanse of my days;
indeed, my life is as nothing before you.
Every man is but a breath.

Selah

7 Man goes about as a mere phantom;
they hurry about, although in vain;
he heaps up stores without knowing for whom.
8 And now, LORD, for what do I wait?
You are my only hope.
9 From all my sins deliver me;
let me not be the taunt of fools.

10 I am silent and do not open my mouth
because you are the one who did this.
11 Take your plague away from me;

I am ravaged by the touch of your hand.
[12]You chastise man with rebukes for sin;
like a moth you consume his treasures.
Every man is but a breath.

Selah

[13]Listen to my prayer, LORD, hear my cry;
do not be deaf to my weeping!
For I am with you like a foreigner,
a refugee, like my ancestors.
[14]Turn your gaze from me, that I may smile
before I depart to be no more.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 7:2-16

7:2 Make room for us; we have not wronged anyone, or ruined anyone, or taken advantage of anyone. [3]I do not say this in condemnation, for I have already said that you are in our hearts, that we may die together and live together. [4]I have great confidence in you, I have great pride in you; I am filled with encouragement, I am overflowing with joy all the more because of all our affliction.

Paul's Joy in Macedonia. [5]For even when we came into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were afflicted in every way—external conflicts, internal fears. [6]But God, who encourages the downcast, encouraged us by the arrival of Titus, [7]and not only by his arrival but also by the encouragement with which he was encouraged in regard to you, as he told us of your yearning, your lament, your zeal for me, so that I rejoiced even more. [8]For even if I saddened you by my letter, I do not regret it; and if I did regret it ([for] I see that that letter saddened you, if only for a while), [9]I rejoice now, not because you were saddened, but because you were saddened into repentance; for you were saddened in a godly way, so that you did not suffer loss in anything because of us. [10]For godly sorrow produces a salutary repentance without regret, but worldly sorrow produces death. [11]For behold what earnestness this godly sorrow has produced for you, as well as readiness for a defense, and indignation, and fear, and yearning, and zeal, and punishment. In every way you have shown yourselves to be innocent in the matter. [12]So then even though I wrote to you, it was not on account of the one who did the wrong, or on account of the one who suffered the wrong, but in order that your concern for us might be made plain to you in the sight of God. [13]For this reason we are encouraged.

And besides our encouragement, we rejoice even more because of the joy of Titus, since his spirit has been refreshed by all of you. [14]For if I have boasted to him about you, I was not put to shame. No, just as everything we said to you was true, so our boasting before Titus proved to be the truth. [15]And his heart goes out to you all the more, as he remembers the obedience of all of you, when you received him with fear and trembling. [16]I rejoice, because I have confidence in you in every respect.

St. Augustine Zhao Rong and Companions; St. Veronica Giuliani

Love makes the heart leap and dance. Love makes it exult and be festive. Love makes it sing and be silent as it pleases. Love grants it rest and enables it to act. Love possesses it and gives it everything. Love takes it over completely and dwells in it. And Holy Communion is a mansion of love.

— St. Veronica Giuliani

☐ PSALMS 40-44

Gratitude and Prayer for Help. 40:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]Surely, I wait for the LORD;
who bends down to me and hears my cry,
[3]Draws me up from the pit of destruction,
out of the muddy clay,
Sets my feet upon rock,
steadies my steps,
[4]And puts a new song in my mouth,
a hymn to our God.
Many shall look on in fear
and they shall trust in the LORD.
[5]Blessed the man who sets
his security in the LORD, who turns not to the arrogant
or to those who stray after falsehood.
[6]You, yes you, O LORD, my God,
have done many wondrous deeds!
And in your plans for us
there is none to equal you.
Should I wish to declare or tell them,
too many are they to recount.
[7]Sacrifice and offering you do not want;
you opened my ears.
Holocaust and sin-offering you do not request;
[8]so I said, "See; I come with an inscribed scroll written upon me.
[9]I delight to do your will, my God;
your law is in my inner being!"
[10]When I sing of your righteousness
in a great assembly,
See, I do not restrain my lips;
as you, LORD, know.
[11]I do not conceal your righteousness
within my heart;
I speak of your loyalty and your salvation.
I do not hide your mercy or faithfulness from a great assembly.
[12]LORD, may you not withhold
your compassion from me;
May your mercy and your faithfulness continually protect me.

[13]But evils surround me
until they cannot be counted.
My sins overtake me,
so that I can no longer see.
They are more numerous than the hairs of my head;
my courage fails me.
[14]LORD, graciously rescue me!
Come quickly to help me, LORD!
[15]May those who seek to destroy my life
be shamed and confounded.

Turn back in disgrace
those who desire my ruin.
16 Let those who say to me "Aha!"
Be made desolate on account of their shame.
17 While those who seek you
rejoice and be glad in you.
May those who long for your salvation always say, "The LORD is great."
18 Though I am afflicted and poor,
my Lord keeps me in mind.
You are my help and deliverer;
my God, do not delay!

Thanksgiving After Sickness. 41:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

2 Blessed the one concerned for the poor;
on a day of misfortune, the LORD delivers him.
3 The LORD keeps and preserves him,
makes him blessed in the land,
and does not betray him to his enemies.
4 The LORD sustains him on his sickbed,
you turn down his bedding whenever he is ill.

5 Even I have said, "LORD, take note of me;
heal me, although I have sinned against you.
6 My enemies say bad things against me:
'When will he die and his name be forgotten?'
7 When someone comes to visit me, he speaks without sincerity.
His heart stores up malice;
when he leaves, he gossips.
8 All those who hate me whisper together against me;
they imagine the worst about me:
9 'He has had ruin poured over him;
that one lying down will never rise again.'
10 Even my trusted friend,
who ate my bread,
has raised his heel against me.
11 "But you, LORD, take note of me to raise me up that I may repay them."

12 By this I will know you are pleased with me,
that my enemy no longer shouts in triumph over me.
13 In my integrity may you support me
and let me stand in your presence forever.
14 Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from all eternity and forever.
Amen. Amen.

Longing for God's Presence in the Temple. 42:1 For the leader. A maskil of the Korahites.

[2]As the deer longs for streams of water,
so my soul longs for you, O God.
[3]My soul thirsts for God, the living God.
When can I enter and see the face of God?
[4]My tears have been my bread day and night,
as they ask me every day, “Where is your God?”
[5]Those times I recall
as I pour out my soul,
When I would cross over to the shrine of the Mighty One,
to the house of God,
Amid loud cries of thanksgiving,
with the multitude keeping festival.
[6]Why are you downcast, my soul;
why do you groan within me?
Wait for God, for I shall again praise him,
my savior and my God.

[7]My soul is downcast within me;
therefore I remember you
From the land of the Jordan and Hermon,
from Mount Mizar, [8]Deep calls to deep
in the roar of your torrents,
and all your waves and breakers sweep over me.
[9] By day may the LORD send his mercy,
and by night may his righteousness be with me!
I will pray to the God of my life,
[10]I will say to God, my rock:
“Why do you forget me?
Why must I go about mourning

with the enemy oppressing me?"
[11]It shatters my bones, when my adversaries reproach me, when they say to me every day: "Where is your God?"
[12]Why are you downcast, my soul,
why do you groan within me?
Wait for God, for I shall again praise him,
my savior and my God.

43:1 Grant me justice, O God;
defend me from a faithless people;
from the deceitful and unjust rescue me.
[2]You, O God, are my strength.
Why then do you spurn me?
Why must I go about mourning,
with the enemy oppressing me?
[3]Send your light and your fidelity,
that they may be my guide;
Let them bring me to your holy mountain,
to the place of your dwelling,
[4]That I may come to the altar of God,
to God, my joy, my delight.
Then I will praise you with the harp,
O God, my God.
[5]Why are you downcast, my soul?
Why do you groan within me?
Wait for God, for I shall again praise him,
my savior and my God.

God's Past Favor and Israel's Present Need. 44:1 For the leader. A maskil of the Korahites.

[2]O God, we have heard with our own ears;
our ancestors have told us
The deeds you did in their days,
with your own hand in days of old:
[3]You rooted out nations to plant them,
crushed peoples and expelled them.
[4]Not with their own swords did they conquer the land,
nor did their own arms bring victory;
It was your right hand, your own arm,
the light of your face for you favored them.
[5]You are my king and my God,
who bestows victories on Jacob.
[6]Through you we batter our foes;
through your name we trample our adversaries.
[7]Not in my bow do I trust,
nor does my sword bring me victory.
[8]You have brought us victory over our enemies,
shamed those who hate us.
[9]In God we have boasted all the day long;
your name we will praise forever.

Selah

[10] But now you have rejected and disgraced us;
you do not march out with our armies.
[11]You make us retreat before the foe;
those who hate us plunder us at will.
[12]You hand us over like sheep to be slaughtered,
scatter us among the nations.
[13]You sell your people for nothing;
you make no profit from their sale.
[14]You make us the reproach of our neighbors,
the mockery and scorn of those around us.
[15]You make us a byword among the nations;
the peoples shake their heads at us.
[16]All day long my disgrace is before me;
shame has covered my face [17]At the sound of those who taunt and revile,
at the sight of the enemy and avenger.

[18]All this has come upon us,
though we have not forgotten you,
nor been disloyal to your covenant.
[19]Our hearts have not turned back,
nor have our steps strayed from your path.
[20]Yet you have left us crushed,
desolate in a place of jackals;
you have covered us with a shadow of death.
[21]If we had forgotten the name of our God,
stretched out our hands to another god, [22]Would not God have discovered this,
God who knows the secrets of the heart?
[23]For you we are slain all the day long,
considered only as sheep to be slaughtered.

[24]Awake! Why do you sleep, O Lord?
Rise up! Do not reject us forever!
[25]Why do you hide your face;
why forget our pain and misery?
[26]For our soul has been humiliated in the dust;
our belly is pressed to the earth.
[27]Rise up, help us!
Redeem us in your mercy.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 8

Generosity in Giving. 8:1 We want you to know, brothers, of the grace of God that has been given to the churches of Macedonia, [2]for in a severe test of affliction, the abundance of their joy and their profound poverty overflowed in a wealth of generosity on their part. [3]For according to their means, I can testify, and beyond their means, spontaneously, [4]they begged us insistently for the favor of taking part in the service to the holy ones, [5]and this, not as we expected, but they gave themselves first to the Lord and to us through the will of God, [6]so that we urged Titus that, as he had already begun, he should also complete for you this gracious act also. [7]Now as you excel in every respect, in faith, discourse, knowledge, all earnestness, and in the love we have for you, may you excel in this gracious act also.

[8]I say this not by way of command, but to test the genuineness of your love by your concern for others. [9]For you know the gracious act of our Lord Jesus Christ, that for your sake he became poor although he was rich, so that by his poverty you might become rich. [10]And I am giving counsel in this matter, for it is appropriate for you who began not only to act but to act willingly last year: [11]complete it now, so that your eager willingness may be matched by your completion of it out of what you have. [12]For if the eagerness is there, it is acceptable according to what one has, not according to what one does not have; [13]not that others should have relief while you are burdened, but that as a matter of equality [14]your surplus at the present time should supply their needs, so that their surplus may also supply your needs, that there may be equality. [15]As it is written:

"Whoever had much did not have more,
and whoever had little did not have less."

Titus and His Collaborators. [16]But thanks be to God who put the same concern for you into the heart of Titus, [17]for he not only welcomed our appeal but, since he is very concerned, he has gone to you of his own accord. [18]With him we have sent the brother who is praised in all the churches for his preaching of the gospel. [19]And not only that, but he has also been appointed our traveling companion by the churches in this gracious work administered by us for the glory of the Lord [himself] and for the expression of our eagerness. [20]This we desire to avoid, that anyone blame us about this lavish gift administered by us, [21]for we are concerned for what is honorable not only in the sight of the Lord but also in the sight of others. [22]And with them we have sent our brother whom we often tested in many ways and found earnest, but who is now much more earnest because of his great confidence in you. [23]As for Titus, he is my partner and co-worker for you; as for our brothers, they are apostles of the churches, the glory of Christ. [24]So give proof before the churches of your love and of our boasting about you to them.

> If you are not yet capable of laying down your life for your brother, you are at least capable of sharing some of your goods with him. For if you cannot even give out of your abundance to someone in need, how could you possibly lay down your life for anyone?

☐ PSALMS 45-49

Song for a Royal Wedding. 45:1 For the leader; according to "Lilies." A maskil of the Korahites. A love song.

[2]My heart is stirred by a noble theme,
as I sing my ode to the king.
My tongue is the pen of a nimble scribe.

[3]You are the most handsome of men;
fair speech has graced your lips,
for God has blessed you forever.
[4]Gird your sword upon your hip, mighty warrior!
In splendor and majesty ride on triumphant!
[5]In the cause of truth, meekness, and justice
may your right hand show your wondrous deeds.
[6]Your arrows are sharp;

peoples will cower at your feet;
the king's enemies will lose heart.
[7]Your throne, O God, stands forever;
your royal scepter is a scepter for justice.
[8]You love justice and hate wrongdoing;
therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness above your fellow kings.
[9]With myrrh, aloes, and cassia
your robes are fragrant.
From ivory-paneled palaces
stringed instruments bring you joy.
[10]Daughters of kings are your lovely wives;
a princess arrayed in Ophir's gold comes to stand at your right hand.

[11]Listen, my daughter, and understand;
pay me careful heed.
Forget your people and your father's house,
[12]that the king might desire your beauty.
He is your lord;
[13]honor him, daughter of Tyre.
Then the richest of the people will seek your favor with gifts.
[14]All glorious is the king's daughter as she enters,
her raiment threaded with gold;
[15]In embroidered apparel she is led to the king.
The maids of her train are presented to the king.
[16]They are led in with glad and joyous acclaim;
they enter the palace of the king.

[17]The throne of your fathers your sons will have;
you shall make them princes through all the land.
[18]I will make your name renowned through all generations;
thus nations shall praise you forever.

God, the Protector of Zion. 46:1 For the leader. A song of the Korahites. According to alamoth.

[2]God is our refuge and our strength,
an ever-present help in distress.
[3]Thus we do not fear, though earth be shaken
and mountains quake to the depths of the sea, [4]Though its waters rage and foam
and mountains totter at its surging.

Selah

[5]Streams of the river gladden the city of God,
the holy dwelling of the Most High.
[6]God is in its midst; it shall not be shaken;
God will help it at break of day.
[7]Though nations rage and kingdoms totter,

he utters his voice and the earth melts.
[8]The LORD of hosts is with us;
our stronghold is the God of Jacob.

Selah

[9]Come and see the works of the LORD,
who has done fearsome deeds on earth;
[10]Who stops wars to the ends of the earth,
breaks the bow, splinters the spear,
and burns the shields with fire;
[11]"Be still and know that I am God!
I am exalted among the nations,
exalted on the earth."
[12]The LORD of hosts is with us;
our stronghold is the God of Jacob.

Selah

The Ruler of All the Nations. 47:1 For the leader. A psalm of the Korahites.

[2]All you peoples, clap your hands;
shout to God with joyful cries.
[3]For the LORD, the Most High, is to be feared,
the great king over all the earth,
[4]Who made people subject to us,
nations under our feet,
[5]Who chose our heritage for us,
the glory of Jacob, whom he loves.

Selah

[6]God has gone up with a shout;
the LORD, amid trumpet blasts.
[7]Sing praise to God, sing praise;
sing praise to our king, sing praise.

[8]For God is king over all the earth;
sing hymns of praise.
[9]God rules over the nations;
God sits upon his holy throne.
[10]The princes of the peoples assemble with the people of the God of Abraham.
For the shields of the earth belong to God,
highly exalted.

The Splendor of the Invincible City. 48:1 A psalm of the Korahites. A song.

[2]Great is the LORD and highly praised
in the city of our God:
His holy mountain,
[3]fairest of heights,
the joy of all the earth,

Mount Zion, the heights of Zaphon,
the city of the great king.

[4]God is in its citadel,
renowned as a stronghold.
[5]See! The kings assembled, together they advanced.
[6]When they looked they were astounded;
terrified, they were put to flight!
[7]Trembling seized them there,
anguish, like a woman's labor, [8]As when the east wind wrecks
the ships of Tarshish!

[9]What we had heard we have now seen in the city of the LORD of hosts,
In the city of our God,
which God establishes forever.

Selah

[10]We ponder, O God, your mercy
within your temple
[11]Like your name, O God,
so is your praise to the ends of the earth.
Your right hand is fully victorious.
[12]Mount Zion is glad!
The daughters of Judah rejoice
because of your judgments!

[13]Go about Zion, walk all around it,
note the number of its towers.
[14]Consider the ramparts, examine its citadels,
that you may tell future generations:
[15]That this is God,
our God for ever and ever.
He will lead us until death.

Confidence in God Rather than in Riches. 49:1 For the leader. A psalm of the Korahites.
[2]Hear this, all you peoples!
Give ear, all who inhabit the world,
[3]You of lowly birth or high estate,
rich and poor together.
[4]My mouth shall speak words of wisdom,
my heart shall offer insights.
[5]I will turn my ear to a riddle,
expound my question on a lyre.

[6]Why should I fear in evil days,
with the iniquity of my assailants surrounding me, [7]Of those who trust in their wealth and boast of their abundant riches?

[8]No man can ransom even a brother,
or pay to God his own ransom.
[9]The redemption of his soul is costly;
and he will pass away forever.
[10]Will he live on forever, then,
and never see the Pit of Corruption?
[11]Indeed, he will see that the wise die,
and the fool will perish together with the senseless,
and they leave their wealth to others.
[12]Their tombs are their homes forever,
their dwellings through all generations,
"They named countries after themselves"
[13]—but man does not abide in splendor.
He is like the beasts—they perish.

[14]This is the way of those who trust in themselves, and the end of those who take pleasure in their own mouth.

Selah

[15]Like a herd of sheep they will be put into Sheol, and Death will shepherd them.
Straight to the grave they descend,
where their form will waste away,
Sheol will be their palace.
[16]But God will redeem my life,
will take me from the hand of Sheol.

Selah

[17]Do not fear when a man becomes rich,
when the wealth of his house grows great.
[18]At his death he will not take along anything,
his glory will not go down after him.
[19]During his life his soul uttered blessings;
"They will praise you, for you do well for yourself."
[20]But he will join the company of his fathers, never again to see the light.
[21]In his prime, man does not understand.
He is like the beasts—they perish.

God's Indescribable Gift. 9:1 Now about the service to the holy ones, it is superfluous for me to write to you, [2]for I know your eagerness, about which I boast of you to the Macedonians, that Achaia has been ready since last year; and your zeal has stirred up most of them. [3]Nonetheless, I sent the brothers so that our boast about you might not prove empty in this case, so that you might be ready, as I said, [4]for fear that if any Macedonians come with me and find you not ready we might be put to shame (to say nothing of you) in this conviction. [5]So I thought it necessary to encourage the brothers to go on ahead to you and arrange in advance for your promised gift, so that in this way it might be ready as a bountiful gift and not as an exaction.

[6]Consider this: whoever sows sparingly will also reap sparingly, and whoever sows bountifully will also reap bountifully. [7]Each must do as already determined, without sadness or compulsion, for God loves a cheerful giver. [8]Moreover, God is able to make every grace abundant for you, so that in all things, always having all you need, you may have an abundance for every good work. [9]As it is written:

"He scatters abroad, he gives to the poor;
his righteousness endures forever."

[10]The one who supplies seed to the sower and bread for food will supply and multiply your seed and increase the harvest of your righteousness.

[11]You are being enriched in every way for all generosity, which through us produces thanksgiving to God, [12]for the administration of this public service is not only supplying the needs of the holy ones but is also overflowing in many acts of thanksgiving to God. [13]Through the evidence of this service, you are glorifying God for your obedient confession of the gospel of Christ and the generosity of your contribution to them and to all others, [14]while in prayer on your behalf they long for you, because of the surpassing grace of God upon you. [15]Thanks be to God for his indescribable gift!

☐ PSALMS 50-54

The Acceptable Sacrifice. 50:1 A psalm of Asaph.

The God of gods, the LORD,
has spoken and summoned the earth
from the rising of the sun to its setting.
[2]From Zion, the perfection of beauty,
God shines forth.
[3]Our God comes and will not be silent!
Devouring fire precedes him,
it rages strongly around him.
[4]He calls to the heavens above
and to the earth to judge his people:
[5]"Gather my loyal ones to me,
those who made a covenant with me by sacrifice."
[6]The heavens proclaim his righteousness,
for God himself is the judge.

Selah

[7]"Listen, my people, I will speak;
Israel, I will testify against you;
God, your God, am I.
[8]Not for your sacrifices do I rebuke you,
your burnt offerings are always before me.
[9]I will not take a bullock from your house,
or he-goats from your folds.
[10]For every animal of the forest is mine,
beasts by the thousands on my mountains.
[11]I know every bird in the heights;
whatever moves in the wild is mine.

[12]Were I hungry, I would not tell you,
for mine is the world and all that fills it.
[13]Do I eat the flesh of bulls
or drink the blood of he-goats?
[14]Offer praise as your sacrifice to God;
fulfill your vows to the Most High.
[15]Then call on me on the day of distress;
I will rescue you, and you shall honor me."

[16]But to the wicked God says:
"Why do you recite my commandments
and profess my covenant with your mouth?
[17]You hate discipline;
you cast my words behind you!
[18]If you see a thief, you run with him;
with adulterers you throw in your lot.
[19]You give your mouth free rein for evil;
you yoke your tongue to deceit.
[20]You sit and speak against your brother,
slandering your mother's son.
[21]When you do these things should I be silent?
Do you think that I am like you?
I accuse you, I lay out the matter before your eyes.

[22]"Now understand this, you who forget God,
lest I start ripping apart and there be no rescuer.
[23]Those who offer praise as a sacrifice honor me;
I will let him whose way is steadfast
look upon the salvation of God."

The Miserere: Prayer of Repentance. 51:1 For the leader. A psalm of David, [2]when Nathan the prophet came to him after he had gone in to Bathsheba.

[3]Have mercy on me, God, in accord with your merciful love;
in your abundant compassion blot out my transgressions.
[4]Thoroughly wash away my guilt;
and from my sin cleanse me.
[5]For I know my transgressions;
my sin is always before me.
[6]Against you, you alone have I sinned;
I have done what is evil in your eyes
So that you are just in your word,
and without reproach in your judgment.
[7]Behold, I was born in guilt,
in sin my mother conceived me.
[8]Behold, you desire true sincerity;
and secretly you teach me wisdom.
[9]Cleanse me with hyssop, that I may be pure;
wash me, and I will be whiter than snow.
[10]You will let me hear gladness and joy;

the bones you have crushed will rejoice.

[11]Turn away your face from my sins;
blot out all my iniquities.
[12]A clean heart create for me, God;
renew within me a steadfast spirit.
[13]Do not drive me from before your face,
nor take from me your holy spirit.
[14]Restore to me the gladness of your salvation;
uphold me with a willing spirit.
[15]I will teach the wicked your ways,
that sinners may return to you.
[16]Rescue me from violent bloodshed, God, my saving God,
and my tongue will sing joyfully of your justice.
[17]Lord, you will open my lips;
and my mouth will proclaim your praise.
[18]For you do not desire sacrifice or I would give it;
a burnt offering you would not accept.
[19]My sacrifice, O God, is a contrite spirit;
a contrite, humbled heart, O God, you will not scorn.
[20]Treat Zion kindly according to your good will;
build up the walls of Jerusalem.
[21]Then you will desire the sacrifices of the just,
burnt offering and whole offerings;
then they will offer up young bulls on your altar.

The Deceitful Tongue. 52:1 For the leader. A maskil of David, [2]when Doeg the Edomite entered and reported to Saul, saying to him: "David has entered the house of Ahimelech."

[3]Why do you glory in what is evil, you who are mighty by the mercy of God?
All day long
[4]you are thinking up intrigues;
your tongue is like a sharpened razor,
you worker of deceit.
[5]You love evil more than good,
lying rather than saying what is right.

Selah

[6]You love all the words that create confusion,
you deceitful tongue.

[7]God too will strike you down forever,
he will lay hold of you and pluck you from your tent,
uproot you from the land of the living.

Selah

[8]The righteous will see and they will fear;
but they will laugh at him:
[9]"Behold the man! He did not take God as his refuge,
but he trusted in the abundance of his wealth,
and grew powerful through his wickedness."
[10]But I, like an olive tree flourishing in the house of God,

I trust in God's mercy forever and ever.
[11]I will thank you forever
for what you have done.
I will put my hope in your name—for it is good,
—in the presence of those devoted to you.

A Lament over Widespread Corruption. 53:1 For the leader; according to Mahalath. A maskil of David.

[2]The fool says in his heart,
"There is no God."
They act corruptly and practice injustice;
there is none that does good.
[3]God looks out from the heavens
upon the children of Adam,
To see if there is a discerning person who is seeking God.
[4]All have gone astray;
each one is altogether perverse.
There is not one who does what is good, not even one.

[5]Do they not know better, those who do evil,
who feed upon my people as they feed upon bread?
Have they not called upon God?
[6]They are going to fear his name with great fear,
though they had not feared it before.
For God will scatter the bones
of those encamped against you.
They will surely be put to shame,
for God has rejected them.
[7]Who will bring forth from Zion
the salvation of Israel?
When God reverses the captivity of his people
Jacob will rejoice and Israel will be glad.

Confident Prayer in Great Peril. 54:1 For the leader. On stringed instruments. A maskil of David, [2]when the Ziphites came and said to Saul, "David is hiding among us."

[3]O God, by your name save me.
By your strength defend my cause.
[4]O God, hear my prayer.
Listen to the words of my mouth.
[5]Strangers have risen against me;
the ruthless seek my life;
they do not keep God before them.

Selah

[6]God is present as my helper;
the Lord sustains my life.
[7]Turn back the evil upon my foes;
in your faithfulness, destroy them.

[8]Then I will offer you generous sacrifice and give thanks to your name, LORD, for it is good.
[9]Because it has rescued me from every trouble,
and my eyes look down on my foes.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 10

Accusation of Weakness. 10:1 Now I myself, Paul, urge you through the gentleness and clemency of Christ, I who am humble when face to face with you, but brave toward you when absent, [2]I beg you that, when present, I may not have to be brave with that confidence with which I intend to act boldly against some who consider us as acting according to the flesh. [3]For, although we are in the flesh, we do not battle according to the flesh, [4]for the weapons of our battle are not of flesh but are enormously powerful, capable of destroying fortresses. We destroy arguments [5]and every pretension raising itself against the knowledge of God, and take every thought captive in obedience to Christ, [6]and we are ready to punish every disobedience, once your obedience is complete.

[7]Look at what confronts you. Whoever is confident of belonging to Christ should consider that as he belongs to Christ, so do we. [8]And even if I should boast a little too much of our authority, which the Lord gave for building you up and not for tearing you down, I shall not be put to shame. [9]May I not seem as one frightening you through letters. [10]For someone will say, "His letters are severe and forceful, but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible." [11]Such a person must understand that what we are in word through letters when absent, that we also are in action when present.

[12]Not that we dare to class or compare ourselves with some of those who recommend themselves. But when they measure themselves by one another and compare themselves with one another, they are without understanding. [13]But we will not boast beyond measure but will keep to the limits God has apportioned us, namely, to reach even to you. [14]For we are not overreaching ourselves, as though we did not reach you; we indeed first came to you with the gospel of Christ. [15]We are not boasting beyond measure, in other people's labors; yet our hope is that, as your faith increases, our influence among you may be greatly enlarged, within our proper limits, [16]so that we may preach the gospel even beyond you, not boasting of work already done in another's sphere. [17]"Whoever boasts, should boast in the Lord." [18]For it is not the one who recommends himself who is approved, but the one whom the Lord recommends.

> I urge you, therefore — not I, but the love of Jesus Christ — eat only Christian food. Keep away from strange fare, by which I mean heresy. For heretics mix Jesus Christ with their teachings, speaking things unworthy of belief. It is as if they were giving a deadly poison mixed with sweetened wine, so that the unsuspecting victim readily accepts it and drinks his own death with fatal pleasure.

☐ PSALMS 55-60

A Lament over Betrayal.* 55:1 For the leader. On stringed instruments. A maskil of David.

[2]Listen, God, to my prayer;
do not hide from my pleading;
[3]hear me and give answer.
I rock with grief; I groan
[4]at the uproar of the enemy,
the clamor of the wicked.
They heap trouble upon me,

savagely accuse me.
[5]My heart pounds within me;
death's terrors fall upon me.
[6]Fear and trembling overwhelm me;
shuddering sweeps over me.
[7]I say, "If only I had wings like a dove
that I might fly away and find rest.
[8]Far away I would flee;
I would stay in the desert.
[9]"I would soon find a shelter
from the raging wind and storm."

[10]Lord, check and confuse their tongues.
For I see violence and strife in the city [11]making rounds on its walls day and night.
Within are mischief and trouble;
[12]treachery is in its midst;
oppression and fraud never leave its streets.
[13]For it is not an enemy that reviled me—
that I could bear—
Not a foe who viewed me with contempt,
from that I could hide.
[14]But it was you, my other self,
my comrade and friend,
[15]You, whose company I enjoyed,
at whose side I walked in the house of God.

[16]Let death take them;
let them go down alive to Sheol,
for evil is in their homes and bellies.
[17]But I will call upon God,
and the LORD will save me.
[18]At dusk, dawn, and noon
I will grieve and complain,
and my prayer will be heard.
[19]He will redeem my soul in peace
from those who war against me,
though there are many who oppose me.
[20]God, who sits enthroned forever,
will hear me and afflict them.

Selah

For they will not mend their ways;
they have no fear of God.
[21]He stretched out his hand at his friends and broke his covenant.
[22]Softer than butter is his speech,
but war is in his heart.
Smoother than oil are his words,
but they are unsheathed swords.

[23]Cast your care upon the LORD,
who will give you support.
He will never allow
the righteous to stumble.
[24]But you, God, will bring them down to the pit of destruction.
These bloodthirsty liars
will not live half their days,
but I put my trust in you.

Trust in God. 56:1 For the director. According to Yonath elem rehoqim. A miktam of David, when the Philistines seized him at Gath.

[2]Have mercy on me, God,
for I am treated harshly;
attackers press me all the day.
[3]My foes treat me harshly all the day;
yes, many are my attackers.
O Most High,[4]when I am afraid,
in you I place my trust.
[5]I praise the word of God;
I trust in God, I do not fear.
What can mere flesh do to me?

[6]All the day they foil my plans;
their every thought is of evil against me.
[7]They hide together in ambush;
they watch my every step;
they lie in wait for my life.
[8]They are evil; watch them, God!
Cast the nations down in your anger!
[9]My wanderings you have noted;
are my tears not stored in your flask,
recorded in your book?
[10]My foes turn back when I call on you.
This I know: God is on my side.
[11]I praise the word of God,
I praise the word of the LORD.
[12]In God I trust, I do not fear.
What can man do to me?

[13]I have made vows to you, God;
with offerings I will fulfill them, [14]For you have snatched me from death,
kept my feet from stumbling,
That I may walk before God
in the light of the living.

Confident Prayer for Deliverance. 57:1 For the director. Do not destroy. A miktam of David, when he fled from Saul into a cave.

[2]Have mercy on me, God,
have mercy on me.
In you I seek refuge.
In the shadow of your wings I seek refuge till harm pass by.
[3]I call to God Most High,
to God who provides for me.
[4]May God send help from heaven to save me,
shame those who trample upon me.
May God send fidelity and mercy.

Selah

[5]I must lie down in the midst of lions hungry for human prey.
Their teeth are spears and arrows;
their tongue, a sharpened sword.
[6]Be exalted over the heavens, God;
may your glory appear above all the earth.

[7]They have set a trap for my feet;
my soul is bowed down;
They have dug a pit before me.
May they fall into it themselves!

Selah

[8]My heart is steadfast, God,
my heart is steadfast.
I will sing and chant praise.
[9]Awake, my soul;
awake, lyre and harp!
I will wake the dawn.
[10]I will praise you among the peoples, Lord;
I will chant your praise among the nations.
[11]For your mercy towers to the heavens;
your faithfulness reaches to the skies.
[12]Exalt yourself over the heavens, God;
may your glory appear above all the earth.

The Dethroning of Unjust Rulers. 58:1 For the leader. Do not destroy. A miktam of David.

[2]Do you indeed pronounce justice, O gods;
do you judge fairly you children of Adam?
[3]No, you freely engage in crime;
your hands dispense violence to the earth.

[4]The wicked have been corrupt since birth;
liars from the womb, they have gone astray.
[5]Their venom is like the venom of a snake,
like that of a serpent stopping its ears,
[6]So as not to hear the voice of the charmer
or the enchanter with cunning spells.

[7]O God, smash the teeth in their mouths;
break the fangs of these lions, LORD!
[8]Make them vanish like water flowing away;
trodden down, let them wither like grass.
[9]Let them dissolve like a snail that oozes away,
like an untimely birth that never sees the sun.
[10]Suddenly, like brambles or thistles,
have the whirlwind snatch them away.
[11]Then the just shall rejoice to see the vengeance
and bathe their feet in the blood of the wicked.
[12]Then people will say:
"Truly there is a reward for the just;
there is a God who is judge on earth!"

Complaint Against Bloodthirsty Enemies. 59:1 For the director. Do not destroy. A miktam of David, when Saul sent people to watch his house and kill him.

[2]Rescue me from my enemies, my God;
lift me out of reach of my foes.
[3]Deliver me from evildoers;
from the bloodthirsty save me.
[4]They have set an ambush for my life;
the powerful conspire against me.
For no offense or misdeed of mine, LORD,
[5]for no fault they hurry to take up arms.
Come near and see my plight!
[6]You, LORD God of hosts, are the God of Israel!
Awake! Punish all the nations.
Have no mercy on these worthless traitors.

Selah

[7]Each evening they return,
growling like dogs, prowling the city.
[8]Their mouths pour out insult;
sharp words are on their lips.
They say: "Who is there to hear?"
[9]But you, LORD, laugh at them;
you deride all the nations.
[10]My strength, for you I watch;
you, God, are my fortress,
[11]my loving God.

May God go before me,
and show me my fallen foes.
[12]Slay them, God,
lest they deceive my people.
Shake them by your power;
Lord, our shield, bring them down.
[13]For the sinful words of their mouths and lips
let them be caught in their pride.
For the lies they have told under oath

[14]destroy them in anger, destroy till they are no more.
Then people will know God rules over Jacob,
yes, even to the ends of the earth.

Selah

[15]Each evening they return,
growling like dogs, prowling the city.
[16]They roam about as scavengers;
if they are not filled, they howl.

[17]But I shall sing of your strength,
extol your mercy at dawn,
For you are my fortress,
my refuge in time of trouble.
[18]My strength, your praise I will sing;
you, God, are my fortress, my loving God.

Lament After Defeat in Battle. 60:1 For the leader; according to "The Lily of…" A miktam of David (for teaching), [2]when he fought against Aram-Naharaim and Aram-Zobah; and Joab, coming back, killed twelve thousand Edomites in the Valley of Salt.

[3]O God, you rejected us, broke our defenses;
you were angry but now revive us.
[4]You rocked the earth, split it open;
repair the cracks for it totters.
[5]You made your people go through hardship,
made us stagger from the wine you gave us.
[6]Raise up a banner for those who revere you,
a refuge for them out of bow shot.

Selah

[7]Help with your right hand and answer us
that your loved ones may escape.

[8]In the sanctuary God promised:
"I will exult, will apportion Shechem;
the valley of Succoth I will measure out.
[9]Gilead is mine, mine is Manasseh;
Ephraim is the helmet for my head,
Judah, my own scepter.
[10]Moab is my washbowl;
upon Edom I cast my sandal.
I will triumph over Philistia."

[11]Who will bring me to the fortified city?
Who will lead me into Edom?
[12]Was it not you who rejected us, God?
Do you no longer march with our armies?
[13]Give us aid against the foe;
worthless is human help.
[14]We will triumph with the help of God,

who will trample down our foes.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 11:1-15

Preaching without Charge. 11:1 If only you would put up with a little foolishness from me! Please put up with me.
[2]For I am jealous of you with the jealousy of God, since I betrothed you to one husband to present you as a chaste virgin to Christ. [3]But I am afraid that, as the serpent deceived Eve by his cunning, your thoughts may be corrupted from a sincere [and pure] commitment to Christ. [4]For if someone comes and preaches another Jesus than the one we preached, or if you receive a different spirit from the one you received or a different gospel from the one you accepted, you put up with it well enough. [5]For I think that I am not in any way inferior to these "superapostles." [6]Even if I am untrained in speaking, I am not so in knowledge; in every way we have made this plain to you in all things.

[7]Did I make a mistake when I humbled myself so that you might be exalted, because I preached the gospel of God to you without charge? [8]I plundered other churches by accepting from them in order to minister to you. [9]And when I was with you and in need, I did not burden anyone, for the brothers who came from Macedonia supplied my needs. So I refrained and will refrain from burdening you in any way. [10]By the truth of Christ in me, this boast of mine shall not be silenced in the regions of Achaia. [11]And why? Because I do not love you? God knows I do!

[12]And what I do I will continue to do, in order to end this pretext of those who seek a pretext for being regarded as we are in the mission of which they boast. [13]For such people are false apostles, deceitful workers, who masquerade as apostles of Christ. [14]And no wonder, for even Satan masquerades as an angel of light. [15]So it is not strange that his ministers also masquerade as ministers of righteousness. Their end will correspond to their deeds.

St. Henry; St. Teresa of the Andes

There will never be any separation between our souls. I will live in Him. Search for Jesus, and in Him you'll find me. There, the three of us will continue our intimate conversations, the ones we'll be carrying on there forever in eternity.

— St. Teresa of the Andes (to a friend)

☐ PSALMS 61-66

Prayer of the King in Time of Danger. 61:1 For the leader; with stringed instruments. Of David.

[2]Hear my cry, O God,
listen to my prayer!
[3]From the ends of the earth I call;
my heart grows faint.
Raise me up, set me on a rock,
[4]for you are my refuge,
a tower of strength against the foe.
[5]Let me dwell in your tent forever, take refuge in the shelter of your wings.

Selah

[6]For you, O God, have heard my vows, you have granted me the heritage of those who revere your name.
[7]Add days to the life of the king;
may his years be as from generation to generation;
[8]May he reign before God forever;

send your love and fidelity to preserve him—[9]I will duly sing to your name forever, fulfill my vows day after day.

Trust in God Alone. 62:1 For the leader; 'al Jeduthun. A psalm of David.

[2]My soul rests in God alone,
from whom comes my salvation.
[3]God alone is my rock and salvation,
my fortress; I shall never fall.
[4]How long will you set yourself against a man?
You shall all be destroyed,
Like a sagging wall
or a tumbled down fence!
[5]Even highly placed people
plot to overthrow him.
They delight in lies;
they bless with their mouths,
but inwardly they curse.

Selah

[6]My soul, be at rest in God alone,
from whom comes my hope.
[7]God alone is my rock and my salvation,
my fortress; I shall not fall.
[8]My deliverance and honor are with God,
my strong rock;
my refuge is with God.
[9]Trust God at all times, my people!
Pour out your hearts to God our refuge!

Selah

[10]Mortals are a mere breath,
the sons of man but an illusion;
On a balance they rise;
together they weigh nothing.
[11]Do not trust in extortion;
in plunder put no empty hope.
On wealth that increases,
do not set your heart.
[12]One thing God has said;
two things I have heard:
Strength belongs to God;
[13]so too, my Lord, does mercy,
For you repay each man
according to his deeds.

Ardent Longing for God. 63:1 A psalm of David, when he was in the wilderness of Judah.

[2]O God, you are my God—

it is you I seek!
For you my body yearns;
for you my soul thirsts,
In a land parched, lifeless,
and without water.
[3]I look to you in the sanctuary
to see your power and glory.
[4]For your love is better than life;
my lips shall ever praise you!

[5]I will bless you as long as I live;
I will lift up my hands, calling on your name.
[6]My soul shall be sated as with choice food,
with joyous lips my mouth shall praise you!
[7]I think of you upon my bed,
I remember you through the watches of the night
[8]You indeed are my savior,
and in the shadow of your wings I shout for joy.
[9]My soul clings fast to you;
your right hand upholds me.

[10]But those who seek my life will come to ruin;
they shall go down to the depths of the netherworld!
[11]Those who would hand over my life to the sword shall become the prey of jackals!
[12] But the king shall rejoice in God;
all who swear by the Lord shall exult,
but the mouths of liars will be shut!

Treacherous Conspirators Punished by God. 64:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]O God, hear my anguished voice;
from a dreadful foe protect my life.
[3]Hide me from the malicious crowd,
the mob of evildoers.
[4]They sharpen their tongues like swords,
bend their bows of poison words.
[5]They shoot at the innocent from ambush,
they shoot him in a moment and do not fear.
[6]They resolve on their wicked plan;
they conspire to set snares;
they say: "Who will see us?"
[7]They devise wicked schemes, conceal the schemes they devise;
the designs of their hearts are hidden.

[8]God shoots an arrow at them;
in a moment they are struck down.
[9]They are brought down by their own tongues;
all who see them flee.

[10]Every person fears and proclaims God's actions,
they ponder his deeds.
[11]The righteous rejoices and takes refuge in the LORD;
all the upright give praise.

Thanksgiving for God's Blessings. 65:1 For the leader. A psalm of David. A song.

[2]To you we owe our hymn of praise,
O God on Zion;
To you our vows must be fulfilled,
[3]you who hear our prayers.
To you all flesh must come [4]with its burden of wicked deeds.
We are overcome by our sins;
only you can pardon them.
[5]Blessed the one whom you will choose and bring to dwell in your courts.
May we be filled with the good things of your house,
your holy temple!

[6]You answer us with awesome deeds of justice,
O God our savior,
The hope of all the ends of the earth
and of those far off across the sea.
[7]You are robed in power,
you set up the mountains by your might.
[8]You still the roaring of the seas,
the roaring of their waves,
the tumult of the peoples.
[9]Distant peoples stand in awe of your marvels;
the places of morning and evening you make resound with joy.
[10]You visit the earth and water it,
make it abundantly fertile.
God's stream is filled with water;
you supply their grain.
Thus do you prepare it:
[11]you drench its plowed furrows,
and level its ridges.
With showers you keep it soft,
blessing its young sprouts.
[12]You adorn the year with your bounty;
your paths drip with fruitful rain.
[13]The meadows of the wilderness also drip;
the hills are robed with joy.
[14]The pastures are clothed with flocks,
the valleys blanketed with grain;
they cheer and sing for joy.

Praise of God, Israel's Deliverer. 66:1 For the leader. A song; a psalm.

[2]Shout joyfully to God, all the earth;
sing of his glorious name;
give him glorious praise.
[3]Say to God: "How awesome your deeds!
Before your great strength your enemies cringe.
[4]All the earth falls in worship before you;
they sing of you, sing of your name!"

Selah

[5]Come and see the works of God,
awesome in deeds before the children of Adam.
[6]He changed the sea to dry land;
through the river they passed on foot.
There we rejoiced in him,
[7]who rules by his might forever,
His eyes are fixed upon the nations.
Let no rebel rise to challenge!

Selah

[8]Bless our God, you peoples;
loudly sound his praise,
[9]Who has kept us alive
and not allowed our feet to slip.
[10]You tested us, O God,
tried us as silver tried by fire.
[11]You led us into a snare;
you bound us at the waist as captives.
[12]You let captors set foot on our neck;
we went through fire and water;
then you led us out to freedom.

[13]I will bring burnt offerings to your house;
to you I will fulfill my vows, [14]Which my lips pronounced and my mouth spoke in my distress.
[15]Burnt offerings of fatlings I will offer you and sacrificial smoke of rams;
I will sacrifice oxen and goats.

Selah

[16]Come and hear, all you who fear God,
while I recount what has been done for me.
[17]I called to him with my mouth;
praise was upon my tongue.
[18]Had I cherished evil in my heart,
the Lord would not have heard.
[19]But God did hear
and listened to my voice in prayer.
[20]Blessed be God, who did not reject my prayer and refuse his mercy.

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 11:16-33

Paul's Boast: His Labors. 11:16 I repeat, no one should consider me foolish; but if you do, accept me as a fool, so that I too may boast a little. [17]What I am saying I am not saying according to the Lord but as in foolishness, in this boastful state. [18]Since many boast according to the flesh, I too will boast. [19]For you gladly put up with fools, since you are wise yourselves. [20]For you put up with it if someone enslaves you, or devours you, or gets the better of you, or puts on airs, or slaps you in the face. [21]To my shame I say that we were too weak!

But what anyone dares to boast of (I am speaking in foolishness) I also dare. [22]Are they Hebrews? So am I. Are they Israelites? So am I. Are they descendants of Abraham? So am I. [23]Are they ministers of Christ? (I am talking like an insane person.) I am still more, with far greater labors, far more imprisonments, far worse beatings, and numerous brushes with death. [24]Five times at the hands of the Jews I received forty lashes minus one. [25]Three times I was beaten with rods, once I was stoned, three times I was shipwrecked, I passed a night and a day on the deep; [26]on frequent journeys, in dangers from rivers, dangers from robbers, dangers from my own race, dangers from Gentiles, dangers in the city, dangers in the wilderness, dangers at sea, dangers among false brothers; [27]in toil and hardship, through many sleepless nights, through hunger and thirst, through frequent fastings, through cold and exposure. [28]And apart from these things, there is the daily pressure upon me of my anxiety for all the churches. [29]Who is weak, and I am not weak? Who is led to sin, and I am not indignant?

Paul's Boast: His Weakness. [30]If I must boast, I will boast of the things that show my weakness. [31]The God and Father of the Lord Jesus knows, he who is blessed forever, that I do not lie. [32]At Damascus, the governor under King Aretas guarded the city of Damascus, in order to seize me, [33]but I was lowered in a basket through a window in the wall and escaped his hands.

Blessed Kateri Tekakwitha; St. Camillus de Lellis

I don't put a penny's value on this life if only Our Lord will give me a tiny corner in Paradise.
— St. Camillus de Lellis

☐ PSALMS 67-70

Harvest Thanks and Petition.* 67:1 For the leader; with stringed instruments. A psalm; a song.

[2]May God be gracious to us and bless us;
may his face shine upon us.

Selah

[3]So shall your way be known upon the earth,
your victory among all the nations.
[4]May the peoples praise you, God;
may all the peoples praise you!

[5]May the nations be glad and rejoice;
for you judge the peoples with fairness,
you guide the nations upon the earth.

Selah

[6]May the peoples praise you, God;
may all the peoples praise you!

[7]The earth has yielded its harvest;
God, our God, blesses us.
[8]May God bless us still;

that the ends of the earth may revere him.

The Exodus and Conquest, Pledge of Future Help. 68:1 For the leader. A psalm of David; a song.

[2]May God arise;
may his enemies be scattered;
may those who hate him flee before him.
[3]As the smoke is dispersed, disperse them;
as wax is melted by fire,
so may the wicked perish before God.
[4]Then the just will be glad;
they will rejoice before God;
they will celebrate with great joy.

[5]Sing to God, praise his name;
exalt the rider of the clouds.
Rejoice before him
whose name is the LORD.
[6]Father of the fatherless, defender of widows—
God in his holy abode,
[7]God gives a home to the forsaken,
who leads prisoners out to prosperity,
while rebels live in the desert.

[8]God, when you went forth before your people,
when you marched through the desert,

Selah

[9]The earth quaked, the heavens poured,
before God, the One of Sinai,
before God, the God of Israel.
[10]You poured abundant rains, God,
your inheritance was weak and you repaired it.
[11]Your creatures dwelt in it;
you will establish it in your goodness for the poor, O God.

[12]The Lord announced:
"Those bringing news are a great Army.
[13]The kings of the armies are in desperate flight.
Every household will share the spoil, [14]though you lie down among the sheepfolds,
you shall be covered with silver as the wings of a dove,
her feathers bright as fine gold."
[15]When the Almighty routs the kings there,
it will be as when snow fell on Zalmon.

[16]You mountain of God, mountain of Bashan,
you rugged mountain, mountain of Bashan, [17]You rugged mountains, why look with envy
at the mountain where God has chosen to dwell,
where the LORD resides forever?

[18]God's chariots were myriad, thousands upon thousands;
from Sinai the Lord entered the holy place.
[19]You went up to its lofty height;
you took captives, received slaves as tribute,
even rebels, for the LORD God to dwell.

[20]Blessed be the Lord day by day,
God, our salvation, who carries us.

Selah

[21]Our God is a God who saves;
escape from death is the LORD God's.
[22]God will crush the heads of his enemies,
the hairy scalp of the one who walks in sin.
[23]The Lord has said:
"Even from Bashan I will fetch them,
fetch them even from the depths of the sea.
[24]You will wash your feet in your enemy's blood;
the tongues of your dogs will lap it up."

[25]Your procession comes into view, O God,
your procession into the holy place, my God and king.
[26]The singers go first, the harpists follow;
in their midst girls sound the timbrels.
[27]In your choirs, bless God;
LORD, Israel's fountain.
[28]In the lead is Benjamin, few in number;
there the princes of Judah, a large throng,
the princes of Zebulun, the princes of Naphtali, too.

[29]Summon again, O God, your power,
the divine power you once showed for us, [30]From your temple on behalf of Jerusalem,
that kings may bring you tribute.
[31]Roar at the wild beast of the reeds,
the herd of mighty bulls, the calves of the peoples;
trampling those who lust after silver scatter the peoples that delight in war.
[32]Let bronze be brought from Egypt,
Ethiopia hurry its hands to God.

[33]You kingdoms of the earth, sing to God;
chant the praises of the Lord,

Selah

[34]Who rides the heights of the ancient heavens,
Who sends forth his voice as a mighty voice?
[35]Confess the power of God,
whose majesty protects Israel,
whose power is in the sky.
[36]Awesome is God in his holy place,
the God of Israel,

who gives power and strength to his people.
Blessed be God!

A Cry of Anguish in Great Distress. 69:1 For the leader; according to "Lilies." Of David.

[2]Save me, God,
for the waters have reached my neck.
[3]I have sunk into the mire of the deep,
where there is no foothold.
I have gone down to the watery depths;
the flood overwhelms me.
[4]I am weary with crying out;
my throat is parched.
My eyes fail,
from looking for my God.
[5]More numerous than the hairs of my head
are those who hate me without cause.
Those who would destroy me are mighty,
my enemies without reason.
Must I now restore
what I did not steal?

[6]God, you know my folly;
my faults are not hidden from you.
[7]Let those who wait in hope for you, LORD of hosts,
not be shamed because of me.
Let those who seek you, God of Israel,
not be disgraced because of me.
[8]For it is on your account I bear insult,
that disgrace covers my face.
[9]I have become an outcast to my kindred,
a stranger to my mother's children.
[10]Because zeal for your house has consumed me,
I am scorned by those who scorn you.
[11]When I humbled my spirit with fasting,
this led only to scorn.
[12]When I clothed myself in sackcloth;
I became a byword for them.
[13]Those who sit in the gate gossip about me;
drunkards make me the butt of songs.

[14]But I will pray to you, LORD,
at a favorable time.
God, in your abundant kindness, answer me
with your sure deliverance.
[15]Rescue me from the mire,
and do not let me sink.
Rescue me from those who hate me
and from the watery depths.
[16]Do not let the flood waters overwhelm me,

nor the deep swallow me,
nor the pit close its mouth over me.
17 Answer me, LORD, in your generous love;
in your great mercy turn to me.
18 Do not hide your face from your servant;
hasten to answer me, for I am in distress.
19 Come and redeem my life;
because of my enemies ransom me.
20 You know my reproach, my shame, my disgrace;
before you stand all my foes.
21 Insult has broken my heart, and I despair;
I looked for compassion, but there was none,
for comforters, but found none.
22 Instead they gave me poison for my food;
and for my thirst they gave me vinegar.

23 May their own table be a snare for them,
and their communion offerings a trap.
24 Make their eyes so dim they cannot see;
keep their backs ever feeble.
25 Pour out your wrath upon them;
let the fury of your anger overtake them.
26 Make their camp desolate,
with none to dwell in their tents.
27 For they pursued the one you struck,
added to the pain of the one you wounded.
28 Heap punishment upon their punishment;
let them gain from you no vindication.
29 May they be blotted from the book of life;
not registered among the just!

30 But here I am miserable and in pain;
let your saving help protect me, God, 31 That I may praise God's name in song
and glorify it with thanksgiving.
32 That will please the LORD more than oxen,
more than bulls with horns and hooves:
33 "See, you lowly ones, and be glad;
you who seek God, take heart!
34 For the LORD hears the poor,
and does not spurn those in bondage.
35 Let the heaven and the earth praise him,
the seas and whatever moves in them!"

36 For God will rescue Zion,
and rebuild the cities of Judah.
They will dwell there and possess it;
37 the descendants of God's servants will inherit it;
those who love God's name will dwell in it.

Prayer for Divine Help. 70:1 For the leader; of David. For remembrance.
[2]Graciously rescue me, God!
Come quickly to help me, LORD!
[3]Let those who seek my life
be confused and put to shame.
Let those who desire my ruin
turn back in disgrace.
[4]Let those who say "Aha!"
turn back in their shame.
[5]But may all who seek you
rejoice and be glad in you,
Those who long for your help always say, "God be glorified!"
[6]I am miserable and poor.
God, come to me quickly!
You are my help and deliverer.
LORD, do not delay!

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 12:1-10

12:1 I must boast; not that it is profitable, but I will go on to visions and revelations of the Lord. [2]I know someone in Christ who, fourteen years ago (whether in the body or out of the body I do not know, God knows), was caught up to the third heaven. [3]And I know that this person (whether in the body or out of the body I do not know, God knows) [4]was caught up into Paradise and heard ineffable things, which no one may utter. [5]About this person I will boast, but about myself I will not boast, except about my weaknesses. [6]Although if I should wish to boast, I would not be foolish, for I would be telling the truth. But I refrain, so that no one may think more of me than what he sees in me or hears from me [7]because of the abundance of the revelations. Therefore, that I might not become too elated, a thorn in the flesh was given to me, an angel of Satan, to beat me, to keep me from being too elated. [8]Three times I begged the Lord about this, that it might leave me, [9]but he said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for power is made perfect in weakness." I will rather boast most gladly of my weaknesses, in order that the power of Christ may dwell with me. [10]Therefore, I am content with weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and constraints, for the sake of Christ; for when I am weak, then I am strong.

St. Bonaventure

> In God alone is there ultimate and true delight, and in all our delights it is this delight that we are seeking.
>
> — St. Bonaventure

☐ PSALMS 71-75

Prayer in Time of Old Age. 71:1 In you, LORD, I take refuge;
let me never be put to shame.
[2]In your justice rescue and deliver me;
listen to me and save me!
[3]Be my rock of refuge,
my stronghold to give me safety;

for you are my rock and fortress.
[4]My God, rescue me from the hand of the wicked,
from the clutches of the evil and violent.
[5]You are my hope, Lord;
my trust, GOD, from my youth.
[6]On you I have depended since birth;
from my mother's womb you are my strength;
my hope in you never wavers.
[7]I have become a portent to many,
but you are my strong refuge!
[8]My mouth shall be filled with your praise,
shall sing your glory every day.

[9]Do not cast me aside in my old age;
as my strength fails, do not forsake me.
[10]For my enemies speak against me;
they watch and plot against me.
[11]They say, "God has abandoned him.
Pursue, and seize him!
No one will come to the rescue!"
[12]God, be not far from me;
my God, hasten to help me.
[13]Bring to a shameful end
those who attack me;
Cover with contempt and scorn
those who seek my ruin.
[14]I will always hope in you and add to all your praise.
[15]My mouth shall proclaim your just deeds,
day after day your acts of deliverance,
though I cannot number them all.
[16]I will speak of the mighty works of the Lord;
O GOD, I will tell of your singular justice.

[17]God, you have taught me from my youth;
to this day I proclaim your wondrous deeds.
[18]Now that I am old and gray,
do not forsake me, God,
That I may proclaim your might
to all generations yet to come,
Your power [19]and justice, God,
to the highest heaven.
You have done great things;
O God, who is your equal?
[20]Whatever bitter afflictions you sent me,
you would turn and revive me.
From the watery depths of the earth
once more raise me up.
[21]Restore my honor;
turn and comfort me,

[22]That I may praise you with the lyre
for your faithfulness, my God,
And sing to you with the harp,
O Holy One of Israel!
[23]My lips will shout for joy as I sing your praise;
my soul, too, which you have redeemed.
[24]Yes, my tongue shall recount your justice day by day.
For those who sought my ruin
have been shamed and disgraced.

A Prayer for the King. 72:1 Of Solomon.

[2]O God, give your judgment to the king;
your justice to the king's son;
That he may govern your people with justice,
your oppressed with right judgment,
[3]That the mountains may yield their bounty for the people, and the hills great abundance,
[4]That he may defend the oppressed among the people,
save the children of the poor and crush the oppressor.

[5]May they fear you with the sun,
and before the moon, through all generations.
[6]May he be like rain coming down upon the fields,
like showers watering the earth,
[7]That abundance may flourish in his days,
great bounty, till the moon be no more.

[8]May he rule from sea to sea,
from the river to the ends of the earth.
[9]May his foes kneel before him,
his enemies lick the dust.
[10]May the kings of Tarshish and the islands bring tribute,
the kings of Sheba and Seba offer gifts.
[11]May all kings bow before him,
all nations serve him.
[12]For he rescues the poor when they cry out,
the oppressed who have no one to help.
[13]He shows pity to the needy and the poor and saves the lives of the poor.
[14]From extortion and violence he redeems them,
for precious is their blood in his sight.

[15]Long may he live, receiving gold from Sheba, prayed for without cease, blessed day by day.
[16]May wheat abound in the land,
flourish even on the mountain heights.
May his fruit be like that of Lebanon,
and flourish in the city like the grasses of the land.

[17]May his name be forever;
as long as the sun, may his name endure.
May the tribes of the earth give blessings with his name;
may all the nations regard him as favored.
[18]Blessed be the LORD God, the God of Israel,
who alone does wonderful deeds.
[19]Blessed be his glorious name forever;
may he fill all the earth with his glory.
Amen and amen.

[20]The end of the psalms of David, son of Jesse.

The Trial of the Just. 73:1 A psalm of Asaph.

How good God is to the upright,
to those who are pure of heart!

[2]But, as for me, my feet had almost stumbled;
my steps had nearly slipped,
[3]Because I was envious of the arrogant
when I saw the prosperity of the wicked.
[4]For they suffer no pain;
their bodies are healthy and sleek.
[5]They are free of the burdens of life;
they are not afflicted like others.
[6]Thus pride adorns them as a necklace;
violence clothes them as a robe.
[7]Out of such blindness comes sin;
evil thoughts flood their hearts.
[8]They scoff and spout their malice;
from on high they utter threats.
[9]They set their mouths against the heavens,
their tongues roam the earth.
[10]So my people turn to them
and drink deeply of their words.
[11]They say, "Does God really know?"
"Does the Most High have any knowledge?"
[12]Such, then, are the wicked,
always carefree, increasing their wealth.

[13]Is it in vain that I have kept my heart pure, washed my hands in innocence?
[14]For I am afflicted day after day,
chastised every morning.
[15]Had I thought, "I will speak as they do,"
I would have betrayed this generation of your children.
[16]Though I tried to understand all this,
it was too difficult for me,
[17]Till I entered the sanctuary of God
and came to understand their end.

[18]You set them, indeed, on a slippery road;
you hurl them down to ruin.
[19]How suddenly they are devastated;
utterly undone by disaster!
[20]They are like a dream after waking, Lord,
dismissed like shadows when you arise.

[21]Since my heart was embittered
and my soul deeply wounded, [22]I was stupid and could not understand;
I was like a brute beast in your presence.
[23]Yet I am always with you;
you take hold of my right hand.
[24]With your counsel you guide me,
and at the end receive me with honor.
[25]Whom else have I in the heavens?
None beside you delights me on earth.
[26]Though my flesh and my heart fail,
God is the rock of my heart, my portion forever.
[27]But those who are far from you perish;
you destroy those unfaithful to you.
[28]As for me, to be near God is my good,
to make the Lord GOD my refuge.
I shall declare all your works
in the gates of daughter Zion.

Prayer at the Destruction of the Temple. 74:1 A maskil of Asaph.

Why, God, have you cast us off forever?
Why does your anger burn against the sheep of your pasture?
[2]Remember your people, whom you acquired of old,
the tribe you redeemed as your own heritage,
Mount Zion where you dwell.
[3]Direct your steps toward the utter destruction,
everything the enemy laid waste in the sanctuary.
[4]Your foes roared triumphantly in the place of your assembly;
they set up their own tokens of victory.
[5]They hacked away like a forester gathering boughs,
swinging his ax in a thicket of trees.
[6]They smashed all its engraved work,
struck it with ax and pick.
[7]They set your sanctuary on fire,
profaned your name's abode by razing it to the ground.
[8]They said in their hearts, "We will destroy them all!
Burn all the assembly-places of God in the land!"
[9]Even so we have seen no signs for us,
there is no prophet any more,
no one among us who knows for how long.
[10]How long, O God, will the enemy jeer?
Will the enemy revile your name forever?

[11]Why draw back your hand,
why hold back your right hand within your bosom?

[12]Yet you, God, are my king from of old,
winning victories throughout the earth.
[13]You stirred up the sea by your might;
you smashed the heads of the dragons on the waters.
[14]You crushed the heads of Leviathan, gave him as food to the sharks.
[15]You opened up springs and torrents,
brought dry land out of the primeval waters.
[16]Yours the day and yours the night too;
you set the moon and sun in place.
[17]You fixed all the limits of the earth;
summer and winter you made.
[18]Remember how the enemy has jeered, LORD,
how a foolish people has reviled your name.
[19]Do not surrender to wild animals those who praise you;
do not forget forever the life of your afflicted.
[20]Look to your covenant,
for the recesses of the land
are full of the haunts of violence.
[21]Let not the oppressed turn back in shame;
may the poor and needy praise your name.
[22]Arise, God, defend your cause;
remember the constant jeering of the fools.
[23]Do not forget the clamor of your foes,
the unceasing uproar of your enemies.

God the Judge of the World. 75:1 For the leader. Do not destroy! A psalm of Asaph; a song.

[2]We thank you, God, we give thanks;
we call upon your name,
we declare your wonderful deeds.
[You said:]
[3]"I will choose the time;
I will judge fairly.
[4]Though the earth and all its inhabitants quake,
I make steady its pillars."

Selah

[5]So I say to the boastful: "Do not boast!"
to the wicked: "Do not raise your horns!
[6]Do not raise your horns against heaven!
Do not speak with a stiff neck!"
[7]For judgment comes not from east or from west,
not from the wilderness or the mountains,
[8]But from God who decides,
who brings some low and raises others high.
[9]Yes, a cup is in the LORD's hand,

foaming wine, fully spiced.
When God pours it out,
they will drain it even to the dregs;
all the wicked of the earth will drink.
[10]But I will rejoice forever;
I will sing praise to the God of Jacob,
[11][Who has said:]
"I will cut off all the horns of the wicked,
but the horns of the righteous will be exalted."

☐ 2 CORINTHIANS 12:11-13:13

Selfless Concern for the Church. 12:11 I have been foolish. You compelled me, for I ought to have been commended by you. For I am in no way inferior to these "superapostles," even though I am nothing. [12]The signs of an apostle were performed among you with all endurance, signs and wonders, and mighty deeds. [13]In what way were you less privileged than the rest of the churches, except that on my part I did not burden you? Forgive me this wrong!

[14]Now I am ready to come to you this third time. And I will not be a burden, for I want not what is yours, but you. Children ought not to save for their parents, but parents for their children. [15]I will most gladly spend and be utterly spent for your sakes. If I love you more, am I to be loved less? [16]But granted that I myself did not burden you, yet I was crafty and got the better of you by deceit. [17]Did I take advantage of you through any of those I sent to you? [18]I urged Titus to go and sent the brother with him. Did Titus take advantage of you? Did we not walk in the same spirit? And in the same steps?

Final Warnings and Appeals. [19]Have you been thinking all along that we are defending ourselves before you? In the sight of God we are speaking in Christ, and all for building you up, beloved. [20]For I fear that when I come I may find you not such as I wish, and that you may find me not as you wish; that there may be rivalry, jealousy, fury, selfishness, slander, gossip, conceit, and disorder. [21]I fear that when I come again my God may humiliate me before you, and I may have to mourn over many of those who sinned earlier and have not repented of the impurity, immorality, and licentiousness they practiced.

13:1 This third time I am coming to you. "On the testimony of two or three witnesses a fact shall be established." [2]I warned those who sinned earlier and all the others, and I warn them now while absent, as I did when present on my second visit, that if I come again I will not be lenient, [3]since you are looking for proof of Christ speaking in me. He is not weak toward you but powerful in you. [4]For indeed he was crucified out of weakness, but he lives by the power of God. So also we are weak in him, but toward you we shall live with him by the power of God.

[5]Examine yourselves to see whether you are living in faith. Test yourselves. Do you not realize that Jesus Christ is in you?—unless, of course, you fail the test. [6]I hope you will discover that we have not failed. [7]But we pray to God that you may not do evil, not that we may appear to have passed the test but that you may do what is right, even though we may seem to have failed. [8]For we cannot do anything against the truth, but only for the truth. [9]For we rejoice when we are weak but you are strong. What we pray for is your improvement.

[10]I am writing this while I am away, so that when I come I may not have to be severe in virtue of the authority that the Lord has given me to build up and not to tear down.

[11]Finally, brothers, rejoice. Mend your ways, encourage one another, agree with one another, live in peace, and the God of love and peace will be with you. [12]Greet one another with a holy kiss. All the holy ones greet you.

[13]The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the holy Spirit be with all of you.

Our Lady of Mount Carmel

Invisible in His own nature, He became visible in ours. Beyond our grasp, He chose to come within our grasp. Existing before time began, He began to exist at a moment in time. Incapable of suffering as God, He did not refuse to be a man, capable of suffering. Immortal, He chose to be subject to the laws of death.

— Pope St. Leo the Great

☐ PSALMS 76-79

God Defends Zion. 76:1 For the leader; a psalm with stringed instruments. A song of Asaph.

[2]Renowned in Judah is God, whose name is great in Israel.
[3]On Salem is God's tent, his shelter on Zion.
[4]There the flashing arrows were shattered,
shield, sword, and weapons of war.

Selah

[5]Terrible and awesome are you,
stronger than the ancient mountains.
[6]Despoiled are the stouthearted;
they sank into sleep;
the hands of all the men of valor have failed.
[7]At your roar, O God of Jacob, chariot and steed lay still.
[8]You, terrible are you;
who can stand before you and your great anger?
[9]From the heavens you pronounced sentence;
the earth was terrified and reduced to silence, [10]When you arose, O God, for judgment
to save the afflicted of the land.

Selah

[11]Surely the wrath of man will give you thanks;
the remnant of your furor will keep your feast.

[12]Make and keep vows to the LORD your God.
May all around him bring gifts to the one to be feared, [13]Who checks the spirit of princes,
who is fearful to the kings of earth.

Confidence in God During National Distress. 77:1 For the leader; According to Jeduthun. A psalm of Asaph.

[2]I cry aloud to God,
I cry to God to hear me.
[3]On the day of my distress I seek the Lord;
by night my hands are stretched out unceasingly;
I refuse to be consoled.
[4]When I think of God, I groan;
as I meditate, my spirit grows faint.

Selah

[5]You have kept me from closing my eyes in sleep;

I am troubled and cannot speak.
6 I consider the days of old;
the years long past 7 I remember.
At night I ponder in my heart;
and as I meditate, my spirit probes:
8 "Will the Lord reject us forever,
never again show favor?
9 Has God's mercy ceased forever?
The promise to go unfulfilled for future ages?
10 Has God forgotten how to show mercy,
in anger withheld his compassion?"

Selah

11 I conclude: "My sorrow is this,
the right hand of the Most High has abandoned us."

12 I will recall the deeds of the LORD;
yes, recall your wonders of old.
13 I will ponder all your works;
on your exploits I will meditate.
14 Your way, God, is holy;
what god is as great as our God?
15 You are the God who does wonders;
among the peoples you have revealed your might.
16 With your mighty arm you redeemed your people,
the children of Jacob and Joseph.

Selah

17 The waters saw you, God;
the waters saw you and lashed about,
even the deeps of the sea trembled.
18 The clouds poured down their rains;
the thunderheads rumbled;
your arrows flashed back and forth.
19 The thunder of your chariot wheels resounded;
your lightning lit up the world;
the earth trembled and quaked.
20 Through the sea was your way;
your path, through the mighty waters,
though your footsteps were unseen.
21 You led your people like a flock
by the hand of Moses and Aaron.

A New Beginning in Zion and David. 78:1 A maskil of Asaph.

Attend, my people, to my teaching;
listen to the words of my mouth.
2 I will open my mouth in a parable,
unfold the puzzling events of the past.
3 What we have heard and know;
things our ancestors have recounted to us.
4 We do not keep them from our children;

we recount them to the next generation,
The praiseworthy deeds of the LORD and his strength,
the wonders that he performed.
5God made a decree in Jacob,
established a law in Israel:
Which he commanded our ancestors,
they were to teach their children;
6That the next generation might come to know,
children yet to be born.
In turn they were to recount them to their children,
7that they too might put their confidence in God,
And not forget God's deeds,
but keep his commandments.
8They were not to be like their ancestors,
a rebellious and defiant generation,
A generation whose heart was not constant,
and whose spirit was not faithful to God.
9The ranks of Ephraimite archers,
retreated on the day of battle.
10They did not keep God's covenant;
they refused to walk according to his law.
11They forgot his deeds,
the wonders that he had shown them.

12In the sight of their ancestors God did wonders,
in the land of Egypt, the plain of Zoan.
13He split the sea and led them across,
making the waters stand like walls.
14He led them with a cloud by day,
all night with the light of fire.
15He split rocks in the desert,
gave water to drink, abundant as the deeps of the sea.
16He made streams flow from crags,
caused rivers of water to flow down.
17But they went on sinning against him,
rebelling against the Most High in the desert.
18They tested God in their hearts,
demanding the food they craved.
19They spoke against God, and said,
"Can God spread a table in the wilderness?
20True, when he struck the rock,
water gushed forth,
the wadies flooded.
But can he also give bread,
or provide meat to his people?"
21The LORD heard and grew angry;
fire blazed up against Jacob;
anger flared up against Israel.
22For they did not believe in God,
did not trust in his saving power.

[23]So he commanded the clouds above;
and opened the doors of heaven.
[24]God rained manna upon them for food;
grain from heaven he gave them.
[25] Man ate the bread of the angels;
food he sent in abundance.
[26]He stirred up the east wind in the skies;
by his might God brought on the south wind.
[27]He rained meat upon them like dust,
winged fowl like the sands of the sea, [28]They fell down in the midst of their camp,
all round their dwellings.
[29]They ate and were well filled;
he gave them what they had craved.
[30]But while they still wanted more,
and the food was still in their mouths, [31]God's anger flared up against them,
and he made a slaughter of their strongest,
laying low the youth of Israel.
[32]In spite of all this they went on sinning,
they did not believe in his wonders.
[33]God ended their days abruptly,
their years in sudden death.
[34]When he slew them, they began to seek him;
they again looked for God.
[35]They remembered that God was their rock,
God Most High, their redeemer.
[36]But they deceived him with their mouths,
lied to him with their tongues.
[37]Their hearts were not constant toward him;
they were not faithful to his covenant.
[38]But God being compassionate forgave their sin;
he did not utterly destroy them.
Time and again he turned back his anger,
unwilling to unleash all his rage.
[39]He remembered that they were flesh,
a breath that passes on and does not return.

[40]How often they rebelled against God in the wilderness, grieved him in the wasteland.
[41]Again and again they tested God, provoked the Holy One of Israel.
[42]They did not remember his power,
the day he redeemed them from the foe, [43]When he performed his signs in Egypt,
his wonders in the plain of Zoan.
[44]God turned their rivers to blood;
their streams they could not drink.
[45]He sent swarms of insects that devoured them,
frogs that destroyed them.

[46]He gave their harvest to the caterpillar,
the fruits of their labor to the locust.
[47]He killed their vines with hail,
their sycamores with frost.
[48]He exposed their cattle to plague,
their flocks to pestilence.
[49]He let loose against them the heat of his anger,
wrath, fury, and distress,
a band of deadly messengers.
[50]He cleared a path for his anger;
he did not spare them from death,
but delivered their animals to the plague.
[51]He struck all the firstborn of Egypt,
the first fruits of their vigor in the tents of Ham.
[52]Then God led forth his people like sheep,
guided them like a flock through the wilderness.
[53]He led them on secure and unafraid,
while the sea enveloped their enemies.
[54]And he brought them to his holy mountain,
the hill his right hand had won.
[55]He drove out the nations before them,
allotted them as their inherited portion,
and settled in their tents the tribes of Israel.
[56]But they tested and rebelled against God Most High,
his decrees they did not observe.
[57]They turned disloyal, faithless like their ancestors;
they proved false like a slack bow.
[58]They enraged him with their high places,
and with their idols provoked him to jealous anger.
[59]God heard and grew angry;
he rejected Israel completely.
[60]He forsook the shrine at Shiloh,
the tent he set up among human beings.
[61]He gave up his might into captivity,
his glorious ark into the hands of the foe.
[62]God delivered his people to the sword;
he was enraged against his heritage.
[63]Fire consumed their young men;
their young women heard no wedding songs.
[64]Their priests fell by the sword;
their widows made no lamentation.
[65]Then the Lord awoke as from sleep,
like a warrior shouting from the effects of wine.
[66]He put his foes to flight;
everlasting shame he dealt them.
[67]He rejected the tent of Joseph,
chose not the tribe of Ephraim.
[68]God chose the tribe of Judah,
Mount Zion which he loved.
[69]He built his shrine like the heavens,

like the earth which he founded forever.
[70]He chose David his servant,
took him from the sheepfolds.
[71]From tending ewes God brought him,
to shepherd Jacob, his people,
Israel, his heritage.
[72]He shepherded them with a pure heart;
with skilled hands he guided them.

A Prayer for Jerusalem. 79:1 A psalm of Asaph.

O God, the nations have invaded your inheritance;
they have defiled your holy temple;
they have laid Jerusalem in ruins.
[2]They have left the corpses of your servants
as food for the birds of the sky,
the flesh of those devoted to you for the beasts of the earth.
[3]They have poured out their blood like water
all around Jerusalem,
and no one is left to do the burying.
[4]We have become the reproach of our neighbors,
the scorn and derision of those around us.

[5]How long, LORD? Will you be angry forever?
Will your jealous anger keep burning like fire?
[6]Pour out your wrath on nations that do not recognize you,
on kingdoms that do not call on your name, [7]For they have devoured Jacob,
laid waste his dwelling place.
[8]Do not remember against us the iniquities of our forefathers;
let your compassion move quickly ahead of us,
for we have been brought very low.

[9]Help us, God our savior,
on account of the glory of your name.
Deliver us, pardon our sins
for your name's sake.
[10]Why should the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
Before our eyes make known to the nations that you avenge the blood of your servants which has been poured out.

[11]Let the groaning of the imprisoned come in before you;
in accord with the greatness of your arm
preserve those doomed to die.
[12]Turn back sevenfold into the bosom of our neighbors
the insult with which they insulted you, Lord.
[13]Then we, your people, the sheep of your pasture,
will give thanks to you forever;
from generation to generation

we will recount your praise.

☐ JOHN 1:1-18

1:1 In the beginning was the Word,
and the Word was with God,
and the Word was God.
[2]He was in the beginning with God.
[3]All things came to be through him,
and without him nothing came to be.
What came to be [4]through him was life,
and this life was the light of the human race;
[5]the light shines in the darkness,
and the darkness has not overcome it.

[6]A man named John was sent from God. [7]He came for testimony, to testify to the light, so that all might believe through him. [8]He was not the light, but came to testify to the light. [9]The true light, which enlightens everyone, was coming into the world.

[10]He was in the world,
and the world came to be through him,
but the world did not know him.
[11]He came to what was his own,
but his own people did not accept him.

[12]But to those who did accept him he gave power to become children of God, to those who believe in his name, [13]who were born not by natural generation nor by human choice nor by a man's decision but of God.

[14]And the Word became flesh and made his dwelling among us,
and we saw his glory,
the glory as of the Father's only Son,
full of grace and truth.

[15]John testified to him and cried out, saying, "This was he of whom I said, 'The one who is coming after me ranks ahead of me because he existed before me.' " [16]From his fullness we have all received, grace in place of grace, [17]because while the law was given through Moses, grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. [18]No one has ever seen God. The only Son, God, who is at the Father's side, has revealed him.

Baptism is ransom, forgiveness of debts, death of sin, regeneration of the soul, a resplendent garment, an unbreakable seal, a chariot to heaven, a royal protector, a gift of adoption.

☐ PSALMS 80-84

Prayer to Restore God's Vineyard. 80:1 For the leader; according to "Lilies." Eduth. A psalm of Asaph.

[2]O Shepherd of Israel, lend an ear,
you who guide Joseph like a flock!
Seated upon the cherubim, shine forth
[3]upon Ephraim, Benjamin, and Manasseh.
Stir up your power, and come to save us.
[4]O God, restore us;
light up your face and we shall be saved.

[5]LORD of hosts,
how long will you smolder in anger
while your people pray?
[6]You have fed them the bread of tears,
made them drink tears in great measure.
[7]You have left us to be fought over by our neighbors;
our enemies deride us.
[8]O God of hosts, restore us;
light up your face and we shall be saved.

[9]You brought a vine out of Egypt;
you drove out nations and planted it.
[10]You cleared out what was before it;
it took deep root and filled the land.
[11]The mountains were covered by its shadow,
the cedars of God by its branches.
[12] It sent out its boughs as far as the sea,
its shoots as far as the river.
[13]Why have you broken down its walls,
so that all who pass along the way pluck its fruit?
[14]The boar from the forest strips the vine;
the beast of the field feeds upon it.
[15]Turn back again, God of hosts;
look down from heaven and see;
Visit this vine,
[16]the stock your right hand has planted,
and the son whom you made strong for yourself.
[17]Those who would burn or cut it down—
may they perish at your rebuke.
[18]May your hand be with the man on your right,
with the son of man whom you made strong for yourself.
[19]Then we will not withdraw from you;

revive us, and we will call on your name.
[20]LORD God of hosts, restore us;
light up your face and we shall be saved.

An Admonition to Fidelity. 81:1 For the leader; "upon the gittith." Of Asaph.

[2]Sing joyfully to God our strength;
raise loud shouts to the God of Jacob!
[3]Take up a melody, sound the timbrel,
the pleasant lyre with a harp.
[4]Blow the shofar at the new moon,
at the full moon, on our solemn feast.
[5]For this is a law for Israel,
an edict of the God of Jacob,
[6]He made it a decree for Joseph
when he came out of the land of Egypt.

[7]I heard a tongue I did not know:
"I removed his shoulder from the burden;
his hands moved away from the basket.
[8]In distress you called and I rescued you;
I answered you in secret with thunder;
At the waters of Meribah I tested you:
[9]'Listen, my people, I will testify against you
If only you will listen to me, Israel!
[10]There shall be no foreign god among you;
you shall not bow down to an alien god.

[11]'I am the LORD your God,
who brought you up from the land of Egypt.
Open wide your mouth that I may fill it.'
[12]But my people did not listen to my words;
Israel would not submit to me.
[13]So I thrust them away to the hardness of their heart;
'Let them walk in their own machinations.'
[14]O that my people would listen to me,
that Israel would walk in my ways, [15]In a moment I would humble their foes,
and turn back my hand against their oppressors.
[16]Those who hate the LORD will try flattering him,
but their fate is fixed forever.
[17]But Israel I will feed with the finest wheat,
I will satisfy them with honey from the rock."

The Downfall of Unjust Gods. 82:1 A psalm of Asaph.

God takes a stand in the divine council,
gives judgment in the midst of the gods.
[2]"How long will you judge unjustly and favor the cause of the wicked?

Selah

[3]"Defend the lowly and fatherless;
render justice to the afflicted and needy.
[4]Rescue the lowly and poor;
deliver them from the hand of the wicked."

[5]The gods neither know nor understand,
wandering about in darkness,
and all the world's foundations shake.
[6]I declare: "Gods though you be,
offspring of the Most High all of you, [7]Yet like any mortal you shall die;
like any prince you shall fall."
[8]Arise, O God, judge the earth,
for yours are all the nations.

Prayer Against a Hostile Alliance. 83:1 A song; a psalm of Asaph.

[2]God, do not be silent;
God, do not be deaf or remain unmoved!
[3]See how your enemies rage;
your foes proudly raise their heads.
[4]They conspire against your people,
plot against those you protect.
[5]They say, "Come, let us wipe them out as a nation;
let Israel's name be remembered no more!"
[6]They scheme with one mind,
they have entered into a covenant against you:
[7]The tents of Edom and the Ishmaelites,
of Moab and the Hagrites,
[8]Gebal, Ammon, and Amalek,
Philistia and the inhabitants of Tyre.
[9]Assyria, too, in league with them,
backs the descendants of Lot.

Selah

[10]Deal with them as with Midian;
as with Sisera and Jabin at the wadi Kishon, [11]Those destroyed at Endor,
who became dung for the ground.
[12]Make their nobles like Oreb and Zeeb,
all their princes like Zebah and Zalmunna, [13]Who made a plan together,
"Let us take for ourselves the pastures of God."
[14]My God, make them like tumbleweed, into chaff flying before the wind.
[15]As a fire raging through a forest,
a flame setting mountains ablaze, [16]Pursue them with your tempest;
terrify them with your storm-wind.

[17]Cover their faces with shame,
till they seek your name, LORD.
[18]Let them be ashamed and terrified forever;
let them perish in disgrace.
[19]Let them know that your name is LORD,
you alone are the Most High over all the earth.

Prayer of a Pilgrim to Jerusalem. 84:1 For the leader; "upon the gittith." A psalm of the Korahites.

[2]How lovely your dwelling,
O LORD of hosts!
[3]My soul yearns and pines
for the courts of the LORD.
My heart and flesh cry out for the living God.
[4]As the sparrow finds a home
and the swallow a nest to settle her young,
My home is by your altars,
LORD of hosts, my king and my God!
[5]Blessed are those who dwell in your house!
They never cease to praise you.

Selah

[6]Blessed the man who finds refuge in you,
in their hearts are pilgrim roads.
[7]As they pass through the Baca valley,
they find spring water to drink.
The early rain covers it with blessings.

[8]They will go from strength to strength and see the God of gods on Zion.

[9]LORD God of hosts, hear my prayer;
listen, God of Jacob.

Selah

[10]O God, watch over our shield;
look upon the face of your anointed.

[11]Better one day in your courts
than a thousand elsewhere.
Better the threshold of the house of my God
than a home in the tents of the wicked.
[12]For a sun and shield is the LORD God,
bestowing all grace and glory.
The LORD withholds no good thing
from those who walk without reproach.
[13]O LORD of hosts,
blessed the man who trusts in you!

☐ JOHN 1:19-51

John the Baptist's Testimony to Himself. 1:19 And this is the testimony of John. When the Jews from Jerusalem sent priests and Levites [to him] to ask him, "Who are you?" [20]he admitted and did not deny it, but admitted, "I am not the Messiah." [21]So they asked him, "What are you then? Are you Elijah?" And he said, "I am not." "Are you the Prophet?" He answered, "No." [22]So they said to him, "Who are you, so we can give an answer to those who sent us? What do you have to say for yourself?" [23]He said:

"I am 'the voice of one crying out in the desert,
"Make straight the way of the Lord,'"

as Isaiah the prophet said." [24]Some Pharisees were also sent. [25]They asked him, "Why then do you baptize if you are not the Messiah or Elijah or the Prophet?" [26]John answered them, "I baptize with water; but there is one among you whom you do not recognize, [27]the one who is coming after me, whose sandal strap I am not worthy to untie." [28]This happened in Bethany across the Jordan, where John was baptizing.

John the Baptist's Testimony to Jesus. [29]The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him and said, "Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world. [30]He is the one of whom I said, 'A man is coming after me who ranks ahead of me because he existed before me.' [31]I did not know him, but the reason why I came baptizing with water was that he might be made known to Israel." [32]John testified further, saying, "I saw the Spirit come down like a dove from the sky and remain upon him. [33]I did not know him, but the one who sent me to baptize with water told me, 'On whomever you see the Spirit come down and remain, he is the one who will baptize with the holy Spirit.' [34]Now I have seen and testified that he is the Son of God."

The First Disciples. [35]The next day John was there again with two of his disciples, [36]and as he watched Jesus walk by, he said, "Behold, the Lamb of God." [37]The two disciples heard what he said and followed Jesus. [38]Jesus turned and saw them following him and said to them, "What are you looking for?" They said to him, "Rabbi" (which translated means Teacher), "where are you staying?" [39]He said to them, "Come, and you will see." So they went and saw where he was staying, and they stayed with him that day. It was about four in the afternoon. [40]Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, was one of the two who heard John and followed Jesus. [41]He first found his own brother Simon and told him, "We have found the Messiah" (which is translated Anointed). [42]Then he brought him to Jesus. Jesus looked at him and said, "You are Simon the son of John; you will be called Cephas" (which is translated Peter).

[43]The next day he decided to go to Galilee, and he found Philip. And Jesus said to him, "Follow me." [44]Now Philip was from Bethsaida, the town of Andrew and Peter. [45]Philip found Nathanael and told him, "We have found the one about whom Moses wrote in the law, and also the prophets, Jesus, son of Joseph, from Nazareth." [46]But Nathanael said to him, "Can anything good come from Nazareth?" Philip said to him, "Come and see." [47]Jesus saw Nathanael coming toward him and said of him, "Here is a true Israelite. There is no duplicity in him." [48]Nathanael said to him, "How do you know me?" Jesus answered and said to him, "Before Philip called you, I saw you under the fig tree." [49]Nathanael answered him, "Rabbi, you are the Son of God; you are the King of Israel." [50]Jesus answered and said to him, "Do you believe because I told you that I saw you under the fig tree? You will see greater things than this." [51]And he said to him, "Amen, amen, I say to you, you will see the sky opened and the angels of God ascending and descending on the Son of Man."

St. Pambo

Marriage has three blessings. The first is children, to be received and raised for God's service. The second is the loyal faithfulness by which each serves the other. The third is the Sacrament of Matrimony, which signifies the inseparable union of Christ with His Church.

— St. Thomas Aquinas

☐ PSALMS 85-89

Prayer for Divine Favor. 85:1 For the leader. A psalm of the Korahites.

[2]You once favored, LORD, your land, restored the captives of Jacob.
[3]You forgave the guilt of your people,
pardoned all their sins.

Selah

[4]You withdrew all your wrath,
turned back from your burning anger.

[5]Restore us, God of our salvation;
let go of your displeasure with us.
[6]Will you be angry with us forever,
prolong your anger for all generations?
[7]Certainly you will again restore our life,
that your people may rejoice in you.
[8]Show us, LORD, your mercy;
grant us your salvation.

[9]I will listen for what God, the LORD, has to say;
surely he will speak of peace
To his people and to his faithful.
May they not turn to foolishness!
[10]Near indeed is his salvation for those who fear him;
glory will dwell in our land.
[11]Love and truth will meet;
justice and peace will kiss.
[12]Truth will spring from the earth;
justice will look down from heaven.
[13]Yes, the LORD will grant his bounty;
our land will yield its produce.
[14]Justice will march before him,
and make a way for his footsteps.

Prayer in Time of Distress. 86:1 A prayer of David.

Incline your ear, LORD, and answer me,
for I am poor and oppressed.
[2]Preserve my life, for I am devoted;
save your servant who trusts in you.
You are my God; [3]be gracious to me, Lord;
to you I call all the day.
[4]Gladden the soul of your servant;
to you, Lord, I lift up my soul.
[5]Lord, you are good and forgiving,
most merciful to all who call on you.
[6]LORD, hear my prayer;
listen to my cry for help.
[7]On the day of my distress I call to you,
for you will answer me.

[8]None among the gods can equal you, O Lord;
nor can their deeds compare to yours.
[9]All the nations you have made shall come to bow before you, Lord,
and give honor to your name.
[10]For you are great and do wondrous deeds;
and you alone are God.

[11]Teach me, LORD, your way that I may walk in your truth,
single-hearted and revering your name.
[12]I will praise you with all my heart,
glorify your name forever, Lord my God.
[13]Your mercy to me is great;
you have rescued me from the depths of Sheol.
[14]O God, the arrogant have risen against me;
a ruthless band has sought my life;
to you they pay no heed.
[15]But you, Lord, are a compassionate and gracious God,
slow to anger, abounding in mercy and truth.
[16]Turn to me, be gracious to me;
give your strength to your servant;
save the son of your handmaid.
[17]Give me a sign of your favor:
make my enemies see, to their confusion,
that you, LORD, help and comfort me.

Zion the True Birthplace. 87:1 A psalm of the Korahites. A song.
His foundation is on holy mountains,
[2]The LORD loves the gates of Zion
more than any dwelling in Jacob.
[3]Glorious things are said of you,
O city of God!

Selah

[4]Rahab and Babylon I count
among those who know me.
See, Philistia and Tyre, with Ethiopia,
"This one was born there."
[5]And of Zion it will be said:
"Each one was born in it."
The Most High will establish it;
[6]the LORD notes in the register of the peoples:
"This one was born there."

Selah

[7]So singers and dancers:
"All my springs are in you."

A Despairing Lament. 88:1 A song; a psalm of the Korahites. For the leader; according to Mahalath. For singing; a maskil of Heman the Ezrahite.

[2]LORD, the God of my salvation, I call out by day;
at night I cry aloud in your presence.
[3]Let my prayer come before you;
incline your ear to my cry.
[4]For my soul is filled with troubles;
my life draws near to Sheol.
[5]I am reckoned with those who go down to the pit;
I am like a warrior without strength.
[6]My couch is among the dead,
like the slain who lie in the grave.
You remember them no more;
they are cut off from your influence.
[7]You plunge me into the bottom of the pit,
into the darkness of the abyss.
[8]Your wrath lies heavy upon me;
all your waves crash over me.

Selah

[9]Because of you my acquaintances shun me;
you make me loathsome to them;
Caged in, I cannot escape;
[10]my eyes grow dim from trouble.

All day I call on you, LORD;
I stretch out my hands to you.
[11]Do you work wonders for the dead?
Do the shades arise and praise you?

Selah

[12]Is your mercy proclaimed in the grave,
your faithfulness among those who have perished?
[13]Are your marvels declared in the darkness,
your righteous deeds in the land of oblivion?

[14]But I cry out to you, LORD;
in the morning my prayer comes before you.
[15]Why do you reject my soul, LORD,
and hide your face from me?
[16]I have been mortally afflicted since youth;
I have borne your terrors and I am made numb.
[17]Your wrath has swept over me;
your terrors have destroyed me.
[18]All day they surge round like a flood;
from every side they encircle me.
[19]Because of you friend and neighbor shun me;
my only friend is darkness.

A Lament over God's Promise to David. 89:1 A maskil of Ethan the Ezrahite.

[2]I will sing of your mercy forever, LORD proclaim your faithfulness through all ages.
[3]For I said, "My mercy is established forever;

my faithfulness will stand as long as the heavens.
[4]I have made a covenant with my chosen one;
I have sworn to David my servant:
[5]I will make your dynasty stand forever and establish your throne through all ages.”

Selah

[6]The heavens praise your marvels, LORD,
your loyalty in the assembly of the holy ones.
[7]Who in the skies ranks with the LORD?
Who is like the LORD among the sons of the gods?
[8]A God dreaded in the council of the holy ones,
greater and more awesome than all those around him!
[9]LORD, God of hosts, who is like you?
Mighty LORD, your faithfulness surrounds you.
[10]You rule the raging sea;
you still its swelling waves.
[11]You crush Rahab with a mortal blow;
with your strong arm you scatter your foes.
[12]Yours are the heavens, yours the earth;
you founded the world and everything in it.
[13]Zaphon and Amanus you created;
Tabor and Hermon rejoice in your name.
[14]You have a mighty arm.
Your hand is strong; your right hand is ever exalted.
[15]Justice and judgment are the foundation of your throne;
mercy and faithfulness march before you.
[16]Blessed the people who know the war cry,
who walk in the radiance of your face, LORD.
[17]In your name they sing joyfully all the day;
they rejoice in your righteousness.
[18]You are their majestic strength;
by your favor our horn is exalted.
[19]Truly the LORD is our shield,
the Holy One of Israel, our king!

[20]Then you spoke in vision;
to your faithful ones you said:
“I have set a leader over the warriors;
I have raised up a chosen one from the people.
[21]I have chosen David, my servant;
with my holy oil I have anointed him.
[22]My hand will be with him;
my arm will make him strong.
[23]No enemy shall outwit him,
nor shall the wicked defeat him.
[24]I will crush his foes before him,
strike down those who hate him.
[25]My faithfulness and mercy will be with him;
through my name his horn will be exalted.

[26]I will set his hand upon the sea,
his right hand upon the rivers.
[27]He shall cry to me, 'You are my father,
my God, the Rock of my salvation!'
[28]I myself make him the firstborn,
Most High over the kings of the earth.
[29]Forever I will maintain my mercy for him;
my covenant with him stands firm.
[30]I will establish his dynasty forever,
his throne as the days of the heavens.
[31]If his descendants forsake my teaching,
do not follow my decrees, [32]If they fail to observe my statutes,
do not keep my commandments, [33]I will punish their crime with a rod
and their guilt with blows.
[34]But I will not take my mercy from him,
nor will I betray my bond of faithfulness.
[35]I will not violate my covenant;
the promise of my lips I will not alter.
[36]By my holiness I swore once for all:
I will never be false to David.
[37]His dynasty will continue forever,
his throne, like the sun before me.
[38]Like the moon it will stand eternal,
forever firm like the sky!"

Selah

[39]But now you have rejected and spurned, been enraged at your anointed.
[40]You renounced the covenant with your servant,
defiled his crown in the dust.
[41]You broke down all city walls,
left his strongholds in ruins.
[42]All who pass through seize plunder;
his neighbors deride him.
[43]You have exalted the right hand of his foes,
have gladdened all his enemies.
[44]You turned back his sharp sword,
did not support him in battle.
[45]You brought to an end his splendor,
hurled his throne to the ground.
[46]You cut short the days of his youth,
covered him with shame.

Selah

[47]How long, LORD? Will you hide forever?
Must your wrath smolder like fire?
[48]Remember how brief life is,
how frail the sons of man you have created!
[49]What is man, that he should live and not see death?

Who can deliver his soul from the power of Sheol?

Selah

[50]Where are your former mercies, Lord,
that you swore to David in your faithfulness?
[51]Remember, Lord, the insults to your servants,
how I have borne in my bosom the slander of the nations.
[52]Your enemies, LORD, insult;
they insult each step of your anointed.
[53]Blessed be the LORD forever! Amen and amen!

☐ JOHN 2

The Wedding at Cana. 2:1 On the third day there was a wedding in Cana in Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. [2]Jesus and his disciples were also invited to the wedding. [3]When the wine ran short, the mother of Jesus said to him, "They have no wine." [4][And] Jesus said to her, "Woman, how does your concern affect me? My hour has not yet come." [5]His mother said to the servers, "Do whatever he tells you." [6]Now there were six stone water jars there for Jewish ceremonial washings, each holding twenty to thirty gallons. [7]Jesus told them, "Fill the jars with water." So they filled them to the brim. [8]Then he told them, "Draw some out now and take it to the headwaiter." So they took it. [9]And when the headwaiter tasted the water that had become wine, without knowing where it came from (although the servers who had drawn the water knew), the headwaiter called the bridegroom [10]and said to him, "Everyone serves good wine first, and then when people have drunk freely, an inferior one; but you have kept the good wine until now." [11]Jesus did this as the beginning of his signs in Cana in Galilee and so revealed his glory, and his disciples began to believe in him.

[12]After this, he and his mother, [his] brothers, and his disciples went down to Capernaum and stayed there only a few days.

Cleansing of the Temple. [13]Since the Passover of the Jews was near, Jesus went up to Jerusalem. [14]He found in the temple area those who sold oxen, sheep, and doves, as well as the money-changers seated there. [15]He made a whip out of cords and drove them all out of the temple area, with the sheep and oxen, and spilled the coins of the money-changers and overturned their tables, [16]and to those who sold doves he said, "Take these out of here, and stop making my Father's house a marketplace." [17]His disciples recalled the words of scripture, "Zeal for your house will consume me." [18]At this the Jews answered and said to him, "What sign can you show us for doing this?" [19]Jesus answered and said to them, "Destroy this temple and in three days I will raise it up." [20]The Jews said, "This temple has been under construction for forty-six years, and you will raise it up in three days?" [21]But he was speaking about the temple of his body. [22]Therefore, when he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they came to believe the scripture and the word Jesus had spoken.

[23]While he was in Jerusalem for the feast of Passover, many began to believe in his name when they saw the signs he was doing. [24]But Jesus would not trust himself to them because he knew them all, [25]and did not need anyone to testify about human nature. He himself understood it well.

St. Macrina

O Lord, You have freed us from the fear of death. You have made the end of life here the beginning of a true life for us. For a time, You give rest to our bodies in sleep, and you awaken us again with the trumpet. The dust from which You fashioned us with Your hands You give back to the earth for safekeeping. And You will call it back, transforming our mortal and graceless remains with immortality and grace.

— St. Macrina

☐ PSALMS 90-96

God's Eternity and Human Frailty. 90:1 A prayer of Moses, the man of God.

Lord, you have been our refuge
through all generations.
[2]Before the mountains were born,
the earth and the world brought forth,
from eternity to eternity you are God.
[3]You turn humanity back into dust, saying, "Return, you children of Adam!" [4]A thousand years in your eyes are merely a day gone by,
Before a watch passes in the night,
[5]you wash them away;
They sleep,
and in the morning they sprout again like an herb.
[6]In the morning it blooms only to pass away;
in the evening it is wilted and withered.

[7]Truly we are consumed by your anger,
filled with terror by your wrath.
[8]You have kept our faults before you,
our hidden sins in the light of your face.
[9]Our life ebbs away under your wrath;
our years end like a sigh.
[10]Seventy is the sum of our years,
or eighty, if we are strong;
Most of them are toil and sorrow;
they pass quickly, and we are gone.
[11]Who comprehends the strength of your anger?
Your wrath matches the fear it inspires.
[12]Teach us to count our days aright,
that we may gain wisdom of heart.
[13]Relent, O LORD! How long?
Have pity on your servants!
[14]Fill us at daybreak with your mercy,
that all our days we may sing for joy.
[15]Make us glad as many days as you humbled us,
for as many years as we have seen trouble.
[16]Show your deeds to your servants,
your glory to their children.
[17]May the favor of the Lord our God be ours.
Prosper the work of our hands!
Prosper the work of our hands!

Security Under God's Protection. 91:1 You who dwell in the shelter of the Most High,
who abide in the shade of the Almighty,
[2]Say to the LORD, "My refuge and fortress,
my God in whom I trust."
[3]He will rescue you from the fowler's snare,

from the destroying plague,
[4]He will shelter you with his pinions,
and under his wings you may take refuge;
his faithfulness is a protecting shield.
[5]You shall not fear the terror of the night
nor the arrow that flies by day, [6]Nor the pestilence that roams in darkness,
nor the plague that ravages at noon.
[7]Though a thousand fall at your side,
ten thousand at your right hand,
near you it shall not come.
[8]You need simply watch;
the punishment of the wicked you will see.

[9]Because you have the LORD for your refuge and have made the Most High your stronghold, [10]No evil shall befall you,
no affliction come near your tent.
[11]For he commands his angels with regard to you,
to guard you wherever you go.
[12]With their hands they shall support you,
lest you strike your foot against a stone.
[13]You can tread upon the asp and the viper,
trample the lion and the dragon.

[14]Because he clings to me I will deliver him;
because he knows my name I will set him on high.
[15]He will call upon me and I will answer;
I will be with him in distress;
I will deliver him and give him honor.
[16]With length of days I will satisfy him,
and fill him with my saving power.

A Hymn of Thanksgiving for God's Fidelity. 92:1 A psalm. A sabbath song.

[2]It is good to give thanks to the LORD,
to sing praise to your name, Most High,
[3]To proclaim your love at daybreak,
your faithfulness in the night,
[4]With the ten-stringed harp,
with melody upon the lyre.
[5]For you make me jubilant, LORD, by your deeds;
at the works of your hands I shout for joy.

[6]How great are your works, LORD!
How profound your designs!
[7]A senseless person cannot know this;
a fool cannot comprehend.
[8]Though the wicked flourish like grass
and all sinners thrive,

They are destined for eternal destruction;
[9]but you, LORD, are forever on high.
[10]Indeed your enemies, LORD,
indeed your enemies shall perish;
all sinners shall be scattered.

[11]You have given me the strength of a wild ox;
you have poured rich oil upon me.
[12]My eyes look with glee on my wicked enemies;
my ears shall hear what happens to my wicked foes.
[13]The just shall flourish like the palm tree,
shall grow like a cedar of Lebanon.
[14]Planted in the house of the LORD,
they shall flourish in the courts of our God.
[15]They shall bear fruit even in old age,
they will stay fresh and green, [16]To proclaim: "The LORD is just;
my rock, in whom there is no wrong."

God Is a Mighty King. 93:1 The LORD is king, robed with majesty;
the LORD is robed, girded with might.
The world will surely stand in place,
never to be moved.
[2]Your throne stands firm from of old;
you are from everlasting.
[3]The flood has raised up, LORD;
the flood has raised up its roar;
the flood has raised its pounding waves.
[4]More powerful than the roar of many waters,
more powerful than the breakers of the sea,
powerful in the heavens is the LORD.
[5]Your decrees are firmly established;
holiness befits your house, LORD,
for all the length of days.

A Prayer for Deliverance from the Wicked. 94:1 LORD, avenging God, avenging God, shine forth!
[2]Rise up, O judge of the earth;
give the proud what they deserve!

[3]How long, LORD, shall the wicked,
how long shall the wicked glory?
[4]How long will they mouth haughty speeches,
go on boasting, all these evildoers?
[5]They crush your people, LORD,
torment your very own.
[6]They kill the widow and alien;
the orphan they murder.
[7]They say, "The LORD does not see;
the God of Jacob takes no notice."

[8]Understand, you stupid people!
You fools, when will you be wise?
[9]Does the one who shaped the ear not hear?
The one who formed the eye not see?
[10]Does the one who guides nations not rebuke?
The one who teaches man not have knowledge?
[11]The LORD knows the plans of man;
they are like a fleeting breath.

[12]Blessed the one whom you guide, LORD,
whom you teach by your instruction, [13]To give rest from evil days,
while a pit is being dug for the wicked.
[14]For the LORD will not forsake his people,
nor abandon his inheritance.
[15]Judgment shall again be just,
and all the upright of heart will follow it.

[16]Who will rise up for me against the wicked?
Who will stand up for me against evildoers?
[17]If the LORD were not my help,
I would long have been silent in the grave.
[18]When I say, "My foot is slipping,"
your mercy, LORD, holds me up.
[19]When cares increase within me,
your comfort gives me joy.

[20]Can unjust judges be your allies,
those who create burdens by decree, [21]Those who conspire against the just
and condemn the innocent to death?
[22]No, the LORD is my secure height,
my God, my rock of refuge,
[23]Who will turn back their evil upon them
and destroy them for their wickedness.
Surely the LORD our God will destroy them!

A Call to Praise and Obedience.
95:1 Come, let us sing joyfully to the LORD;
cry out to the rock of our salvation.
[2]Let us come before him with a song of praise,
joyfully sing out our psalms.
[3]For the LORD is the great God,
the great king over all gods,
[4]Whose hand holds the depths of the earth;
who owns the tops of the mountains.
[5]The sea and dry land belong to God,
who made them, formed them by hand.

[6]Enter, let us bow down in worship;
let us kneel before the LORD who made us.

[7]For he is our God,
we are the people he shepherds,
the sheep in his hands.

Oh, that today you would hear his voice:
[8]Do not harden your hearts as at Meribah,
as on the day of Massah in the desert.
[9]There your ancestors tested me;
they tried me though they had seen my works.
[10]Forty years I loathed that generation;
I said: "This people's heart goes astray;
they do not know my ways."
[11]Therefore I swore in my anger:
"They shall never enter my rest."

God of the Universe. 96:1 Sing to the LORD a new song;
sing to the LORD, all the earth.
[2]Sing to the LORD, bless his name;
proclaim his salvation day after day.
[3]Tell his glory among the nations;
among all peoples, his marvelous deeds.

[4]For great is the LORD and highly to be praised,
to be feared above all gods.
[5]For the gods of the nations are idols,
but the LORD made the heavens.
[6]Splendor and power go before him;
power and grandeur are in his holy place.

[7]Give to the LORD, you families of nations,
give to the LORD glory and might;
[8]give to the LORD the glory due his name!
Bring gifts and enter his courts;
[9]bow down to the LORD, splendid in holiness.
Tremble before him, all the earth;
[10]declare among the nations: The LORD is king.
The world will surely stand fast, never to be shaken.
He rules the peoples with fairness.

[11]Let the heavens be glad and the earth rejoice;
let the sea and what fills it resound;
[12]let the plains be joyful and all that is in them.
Then let all the trees of the forest rejoice [13]before the LORD who comes,
who comes to govern the earth,
To govern the world with justice
and the peoples with faithfulness.

☐ JOHN 3:1-21

Nicodemus. 3:1 Now there was a Pharisee named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews. [2]He came to Jesus at night and said to him, "Rabbi, we know that you are a teacher who has come from God, for no one can do these signs that you are doing unless God is with him." [3]Jesus answered and said to him, "Amen, amen, I say to you, no one can see the kingdom of God without being born from above." [4]Nicodemus said to him, "How can a person once grown old be born again? Surely he cannot reenter his mother's womb and be born again, can he?" [5]Jesus answered, "Amen, amen, I say to you, no one can enter the kingdom of God without being born of water and Spirit. [6]What is born of flesh is flesh and what is born of spirit is spirit. [7]Do not be amazed that I told you, 'You must be born from above.' [8]The wind blows where it wills, and you can hear the sound it makes, but you do not know where it comes from or where it goes; so it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit." [9]Nicodemus answered and said to him, "How can this happen?" [10]Jesus answered and said to him, "You are the teacher of Israel and you do not understand this? [11]Amen, amen, I say to you, we speak of what we know and we testify to what we have seen, but you people do not accept our testimony. [12]If I tell you about earthly things and you do not believe, how will you believe if I tell you about heavenly things? [13]No one has gone up to heaven except the one who has come down from heaven, the Son of Man. [14]And just as Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, [15]so that everyone who believes in him may have eternal life."

[16]For God so loved the world that he gave his only Son, so that everyone who believes in him might not perish but might have eternal life. [17]For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but that the world might be saved through him. [18]Whoever believes in him will not be condemned, but whoever does not believe has already been condemned, because he has not believed in the name of the only Son of God. [19]And this is the verdict, that the light came into the world, but people preferred darkness to light, because their works were evil. [20]For everyone who does wicked things hates the light and does not come toward the light, so that his works might not be exposed. [21]But whoever lives the truth comes to the light, so that his works may be clearly seen as done in God.

St. Apollinarius; Blessed Gregory Lopez

> If I were to die in a few hours, I would do nothing more than I do now. For now I am actually giving to God all that I have. I cannot give more unless God in His mercy bestows it on me.

☐ PSALMS 97-102

The Divine Ruler of All.* 97:1 The LORD is king; let the earth rejoice;
let the many islands be glad.
[2]Cloud and darkness surround him; justice and right are the foundation of his throne.
[3]Fire goes before him,
consuming his foes on every side.
[4]His lightening illumines the world;
the earth sees and trembles.
[5]The mountains melt like wax before the LORD,
before the Lord of all the earth.
[6]The heavens proclaim his justice;
all peoples see his glory.

[7]All who serve idols are put to shame,
who glory in worthless things;
all gods bow down before him.
[8]Zion hears and is glad,

and the daughters of Judah rejoice
because of your judgments, O LORD.
[9]For you, LORD, are the Most High over all the earth,
exalted far above all gods.
[10]You who love the LORD, hate evil,
he protects the souls of the faithful,
rescues them from the hand of the wicked.
[11]Light dawns for the just,
and gladness for the honest of heart.
[12]Rejoice in the LORD, you just,
and give thanks at the remembrance of his holiness.

The Coming of God. 98:1 A psalm.

Sing a new song to the LORD,
for he has done marvelous deeds.
His right hand and holy arm
have won the victory.
[2]The LORD has made his victory known;
has revealed his triumph in the sight of the nations, [3]He has remembered his mercy and faithfulness toward the house of Israel.
All the ends of the earth have seen
the victory of our God.

[4]Shout with joy to the LORD, all the earth;
break into song; sing praise.
[5]Sing praise to the LORD with the lyre,
with the lyre and melodious song.
[6]With trumpets and the sound of the horn shout with joy to the King, the LORD.

[7]Let the sea and what fills it resound,
the world and those who dwell there.
[8]Let the rivers clap their hands,
the mountains shout with them for joy,
[9]Before the LORD who comes,
who comes to govern the earth,
To govern the world with justice
and the peoples with fairness.

The Holy King. 99:1 The LORD is king, the peoples tremble;
he is enthroned on the cherubim, the earth quakes.
[2]Great is the LORD in Zion,
exalted above all the peoples.
[3]Let them praise your great and awesome name:
Holy is he!

[4]O mighty king, lover of justice,
you have established fairness;
you have created just rule in Jacob.

[5]Exalt the LORD, our God;
bow down before his footstool;
holy is he!

[6]Moses and Aaron were among his priests,
Samuel among those who called on his name;
they called on the LORD, and he answered them.
[7]From the pillar of cloud he spoke to them;
they kept his decrees, the law he had given them.
[8]O LORD, our God, you answered them;
you were a forgiving God to them,
though you punished their offenses.
[9]Exalt the LORD, our God;
bow down before his holy mountain;
holy is the LORD, our God.

Processional Hymn. 100:1 A psalm of thanksgiving.

Shout joyfully to the LORD, all you lands;
[2]serve the LORD with gladness;
come before him with joyful song.
[3]Know that the LORD is God,
he made us, we belong to him,
we are his people, the flock he shepherds.
[4]Enter his gates with thanksgiving,
his courts with praise.
Give thanks to him, bless his name;
[5]good indeed is the LORD,
His mercy endures forever,
his faithfulness lasts through every generation.

Norm of Life for Rulers. 101:1 A psalm of David.

I sing of mercy and justice;
to you, LORD, I sing praise.
[2]I study the the way of integrity;
when will you come to me?
I act with integrity of heart
within my household.
[3]I do not allow into my presence anything base.
I hate wrongdoing;
I will have no part of it.
[4]May the devious heart keep far from me;
the wicked I will not acknowledge.
[5]Whoever slanders a neighbor in secret
I will reduce to silence.
Haughty eyes and arrogant hearts
I cannot endure.

[6]I look to the faithful of the land

to sit at my side.
Whoever follows the way of integrity
is the one to enter my service.
7 No one who practices deceit
can remain within my house.
No one who speaks falsely
can last in my presence.
8 Morning after morning I clear all the wicked from the land, to rid the city of the LORD of all doers of evil.

Prayer in Time of Distress. 102:1 The prayer of one afflicted and wasting away whose anguish is poured out before the LORD.

2 LORD, hear my prayer;
let my cry come to you.
3 Do not hide your face from me
in the day of my distress.
Turn your ear to me;
when I call, answer me quickly.
4 For my days vanish like smoke;
my bones burn away as in a furnace.
5 My heart is withered, dried up like grass,
too wasted to eat my food.
6 From my loud groaning
I become just skin and bones.
7 I am like a desert owl,
like an owl among the ruins.
8 I lie awake and moan,
like a lone sparrow on the roof.
9 All day long my enemies taunt me;
in their rage, they make my name a curse.
10 I eat ashes like bread,
mingle my drink with tears.
11 Because of your furious wrath,
you lifted me up just to cast me down.
12 My days are like a lengthening shadow;
I wither like the grass.

13 But you, LORD, are enthroned forever;
your renown is for all generations.
14 You will again show mercy to Zion;
now is the time for pity;
the appointed time has come.
15 Its stones are dear to your servants;
its dust moves them to pity.
16 The nations shall fear your name, LORD,
all the kings of the earth, your glory,
17 Once the LORD has rebuilt Zion
and appeared in glory, 18 Heeding the plea of the lowly,

not scorning their prayer.
[19]Let this be written for the next generation,
for a people not yet born,
that they may praise the LORD:
[20]"The LORD looked down from the holy heights,
viewed the earth from heaven,
[21]To attend to the groaning of the prisoners,
to release those doomed to die."
[22]Then the LORD's name will be declared on Zion,
his praise in Jerusalem, [23]When peoples and kingdoms gather to serve the LORD.

[24]He has shattered my strength in mid-course,
has cut short my days.
[25]I plead, O my God,
do not take me in the midst of my days.
Your years last through all generations.
[26]Of old you laid the earth's foundations;
the heavens are the work of your hands.
[27]They perish, but you remain;
they all wear out like a garment;
Like clothing you change them and they are changed,
[28]but you are the same, your years have no end.
[29]May the children of your servants live on;
may their descendants live in your presence.

☐ JOHN 3:22-36

Final Witness of the Baptist. 3:22 After this, Jesus and his disciples went into the region of Judea, where he spent some time with them baptizing. [23]John was also baptizing in Aenon near Salim, because there was an abundance of water there, and people came to be baptized, [24]for John had not yet been imprisoned. [25]Now a dispute arose between the disciples of John and a Jew about ceremonial washings. [26]So they came to John and said to him, "Rabbi, the one who was with you across the Jordan, to whom you testified, here he is baptizing and everyone is coming to him." [27]John answered and said, "No one can receive anything except what has been given him from heaven. [28]You yourselves can testify that I said [that] I am not the Messiah, but that I was sent before him. [29]The one who has the bride is the bridegroom; the best man, who stands and listens to him, rejoices greatly at the bridegroom's voice. So this joy of mine has been made complete. [30]He must increase; I must decrease."

The One from Heaven. [31]The one who comes from above is above all. The one who is of the earth is earthly and speaks of earthly things. But the one who comes from heaven [is above all]. [32]He testifies to what he has seen and heard, but no one accepts his testimony. [33]Whoever does accept his testimony certifies that God is trustworthy. [34]For the one whom God sent speaks the words of God. He does not ration his gift of the Spirit. [35]The Father loves the Son and has given everything over to him. [36]Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life, but whoever disobeys the Son will not see life, but the wrath of God remains upon him.

St. Lawrence of Brindisi

God's Word is light to the mind and fire to the will so that a person may know and love the Lord. To the inner man who lives by the Spirit, it is bread and water, but a bread sweeter than any honey from the comb, and water more delicious than milk or wine.

— St. Lawrence of Brindisi

☐ PSALMS 103-106

Praise of Divine Goodness. 103:1 Of David.

Bless the LORD, my soul;
all my being, bless his holy name!
[2]Bless the LORD, my soul;
and do not forget all his gifts,
[3]Who pardons all your sins,
and heals all your ills,
[4]Who redeems your life from the pit,
and crowns you with mercy and compassion,
[5]Who fills your days with good things,
so your youth is renewed like the eagle's.

[6]The LORD does righteous deeds, brings justice to all the oppressed.
[7]He made known his ways to Moses,
to the Israelites his deeds.
[8]Merciful and gracious is the LORD,
slow to anger, abounding in mercy.
[9]He will not always accuse,
and nurses no lasting anger;
[10]He has not dealt with us as our sins merit,
nor requited us as our wrongs deserve.

[11]For as the heavens tower over the earth,
so his mercy towers over those who fear him.
[12]As far as the east is from the west,
so far has he removed our sins from us.
[13]As a father has compassion on his children,
so the LORD has compassion on those who fear him.
[14]For he knows how we are formed,
remembers that we are dust.
[15]As for man, his days are like the grass;
he blossoms like a flower in the field.
[16]A wind sweeps over it and it is gone;
its place knows it no more.
[17]But the LORD's mercy is from age to age,
toward those who fear him.
His salvation is for the children's children [18]of those who keep his covenant,
and remember to carry out his precepts.

[19]The LORD has set his throne in heaven;

his dominion extends over all.
[20]Bless the LORD, all you his angels, mighty in strength, acting at his behest,
obedient to his command.
[21]Bless the LORD, all you his hosts,
his ministers who carry out his will.
[22]Bless the LORD, all his creatures, everywhere in his domain.
Bless the LORD, my soul!

Praise of God the Creator. 104:1 Bless the LORD, my soul!
LORD, my God, you are great indeed!
You are clothed with majesty and splendor,
[2]robed in light as with a cloak.
You spread out the heavens like a tent;
[3]setting the beams of your chambers upon the waters.
You make the clouds your chariot;
traveling on the wings of the wind.
[4]You make the winds your messengers;
flaming fire, your ministers.

[5]You fixed the earth on its foundation,
so it can never be shaken.
[6]The deeps covered it like a garment;
above the mountains stood the waters.
[7]At your rebuke they took flight;
at the sound of your thunder they fled.
[8]They rushed up the mountains, down the valleys
to the place you had fixed for them.
[9]You set a limit they cannot pass;
never again will they cover the earth.

[10]You made springs flow in wadies
that wind among the mountains.
[11]They give drink to every beast of the field;
here wild asses quench their thirst.
[12]Beside them the birds of heaven nest;
among the branches they sing.
[13]You water the mountains from your chambers;
from the fruit of your labor the earth abounds.
[14]You make the grass grow for the cattle and plants for people's work
to bring forth food from the earth, [15]wine to gladden their hearts,
oil to make their faces shine,
and bread to sustain the human heart.
[16]The trees of the LORD drink their fill,
the cedars of Lebanon, which you planted.
[17]There the birds build their nests;
the stork in the junipers, its home.
[18]The high mountains are for wild goats;

the rocky cliffs, a refuge for badgers.

19 You made the moon to mark the seasons,
the sun that knows the hour of its setting.
20 You bring darkness and night falls,
then all the animals of the forest wander about.
21 Young lions roar for prey;
they seek their food from God.
22 When the sun rises, they steal away
and settle down in their dens.
23 People go out to their work,
to their labor till evening falls.

24 How varied are your works, LORD!
In wisdom you have made them all;
the earth is full of your creatures.
25 There is the sea, great and wide!
It teems with countless beings,
living things both large and small.
26 There ships ply their course and Leviathan, whom you formed to play with.

27 All of these look to you to give them food in due time.
28 When you give it to them, they gather;
when you open your hand, they are well filled.
29 When you hide your face, they panic.
Take away their breath, they perish
and return to the dust.
30 Send forth your spirit, they are created and you renew the face of the earth.

31 May the glory of the LORD endure forever;
may the LORD be glad in his works!
32 Who looks at the earth and it trembles,
touches the mountains and they smoke!
33 I will sing to the LORD all my life;
I will sing praise to my God while I live.
34 May my meditation be pleasing to him;
I will rejoice in the LORD.
35 May sinners vanish from the earth,
and the wicked be no more.
Bless the LORD, my soul! Hallelujah!

God's Fidelity to the Promise. 105:1 Give thanks to the LORD, invoke his name;
make known among the peoples his deeds!
2 Sing praise to him, play music;
proclaim all his wondrous deeds!
3 Glory in his holy name;
let hearts that seek the LORD rejoice!
4 Seek out the LORD and his might;

constantly seek his face.
[5]Recall the wondrous deeds he has done,
his wonders and words of judgment,
[6]You descendants of Abraham his servant,
offspring of Jacob the chosen one!

[7]He the LORD, is our God whose judgments reach through all the earth.
[8]He remembers forever his covenant,
the word he commanded for a thousand generations, [9]Which he made with Abraham,
and swore to Isaac,
[10]And ratified in a statute for Jacob,
an everlasting covenant for Israel:
[11]"To you I give the land of Canaan,
your own allotted inheritance."

[12]When they were few in number,
a handful, and strangers there, [13]Wandering from nation to nation,
from one kingdom to another people, [14]He let no one oppress them;
for their sake he rebuked kings:
[15]"Do not touch my anointed ones,
to my prophets do no harm."

[16]Then he called down a famine on the land, destroyed the grain that sustained them.
[17]He had sent a man ahead of them,
Joseph, sold as a slave.
[18]They shackled his feet with chains;
collared his neck in iron, [19]Till his prediction came to pass,
and the word of the LORD proved him true.
[20]The king sent and released him;
the ruler of peoples set him free.
[21]He made him lord over his household,
ruler over all his possessions, [22]To instruct his princes as he desired,
to teach his elders wisdom.

[23]Then Israel entered Egypt;
Jacob sojourned in the land of Ham.
[24]God greatly increased his people,
made them more numerous than their foes.
[25]He turned their hearts to hate his people,
to treat his servants deceitfully.
[26]He sent his servant Moses,
and Aaron whom he had chosen.
[27]They worked his signs in Egypt and wonders in the land of Ham.

[28]He sent darkness and it grew dark,
but they rebelled against his word.
[29]He turned their waters into blood
and killed their fish.
[30]Their land swarmed with frogs,
even the chambers of their kings.
[31]He spoke and there came swarms of flies,
gnats through all their country.
[32]For rain he gave them hail,
flashes of lightning throughout their land.
[33]He struck down their vines and fig trees,
shattered the trees of their country.
[34]He spoke and the locusts came,
grasshoppers without number.
[35]They devoured every plant in the land;
they devoured the crops of their fields.
[36]He struck down every firstborn in the land,
the first fruits of all their vigor.
[37]He brought his people out,
laden with silver and gold;
no one among the tribes stumbled.
[38]Egypt rejoiced when they left,
for fear had seized them.

[39]He spread a cloud out as a cover,
and made a fire to light up the night.
[40]They asked and he brought them quail;
with bread from heaven he filled them.
[41]He split the rock and water gushed forth;
it flowed through the desert like a river.
[42]For he remembered his sacred promise to Abraham his servant.
[43]He brought his people out with joy,
his chosen ones with shouts of triumph.
[44]He gave them the lands of the nations,
they took possession of the wealth of the peoples, [45]That they might keep his statutes
and observe his teachings.
Hallelujah!

Israel's Confession of Sin. 106:1 Hallelujah!

Give thanks to the LORD, who is good,
whose mercy endures forever.
[2]Who can recount the mighty deeds of the LORD, proclaim in full God's praise?
[3]Blessed those who do what is right,
whose deeds are always just.
[4]Remember me, LORD, as you favor your people;
come to me with your saving help,

5 That I may see the prosperity of your chosen ones,
rejoice in the joy of your people,
and glory with your heritage.
6 We have sinned like our ancestors;
we have done wrong and are guilty.

7 Our ancestors in Egypt
did not attend to your wonders.
They did not remember your manifold mercy;
they defied the Most High at the Red Sea.
8 Yet he saved them for his name's sake
to make his power known.
9 He roared at the Red Sea and it dried up.
He led them through the deep as through a desert.
10 He rescued them from hostile hands,
freed them from the power of the enemy.
11 The waters covered their oppressors;
not one of them survived.
12 Then they believed his words and sang his praise.

13 But they soon forgot all he had done;
they had no patience for his plan.
14 In the desert they gave in to their cravings, tempted God in the wasteland.
15 So he gave them what they asked and sent a wasting disease against them.

16 In the camp they challenged Moses and Aaron, the holy one of the LORD.
17 The earth opened and swallowed Dathan,
it closed on the followers of Abiram.
18 Against their company the fire blazed;
flames consumed the wicked.

19 At Horeb they fashioned a calf, worshiped a metal statue.
20 They exchanged their glory
for the image of a grass-eating bull.
21 They forgot the God who had saved them,
who had done great deeds in Egypt, 22 Amazing deeds in the land of Ham,
fearsome deeds at the Red Sea.
23 He would have decreed their destruction,
had not Moses, his chosen one, Withstood him in the breach
to turn back his destroying anger.

24 Next they despised the beautiful land;
they did not believe the promise.
25 In their tents they complained;

they did not heed the voice of the LORD.
[26]So with raised hand he swore
he would destroy them in the desert, [27]And scatter their descendants among the nations,
disperse them in foreign lands.

[28]They joined in the rites of Baal of Peor,
ate food sacrificed to the dead.
[29]They provoked him by their actions,
and a plague broke out among them.
[30]Then Phinehas rose to intervene,
and the plague was brought to a halt.
[31]This was counted for him as a righteous deed
for all generations to come.

[32]At the waters of Meribah they angered God,
and Moses suffered because of them.
[33]They so embittered his spirit that rash words crossed his lips.

[34]They did not destroy the peoples
as the LORD had commanded them, [35]But mingled with the nations
and imitated their ways.
[36]They served their idols
and were ensnared by them.
[37]They sacrificed to demons
their own sons and daughters, [38]Shedding innocent blood,
the blood of their own sons and daughters,
Whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan,
desecrating the land with bloodshed.
[39]They defiled themselves by their actions,
became adulterers by their conduct.
[40]So the LORD grew angry with his people,
abhorred his own heritage.
[41]He handed them over to the nations,
and their adversaries ruled over them.
[42]Their enemies oppressed them,
kept them under subjection.
[43]Many times did he rescue them,
but they kept rebelling and scheming
and were brought low by their own guilt.
[44]Still God had regard for their affliction
when he heard their wailing.
[45]For their sake he remembered his covenant
and relented in his abundant mercy, [46]Winning for them compassion
from all who held them captive.
[47]Save us, LORD, our God;
gather us from among the nations

That we may give thanks to your holy name
and glory in praising you.
48 Blessed be the LORD, the God of Israel,
from everlasting to everlasting!
Let all the people say, Amen!
Hallelujah!

☐ JOHN 4:1-42

4:1 Now when Jesus learned that the Pharisees had heard that Jesus was making and baptizing more disciples than John
2 (although Jesus himself was not baptizing, just his disciples), 3 he left Judea and returned to Galilee.

The Samaritan Woman. 4 He had to pass through Samaria. 5 So he came to a town of Samaria called Sychar, near the plot of land that Jacob had given to his son Joseph. 6 Jacob's well was there. Jesus, tired from his journey, sat down there at the well. It was about noon.

7 A woman of Samaria came to draw water. Jesus said to her, "Give me a drink." 8 His disciples had gone into the town to buy food. 9 The Samaritan woman said to him, "How can you, a Jew, ask me, a Samaritan woman, for a drink?" (For Jews use nothing in common with Samaritans.) 10 Jesus answered and said to her, "If you knew the gift of God and who is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him and he would have given you living water." 11 [The woman] said to him, "Sir, you do not even have a bucket and the well is deep; where then can you get this living water? 12 Are you greater than our father Jacob, who gave us this well and drank from it himself with his children and his flocks?" 13 Jesus answered and said to her, "Everyone who drinks this water will be thirsty again; 14 but whoever drinks the water I shall give will never thirst; the water I shall give will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life." 15 The woman said to him, "Sir, give me this water, so that I may not be thirsty or have to keep coming here to draw water."

16 Jesus said to her, "Go call your husband and come back." 17 The woman answered and said to him, "I do not have a husband." Jesus answered her, "You are right in saying, 'I do not have a husband.' 18 For you have had five husbands, and the one you have now is not your husband. What you have said is true." 19 The woman said to him, "Sir, I can see that you are a prophet. 20 Our ancestors worshiped on this mountain; but you people say that the place to worship is in Jerusalem." 21 Jesus said to her, "Believe me, woman, the hour is coming when you will worship the Father neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem. 22 You people worship what you do not understand; we worship what we understand, because salvation is from the Jews. 23 But the hour is coming, and is now here, when true worshipers will worship the Father in Spirit and truth; and indeed the Father seeks such people to worship him. 24 God is Spirit, and those who worship him must worship in Spirit and truth." 25 The woman said to him, "I know that the Messiah is coming, the one called the Anointed; when he comes, he will tell us everything." 26 Jesus said to her, "I am he, the one who is speaking with you."

27 At that moment his disciples returned, and were amazed that he was talking with a woman, but still no one said, "What are you looking for?" or "Why are you talking with her?" 28 The woman left her water jar and went into the town and said to the people, 29 "Come see a man who told me everything I have done. Could he possibly be the Messiah?" 30 They went out of the town and came to him. 31 Meanwhile, the disciples urged him, "Rabbi, eat." 32 But he said to them, "I have food to eat of which you do not know." 33 So the disciples said to one another, "Could someone have brought him something to eat?" 34 Jesus said to them, "My food is to do the will of the one who sent me and to finish his work. 35 Do you not say, 'In four months the harvest will be here'? I tell you, look up and see the fields ripe for the harvest. 36 The reaper is already receiving his payment and gathering crops for eternal life, so that the sower and reaper can rejoice together. 37 For here the saying is verified that 'One sows and another reaps.' 38 I sent you to reap what you have not worked for; others have done the work, and you are sharing the fruits of their work."

39 Many of the Samaritans of that town began to believe in him because of the word of the woman who testified, "He told me everything I have done." 40 When the Samaritans came to him, they invited him to stay with them; and he stayed there two days. 41 Many more began to believe in him because of his word, 42 and they said to the woman, "We no longer believe because of your word; for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this is truly the savior of the world."

St. Mary Magdalene

The Magdalene, most of all, is the model I like to follow. That boldness of hers, which would be so amazing if it weren't the boldness of a lover, won the heart of Jesus, and how it fascinates mine!

☐ PSALMS 107-111

God the Savior of Those in Distress.

107:1 "Give thanks to the LORD for he is good,
his mercy endures forever!"
2 Let that be the prayer of the LORD's redeemed,
those redeemed from the hand of the foe,
3 Those gathered from foreign lands,
from east and west, from north and south.

4 Some had lost their way in a barren desert;
found no path toward a city to live in.
5 They were hungry and thirsty;
their life was ebbing away.
6 In their distress they cried to the LORD,
who rescued them in their peril,
7 Guided them by a direct path
so they reached a city to live in.
8 Let them thank the LORD for his mercy,
such wondrous deeds for the children of Adam.
9 For he satisfied the thirsty,
filled the hungry with good things.

10 Some lived in darkness and gloom,
imprisoned in misery and chains.
11 Because they rebelled against God's word,
and scorned the counsel of the Most High, 12 He humbled their hearts through hardship;
they stumbled with no one to help.
13 In their distress they cried to the LORD,
who saved them in their peril;
14 He brought them forth from darkness and the shadow of death and broke their chains asunder.
15 Let them thank the LORD for his mercy,
such wondrous deeds for the children of Adam.
16 For he broke down the gates of bronze and snapped the bars of iron.

17 Some fell sick from their wicked ways,
afflicted because of their sins.
18 They loathed all manner of food;
they were at the gates of death.
19 In their distress they cried to the LORD,

who saved them in their peril,
[20]Sent forth his word to heal them,
and snatched them from the grave.
[21]Let them thank the LORD for his mercy,
such wondrous deeds for the children of Adam.
[22]Let them offer a sacrifice in thanks,
recount his works with shouts of joy.

[23]Some went off to sea in ships,
plied their trade on the deep waters.
[24]They saw the works of the LORD,
the wonders of God in the deep.
[25]He commanded and roused a storm wind;
it tossed the waves on high.
[26]They rose up to the heavens, sank to the depths;
their hearts trembled at the danger.
[27]They reeled, staggered like drunkards;
their skill was of no avail.
[28]In their distress they cried to the LORD,
who brought them out of their peril;
[29]He hushed the storm to silence,
the waves of the sea were stilled.
[30]They rejoiced that the sea grew calm,
that God brought them to the harbor they longed for.
[31]Let them thank the LORD for his mercy,
such wondrous deeds for the children of Adam.
[32]Let them extol him in the assembly of the people,
and praise him in the council of the elders.

[33]God changed rivers into desert,
springs of water into thirsty ground, [34]Fruitful land into a salty waste,
because of the wickedness of its people.
[35]He changed the desert into pools of water,
arid land into springs of water, [36]And settled the hungry there;
they built a city to live in.
[37]They sowed fields and planted vineyards,
brought in an abundant harvest.
[38]God blessed them, and they increased greatly,
and their livestock did not decrease.
[39]But he poured out contempt on princes,
made them wander trackless wastes, [40]Where they were diminished and brought low through misery and cruel oppression.
[41]While he released the poor man from affliction,
and increased their families like flocks.
[42]The upright saw this and rejoiced;
all wickedness shut its mouth.
[43]Whoever is wise will take note of these things,

and ponder the merciful deeds of the LORD.

Prayer for Victory. 108:1 A song; a psalm of David.

[2]My heart is steadfast, God;
my heart is steadfast.
Let me sing and chant praise.
[3]Awake, lyre and harp!
I will wake the dawn.
[4]I will praise you among the peoples, LORD;
I will chant your praise among the nations.
[5]For your mercy is greater than the heavens;
your faithfulness, to the skies.
[6]Appear on high over the heavens, God;
your glory above all the earth.
[7]Help with your right hand and answer us
that your loved ones may escape.

[8]God speaks in his holiness:
"I will exult, I will apportion Shechem;
the valley of Succoth I will measure out.
[9]Gilead is mine, mine is Manasseh;
Ephraim is the helmet for my head,
Judah, my scepter.
[10]Moab is my washbowl;
upon Edom I cast my sandal;
I will shout in triumph over Philistia."

[11]Who will bring me to the fortified city?
Who will lead me into Edom?
[12]Was it not you who rejected us, God?
Do you no longer march with our armies?
[13]Give us aid against the foe;
worthless is human help.
[14]We will triumph with the help of God,
who will trample down our foes.

Prayer of a Person Falsely Accused. 109:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]O God, whom I praise, do not be silent,
for wicked and treacherous mouths attack me.
They speak against me with lying tongues;
[3]with hateful words they surround me,
attacking me without cause.
[4]In return for my love they slander me,
even though I prayed for them.
[5]They repay me evil for good,
hatred for my love.
[6]Appoint an evil one over him,
an accuser to stand at his right hand,

7 That he may be judged and found guilty,
that his plea may be in vain.
8 May his days be few;
may another take his office.
9 May his children be fatherless,
his wife, a widow.
10 May his children wander and beg,
driven from their hovels.
11 May the usurer snare all he owns,
strangers plunder all he earns.
12 May no one treat him with mercy
or pity his fatherless children.
13 May his posterity be destroyed,
their name rooted out in the next generation.
14 May his fathers' guilt be mentioned to the LORD;
his mother's sin not rooted out.
15 May their guilt be always before the LORD,
till their memory is banished from the earth, 16 For he did not remember to show mercy,
but hounded the wretched poor
and brought death to the brokenhearted.
17 He loved cursing; may it come upon him;
he hated blessing; may none come to him.
18 May cursing clothe him like a robe;
may it enter his belly like water,
his bones like oil.
19 May it be near as the clothes he wears,
as the belt always around him.

20 May this be the reward for my accusers from the LORD,
for those speaking evil against me.
21 But you, LORD, are my Lord,
deal kindly with me for your name's sake;
in your great mercy rescue me.
22 For I am poor and needy;
my heart is pierced within me.
23 Like a lengthening shadow I am gone,
I am shaken off like the locust.
24 My knees totter from fasting;
my flesh has wasted away.
25 I have become a mockery to them;
when they see me, they shake their heads.
26 Help me, LORD, my God;
save me in your mercy.
27 Make them know this is your hand,
that you, LORD, have done this.
28 Though they curse, may you bless;
arise, shame them, that your servant may rejoice.
29 Clothe my accusers with disgrace;
make them wear their shame like a mantle.

[30]I will give fervent thanks to the LORD;
before a crowd I will praise him.
[31]For he stands at the right hand of the poor to save him from those who pass judgment on him.

God Appoints the King both King and Priest. 110:1 A psalm of David.

The LORD says to my lord:
"Sit at my right hand,
while I make your enemies your footstool."
[2]The scepter of your might:
the LORD extends your strong scepter from Zion.
Have dominion over your enemies!
[3]Yours is princely power from the day of your birth.
In holy splendor before the daystar,
like dew I begot you.
[4]The LORD has sworn and will not waver:
"You are a priest forever in the manner of Melchizedek."
[5]At your right hand is the Lord,
who crushes kings on the day of his wrath,
[6]Who judges nations, heaps up corpses,
crushes heads across the wide earth,
[7]Who drinks from the brook by the wayside
and thus holds high his head.

Praise of God for Goodness to Israel. 111:1 Hallelujah!

I will praise the LORD with all my heart
in the assembled congregation of the upright.
[2]Great are the works of the LORD,
studied by all who delight in them.
[3]Majestic and glorious is his work,
his righteousness endures forever.
[4]He won renown for his wondrous deeds;
gracious and merciful is the LORD.
[5]He gives food to those who fear him,
he remembers his covenant forever.
[6]He showed his powerful deeds to his people,
giving them the inheritance of the nations.
[7]The works of his hands are true and just,
reliable all his decrees,
[8]Established forever and ever,
to be observed with truth and equity.
[9]He sent release to his people,
decreed his covenant forever;
holy and fearsome is his name.
[10]The fear of the LORD is the beginning of wisdom;
prudent are all who practice it.
His praise endures forever.

☐ JOHN 4:43-5:18

Return to Galilee. 4:43 After the two days, he left there for Galilee. [44]For Jesus himself testified that a prophet has no honor in his native place. [45]When he came into Galilee, the Galileans welcomed him, since they had seen all he had done in Jerusalem at the feast; for they themselves had gone to the feast.

Second Sign at Cana. [46]Then he returned to Cana in Galilee, where he had made the water wine. Now there was a royal official whose son was ill in Capernaum. [47]When he heard that Jesus had arrived in Galilee from Judea, he went to him and asked him to come down and heal his son, who was near death. [48]Jesus said to him, "Unless you people see signs and wonders, you will not believe." [49]The royal official said to him, "Sir, come down before my child dies." [50]Jesus said to him, "You may go; your son will live." The man believed what Jesus said to him and left. [51]While he was on his way back, his slaves met him and told him that his boy would live. [52]He asked them when he began to recover. They told him, "The fever left him yesterday, about one in the afternoon." [53]The father realized that just at that time Jesus had said to him, "Your son will live," and he and his whole household came to believe. [54][Now] this was the second sign Jesus did when he came to Galilee from Judea.

Cure on a Sabbath. 5:1 After this, there was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. [2]Now there is in Jerusalem at the Sheep [Gate] a pool called in Hebrew Bethesda, with five porticoes. [3]In these lay a large number of ill, blind, lame, and crippled. [4] [5]One man was there who had been ill for thirty-eight years. [6]When Jesus saw him lying there and knew that he had been ill for a long time, he said to him, "Do you want to be well?" [7]The sick man answered him, "Sir, I have no one to put me into the pool when the water is stirred up; while I am on my way, someone else gets down there before me." [8]Jesus said to him, "Rise, take up your mat, and walk." [9]Immediately the man became well, took up his mat, and walked.

Now that day was a sabbath. [10]So the Jews said to the man who was cured, "It is the sabbath, and it is not lawful for you to carry your mat." [11]He answered them, "The man who made me well told me, 'Take up your mat and walk.' " [12]They asked him, "Who is the man who told you, 'Take it up and walk'?" [13]The man who was healed did not know who it was, for Jesus had slipped away, since there was a crowd there. [14]After this Jesus found him in the temple area and said to him, "Look, you are well; do not sin any more, so that nothing worse may happen to you." [15]The man went and told the Jews that Jesus was the one who had made him well. [16]Therefore, the Jews began to persecute Jesus because he did this on a sabbath. [17]But Jesus answered them, "My Father is at work until now, so I am at work." [18]For this reason the Jews tried all the more to kill him, because he not only broke the sabbath but he also called God his own father, making himself equal to God.

St. Bridget of Sweden

If we saw an angel clearly, we would die of pleasure.

— St. Bridget of Sweden

☐ PSALMS 112-118

The Blessings of the Just. 112:1 Hallelujah!

Blessed the man who fears the LORD,
who greatly delights in his commands.
[2]His descendants shall be mighty in the land,
a generation of the upright will be blessed.
[3]Wealth and riches shall be in his house;
his righteousness shall endure forever.

[4]Light shines through the darkness for the upright;
gracious, compassionate, and righteous.
[5]It is good for the man gracious in lending,
who conducts his affairs with justice.
[6]For he shall never be shaken;
the righteous shall be remembered forever.
[7]He shall not fear an ill report;
his heart is steadfast, trusting the LORD.
[8]His heart is tranquil, without fear,
till at last he looks down on his foes.
[9]Lavishly he gives to the poor;
his righteousness shall endure forever;
his horn shall be exalted in honor.
[10]The wicked sees and is angry;
gnashes his teeth and wastes away;
the desire of the wicked come to nothing.

Praise of God's Care for the Poor. 113:1 Hallelujah!

Praise, you servants of the LORD,
praise the name of the LORD.
[2]Blessed be the name of the LORD
both now and forever.
[3]From the rising of the sun to its setting
let the name of the LORD be praised.

[4]High above all nations is the LORD;
above the heavens his glory.
[5]Who is like the LORD our God,
enthroned on high,
[6]looking down on heaven and earth?
[7]He raises the needy from the dust,
lifts the poor from the ash heap,
[8]Seats them with princes,
the princes of the people, [9]Gives the childless wife a home,
the joyful mother of children.
Hallelujah!

The Lord's Wonders at the Exodus.
114:1 When Israel came forth from Egypt,
the house of Jacob from an alien people,
[2]Judah became God's sanctuary,
Israel, God's domain.
[3]The sea saw and fled;
the Jordan turned back.
[4]The mountains skipped like rams;
the hills, like lambs.
[5]Why was it, sea, that you fled?
Jordan, that you turned back?

6 Mountains, that you skipped like rams?
You hills, like lambs?
7 Tremble, earth, before the Lord,
before the God of Jacob,
8 Who turned the rock into pools of water,
flint into a flowing spring.

The Greatness of the True God. 115:1 Not to us, LORD, not to us
but to your name give glory
because of your mercy and faithfulness.
2 Why should the nations say,
"Where is their God?"
3 Our God is in heaven
and does whatever he wills.

4 Their idols are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
5 They have mouths but do not speak,
eyes but do not see.
6 They have ears but do not hear,
noses but do not smell.
7 They have hands but do not feel,
feet but do not walk;
they produce no sound from their throats.
8 Their makers will be like them,
and anyone who trusts in them.

9 The house of Israel trusts in the LORD,
who is their help and shield.
10 The house of Aaron trusts in the LORD,
who is their help and shield.
11 Those who fear the LORD trust in the LORD,
who is their help and shield.
12 The LORD remembers us and will bless us,
will bless the house of Israel,
will bless the house of Aaron, 13 Will bless those who fear the LORD,
small and great alike.
14 May the LORD increase your number,
yours and your descendants.
15 May you be blessed by the LORD,
maker of heaven and earth.
16 The heavens belong to the LORD,
but he has given the earth to the children of Adam.
17 The dead do not praise the LORD,
not all those go down into silence.
18 It is we who bless the LORD,
both now and forever.
Hallelujah!

Thanksgiving to God Who Saves from

Death. 116:1 I love the LORD, who listened to my voice in supplication, [2]Who turned an ear to me
on the day I called.
[3]I was caught by the cords of death;
the snares of Sheol had seized me;
I felt agony and dread.
[4]Then I called on the name of the LORD,
"O LORD, save my life!"

[5]Gracious is the LORD and righteous;
yes, our God is merciful.
[6]The LORD protects the simple;
I was helpless, but he saved me.
[7]Return, my soul, to your rest;
the LORD has been very good to you.
[8]For my soul has been freed from death,
my eyes from tears, my feet from stumbling.
[9]I shall walk before the LORD
in the land of the living.

[10]I kept faith, even when I said,
"I am greatly afflicted!"
[11]I said in my alarm,
"All men are liars!"
[12]How can I repay the LORD
for all the great good done for me?
[13]I will raise the cup of salvation
and call on the name of the LORD.
[14]I will pay my vows to the LORD
in the presence of all his people.
[15]Dear in the eyes of the LORD is the death of his devoted.
[16]LORD, I am your servant,
your servant, the child of your maidservant;
you have loosed my bonds.
[17]I will offer a sacrifice of praise
and call on the name of the LORD.
[18]I will pay my vows to the LORD
in the presence of all his people, [19]In the courts of the house of the LORD,
in your midst, O Jerusalem.
Hallelujah!

The Nations Called To Praise. 117:1
Praise the LORD, all you nations!
Extol him, all you peoples!
[2]His mercy for us is strong;
the faithfulness of the LORD is forever.
Hallelujah!

Hymn of Thanksgiving. 118:1
Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good,
his mercy endures forever.
2Let Israel say:
his mercy endures forever.
3Let the house of Aaron say,
his mercy endures forever.
4Let those who fear the LORD say,
his mercy endures forever.

5In danger I called on the LORD;
the LORD answered me and set me free.
6The LORD is with me; I am not afraid;
what can mortals do against me?
7The LORD is with me as my helper;
I shall look in triumph on my foes.
8Better to take refuge in the LORD
than to put one's trust in mortals.
9Better to take refuge in the LORD
than to put one's trust in princes.

10All the nations surrounded me;
in the LORD's name I cut them off.
11They surrounded me on every side;
in the LORD's name I cut them off.
12They surrounded me like bees;
they burned up like fire among thorns;
in the LORD's name I cut them off.
13I was hard pressed and falling,
but the LORD came to my help.
14The LORD, my strength and might,
has become my savior.

15The joyful shout of deliverance
is heard in the tents of the righteous:
"The LORD's right hand works valiantly; 16the LORD's right hand is raised;
the LORD's right hand works valiantly."
17I shall not die but live and declare the deeds of the LORD.
18The LORD chastised me harshly,
but did not hand me over to death.

19Open the gates of righteousness;
I will enter and thank the LORD.
20This is the LORD's own gate,
through it the righteous enter.
21I thank you for you answered me;
you have been my savior.
22The stone the builders rejected
has become the cornerstone.

[23]By the LORD has this been done;
it is wonderful in our eyes.
[24]This is the day the LORD has made;
let us rejoice in it and be glad.
[25]LORD, grant salvation!
LORD, grant good fortune!

[26]Blessed is he who comes in the name of the LORD.
We bless you from the house of the LORD.
[27]The LORD is God and has enlightened us.
Join in procession with leafy branches
up to the horns of the altar.

[28]You are my God, I give you thanks;
my God, I offer you praise.
[29]Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good,
his mercy endures forever.

☐ JOHN 5:19-30

The Work of the Son. 5:19 Jesus answered and said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, a son cannot do anything on his own, but only what he sees his father doing; for what he does, his son will do also. [20]For the Father loves his Son and shows him everything that he himself does, and he will show him greater works than these, so that you may be amazed. [21]For just as the Father raises the dead and gives life, so also does the Son give life to whomever he wishes. [22]Nor does the Father judge anyone, but he has given all judgment to his Son, [23]so that all may honor the Son just as they honor the Father. Whoever does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him. [24]Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever hears my word and believes in the one who sent me has eternal life and will not come to condemnation, but has passed from death to life. [25]Amen, amen, I say to you, the hour is coming and is now here when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live. [26]For just as the Father has life in himself, so also he gave to his Son the possession of life in himself. [27]And he gave him power to exercise judgment, because he is the Son of Man. [28]Do not be amazed at this, because the hour is coming in which all who are in the tombs will hear his voice [29]and will come out, those who have done good deeds to the resurrection of life, but those who have done wicked deeds to the resurrection of condemnation.

[30]"I cannot do anything on my own; I judge as I hear, and my judgment is just, because I do not seek my own will but the will of the one who sent me."

☐ PSALM 119

A Prayer to God, the Lawgiver.* 119:1
Aleph. Blessed those whose way is blameless, who walk by the law of the LORD.

[2]Blessed those who keep his testimonies,
who seek him with all their heart.
[3]They do no wrong;
they walk in his ways.
[4]You have given them the command to observe your precepts with care.
[5]May my ways be firm
in the observance of your statutes!
[6]Then I will not be ashamed to ponder all your commandments.
[7]I will praise you with sincere heart
as I study your righteous judgments.
[8]I will observe your statutes;
do not leave me all alone.

Beth. [9]How can the young keep his way without fault?
Only by observing your words.
[10]With all my heart I seek you;
do not let me stray from your commandments.
[11]In my heart I treasure your promise,
that I may not sin against you.
[12]Blessed are you, O LORD;
teach me your statutes.
[13]With my lips I recite
all the judgments you have spoken.
[14]I find joy in the way of your testimonies more than in all riches.
[15]I will ponder your precepts

and consider your paths.
[16]In your statutes I take delight;
I will never forget your word.

Gimel. [17]Be kind to your servant that I may live,
that I may keep your word.
[18]Open my eyes to see clearly the wonders of your law.
[19]I am a sojourner in the land;
do not hide your commandments from me.
[20]At all times my soul is stirred with longing for your judgments.
[21]With a curse you rebuke the proud who stray from your commandments.
[22]Free me from disgrace and contempt,
for I keep your testimonies.
[23]Though princes meet and talk against me,
your servant meditates on your statutes.
[24]Your testimonies are my delight;
they are my counselors.

Daleth. [25]My soul clings to the dust;
give me life in accord with your word.
[26]I disclosed my ways and you answered me;
teach me your statutes.
[27]Make me understand the way of your precepts;
I will ponder your wondrous deeds.
[28]My soul is depressed;
lift me up acccording to your word.
[29]Lead me from the way of deceit;
favor me with your law.
[30]The way of loyalty I have chosen;
I have kept your judgments.
[31]I cling to your testimonies, LORD;
do not let me come to shame.
[32]I will run the way of your commandments,
for you will broaden my heart.

He. [33]LORD, teach me the way of your statutes;
I shall keep them with care.
[34]Give me understanding to keep your law,
to observe it with all my heart.
[35]Lead me in the path of your commandments,
for that is my delight.
[36]Direct my heart toward your testimonies and away from gain.
[37]Avert my eyes from what is worthless;
by your way give me life.
[38]For your servant, fulfill your promise made to those who fear you.
[39]Turn away from me the taunts I dread,

for your judgments are good.
[40]See how I long for your precepts;
in your righteousness give me life.

Waw. [41]Let your mercy come to me, LORD,
salvation in accord with your promise.
[42]Let me answer my taunters with a word,
for I trust in your word.
[43]Do not take the word of truth from my mouth,
for in your judgments is my hope.
[44]I will keep your law always,
for all time and forever.
[45]I will walk freely in an open space
because I cherish your precepts.
[46]I will speak openly of your testimonies without fear even before kings.
[47]I delight in your commandments,
which I dearly love.
[48]I lift up my hands to your commandments;
I study your statutes, which I love.

Zayin. [49]Remember your word to your servant
by which you give me hope.
[50]This is my comfort in affliction,
your promise that gives me life.
[51]Though the arrogant utterly scorn me,
I do not turn from your law.
[52]When I recite your judgments of old
I am comforted, LORD.
[53]Rage seizes me because of the wicked;
they forsake your law.
[54]Your statutes become my songs
wherever I make my home.
[55]Even at night I remember your name
in observance of your law, LORD.
[56]This is my good fortune,
for I have kept your precepts.

Heth. [57]My portion is the LORD;
I promise to observe your words.
[58]I entreat you with all my heart:
have mercy on me in accord with your promise.
[59]I have examined my ways
and turned my steps to your testimonies.
[60]I am prompt, I do not hesitate
in observing your commandments.
[61]Though the snares of the wicked surround me,
your law I do not forget.
[62]At midnight I rise to praise you because of your righteous judgments.
[63]I am the friend of all who fear you,

of all who observe your precepts.
64 The earth, LORD, is filled with your mercy;
teach me your statutes.

Teth. 65 You have treated your servant well,
according to your word, O LORD.
66 Teach me wisdom and knowledge,
for in your commandments I trust.
67 Before I was afflicted I went astray,
but now I hold to your promise.
68 You are good and do what is good;
teach me your statutes.
69 The arrogant smear me with lies,
but I keep your precepts with all my heart.
70 Their hearts are gross and fat;
as for me, your law is my delight.
71 It was good for me to be afflicted,
in order to learn your statutes.
72 The law of your mouth is more precious to me than heaps of silver and gold.

Yodh. 73 Your hands made me and fashioned me;
give me understanding to learn your commandments.
74 Those who fear you rejoice to see me,
because I hope in your word.
75 I know, LORD, that your judgments are righteous;
though you afflict me, you are faithful.
76 May your mercy comfort me
in accord with your promise to your servant.
77 Show me compassion that I may live,
for your law is my delight.
78 Shame the proud for leading me astray with falsehood,
that I may study your testimonies.
79 Let those who fear you turn to me,
those who acknowledge your testimonies.
80 May I be wholehearted toward your statutes,
that I may not be put to shame.

Kaph. 81 My soul longs for your salvation;
I put my hope in your word.
82 My eyes long to see your promise.
When will you comfort me?
83 I am like a wineskin shriveled by smoke,
but I have not forgotten your statutes.
84 How long can your servant survive?
When will your judgment doom my foes?
85 The arrogant have dug pits for me;
defying your law.
86 All your commandments are steadfast.
Help me! I am pursued without cause.
87 They have almost put an end to me on earth,

but I do not forsake your precepts.
[88]In your mercy give me life,
to observe the testimonies of your mouth.

Lamedh. [89]Your word, LORD, stands forever;
it is firm as the heavens.
[90]Through all generations your truth endures;
fixed to stand firm like the earth.
[91]By your judgments they stand firm to this day,
for all things are your servants.
[92]Had your law not been my delight,
I would have perished in my affliction.
[93]I will never forget your precepts;
through them you give me life.
[94]I am yours; save me,
for I cherish your precepts.
[95]The wicked hope to destroy me,
but I seek to understand your testimonies.
[96]I have seen the limits of all perfection,
but your commandment is without bounds.

Mem. [97]How I love your law, Lord!
I study it all day long.
[98]Your commandment makes me wiser than my foes,
as it is forever with me.
[99]I have more insight than all my teachers,
because I ponder your testimonies.
[100]I have more understanding than my elders,
because I keep your precepts.
[101]I keep my steps from every evil path,
that I may observe your word.
[102]From your judgments I do not turn,
for you have instructed me.
[103]How sweet to my tongue is your promise,
sweeter than honey to my mouth!
[104]Through your precepts I gain understanding;
therefore I hate all false ways.

Nun. [105]Your word is a lamp for my feet,
a light for my path.
[106]I make a solemn vow
to observe your righteous judgments.
[107]I am very much afflicted, LORD;
give me life in accord with your word.
[108]Accept my freely offered praise;
LORD, teach me your judgments.
[109]My life is always at risk,
but I do not forget your law.
[110]The wicked have set snares for me,
but from your precepts I do not stray.
[111]Your testimonies are my heritage forever;

they are the joy of my heart.
112 My heart is set on fulfilling your statutes;
they are my reward forever.

Samekh. 113 I hate every hypocrite;
your law I love.
114 You are my refuge and shield;
in your word I hope.
115 Depart from me, you wicked,
that I may keep the commandments of my God.
116 Sustain me by your promise that I may live;
do not disappoint me in my hope.
117 Strengthen me that I may be safe,
ever to contemplate your statutes.
118 You reject all who stray from your statutes,
for vain is their deceit.
119 Like dross you regard all the wicked on earth;
therefore I love your testimonies.
120 My flesh shudders with dread of you;
I fear your judgments.

Ayin. 121 I have fulfilled your righteous judgment;
do not abandon me to my oppressors.
122 Guarantee your servant's welfare;
do not let the arrogant oppress me.
123 My eyes long to see your salvation
and the promise of your righteousness.
124 Act with mercy toward your servant;
teach me your statutes.
125 I am your servant; give me discernment that I may know your testimonies.
126 It is time for the LORD to act;
they have disobeyed your law.
127 Truly I love your commandments
more than gold, more than the finest gold.
128 Thus, I follow all your precepts;
every wrong way I hate.

Pe. 129 Wonderful are your testimonies;
therefore I keep them.
130 The revelation of your words sheds light,
gives understanding to the simple.
131 I sigh with open mouth,
yearning for your commandments.
132 Turn to me and be gracious,
according to your judgment for those who love your name.
133 Steady my feet in accord with your promise;
do not let iniquity lead me.
134 Free me from human oppression,
that I may observe your precepts.
135 Let your face shine upon your servant;

teach me your statutes.
136 My eyes shed streams of tears
because your law is not observed.

Sadhe. 137 You are righteous, LORD,
and just are your judgments.
138 You have given your testimonies in righteousness and in surpassing faithfulness.
139 I am consumed with rage,
because my foes forget your words.
140 Your servant loves your promise;
it has been proved by fire.
141 Though belittled and despised,
I do not forget your precepts.
142 Your justice is forever right,
your law true.
143 Though distress and anguish come upon me,
your commandments are my delight.
144 Your testimonies are forever righteous;
give me understanding that I may live.
145 I call with all my heart, O LORD;
answer me that I may keep your statutes.
146 I call to you to save me that I may observe your testimonies.
147 I rise before dawn and cry out;
I put my hope in your words.
148 My eyes greet the night watches
as I meditate on your promise.
149 Hear my voice in your mercy, O LORD;
by your judgment give me life.
150 Malicious persecutors draw near me;
they are far from your law.
151 You are near, O LORD;
reliable are all your commandments.
152 Long have I known from your testimonies that you have established them forever.

Resh. 153 Look at my affliction and rescue me,
for I have not forgotten your law.
154 Take up my cause and redeem me;
for the sake of your promise give me life.
155 Salvation is far from sinners
because they do not cherish your statutes.
156 Your compassion is great, O LORD;
in accord with your judgments, give me life.
157 Though my persecutors and foes are many,
I do not turn from your testimonies.
158 I view the faithless with loathing
because they do not heed your promise.
159 See how I love your precepts, LORD;

in your mercy give me life.
160 Your every word is enduring;
all your righteous judgments are forever.

Shin. 161 Princes persecute me without reason,
but my heart reveres only your word.
162 I rejoice at your promise,
as one who has found rich spoil.
163 Falsehood I hate and abhor;
your law I love.
164 Seven times a day I praise you because your judgments are righteous.
165 Lovers of your law have much peace;
for them there is no stumbling block.
166 I look for your salvation, LORD,
and I fulfill your commandments.
167 I observe your testimonies;
I love them very much.
168 I observe your precepts and testimonies;
all my ways are before you.

Taw. 169 Let my cry come before you, LORD;
in keeping with your word, give me understanding.
170 Let my prayer come before you;
rescue me according to your promise.
171 May my lips pour forth your praise,
because you teach me your statutes.
172 May my tongue sing of your promise,
for all your commandments are righteous.
173 Keep your hand ready to help me,
for I have chosen your precepts.
174 I long for your salvation, LORD;
your law is my delight.
175 Let my soul live to praise you;
may your judgments give me help.
176 I have wandered like a lost sheep;
seek out your servant,
for I do not forget your commandments.

☐ JOHN 5:31-47

Witnesses to Jesus. 5:31 "If I testify on my own behalf, my testimony cannot be verified. 32 But there is another who testifies on my behalf, and I know that the testimony he gives on my behalf is true. 33 You sent emissaries to John, and he testified to the truth. 34 I do not accept testimony from a human being, but I say this so that you may be saved. 35 He was a burning and shining lamp, and for a while you were content to rejoice in his light. 36 But I have testimony greater than John's. The works that the Father gave me to accomplish, these works that I perform testify on my behalf that the Father has sent me. 37 Moreover, the Father who sent me has testified on my behalf. But you have never heard his voice nor seen his form, 38 and you do not have his word remaining in you, because you do not believe in the one whom he has sent. 39 You search the scriptures, because you think you have eternal life through them; even they testify on my behalf. 40 But you do not want to come to me to have life.

Unbelief of Jesus' Hearers. 41"I do not accept human praise; 42moreover, I know that you do not have the love of God in you. 43I came in the name of my Father, but you do not accept me; yet if another comes in his own name, you will accept him. 44How can you believe, when you accept praise from one another and do not seek the praise that comes from the only God? 45Do not think that I will accuse you before the Father: the one who will accuse you is Moses, in whom you have placed your hope. 46For if you had believed Moses, you would have believed me, because he wrote about me. 47But if you do not believe his writings, how will you believe my words?"

St. James

No one can be a Catholic without a simple faith that what the Church declares in God's name is God's Word, and therefore true. A man must simply believe that the Church is the oracle of God; he must be as certain of her mission as he is of the mission of the apostles.

—Blessed John Henry Newman

☐ PSALMS 120-127

Prayer of a Returned Exile. 120:1 A song of ascents.

The LORD answered me
when I called in my distress:
2LORD, deliver my soul from lying lips,
from a treacherous tongue.

3What will he inflict on you,
O treacherous tongue,
and what more besides?
4A warrior's arrows
sharpened with coals of brush wood!

5Alas, I am a foreigner in Meshech,
I live among the tents of Kedar!
6Too long do I live
among those who hate peace.
7When I speak of peace,
they are for war.

The Lord My Guardian. 121:1 A song of ascents.

I raise my eyes toward the mountains.
From whence shall come my help?
2My help comes from the LORD,
the maker of heaven and earth.

3He will not allow your foot to slip;
or your guardian to sleep.
4Behold, the guardian of Israel
never slumbers nor sleeps.

[5]The LORD is your guardian;
the LORD is your shade
at your right hand.
[6]By day the sun will not strike you,
nor the moon by night.
[7]The LORD will guard you from all evil;
he will guard your soul.
[8]The LORD will guard your coming and going
both now and forever.

A Pilgrim's Prayer for Jerusalem. 122:1 A song of ascents. Of David.

I rejoiced when they said to me,
"Let us go to the house of the LORD."
[2]And now our feet are standing within your gates, Jerusalem.
[3]Jerusalem, built as a city,
walled round about.
[4]There the tribes go up,
the tribes of the LORD,
As it was decreed for Israel,
to give thanks to the name of the LORD.
[5]There are the thrones of justice,
the thrones of the house of David.

[6]For the peace of Jerusalem pray:
"May those who love you prosper!
[7]May peace be within your ramparts,
prosperity within your towers."
[8]For the sake of my brothers and friends I say,
"Peace be with you."
[9]For the sake of the house of the LORD, our God,
I pray for your good.

Reliance on the Lord. 123:1 A song of ascents.

To you I raise my eyes,
to you enthroned in heaven.
[2]Yes, like the eyes of servants
on the hand of their masters,
Like the eyes of a maid
on the hand of her mistress,
So our eyes are on the LORD our God,
till we are shown favor.
[3]Show us favor, LORD, show us favor,
for we have our fill of contempt.
[4]Our souls are more than sated
with mockery from the insolent,
with contempt from the arrogant.

God, the Rescuer of the People. 124:1 A song of ascents. Of David.

Had not the LORD been with us,
let Israel say,
[2]Had not the LORD been with us,
when people rose against us,
[3]Then they would have swallowed us alive,
for their fury blazed against us.
[4]Then the waters would have engulfed us,
the torrent overwhelmed us;
[5]then seething water would have drowned us.
[6]Blessed is the LORD, who did not leave us to be torn by their teeth.
[7]We escaped with our lives like a bird
from the fowler's snare;
the snare was broken,
and we escaped.
[8]Our help is in the name of the LORD,
the maker of heaven and earth.

Israel's Protector. 125:1 A song of ascents.

Those trusting in the LORD are like Mount Zion, unshakable, forever enduring.
[2]As mountains surround Jerusalem,
the LORD surrounds his people
both now and forever.

[3]The scepter of the wicked will not prevail in the land allotted to the just,
Lest the just themselves
turn their hands to evil.

[4]Do good, LORD, to the good,
to those who are upright of heart.
[5]But those who turn aside to crooked ways
may the LORD send down with the evildoers.
Peace upon Israel!

The Reversal of Zion's Fortunes. 126:1 A song of ascents.

When the LORD restored the captives of Zion,
we thought we were dreaming.
[2]Then our mouths were filled with laughter;
our tongues sang for joy.
Then it was said among the nations,
"The LORD had done great things for them."
[3]The LORD has done great things for us;
Oh, how happy we were!
[4]Restore our captives, LORD,

like the dry stream beds of the Negeb.

[5]Those who sow in tears
will reap with cries of joy.
[6]Those who go forth weeping,
carrying sacks of seed,
Will return with cries of joy,
carrying their bundled sheaves.

The Need of God's Blessing. 127:1 A song of ascents. Of Solomon.

Unless the LORD build the house,
they labor in vain who build.
Unless the LORD guard the city,
in vain does the guard keep watch.
[2]It is vain for you to rise early and put off your rest at night,
To eat bread earned by hard toil—
all this God gives to his beloved in sleep.

[3]Certainly sons are a gift from the LORD,
the fruit of the womb, a reward.
[4]Like arrows in the hand of a warrior
are the sons born in one's youth.
[5]Blessed is the man who has filled his quiver with them.
He will never be shamed
for he will destroy his foes at the gate.

☐ JOHN 6:1-24

Multiplication of the Loaves. 6:1 After this, Jesus went across the Sea of Galilee [of Tiberias]. [2]A large crowd followed him, because they saw the signs he was performing on the sick. [3]Jesus went up on the mountain, and there he sat down with his disciples. [4]The Jewish feast of Passover was near. [5]When Jesus raised his eyes and saw that a large crowd was coming to him, he said to Philip, "Where can we buy enough food for them to eat?" [6]He said this to test him, because he himself knew what he was going to do. [7]Philip answered him, "Two hundred days' wages worth of food would not be enough for each of them to have a little [bit]." [8]One of his disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, said to him, [9]"There is a boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish; but what good are these for so many?" [10]Jesus said, "Have the people recline." Now there was a great deal of grass in that place. So the men reclined, about five thousand in number. [11]Then Jesus took the loaves, gave thanks, and distributed them to those who were reclining, and also as much of the fish as they wanted. [12]When they had had their fill, he said to his disciples, "Gather the fragments left over, so that nothing will be wasted." [13]So they collected them, and filled twelve wicker baskets with fragments from the five barley loaves that had been more than they could eat. [14]When the people saw the sign he had done, they said, "This is truly the Prophet, the one who is to come into the world." [15]Since Jesus knew that they were going to come and carry him off to make him king, he withdrew again to the mountain alone.

Walking on the Water. [16]When it was evening, his disciples went down to the sea, [17]embarked in a boat, and went across the sea to Capernaum. It had already grown dark, and Jesus had not yet come to them. [18]The sea was stirred up because a strong wind was blowing. [19]When they had rowed about three or four miles, they saw Jesus walking on the sea and coming near the boat, and they began to be afraid. [20]But he said to them, "It is I. Do not be afraid." [21]They wanted to take him into the boat, but the boat immediately arrived at the shore to which they were heading.

The Bread of Life Discourse. [22]The next day, the crowd that remained across the sea saw that there had been only one boat there, and that Jesus had not gone along with his disciples in the boat, but only his disciples had left. [23]Other boats came from Tiberias near the place where they had eaten the bread when the Lord gave thanks. [24]When the crowd saw that neither Jesus nor his disciples were there, they themselves got into boats and came to Capernaum looking for Jesus.

Sts. Joachim and Anne; Blessed Titus Brandsma

> Just as many grains collected into one and ground and mingled together make one loaf, so in Christ, who is the heavenly Bread, we know there is one Body, in which our whole company is joined and united.

☐ PSALMS 128-136

The Blessed Home of the Just. 128:1 A song of ascents.

Blessed are all who fear the LORD,
and who walk in his ways.
[2]What your hands provide you will enjoy;
you will be blessed and prosper:
[3]Your wife will be like a fruitful vine
within your home,
Your children like young olive plants
around your table.
[4]Just so will the man be blessed
who fears the LORD.

[5]May the LORD bless you from Zion;
may you see Jerusalem's prosperity
all the days of your life,
[6]and live to see your children's children.
Peace upon Israel!

Against Israel's Enemies. 129:1 A song of ascents.

Viciously have they attacked me from my youth,
let Israel say now.
[2]Viciously have they attacked me from my youth,
yet they have not prevailed against me.
[3]Upon my back the plowers plowed,
as they traced their long furrows.
[4]But the just LORD cut me free
from the ropes of the wicked.

[5]May they recoil in disgrace,
all who hate Zion.

[6]May they be like grass on the rooftops
withered in early growth, [7]Never to fill the reaper's hands,
nor the arms of the binders of sheaves,
[8]And with none passing by to call out:
"The blessing of the LORD be upon you!
We bless you in the name of the LORD!"

Prayer for Pardon and Mercy. 130:1 A song of ascents.

Out of the depths I call to you, LORD;
[2]Lord, hear my cry!
May your ears be attentive
to my cry for mercy.
[3]If you, LORD, keep account of sins,
Lord, who can stand?
[4]But with you is forgiveness
and so you are revered.

[5]I wait for the LORD,
my soul waits
and I hope for his word.
[6]My soul looks for the Lord
more than sentinels for daybreak.
More than sentinels for daybreak,
[7]let Israel hope in the LORD,
For with the LORD is mercy,
with him is plenteous redemption,
[8]And he will redeem Israel
from all its sins.

Humble Trust in God. 131:1 A song of ascents. Of David.

LORD, my heart is not proud;
nor are my eyes haughty.
I do not busy myself with great matters,
with things too sublime for me.
[2]Rather, I have stilled my soul,
Like a weaned child to its mother,
weaned is my soul.
[3]Israel, hope in the LORD,
now and forever.

The Covenant Between David and God. 132:1 A song of ascents.

Remember, O LORD, for David
all his hardships;
[2]How he swore an oath to the LORD,
vowed to the Mighty One of Jacob:
[3]"I will not enter the house where I live,

nor lie on the couch where I sleep;
[4]I will give my eyes no sleep,
my eyelids no rest,
[5]Till I find a place for the LORD,
a dwelling for the Mighty One of Jacob."
[6]"We have heard of it in Ephrathah;
we have found it in the fields of Jaar.
[7]Let us enter his dwelling;
let us worship at his footstool."
[8]"Arise, LORD, come to your resting place,
you and your mighty ark.
[9]Your priests will be clothed with justice;
your devout will shout for joy."
[10]For the sake of David your servant,
do not reject your anointed.

[11]The LORD swore an oath to David in truth,
he will never turn back from it:
"Your own offspring I will set upon your throne.
[12]If your sons observe my covenant,
and my decrees I shall teach them,
Their sons, in turn,
shall sit forever on your throne."
[13]Yes, the LORD has chosen Zion, desired it for a dwelling:
[14]"This is my resting place forever;
here I will dwell, for I desire it.
[15]I will bless Zion with provisions;
its poor I will fill with bread.
[16]I will clothe its priests with salvation;
its devout shall shout for joy.
[17]There I will make a horn sprout for David;
I will set a lamp for my anointed.
[18]His foes I will clothe with shame,
but on him his crown shall shine."

A Vision of a Blessed Community. 133:1 A song of ascents. Of David.

How good and how pleasant it is,
when brothers dwell together as one!
[2]Like fine oil on the head,
running down upon the beard,
Upon the beard of Aaron,
upon the collar of his robe.
[3]Like dew of Hermon coming down upon the mountains of Zion.
There the LORD has decreed a blessing,
life for evermore!

Exhortation to the Night Watch to Bless God. 134:1 A song of ascents.

O come, bless the LORD,
all you servants of the LORD
You who stand in the house of the LORD
throughout the nights.
[2]Lift up your hands toward the sanctuary,
and bless the LORD.
[3]May the LORD bless you from Zion,
the Maker of heaven and earth.

Praise of God, the Ruler and Benefactor of Israel. 135:1 Hallelujah!

Praise the name of the LORD!
Praise, you servants of the LORD,
[2]Who stand in the house of the LORD,
in the courts of the house of our God!
[3]Praise the LORD, for the LORD is good!
Sing to his name, for it brings joy!
[4]For the LORD has chosen Jacob for himself,
Israel as his treasured possession.

[5]For I know that the LORD is great,
that our Lord is greater than all gods.
[6]Whatever the LORD desires
he does in heaven and on earth,
in the seas and all the depths.
[7]It is he who raises storm clouds from the end of the earth,
makes lightning for the rain,
and brings forth wind from his storehouse.

[8]He struck down Egypt's firstborn,
of human being and beast alike,
[9]And sent signs and wonders against you, Egypt, against Pharaoh and all his servants.
[10]It is he who struck down many nations,
and slew mighty kings—[11]Sihon, king of the Amorites,
and Og, king of Bashan,
all the kings of Canaan—[12]And made their land a heritage,
a heritage for Israel his people.
[13]O LORD, your name is forever,
your renown, from generation to generation!
[14]For the LORD defends his people,
shows mercy to his servants.

[15]The idols of the nations are silver and gold,
the work of human hands.
[16]They have mouths but do not speak;
they have eyes but do not see;
[17]They have ears but do not hear;

nor is there breath in their mouths.
[18]Their makers will become like them,
and anyone who trusts in them.

[19]House of Israel, bless the LORD!
House of Aaron, bless the LORD!
[20]House of Levi, bless the LORD!
You who fear the LORD, bless the LORD!
[21]Blessed be the LORD from Zion,
who dwells in Jerusalem!
Hallelujah!

Hymn of Thanksgiving for God's Everlasting Mercy. 136:1 Praise the LORD, for he is good;
for his mercy endures forever;
[2]Praise the God of gods;
for his mercy endures forever;
[3]Praise the Lord of lords;
for his mercy endures forever;

[4]Who alone has done great wonders,
for his mercy endures forever;
[5]Who skillfully made the heavens,
for his mercy endures forever;
[6]Who spread the earth upon the waters,
for his mercy endures forever;
[7]Who made the great lights,
for his mercy endures forever;
[8]The sun to rule the day,
for his mercy endures forever;
[9]The moon and stars to rule the night,
for his mercy endures forever;

[10]Who struck down the firstborn of Egypt,
for his mercy endures forever;
[11]And led Israel from their midst,
for his mercy endures forever;
[12]With mighty hand and outstretched arm,
for his mercy endures forever;
[13]Who split in two the Red Sea,
for his mercy endures forever;
[14]And led Israel through its midst,
for his mercy endures forever;
[15]But swept Pharaoh and his army into the Red Sea,
for his mercy endures forever;
[16]Who led the people through the desert,
for his mercy endures forever;

[17]Who struck down great kings,
for his mercy endures forever;
[18]Slew powerful kings,
for his mercy endures forever;

[19]Sihon, king of the Amorites,
for his mercy endures forever;
[20]Og, king of Bashan,
for his mercy endures forever;
[21]And made their lands a heritage,
for his mercy endures forever;
[22]A heritage for Israel, his servant,
for his mercy endures forever.

[23]The Lord remembered us in our low estate,
for his mercy endures forever;
[24]Freed us from our foes,
for his mercy endures forever;
[25]And gives bread to all flesh,
for his mercy endures forever.

[26]Praise the God of heaven,
for his mercy endures forever.

☐ JOHN 6:25-59

6:25 And when they found him across the sea they said to him, "Rabbi, when did you get here?" [26]Jesus answered them and said, "Amen, amen, I say to you, you are looking for me not because you saw signs but because you ate the loaves and were filled. [27]Do not work for food that perishes but for the food that endures for eternal life, which the Son of Man will give you. For on him the Father, God, has set his seal." [28]So they said to him, "What can we do to accomplish the works of God?" [29]Jesus answered and said to them, "This is the work of God, that you believe in the one he sent." [30]So they said to him, "What sign can you do, that we may see and believe in you? What can you do? [31]Our ancestors ate manna in the desert, as it is written:

'He gave them bread from heaven to eat.' "

[32]So Jesus said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, it was not Moses who gave the bread from heaven; my Father gives you the true bread from heaven. [33]For the bread of God is that which comes down from heaven and gives life to the world."

[34]So they said to him, "Sir, give us this bread always." [35]Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life; whoever comes to me will never hunger, and whoever believes in me will never thirst. [36]But I told you that although you have seen [me], you do not believe. [37]Everything that the Father gives me will come to me, and I will not reject anyone who comes to me, [38]because I came down from heaven not to do my own will but the will of the one who sent me. [39]And this is the will of the one who sent me, that I should not lose anything of what he gave me, but that I should raise it [on] the last day. [40]For this is the will of my Father, that everyone who sees the Son and believes in him may have eternal life, and I shall raise him [on] the last day."

[41]The Jews murmured about him because he said, "I am the bread that came down from heaven," [42]and they said, "Is this not Jesus, the son of Joseph? Do we not know his father and mother? Then how can he say, 'I have come down from heaven'?" [43]Jesus answered and said to them, "Stop murmuring among yourselves. [44]No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draw him, and I will raise him on the last day. [45]It is written in the prophets:

'They shall all be taught by God.'

Everyone who listens to my Father and learns from him comes to me. [46]Not that anyone has seen the Father except the one who is from God; he has seen the Father. [47]Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever believes has eternal life. [48]I am the bread of life. [49]Your ancestors ate the manna in the desert, but they died; [50]this is the bread that comes down from heaven so that one may eat it and not die. [51]I am the living bread that came down from heaven; whoever eats this bread will live forever; and the bread that I will give is my flesh for the life of the world."

[52]The Jews quarreled among themselves, saying, "How can this man give us [his] flesh to eat?" [53]Jesus said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you do not have life within you. [54]Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him on the last day. [55]For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink. [56]Whoever eats my flesh and drinks my blood remains in me and I in him. [57]Just as the living Father sent me and I have life because of the Father, so also the one who feeds on me will have life because of me. [58]This is the bread that came down from heaven. Unlike your ancestors who ate and still died, whoever eats this bread will live forever." [59]These things he said while teaching in the synagogue in Capernaum.

☐ PSALMS 137-141

Sorrow and Hope in Exile. 137:1

By the rivers of Babylon
there we sat weeping
when we remembered Zion.
[2]On the poplars in its midst
we hung up our harps.
[3]For there our captors asked us
for the words of a song;
Our tormentors, for joy:
"Sing for us a song of Zion!"
[4]But how could we sing a song of the LORD
in a foreign land?

[5]If I forget you, Jerusalem,
may my right hand forget.
[6]May my tongue stick to my palate
if I do not remember you,
If I do not exalt Jerusalem
beyond all my delights.

[7]Remember, LORD, against Edom
that day at Jerusalem.
They said: "Level it, level it down to its foundations!"
[8]Desolate Daughter Babylon, you shall be destroyed, blessed the one who pays you back
what you have done us!
[9]Blessed the one who seizes your children and smashes them against the rock.

Hymn of a Grateful Heart. 138:1 Of David.

I thank you, Lord, with all my heart;
in the presence of the angels to you I sing.
[2]I bow low toward your holy temple;
I praise your name for your mercy and faithfulness.
For you have exalted over all your name and your promise.
[3]On the day I cried out, you answered;
you strengthened my spirit.

[4]All the kings of earth will praise you, LORD,
when they hear the words of your mouth.
[5]They will sing of the ways of the LORD:
"How great is the glory of the LORD!"
[6]The LORD is on high, but cares for the lowly and knows the proud from afar.
[7]Though I walk in the midst of dangers,
you guard my life when my enemies rage.
You stretch out your hand;
your right hand saves me.
[8]The LORD is with me to the end.
LORD, your mercy endures forever.
Never forsake the work of your hands!

The All-knowing and Ever-present God. 139:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

LORD, you have probed me, you know me:
[2]you know when I sit and stand;
you understand my thoughts from afar.
[3]You sift through my travels and my rest;
with all my ways you are familiar.
[4]Even before a word is on my tongue,
LORD, you know it all.
[5]Behind and before you encircle me
and rest your hand upon me.
[6]Such knowledge is too wonderful for me,
far too lofty for me to reach.

[7]Where can I go from your spirit?
From your presence, where can I flee?
[8]If I ascend to the heavens, you are there;
if I lie down in Sheol, there you are.
[9]If I take the wings of dawn
and dwell beyond the sea, [10]Even there your hand guides me,
your right hand holds me fast.
[11]If I say, "Surely darkness shall hide me,

and night shall be my light"— [12]Darkness is not dark for you,
and night shines as the day.
Darkness and light are but one.

[13]You formed my inmost being;
you knit me in my mother's womb.
[14]I praise you, because I am wonderfully made;
wonderful are your works!
My very self you know.
[15]My bones are not hidden from you,
When I was being made in secret,
fashioned in the depths of the earth.
[16]Your eyes saw me unformed;
in your book all are written down;
my days were shaped, before one came to be.

[17]How precious to me are your designs, O God;
how vast the sum of them!
[18]Were I to count them, they would outnumber the sands;
when I complete them, still you are with me.
[19]When you would destroy the wicked, O God,
the bloodthirsty depart from me!
[20]Your foes who conspire a plot against you are exalted in vain.
[21]Do I not hate, LORD, those who hate you?
Those who rise against you, do I not loathe?
[22]With fierce hatred I hate them,
enemies I count as my own.

[23]Probe me, God, know my heart;
try me, know my thoughts.
[24]See if there is a wicked path in me;
lead me along an ancient path.

Prayer for Deliverance from the Wicked. 140:1 For the leader. A psalm of David.

[2]Deliver me, LORD, from the wicked;
preserve me from the violent,
[3]From those who plan evil in their hearts,
who stir up conflicts every day,
[4]Who sharpen their tongue like a serpent,
venom of asps upon their lips.

Selah

[5]Keep me, LORD, from the clutches of the wicked;
preserve me from the violent,
who plot to trip me up.
[6]The arrogant have set a trap for me;
they have spread out ropes for a net,

laid snares for me by the wayside.

Selah

[7]I say to the LORD: You are my God;
listen, LORD, to the words of my pleas.
[8]LORD, my master, my strong deliverer,
you cover my head on the day of armed conflict.
[9]LORD, do not grant the desires of the wicked one;
do not let his plot succeed.

Selah

[10]Those who surround me raise their heads;
may the mischief they threaten overwhelm them.
[11]Drop burning coals upon them;
cast them into the watery pit never more to rise.

[12]Slanderers will not survive on earth;
evil will hunt down the man of violence to overthrow him.
[13]For I know the LORD will take up the cause of the needy, justice for the poor.
[14]Then the righteous will give thanks to your name;

Prayer for Deliverance from the Wicked. 141:1 A psalm of David.

LORD, I call to you; hasten to me;
listen to my plea when I call.
[2]Let my prayer be incense before you;
my uplifted hands an evening offering.
[3]Set a guard, LORD, before my mouth,
keep watch over the door of my lips.
[4]Do not let my heart incline to evil,
to perform deeds in wickedness.
On the delicacies of evildoers
let me not feast.
[5]Let a righteous person strike me; it is mercy if he reproves me.
Do not withhold oil from my head
while my prayer opposes their evil deeds.
[6]May their leaders be cast over the cliff,
so that they hear that my speeches are pleasing.
[7]Like the plowing and breaking up of the earth,
our bones are strewn at the mouth of Sheol.
[8]For my eyes are upon you, O LORD, my Lord;
in you I take refuge; do not take away my soul.
[9]Guard me from the trap they have set for me,
from the snares of evildoers.
[10]Let the wicked fall into their own nets,
while only I pass over them safely.

☐ JOHN 6:60-71

The Words of Eternal Life. 6:60 Then many of his disciples who were listening said, "This saying is hard; who can accept it?" [61]Since Jesus knew that his disciples were murmuring about this, he said to them, "Does this shock you?
[62]What if you were to see the Son of Man ascending to where he was before? [63]It is the spirit that gives life, while the flesh is of no avail. The words I have spoken to you are spirit and life. [64]But there are some of you who do not believe."
Jesus knew from the beginning the ones who would not believe and the one who would betray him. [65]And he said, "For this reason I have told you that no one can come to me unless it is granted him by my Father."

[66]As a result of this, many [of] his disciples returned to their former way of life and no longer accompanied him.
[67]Jesus then said to the Twelve, "Do you also want to leave?" [68]Simon Peter answered him, "Master, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life. [69]We have come to believe and are convinced that you are the Holy One of God." [70]Jesus answered them, "Did I not choose you twelve? Yet is not one of you a devil?" [71]He was referring to Judas, son of Simon the Iscariot; it was he who would betray him, one of the Twelve.

> If there is anyone who is not enlightened by the sublime magnificence of created things, he is blind. If there is anyone who, seeing all these works of God, does not praise Him, he is dumb. If there is anyone who, from so many signs, cannot perceive God, that man is foolish.

☐ PSALMS 142-145

A Prayer in Time of Trouble.* 142:1 A maskil of David, when he was in the cave. A prayer.

[2]With my own voice I cry to the LORD;
with my own voice I beseech the LORD.
[3]Before him I pour out my complaint,
tell of my distress in front of him.
[4]When my spirit is faint within me,
you know my path.
As I go along this path,
they have hidden a trap for me.
[5]I look to my right hand to see that there is no one willing to acknowledge me.
My escape has perished;
no one cares for me.
[6]I cry out to you, LORD,
I say, You are my refuge,
my portion in the land of the living.
[7]Listen to my cry for help,
for I am brought very low.
Rescue me from my pursuers,
for they are too strong for me.
[8]Lead my soul from prison,
that I may give thanks to your name.
Then the righteous shall gather around me
because you have been good to me.

A Prayer in Distress.* 143:1 A psalm of David.

LORD, hear my prayer;
in your faithfulness listen to my pleading;
answer me in your righteousness.
[2]Do not enter into judgment with your servant;
before you no one can be just.
[3]The enemy has pursued my soul;
he has crushed my life to the ground.
He has made me dwell in darkness
like those long dead.
[4]My spirit is faint within me;
my heart despairs.
[5]I remember the days of old;
I ponder all your deeds;
the works of your hands I recall.
[6]I stretch out my hands toward you,
my soul to you like a parched land.

Selah

[7]Hasten to answer me, LORD;
for my spirit fails me.
Do not hide your face from me,
lest I become like those descending to the pit.
[8]In the morning let me hear of your mercy,
for in you I trust.
Show me the path I should walk,
for I entrust my life to you.
[9]Rescue me, LORD, from my foes,
for I seek refuge in you.
[10]Teach me to do your will,
for you are my God.
May your kind spirit guide me
on ground that is level.
[11]For your name's sake, LORD, give me life;
in your righteousness lead my soul out of distress.
[12]In your mercy put an end to my foes;
all those who are oppressing my soul,
for I am your servant.

A Prayer for Victory and Prosperity. 144:1 Of David.

Blessed be the LORD, my rock,
who trains my hands for battle,
my fingers for war;
[2]My safeguard and my fortress,
my stronghold, my deliverer,
My shield, in whom I take refuge,
who subdues peoples under me.

[3]LORD, what is man that you take notice of him;
the son of man, that you think of him?
[4]Man is but a breath,

his days are like a passing shadow.
[5]LORD, incline your heavens and come down;
touch the mountains and make them smoke.
[6]Flash forth lightning and scatter my foes;
shoot your arrows and rout them.
[7]Reach out your hand from on high;
deliver me from the many waters;
rescue me from the hands of foreign foes.
[8]Their mouths speak untruth;
their right hands are raised in lying oaths.
[9]O God, a new song I will sing to you;
on a ten-stringed lyre I will play for you.
[10]You give victory to kings;
you delivered David your servant.
From the menacing sword [11]deliver me;
rescue me from the hands of foreign foes.
Their mouths speak untruth;
their right hands are raised in lying oaths.

[12]May our sons be like plants
well nurtured from their youth,
Our daughters, like carved columns,
shapely as those of the temple.
[13]May our barns be full with every kind of store.
May our sheep increase by thousands,
by tens of thousands in our fields;
may our oxen be well fattened.
[14]May there be no breach in the walls,
no exile, no outcry in our streets.
[15]Blessed the people so fortunate;
blessed the people whose God is the LORD.

The Greatness and Goodness of God. 145:1 Praise. Of David.

I will extol you, my God and king;
I will bless your name forever and ever.
[2]Every day I will bless you;
I will praise your name forever and ever.
[3]Great is the LORD and worthy of much praise,
whose grandeur is beyond understanding.
[4]One generation praises your deeds to the next and proclaims your mighty works.
[5]They speak of the splendor of your majestic glory,
tell of your wonderful deeds.
[6]They speak of the power of your awesome acts and recount your great deeds.
[7]They celebrate your abounding goodness
and joyfully sing of your justice.
[8]The LORD is gracious and merciful,

slow to anger and abounding in mercy.
[9]The LORD is good to all,
compassionate toward all your works.
[10]All your works give you thanks, LORD
and your faithful bless you.
[11]They speak of the glory of your reign
and tell of your mighty works, [12]Making known to the sons of men your mighty acts,
the majestic glory of your rule.
[13]Your reign is a reign for all ages,
your dominion for all generations.
The LORD is trustworthy in all his words,
and loving in all his works.
[14]The LORD supports all who are falling and raises up all who are bowed down.
[15]The eyes of all look hopefully to you;
you give them their food in due season.
[16]You open wide your hand
and satisfy the desire of every living thing.
[17]The LORD is just in all his ways,
merciful in all his works.
[18]The LORD is near to all who call upon him,
to all who call upon him in truth.
[19]He fulfills the desire of those who fear him;
he hears their cry and saves them.
[20]The LORD watches over all who love him,
but all the wicked he destroys.
[21]My mouth will speak the praises of the LORD;
all flesh will bless his holy name forever and ever.

☐ JOHN 7:1-13

The Feast of Tabernacles. 7:1 After this, Jesus moved about within Galilee; but he did not wish to travel in Judea, because the Jews were trying to kill him. [2]But the Jewish feast of Tabernacles was near. [3]So his brothers said to him, "Leave here and go to Judea, so that your disciples also may see the works you are doing. [4]No one works in secret if he wants to be known publicly. If you do these things, manifest yourself to the world." [5]For his brothers did not believe in him. [6]So Jesus said to them, "My time is not yet here, but the time is always right for you. [7]The world cannot hate you, but it hates me, because I testify to it that its works are evil. [8]You go up to the feast. I am not going up to this feast, because my time has not yet been fulfilled." [9]After he had said this, he stayed on in Galilee.

[10]But when his brothers had gone up to the feast, he himself also went up, not openly but [as it were] in secret. [11]The Jews were looking for him at the feast and saying, "Where is he?" [12]And there was considerable murmuring about him in the crowds. Some said, "He is a good man," [while] others said, "No; on the contrary, he misleads the crowd." [13]Still, no one spoke openly about him because they were afraid of the Jews.

St. Martha

You must lovingly leave some work to others and not seek to have all the crowns.

— St. Francis de Sales

☐ PSALMS 146-150

Trust in God the Creator and Redeemer. 146:1 Hallelujah!

[2]Praise the LORD, my soul;
I will praise the LORD all my life,
sing praise to my God while I live.
[3]Put no trust in princes,
in children of Adam powerless to save.
[4]Who breathing his last, returns to the earth;
that day all his planning comes to nothing.
[5]Blessed the one whose help is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the LORD, his God,
[6]The maker of heaven and earth,
the seas and all that is in them,
Who keeps faith forever,
[7]secures justice for the oppressed,
who gives bread to the hungry.
The LORD sets prisoners free;
[8]the LORD gives sight to the blind.
The LORD raises up those who are bowed down;
the LORD loves the righteous.
[9]The LORD protects the resident alien,
comes to the aid of the orphan and the widow,
but thwarts the way of the wicked.
[10]The LORD shall reign forever,
your God, Zion, through all generations!
Hallelujah!

God's Word Restores Jerusalem. 147:1 Hallelujah!

How good to sing praise to our God;
how pleasant to give fitting praise.
[2]The LORD rebuilds Jerusalem,
and gathers the dispersed of Israel,
[3]Healing the brokenhearted,
and binding up their wounds.
[4]He numbers the stars,
and gives to all of them their names.
[5]Great is our Lord, vast in power,
with wisdom beyond measure.
[6]The LORD gives aid to the poor,
but casts the wicked to the ground.

[7]Sing to the LORD with thanksgiving;
with the lyre make music to our God,
[8]Who covers the heavens with clouds,
provides rain for the earth,
makes grass sprout on the mountains,

[9]Who gives animals their food and young ravens what they cry for.
[10]He takes no delight in the strength of horses,
no pleasure in the runner's stride.
[11]Rather the LORD takes pleasure in those who fear him,
those who put their hope in his mercy.

[12]Glorify the LORD, Jerusalem;
Zion, offer praise to your God,
[13]For he has strengthened the bars of your gates,
blessed your children within you.
[14]He brings peace to your borders,
and satisfies you with finest wheat.
[15]He sends his command to earth;
his word runs swiftly!
[16]Thus he makes the snow like wool,
and spreads the frost like ash;
[17]He disperses hail like crumbs.
Who can withstand his cold?
[18]Yet when again he issues his command, it melts them;
he raises his winds and the waters flow.
[19]He proclaims his word to Jacob,
his statutes and laws to Israel.
[20]He has not done this for any other nation;
of such laws they know nothing.
Hallelujah!

All Creation Summoned to Praise. 148:1 Hallelujah!

Praise the LORD from the heavens;
praise him in the heights.
[2]Praise him, all you his angels;
give praise, all you his hosts.
[3]Praise him, sun and moon;
praise him, all shining stars.
[4]Praise him, highest heavens,
you waters above the heavens.
[5]Let them all praise the LORD's name;
for he commanded and they were created,
[6]Assigned them their station forever,
set an order that will never change.

[7]Praise the LORD from the earth,
you sea monsters and all the deeps of the sea;
[8]Lightning and hail, snow and thick clouds,
storm wind that fulfills his command;
[9]Mountains and all hills,
fruit trees and all cedars;
[10]Animals wild and tame,
creatures that crawl and birds that fly;

[11]Kings of the earth and all peoples,
princes and all who govern on earth;
[12]Young men and women too,
old and young alike.
[13]Let them all praise the LORD's name,
for his name alone is exalted,
His majesty above earth and heaven.
[14]He has lifted high the horn of his people;
to the praise of all his faithful,
the Israelites, the people near to him.
Hallelujah!

Praise God with Song and Sword. 149:1 Hallelujah!

Sing to the LORD a new song,
his praise in the assembly of the faithful.
[2]Let Israel be glad in its maker,
the people of Zion rejoice in their king.
[3]Let them praise his name in dance,
make music with tambourine and lyre.
[4]For the LORD takes delight in his people, honors the poor with victory.
[5]Let the faithful rejoice in their glory,
cry out for joy on their couches,
[6]With the praise of God in their mouths,
and a two-edged sword in their hands,
[7]To bring retribution on the nations,
punishment on the peoples,
[8]To bind their kings in shackles,
their nobles in chains of iron, [9]To execute the judgments decreed for them—
such is the glory of all God's faithful.
Hallelujah!

Final Doxology. 150:1 Hallelujah!

Praise God in his holy sanctuary;
give praise in the mighty dome of heaven.
[2]Give praise for his mighty deeds,
praise him for his great majesty.
[3]Give praise with blasts upon the horn,
praise him with harp and lyre.
[4]Give praise with tambourines and dance,
praise him with strings and pipes.
[5]Give praise with crashing cymbals,
praise him with sounding cymbals.
[6]Let everything that has breath
give praise to the LORD!
Hallelujah!

☐ JOHN 7:14-36

The First Dialogue. 7:14 When the feast was already half over, Jesus went up into the temple area and began to teach. [15]The Jews were amazed and said, "How does he know scripture without having studied?" [16]Jesus answered them and said, "My teaching is not my own but is from the one who sent me. [17]Whoever chooses to do his will shall know whether my teaching is from God or whether I speak on my own. [18]Whoever speaks on his own seeks his own glory, but whoever seeks the glory of the one who sent him is truthful, and there is no wrong in him. [19]Did not Moses give you the law? Yet none of you keeps the law. Why are you trying to kill me?" [20]The crowd answered, "You are possessed! Who is trying to kill you?" [21]Jesus answered and said to them, "I performed one work and all of you are amazed [22]because of it. Moses gave you circumcision—not that it came from Moses but rather from the patriarchs—and you circumcise a man on the sabbath. [23]If a man can receive circumcision on a sabbath so that the law of Moses may not be broken, are you angry with me because I made a whole person well on a sabbath? [24]Stop judging by appearances, but judge justly."

[25]So some of the inhabitants of Jerusalem said, "Is he not the one they are trying to kill? [26]And look, he is speaking openly and they say nothing to him. Could the authorities have realized that he is the Messiah? [27]But we know where he is from. When the Messiah comes, no one will know where he is from." [28]So Jesus cried out in the temple area as he was teaching and said, "You know me and also know where I am from. Yet I did not come on my own, but the one who sent me, whom you do not know, is true. [29]I know him, because I am from him, and he sent me." [30]So they tried to arrest him, but no one laid a hand upon him, because his hour had not yet come. [31]But many of the crowd began to believe in him, and said, "When the Messiah comes, will he perform more signs than this man has done?"

Officers Sent to Arrest Jesus. [32]The Pharisees heard the crowd murmuring about him to this effect, and the chief priests and the Pharisees sent guards to arrest him. [33]So Jesus said, "I will be with you only a little while longer, and then I will go to the one who sent me. [34]You will look for me but not find [me], and where I am you cannot come." [35]So the Jews said to one another, "Where is he going that we will not find him? Surely he is not going to the dispersion among the Greeks to teach the Greeks, is he? [36]What is the meaning of his saying, 'You will look for me and not find [me], and where I am you cannot come'?"

St. Peter Chrysologus

If you want to party with the devil, you can't celebrate with Christ.

— St. Peter Chrysologus

☐ PROVERBS 1-4

Purpose of the Proverbs of Solomon. 1:1 The proverbs of Solomon, the son of David,
king of Israel:
[2]That people may know wisdom and discipline,
may understand intelligent sayings;
[3]May receive instruction in wise conduct,
in what is right, just and fair;
[4]That resourcefulness may be imparted to the naive,
knowledge and discretion to the young.
[5]The wise by hearing them will advance in learning,
the intelligent will gain sound guidance, [6]To comprehend proverb and byword,
the words of the wise and their riddles.
[7]Fear of the LORD is the beginning of knowledge;

fools despise wisdom and discipline.

The Path of the Wicked: Greed and Violence. [8]Hear, my son, your father's instruction,
and reject not your mother's teaching;
[9]A graceful diadem will they be for your head;
a pendant for your neck.
[10]My son, should sinners entice you,
[11]do not go if they say, "Come along with us!
Let us lie in wait for blood,
unprovoked, let us trap the innocent;
[12]Let us swallow them alive, like Sheol,
whole, like those who go down to the pit!
[13]All kinds of precious wealth shall we gain,
we shall fill our houses with booty;
[14]Cast in your lot with us,
we shall all have one purse!"
[15]My son, do not walk in the way with them,
hold back your foot from their path!
[16][For their feet run to evil,
they hasten to shed blood.]
[17]In vain a net is spread right under the eyes of any bird—[18]They lie in wait for their own blood,
they set a trap for their own lives.
[19]This is the way of everyone greedy for loot:
it takes away their lives.

Wisdom in Person Gives a Warning. [20]Wisdom cries aloud in the street, in the open squares she raises her voice;
[21]Down the crowded ways she calls out,
at the city gates she utters her words:
[22]"How long, you naive ones, will you love naivete,
[23]How long will you turn away at my reproof?
[The arrogant delight in their arrogance,
and fools hate knowledge.]
Lo! I will pour out to you my spirit,
I will acquaint you with my words:
[24]'Because I called and you refused,
extended my hand and no one took notice;
[25]Because you disdained all my counsel,
and my reproof you ignored—[26]I, in my turn, will laugh at your doom;
will mock when terror overtakes you;
[27]When terror comes upon you like a storm,
and your doom approaches like a whirlwind;
when distress and anguish befall you.'
[28]Then they will call me, but I will not answer;
they will seek me, but will not find me, [29]Because they hated knowledge,
and the fear of the LORD they did not choose.

[30]They ignored my counsel,
they spurned all my reproof;
[31]Well, then, they shall eat the fruit of their own way,
and with their own devices be glutted.
[32]For the straying of the naive kills them,
the smugness of fools destroys them.
[33]But whoever obeys me dwells in security,
in peace, without fear of harm."

The Blessings of Wisdom. 2:1 My son, if you receive my words
and treasure my commands,
[2]Turning your ear to wisdom,
inclining your heart to understanding;
[3]Yes, if you call for intelligence,
and to understanding raise your voice;
[4]If you seek her like silver,
and like hidden treasures search her out,
[5]Then will you understand the fear of the LORD;
the knowledge of God you will find;
[6]For the LORD gives wisdom,
from his mouth come knowledge and understanding;
[7]He has success in store for the upright,
is the shield of those who walk honestly, [8]Guarding the paths of justice,
protecting the way of his faithful ones, [9]Then you will understand what is right and just,
what is fair, every good path;
[10]For wisdom will enter your heart,
knowledge will be at home in your soul, [11]Discretion will watch over you,
understanding will guard you;
[12]Saving you from the way of the wicked,
from those whose speech is perverse.
[13]From those who have left the straight paths
to walk in the ways of darkness, [14]Who delight in doing evil
and celebrate perversity; [15]Whose ways are crooked,
whose paths are devious;
[16]Saving you from a stranger,
from a foreign woman with her smooth words, [17]One who forsakes the companion of her youth and forgets the covenant of her God; [18]For her path sinks down to death,
and her footsteps lead to the shades.
[19]None who enter there come back,
or gain the paths of life.
[20]Thus you may walk in the way of the good,
and keep to the paths of the just.
[21]For the upright will dwell in the land,

people of integrity will remain in it;
22 But the wicked will be cut off from the land,
the faithless will be rooted out of it.

Confidence in God Leads to Prosperity. 3:1 My son, do not forget my teaching,
take to heart my commands;
2 For many days, and years of life,
and peace, will they bring you.
3 Do not let love and fidelity forsake you;
bind them around your neck;
write them on the tablet of your heart.
4 Then will you win favor and esteem
before God and human beings.
5 Trust in the LORD with all your heart,
on your own intelligence do not rely;
6 In all your ways be mindful of him,
and he will make straight your paths.
7 Do not be wise in your own eyes,
fear the LORD and turn away from evil;
8 This will mean health for your flesh
and vigor for your bones.
9 Honor the LORD with your wealth,
with first fruits of all your produce;
10 Then will your barns be filled with plenty,
with new wine your vats will overflow.
11 The discipline of the LORD, my son, do not spurn;
do not disdain his reproof;
12 For whom the LORD loves he reproves,
as a father, the son he favors.

The Benefits of Finding Wisdom. 13 Happy the one who finds wisdom,
the one who gains understanding!
14 Her profit is better than profit in silver,
and better than gold is her revenue;
15 She is more precious than corals,
and no treasure of yours can compare with her.
16 Long life is in her right hand,
in her left are riches and honor;
17 Her ways are pleasant ways,
and all her paths are peace;
18 She is a tree of life to those who grasp her,
and those who hold her fast are happy.
19 The LORD by wisdom founded the earth,
established the heavens by understanding; 20 By his knowledge the depths are split,
and the clouds drop down dew.

Justice Toward One's Neighbor Brings Blessing. 21 My son, do not let these slip from your sight:
hold to deliberation and planning;
22 So will they be life to your soul,
and an adornment for your neck.

[23]Then you may go your way securely;
your foot will never stumble;
[24]When you lie down, you will not be afraid,
when you rest, your sleep will be sweet.
[25]Do not be afraid of sudden terror,
of the ruin of the wicked when it comes;
[26]For the LORD will be your confidence,
and will keep your foot from the snare.
[27]Do not withhold any goods from the owner
when it is in your power to act.
[28]Say not to your neighbor, "Go, come back tomorrow, and I will give it to you," when all the while you have it.
[29]Do not plot evil against your neighbors,
when they live at peace with you.
[30]Do not contend with someone without cause,
with one who has done you no harm.
[31]Do not envy the violent and choose none of their ways:
[32]To the LORD the devious are an abomination,
but the upright are close to him.
[33]The curse of the LORD is on the house of the wicked,
but the dwelling of the just he blesses; [34]Those who scoff, he scoffs at,
but the lowly he favors.
[35]The wise will possess glory,
but fools will bear shame.

The Teacher as Model Disciple. 4:1 Hear, O children, a father's instruction, be attentive, that you may gain understanding!
[2]Yes, excellent advice I give you;
my teaching do not forsake.
[3]When I was my father's child,
tender, the darling of my mother,
[4]He taught me and said to me:
"Let your heart hold fast my words:
keep my commands, and live!
[5]Get wisdom, get understanding!
Do not forget or turn aside from the words of my mouth.
[6]Do not forsake her, and she will preserve you;
love her, and she will safeguard you;
[7]The beginning of wisdom is: get wisdom;
whatever else you get, get understanding.
[8]Extol her, and she will exalt you;
she will bring you honors if you embrace her;
[9]She will put on your head a graceful diadem;
a glorious crown will she bestow on you."

The Two Ways. [10]Hear, my son, and receive my words,
and the years of your life shall be many.
[11]On the way of wisdom I direct you,

I lead you on straight paths.
12 When you walk, your step will not be impeded,
and should you run, you will not stumble.
13 Hold fast to instruction, never let it go;
keep it, for it is your life.
14 The path of the wicked do not enter,
nor walk in the way of the evil;
15 Shun it, do not cross it,
turn aside from it, pass on.
16 For they cannot rest unless they have done evil;
if they do not trip anyone they lose sleep.
17 For they eat the bread of wickedness
and drink the wine of violence.
18 But the path of the just is like shining light,
that grows in brilliance till perfect day.
19 The way of the wicked is like darkness;
they do not know on what they stumble.

With Your Whole Being Heed My Words and Live. 20 My son, to my words be attentive, to my sayings incline your ear;
21 Let them not slip from your sight,
keep them within your heart;
22 For they are life to those who find them,
bringing health to one's whole being.
23 With all vigilance guard your heart,
for in it are the sources of life.
24 Dishonest mouth put away from you,
deceitful lips put far from you.
25 Let your eyes look straight ahead
and your gaze be focused forward.
26 Survey the path for your feet,
and all your ways will be sure.
27 Turn neither to right nor to left,
keep your foot far from evil.

☐ JOHN 7:37-52

Rivers of Living Water. 7:37 On the last and greatest day of the feast, Jesus stood up and exclaimed, "Let anyone who thirsts come to me and drink. 38 Whoever believes in me, as scripture says:

'Rivers of living water will flow from within him.' "

39 He said this in reference to the Spirit that those who came to believe in him were to receive. There was, of course, no Spirit yet, because Jesus had not yet been glorified.

Discussion about the Origins of the Messiah. 40 Some in the crowd who heard these words said, "This is truly the Prophet." 41 Others said, "This is the Messiah." But others said, "The Messiah will not come from Galilee, will he? 42 Does not scripture say that the Messiah will be of David's family and come from Bethlehem, the village where David lived?" 43 So a division occurred in the crowd because of him. 44 Some of them even wanted to arrest him, but no one laid hands on him.

[45]So the guards went to the chief priests and Pharisees, who asked them, “Why did you not bring him?” [46]The guards answered, “Never before has anyone spoken like this one.”

[47]So the Pharisees answered them, “Have you also been deceived? [48]Have any of the authorities or the Pharisees believed in him? [49]But this crowd, which does not know the law, is accursed.” [50]Nicodemus, one of their members who had come to him earlier, said to them, [51]“Does our law condemn a person before it first hears him and finds out what he is doing?” [52]They answered and said to him, “You are not from Galilee also, are you? Look and see that no prophet arises from Galilee.”

St. Ignatius of Loyola

In times of deep discouragement you should never make a change, but stand firm in the resolutions and decisions that guided you the day before the discouragement.

— St. Ignatius of Loyola

☐ PROVERBS 5-8

Warning Against Adultery. 5:1 My son, to my wisdom be attentive,
to understanding incline your ear,
[2]That you may act discreetly,
and your lips guard what you know.
[3]Indeed, the lips of the stranger drip honey,
and her mouth is smoother than oil;
[4]But in the end she is as bitter as wormwood,
as sharp as a two-edged sword.
[5]Her feet go down to death,
her steps reach Sheol; [6]Her paths ramble, you know not where,
lest you see before you the road to life.
[7]So now, children, listen to me,
do not stray from the words of my mouth.
[8]Keep your way far from her,
do not go near the door of her house, [9]Lest you give your honor to others,
and your years to a merciless one;
[10]Lest outsiders take their fill of your wealth,
and your hard-won earnings go to another’s house;
[11]And you groan in the end,
when your flesh and your body are consumed; [12]And you say, “Oh, why did I hate instruction,
and my heart spurn reproof!
[13]Why did I not listen to the voice of my teachers,
incline my ear to my instructors!
[14]I am all but ruined,
in the midst of the public assembly!”
[15]Drink water from your own cistern, running water from your own well.
[16]Should your water sources be dispersed abroad,

streams of water in the streets?
17 Let them be yours alone,
not shared with outsiders;
18 Let your fountain be blessed and have joy of the wife of your youth, 19 your lovely hind, your graceful doe.
Of whose love you will ever have your fill,
and by her ardor always be intoxicated.
20 Why then, my son, should you be intoxicated with a stranger,
and embrace another woman?
21 Indeed, the ways of each person are plain to the LORD's sight;
all their paths he surveys;
22 By their own iniquities the wicked will be caught, in the meshes of their own sin they will be held fast;
23 They will die from lack of discipline,
lost because of their great folly.

Miscellaneous Proverbs

Against Going Surety for One's Neighbor. 6:1 My son, if you have become surety to your neighbor, given your hand in pledge to another,
2 You have been snared by the utterance of your lips,
caught by the words of your mouth;
3 So do this, my son, to free yourself,
since you have fallen into your neighbor's power:
Go, hurry, rouse your neighbor!
4 Give no sleep to your eyes,
nor slumber to your eyelids;
5 Free yourself like a gazelle from the hunter,
or like a bird from the hand of the fowler.

The Ant and the Sluggard at Harvest. 6 Go to the ant, O sluggard, study her ways and learn wisdom;
7 For though she has no chief,
no commander or ruler,
8 She procures her food in the summer,
stores up her provisions in the harvest.
9 How long, O sluggard, will you lie there?
when will you rise from your sleep?
10 A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the arms to rest—
11 Then poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want like a brigand.

The Scoundrel. 12 Scoundrels, villains, are they who deal in crooked talk.
13 Shifty of eye,
feet ever moving,
pointing with fingers,
14 They have perversity in their hearts,
always plotting evil,
sowing discord.

[15]Therefore their doom comes suddenly;
in an instant they are crushed beyond cure.

What the Lord Rejects. [16]There are six things the LORD hates, yes, seven are an abomination to him;
[17]Haughty eyes, a lying tongue,
hands that shed innocent blood, [18]A heart that plots wicked schemes,
feet that are quick to run to evil, [19]The false witness who utters lies,
and the one who sows discord among kindred.

Warning Against Adultery. [20]Observe, my son, your father's command, and do not reject your mother's teaching; [21]Keep them fastened over your heart always,
tie them around your neck.
[22]When you lie down they will watch over you,
when you wake, they will share your concerns;
wherever you turn, they will guide you.
[23]For the command is a lamp, and the teaching a light,
and a way to life are the reproofs that discipline, [24]Keeping you from another's wife,
from the smooth tongue of the foreign woman.
[25]Do not lust in your heart after her beauty,
do not let her captivate you with her glance!
[26]For the price of a harlot
may be scarcely a loaf of bread,
But a married woman
is a trap for your precious life.
[27]Can a man take embers into his bosom,
and his garments not be burned?
[28]Or can a man walk on live coals,
and his feet not be scorched?
[29]So with him who sleeps with another's wife—
none who touches her shall go unpunished.
[30]Thieves are not despised
if out of hunger they steal to satisfy their appetite.
[31]Yet if caught they must pay back sevenfold,
yield up all the wealth of their house.
[32]But those who commit adultery have no sense;
those who do it destroy themselves.
[33]They will be beaten and disgraced,
and their shame will not be wiped away; [34]For passion enrages the husband,
he will have no pity on the day of vengeance;
[35]He will not consider any restitution,
nor be satisfied by your many bribes.

The Seduction. 7:1 My son, keep my words,
and treasure my commands.

[2]Keep my commands and live,
and my teaching as the apple of your eye;
[3]Bind them on your fingers,
write them on the tablet of your heart.
[4]Say to Wisdom, "You are my sister!"
Call Understanding, "Friend!"
[5]That they may keep you from a stranger,
from the foreign woman with her smooth words.
[6]For at the window of my house,
through my lattice I looked out [7]And I saw among the naive,
I observed among the young men,
a youth with no sense,
[8]Crossing the street near the corner,
then walking toward her house, [9]In the twilight, at dusk of day,
in the very dark of night.
[10]Then the woman comes to meet him,
dressed like a harlot, with secret designs.
[11]She is raucous and unruly,
her feet cannot stay at home;
[12]Now she is in the streets, now in the open squares,
lurking in ambush at every corner.
[13]Then she grabs him, kisses him,
and with an impudent look says to him:
[14]"I owed peace offerings,
and today I have fulfilled my vows;
[15]So I came out to meet you,
to look for you, and I have found you!
[16]With coverlets I have spread my couch,
with brocaded cloths of Egyptian linen;
[17]I have sprinkled my bed with myrrh,
with aloes, and with cinnamon.
[18]Come, let us drink our fill of love,
until morning, let us feast on love!
[19]For my husband is not at home,
he has gone on a long journey;
[20]A bag of money he took with him,
he will not return home till the full moon."
[21]She wins him over by repeated urging,
with her smooth lips she leads him astray.
[22]He follows her impulsively,
like an ox that goes to slaughter;
Like a stag that bounds toward the net,
[23]till an arrow pierces its liver;
Like a bird that rushes into a snare,
unaware that his life is at stake.
[24]So now, children, listen to me,
be attentive to the words of my mouth!
[25]Do not let your heart turn to her ways,

do not go astray in her paths;
[26]For many are those she has struck down dead,
numerous, those she has slain.
[27]Her house is a highway to Sheol,
leading down into the chambers of death.

The Discourse of Wisdom. 8:1 Does not Wisdom call,
and Understanding raise her voice?
[2]On the top of the heights along the road,
at the crossroads she takes her stand;
[3]By the gates at the approaches of the city,
in the entryways she cries aloud:
[4]"To you, O people, I call;
my appeal is to you mortals.
[5]You naive ones, gain prudence,
you fools, gain sense.
[6]Listen! for noble things I speak;
my lips proclaim honest words.
[7]Indeed, my mouth utters truth,
and my lips abhor wickedness.
[8]All the words of my mouth are sincere,
none of them wily or crooked;
[9]All of them are straightforward to the intelligent,
and right to those who attain knowledge.
[10]Take my instruction instead of silver,
and knowledge rather than choice gold.
[11][For Wisdom is better than corals,
and no treasures can compare with her.] [12]I, Wisdom, dwell with prudence, and useful knowledge I have.
[13][The fear of the LORD is hatred of evil;]
Pride, arrogance, the evil way,
and the perverse mouth I hate.
[14]Mine are counsel and advice;
Mine is strength; I am understanding.
[15]By me kings reign,
and rulers enact justice;
[16]By me princes govern,
and nobles, all the judges of the earth.
[17]Those who love me I also love,
and those who seek me find me.
[18]With me are riches and honor,
wealth that endures, and righteousness.
[19]My fruit is better than gold, even pure gold,
and my yield than choice silver.
[20]On the way of righteousness I walk, along the paths of justice, [21]Granting wealth to those who love me,
and filling their treasuries.

22 "The LORD begot me, the beginning of his works,
the forerunner of his deeds of long ago;
23 From of old I was formed,
at the first, before the earth.
24 When there were no deeps I was brought forth,
when there were no fountains or springs of water;
25 Before the mountains were settled into place,
before the hills, I was brought forth;
26 When the earth and the fields were not yet made,
nor the first clods of the world.
27 When he established the heavens, there was I,
when he marked out the vault over the face of the deep;
28 When he made firm the skies above,
when he fixed fast the springs of the deep;
29 When he set for the sea its limit,
so that the waters should not transgress his command;
When he fixed the foundations of earth,
30 then was I beside him as artisan;
I was his delight day by day,
playing before him all the while,
31 Playing over the whole of his earth,
having my delight with human beings.
32 Now, children, listen to me;
happy are they who keep my ways.
33 Listen to instruction and grow wise,
do not reject it!
34 Happy the one who listens to me,
attending daily at my gates,
keeping watch at my doorposts;
35 For whoever finds me finds life,
and wins favor from the LORD;
36 But those who pass me by do violence to themselves;
all who hate me love death."

☐ JOHN 7:53-8:11

A Woman Caught in Adultery. 7:53 [Then each went to his own house, 8:1 while Jesus went to the Mount of Olives. 2 But early in the morning he arrived again in the temple area, and all the people started coming to him, and he sat down and taught them. 3 Then the scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery and made her stand in the middle. 4 They said to him, "Teacher, this woman was caught in the very act of committing adultery. 5 Now in the law, Moses commanded us to stone such women. So what do you say?" 6 They said this to test him, so that they could have some charge to bring against him. Jesus bent down and began to write on the ground with his finger. 7 But when they continued asking him, he straightened up and said to them, "Let the one among you who is without sin be the first to throw a stone at her." 8 Again he bent down and wrote on the ground. 9 And in response, they went away one by one, beginning with the elders. So he was left alone with the woman before him. 10 Then Jesus straightened up and said to her, "Woman, where are they? Has no one condemned you?" 11 She replied, "No one, sir." Then Jesus said, "Neither do I condemn you. Go, [and] from now on do not sin any more."]

St. Alphonsus Liguori

It is almost certain that excess in eating is the cause of almost all the diseases of the body, but its effects on the soul are even more disastrous.

— St. Alphonsus Liguori

☐ PROVERBS 9-12

The Two Women Invite Passersby to Their Banquets

Woman Wisdom Issues Her Invitation. 9:1 Wisdom has built her house,
she has set up her seven columns;
[2]She has prepared her meat, mixed her wine,
yes, she has spread her table.
[3]She has sent out her maidservants; she calls from the heights out over the city:
[4]"Let whoever is naive turn in here;
to any who lack sense I say,
[5]Come, eat of my food,
and drink of the wine I have mixed!
[6]Forsake foolishness that you may live;
advance in the way of understanding."

Miscellaneous Aphorisms. [7]Whoever corrects the arrogant earns insults;
and whoever reproves the wicked incurs opprobrium.
[8]Do not reprove the arrogant, lest they hate you;
reprove the wise, and they will love you.
[9]Instruct the wise, and they become still wiser;
teach the just, and they advance in learning.
[10]The beginning of wisdom is fear of the LORD,
and knowledge of the Holy One is understanding.
[11]For by me your days will be multiplied
and the years of your life increased.
[12]If you are wise, wisdom is to your advantage;
if you are arrogant, you alone shall bear it.

Woman Folly Issues Her Invitation. [13]Woman Folly is raucous, utterly foolish; she knows nothing.
[14]She sits at the door of her house
upon a seat on the city heights, [15]Calling to passersby
as they go on their way straight ahead:
[16]"Let those who are naive turn in here,
to those who lack sense I say, [17]Stolen water is sweet,
and bread taken secretly is pleasing!"
[18]Little do they know that the shades are there,
that her guests are in the depths of Sheol!

10:1 The Proverbs of Solomon:

A wise son gives his father joy,
but a foolish son is a grief to his mother.
2 Ill-gotten treasures profit nothing,
but justice saves from death.
3 The LORD does not let the just go hungry,
but the craving of the wicked he thwarts.
4 The slack hand impoverishes,
but the busy hand brings riches.
5 A son who gathers in summer is a credit;
a son who slumbers during harvest, a disgrace.
6 Blessings are for the head of the just;
but the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
7 The memory of the just serves as blessing,
but the name of the wicked will rot.
8 A wise heart accepts commands,
but a babbling fool will be overthrown.
9 Whoever walks honestly walks securely,
but one whose ways are crooked will fare badly.
10 One who winks at a fault causes trouble,
but one who frankly reproves promotes peace.
11 The mouth of the just is a fountain of life,
but the mouth of the wicked conceals violence.
12 Hatred stirs up disputes,
but love covers all offenses.
13 On the lips of the intelligent is found wisdom,
but a rod for the back of one without sense.
14 The wise store up knowledge,
but the mouth of a fool is imminent ruin.
15 The wealth of the rich is their strong city;
the ruin of the poor is their poverty.
16 The labor of the just leads to life,
the gains of the wicked, to futility.
17 Whoever follows instruction is in the path to life,
but whoever disregards reproof goes astray.
18 Whoever conceals hatred has lying lips,
and whoever spreads slander is a fool.
19 Where words are many, sin is not wanting;
but those who restrain their lips do well.
20 Choice silver is the tongue of the just;
the heart of the wicked is of little worth.
21 The lips of the just nourish many,
but fools die for want of sense.
22 It is the LORD's blessing that brings wealth,
and no effort can substitute for it.
23 Crime is the entertainment of the fool;
but wisdom is for the person of understanding.
24 What the wicked fear will befall them,
but the desire of the just will be granted.
25 When the tempest passes, the wicked are no more;
but the just are established forever.

[26]As vinegar to the teeth, and smoke to the eyes,
are sluggards to those who send them.
[27]Fear of the LORD prolongs life,
but the years of the wicked are cut short.
[28]The hope of the just brings joy,
but the expectation of the wicked perishes.
[29]The LORD is a stronghold to those who walk honestly,
downfall for evildoers.
[30]The just will never be disturbed,
but the wicked will not abide in the land.
[31]The mouth of the just yields wisdom,
but the perverse tongue will be cut off.
[32]The lips of the just know favor,
but the mouth of the wicked, perversion.

11:1 False scales are an abomination to the LORD,
but an honest weight, his delight.
[2]When pride comes, disgrace comes;
but with the humble is wisdom.
[3]The honesty of the upright guides them;
the faithless are ruined by their duplicity.
[4]Wealth is useless on a day of wrath,
but justice saves from death.
[5]The justice of the honest makes their way straight,
but by their wickedness the wicked fall.
[6]The justice of the upright saves them,
but the faithless are caught in their own intrigue.
[7]When a person dies, hope is destroyed;
expectation pinned on wealth is destroyed.
[8]The just are rescued from a tight spot,
but the wicked fall into it instead.
[9]By a word the impious ruin their neighbors,
but through their knowledge the just are rescued.
[10]When the just prosper, the city rejoices;
when the wicked perish, there is jubilation.
[11]Through the blessing of the upright the city is exalted,
but through the mouth of the wicked it is overthrown.
[12]Whoever reviles a neighbor lacks sense,
but the intelligent keep silent.
[13]One who slanders reveals secrets,
but a trustworthy person keeps a confidence.
[14]For lack of guidance a people falls;
security lies in many counselors.
[15]Harm will come to anyone going surety for another,
but whoever hates giving pledges is secure.
[16]A gracious woman gains esteem,
and ruthless men gain wealth.
[17]Kindly people benefit themselves,
but the merciless harm themselves.
[18]The wicked make empty profits,

but those who sow justice have a sure reward.
[19]Justice leads toward life,
but pursuit of evil, toward death.
[20]The crooked in heart are an abomination to the LORD,
but those who walk blamelessly are his delight.
[21]Be assured, the wicked shall not go unpunished,
but the offspring of the just shall escape.
[22]Like a golden ring in a swine's snout
is a beautiful woman without judgment.
[23]The desire of the just ends only in good;
the expectation of the wicked is wrath.
[24]One person is lavish yet grows still richer;
another is too sparing, yet is the poorer.
[25]Whoever confers benefits will be amply enriched,
and whoever refreshes others will be refreshed.
[26]Whoever hoards grain, the people curse,
but blessings are on the head of one who distributes it!
[27]Those who seek the good seek favor,
but those who pursue evil will have evil come upon them.
[28]Those who trust in their riches will fall,
but like green leaves the just will flourish.
[29]Those who trouble their household inherit the wind,
and fools become slaves to the wise of heart.
[30]The fruit of justice is a tree of life,
and one who takes lives is a sage.
[31]If the just are recompensed on the earth,
how much more the wicked and the sinner!

12:1 Whoever loves discipline loves knowledge,
but whoever hates reproof is stupid.
[2]A good person wins favor from the LORD,
but the schemer he condemns.
[3]No one is made secure by wickedness,
but the root of the just will never be disturbed.
[4]A woman of worth is the crown of her husband,
but a disgraceful one is like rot in his bones.
[5]The plans of the just are right;
the designs of the wicked are deceit.
[6]The words of the wicked are a deadly ambush,
but the speech of the upright saves them.
[7]Overthrow the wicked and they are no more,
but the house of the just stands firm.
[8]For their good sense people are praised,
but the perverse of heart are despised.
[9]Better to be slighted and have a servant
than put on airs and lack bread.
[10]The just take care of their livestock,
but the compassion of the wicked is cruel.
[11]Those who till their own land have food in plenty,
but those who engage in idle pursuits lack sense.

12 A wicked person desires the catch of evil people,
but the root of the righteous will bear fruit.
13 By the sin of their lips the wicked are ensnared,
but the just escape from a tight spot.
14 From the fruit of their mouths people have their fill of good,
and the works of their hands come back upon them.
15 The way of fools is right in their own eyes,
but those who listen to advice are the wise.
16 Fools immediately show their anger,
but the shrewd conceal contempt.
17 Whoever speaks honestly testifies truly,
but the deceitful make lying witnesses.
18 The babble of some people is like sword thrusts,
but the tongue of the wise is healing.
19 Truthful lips endure forever,
the lying tongue, for only a moment.
20 Deceit is in the heart of those who plot evil,
but those who counsel peace have joy.
21 No harm befalls the just,
but the wicked are overwhelmed with misfortune.
22 Lying lips are an abomination to the LORD,
but those who are truthful, his delight.
23 The shrewd conceal knowledge,
but the hearts of fools proclaim folly.
24 The diligent hand will govern,
but sloth makes for forced labor.
25 Worry weighs down the heart,
but a kind word gives it joy.
26 The just act as guides to their neighbors,
but the way of the wicked leads them astray.
27 Sloth does not catch its prey,
but the wealth of the diligent is splendid.
28 In the path of justice is life,
but the way of abomination leads to death.

☐ JOHN 8:12-30

The Light of the World. 8:12 Jesus spoke to them again, saying, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life." 13 So the Pharisees said to him, "You testify on your own behalf, so your testimony cannot be verified." 14 Jesus answered and said to them, "Even if I do testify on my own behalf, my testimony can be verified, because I know where I came from and where I am going. But you do not know where I come from or where I am going. 15 You judge by appearances, but I do not judge anyone. 16 And even if I should judge, my judgment is valid, because I am not alone, but it is I and the Father who sent me. 17 Even in your law it is written that the testimony of two men can be verified. 18 I testify on my behalf and so does the Father who sent me." 19 So they said to him, "Where is your father?" Jesus answered, "You know neither me nor my Father. If you knew me, you would know my Father also." 20 He spoke these words while teaching in the treasury in the temple area. But no one arrested him, because his hour had not yet come.

Jesus, the Father's Ambassador. [21]He said to them again, "I am going away and you will look for me, but you will die in your sin. Where I am going you cannot come." [22]So the Jews said, "He is not going to kill himself, is he, because he said, 'Where I am going you cannot come'?" [23]He said to them, "You belong to what is below, I belong to what is above. You belong to this world, but I do not belong to this world. [24]That is why I told you that you will die in your sins. For if you do not believe that I AM, you will die in your sins." [25]So they said to him, "Who are you?" Jesus said to them, "What I told you from the beginning. [26]I have much to say about you in condemnation. But the one who sent me is true, and what I heard from him I tell the world." [27]They did not realize that he was speaking to them of the Father. [28]So Jesus said (to them), "When you lift up the Son of Man, then you will realize that I AM, and that I do nothing on my own, but I say only what the Father taught me. [29]The one who sent me is with me. He has not left me alone, because I always do what is pleasing to him." [30]Because he spoke this way, many came to believe in him.

☐ PROVERBS 13-15

13:1 A wise son loves correction,
but the scoffer heeds no rebuke.
[2]From the fruit of the mouth one enjoys good things,
but from the throat of the treacherous comes violence.
[3]Those who guard their mouths preserve themselves;
those who open wide their lips bring ruin.
[4]The appetite of the sluggard craves but has nothing,
but the appetite of the diligent is amply satisfied.
[5]The just hate deceitful words,
but the wicked are odious and disgraceful.
[6]Justice guards one who walks honestly,
but sin leads the wicked astray.
[7]One acts rich but has nothing;
another acts poor but has great wealth.
[8]People's riches serve as ransom for their lives,
but the poor do not even hear a threat.
[9]The light of the just gives joy,
but the lamp of the wicked goes out.
[10]The stupid sow discord by their insolence,
but wisdom is with those who take counsel.
[11]Wealth won quickly dwindles away,
but gathered little by little, it grows.
[12]Hope deferred makes the heart sick,
but a wish fulfilled is a tree of life.
[13]Whoever despises the word must pay for it,
but whoever reveres the command will be rewarded.
[14]The teaching of the wise is a fountain of life,
turning one from the snares of death.
[15]Good sense brings favor,

but the way of the faithless is their ruin.
16 The shrewd always act prudently
but the foolish parade folly.
17 A wicked messenger brings on disaster,
but a trustworthy envoy is a healing remedy.
18 Poverty and shame befall those who let go of discipline,
but those who hold on to reproof receive honor.
19 Desire fulfilled delights the soul,
but turning from evil is an abomination to fools.
20 Walk with the wise and you become wise,
but the companion of fools fares badly.
21 Misfortune pursues sinners,
but the just shall be recompensed with good.
22 The good leave an inheritance to their children's children, but the wealth of the sinner is stored up for the just.
23 The tillage of the poor yields abundant food,
but possessions are swept away for lack of justice.
24 Whoever spares the rod hates the child,
but whoever loves will apply discipline.
25 When the just eat, their hunger is appeased;
but the belly of the wicked suffers want.

14:1 Wisdom builds her house,
but Folly tears hers down with her own hands.
2 Those who walk uprightly fear the LORD,
but those who are devious in their ways spurn him.
3 In the mouth of the fool is a rod for pride,
but the lips of the wise preserve them.
4 Where there are no oxen, the crib is clean;
but abundant crops come through the strength of the bull.
5 A trustworthy witness does not lie,
but one who spouts lies makes a lying witness.
6 The scoffer seeks wisdom in vain,
but knowledge is easy for the intelligent.
7 Go from the face of the fool;
you get no knowledge from such lips.
8 The wisdom of the shrewd enlightens their way,
but the folly of fools is deceit.
9 The wicked scorn a guilt offering,
but the upright find acceptance.
10 The heart knows its own bitterness,
and its joy no stranger shares.
11 The house of the wicked will be destroyed,
but the tent of the upright will flourish.
12 Sometimes a way seems right,
but the end of it leads to death!
13 Even in laughter the heart may be sad,
and the end of joy may be sorrow.
14 From their own ways turncoats are sated,
from their own actions, the loyal.

15 The naive believe everything,
but the shrewd watch their steps.
16 The wise person is cautious and turns from evil;
the fool is reckless and gets embroiled.
17 The quick-tempered make fools of themselves,
and schemers are hated.
18 The simple have folly as an adornment,
but the shrewd wear knowledge as a crown.
19 The malicious bow down before the good,
and the wicked, at the gates of the just.
20 Even by their neighbors the poor are despised,
but a rich person's friends are many.
21 Whoever despises the hungry comes up short,
but happy the one who is kind to the poor!
22 Do not those who plan evil go astray?
But those who plan good win steadfast loyalty.
23 In all labor there is profit,
but mere talk tends only to loss.
24 The crown of the wise is wealth;
the diadem of fools is folly.
25 The truthful witness saves lives,
but whoever utters lies is a betrayer.
26 The fear of the LORD is a strong defense,
a refuge even for one's children.
27 The fear of the LORD is a fountain of life,
turning one from the snares of death.
28 A multitude of subjects is the glory of the king;
but if his people are few, a prince is ruined.
29 Long-suffering results in great wisdom;
a short temper raises folly high.
30 A tranquil mind gives life to the body,
but jealousy rots the bones.
31 Those who oppress the poor revile their Maker,
but those who are kind to the needy honor him.
32 The wicked are overthrown by their wickedness,
but the just find a refuge in their integrity.
33 Wisdom can remain silent in the discerning heart,
but among fools she must make herself known.
34 Justice exalts a nation,
but sin is a people's disgrace.
35 The king favors the skillful servant,
but the shameless one incurs his wrath.

15:1 A mild answer turns back wrath,
but a harsh word stirs up anger.
2 The tongue of the wise pours out knowledge,
but the mouth of fools spews folly.
3 The eyes of the LORD are in every place,
keeping watch on the evil and the good.
4 A soothing tongue is a tree of life,

but a perverse one breaks the spirit.
5 The fool spurns a father's instruction,
but whoever heeds reproof is prudent.
6 In the house of the just there are ample resources,
but the harvest of the wicked is in peril.
7 The lips of the wise spread knowledge,
but the heart of fools is not steadfast.
8 The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
but the prayer of the upright is his delight.
9 The way of the wicked is an abomination to the LORD,
but he loves one who pursues justice.
10 Discipline seems bad to those going astray;
one who hates reproof will die.
11 Sheol and Abaddon lie open before the LORD;
how much more the hearts of mortals!
12 Scoffers do not love reproof;
to the wise they will not go.
13 A glad heart lights up the face,
but an anguished heart breaks the spirit.
14 The discerning heart seeks knowledge,
but the mouth of fools feeds on folly.
15 All the days of the poor are evil,
but a good heart is a continual feast.
16 Better a little with fear of the LORD
than a great fortune with anxiety.
17 Better a dish of herbs where love is than a fatted ox and hatred with it.
18 The ill-tempered stir up strife,
but the patient settle disputes.
19 The way of the sluggard is like a thorn hedge,
but the path of the diligent is a highway.
20 A wise son gives his father joy,
but a fool despises his mother.
21 Folly is joy to the senseless,
but the person of understanding goes the straight way.
22 Plans fail when there is no counsel,
but they succeed when advisers are many.
23 One has joy from an apt response;
a word in season, how good it is!
24 The path of life leads upward for the prudent,
turning them from Sheol below.
25 The LORD pulls down the house of the proud,
but preserves intact the widow's landmark.
26 The schemes of the wicked are an abomination to the LORD,
but gracious words are pure.
27 The greedy tear down their own house,
but those who hate bribes will live.
28 The heart of the just ponders a response,
but the mouth of the wicked spews evil.
29 The LORD is far from the wicked,

but hears the prayer of the just.
30 A cheerful glance brings joy to the heart;
good news invigorates the bones.
31 The ear that listens to salutary reproof
is at home among the wise.
32 Those who disregard discipline hate themselves,
but those who heed reproof acquire understanding.
33 The fear of the LORD is training for wisdom,
and humility goes before honors.

Jesus and Abraham. 8:31 Jesus then said to those Jews who believed in him, "If you remain in my word, you will truly be my disciples, 32 and you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." 33 They answered him, "We are descendants of Abraham and have never been enslaved to anyone. How can you say, 'You will become free'?" 34 Jesus answered them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, everyone who commits sin is a slave of sin. 35 A slave does not remain in a household forever, but a son always remains. 36 So if a son frees you, then you will truly be free. 37 I know that you are descendants of Abraham. But you are trying to kill me, because my word has no room among you. 38 I tell you what I have seen in the Father's presence; then do what you have heard from the Father."

39 They answered and said to him, "Our father is Abraham." Jesus said to them, "If you were Abraham's children, you would be doing the works of Abraham. 40 But now you are trying to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God; Abraham did not do this. 41 You are doing the works of your father!" [So] they said to him, "We are not illegitimate. We have one Father, God." 42 Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and am here; I did not come on my own, but he sent me. 43 Why do you not understand what I am saying? Because you cannot bear to hear my word. 44 You belong to your father the devil and you willingly carry out your father's desires. He was a murderer from the beginning and does not stand in truth, because there is no truth in him. When he tells a lie, he speaks in character, because he is a liar and the father of lies. 45 But because I speak the truth, you do not believe me. 46 Can any of you charge me with sin? If I am telling the truth, why do you not believe me? 47 Whoever belongs to God hears the words of God; for this reason you do not listen, because you do not belong to God."

48 The Jews answered and said to him, "Are we not right in saying that you are a Samaritan and are possessed?" 49 Jesus answered, "I am not possessed; I honor my Father, but you dishonor me. 50 I do not seek my own glory; there is one who seeks it and he is the one who judges. 51 Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever keeps my word will never see death." 52 (So) the Jews said to him, "Now we are sure that you are possessed. Abraham died, as did the prophets, yet you say, 'Whoever keeps my word will never taste death.' 53 Are you greater than our father Abraham, who died? Or the prophets, who died? Who do you make yourself out to be?" 54 Jesus answered, "If I glorify myself, my glory is worth nothing; but it is my Father who glorifies me, of whom you say, 'He is our God.' 55 You do not know him, but I know him. And if I should say that I do not know him, I would be like you a liar. But I do know him and I keep his word. 56 Abraham your father rejoiced to see my day; he saw it and was glad. 57 So the Jews said to him, "You are not yet fifty years old and you have seen Abraham?" 58 Jesus said to them, "Amen, amen, I say to you, before Abraham came to be, I AM." 59 So they picked up stones to throw at him; but Jesus hid and went out of the temple area.

So blind are we in this mortal life, and so unaware of what will happen — so uncertain even of how we will think tomorrow — that God could not take vengeance on a man more easily in this world than by granting his own foolish wishes.

— St. Thomas More

☐ PROVERBS 16-18

16:1 Plans are made in human hearts,
but from the LORD comes the tongue's response.
[2]All one's ways are pure in one's own eyes,
but the measurer of motives is the LORD.
[3]Entrust your works to the LORD,
and your plans will succeed.
[4]The LORD has made everything for a purpose,
even the wicked for the evil day.
[5]Every proud heart is an abomination to the LORD;
be assured that none will go unpunished.
[6]By steadfast loyalty guilt is expiated,
and by the fear of the LORD evil is avoided.
[7]When the LORD is pleased with someone's ways,
he makes even enemies be at peace with them.
[8]Better a little with justice,
than a large income with injustice.
[9]The human heart plans the way,
but the LORD directs the steps.
[10]An oracle is upon the king's lips,
no judgment of his mouth is false.
[11]Balance and scales belong to the LORD;
every weight in the sack is his concern.
[12]Wrongdoing is an abomination to kings,
for by justice the throne endures.
[13]The king takes delight in honest lips,
and whoever speaks what is right he loves.
[14]The king's wrath is a messenger of death,
but a wise person can pacify it.
[15]A king's smile means life,
and his favor is like a rain cloud in spring.
[16]How much better to get wisdom than gold!
To get understanding is preferable to silver.
[17]The path of the upright leads away from misfortune;
those who attend to their way guard their lives.
[18]Pride goes before disaster,
and a haughty spirit before a fall.
[19]It is better to be humble with the poor
than to share plunder with the proud.
[20]Whoever ponders a matter will be successful;
happy the one who trusts in the LORD!
[21]The wise of heart is esteemed for discernment,
and pleasing speech gains a reputation for learning.
[22]Good sense is a fountain of life to those who have it,
but folly is the training of fools.
[23]The heart of the wise makes for eloquent speech,
and increases the learning on their lips.
[24]Pleasing words are a honeycomb,
sweet to the taste and invigorating to the bones.

25 Sometimes a way seems right,
but the end of it leads to death!
26 The appetite of workers works for them,
for their mouths urge them on.
27 Scoundrels are a furnace of evil,
and their lips are like a scorching fire.
28 Perverse speech sows discord,
and talebearing separates bosom friends.
29 The violent deceive their neighbors,
and lead them into a way that is not good.
30 Whoever winks an eye plans perversity;
whoever purses the lips does evil.
31 Gray hair is a crown of glory;
it is gained by a life that is just.
32 The patient are better than warriors, and those who rule their temper, better than the conqueror of a city.
33 Into the bag the lot is cast,
but from the LORD comes every decision.

17:1 Better a dry crust with quiet
than a house full of feasting with strife.
2 A wise servant will rule over an unworthy son,
and will share the inheritance of the children.
3 The crucible for silver, and the furnace for gold,
but the tester of hearts is the LORD.
4 The evildoer gives heed to wicked lips,
the liar, to a mischievous tongue.
5 Whoever mocks the poor reviles their Maker;
whoever rejoices in their misfortune will not go unpunished.
6 Children's children are the crown of the elderly,
and the glory of children is their parentage.
7 Fine words ill fit a fool;
how much more lying lips, a noble!
8 A bribe seems a charm to its user;
at every turn it brings success.
9 Whoever overlooks an offense fosters friendship,
but whoever gossips about it separates friends.
10 A single reprimand does more for a discerning person than a hundred lashes for a fool.
11 The wicked pursue only rebellion,
and a merciless messenger is sent against them.
12 Face a bear robbed of her cubs,
but never fools in their folly!
13 If you return evil for good,
evil will not depart from your house.
14 The start of strife is like the opening of a dam;
check a quarrel before it bursts forth!
15 Whoever acquits the wicked, whoever condemns the just—both are an abomination to the LORD.
16 Of what use is money in the hands of fools

when they have no heart to acquire wisdom?
17 A friend is a friend at all times,
and a brother is born for the time of adversity.
18 Those without sense give their hands in pledge, becoming surety for their neighbors.
19 Those who love an offense love a fight;
those who build their gate high court disaster.
20 The perverse in heart come to no good,
and the double-tongued fall into trouble.
21 Whoever conceives a fool has grief;
the father of a numskull has no joy.
22 A joyful heart is the health of the body,
but a depressed spirit dries up the bones.
23 A guilty person takes out a bribe from the pocket,
thus perverting the course of justice.
24 On the countenance of a discerning person is wisdom,
but the eyes of a fool are on the ends of the earth.
25 A foolish son is vexation to his father,
and bitter sorrow to her who bore him.
26 It is wrong to fine an innocent person,
but beyond reason to scourge nobles.
27 Those who spare their words are truly knowledgeable,
and those who are discreet are intelligent.
28 Even fools, keeping silent, are considered wise;
if they keep their lips closed, intelligent.

18:1 One who is alienated seeks a pretext,
with all persistence picks a quarrel.
2 Fools take no delight in understanding,
but only in displaying what they think.
3 With wickedness comes contempt,
and with disgrace, scorn.
4 The words of one's mouth are deep waters,
the spring of wisdom, a running brook.
5 It is not good to favor the guilty,
nor to reject the claim of the just.
6 The lips of fools walk into a fight,
and their mouths are asking for a beating.
7 The mouths of fools are their ruin;
their lips are a deadly snare.
8 The words of a talebearer are like dainty morsels:
they sink into one's inmost being.
9 Those slack in their work
are kin to the destroyer.
10 The name of the LORD is a strong tower;
the just run to it and are safe.
11 The wealth of the rich is their strong city;
they fancy it a high wall.
12 Before disaster the heart is haughty,
but before honor is humility.

[13]Whoever answers before listening,
theirs is folly and shame.
[14]One's spirit supports one when ill,
but a broken spirit who can bear?
[15]The heart of the intelligent acquires knowledge,
and the ear of the wise seeks knowledge.
[16]Gifts clear the way for people,
winning access to the great.
[17]Those who plead the case first seem to be in the right;
then the opponent comes and cross-examines them.
[18]The lot puts an end to disputes,
and decides a controversy between the mighty.
[19]A brother offended is more unyielding than a stronghold;
such strife is more daunting than castle gates.
[20]With the fruit of one's mouth one's belly is filled, with the produce of one's lips one is sated.
[21]Death and life are in the power of the tongue;
those who choose one shall eat its fruit.
[22]To find a wife is to find happiness,
a favor granted by the LORD.
[23]The poor implore,
but the rich answer harshly.
[24]There are friends who bring ruin,
but there are true friends more loyal than a brother.

☐ JOHN 9

The Man Born Blind. 9:1 As he passed by he saw a man blind from birth. [2]His disciples asked him, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" [3]Jesus answered, "Neither he nor his parents sinned; it is so that the works of God might be made visible through him. [4]We have to do the works of the one who sent me while it is day. Night is coming when no one can work. [5]While I am in the world, I am the light of the world." [6]When he had said this, he spat on the ground and made clay with the saliva, and smeared the clay on his eyes, [7]and said to him, "Go wash in the Pool of Siloam" (which means Sent). So he went and washed, and came back able to see.

[8]His neighbors and those who had seen him earlier as a beggar said, "Isn't this the one who used to sit and beg?" [9]Some said, "It is," but others said, "No, he just looks like him." He said, "I am." [10]So they said to him, "[So] how were your eyes opened?" [11]He replied, "The man called Jesus made clay and anointed my eyes and told me, 'Go to Siloam and wash.' So I went there and washed and was able to see." [12]And they said to him, "Where is he?" He said, "I don't know."

[13]They brought the one who was once blind to the Pharisees. [14]Now Jesus had made clay and opened his eyes on a sabbath. [15]So then the Pharisees also asked him how he was able to see. He said to them, "He put clay on my eyes, and I washed, and now I can see." [16]So some of the Pharisees said, "This man is not from God, because he does not keep the sabbath." [But] others said, "How can a sinful man do such signs?" And there was a division among them. [17]So they said to the blind man again, "What do you have to say about him, since he opened your eyes?" He said, "He is a prophet."

[18]Now the Jews did not believe that he had been blind and gained his sight until they summoned the parents of the one who had gained his sight. [19]They asked them, "Is this your son, who you say was born blind? How does he now see?" [20]His parents answered and said, "We know that this is our son and that he was born blind. [21]We do not know how he sees now, nor do we know who opened his eyes. Ask him, he is of age; he can speak for him self." [22]His parents said this because they were afraid of the Jews, for the Jews had already agreed that if anyone acknowledged him as the Messiah, he would be expelled from the synagogue. [23]For this reason his parents said, "He is of age; question him."

[24]So a second time they called the man who had been blind and said to him, "Give God the praise! We know that this man is a sinner." [25]He replied, "If he is a sinner, I do not know. One thing I do know is that I was blind and now I see." [26]So they said to him, "What did he do to you? How did he open your eyes?" [27]He answered them, "I told you already and you did not listen. Why do you want to hear it again? Do you want to become his disciples, too?" [28]They ridiculed him and said, "You are that man's disciple; we are disciples of Moses! [29]We know that God spoke to Moses, but we do not know where this one is from." [30]The man answered and said to them, "This is what is so amazing, that you do not know where he is from, yet he opened my eyes. [31]We know that God does not listen to sinners, but if one is devout and does his will, he listens to him. [32]It is unheard of that anyone ever opened the eyes of a person born blind. [33]If this man were not from God, he would not be able to do anything." [34]They answered and said to him, "You were born totally in sin, and are you trying to teach us?" Then they threw him out.

[35]When Jesus heard that they had thrown him out, he found him and said, "Do you believe in the Son of Man?" [36]He answered and said, "Who is he, sir, that I may believe in him?" [37]Jesus said to him, "You have seen him and the one speaking with you is he." [38]He said, "I do believe, Lord," and he worshiped him. [39]Then Jesus said, "I came into this world for judgment, so that those who do not see might see, and those who do see might become blind."

[40]Some of the Pharisees who were with him heard this and said to him, "Surely we are not also blind, are we?" [41]Jesus said to them, "If you were blind, you would have no sin; but now you are saying, 'We see,' so your sin remains."

St. John Vianney

> The one who is suffering from a slight illness has no need to go and see a doctor; she can get well alone. But if it is a serious illness, if it is a dangerous wound, then the doctor must be called in, and after the doctor come the medicines. When we have fallen into some grave sin, we must go to the doctor, who is the priest, and take the medicine, which is confession.

☐ PROVERBS 19-21

19:1 Better to be poor and walk in integrity
than rich and crooked in one's ways.
[2]Desire without knowledge is not good;
and whoever acts hastily, blunders.
[3]Their own folly leads people astray;
in their hearts they rage against the LORD.
[4]Wealth adds many friends,
but the poor are left friendless.
[5]The false witness will not go unpunished,
and whoever utters lies will not escape.
[6]Many curry favor with a noble;
everybody is a friend of a gift giver.
[7]All the kin of the poor despise them;
how much more do their friends shun them!
[8]Those who gain sense truly love themselves;
those who preserve understanding will find success.
[9]The false witness will not go unpunished,

and whoever utters lies will perish.
[10]Luxury is not befitting a fool;
much less should a slave rule over princes.
[11]It is good sense to be slow to anger,
and an honor to overlook an offense.
[12]The king's wrath is like the roar of a lion,
but his favor, like dew on the grass.
[13]The foolish son is ruin to his father,
and a quarrelsome wife is water constantly dripping.
[14]Home and possessions are an inheritance from parents,
but a prudent wife is from the LORD.
[15]Laziness brings on deep sleep,
and the sluggard goes hungry.
[16]Those who keep commands keep their lives,
but those who despise these ways will die.
[17]Whoever cares for the poor lends to the LORD,
who will pay back the sum in full.
[18]Discipline your son, for there is hope;
but do not be intent on his death.
[19]A wrathful person bears the penalty;
after one rescue, you will have it to do again.
[20]Listen to counsel and receive instruction,
that you may eventually become wise.
[21]Many are the plans of the human heart,
but it is the decision of the LORD that endures.
[22]What is desired of a person is fidelity;
rather be poor than a liar.
[23]The fear of the LORD leads to life;
one eats and sleeps free from any harm.
[24]The sluggard buries a hand in the dish;
not even lifting it to the mouth.
[25]Beat a scoffer and the naive learn a lesson;
rebuke the intelligent and they gain knowledge.
[26]Whoever mistreats a father or drives away a mother,
is a shameless and disgraceful child.
[27]My son, stop attending to correction; start straying from words of knowledge.
[28]An unprincipled witness scoffs at justice,
and the mouth of the wicked pours out iniquity.
[29]Rods are prepared for scoffers,
and blows for the backs of fools.

20:1 Wine is arrogant, strong drink is riotous;
none who are intoxicated by them are wise.
[2]The terror of a king is like the roar of a lion;
those who incur his anger forfeit their lives.
[3]A person gains honor by avoiding strife,
while every fool starts a quarrel.
[4]In seedtime sluggards do not plow;
when they look for the harvest, it is not there.

[5]The intention of the human heart is deep water,
but the intelligent draw it forth.
[6]Many say, “My loyal friend,”
but who can find someone worthy of trust?
[7]The just walk in integrity;
happy are their children after them!
[8]A king seated on the throne of judgment
dispels all evil with his glance.
[9]Who can say, “I have made my heart clean,
I am cleansed of my sin”?
[10]Varying weights, varying measures,
are both an abomination to the LORD.
[11]In their actions even children can playact
though their deeds be blameless and right.
[12]The ear that hears, the eye that sees—
the LORD has made them both.
[13]Do not love sleep lest you be reduced to poverty;
keep your eyes open, have your fill of food.
[14]“Bad, bad!” says the buyer,
then goes away only to boast.
[15]One can put on gold and abundant jewels,
but wise lips are the most precious ornament.
[16]Take the garment of the one who became surety for a stranger;
if for foreigners, exact the pledge!
[17]Bread earned by deceit is sweet,
but afterward the mouth is filled with gravel.
[18]Plans made with advice succeed;
with wise direction wage your war.
[19]A slanderer reveals secrets;
so have nothing to do with a babbler!
[20]Those who curse father or mother—
their lamp will go out in the dead of night.
[21]Possessions greedily guarded at the outset
will not be blessed in the end.
[22]Do not say, “I will repay evil!”
Wait for the LORD, who will help you.
[23]Varying weights are an abomination to the LORD,
and false scales are not good.
[24]Our steps are from the LORD;
how, then, can mortals understand their way?
[25]It is a trap to pledge rashly a sacred gift,
and after a vow, then to reflect.
[26]A wise king winnows the wicked,
and threshes them under the cartwheel.
[27]A lamp from the LORD is human life-breath;
it searches through the inmost being.
[28]His steadfast loyalty safeguards the king,
and he upholds his throne by justice.
[29]The glory of the young is their strength,
and the dignity of the old is gray hair.

30 Evil is cleansed away by bloody lashes,
and a scourging to the inmost being.

21:1 A king's heart is channeled water in the hand of the LORD;
God directs it where he pleases.
2 All your ways may be straight in your own eyes,
but it is the LORD who weighs hearts.
3 To do what is right and just
is more acceptable to the LORD than sacrifice.
4 Haughty eyes and a proud heart—
the lamp of the wicked will fail.
5 The plans of the diligent end in profit,
but those of the hasty end in loss.
6 Trying to get rich by lying is chasing a bubble over deadly snares.
7 The violence of the wicked will sweep them away,
because they refuse to do what is right.
8 One's path may be winding and unfamiliar,
but one's conduct is blameless and right.
9 It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop
than in a mansion with a quarrelsome woman.
10 The soul of the wicked desires evil;
their neighbor finds no pity in their eyes.
11 When scoffers are punished the naive become wise;
when the wise succeed, they gain knowledge.
12 The Righteous One appraises the house of the wicked, bringing down the wicked to ruin.
13 Those who shut their ears to the cry of the poor will themselves call out and not be answered.
14 A secret gift allays anger,
and a present concealed, violent wrath.
15 When justice is done it is a joy for the just,
downfall for evildoers.
16 Whoever strays from the way of good sense
will abide in the assembly of the shades.
17 The lover of pleasure will suffer want;
the lover of wine and perfume will never be rich.
18 The wicked serve as ransom for the just,
and the faithless for the upright.
19 It is better to dwell in a wilderness than with a quarrelsome wife and trouble.
20 Precious treasure and oil are in the house of the wise,
but the fool consumes them.
21 Whoever pursues justice and kindness
will find life and honor.
22 The wise person storms the city of the mighty,
and overthrows the stronghold in which they trust.
23 Those who guard mouth and tongue
guard themselves from trouble.
24 Proud, boastful—scoffer is the name:

those who act with overbearing pride.
25 The desire of sluggards will slay them,
for their hands refuse to work.
26 Some are consumed with avarice all the day,
but the just give unsparingly.
27 The sacrifice of the wicked is an abomination,
the more so when they offer it with bad intent.
28 The false witness will perish,
but one who listens will give lasting testimony.
29 The face of the wicked hardens,
but the upright maintains a straight course.
30 No wisdom, no understanding,
no counsel prevail against the LORD.
31 The horse is equipped for the day of battle,
but victory is the LORD's.

☐ JOHN 10:1-21

The Good Shepherd. 10:1 "Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever does not enter a sheepfold through the gate but climbs over elsewhere is a thief and a robber. 2 But whoever enters through the gate is the shepherd of the sheep. 3 The gatekeeper opens it for him, and the sheep hear his voice, as he calls his own sheep by name and leads them out. 4 When he has driven out all his own, he walks ahead of them, and the sheep follow him, because they recognize his voice. 5 But they will not follow a stranger; they will run away from him, because they do not recognize the voice of strangers." 6 Although Jesus used this figure of speech, they did not realize what he was trying to tell them.

7 So Jesus said again, "Amen, amen, I say to you, I am the gate for the sheep. 8 All who came [before me] are thieves and robbers, but the sheep did not listen to them. 9 I am the gate. Whoever enters through me will be saved, and will come in and go out and find pasture. 10 A thief comes only to steal and slaughter and destroy; I came so that they might have life and have it more abundantly. 11 I am the good shepherd. A good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep. 12 A hired man, who is not a shepherd and whose sheep are not his own, sees a wolf coming and leaves the sheep and runs away, and the wolf catches and scatters them. 13 This is because he works for pay and has no concern for the sheep. 14 I am the good shepherd, and I know mine and mine know me, 15 just as the Father knows me and I know the Father; and I will lay down my life for the sheep. 16 I have other sheep that do not belong to this fold. These also I must lead, and they will hear my voice, and there will be one flock, one shepherd. 17 This is why the Father loves me, because I lay down my life in order to take it up again. 18 No one takes it from me, but I lay it down on my own. I have power to lay it down, and power to take it up again. This command I have received from my Father."

19 Again there was a division among the Jews because of these words. 20 Many of them said, "He is possessed and out of his mind; why listen to him?" 21 Others said, "These are not the words of one possessed; surely a demon cannot open the eyes of the blind, can he?"

Dedication of the Basilica of St. Mary Major

Far be it that anyone should try to defraud holy Mary of her privileges of divine grace and of her special glory. For by a certain singular favor of our Lord and God, and of her Son, she must be confessed to be the most true and most blessed Mother of God.

— St. Vincent of Lerins

☐ PROVERBS 22-24

22:1 A good name is more desirable than great riches,
and high esteem, than gold and silver.
2 Rich and poor have a common bond:
the LORD is the maker of them all.
3 The astute see an evil and hide,
while the naive continue on and pay the penalty.
4 The result of humility and fear of the LORD
is riches, honor and life.
5 Thorns and snares are on the path of the crooked;
those who would safeguard their lives will avoid them.
6 Train the young in the way they should go;
even when old, they will not swerve from it.
7 The rich rule over the poor,
and the borrower is the slave of the lender.
8 Those who sow iniquity reap calamity,
and the rod used in anger will fail.
9 The generous will be blessed,
for they share their food with the poor.
10 Expel the arrogant and discord goes too;
strife and insult cease.
11 The LORD loves the pure of heart;
the person of winning speech has a king for a friend.
12 The eyes of the LORD watch over the knowledgeable,
but he defeats the projects of the faithless.
13 The sluggard says, "A lion is outside;
I might be slain in the street."
14 The mouth of the foreign woman is a deep pit;
whoever incurs the LORD's anger will fall into it.
15 Folly is bound to the heart of a youth,
but the rod of discipline will drive it out.
16 Oppressing the poor for enrichment,
giving to the rich: both are sheer loss.

17 The Words of the Wise:
Incline your ear, and hear my words,
and let your mind attend to my teaching;
18 For it will be well if you hold them within you,
if they all are ready on your lips.
19 That your trust may be in the LORD,
I make them known to you today—yes, to you.
20 Have I not written for you thirty sayings, containing counsels and knowledge, 21 To teach you truly
how to give a dependable report to one who sends you?
22 Do not rob the poor because they are poor,
nor crush the needy at the gate;
23 For the LORD will defend their cause,
and will plunder those who plunder them.

[24]Do not be friendly with hotheads,
nor associate with the wrathful, [25]Lest you learn their ways,
and become ensnared.
[26]Do not be one of those who give their hand in pledge,
those who become surety for debts;
[27]For if you are unable to pay,
your bed will be taken from under you.
[28]Do not remove the ancient landmark
that your ancestors set up.
[29]Do you see those skilled at their work?
They will stand in the presence of kings,
but not in the presence of the obscure.

23:1 When you sit down to dine with a ruler,
mark well the one who is before you;
[2]Stick the knife in your gullet
if you have a ravenous appetite.
[3]Do not desire his delicacies;
it is food that deceives.
[4]Do not wear yourself out to gain wealth,
cease to be worried about it;
[5]When your glance flits to it, it is gone!
For assuredly it grows wings,
like the eagle that flies toward heaven.
[6]Do not take food with unwilling hosts,
and do not desire their delicacies;
[7]For like something stuck in the throat is that food.
"Eat and drink," they say to you,
but their hearts are not with you;
[8]The little you have eaten you will vomit up,
and you will have wasted your agreeable words.
[9]Do not speak in the hearing of fools;
they will despise the wisdom of your words.
[10]Do not remove the ancient landmark,
nor invade the fields of the fatherless;
[11]For their redeemer is strong;
he will defend their cause against you.
[12]Apply your heart to instruction,
and your ear to words of knowledge.
[13]Do not withhold discipline from youths;
if you beat them with the rod, they will not die.
[14]Beat them with the rod,
and you will save them from Sheol.
[15]My son, if your heart is wise,
my heart also will rejoice;
[16]And my inmost being will exult,
when your lips speak what is right.
[17]Do not let your heart envy sinners,
but only those who always fear the LORD;

[18]For you will surely have a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.
[19]Hear, my son, and be wise,
and guide your heart in the right way.
[20]Do not join with wine bibbers,
nor with those who glut themselves on meat.
[21]For drunkards and gluttons come to poverty,
and lazing about clothes one in rags.
[22]Listen to your father who begot you,
do not despise your mother when she is old.
[23]Buy truth and do not sell:
wisdom, instruction, understanding!
[24]The father of a just person will exult greatly;
whoever begets a wise son will rejoice in him.
[25]Let your father and mother rejoice;
let her who bore you exult.
[26]My son, give me your heart,
and let your eyes keep to my ways, [27]For the harlot is a deep pit,
and the foreign woman a narrow well;
[28]Yes, she lies in wait like a robber,
and increases the number of the faithless.
[29]Who scream? Who shout?
Who have strife? Who have anxiety?
Who have wounds for nothing?
Who have bleary eyes?
[30]Whoever linger long over wine,
whoever go around quaffing wine.
[31]Do not look on the wine when it is red,
when it sparkles in the cup.
It goes down smoothly,
[32]but in the end it bites like a serpent,
and stings like an adder.
[33]Your eyes behold strange sights,
and your heart utters incoherent things;
[34]You are like one sleeping on the high seas,
sprawled at the top of the mast.
[35]"They struck me, but it did not pain me;
they beat me, but I did not feel it.
When can I get up,
when can I go out and get more?"

24:1 Do not envy the wicked,
nor desire to be with them;
[2]For their hearts plot violence,
and their lips speak of foul play.
[3]By wisdom a house is built,
by understanding it is established;
[4]And by knowledge its rooms are filled with every precious and pleasing possession.

[5]The wise are more powerful than the strong,
and the learned, than the mighty,
[6]For by strategy war is waged,
and victory depends on many counselors.
[7]Wise words are beyond fools' reach,
in the assembly they do not open their mouth;
[8]As they calculate how to do evil,
people brand them troublemakers.
[9]The scheme of a fool gains no acceptance,
the scoffer is an abomination to the community.
[10]Did you fail in a day of adversity,
did your strength fall short?
[11]Did you fail to rescue those who were being dragged off to death,
those tottering, those near death,
[12]because you said, "We didn't know about it"?
Surely, the Searcher of hearts knows
and will repay all according to their deeds.
[13]If you eat honey, my son, because it is good,
if pure honey is sweet to your taste,
[14]Such, you must know, is wisdom to your soul.
If you find it, you will have a future,
and your hope will not be cut off.
[15]Do not lie in wait at the abode of the just,
do not ravage their dwelling places;
[16]Though the just fall seven times, they rise again,
but the wicked stumble from only one mishap.
[17]Do not rejoice when your enemies fall,
and when they stumble, do not let your heart exult, [18]Lest the LORD see it, be displeased with you,
and withdraw his wrath from your enemies.
[19]Do not be provoked at evildoers,
do not envy the wicked;
[20]For the evil have no future,
the lamp of the wicked will be put out.
[21]My son, fear the LORD and the king;
have nothing to do with those who hate them;
[22]For disaster will issue suddenly,
and calamity from them both, who knows when?

[23]These also are Words of the Wise:
To show partiality in judgment is not good.
[24]Whoever says to the guilty party, "You are innocent,"
will be cursed by nations, scorned by peoples; [25]But those who render just verdicts will fare well,
and on them will come the blessing of prosperity.
[26]An honest reply—
a kiss on the lips.
[27]Complete your outdoor tasks,
and arrange your work in the field;
afterward you can build your house.

[28]Do not testify falsely against your neighbor
and so deceive with your lips.
[29]Do not say, “As they did to me, so will I do to them;
I will repay them according to their deeds.”
[30]I passed by the field of a sluggard,
by the vineyard of one with no sense; [31]It was all overgrown with thistles;
its surface was covered with nettles,
and its stone wall broken down.
[32]As I gazed at it, I reflected;
I saw and learned a lesson:
[33]A little sleep, a little slumber,
a little folding of the arms to rest—
[34]Then poverty will come upon you like a robber,
and want like a brigand.

Feast of the Dedication. 10:22 The feast of the Dedication was then taking place in Jerusalem. It was winter. [23]And Jesus walked about in the temple area on the Portico of Solomon. [24]So the Jews gathered around him and said to him, “How long are you going to keep us in suspense? If you are the Messiah, tell us plainly.” [25]Jesus answered them, “I told you and you do not believe. The works I do in my Father’s name testify to me. [26]But you do not believe, because you are not among my sheep. [27]My sheep hear my voice; I know them, and they follow me. [28]I give them eternal life, and they shall never perish. No one can take them out of my hand. [29]My Father, who has given them to me, is greater than all, and no one can take them out of the Father’s hand. [30]The Father and I are one.”

[31]The Jews again picked up rocks to stone him. [32]Jesus answered them, “I have shown you many good works from my Father. For which of these are you trying to stone me?” [33]The Jews answered him, “We are not stoning you for a good work but for blasphemy. You, a man, are making yourself God.” [34]Jesus answered them, “Is it not written in your law, ‘I said, “You are gods”’? [35]If it calls them gods to whom the word of God came, and scripture cannot be set aside, [36]can you say that the one whom the Father has consecrated and sent into the world blasphemes because I said, ‘I am the Son of God’? [37]If I do not perform my Father’s works, do not believe me; [38]but if I perform them, even if you do not believe me, believe the works, so that you may realize [and understand] that the Father is in me and I am in the Father.” [39][Then] they tried again to arrest him; but he escaped from their power.

[40]He went back across the Jordan to the place where John first baptized, and there he remained. [41]Many came to him and said, “John performed no sign, but everything John said about this man was true.” [42]And many there began to believe in him.

The Transfiguration of the Lord

Grace is nothing else but a certain beginning of glory in us.

— St. Thomas Aquinas

☐ PROVERBS 25-27

25:1 These also are proverbs of Solomon. The servants of Hezekiah, king of Judah, transmitted them.

[2]It is the glory of God to conceal a matter,

and the glory of kings to fathom a matter.
3 Like the heavens in height, and the earth in depth,
the heart of kings is unfathomable.
4 Remove the dross from silver,
and it comes forth perfectly purified;
5 Remove the wicked from the presence of the king,
and his throne is made firm through justice.
6 Claim no honor in the king's presence,
nor occupy the place of superiors;
7 For it is better to be told, "Come up closer!"
than to be humbled before the prince.
8 What your eyes have seen
do not bring forth too quickly against an opponent;
For what will you do later on
when your neighbor puts you to shame?
9 Argue your own case with your neighbor,
but the secrets of others do not disclose;
10 Lest, hearing it, they reproach you,
and your ill repute never ceases.
11 Golden apples in silver settings
are words spoken at the proper time.
12 A golden earring or a necklace of fine gold—
one who gives wise reproof to a listening ear.
13 Like the coolness of snow in the heat of the harvest are faithful messengers for those who send them, lifting the spirits of their masters.
14 Clouds and wind but no rain—
the one who boasts of a gift not given.
15 By patience is a ruler persuaded,
and a soft tongue can break a bone.
16 If you find honey, eat only what you need,
lest you have your fill and vomit it up.
17 Let your foot be seldom in your neighbors' house,
lest they have their fill of you—and hate you.
18 A club, sword, or sharp arrow—
the one who bears false witness against a neighbor.
19 A bad tooth or an unsteady foot—
a trust betrayed in time of trouble.
20 Like the removal of clothes on a cold day, or vinegar on soda,
is the one who sings to a troubled heart.
21 If your enemies are hungry, give them food to eat,
if thirsty, give something to drink;
22 For live coals you will heap on their heads,
and the LORD will vindicate you.
23 The north wind brings rain,
and a backbiting tongue, angry looks.
24 It is better to dwell in a corner of the housetop
than in a mansion with a quarrelsome wife.
25 Cool water to one faint from thirst
is good news from a far country.

[26]A trampled fountain or a polluted spring—
a just person fallen before the wicked.
[27]To eat too much honey is not good;
nor to seek honor after honor.
[28]A city breached and left defenseless
are those who do not control their temper.

26:1 Like snow in summer, like rain in harvest,
honor for a fool is out of place.
[2]Like the sparrow in its flitting, like the swallow in its flight,
a curse uncalled-for never lands.
[3]The whip for the horse, the bridle for the ass,
and the rod for the back of fools.
[4]Do not answer fools according to their folly,
lest you too become like them.
[5]Answer fools according to their folly,
lest they become wise in their own eyes.
[6]Those who send messages by a fool
cut off their feet; they drink down violence.
[7]A proverb in the mouth of a fool
hangs limp, like crippled legs.
[8]Giving honor to a fool
is like entangling a stone in the sling.
[9]A thorn stuck in the hand of a drunkard
is a proverb in the mouth of fools.
[10]An archer wounding all who pass by is anyone who hires a drunken fool.
[11]As dogs return to their vomit,
so fools repeat their folly.
[12]You see those who are wise in their own eyes?
There is more hope for fools than for them.
[13]The sluggard says, "There is a lion in the street,
a lion in the middle of the square!"
[14]The door turns on its hinges and sluggards, on their beds.
[15]The sluggard buries a hand in the dish,
too weary to lift it to the mouth.
[16]In their own eyes sluggards are wiser than seven who answer with good judgment.
[17]Whoever meddles in the quarrel of another is one who grabs a passing dog by the ears.
[18]Like a crazed archer
scattering firebrands and deadly arrows, [19]Such are those who deceive their neighbor,
and then say, "I was only joking."
[20]Without wood the fire dies out;
without a talebearer strife subsides.
[21]Charcoal for coals, wood for fire—
such are the quarrelsome, enkindling strife.
[22]The words of a talebearer are like dainty morsels:

they sink into one's inmost being.
[23]Like a glazed finish on earthenware
are smooth lips and a wicked heart.
[24]With their lips enemies pretend,
but inwardly they maintain deceit;
[25]When they speak graciously, do not trust them,
for seven abominations are in their hearts.
[26]Hatred can be concealed by pretense,
but malice will be revealed in the assembly.
[27]Whoever digs a pit falls into it;
and a stone comes back upon the one who rolls it.
[28]The lying tongue is its owner's enemy,
and the flattering mouth works ruin.

27:1 Do not boast about tomorrow, for you do not know what any day may bring forth.
[2]Let another praise you, not your own mouth;
a stranger, not your own lips.
[3]Stone is heavy, and sand a burden,
but a fool's provocation is heavier than both.
[4]Anger is cruel, and wrath overwhelming,
but before jealousy who can stand?
[5]Better is an open rebuke
than a love that remains hidden.
[6]Trustworthy are the blows of a friend,
dangerous, the kisses of an enemy.
[7]One who is full spurns honey;
but to the hungry, any bitter thing is sweet.
[8]Like a bird far from the nest
so is anyone far from home.
[9]Perfume and incense bring joy to the heart,
but by grief the soul is torn asunder.
[10]Do not give up your own friend and your father's friend;
do not resort to the house of your kindred when trouble strikes.
Better a neighbor near than kin far away.
[11]Be wise, my son, and bring joy to my heart,
so that I can answer whoever taunts me.
[12]The astute see an evil and hide;
the naive continue on and pay the penalty.
[13]Take the garment of the one who became surety for a stranger;
if for a foreign woman, exact the pledge!
[14]Those who greet their neighbor with a loud voice in the early morning,
a curse can be laid to their charge.
[15]For a persistent leak on a rainy day
the match is a quarrelsome wife;
[16]Whoever would hide her hides a stormwind
and cannot tell north from south.
[17]Iron is sharpened by iron;
one person sharpens another.
[18]Those who tend a fig tree eat its fruit;

so those attentive to their master will be honored.
[19]As face mirrors face in water,
so the heart reflects the person.
[20]Sheol and Abaddon can never be satisfied;
so the eyes of mortals can never be satisfied.
[21]The crucible for silver, the furnace for gold,
so you must assay the praise you receive.
[22]Though you pound fools with a pestle,
their folly never leaves them.
[23]Take good care of your flocks,
give careful attention to your herds;
[24]For wealth does not last forever,
nor even a crown from age to age.
[25]When the grass comes up and the new growth appears,
and the mountain greens are gathered in,
[26]The lambs will provide you with clothing,
and the goats, the price of a field, [27]And there will be ample goat's milk for your food,
food for your house, sustenance for your maidens.

☐ JOHN 11:1-44

The Raising of Lazarus. 11:1 Now a man was ill, Lazarus from Bethany, the village of Mary and her sister Martha. [2]Mary was the one who had anointed the Lord with perfumed oil and dried his feet with her hair; it was her brother Lazarus who was ill. [3]So the sisters sent word to him, saying, "Master, the one you love is ill." [4]When Jesus heard this he said, "This illness is not to end in death, but is for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified through it." [5]Now Jesus loved Martha and her sister and Lazarus. [6]So when he heard that he was ill, he remained for two days in the place where he was. [7]Then after this he said to his disciples, "Let us go back to Judea." [8]The disciples said to him, "Rabbi, the Jews were just trying to stone you, and you want to go back there?" [9]Jesus answered, "Are there not twelve hours in a day? If one walks during the day, he does not stumble, because he sees the light of this world. [10]But if one walks at night, he stumbles, because the light is not in him." [11]He said this, and then told them, "Our friend Lazarus is asleep, but I am going to awaken him." [12]So the disciples said to him, "Master, if he is asleep, he will be saved." [13]But Jesus was talking about his death, while they thought that he meant ordinary sleep. [14]So then Jesus said to them clearly, "Lazarus has died. [15]And I am glad for you that I was not there, that you may believe. Let us go to him." [16]So Thomas, called Didymus, said to his fellow disciples, "Let us also go to die with him."

[17]When Jesus arrived, he found that Lazarus had already been in the tomb for four days. [18]Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, only about two miles away. [19]And many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary to comfort them about their brother. [20]When Martha heard that Jesus was coming, she went to meet him; but Mary sat at home. [21]Martha said to Jesus, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. [22][But] even now I know that whatever you ask of God, God will give you." [23]Jesus said to her, "Your brother will rise." [24]Martha said to him, "I know he will rise, in the resurrection on the last day." [25]Jesus told her, "I am the resurrection and the life; whoever believes in me, even if he dies, will live, [26]and everyone who lives and believes in me will never die. Do you believe this?" [27]She said to him, "Yes, Lord. I have come to believe that you are the Messiah, the Son of God, the one who is coming into the world."

[28]When she had said this, she went and called her sister Mary secretly, saying, "The teacher is here and is asking for you." [29]As soon as she heard this, she rose quickly and went to him. [30]For Jesus had not yet come into the village, but was still where Martha had met him. [31]So when the Jews who were with her in the house comforting her saw Mary get up quickly and go out, they followed her, presuming that she was going to the tomb to weep there. [32]When Mary came to where Jesus was and saw him, she fell at his feet and said to him, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died." [33]When Jesus saw her weeping and the Jews who had come with her weeping, he became perturbed and deeply troubled, [34]and said, "Where have you laid him?" They said to him, "Sir, come and see." [35]And Jesus wept. [36]So the Jews said, "See how he loved him." [37]But some of them said, "Could not the one who opened the eyes of the blind man have done something so that this man would not have died?"

[38]So Jesus, perturbed again, came to the tomb. It was a cave, and a stone lay across it. [39]Jesus said, "Take away the stone." Martha, the dead man's sister, said to him, "Lord, by now there will be a stench; he has been dead for four days." [40]Jesus said to her, "Did I not tell you that if you believe you will see the glory of God?" [41]So they took away the stone. And Jesus raised his eyes and said, "Father, I thank you for hearing me. [42]I know that you always hear me; but because of the crowd here I have said this, that they may believe that you sent me." [43]And when he had said this, he cried out in a loud voice, "Lazarus, come out!" [44]The dead man came out, tied hand and foot with burial bands, and his face was wrapped in a cloth. So Jesus said to them, "Untie him and let him go."

Christ's Church is one, His see is one, founded by the voice of the Lord on Peter. No other altar can be set up, no other priesthood instituted apart from that one altar and that one priesthood. Whoever gathers elsewhere, scatters.

☐ PROVERBS 28-31

28:1 The wicked flee though none pursue;
but the just, like a lion, are confident.
[2]If a land is rebellious, its princes will be many;
but with an intelligent and wise ruler there is stability.
[3]One who is poor and extorts from the lowly is a devastating rain that leaves no food.
[4]Those who abandon instruction praise the wicked,
but those who keep instruction oppose them.
[5]The evil understand nothing of justice,
but those who seek the LORD understand everything.
[6]Better to be poor and walk in integrity
than rich and crooked in one's ways.
[7]Whoever heeds instruction is a wise son,
but whoever joins with wastrels disgraces his father.
[8]Whoever amasses wealth by interest and overcharge gathers it for the one who is kind to the poor.
[9]Those who turn their ears from hearing instruction,
even their prayer is an abomination.
[10]Those who mislead the upright into an evil way will themselves fall into their own pit,
but the blameless will attain prosperity.
[11]The rich are wise in their own eyes,
but the poor who are intelligent see through them.
[12]When the just triumph, there is great glory;
but when the wicked prevail, people hide.
[13]Those who conceal their sins do not prosper,

but those who confess and forsake them obtain mercy.
[14]Happy those who always fear;
but those who harden their hearts fall into evil.
[15]A roaring lion or a ravenous bear
is a wicked ruler over a poor people.
[16]The less prudent the rulers, the more oppressive their deeds.
Those who hate ill-gotten gain prolong their days.
[17]Though a person burdened with blood guilt is in flight even to the grave, let no one offer support.
[18]Whoever walks blamelessly is safe,
but one whose ways are crooked falls into a pit.
[19]Those who cultivate their land will have plenty of food, but those who engage in idle pursuits will have plenty of want.
[20]The trustworthy will be richly blessed;
but whoever hastens to be rich will not go unpunished.
[21]To show partiality is never good:
for even a morsel of bread one may do wrong.
[22]Misers hurry toward wealth,
not knowing that want is coming toward them.
[23]Whoever rebukes another wins more favor
than one who flatters with the tongue.
[24]Whoever defrauds father or mother and says, "It is no sin,"
is a partner to a brigand.
[25]The greedy person stirs up strife,
but the one who trusts in the LORD will prosper.
[26]Those who trust in themselves are fools,
but those who walk in wisdom are safe.
[27]Those who give to the poor have no lack,
but those who avert their eyes, many curses.
[28]When the wicked prevail, people hide;
but at their fall the just abound.

29:1 Those stiff-necked in the face of reproof
in an instant will be shattered beyond cure.
[2]When the just flourish, the people rejoice;
but when the wicked rule, the people groan.
[3]Whoever loves wisdom gives joy to his father,
but whoever consorts with harlots squanders his wealth.
[4]By justice a king builds up the land;
but one who raises taxes tears it down.
[5]Those who speak flattery to their neighbor
cast a net at their feet.
[6]The sin of the wicked is a trap,
but the just run along joyfully.
[7]The just care for the cause of the poor;
the wicked do not understand such care.
[8]Scoffers enflame the city,
but the wise calm the fury.
[9]If a wise person disputes with a fool,
there is railing and ridicule but no resolution.

[10]The bloodthirsty hate the blameless,
but the upright seek his life.
[11]Fools give vent to all their anger;
but the wise, biding their time, control it.
[12]If rulers listen to lying words,
their servants all become wicked.
[13]The poor and the oppressor meet:
the LORD gives light to the eyes of both.
[14]If a king is honestly for the rights of the poor,
his throne stands firm forever.
[15]The rod of correction gives wisdom,
but uncontrolled youths disgrace their mothers.
[16]When the wicked increase, crime increases;
but the just will behold their downfall.
[17]Discipline your children, and they will bring you comfort, and give delight to your soul.
[18]Without a vision the people lose restraint;
but happy is the one who follows instruction.
[19]Not by words alone can servants be trained;
for they understand but do not respond.
[20]Do you see someone hasty in speech?
There is more hope for a fool!
[21]If servants are pampered from childhood
they will turn out to be stubborn.
[22]The ill-tempered stir up strife,
and the hotheaded cause many sins.
[23]Haughtiness brings humiliation,
but the humble of spirit acquire honor.
[24]Partners of a thief hate themselves;
they hear the imprecation but do not testify.
[25]Fear of others becomes a snare,
but the one who trusts in the LORD is safe.
[26]Many curry favor with a ruler,
but it is from the LORD that one receives justice.
[27]An abomination to the just, the evildoer;
an abomination to the wicked, one whose way is straight.

30:1 The words of Agur, son of Jakeh the Massaite:

The pronouncement of mortal man: "I am weary, O God;
I am weary, O God, and I am exhausted.
[2]I am more brute than human being,
without even human intelligence;
[3]Neither have I learned wisdom,
nor have I the knowledge of the Holy One.
[4]Who has gone up to heaven and come down again—
who has cupped the wind in the hollow of the hand?
Who has bound up the waters in a cloak—
who has established all the ends of the earth?
What is that person's name, or the name of his son?"

[5]Every word of God is tested;
he is a shield to those who take refuge in him.
[6]Add nothing to his words,
lest he reprimand you, and you be proved a liar.

[7]Two things I ask of you,
do not deny them to me before I die:
[8]Put falsehood and lying far from me,
give me neither poverty nor riches;
provide me only with the food I need;
[9]Lest, being full, I deny you, saying, "Who is the LORD?"
Or, being in want, I steal,
and profane the name of my God.
[10]Do not criticize servants to their master,
lest they curse you, and you have to pay the penalty.
[11]There are some who curse their fathers,
and do not bless their mothers.
[12]There are some pure in their own eyes,
yet not cleansed of their filth.
[13]There are some—how haughty their eyes!
how overbearing their glance!
[14]There are some—their teeth are swords,
their teeth are knives, Devouring the needy from the earth,
and the poor from the human race.
[15]The leech has two daughters:
"Give," and "Give."
Three things never get their fill,
four never say, "Enough!"
[16]Sheol, a barren womb,
land that never gets its fill of water,
and fire, which never says, "Enough!"
[17]The eye that mocks a father,
or scorns the homage due a mother,
Will be plucked out by brook ravens;
devoured by a brood of vultures.
[18]Three things are too wonderful for me,
yes, four I cannot understand:
[19]The way of an eagle in the sky,
the way of a serpent upon a rock,
The way of a ship on the high seas,
and the way of a man with a woman.
[20]This is the way of an adulterous woman:
she eats, wipes her mouth,
and says, "I have done no wrong."
[21]Under three things the earth trembles,
yes, under four it cannot bear up:
[22]Under a slave who becomes king,
and a fool who is glutted with food;

[23]Under an unloved woman who is wed,
and a maidservant who displaces her mistress.
[24]Four things are among the smallest on the earth,
and yet are exceedingly wise:
[25]Ants—a species not strong,
yet they store up their food in the summer;
[26]Badgers—a species not mighty,
yet they make their home in the crags;
[27]Locusts—they have no king,
yet they march forth in formation;
[28]Lizards—you can catch them with your hands,
yet they find their way into kings' palaces.
[29]Three things are stately in their stride,
yes, four are stately in their carriage:
[30]The lion, mightiest of beasts,
retreats before nothing;
[31]The strutting cock, and the he-goat,
and the king at the head of his people.
[32]If you have foolishly been proud or presumptuous—put your hand on your mouth; [33]For as the churning of milk produces curds,
and the pressing of the nose produces blood,
the churning of anger produces strife.

31:1 The words of Lemuel, king of Massa, the instruction his mother taught him:

[2]What are you doing, my son!
what are you doing, son of my womb;
what are you doing, son of my vows!
[3]Do not give your vigor to women,
or your strength to those who ruin kings.
[4]It is not for kings, Lemuel,
not for kings to drink wine;
strong drink is not for princes,
[5]Lest in drinking they forget what has been decreed,
and violate the rights of any who are in need.
[6]Give strong drink to anyone who is perishing,
and wine to the embittered;
[7]When they drink, they will forget their misery,
and think no more of their troubles.
[8]Open your mouth in behalf of the mute,
and for the rights of the destitute;
[9]Open your mouth, judge justly,
defend the needy and the poor!

[10]Who can find a woman of worth?
Far beyond jewels is her value.
[11]Her husband trusts her judgment;
he does not lack income.
[12]She brings him profit, not loss,

all the days of her life.
[13]She seeks out wool and flax
and weaves with skillful hands.
[14]Like a merchant fleet,
she secures her provisions from afar.
[15]She rises while it is still night,
and distributes food to her household,
a portion to her maidservants.
[16]She picks out a field and acquires it;
from her earnings she plants a vineyard.
[17]She girds herself with strength;
she exerts her arms with vigor.
[18]She enjoys the profit from her dealings;
her lamp is never extinguished at night.
[19]She puts her hands to the distaff,
and her fingers ply the spindle.
[20]She reaches out her hands to the poor,
and extends her arms to the needy.
[21]She is not concerned for her household when it snows—
all her charges are doubly clothed.
[22]She makes her own coverlets;
fine linen and purple are her clothing.
[23]Her husband is prominent at the city gates
as he sits with the elders of the land.
[24]She makes garments and sells them,
and stocks the merchants with belts.
[25]She is clothed with strength and dignity,
and laughs at the days to come.
[26]She opens her mouth in wisdom;
kindly instruction is on her tongue.
[27]She watches over the affairs of her household,
and does not eat the bread of idleness.
[28]Her children rise up and call her blessed;
her husband, too, praises her:
[29]"Many are the women of proven worth,
but you have excelled them all."
[30]Charm is deceptive and beauty fleeting;
the woman who fears the LORD is to be praised.
[31]Acclaim her for the work of her hands,
and let her deeds praise her at the city gates.

☐ JOHN 11:45-57

Session of the Sanhedrin. 11:45 Now many of the Jews who had come to Mary and seen what he had done began to believe in him. [46]But some of them went to the Pharisees and told them what Jesus had done. [47]So the chief priests and the Pharisees convened the Sanhedrin and said, "What are we going to do? This man is performing many signs. [48]If we leave him alone, all will believe in him, and the Romans will come and take away both our land and our nation." [49]But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, said to them, "You know nothing, [50]nor do you consider that it is better for you that one man should die instead of the people, so that the whole nation may not perish." [51]He did not say this on his own, but since he was high priest for that year, he prophesied that Jesus was going to die for the nation, [52]and not only for the nation, but also to gather into one the dispersed children of God. [53]So from that day on they planned to kill him.

[54]So Jesus no longer walked about in public among the Jews, but he left for the region near the desert, to a town called Ephraim, and there he remained with his disciples.

The Last Passover. [55]Now the Passover of the Jews was near, and many went up from the country to Jerusalem before Passover to purify themselves. [56]They looked for Jesus and said to one another as they were in the temple area, "What do you think? That he will not come to the feast?" [57]For the chief priests and the Pharisees had given orders that if anyone knew where he was, he should inform them, so that they might arrest him.

☐ ECCLESIASTES 1-3

1:1 The words of David's son, Qoheleth, king in Jerusalem:

[2]Vanity of vanities, says Qoheleth,
vanity of vanities! All things are vanity!

Vanity of Human Toil. [3]What profit have we from all the toil which we toil at under the sun?
[4]One generation departs and another generation comes,
but the world forever stays.
[5]The sun rises and the sun sets;
then it presses on to the place where it rises.
[6]Shifting south, then north,
back and forth shifts the wind, constantly shifting its course.
[7]All rivers flow to the sea,
yet never does the sea become full.
To the place where they flow,
the rivers continue to flow.
[8]All things are wearisome,
too wearisome for words.
The eye is not satisfied by seeing nor has the ear enough of hearing.

[9]What has been, that will be; what has been done, that will be done. Nothing is new under the sun! [10]Even the thing of which we say, "See, this is new!" has already existed in the ages that preceded us. [11]There is no remembrance of past generations; nor will future generations be remembered by those who come after them.

Twofold Introduction. [12]I, Qoheleth, was king over Israel in Jerusalem, [13]and I applied my mind to search and investigate in wisdom all things that are done under the sun.

A bad business God has given to human beings to be busied with.

[14]I have seen all things that are done under the sun, and behold, all is vanity and a chase after wind.

[15]What is crooked cannot be made straight,
and you cannot count what is not there.

[16]Though I said to myself, "See, I have greatly increased my wisdom beyond all who were before me in Jerusalem, and my mind has broad experience of wisdom and knowledge," [17]yet when I applied my mind to know wisdom and knowledge, madness and folly, I learned that this also is a chase after wind.

[18]For in much wisdom there is much sorrow;
whoever increases knowledge increases grief.

Study of Pleasure-seeking. 2:1 I said in my heart, "Come, now, let me try you with pleasure and the enjoyment of good things." See, this too was vanity. [2]Of laughter I said: "Mad!" and of mirth: "What good does this do?" [3]Guided by wisdom, I probed with my mind how to beguile my senses with wine and take up folly, until I should understand what is good for human beings to do under the heavens during the limited days of their lives.

[4]I undertook great works; I built myself houses and planted vineyards; [5]I made gardens and parks, and in them set out fruit trees of all sorts. [6]And I constructed for myself reservoirs to water a flourishing woodland. [7]I acquired male and female slaves, and had slaves who were born in my house. I also owned vast herds of cattle and flocks of sheep, more than all who had been before me in Jerusalem. [8]I amassed for myself silver and gold, and the treasures of kings and provinces. I provided for myself male and female singers and delights of men, many women. [9]I accumulated much more than all others before me in Jerusalem; my wisdom, too, stayed with me. [10]Nothing that my eyes desired did I deny them, nor did I deprive myself of any joy; rather, my heart rejoiced in the fruit of all my toil. This was my share for all my toil. [11]But when I turned to all the works that my hands had wrought, and to the fruit of the toil for which I had toiled so much, see! all was vanity and a chase after wind. There is no profit under the sun. [12]What about one who succeeds a king? He can do only what has already been done.

Study of Wisdom and Folly. I went on to the consideration of wisdom, madness and folly. [13]And I saw that wisdom has as much profit over folly as light has over darkness.

[14]Wise people have eyes in their heads,
but fools walk in darkness.

Yet I knew that the same lot befalls both. [15]So I said in my heart, if the fool's lot is to befall me also, why should I be wise? Where is the profit? And in my heart I decided that this too is vanity. [16]The wise person will have no more abiding remembrance than the fool; for in days to come both will have been forgotten. How is it that the wise person dies like the fool! [17]Therefore I detested life, since for me the work that is done under the sun is bad; for all is vanity and a chase after wind.

To Others the Profits. [18]And I detested all the fruits of my toil under the sun, because I must leave them to the one who is to come after me. [19]And who knows whether that one will be wise or a fool? Yet that one will take control of all the fruits of my toil and wisdom under the sun. This also is vanity. [20]So my heart turned to despair over all the fruits of my toil under the sun. [21]For here is one who has toiled with wisdom and knowledge and skill, and that one's legacy must be left to another who has not toiled for it. This also is vanity and a great evil. [22]For what profit comes to mortals from all the toil and anxiety of heart with which they toil under the sun? [23]Every day sorrow and grief are their occupation; even at night their hearts are not at rest. This also is vanity.

[24]There is nothing better for mortals than to eat and drink and provide themselves with good things from their toil. Even this, I saw, is from the hand of God. [25]For who can eat or drink apart from God? [26]For to the one who pleases God, he gives wisdom and knowledge and joy; but to the one who displeases, God gives the task of gathering possessions for the one who pleases God. This also is vanity and a chase after wind.

No One Can Determine the Right Time To Act. 3:1 There is an appointed time for everything, and a time for every affair under the heavens.
2 A time to give birth, and a time to die;
a time to plant, and a time to uproot the plant.
3 A time to kill, and a time to heal;
a time to tear down, and a time to build.
4 A time to weep, and a time to laugh;
a time to mourn, and a time to dance.
5 A time to scatter stones, and a time to gather them;
a time to embrace, and a time to be far from embraces.
6 A time to seek, and a time to lose;
a time to keep, and a time to cast away.
7 A time to rend, and a time to sew;
a time to be silent, and a time to speak.
8 A time to love, and a time to hate;
a time of war, and a time of peace.

9 What profit have workers from their toil? 10 I have seen the business that God has given to mortals to be busied about. 11 God has made everything appropriate to its time, but has put the timeless into their hearts so they cannot find out, from beginning to end, the work which God has done. 12 I recognized that there is nothing better than to rejoice and to do well during life. 13 Moreover, that all can eat and drink and enjoy the good of all their toil—this is a gift of God. 14 I recognized that whatever God does will endure forever; there is no adding to it, or taking from it. Thus has God done that he may be revered. 15 What now is has already been; what is to be, already is: God retrieves what has gone by.

The Problem of Retribution. 16 And still under the sun in the judgment place I saw wickedness, and wickedness also in the seat of justice. 17 I said in my heart, both the just and the wicked God will judge, since a time is set for every affair and for every work. 18 I said in my heart: As for human beings, it is God's way of testing them and of showing that they are in themselves like beasts. 19 For the lot of mortals and the lot of beasts is the same lot: The one dies as well as the other. Both have the same life breath. Human beings have no advantage over beasts, but all is vanity. 20 Both go to the same place; both were made from the dust, and to the dust they both return. 21 Who knows if the life breath of mortals goes upward and the life breath of beasts goes earthward? 22 And I saw that there is nothing better for mortals than to rejoice in their work; for this is their lot. Who will let them see what is to come after them?

☐ JOHN 12:1-19

The Anointing at Bethany. 12:1 Six days before Passover Jesus came to Bethany, where Lazarus was, whom Jesus had raised from the dead. 2 They gave a dinner for him there, and Martha served, while Lazarus was one of those reclining at table with him. 3 Mary took a liter of costly perfumed oil made from genuine aromatic nard and anointed the feet of Jesus and dried them with her hair; the house was filled with the fragrance of the oil. 4 Then Judas the Iscariot, one [of] his disciples, and the one who would betray him, said, 5 "Why was this oil not sold for three hundred days' wages and given to the poor?" 6 He said this not because he cared about the poor but because he was a thief and held the money bag and used to steal the contributions. 7 So Jesus said, "Leave her alone. Let her keep this for the day of my burial. 8 You always have the poor with you, but you do not always have me."

9 [The] large crowd of the Jews found out that he was there and came, not only because of Jesus, but also to see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead. 10 And the chief priests plotted to kill Lazarus too, 11 because many of the Jews were turning away and believing in Jesus because of him.

The Entry into Jerusalem. 12 On the next day, when the great crowd that had come to the feast heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, 13 they took palm branches and went out to meet him, and cried out:

"Hosanna!
Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord,

[even] the king of Israel."

[14]Jesus found an ass and sat upon it, as is written:

[15]"Fear no more, O daughter Zion;
see, your king comes, seated upon an ass's colt."

[16]His disciples did not understand this at first, but when Jesus had been glorified they remembered that these things were written about him and that they had done this for him. [17]So the crowd that was with him when he called Lazarus from the tomb and raised him from death continued to testify. [18]This was [also] why the crowd went to meet him, because they heard that he had done this sign. [19]So the Pharisees said to one another, "You see that you are gaining nothing. Look, the whole world has gone after him."

Whenever you seek truth, you seek God, whether or not you know it.

☐ ECCLESIASTES 4-9

Vanity of Toil. 4:1 Again I saw all the oppressions that take place under the sun: the tears of the victims with none to comfort them! From the hand of their oppressors comes violence, and there is none to comfort them! [2]And those now dead, I declared more fortunate in death than are the living to be still alive. [3]And better off than both is the yet unborn, who has not seen the wicked work that is done under the sun. [4]Then I saw that all toil and skillful work is the rivalry of one person with another. This also is vanity and a chase after wind.

[5]"Fools fold their arms and consume their own flesh"— [6]Better is one handful with tranquility
than two with toil and a chase after wind!

Companions and Successors. [7]Again I saw this vanity under the sun: [8]those all alone with no companion, with neither child nor sibling—with no end to all their toil, and no satisfaction from riches. For whom do I toil and deprive myself of good things? This also is vanity and a bad business. [9]Two are better than one: They get a good wage for their toil. [10]If the one falls, the other will help the fallen one. But woe to the solitary person! If that one should fall, there is no other to help. [11]So also, if two sleep together, they keep each other warm. How can one alone keep warm? [12]Where one alone may be overcome, two together can resist. A three-ply cord is not easily broken.

[13]Better is a poor but wise youth than an old but foolish king who no longer knows caution; [14]for from a prison house he came forth to reign; despite his kingship he was born poor. [15]I saw all the living, those who move about under the sun, with the second youth who will succeed him. [16]There is no end to all this people, to all who were before them; yet the later generations will not have joy in him. This also is vanity and a chase after wind.

Vanity of Many Words. [17]Guard your step when you go to the house of God. Draw near for obedience, rather than for the fools' offering of sacrifice; for they know not how to keep from doing evil.

5:1 Be not hasty in your utterance and let not your heart be quick to utter a promise in God's presence. God is in heaven and you are on earth; therefore let your words be few.

[2]As dreams come along with many cares,

so a fool's voice along with a multitude of words.

[3]When you make a vow to God, delay not its fulfillment. For God has no pleasure in fools; fulfill what you have vowed. [4]It is better not to make a vow than make it and not fulfill it. [5]Let not your utterances make you guilty, and say not before his representative, "It was a mistake." Why should God be angered by your words and destroy the works of your hands? [6]Despite many dreams, futilities, and a multitude of words, fear God!

Gain and Loss of Goods. [7]If you see oppression of the poor, and violation of rights and justice in the realm, do not be astonished by the fact, for the high official has another higher than he watching him and above these are others higher still—. [8]But profitable for a land in such circumstances is a king concerned about cultivation.

[9]The covetous are never satisfied with money, nor lovers of wealth with their gain; so this too is vanity. [10]Where there are great riches, there are also many to devour them. Of what use are they to the owner except as a feast for the eyes alone? [11]Sleep is sweet to the laborer, whether there is little or much to eat; but the abundance of the rich allows them no sleep.

[12]This is a grievous evil which I have seen under the sun: riches hoarded by their owners to their own hurt. [13]Should the riches be lost through some misfortune, they may have offspring when they have no means. [14]As they came forth from their mother's womb, so again shall they return, naked as they came, having nothing from their toil to bring with them. [15]This too is a grievous evil, that they go just as they came. What then does it profit them to toil for the wind? [16]All their days they eat in gloom with great vexation, sickness and resentment.

[17]Here is what I see as good: It is appropriate to eat and drink and prosper from all the toil one toils at under the sun during the limited days of life God gives us; for this is our lot. [18]Those to whom God gives riches and property, and grants power to partake of them, so that they receive their lot and find joy in the fruits of their toil: This is a gift from God. [19]For they will hardly dwell on the shortness of life, because God lets them busy themselves with the joy of their heart.

Limited Worth of Enjoyment. 6:1 There is another evil I have seen under the sun, and it weighs heavily upon humankind: [2]There is one to whom God gives riches and property and honor, and who lacks nothing the heart could desire; yet God does not grant the power to partake of them, but a stranger devours them. This is vanity and a dire plague. [3]Should one have a hundred children and live many years, no matter to what great age, still if one has not the full benefit of those goods, I proclaim that the child born dead, even if left unburied, is more fortunate. [4]Though it came in vain and goes into darkness and its name is enveloped in darkness, [5]though it has not seen the sun or known anything, yet the dead child has more peace. [6]Should such a one live twice a thousand years and not enjoy those goods, do not both go to the same place?

[7]All human toil is for the mouth, yet the appetite is never satisfied. [8]What profit have the wise compared to fools, or what profit have the lowly in knowing how to conduct themselves in life? [9]"What the eyes see is better than what the desires wander after." This also is vanity and a chase after wind.

[10]Whatever is, was long ago given its name, and human nature is known; mortals cannot contend in judgment with One who is stronger. [11]For the more words, the more vanity; what profit is there for anyone? [12]For who knows what is good for mortals in life, the limited days of their vain life, spent like a shadow? Because who can tell them what will come afterward under the sun?

Critique of Sages on the Day of Adversity. 7:1 A good name is better than good ointment, and the day of death than the day of birth.
[2]It is better to go to the house of mourning
than to the house of feasting,
For that is the end of every mortal,
and the living should take it to heart.
[3]Sorrow is better than laughter;
when the face is sad, the heart grows wise.
[4]The heart of the wise is in the house of mourning,

but the heart of fools is in the house of merriment.
[5]It is better to listen to the rebuke of the wise
than to listen to the song of fools;
[6]For as the crackling of thorns under a pot,
so is the fool's laughter.
This also is vanity.
[7]Extortion can make a fool out of the wise,
and a bribe corrupts the heart.
[8]Better is the end of a thing than its beginning;
better is a patient spirit than a lofty one.
[9]Do not let anger upset your spirit,
for anger lodges in the bosom of a fool.

[10]Do not say: How is it that former times were better than these? For it is not out of wisdom that you ask about this.

[11]Wisdom is as good as an inheritance and profitable to those who see the sun.

[12]For the protection of wisdom is as the protection of money; and knowledge is profitable because wisdom gives life to those who possess it.

[13]Consider the work of God. Who can make straight what God has made crooked? [14]On a good day enjoy good things, and on an evil day consider: Both the one and the other God has made, so that no one may find the least fault with him.

Critique of Sages on Justice and Wickedness. [15]I have seen all manner of things in my vain days: the just perishing in their justice, and the wicked living long in their wickedness. [16]"Be not just to excess, and be not overwise. Why work your own ruin? [17]Be not wicked to excess, and be not foolish. Why should you die before your time?" [18]It is good to hold to this rule, and not to let that one go; but the one who fears God will succeed with both.

[19]Wisdom is a better defense for the wise than ten princes in the city, [20]yet there is no one on earth so just as to do good and never sin. [21]Do not give your heart to every word that is spoken; you may hear your servant cursing you, [22]for your heart knows that you have many times cursed others.

[23]All these things I probed in wisdom. I said, "I will acquire wisdom"; but it was far beyond me. [24]What exists is far-reaching; it is deep, very deep: Who can find it out? [25]I turned my heart toward knowledge; I sought and pursued wisdom and its design, and I recognized that wickedness is foolishness and folly is madness.

Critique of Advice on Women. [26]More bitter than death I find the woman who is a hunter's trap, whose heart is a snare, whose hands are prison bonds. The one who pleases God will be delivered from her, but the one who displeases will be entrapped by her. [27]See, this have I found, says Qoheleth, adding one to one to find the sum. [28]What my soul still seeks and has yet to find is this: "One man out of a thousand have I found, but a woman among them all I have not found." [29]But this alone I have found: God made humankind honest, but they have pursued many designs.

Critique of Advice To Heed Authority. 8:1 Who is like the wise person, and who knows the explanation of things?
Wisdom illumines the face
and transforms a grim countenance.

[2]Observe the command of the king, in view of your oath to God. [3]Be not hasty to withdraw from the king; do not persist in an unpleasant situation, for he does whatever he pleases. [4]His word is sovereign, and who can say to him, "What are you doing?"

[5]"Whoever observes a command knows no harm, and the wise heart knows times and judgments." [6]Yes, there is a time and a judgment for everything. But it is a great evil for mortals [7]that they are ignorant of what is to come; for who will make known to them how it will be? [8]No one is master of the breath of life so as to retain it, and none has mastery of the day of death. There is no exemption in wartime, nor does wickedness deliver those who practice it. [9]All these things I saw and I applied my heart to every work that is done under the sun, while one person tyrannizes over another for harm.

The Problem of Retribution. [10]Meanwhile I saw the wicked buried. They would come and go from the holy place. But those were forgotten in the city who had acted justly. This also is vanity. [11]Because the sentence against an evil deed is not promptly executed, the human heart is filled with the desire to commit evil— [12]because the sinner does evil a hundred times and survives. Though indeed I know that it shall be well with those who fear God, for their reverence toward him; [13]and that it shall not be well with the wicked, who shall not prolong their shadowy days, for their lack of reverence toward God.

[14]This is a vanity that occurs on earth: There are those who are just but are treated as though they had done evil, and those who are wicked but are treated as though they had done justly. This, too, I say is vanity. [15]Therefore I praised joy, because there is nothing better for mortals under the sun than to eat and to drink and to be joyful; this will accompany them in their toil through the limited days of life God gives them under the sun.

[16]I applied my heart to know wisdom and to see the business that is done on earth, though neither by day nor by night do one's eyes see sleep, [17]and I saw all the work of God: No mortal can find out the work that is done under the sun. However much mortals may toil in searching, no one finds it out; and even if the wise claim to know, they are unable to find it out.

9:1 All this I have kept in my heart and all this I examined: The just, the wise, and their deeds are in the hand of God. Love from hatred mortals cannot tell; both are before them. [2]Everything is the same for everybody: the same lot for the just and the wicked, for the good, for the clean and the unclean, for the one who offers sacrifice and the one who does not. As it is for the good, so it is for the sinner; as it is for the one who takes an oath, so it is for the one who fears an oath. [3]Among all the things that are done under the sun, this is the worst, that there is one lot for all. Hence the hearts of human beings are filled with evil, and madness is in their hearts during life; and afterward—to the dead!

[4]For whoever is chosen among all the living has hope: "A live dog is better off than a dead lion." [5]For the living know that they are to die, but the dead no longer know anything. There is no further recompense for them, because all memory of them is lost. [6]For them, love and hatred and rivalry have long since perished. Never again will they have part in anything that is done under the sun.

[7]Go, eat your bread with joy and drink your wine with a merry heart, because it is now that God favors your works. [8]At all times let your garments be white, and spare not the perfume for your head. [9]Enjoy life with the wife you love, all the days of the vain life granted you under the sun. This is your lot in life, for the toil of your labors under the sun. [10]Anything you can turn your hand to, do with what power you have; for there will be no work, no planning, no knowledge, no wisdom in Sheol where you are going.

The Time of Misfortune Is Not Known. [11]Again I saw under the sun that the race is not won by the swift, nor the battle by the valiant, nor a livelihood by the wise, nor riches by the shrewd, nor favor by the experts; for a time of misfortune comes to all alike. [12]Human beings no more know their own time than fish taken in the fatal net or birds trapped in the snare; like these, mortals are caught when an evil time suddenly falls upon them.

The Uncertain Future and the Sages. [13]On the other hand I saw this wise deed under the sun, which I thought magnificent. [14]Against a small city with few inhabitants advanced a mighty king, who surrounded it and threw up great siegeworks about it. [15]But in the city lived a man who, though poor, was wise, and he delivered it through his wisdom. Yet no one remembered this poor man. [16]Though I had said, "Wisdom is better than force," yet the wisdom of the poor man is despised and his words go unheeded.

[17]The quiet words of the wise are better heeded than the shout of a ruler of fools.
[18]Wisdom is better than weapons of war,
but one bungler destroys much good.

The Coming of Jesus' Hour. 12:20 Now there were some Greeks among those who had come up to worship at the feast. [21]They came to Philip, who was from Bethsaida in Galilee, and asked him, "Sir, we would like to see Jesus." [22]Philip went and told Andrew; then Andrew and Philip went and told Jesus. [23]Jesus answered them, "The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. [24]Amen, amen, I say to you, unless a grain of wheat falls to the ground and dies, it remains just a grain of wheat; but if it dies, it produces much fruit. [25]Whoever loves his life loses it, and whoever hates his life in this world will preserve it for eternal life. [26]Whoever serves me must follow me, and where I am, there also will my servant be. The Father will honor whoever serves me.

[27]"I am troubled now. Yet what should I say? 'Father, save me from this hour'? But it was for this purpose that I came to this hour. [28]Father, glorify your name." Then a voice came from heaven, "I have glorified it and will glorify it again." [29]The crowd there heard it and said it was thunder; but others said, "An angel has spoken to him." [30]Jesus answered and said, "This voice did not come for my sake but for yours. [31]Now is the time of judgment on this world; now the ruler of this world will be driven out. [32]And when I am lifted up from the earth, I will draw everyone to myself." [33]He said this indicating the kind of death he would die. [34]So the crowd answered him, "We have heard from the law that the Messiah remains forever. Then how can you say that the Son of Man must be lifted up? Who is this Son of Man?" [35]Jesus said to them, "The light will be among you only a little while. Walk while you have the light, so that darkness may not overcome you. Whoever walks in the dark does not know where he is going. [36]While you have the light, believe in the light, so that you may become children of the light."

Unbelief and Belief among the Jews. After he had said this, Jesus left and hid from them. [37]Although he had performed so many signs in their presence they did not believe in him, [38]in order that the word which Isaiah the prophet spoke might be fulfilled:

"Lord, who has believed our preaching,
to whom has the might of the Lord been revealed?"

[39]For this reason they could not believe, because again Isaiah said:

[40]"He blinded their eyes
and hardened their heart,
so that they might not see with their eyes
and understand with their heart and be converted,
and I would heal them."

[41]Isaiah said this because he saw his glory and spoke about him. [42]Nevertheless, many, even among the authorities, believed in him, but because of the Pharisees they did not acknowledge it openly in order not to be expelled from the synagogue. [43]For they preferred human praise to the glory of God.

Recapitulation. [44]Jesus cried out and said, "Whoever believes in me believes not only in me but also in the one who sent me, [45]and whoever sees me sees the one who sent me. [46]I came into the world as light, so that everyone who believes in me might not remain in darkness. [47]And if anyone hears my words and does not observe them, I do not condemn him, for I did not come to condemn the world but to save the world. [48]Whoever rejects me and does not accept my words has something to judge him: the word that I spoke, it will condemn him on the last day, [49]because I did not speak on my own, but the Father who sent me commanded me what to say and speak. [50]And I know that his commandment is eternal life. So what I say, I say as the Father told me."

St. Lawrence

If you should ask me what are the ways of God, I would tell you that the first is humility, the second is humility, and the third is still humility. Not that there are no other precepts to give, but if humility does not precede all that we do, our efforts are fruitless.

— St. Augustine of Hippo

☐ ECCLESIASTES 10-12

10:1 Dead flies corrupt and spoil the perfumer's oil;
more weighty than wisdom or wealth is a little folly!
[2]The wise heart turns to the right;
the foolish heart to the left.

[3]Even when walking in the street the fool, lacking understanding, calls everyone a fool.
[4]Should the anger of a ruler burst upon you, do not yield your place; for calmness abates great offenses.
[5]I have seen under the sun another evil, like a mistake that proceeds from a tyrant: [6]a fool put in high position, while the great and the rich sit in lowly places. [7]I have seen slaves on horseback, while princes went on foot like slaves.

[8]Whoever digs a pit may fall into it,
and whoever breaks through a wall, a snake may bite.
[9]Whoever quarries stones may be hurt by them,
and whoever chops wood is in danger from it.

[10]If the ax becomes dull, and the blade is not sharpened, then effort must be increased. But the advantage of wisdom is success.

[11]If the snake bites before it is charmed,
then there is no advantage in a charmer.
[12]Words from the mouth of the wise win favor,
but the lips of fools consume them.
[13]The beginning of their words is folly,
and the end of their talk is utter madness;
[14]yet fools multiply words.
No one knows what is to come,
for who can tell anyone what will be?
[15]The toil of fools wearies them,
so they do not know even the way to town.

No One Knows What Evil Will Come. [16]Woe to you, O land, whose king is a youth, and whose princes feast in the morning!
[17]Happy are you, O land, whose king is of noble birth,
and whose princes dine at the right time—
for vigor and not in drinking bouts.
[18]Because of laziness, the rafters sag;
when hands are slack, the house leaks.
[19]A feast is made for merriment
and wine gives joy to the living,
but money answers for everything.
[20]Even in your thoughts do not curse the king,
nor in the privacy of your bedroom curse the rich;
For the birds of the air may carry your voice,
a winged creature may tell what you say.

11:1 Send forth your bread upon the face of the waters;
after a long time you may find it again.

[2]Make seven, or even eight portions;
you know not what misfortune may come upon the earth.

No One Knows What Good Will Come. [3]When the clouds are full,
they pour out rain upon the earth.
Whether a tree falls to the south or to the north,
wherever it falls, there shall it lie.
[4]One who pays heed to the wind will never sow,
and one who watches the clouds will never reap.
[5]Just as you do not know how the life breath enters the human frame in the mother's womb,
So you do not know the work of God,
who is working in everything.
[6]In the morning sow your seed,
and at evening do not let your hand be idle:
For you do not know which of the two will be successful,
or whether both alike will turn out well.

Poem on Youth and Old Age. [7]Light is sweet! and it is pleasant for the eyes to see the sun. [8]However many years mortals may live, let them, as they enjoy them all, remember that the days of darkness will be many. All that is to come is vanity.

[9]Rejoice, O youth, while you are young and let your heart be glad in the days of your youth.
Follow the ways of your heart,
the vision of your eyes;
Yet understand regarding all this that God will bring you to judgment.
[10]Banish misery from your heart and remove pain from your body,
for youth and black hair are fleeting.

12:1 Remember your Creator in the days of your youth,
before the evil days come
And the years approach of which you will say,
"I have no pleasure in them";
[2]Before the sun is darkened and the light and the moon and the stars and the clouds return after the rain;
[3]When the guardians of the house tremble,
and the strong men are bent;
When the women who grind are idle because they are few,
and those who look through the windows grow blind;
[4]When the doors to the street are shut,
and the sound of the mill is low;
When one rises at the call of a bird,
and all the daughters of song are quiet;
[5]When one is afraid of heights,
and perils in the street;
When the almond tree blooms,
and the locust grows sluggish

and the caper berry is without effect, Because mortals go to their lasting home,
and mourners go about the streets;
[6]Before the silver cord is snapped
and the golden bowl is broken,
And the pitcher is shattered at the spring,
and the pulley is broken at the well, [7]And the dust returns to the earth as it once was,
and the life breath returns to God who gave it.
[8]Vanity of vanities, says Qoheleth,
all things are vanity!

Epilogue. [9]Besides being wise, Qoheleth taught the people knowledge, and weighed, scrutinized and arranged many proverbs. [10]Qoheleth sought to find appropriate sayings, and to write down true sayings with precision. [11]The sayings of the wise are like goads; like fixed spikes are the collected sayings given by one shepherd. [12]As to more than these, my son, beware. Of the making of many books there is no end, and in much study there is weariness for the flesh.

[13]The last word, when all is heard: Fear God and keep his commandments, for this concerns all humankind; [14]because God will bring to judgment every work, with all its hidden qualities, whether good or bad.

☐ JOHN 13:1-17

The Washing of the Disciples' Feet. 13:1 Before the feast of Passover, Jesus knew that his hour had come to pass from this world to the Father. He loved his own in the world and he loved them to the end. [2]The devil had already induced Judas, son of Simon the Iscariot, to hand him over. So, during supper, [3]fully aware that the Father had put everything into his power and that he had come from God and was returning to God, [4]he rose from supper and took off his outer garments. He took a towel and tied it around his waist. [5]Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet and dry them with the towel around his waist. [6]He came to Simon Peter, who said to him, "Master, are you going to wash my feet?" [7]Jesus answered and said to him, "What I am doing, you do not understand now, but you will understand later." [8]Peter said to him, "You will never wash my feet." Jesus answered him, "Unless I wash you, you will have no inheritance with me." [9]Simon Peter said to him, "Master, then not only my feet, but my hands and head as well." [10]Jesus said to him, "Whoever has bathed has no need except to have his feet washed, for he is clean all over; so you are clean, but not all." [11]For he knew who would betray him; for this reason, he said, "Not all of you are clean."

[12]So when he had washed their feet [and] put his garments back on and reclined at table again, he said to them, "Do you realize what I have done for you? [13]You call me 'teacher' and 'master,' and rightly so, for indeed I am. [14]If I, therefore, the master and teacher, have washed your feet, you ought to wash one another's feet. [15]I have given you a model to follow, so that as I have done for you, you should also do. [16]Amen, amen, I say to you, no slave is greater than his master nor any messenger greater than the one who sent him. [17]If you understand this, blessed are you if you do it."

Our body is not made of iron. Our strength is not that of stone. Live and hope in the Lord, and let your service be reasonable.

☐ SONG OF SONGS 1-4

1:1 The Song of Songs, which is Solomon's.

The Woman Speaks of Her Lover. [2]Let him kiss me with kisses of his mouth,
for your love is better than wine,
[3]better than the fragrance of your perfumes.
Your name is a flowing perfume—
therefore young women love you.
[4]Draw me after you! Let us run!
The king has brought me to his bed chambers.
Let us exult and rejoice in you;
let us celebrate your love: it is beyond wine!
Rightly do they love you!

Love's Boast. [5]I am black and beautiful,
Daughters of Jerusalem—
Like the tents of Qedar,
like the curtains of Solomon.
[6]Do not stare at me because I am so black,
because the sun has burned me.
The sons of my mother were angry with me;
they charged me with the care of the vineyards:
my own vineyard I did not take care of.

Love's Inquiry. [7]Tell me, you whom my soul loves,
where you shepherd, where you give rest at midday.
Why should I be like one wandering
after the flocks of your companions?
[8]If you do not know,
most beautiful among women,
Follow the tracks of the flock and pasture your lambs
near the shepherds' tents.

Love's Vision. [9]To a mare among Pharaoh's chariotry
I compare you, my friend:
[10]Your cheeks lovely in pendants,
your neck in jewels.
[11]We will make pendants of gold for you,
and ornaments of silver.

How Near Is Love! [12]While the king was upon his couch,
my spikenard gave forth its fragrance.
[13]My lover is to me a sachet of myrrh;
between my breasts he lies.
[14]My lover is to me a cluster of henna
from the vineyards of En-gedi.
[15]How beautiful you are, my friend,
how beautiful! your eyes are doves!
[16]How beautiful you are, my lover—
handsome indeed!
Verdant indeed is our couch;
[17]the beams of our house are cedars,
our rafters, cypresses.

2:1 I am a flower of Sharon,
a lily of the valleys.
2 Like a lily among thorns,
so is my friend among women.
3 Like an apple tree among the trees of the woods,
so is my lover among men.
In his shadow I delight to sit,
and his fruit is sweet to my taste.
4 He brought me to the banquet hall
and his glance at me signaled love.
5 Strengthen me with raisin cakes,
refresh me with apples,
for I am sick with love.
6 His left hand is under my head
and his right arm embraces me.
7 I adjure you, Daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles and the does of the field,
Do not awaken, or stir up love
until it is ready.

Her Lover's Visit Remembered. 8 The sound of my lover! here he comes springing across the mountains, leaping across the hills.
9 My lover is like a gazelle
or a young stag.
See! He is standing behind our wall,
gazing through the windows,
peering through the lattices.
10 My lover speaks and says to me,
"Arise, my friend, my beautiful one,
and come!
11 For see, the winter is past,
the rains are over and gone.
12 The flowers appear on the earth,
the time of pruning the vines has come,
and the song of the turtledove is heard in our land.
13 The fig tree puts forth its figs,
and the vines, in bloom, give forth fragrance.
Arise, my friend, my beautiful one,
and come!
14 My dove in the clefts of the rock,
in the secret recesses of the cliff,
Let me see your face,
let me hear your voice,
For your voice is sweet,
and your face is lovely."
15 Catch us the foxes, the little foxes that damage the vineyards; for our vineyards are in bloom!
16 My lover belongs to me and I to him;
he feeds among the lilies.

[17]Until the day grows cool and the shadows flee,
roam, my lover,
Like a gazelle or a young stag
upon the rugged mountains.

Loss and Discovery. 3:1 On my bed at night I sought him whom my soul loves—
I sought him but I did not find him.
[2]"Let me rise then and go about the city,
through the streets and squares;
Let me seek him whom my soul loves."
I sought him but I did not find him.
[3]The watchmen found me,
as they made their rounds in the city:
"Him whom my soul loves—have you seen him?"
[4]Hardly had I left them
when I found him whom my soul loves.
I held him and would not let him go until I had brought him to my mother's house,
to the chamber of her who conceived me.
[5]I adjure you, Daughters of Jerusalem,
by the gazelles and the does of the field,
Do not awaken or stir up love
until it is ready.

Solomon's Wedding Procession. [6]Who is this coming up from the desert, like columns of smoke
Perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,
with all kinds of exotic powders?
[7]See! it is the litter of Solomon;
sixty valiant men surround it,
of the valiant men of Israel:
[8]All of them expert with the sword,
skilled in battle,
Each with his sword at his side
against the terrors of the night.
[9]King Solomon made himself an enclosed litter of wood from Lebanon.
[10]He made its columns of silver,
its roof of gold,
Its seat of purple cloth,
its interior lovingly fitted.
Daughters of Jerusalem, [11]go out and look upon King Solomon
In the crown with which his mother has crowned him
on the day of his marriage,
on the day of the joy of his heart.

The Beauty of the Woman. 4:1 How beautiful you are, my friend, how beautiful you are!

Your eyes are doves
behind your veil.
Your hair is like a flock of goats
streaming down Mount Gilead.
2 Your teeth are like a flock of ewes to be shorn,
that come up from the washing,
All of them big with twins,
none of them barren.
3 Like a scarlet strand, your lips,
and your mouth—lovely!
Like pomegranate halves, your cheeks
behind your veil.
4 Like a tower of David, your neck,
built in courses,
A thousand shields hanging upon it,
all the armor of warriors.
5 Your breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle
feeding among the lilies.
6 Until the day grows cool
and the shadows flee,
I shall go to the mountain of myrrh,
to the hill of frankincense.
7 You are beautiful in every way, my friend,
there is no flaw in you!
8 With me from Lebanon, my bride!
With me from Lebanon, come!
Descend from the peak of Amana,
from the peak of Senir and Hermon,
From the lairs of lions,
from the leopards' heights.
9 You have ravished my heart, my sister, my bride;
you have ravished my heart with one glance of your eyes,
with one bead of your necklace.
10 How beautiful is your love,
my sister, my bride,
How much better is your love than wine,
and the fragrance of your perfumes than any spice!
11 Your lips drip honey, my bride,
honey and milk are under your tongue;
And the fragrance of your garments
is like the fragrance of Lebanon.

The Lover's Garden. 12 A garden enclosed, my sister, my bride,
a garden enclosed, a fountain sealed!
13 Your branches are a grove of pomegranates,
with fruits of choicest yield:
Henna with spikenard,
14 spikenard and saffron,
Sweet cane and cinnamon,

with all kinds of frankincense;
Myrrh and aloes,
with all the finest spices;
15 A garden fountain, a well of living water,
streams flowing from Lebanon.
16 Awake, north wind!
Come, south wind!
Blow upon my garden
that its perfumes may spread abroad.
Let my lover come to his garden
and eat its fruits of choicest yield.

☐ JOHN 13:18-38

13:18 "I am not speaking of all of you. I know those whom I have chosen. But so that the scripture might be fulfilled, 'The one who ate my food has raised his heel against me.' 19 From now on I am telling you before it happens, so that when it happens you may believe that I AM. 20 Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever receives the one I send receives me, and whoever receives me receives the one who sent me."

Announcement of Judas's Betrayal. 21 When he had said this, Jesus was deeply troubled and testified, "Amen, amen, I say to you, one of you will betray me." 22 The disciples looked at one another, at a loss as to whom he meant. 23 One of his disciples, the one whom Jesus loved, was reclining at Jesus' side. 24 So Simon Peter nodded to him to find out whom he meant. 25 He leaned back against Jesus' chest and said to him, "Master, who is it?" 26 Jesus answered, "It is the one to whom I hand the morsel after I have dipped it." So he dipped the morsel and [took it and] handed it to Judas, son of Simon the Iscariot. 27 After he took the morsel, Satan entered him. So Jesus said to him, "What you are going to do, do quickly." 28 [Now] none of those reclining at table realized why he said this to him. 29 Some thought that since Judas kept the money bag, Jesus had told him, "Buy what we need for the feast," or to give something to the poor. 30 So he took the morsel and left at once. And it was night.

The New Commandment. 31 When he had left, Jesus said, "Now is the Son of Man glorified, and God is glorified in him. 32 [If God is glorified in him,] God will also glorify him in himself, and he will glorify him at once. 33 My children, I will be with you only a little while longer. You will look for me, and as I told the Jews, 'Where I go you cannot come,' so now I say it to you. 34 I give you a new commandment: love one another. As I have loved you, so you also should love one another. 35 This is how all will know that you are my disciples, if you have love for one another."

Peter's Denial Predicted. 36 Simon Peter said to him, "Master, where are you going?" Jesus answered [him], "Where I am going, you cannot follow me now, though you will follow later." 37 Peter said to him, "Master, why can't I follow you now? I will lay down my life for you." 38 Jesus answered, "Will you lay down your life for me? Amen, amen, I say to you, the cock will not crow before you deny me three times."

August 12

Holy Spirit, Spirit of truth, You are the Reward of the saints, the Comforter of souls, Light in the darkness, Riches to the poor, Treasure to lovers, Food for the hungry, Comfort to those who are wandering. To sum up, You are the One in whom all treasures are contained.

— St. Mary Magdalene de' Pazzi

☐ SONG OF SONGS 5-8

5:1 I have come to my garden, my sister, my bride;
I gather my myrrh with my spices,

I eat my honeycomb with my honey,
I drink my wine with my milk.
Eat, friends; drink!
Drink deeply, lovers!

A Fruitless Search. [2]I was sleeping, but my heart was awake.
The sound of my lover knocking!
"Open to me, my sister, my friend,
my dove, my perfect one!
For my head is wet with dew,
my hair, with the moisture of the night."
[3]I have taken off my robe, am I then to put it on?
I have bathed my feet,
am I then to soil them?
[4]My lover put his hand in through the opening:
my innermost being trembled because of him.
[5]I rose to open for my lover,
my hands dripping myrrh:
My fingers, flowing myrrh
upon the handles of the lock.
[6]I opened for my lover—
but my lover had turned and gone!
At his leaving, my soul sank.
I sought him, but I did not find him;
I called out after him, but he did not answer me.
[7]The watchmen found me,
as they made their rounds in the city;
They beat me, they wounded me,
they tore off my mantle,
the watchmen of the walls.
[8]I adjure you, Daughters of Jerusalem,
if you find my lover
What shall you tell him?
that I am sick with love.

The Lost Lover Described. [9]How does your lover differ from any other lover,
most beautiful among women?
How does your lover differ from any other,
that you adjure us so?
[10]My lover is radiant and ruddy;
outstanding among thousands.
[11]His head is gold, pure gold,
his hair like palm fronds,
as black as a raven.
[12]His eyes are like doves
beside streams of water, Bathing in milk,
sitting by brimming pools.
[13]His cheeks are like beds of spices

yielding aromatic scents;
his lips are lilies
that drip flowing myrrh.
[14]His arms are rods of gold adorned with gems;
His loins, a work of ivory
covered with sapphires.
[15]His legs, pillars of alabaster,
resting on golden pedestals.
His appearance, like the Lebanon,
imposing as the cedars.
[16]His mouth is sweetness itself;
he is delightful in every way.
Such is my lover, and such my friend,
Daughters of Jerusalem!

The Lost Lover Found. 6:1 Where has your lover gone,
most beautiful among women?
Where has your lover withdrawn
that we may seek him with you?
[2]My lover has come down to his garden,
to the beds of spices,
To feed in the gardens
and to gather lilies.
[3]I belong to my lover, and my lover belongs to me;
he feeds among the lilies.

The Beauty of the Woman. [4]Beautiful as Tirzah are you, my friend;
fair as Jerusalem,
fearsome as celestial visions!
[5]Turn your eyes away from me,
for they stir me up.
Your hair is like a flock of goats
streaming down from Gilead.
[6]Your teeth are like a flock of ewes
that come up from the washing,
All of them big with twins,
none of them barren.
[7]Like pomegranate halves,
your cheeks behind your veil.
[8]Sixty are the queens, eighty the concubines,
and young women without number—[9]One alone is my dove, my perfect one,
her mother's special one,
favorite of the one who bore her.
Daughters see her and call her happy,
queens and concubines, and they praise her:
[10]"Who is this that comes forth like the dawn,
beautiful as the white moon, pure as the blazing sun,
fearsome as celestial visions?"

Love's Meeting. [11]To the walnut grove I went down,
to see the young growth of the valley;
To see if the vines were in bloom,
if the pomegranates had blossomed.
[12]Before I knew it, my desire had made me
the blessed one of the prince's people.

The Beauty of the Beloved. 7:1 Turn, turn, O Shulammite!
turn, turn that we may gaze upon you!
How can you gaze upon the Shulammite
as at the dance of the two camps?
[2]How beautiful are your feet in sandals,
O noble daughter!
Your curving thighs like jewels,
the product of skilled hands.
[3]Your valley, a round bowl
that should never lack mixed wine.
Your belly, a mound of wheat,
encircled with lilies.
[4]Your breasts are like two fawns,
twins of a gazelle.
[5]Your neck like a tower of ivory;
your eyes, pools in Heshbon
by the gate of Bath-rabbim.
Your nose like the tower of Lebanon
that looks toward Damascus.
[6]Your head rises upon you like Carmel;
your hair is like purple;
a king is caught in its locks.

Love's Desires. [7]How beautiful you are, how fair,
my love, daughter of delights!
[8]Your very form resembles a date-palm,
and your breasts, clusters.
[9]I thought, "Let me climb the date-palm!
Let me take hold of its branches!
Let your breasts be like clusters of the vine
and the fragrance of your breath like apples, [10]And your mouth like the best wine—
that flows down smoothly for my lover,
gliding over my lips and teeth.
[11]I belong to my lover,
his yearning is for me.
[12]Come, my lover! Let us go out to the fields,
let us pass the night among the henna.
[13]Let us go early to the vineyards, and see if the vines are in bloom,
If the buds have opened,
if the pomegranates have blossomed;
There will I give you my love.

[14]The mandrakes give forth fragrance,
and over our doors are all choice fruits;
Fruits both fresh and dried, my lover,
have I kept in store for you.

8:1 Would that you were a brother to me,
nursed at my mother's breasts!
If I met you out of doors, I would kiss you and none would despise me.
[2]I would lead you, bring you to my mother's house,
where you would teach me,
Where I would give you to drink
spiced wine, my pomegranate juice.
[3]His left hand is under my head,
and his right arm embraces me.
[4]I adjure you, Daughters of Jerusalem,
do not awaken or stir up love
until it is ready!

The Return from the Desert. [5]Who is this coming up from the desert, leaning upon her lover?
Beneath the apple tree I awakened you;
there your mother conceived you;
there she who bore you conceived.

True Love. [6]Set me as a seal upon your heart,
as a seal upon your arm;
For Love is strong as Death,
longing is fierce as Sheol.
Its arrows are arrows of fire,
flames of the divine.
[7]Deep waters cannot quench love,
nor rivers sweep it away.
Were one to offer all the wealth of his house for love,
he would be utterly despised.

An Answer to the Brothers. [8]"We have a little sister;
she has no breasts as yet.
What shall we do for our sister
on the day she is spoken for?
[9]If she is a wall,
we will build upon her a silver turret;
But if she is a door,
we will board her up with cedar planks."
[10]I am a wall,
and my breasts are like towers.
I became in his eyes
as one who brings peace.

A Boast. [11]Solomon had a vineyard at Baal-hamon;
he gave over the vineyard to caretakers.

For its fruit one would have to pay
a thousand silver pieces.
[12]My vineyard is at my own disposal;
the thousand pieces are for you, Solomon,
and two hundred for the caretakers of its fruit.

The Lovers' Yearnings.[13]You who dwell in the gardens,
my companions are listening for your voice—
let me hear it!
[14]Swiftly, my lover,
be like a gazelle or a young stag
upon the mountains of spices.

Last Supper Discourses. 14:1 "Do not let your hearts be troubled. You have faith in God; have faith also in me. [2]In my Father's house there are many dwelling places. If there were not, would I have told you that I am going to prepare a place for you? [3]And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come back again and take you to myself, so that where I am you also may be. [4]Where [I] am going you know the way." [5]Thomas said to him, "Master, we do not know where you are going; how can we know the way?" [6]Jesus said to him, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me. [7]If you know me, then you will also know my Father. From now on you do know him and have seen him." [8]Philip said to him, "Master, show us the Father, and that will be enough for us." [9]Jesus said to him, "Have I been with you for so long a time and you still do not know me, Philip? Whoever has seen me has seen the Father. How can you say, 'Show us the Father'? [10]Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I speak to you I do not speak on my own. The Father who dwells in me is doing his works. [11]Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me, or else, believe because of the works themselves. [12]Amen, amen, I say to you, whoever believes in me will do the works that I do, and will do greater ones than these, because I am going to the Father. [13]And whatever you ask in my name, I will do, so that the Father may be glorified in the Son. [14]If you ask anything of me in my name, I will do it.

The Advocate. [15]"If you love me, you will keep my commandments. [16]And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Advocate to be with you always, [17]the Spirit of truth, which the world cannot accept, because it neither sees nor knows it. But you know it, because it remains with you, and will be in you. [18]I will not leave you orphans; I will come to you. [19]In a little while the world will no longer see me, but you will see me, because I live and you will live. [20]On that day you will realize that I am in my Father and you are in me and I in you. [21]Whoever has my commandments and observes them is the one who loves me. And whoever loves me will be loved by my Father, and I will love him and reveal myself to him."

August 13

Pope St. Pontian and St. Hippolytus; St. Maximus the Confessor

To harbor no envy, no anger, no resentment against an offender is still not to have charity for him. It is possible, without any charity, to avoid rendering evil for evil. But to render, spontaneously, good for evil — that is what belongs to a perfect spiritual love.

— St. Maximus the Confessor

☐ WISDOM 1-4:19

Exhortation to Righteousness, the Key to Life. 1:1 Love righteousness, you who judge the earth;

think of the LORD in goodness,
and seek him in integrity of heart;
[2]Because he is found by those who do not test him,
and manifests himself to those who do not disbelieve him.
[3]For perverse counsels separate people from God,
and his power, put to the proof, rebukes the foolhardy;
[4]Because into a soul that plots evil wisdom does not enter,
nor does she dwell in a body under debt of sin.
[5]For the holy spirit of discipline flees deceit
and withdraws from senseless counsels
and is rebuked when unrighteousness occurs.

[6]For wisdom is a kindly spirit,
yet she does not acquit blasphemous lips;
Because God is the witness of the inmost self and the sure observer of the heart and the listener to the tongue.
[7]For the spirit of the LORD fills the world,
is all-embracing, and knows whatever is said.
[8]Therefore those who utter wicked things will not go unnoticed,
nor will chastising condemnation pass them by.
[9]For the devices of the wicked shall be scrutinized,
and the sound of their words shall reach the LORD,
for the chastisement of their transgressions;
[10]Because a jealous ear hearkens to everything,
and discordant grumblings are not secret.
[11]Therefore guard against profitless grumbling,
and from calumny withhold your tongues;
For a stealthy utterance will not go unpunished,
and a lying mouth destroys the soul.

[12]Do not court death by your erring way of life,
nor draw to yourselves destruction by the works of your hands.
[13]Because God did not make death,
nor does he rejoice in the destruction of the living.
[14]For he fashioned all things that they might have being,
and the creatures of the world are wholesome;
There is not a destructive drug among them
nor any domain of Hades on earth, [15]For righteousness is undying.

The Wicked Reject Immortality and Righteousness Alike. [16]It was the wicked who with hands and words invited death, considered it a friend, and pined for it,
and made a covenant with it,
Because they deserve to be allied with it.

2:1 For, not thinking rightly, they said among themselves:
"Brief and troubled is our lifetime;
there is no remedy for our dying,
nor is anyone known to have come back from Hades.

[2]For by mere chance were we born, and hereafter we shall be as though we had not been;
Because the breath in our nostrils is smoke,
and reason a spark from the beating of our hearts,
[3]And when this is quenched, our body will be ashes
and our spirit will be poured abroad like empty air.
[4]Even our name will be forgotten in time,
and no one will recall our deeds.
So our life will pass away like the traces of a cloud,
and will be dispersed like a mist Pursued by the sun's rays
and overpowered by its heat.
[5]For our lifetime is the passing of a shadow;
and our dying cannot be deferred
because it is fixed with a seal; and no one returns.
[6]Come, therefore, let us enjoy the good things that are here,
and make use of creation with youthful zest.
[7]Let us have our fill of costly wine and perfumes,
and let no springtime blossom pass us by;
[8]let us crown ourselves with rosebuds before they wither.
[9]Let no meadow be free from our wantonness;
everywhere let us leave tokens of our merriment,
for this is our portion, and this our lot.
[10]Let us oppress the righteous poor;
let us neither spare the widow
nor revere the aged for hair grown white with time.
[11]But let our strength be our norm of righteousness;
for weakness proves itself useless.

[12]Let us lie in wait for the righteous one, because he is annoying to us;
he opposes our actions,
Reproaches us for transgressions of the law
and charges us with violations of our training.
[13]He professes to have knowledge of God and styles himself a child of the LORD.
[14]To us he is the censure of our thoughts;
merely to see him is a hardship for us, [15]Because his life is not like that of others,
and different are his ways.
[16]He judges us debased;
he holds aloof from our paths as from things impure.
He calls blest the destiny of the righteous and boasts that God is his Father.

[17]Let us see whether his words be true;
let us find out what will happen to him in the end.
[18]For if the righteous one is the son of God, God will help him and deliver him from the hand of his foes.
[19]With violence and torture let us put him to the test that we may have proof of his gentleness

and try his patience.
[20]Let us condemn him to a shameful death;
for according to his own words, God will take care of him."

[21]These were their thoughts, but they erred;
for their wickedness blinded them, [22]And they did not know the hidden counsels of God;
neither did they count on a recompense for holiness
nor discern the innocent souls' reward.
[23]For God formed us to be imperishable;
the image of his own nature he made us.
[24]But by the envy of the devil, death entered the world,
and they who are allied with him experience it.

The Hidden Counsels of God

A. ON SUFFERING. 3:1 The souls of the righteous are in the hand of God, and no torment shall touch them.
[2]They seemed, in the view of the foolish, to be dead;
and their passing away was thought an affliction
[3]and their going forth from us, utter destruction.
But they are in peace.
[4]For if to others, indeed, they seem punished,
yet is their hope full of immortality;
[5]Chastised a little, they shall be greatly blessed,
because God tried them
and found them worthy of himself.
[6]As gold in the furnace, he proved them,
and as sacrificial offerings he took them to himself.
[7]In the time of their judgment they shall shine
and dart about as sparks through stubble;
[8]They shall judge nations and rule over peoples,
and the LORD shall be their King forever.
[9]Those who trust in him shall understand truth,
and the faithful shall abide with him in love:
Because grace and mercy are with his holy ones,
and his care is with the elect.
[10]But the wicked shall receive a punishment to match their thoughts, since they neglected righteousness and forsook the LORD.
[11]For those who despise wisdom and instruction are doomed.
Vain is their hope, fruitless their labors,
and worthless their works.
[12]Their wives are foolish and their children wicked,
accursed their brood.

B. ON CHILDLESSNESS. [13]Yes, blessed is she who, childless and undefiled, never knew transgression of the marriage bed;
for she shall bear fruit at the judgment of souls.
[14]So also the eunuch whose hand wrought no misdeed, who held no wicked thoughts against the LORD—
For he shall be given fidelity's choice reward
and a more gratifying heritage in the LORD's temple.

[15]For the fruit of noble struggles is a glorious one;
and unfailing is the root of understanding.
[16]But the children of adulterers will remain without issue,
and the progeny of an unlawful bed will disappear.
[17]For should they attain long life, they will be held in no esteem,
and dishonored will their old age be in the end;
[18]Should they die abruptly, they will have no hope
nor comfort in the day of scrutiny;
[19]for dire is the end of the wicked generation.

4:1 Better is childlessness with virtue;
for immortal is the memory of virtue,
acknowledged both by God and human beings.
[2]When it is present people imitate it,
and they long for it when it is gone;
Forever it marches crowned in triumph,
victorious in unsullied deeds of valor.
[3]But the numerous progeny of the wicked shall be of no avail;
their spurious offshoots shall not strike deep root
nor take firm hold.
[4]For even though their branches flourish for a time,
they are unsteady and shall be rocked by the wind
and, by the violence of the winds, uprooted;
[5]Their twigs shall be broken off untimely,
their fruit useless, unripe for eating,
fit for nothing.
[6]For children born of lawless unions
give evidence of the wickedness of their parents, when they are examined.

C. ON EARLY DEATH. [7]But the righteous one, though he die early, shall be at rest.
[8]For the age that is honorable comes not with the passing of time, nor can it be measured in terms of years.
[9]Rather, understanding passes for gray hair,
and an unsullied life is the attainment of old age.
[10]The one who pleased God was loved, living among sinners, was transported—[11]Snatched away, lest wickedness pervert his mind
or deceit beguile his soul;
[12]For the witchery of paltry things obscures what is right and the whirl of desire transforms the innocent mind.
[13]Having become perfect in a short while,
he reached the fullness of a long career;
[14]for his soul was pleasing to the LORD,
therefore he sped him out of the midst of wickedness.
But the people saw and did not understand,
nor did they take that consideration into account.

[16]Yes, the righteous one who has died will condemn
the sinful who live;
And youth, swiftly completed, will condemn

the many years of the unrighteous who have grown old.
[17]For they will see the death of the wise one and will not understand what the LORD intended,
or why he kept him safe.
[18]They will see, and hold him in contempt;
but the LORD will laugh them to scorn.
[19]And they shall afterward become dishonored corpses
and an unceasing mockery among the dead.
For he shall strike them down speechless and prostrate
and rock them to their foundations;
They shall be utterly laid waste and shall be in grief
and their memory shall perish.

☐ JOHN 14:22-31

14:22 Judas, not the Iscariot, said to him, "Master, [then] what happened that you will reveal yourself to us and not to the world?" [23]Jesus answered and said to him, "Whoever loves me will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our dwelling with him. [24]Whoever does not love me does not keep my words; yet the word you hear is not mine but that of the Father who sent me.

[25]"I have told you this while I am with you. [26]The Advocate, the holy Spirit that the Father will send in my name—he will teach you everything and remind you of all that [I] told you. [27]Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give it to you. Do not let your hearts be troubled or afraid. [28]You heard me tell you, 'I am going away and I will come back to you.' If you loved me, you would rejoice that I am going to the Father; for the Father is greater than I. [29]And now I have told you this before it happens, so that when it happens you may believe. [30]I will no longer speak much with you, for the ruler of the world is coming. He has no power over me, [31]but the world must know that I love the Father and that I do just as the Father has commanded me. Get up, let us go."

August 14

St. Maximilian Mary Kolbe

> No one in the world can change Truth. What we can do and should do is to seek truth and to serve it when we have found it. The real conflict is the inner conflict. Beyond armies of occupation and extermination camps, there are two irreconcilable enemies in the depth of every soul: good and evil, sin and love. What use are the victories on the battlefield if we ourselves are defeated in our innermost personal selves?

☐ WISDOM 4:20-8:18

The Judgment of the Wicked. 4:20 Fearful shall they come, at the counting up of their sins, and their lawless deeds shall convict them to their face.

5:1 Then shall the righteous one with great assurance confront his oppressors who set at nought his labors.
[2]Seeing this, the wicked shall be shaken with dreadful fear,
and be amazed at the unexpected salvation.
[3]They shall say among themselves, rueful

and groaning through anguish of spirit:

"This is the one whom once we held as a laughingstock
and as a type for mockery, [4]fools that we were!
His life we accounted madness,
and death dishonored.
[5]See how he is accounted among the heavenly beings;
how his lot is with the holy ones!
[6]We, then, have strayed from the way of truth,
and the light of righteousness did not shine for us,
and the sun did not rise for us.
[7]We were entangled in the thorns of mischief and of ruin;
we journeyed through trackless deserts,
but the way of the LORD we never knew.
[8]What did our pride avail us?
What have wealth and its boastfulness afforded us?
[9]All of them passed like a shadow
and like a fleeting rumor; [10]Like a ship traversing the heaving water:
when it has passed, no trace can be found,
no path of its keel in the waves.
[11]Or like a bird flying through the air;
no evidence of its course is to be found—
But the fluid air, lashed by the beating of pinions,
and cleft by the rushing force
Of speeding wings, is traversed;
and afterward no mark of passage can be found in it.
[12]Or as, when an arrow has been shot at a mark,
the parted air straightway flows together again
so that none discerns the way it went—[13]Even so, once born, we abruptly came to nought
and held no sign of virtue to display,
but were consumed in our wickedness."

[14]Yes, the hope of the wicked is like chaff borne by the wind,
and like fine, storm-driven snow;
Like smoke scattered by the wind,
and like the passing memory of the nomad camping for a single day.
[15]But the righteous live forever,
and in the LORD is their recompense,
and the thought of them is with the Most High.
[16]Therefore shall they receive the splendid crown,
the beautiful diadem, from the hand of the LORD,
For he will shelter them with his right hand,
and protect them with his arm.
[17]He shall take his zeal for armor
and arm creation to requite the enemy, [18]Shall put on righteousness for a breastplate,
wear sure judgment for a helmet,

[19]Shall take invincible holiness for a shield,
[20]and sharpen his sudden anger for a sword.
The universe will war with him against the foolhardy;
[21]Well-aimed bolts of lightning will go forth and from the clouds will leap to the mark as from a well-drawn bow; [22]and as from a sling, wrathful hailstones shall be hurled.
The waters of the sea will be enraged
and flooding rivers will overwhelm them;
[23]A mighty wind will confront them
and winnow them like a tempest;
Thus lawlessness will lay waste the whole earth
and evildoing overturn the thrones of the mighty.

Exhortation to Seek Wisdom. 6:1 Hear, therefore, kings, and understand;
learn, you magistrates of the earth's expanse!
[2]Give ear, you who have power over multitudes
and lord it over throngs of peoples!
[3]Because authority was given you by the Lord and sovereignty by the Most High,
who shall probe your works and scrutinize your counsels!
[4]Because, though you were ministers of his kingdom, you did not judge rightly,
and did not keep the law,
nor walk according to the will of God,
[5]Terribly and swiftly he shall come against you,
because severe judgment awaits the exalted—[6]For the lowly may be pardoned out of mercy
but the mighty shall be mightily put to the test.
[7]For the Ruler of all shows no partiality,
nor does he fear greatness,
Because he himself made the great as well as the small,
and provides for all alike;
[8]but for those in power a rigorous scrutiny impends.

[9]To you, therefore, O princes, are my words addressed that you may learn wisdom and that you may not fall away.
[10]For those who keep the holy precepts hallowed will be found holy,
and those learned in them will have ready a response.
[11]Desire therefore my words;
long for them and you will be instructed.

[12]Resplendent and unfading is Wisdom,
and she is readily perceived by those who love her,
and found by those who seek her.
[13]She hastens to make herself known to those who desire her;
[14]one who watches for her at dawn will not be disappointed,
for she will be found sitting at the gate.
[15]For setting your heart on her is the perfection of prudence, and whoever keeps vigil for her is quickly free from care;
[16]Because she makes her rounds, seeking those worthy of her,
and graciously appears to them on the way,

and goes to meet them with full attention.

17For the first step toward Wisdom is an earnest desire for discipline;
18then, care for discipline is love of her;
love means the keeping of her laws;
To observe her laws is the basis for incorruptibility;
19and incorruptibility makes one close to God;
20thus the desire for Wisdom leads to a kingdom.
21If, then, you find pleasure in throne and scepter, you princes of peoples, honor Wisdom, that you may reign as kings forever.

22Now what wisdom is, and how she came to be I shall proclaim;
and I shall conceal no secrets from you,
But from the very beginning I shall search out and bring to light knowledge of her;
I shall not diverge from the truth.
23Neither shall I admit consuming jealousy to my company,
because that can have no fellowship with Wisdom.
24A multitude of the wise is the safety of the world,
and a prudent king, the stability of the people;
25so take instruction from my words, to your profit.

Solomon Is Like All Others. 7:1 I too am a mortal, the same as all the rest,
and a descendant of the first one formed of earth.
And in my mother's womb I was molded into flesh 2in a ten-month period—body and blood, from the seed of a man, and the pleasure that accompanies marriage.
3And I too, when born, inhaled the common air,
and fell upon the kindred earth;
wailing, I uttered that first sound common to all.
4In swaddling clothes and with constant care I was nurtured.
5For no king has any different origin or birth;
6one is the entry into life for all,
and in one same way they leave it.

Solomon Prayed and Wisdom and Riches Came to Him. 7Therefore I prayed, and prudence was given me;
I pleaded and the spirit of Wisdom came to me.
8I preferred her to scepter and throne,
And deemed riches nothing in comparison with her,
9nor did I liken any priceless gem to her;
Because all gold, in view of her, is a bit of sand,
and before her, silver is to be accounted mire.
10Beyond health and beauty I loved her,
And I chose to have her rather than the light,
because her radiance never ceases.
11Yet all good things together came to me with her,
and countless riches at her hands;
12I rejoiced in them all, because Wisdom is their leader,
though I had not known that she is their mother.

Solomon Prays for Help to Speak Worthily of Wisdom. [13]Sincerely I learned about her, and ungrudgingly do I share—her riches I do not hide away; [14]For she is an unfailing treasure;
those who gain this treasure win the friendship of God,
being commended by the gifts that come from her discipline.
[15]Now God grant I speak suitably and value these endowments at their worth:
For he is the guide of Wisdom
and the director of the wise.
[16]For both we and our words are in his hand,
as well as all prudence and knowledge of crafts.
[17]For he gave me sound knowledge of what exists, that I might know the structure of the universe and the force of its elements, [18]The beginning and the end and the midpoint of times,
the changes in the sun's course and the variations of the seasons, [19]Cycles of years, positions of stars,
[20]natures of living things, tempers of beasts,
Powers of the winds and thoughts of human beings,
uses of plants and virtues of roots—
[21]Whatever is hidden or plain I learned,
[22]for Wisdom, the artisan of all, taught me.

Nature and Incomparable Dignity of Wisdom. For in her is a spirit intelligent, holy, unique, Manifold, subtle, agile,
clear, unstained, certain,
Never harmful, loving the good, keen, [23]unhampered, beneficent, kindly,
Firm, secure, tranquil,
all-powerful, all-seeing,
And pervading all spirits,
though they be intelligent, pure and very subtle.

[24]For Wisdom is mobile beyond all motion, and she penetrates and pervades all things by reason of her purity.
[25]For she is a breath of the might of God
and a pure emanation of the glory of the Almighty;
therefore nothing defiled can enter into her.
[26]For she is the reflection of eternal light,
the spotless mirror of the power of God,
the image of his goodness.
[27]Although she is one, she can do all things,
and she renews everything while herself perduring;
Passing into holy souls from age to age,
she produces friends of God and prophets.
[28]For God loves nothing so much as the one who dwells with Wisdom.
[29]For she is fairer than the sun
and surpasses every constellation of the stars.
Compared to light, she is found more radiant;

[30]though night supplants light,
wickedness does not prevail over Wisdom.

8:1 Indeed, she spans the world from end to end mightily
and governs all things well.

Wisdom, the Source of Blessings. [2]Her I loved and sought after from my youth;
I sought to take her for my bride and was enamored of her beauty.
[3]She adds to nobility the splendor of companionship with God;
even the Ruler of all loved her.
[4]For she leads into the understanding of God,
and chooses his works.
[5]If riches are desirable in life,
what is richer than Wisdom, who produces all things?
[6]And if prudence is at work,
who in the world is a better artisan than she?
[7]Or if one loves righteousness,
whose works are virtues,
She teaches moderation and prudence,
righteousness and fortitude,
and nothing in life is more useful than these.
[8]Or again, if one yearns for wide experience,
she knows the things of old, and infers the things to come.
She understands the turns of phrases and the solutions of riddles;
signs and wonders she knows in advance
and the outcome of times and ages.

Wisdom as Solomon's Counselor and Comfort. [9]So I determined to take her to live with me, knowing that she would be my counselor while all was well,
and my comfort in care and grief.
[10]Because of her I have glory among the multitudes, and esteem from the elders, though I am but a youth.
[11]I shall become keen in judgment,
and shall be a marvel before rulers.
[12]They will wait while I am silent and listen when I speak;
and when I shall speak the more,
they will put their hands upon their mouths.
[13]Because of her I shall have immortality
and leave to those after me an everlasting memory.
[14]I shall govern peoples, and nations will be my subjects—[15]tyrannical princes, hearing of me, will be afraid;
in the assembly I shall appear noble, and in war courageous.
[16]Entering my house, I shall take my repose beside her;
For association with her involves no bitterness and living with her no grief,
but rather joy and gladness.

Wisdom is a Gift of God. [17]Reflecting on these things,
and considering in my heart
That immortality lies in kinship with Wisdom,

[18]great delight in love of her,
and unfailing riches in the works of her hands;
And that in associating with her there is prudence,
and fair renown in sharing her discourses,
I went about seeking to take her for my own.

☐ JOHN 15:1-17

The Vine and the Branches. 15:1 "I am the true vine, and my Father is the vine grower. [2]He takes away every branch in me that does not bear fruit, and every one that does he prunes so that it bears more fruit. [3]You are already pruned because of the word that I spoke to you. [4]Remain in me, as I remain in you. Just as a branch cannot bear fruit on its own unless it remains on the vine, so neither can you unless you remain in me. [5]I am the vine, you are the branches. Whoever remains in me and I in him will bear much fruit, because without me you can do nothing. [6]Anyone who does not remain in me will be thrown out like a branch and wither; people will gather them and throw them into a fire and they will be burned. [7]If you remain in me and my words remain in you, ask for whatever you want and it will be done for you. [8]By this is my Father glorified, that you bear much fruit and become my disciples. [9]As the Father loves me, so I also love you. Remain in my love. [10]If you keep my commandments, you will remain in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and remain in his love.

[11]"I have told you this so that my joy may be in you and your joy may be complete. [12]This is my commandment: love one another as I love you. [13]No one has greater love than this, to lay down one's life for one's friends. [14]You are my friends if you do what I command you. [15]I no longer call you slaves, because a slave does not know what his master is doing. I have called you friends, because I have told you everything I have heard from my Father. [16]It was not you who chose me, but I who chose you and appointed you to go and bear fruit that will remain, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name he may give you. [17]This I command you: love one another."

The Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary

And who, I ask, could believe that the ark of holiness, the dwelling place of the Word of God, the temple of the Holy Spirit, could be reduced to ruin? My soul is filled with horror at the thought that this virginal flesh that had begotten God, had brought Him into the world, had nourished and carried Him, could have been turned into ashes or given over to be the food of worms.

— St. Robert Bellarmine

☐ WISDOM 8:19-12:27

8:19 Now, I was a well-favored child,
and I came by a noble nature;
[20]or rather, being noble, I attained an unblemished body.
[21]And knowing that I could not otherwise possess her unless God gave it—and this, too, was prudence, to know whose gift she is—
I went to the LORD and besought him,
and said with all my heart:

Solomon's Prayer. 9:1 God of my ancestors, Lord of mercy,
you who have made all things by your word
[2]And in your wisdom have established humankind
to rule the creatures produced by you,

[3]And to govern the world in holiness and righteousness,
and to render judgment in integrity of heart:
[4]Give me Wisdom, the consort at your throne,
and do not reject me from among your children;
[5]For I am your servant, the child of your maidservant,
a man weak and short-lived
and lacking in comprehension of judgment and of laws.
[6]Indeed, though one be perfect among mortals,
if Wisdom, who comes from you, be lacking,
that one will count for nothing.

[7]You have chosen me king over your people and magistrate over your sons and daughters.
[8]You have bid me build a temple on your holy mountain and an altar in the city that is your dwelling place,
a copy of the holy tabernacle which you had established from of old.
[9]Now with you is Wisdom, who knows your works and was present when you made the world;
Who understands what is pleasing in your eyes
and what is conformable with your commands.
[10]Send her forth from your holy heavens
and from your glorious throne dispatch her That she may be with me and work with me, that I may know what is pleasing to you.
[11]For she knows and understands all things,
and will guide me prudently in my affairs
and safeguard me by her glory;
[12]Thus my deeds will be acceptable,
and I will judge your people justly
and be worthy of my father's throne.

[13]For who knows God's counsel, or who can conceive what the Lord intends?
[14]For the deliberations of mortals are timid,
and uncertain our plans.
[15]For the corruptible body burdens the soul and the earthly tent weighs down the mind with its many concerns.
[16]Scarcely can we guess the things on earth,
and only with difficulty grasp what is at hand;
but things in heaven, who can search them out?
[17]Or who can know your counsel, unless you give Wisdom and send your holy spirit from on high?
[18]Thus were the paths of those on earth made straight,
and people learned what pleases you,
and were saved by Wisdom.

Wisdom Preserves Her Followers. 10:1 She preserved the first-formed father of the world
when he alone had been created;
And she raised him up from his fall,
[2]and gave him power to rule all things.

[3]But when an unrighteous man withdrew from her in his anger,
he perished through his fratricidal wrath.
[4]When on his account the earth was flooded, Wisdom again saved it, piloting the righteous man on frailest wood.

[5]She, when the nations were sunk in universal wickedness,
knew the righteous man, kept him blameless before God,
and preserved him resolute against pity for his child.

[6]She rescued a righteous man from among the wicked who were being destroyed, when he fled as fire descended upon the Pentapolis—[7]Where as a testimony to its wickedness,
even yet there remain a smoking desert,
Plants bearing fruit that never ripens,
and the tomb of a disbelieving soul, a standing pillar of salt.
[8]For those who forsook Wisdom
not only were deprived of knowledge of the good,
But also left the world a memorial of their folly,
so that they could not even be hidden in their fall.
[9]But Wisdom rescued from tribulations those who served her.

[10]She, when a righteous man fled from his brother's anger,
guided him in right ways,
Showed him the kingdom of God
and gave him knowledge of holy things;
She prospered him in his labors
and made abundant the fruit of his works, [11]Stood by him against the greed of his defrauders,
and enriched him;
[12]She preserved him from foes,
and secured him against ambush,
And she gave him the prize for his hard struggle that he might know that devotion to God is mightier than all else.

[13]She did not abandon a righteous man when he was sold,
but rescued him from sin.
[14]She went down with him into the dungeon,
and did not desert him in his bonds,
Until she brought him the scepter of royalty
and authority over his oppressors, Proved false those who had defamed him,
and gave him eternal glory.

[15]The holy people and their blameless descendants—it was she who rescued them from the nation that oppressed them.
[16]She entered the soul of the Lord's servant,
and withstood fearsome kings with signs and wonders;
[17]she gave the holy ones the reward of their labors, Conducted them by a wondrous road,
became a shelter for them by day
a starry flame by night.

[18]She took them across the Red Sea
and brought them through the deep waters.
[19]Their enemies she overwhelmed,
and churned them up from the bottom of the depths.
[20]Therefore the righteous despoiled the wicked;
and they sang of your holy name, Lord,
and praised in unison your conquering hand, [21]Because Wisdom opened the mouths of the mute,
and gave ready speech to infants.

11:1 She prospered their affairs through the holy prophet.

[2]They journeyed through the uninhabited desert,
and in lonely places they pitched their tents;
[3]they withstood enemies and warded off their foes.
[4]When they thirsted, they called upon you,
and water was given them from the sheer rock,
a quenching of their thirst from the hard stone.
[5]For by the things through which their foes were punished
they in their need were benefited.

First Example: Water Punishes the Egyptians and Benefits the Israelites. [6]Instead of a river's perennial source, troubled with impure blood
[7]as a rebuke to the decree for the slaying of infants,
You gave them abundant water beyond their hope,
[8]after you had shown by the thirst they experienced
how you punished their adversaries.
[9]For when they had been tried, though only mildly chastised, they recognized how the wicked, condemned in anger, were being tormented.
[10]You tested your own people, admonishing them as a father;
but as a stern king you probed and condemned the wicked.
[11]Those near and far were equally afflicted:
[12]for a twofold grief took hold of them and a groaning at the remembrance of the ones who had departed.
[13]For when they heard that the cause of their own torments was a benefit to these others, they recognized the Lord.
[14]For though they had mocked and rejected him who had been cast out and abandoned long ago,
in the final outcome, they marveled at him,
since their thirst proved unlike that of the righteous.

Second Example: Animals Punish the Egyptians and Benefit the Israelites. [15]In return for their senseless, wicked thoughts, which misled them into worshiping dumb serpents and worthless insects,
You sent upon them swarms of dumb creatures for vengeance;
[16]that they might recognize that one is punished by the very things through which one sins.

Digression on God's Mercy. [17]For not without means was your almighty hand,
that had fashioned the universe from formless matter,
to send upon them many bears or fierce lions, [18]Or newly created, wrathful, unknown beasts

breathing forth fiery breath,
Or pouring out roaring smoke,
or flashing terrible sparks from their eyes.
[19]Not only could these attack and completely destroy them;
even their frightful appearance itself could slay.
[20]Even without these, they could have been killed at a single blast, pursued by justice
and winnowed by your mighty spirit.
But you have disposed all things by measure and number and weight.
[21]For great strength is always present with you;
who can resist the might of your arm?
[22]Indeed, before you the whole universe is like a grain from a balance, or a drop of morning dew come down upon the earth.

[23]But you have mercy on all, because you can do all things;
and you overlook sins for the sake of repentance.
[24]For you love all things that are
and loathe nothing that you have made;
for you would not fashion what you hate.
[25]How could a thing remain, unless you willed it;
or be preserved, had it not been called forth by you?
[26]But you spare all things, because they are yours,
O Ruler and Lover of souls,

12:1 for your imperishable spirit is in all things!

[2]Therefore you rebuke offenders little by little, warn them, and remind them of the sins they are committing,
that they may abandon their wickedness and believe in you, Lord!

[3]For truly, the ancient inhabitants of your holy land,
[4]whom you hated for deeds most odious—
works of sorcery and impious sacrifices;
[5]These merciless murderers of children,
devourers of human flesh,
and initiates engaged in a blood ritual,
[6]and parents who took with their own hands defenseless lives,
You willed to destroy by the hands of our ancestors,
[7]that the land that is dearest of all to you might receive a worthy colony of God's servants.
[8]But even these you spared, since they were but mortals
and sent wasps as forerunners of your army that they might exterminate them by degrees.

[9]Not that you were without power to have the wicked vanquished in battle by the righteous, or wiped out at once by terrible beasts or by one decisive word;
[10]But condemning them by degrees, you gave them space for repentance.
You were not unaware that their origins were wicked
and their malice ingrained,
And that their dispositions would never change;
[11]for they were a people accursed from the beginning.

Neither out of fear for anyone
did you grant release from their sins.
[12]For who can say to you, “What have you done?”
or who can oppose your decree?
Or when peoples perish, who can challenge you, their maker;
or who can come into your presence to vindicate the unrighteous?
[13]For neither is there any god besides you who have the care of all,
that you need show you have not unjustly condemned;
[14]Nor can any king or prince confront you on behalf of those you have punished.

[15]But as you are righteous, you govern all things righteously;
you regard it as unworthy of your power
to punish one who has incurred no blame.
[16]For your might is the source of righteousness;
your mastery over all things makes you lenient to all.
[17]For you show your might when the perfection of your power is disbelieved;
and in those who know you, you rebuke insolence.
[18]But though you are master of might, you judge with clemency,
and with much lenience you govern us;
for power, whenever you will, attends you.

[19]You taught your people, by these deeds,
that those who are righteous must be kind;
And you gave your children reason to hope that you would allow them to repent for their sins.
[20]For these were enemies of your servants, doomed to death;
yet, while you punished them with such solicitude and indulgence,
granting time and opportunity to abandon wickedness, [21]With what exactitude you judged your children, to whose ancestors you gave the sworn covenants of goodly promises!
[22]Therefore to give us a lesson you punish our enemies with measured deliberation so that we may think earnestly of your goodness when we judge, and, when being judged, we may look for mercy.

Second Example Resumed. [23]Hence those unrighteous who lived a life of folly,
you tormented through their own abominations.
[24]For they went far astray in the paths of error,
taking for gods the worthless and disgusting among beasts,
being deceived like senseless infants.
[25]Therefore as though upon unreasoning children,
you sent your judgment on them as a mockery;
[26]But they who took no heed of a punishment which was but child’s play were to experience a condemnation worthy of God.
[27]For by the things through which they suffered distress,
being tortured by the very things they deemed gods,
They saw and recognized the true God whom formerly they had refused to know;
with this, their final condemnation came upon them.

☐ JOHN 15:18-27

The World's Hatred. 15:18 "If the world hates you, realize that it hated me first. [19]If you belonged to the world, the world would love its own; but because you do not belong to the world, and I have chosen you out of the world, the world hates you. [20]Remember the word I spoke to you, 'No slave is greater than his master.' If they persecuted me, they will also persecute you. If they kept my word, they will also keep yours. [21]And they will do all these things to you on account of my name, because they do not know the one who sent me. [22]If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin; but as it is they have no excuse for their sin. [23]Whoever hates me also hates my Father. [24]If I had not done works among them that no one else ever did, they would not have sin; but as it is, they have seen and hated both me and my Father. [25]But in order that the word written in their law might be fulfilled, 'They hated me without cause.'

[26]"When the Advocate comes whom I will send you from the Father, the Spirit of truth that proceeds from the Father, he will testify to me. [27]And you also testify, because you have been with me from the beginning."

St. Stephen of Hungary

Be strong, lest prosperity lift you up too much or adversity cast you down. Be humble in this life, so that God may raise you up in the next.

— St. Stephen of Hungary

☐ WISDOM 13-16

Digression on False Worship

A. NATURE WORSHIP. 13:1 Foolish by nature were all who were in ignorance of God, and who from the good things seen did not succeed in knowing the one who is,
and from studying the works did not discern the artisan;
[2]Instead either fire, or wind, or the swift air,
or the circuit of the stars, or the mighty water,
or the luminaries of heaven, the governors of the world, they considered gods.
[3]Now if out of joy in their beauty they thought them gods, let them know how far more excellent is the Lord than these;
for the original source of beauty fashioned them.
[4]Or if they were struck by their might and energy,
let them realize from these things how much more powerful is the one who made them.
[5]For from the greatness and the beauty of created things their original author, by analogy, is seen.
[6]But yet, for these the blame is less;
For they have gone astray perhaps,
though they seek God and wish to find him.
[7]For they search busily among his works,
but are distracted by what they see, because the things seen are fair.
[8]But again, not even these are pardonable.
[9]For if they so far succeeded in knowledge that they could speculate about the world,
how did they not more quickly find its Lord?

B. IDOLATRY. [10]But wretched are they, and in dead things are their hopes,
who termed gods things made by human hands:
Gold and silver, the product of art, and images of beasts,

or useless stone, the work of an ancient hand.

The Carpenter and Wooden Idols. [11]A carpenter may cut down a suitable tree and skillfully scrape off all its bark,
And deftly plying his art produce something fit for daily use, [12]And use the scraps from his handiwork
in preparing his food, and have his fill; [13]Then the good-for-nothing refuse from these remnants, crooked wood grown full of knots,
he takes and carves to occupy his spare time.
This wood he models with mindless skill,
and patterns it on the image of a human being [14]or makes it resemble some worthless beast.
When he has daubed it with red and crimsoned its surface with red stain,
and daubed over every blemish in it, [15]He makes a fitting shrine for it and puts it on the wall, fastening it with a nail.
[16]Thus he provides for it lest it fall down,
knowing that it cannot help itself;
for, truly, it is an image and needs help.
[17]But when he prays about his goods or marriage or children,
he is not ashamed to address the thing without a soul.
For vigor he invokes the powerless;
[18]for life he entreats the dead;
For aid he beseeches the wholly incompetent;
for travel, something that cannot even walk;
[19]For profit in business and success with his hands
he asks power of a thing with hands utterly powerless.

14:1 Again, one preparing for a voyage and about to traverse the wild waves cries out to wood more unsound than the boat that bears him.
[2]For the urge for profits devised this latter,
and Wisdom the artisan produced it.

[3]But your providence, O Father! guides it,
for you have furnished even in the sea a road,
and through the waves a steady path,
[4]Showing that you can save from any danger,
so that even one without skill may embark.
[5]But you will that the products of your Wisdom be not idle;
therefore people trust their lives even to most frail wood,
and were safe crossing the waves on a raft.
[6]For of old, when the proud giants were being destroyed,
the hope of the universe, who took refuge on a raft, left to the world a future for the human family, under the guidance of your hand.

[7]For blest is the wood through which righteousness comes about;
[8]but the handmade idol is accursed, and its maker as well:
he for having produced it, and the corruptible thing, because it was termed a god.
[9]Equally odious to God are the evildoer and the evil deed;

[10]and the thing made will be punished with its maker.
[11]Therefore upon even the idols of the nations shall a judgment come,
since they became abominable among God's works, Snares for human souls
and a trap for the feet of the senseless.

The Origin and Evils of Idolatry. [12]For the source of wantonness is the devising of idols;
and their invention, a corruption of life.
[13]For in the beginning they were not,
nor can they ever continue;
[14]for from human emptiness they came into the world,
and therefore a sudden end is devised for them.

[15]For a father, afflicted with untimely mourning,
made an image of the child so quickly taken from him,
And now honored as a god what once was dead
and handed down to his household mysteries and sacrifices.
[16]Then, in the course of time, the impious practice gained strength and was observed as law,
and graven things were worshiped by royal decrees.
[17]People who lived so far away that they could not honor him in his presence copied the appearance of the distant king
And made a public image of him they wished to honor,
out of zeal to flatter the absent one as though present.
[18]And to promote this observance among those to whom it was strange,
the artisan's ambition provided a stimulus.
[19]For he, perhaps in his determination to please the ruler, labored over the likeness to the best of his skill;
[20]And the masses, drawn by the charm of the workmanship, soon took as an object of worship the one who shortly before was honored as a human being.
[21]And this became a snare for the world,
that people enslaved to either grief or tyranny
conferred the incommunicable Name on stones and wood.

[22]Then it was not enough for them to err in their knowledge of God;
but even though they live in a great war resulting from ignorance,
they call such evils peace.
[23]For while they practice either child sacrifices or occult mysteries, or frenzied carousing in exotic rites, [24]They no longer respect either lives or purity of marriage;
but they either waylay and kill each other, or aggrieve each other by adultery.
[25]And all is confusion—blood and murder, theft and guile, corruption, faithlessness, turmoil, perjury, [26]Disturbance of good people, neglect of gratitude,
besmirching of souls, unnatural lust,
disorder in marriage, adultery and shamelessness.
[27]For the worship of infamous idols
is the reason and source and extreme of all evil.

[28]For they either go mad with enjoyment, or prophesy lies,
or live lawlessly or lightly perjure themselves.
[29]For as their trust is in lifeless idols,

they expect no harm when they have sworn falsely.
[30]But on both counts justice shall overtake them:
because they thought perversely of God by devoting themselves to idols,
and because they deliberately swore false oaths, despising piety.
[31]For it is not the might of those by whom they swear,
but the just retribution of sinners,
that ever follows upon the transgression of the wicked.

15:1 But you, our God, are good and true,
slow to anger, and governing all with mercy.
[2]For even if we sin, we are yours, and know your might;
but we will not sin, knowing that we belong to you.
[3]For to know you well is complete righteousness,
and to know your might is the root of immortality.
[4]For the evil creation of human fancy did not deceive us,
nor the fruitless labor of painters,
A form smeared with varied colors,
[5]the sight of which arouses yearning in a fool,
till he longs for the inanimate form of a dead image.
[6]Lovers of evil things, and worthy of such hopes are they who make them and long for them and worship them.

The Potter's Clay Idols. [7]For the potter, laboriously working the soft earth, molds for our service each single article:
He fashions out of the same clay
both the vessels that serve for clean purposes
and their opposites, all alike;
As to what shall be the use of each vessel of either class
the worker in clay is the judge.
[8]With misspent toil he molds a meaningless god from the selfsame clay, though he himself shortly before was made from the earth,
And is soon to go whence he was taken,
when the life that was lent him is demanded back.
[9]But his concern is not that he is to die
nor that his span of life is brief;
Rather, he vies with goldsmiths and silversmiths
and emulates molders of bronze,
and takes pride in fashioning counterfeits.
[10]Ashes his heart is! more worthless than earth is his hope,
more ignoble than clay his life;
[11]Because he knew not the one who fashioned him,
and breathed into him a quickening soul,
and infused a vital spirit.
[12]Instead, he esteemed our life a mere game,
and our span of life a holiday for gain;
"For one must," says he, "make a profit in every way, be it even from evil."
[13]For more than anyone else he knows that he is sinning, when out of earthen stuff he creates fragile vessels and idols alike.

[14]But most stupid of all and worse than senseless in mind,
are the enemies of your people who enslaved them.

[15]For they esteemed all the idols of the nations as gods, which cannot use their eyes to see,
nor nostrils to breathe the air,
Nor ears to hear,
nor fingers on their hands for feeling;
even their feet are useless to walk with.
[16]For it was a mere human being who made them;
one living on borrowed breath who fashioned them.
For no one is able to fashion a god like himself;
[17]he is mortal, and what he makes with lawless hands is dead.
For he is better than the things he worships;
he at least lives, but never his idols.

Second Example Resumed. [18]Besides, they worship the most loathsome beasts—
as regards stupidity, these are worse than the rest, [19]For beasts are neither good-looking nor desirable;
they have escaped both the approval of God and his blessing.

16:1 Therefore they were fittingly punished by similar creatures,
and were tormented by a swarm of insects.
[2]Instead of this punishment, you benefited your people with a novel dish, the delight they craved,
by providing quail for their food,
[3]So that those others, when they desired food,
should lose their appetite even for necessities,
since the creatures sent to plague them were so loathsome, While these, after a brief period of privation,
partook of a novel dish.
[4]For inexorable want had to come upon those oppressors;
but these needed only to be shown how their enemies were being tormented.

[5]For when the dire venom of beasts came upon them and they were dying from the bite of crooked serpents,
your anger endured not to the end.
[6]But as a warning, for a short time they were terrorized, though they had a sign of salvation, to remind them of the precept of your law.
[7]For the one who turned toward it was saved,
not by what was seen,
but by you, the savior of all.
[8]By this also you convinced our foes
that you are the one who delivers from all evil.
[9]For the bites of locusts and of flies slew them,
and no remedy was found to save their lives
because they deserved to be punished by such means; [10]But not even the fangs of poisonous reptiles overcame your children,
for your mercy came forth and healed them.
[11]For as a reminder of your injunctions, they were stung,
and swiftly they were saved,
Lest they should fall into deep forgetfulness
and become unresponsive to your beneficence.

[12]For indeed, neither herb nor application cured them,
but your all-healing word, O LORD!
[13]For you have dominion over life and death;
you lead down to the gates of Hades and lead back.
[14]Human beings, however, may kill another with malice,
but they cannot bring back the departed spirit,
or release the soul that death has confined.
[15]Your hand no one can escape.

Third Example: A Rain of Manna for Israel Instead of the Plague of Storms. [16]For the wicked who refused to know you were punished by the might of your arm,
Were pursued by unusual rains and hailstorms and unremitting downpours,
and were consumed by fire.
[17]For against all expectation, in water which quenches everything,
the fire grew more active;
For the universe fights on behalf of the righteous.
[18]Then the flame was tempered
so that the beasts that were sent upon the wicked might not be burnt up, but that these might see and know that they were struck by the judgment of God;
[19]And again, even in the water, fire blazed beyond its strength so as to consume the produce of the wicked land.
[20]Instead of this, you nourished your people with food of angels and furnished them bread from heaven, ready to hand, untoiled-for, endowed with all delights and conforming to every taste.
[21]For this substance of yours revealed your sweetness toward your children,
and serving the desire of the one who received it,
was changed to whatever flavor each one wished.
[22]Yet snow and ice withstood fire and were not melted,
so that they might know that their enemies' fruits
Were consumed by a fire that blazed in the hail and flashed lightning in the rain.

[23]But this fire, again, in order that the righteous might be nourished, forgot even its proper strength;
[24]For your creation, serving you, its maker,
grows tense for punishment against the wicked,
but is relaxed in benefit for those who trust in you.
[25]Therefore at that very time, transformed in all sorts of ways,
it was serving your all-nourishing bounty
according to what they needed and desired; [26]That your children whom you loved might learn, O LORD, that it is not the various kinds of fruits that nourish,
but your word that preserves those who believe you!
[27]For what was not destroyed by fire,
melted when merely warmed by a momentary sunbeam;
[28]To make known that one must give you thanks before sunrise,
and turn to you at daybreak.
[29]For the hope of the ungrateful melts like a wintry frost and runs off like useless water.

16:1 "I have told you this so that you may not fall away. [2]They will expel you from the synagogues; in fact, the hour is coming when everyone who kills you will think he is offering worship to God. [3]They will do this because they have not known either the Father or me. [4]I have told you this so that when their hour comes you may remember that I told you.

Jesus' Departure; Coming of the Advocate. "I did not tell you this from the beginning, because I was with you. [5]But now I am going to the one who sent me, and not one of you asks me, 'Where are you going?' [6]But because I told you this, grief has filled your hearts. [7]But I tell you the truth, it is better for you that I go. For if I do not go, the Advocate will not come to you. But if I go, I will send him to you. [8]And when he comes he will convict the world in regard to sin and righteousness and condemnation: [9]sin, because they do not believe in me; [10]righteousness, because I am going to the Father and you will no longer see me; [11]condemnation, because the ruler of this world has been condemned.

[12]"I have much more to tell you, but you cannot bear it now. [13]But when he comes, the Spirit of truth, he will guide you to all truth. He will not speak on his own, but he will speak what he hears, and will declare to you the things that are coming. [14]He will glorify me, because he will take from what is mine and declare it to you. [15]Everything that the Father has is mine; for this reason I told you that he will take from what is mine and declare it to you."

We set forth our petitions before God, not in order to make known to Him our needs and desires, but rather so that we ourselves may realize that in these things it is necessary to turn to God for help.
— St. Thomas Aquinas

☐ WISDOM 17-19

Fourth Example: Darkness Afflicts the Egyptians, While the Israelites Have Light. 17:1 For great are your judgments, and hard to describe;
therefore the unruly souls went astray.
[2]For when the lawless thought to enslave the holy nation, they themselves lay shackled with darkness, fettered by the long night, confined beneath their own roofs as exiles from the eternal providence.
[3]For they, who supposed their secret sins were hid under the dark veil of oblivion,
Were scattered in fearful trembling,
terrified by apparitions.
[4]For not even their inner chambers kept them unafraid,
for crashing sounds on all sides terrified them,
and mute phantoms with somber looks appeared.
[5]No fire had force enough to give light,
nor did the flaming brilliance of the stars
succeed in lighting up that gloomy night.
[6]But only intermittent, fearful fires
flashed through upon them;
And in their terror they thought beholding these was worse than the times when that sight was no longer to be seen.
[7]And mockeries of their magic art failed,
and there was a humiliating refutation of their vaunted shrewdness.
[8]For they who undertook to banish fears and terrors from the sick soul themselves sickened with ridiculous fear.
[9]For even though no monstrous thing frightened them, they shook at the passing of insects and the hissing of reptiles, [10]And perished trembling, reluctant to face even the air that they could nowhere escape.
[11]For wickedness, of its nature cowardly, testifies in its own condemnation, and because of a distressed conscience, always magnifies misfortunes.
[12]For fear is nought but the surrender of the helps that come from reason;
[13]and the more one's expectation is of itself uncertain,
the more one makes of not knowing the cause that brings on torment.
[14]So they, during that night, powerless though it was,
since it had come upon them from the recesses of a powerless Hades,
while all sleeping the same sleep, [15]Were partly smitten by fearsome apparitions
and partly stricken by their souls' surrender;
for fear overwhelmed them, sudden and unexpected.
[16]Thus, then, whoever was there fell into that prison without bars and was kept confined.

[17]For whether one was a farmer, or a shepherd,
or a worker at tasks in the wasteland,
Taken unawares, each served out the inescapable sentence;
[18]for all were bound by the one bond of darkness.
And were it only the whistling wind,
or the melodious song of birds in the spreading branches,
Or the steady sound of rushing water,
[19]or the rude crash of overthrown rocks,
Or the unseen gallop of bounding animals,
or the roaring cry of the fiercest beasts,
Or an echo resounding from the hollow of the hills—
these sounds, inspiring terror, paralyzed them.
[20]For the whole world shone with brilliant light and continued its works without interruption; [21]But over them alone was spread oppressive night,
an image of the darkness that was about to come upon them.
Yet they were more a burden to themselves than was the darkness.

18:1 But your holy ones had very great light;
And those others, who heard their voices but did not see their forms, counted them blest for not having suffered;
[2]And because they who formerly had been wronged did not harm them, they thanked them,
and because of the difference between them, pleaded with them.
[3]Instead of this, you furnished the flaming pillar,
a guide on the unknown way,
and the mild sun for an honorable migration.
[4]For they deserved to be deprived of light and imprisoned by darkness,
they had kept your children confined,
through whom the imperishable light of the law was to be given to the world.

Fifth Example: Death of the Egyptian Firstborn; the Israelites Are Spared. [5]When they determined to put to death the infants of the holy ones, and when a single boy had been cast forth and then saved,
As a reproof you carried off a multitude of their children and made them perish all at once in the mighty water.
[6]That night was known beforehand to our ancestors,
so that, with sure knowledge of the oaths in which they put their faith, they might have courage.
[7]The expectation of your people was the salvation of the righteous and the destruction of their foes.
[8]For by the same means with which you punished our adversaries,
you glorified us whom you had summoned.
[9]For in secret the holy children of the good were offering sacrifice and carried out with one mind the divine institution,
So that your holy ones should share alike the same blessings and dangers,
once they had sung the ancestral hymns of praise.
[10]But the discordant cry of their enemies echoed back, and the piteous wail of mourning for children was borne to them.
[11]And the slave was smitten with the same retribution as the master;
even the commoner suffered the same as the king.
[12]And all alike by one common form of death

had countless dead;
For the living were not even sufficient for the burial,
since at a single instant their most valued offspring had been destroyed.
[13]For though they disbelieved at every turn on account of sorceries, at the destruction of the firstborn they acknowledged that this people was God's son.
[14]For when peaceful stillness encompassed everything and the night in its swift course was half spent, [15]Your all-powerful word from heaven's royal throne
leapt into the doomed land, [16]a fierce warrior bearing the sharp sword of your inexorable decree,
And alighted, and filled every place with death,
and touched heaven, while standing upon the earth.
[17]Then, at once, visions in horrible dreams perturbed them and unexpected fears assailed them;
[18]And cast half-dead, one here, another there,
they revealed why they were dying.
[19]For the dreams that disturbed them had proclaimed this beforehand, lest they perish unaware of why they endured such evil.

[20]The trial of death touched even the righteous,
and in the desert a plague struck the multitude;
Yet not for long did the anger last.
[21]For the blameless man hastened to be their champion, bearing the weapon of his special office,
prayer and the propitiation of incense;
He withstood the wrath and put a stop to the calamity,
showing that he was your servant.
[22]He overcame the bitterness not by bodily strength, not by force of arms;
But by word he overcame the smiter,
recalling the sworn covenants with their ancestors.
[23]For when corpses had already fallen one on another in heaps,
he stood in the midst and checked the anger,
and cut off its way to the living.
[24]For on his full-length robe was the whole world,
and ancestral glories were carved on the four rows of stones,
and your grandeur was on the crown upon his head.
[25]To these the destroyer yielded, these he feared;
for this sole trial of anger sufficed.

19:1 But merciless wrath assailed the wicked until the end, for God knew beforehand what they were yet to do:
[2]That though they themselves had agreed to the departure and had anxiously sent them on their way,
they would regret it and pursue them.
[3]For while they were still engaged in funeral rites and mourning at the burials of the dead,
They adopted another senseless plan:
those whom they had driven out with entreaties
they now pursued as fugitives.

[4]For a compulsion appropriate to this ending drew them on,
and made them forget what had befallen them,
That they might complete the torments of their punishment,
[5]and your people might experience a glorious journey
while those others met an extraordinary death.

[6]For all creation, in its several kinds, was being made over anew, serving your commands, that your children might be preserved unharmed.
[7]The cloud overshadowed their camp;
and out of what had been water, dry land was seen emerging:
Out of the Red Sea an unimpeded road,
and a grassy plain out of the mighty flood.
[8]Over this crossed the whole nation sheltered by your hand,
and they beheld stupendous wonders.
[9]For they ranged about like horses,
and leapt like lambs,
praising you, LORD, their deliverer.
[10]For they were still mindful of what had happened in their sojourn:
how instead of the young of animals the land brought forth gnats,
and instead of fishes the river swarmed with countless frogs.
[11]And later they saw also a new kind of bird
when, prompted by desire, they asked for pleasant foods;
[12]For to appease them quail came to them from the sea.
[13]And the punishments came upon the sinners not without forewarnings from the violence of the thunderbolts.

For they justly suffered for their own misdeeds,
since they treated their guests with the more grievous hatred.
[14]For those others did not receive unfamiliar visitors,
but these were enslaving beneficent guests.
[15]And not that only; but what punishment was to be theirs
since they received strangers unwillingly!
[16]Yet these, after welcoming them with festivities,
oppressed with awful toils
those who had shared with them the same rights.
[17]And they were struck with blindness,
as those others had been at the doors of the righteous man—
When, surrounded by yawning darkness,
each sought the entrance of his own door.

[18]For the elements, in ever-changing harmony,
like strings of the harp, produce new melody,
while the flow of music steadily persists.
And this can be perceived exactly from a review of what took place.
[19]For land creatures were changed into water creatures,
and those that swam went over on land.
[20]Fire in water maintained its own strength,
and water forgot its quenching nature;
[21]Flames, by contrast, neither consumed the flesh
of the perishable animals that went about in them,

nor melted the icelike, quick-melting kind of ambrosial food.
[22]For every way, LORD! you magnified and glorified your people;
unfailing, you stood by them in every time and circumstance.

16:16 "A little while and you will no longer see me, and again a little while later and you will see me." [17]So some of his disciples said to one another, "What does this mean that he is saying to us, 'A little while and you will not see me, and again a little while and you will see me,' and 'Because I am going to the Father'?" [18]So they said, "What is this 'little while' [of which he speaks]? We do not know what he means." [19]Jesus knew that they wanted to ask him, so he said to them, "Are you discussing with one another what I said, 'A little while and you will not see me, and again a little while and you will see me'? [20]Amen, amen, I say to you, you will weep and mourn, while the world rejoices; you will grieve, but your grief will become joy. [21]When a woman is in labor, she is in anguish because her hour has arrived; but when she has given birth to a child, she no longer remembers the pain because of her joy that a child has been born into the world. [22]So you also are now in anguish. But I will see you again, and your hearts will rejoice, and no one will take your joy away from you. [23]On that day you will not question me about anything. Amen, amen, I say to you, whatever you ask the Father in my name he will give you. [24]Until now you have not asked anything in my name; ask and you will receive, so that your joy may be complete.

[25]"I have told you this in figures of speech. The hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in figures but I will tell you clearly about the Father. [26]On that day you will ask in my name, and I do not tell you that I will ask the Father for you. [27]For the Father himself loves you, because you have loved me and have come to believe that I came from God. [28]I came from the Father and have come into the world. Now I am leaving the world and going back to the Father." [29]His disciples said, "Now you are talking plainly, and not in any figure of speech. [30]Now we realize that you know everything and that you do not need to have anyone question you. Because of this we believe that you came from God." [31]Jesus answered them, "Do you believe now? [32]Behold, the hour is coming and has arrived when each of you will be scattered to his own home and you will leave me alone. But I am not alone, because the Father is with me. [33]I have told you this so that you might have peace in me. In the world you will have trouble, but take courage, I have conquered the world."

☐ SIRACH: FOREWORD-3:29

Inasmuch as many and great truths have been given to us through the Law, the prophets, and the authors who followed them, for which the instruction and wisdom of Israel merit praise, it is the duty of those who read the scriptures not only to become knowledgeable themselves but also to use their love of learning in speech and in writing to help others less familiar. So my grandfather Jesus, who had long devoted himself to the study of the law, the prophets, and the rest of the books of our ancestors, and had acquired great familiarity with them, was moved to write something himself regarding instruction and wisdom. He did this so that those who love learning might, by accepting what he had written, make even greater progress in living according to the Law.

You are invited therefore to read it with good will and attention, with indulgence for any failure on our part, despite earnest efforts, in the interpretation of particular passages. For words spoken originally in Hebrew do not have the same effect when they are translated into another language. That is true not only of this book but of the Law itself, the prophecies, and the rest of the books, which differ no little when they are read in the original.

I arrived in Egypt in the thirty-eighth year of the reign of King Euergetes, and while there, I had access to no little learning. I therefore considered it my duty to devote some diligence and industry to the translation of this book. During this time I applied my skill for many sleepless hours to complete the book and publish it for those living abroad who wish to acquire learning and are disposed to live their lives according to the Law.

God's Gift of Wisdom. 1:1 All wisdom is from the Lord and remains with him forever.
[2]The sands of the sea, the drops of rain,
the days of eternity—who can count them?
[3]Heaven's height, earth's extent,
the abyss and wisdom—who can explore them?
[4]Before all other things wisdom was created and prudent understanding, from eternity.

[6]The root of wisdom—to whom has it been revealed?
Her subtleties—who knows them?
[8]There is but one, wise and truly awesome,
seated upon his throne—the Lord.
[9]It is he who created her,
saw her and measured her,
Poured her forth upon all his works,
[10]upon every living thing according to his bounty,
lavished her upon those who love him.

Fear of the Lord Is Wisdom. [11]The fear of the Lord is glory and exultation, gladness and a festive crown.
[12]The fear of the Lord rejoices the heart,
giving gladness, joy, and long life.
[13]Those who fear the Lord will be happy at the end,
even on the day of death they will be blessed.

[14]The beginning of wisdom is to fear the Lord;
she is created with the faithful in the womb.
[15]With the godly she was created from of old,
and with their descendants she will keep faith.

[16]The fullness of wisdom is to fear the Lord;
she inebriates them with her fruits.
[17]Their entire house she fills with choice foods,
their granaries with her produce.

[18]The crown of wisdom is the fear of the Lord,
flowering with peace and perfect health.
[19]Knowledge and full understanding she rains down;
she heightens the glory of those who possess her.

[20]The root of wisdom is to fear the Lord;
her branches are long life.
[21]The fear of the Lord drives away sins;
where it abides it turns back all anger.

[22]Unjust anger can never be justified;
anger pulls a person to utter ruin.
[23]Until the right time, the patient remain calm,
then cheerfulness comes back to them.
[24]Until the right time they hold back their words;
then the lips of many will tell of their good sense.

[25]Among wisdom's treasures is the model for knowledge;
but godliness is an abomination to the sinner.
[26]If you desire wisdom, keep the commandments,
and the Lord will bestow her upon you;
[27]For the fear of the Lord is wisdom and discipline;
faithfulness and humility are his delight.

[28]Do not disobey the fear of the Lord,
do not approach it with duplicity of heart.
[29]Do not be a hypocrite before others;
over your lips keep watch.
[30]Do not exalt yourself lest you fall
and bring dishonor upon yourself;

For then the Lord will reveal your secrets
and cast you down in the midst of the assembly.
Because you did not approach the fear of the Lord,
and your heart was full of deceit.

Trust in God. 2:1 My child, when you come to serve the Lord,
prepare yourself for trials.
[2]Be sincere of heart and steadfast,
and do not be impetuous in time of adversity.
[3]Cling to him, do not leave him,
that you may prosper in your last days.

[4]Accept whatever happens to you;
in periods of humiliation be patient.
[5]For in fire gold is tested,
and the chosen, in the crucible of humiliation.
[6]Trust in God, and he will help you;
make your ways straight and hope in him.

[7]You that fear the Lord, wait for his mercy,
do not stray lest you fall.
[8]You that fear the Lord, trust in him,
and your reward will not be lost.
[9]You that fear the LORD, hope for good things,
for lasting joy and mercy.

[10]Consider the generations long past and see:
has anyone trusted in the Lord and been disappointed?
Has anyone persevered in his fear and been forsaken?
has anyone called upon him and been ignored?

[11]For the Lord is compassionate and merciful;
forgives sins and saves in time of trouble.

[12]Woe to timid hearts and drooping hands,
to the sinner who walks a double path!
[13]Woe to the faint of heart! For they do not trust, and therefore have no shelter!
[14]Woe to you that have lost hope!
what will you do at the Lord's visitation?

[15]Those who fear the Lord do not disobey his words;
those who love him keep his ways.
[16]Those who fear the Lord seek to please him;
those who love him are filled with his law.
[17]Those who fear the Lord prepare their hearts and humble themselves before him.

[18]Let us fall into the hands of the Lord
and not into the hands of mortals,
For equal to his majesty is his mercy;
and equal to his name are his works.

Responsibilities to Parents. 3:1 Children, listen to me, your father;
act accordingly, that you may be safe.
[2]For the Lord sets a father in honor over his children and confirms a mother's authority over her sons.
[3]Those who honor their father atone for sins;
[4]they store up riches who respect their mother.
[5]Those who honor their father will have joy in their own children,
and when they pray they are heard.
[6]Those who respect their father will live a long life;
those who obey the Lord honor their mother.

[7]Those who fear the Lord honor their father,
and serve their parents as masters.
[8]In word and deed honor your father,
that all blessings may come to you.
[9]A father's blessing gives a person firm roots,
but a mother's curse uproots the growing plant.
[10]Do not glory in your father's disgrace,
for that is no glory to you!
[11]A father's glory is glory also for oneself;
they multiply sin who demean their mother.

[12]My son, be steadfast in honoring your father;
do not grieve him as long as he lives.
[13]Even if his mind fails, be considerate of him;
do not revile him because you are in your prime.
[14]Kindness to a father will not be forgotten;
it will serve as a sin offering—it will take lasting root.
[15]In time of trouble it will be recalled to your advantage,

like warmth upon frost it will melt away your sins.
[16]Those who neglect their father are like blasphemers;
those who provoke their mother are accursed by their Creator.

Humility. [17]My son, conduct your affairs with humility, and you will be loved more than a giver of gifts.
[18]Humble yourself the more, the greater you are,
and you will find mercy in the sight of God.
[20]For great is the power of the Lord;
by the humble he is glorified.
[21]What is too sublime for you, do not seek;
do not reach into things that are hidden from you.
[22]What is committed to you, pay heed to;
what is hidden is not your concern.
[23]In matters that are beyond you do not meddle,
when you have been shown more than you can understand.
[24]Indeed, many are the conceits of human beings;
evil imaginations lead them astray.

Docility. [25]Without the pupil of the eye, light is missing;
without knowledge, wisdom is missing.
[26]A stubborn heart will fare badly in the end;
those who love danger will perish in it.
[27]A stubborn heart will have many a hurt;
adding sin to sin is madness.
[28]When the proud are afflicted, there is no cure;
for they are offshoots of an evil plant.
[29]The mind of the wise appreciates proverbs,
and the ear that listens to wisdom rejoices.

The Prayer of Jesus. 17:1 When Jesus had said this, he raised his eyes to heaven and said, "Father, the hour has come. Give glory to your son, so that your son may glorify you, [2]just as you gave him authority over all people, so that he may give eternal life to all you gave him. [3]Now this is eternal life, that they should know you, the only true God, and the one whom you sent, Jesus Christ. [4]I glorified you on earth by accomplishing the work that you gave me to do. [5]Now glorify me, Father, with you, with the glory that I had with you before the world began.

[6]"I revealed your name to those whom you gave me out of the world. They belonged to you, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. [7]Now they know that everything you gave me is from you, [8]because the words you gave to me I have given to them, and they accepted them and truly understood that I came from you, and they have believed that you sent me. [9]I pray for them. I do not pray for the world but for the ones you have given me, because they are yours, [10]and everything of mine is yours and everything of yours is mine, and I have been glorified in them. [11]And now I will no longer be in the world, but they are in the world, while I am coming to you. Holy Father, keep them in your name that you have given me, so that they may be one just as we are. [12]When I was with them I protected them in your name that you gave me, and I guarded them, and none of them was lost except the son of destruction, in order that the scripture might be fulfilled. [13]But now I am coming to you. I speak this in the world so that they may share my joy completely. [14]I gave them your word, and the world hated them, because they do not belong to the world any more than I belong to the world. [15]I do not ask that you take them out of the world but that you keep them from the evil one. [16]They do not belong to the world any more than I belong to the world. [17]Consecrate them in the truth. Your word is truth. [18]As you sent me into the world, so I sent them into the world. [19]And I consecrate myself for them, so that they also may be consecrated in truth."

St. John Eudes

> Sin is a cruel murder, a frightful act of God-murder, a ghastly annihilation of all things. It is murder because it is the only cause of death, both of the body and of the soul of man. It is God-murder because sin and the sinner caused Christ to die on the cross, and the sinner continues this crucifixion of Jesus, day by day, within himself.

☐ SIRACH 3:30-6:37

Alms for the Poor. 3:30 As water quenches a flaming fire,
so almsgiving atones for sins.
[31]The kindness people have done crosses their paths later on;
should they stumble, they will find support.

4:1 My child, do not mock the life of the poor;
do not keep needy eyes waiting.
[2]Do not grieve the hungry,
nor anger the needy.
[3]Do not aggravate a heart already angry,
nor delay giving to the needy.
[4]A beggar's request do not reject;
do not turn your face away from the poor.
[5]From the needy do not turn your eyes;
do not give them reason to curse you.
[6]If in their pain they cry out bitterly,
their Rock will hear the sound of their cry.

Social Conduct. [7]Endear yourself to the assembly;
before the city's ruler bow your head.
[8]Give a hearing to the poor,
and return their greeting with deference;
[9]Deliver the oppressed from their oppressors;
right judgment should not be repugnant to you.
[10]Be like a father to orphans,
and take the place of a husband to widows.
Then God will call you his child,
and he will be merciful to you and deliver you from the pit.

The Rewards of Wisdom. [11]Wisdom teaches her children and admonishes all who can understand her.
[12]Those who love her love life;
those who seek her out win the LORD's favor.

[13]Those who hold her fast will attain glory,
and they shall abide in the blessing of the LORD.
[14]Those who serve her serve the Holy One;
those who love her the Lord loves.

[15]"Whoever obeys me will judge nations;
whoever listens to me will dwell in my inmost chambers.
[16]If they remain faithful, they will possess me;
their descendants too will inherit me.

[17]"I will walk with them in disguise,
and at first I will test them with trials.
Fear and dread I will bring upon them
and I will discipline them with my constraints.
When their hearts are fully with me,
[18]then I will set them again on the straight path
and reveal my secrets to them.
[19]But if they turn away from me, I will abandon them
and deliver them over to robbers."

Sincerity and Justice. [20]My son, watch for the right time; fear what is evil;
do not bring shame upon yourself.
[21]There is a shame heavy with guilt,
and a shame that brings glory and respect.
[22]Show no favoritism to your own discredit;
let no one intimidate you to your own downfall.
[23]Do not refrain from speaking at the proper time,
and do not hide your wisdom;
[24]For wisdom becomes known through speech,
and knowledge through the tongue's response.

[25]Never speak against the truth,
but of your own ignorance be ashamed.
[26]Do not be ashamed to acknowledge your sins,
and do not struggle against a rushing stream.
[27]Do not abase yourself before a fool;
do not refuse to do so before rulers.
[28]Even to the death, fight for what is right, and the LORD will do battle for you.

[29]Do not be haughty in your speech,
or lazy and slack in your deeds.
[30]Do not be like a lion at home,
or sly and suspicious with your servants.
[31]Do not let your hand be open to receive,
but clenched when it is time to give.

Against Presumption. 5:1 Do not rely on your wealth,
or say, "I have the power."
[2]Do not rely on your strength
in following the desires of your heart.

[3]Do not say, "Who can prevail against me?"
for the LORD will exact punishment.
[4]Do not say, "I have sinned, yet what has happened to me?"
for the LORD is slow to anger!
[5]Do not be so confident of forgiveness
that you add sin upon sin.
[6]Do not say, "His mercy is great;
my many sins he will forgive."
For mercy and anger alike are with him;
his wrath comes to rest on the wicked.
[7]Do not delay turning back to the LORD,
do not put it off day after day.
For suddenly his wrath will come forth;
at the time of vengeance, you will perish.
[8]Do not rely on deceitful wealth,
for it will be no help on the day of wrath.

Use and Abuse of the Tongue. [9]Do not winnow in every wind,
nor walk in every path.
[10]Be steadfast regarding your knowledge,
and let your speech be consistent.
[11]Be swift to hear,
but slow to answer.
[12]If you can, answer your neighbor;
if not, place your hand over your mouth!
[13]Honor and dishonor through speaking!
The tongue can be your downfall.
[14]Do not be called double-tongued;
and with your tongue do not slander a neighbor.
For shame has been created for the thief,
and sore disgrace for the double-tongued.
[15]In little or in much, do not act corruptly;

6:1 Do not be a foe instead of a friend.
A bad name, disgrace, and dishonor you will inherit.
Thus the wicked, the double-tongued!

Unruly Passions. [2]Do not fall into the grip of your passion,
lest like fire it consume your strength.
[3]It will eat your leaves and destroy your fruits,
and you will be left like a dry tree.
[4]For fierce passion destroys its owner
and makes him the sport of his enemies.

True Friendship. [5]Pleasant speech multiplies friends,
and gracious lips, friendly greetings.
[6]Let those who are friendly to you be many,
but one in a thousand your confidant.
[7]When you gain friends, gain them through testing,
and do not be quick to trust them.
[8]For there are friends when it suits them,

but they will not be around in time of trouble.
[9]Another is a friend who turns into an enemy,
and tells of the quarrel to your disgrace.
[10]Others are friends, table companions,
but they cannot be found in time of affliction.
[11]When things go well, they are your other self,
and lord it over your servants.
[12]If disaster comes upon you, they turn against you and hide themselves.
[13]Stay away from your enemies,
and be on guard with your friends.
[14]Faithful friends are a sturdy shelter;
whoever finds one finds a treasure.
[15]Faithful friends are beyond price,
no amount can balance their worth.
[16]Faithful friends are life-saving medicine;
those who fear God will find them.
[17]Those who fear the Lord enjoy stable friendship, for as they are, so will their neighbors be.

Blessings of Wisdom. [18]My child, from your youth choose discipline;
and when you have gray hair you will find wisdom.
[19]As though plowing and sowing, draw close to her;
then wait for her bountiful crops.
For in cultivating her you will work but little,
and soon you will eat her fruit.

[20]She is rough ground to the fool!
The stupid cannot abide her.
[21]She will be like a burdensome stone to them,
and they will not delay in casting her aside.
[22]For discipline is like her name,
she is not accessible to many.

[23]Listen, my child, and take my advice;
do not refuse my counsel.
[24]Put your feet into her fetters,
and your neck under her yoke.
[25]Bend your shoulders and carry her
and do not be irked at her bonds.

[26]With all your soul draw close to her;
and with all your strength keep her ways.
[27]Inquire and search, seek and find;
when you get hold of her, do not let her go.
[28]Thus at last you will find rest in her,
and she will become your joy.

[29]Her fetters will be a place of strength;
her snare, a robe of spun gold.
[30]Her yoke will be a gold ornament;

her bonds, a purple cord.
[31]You will wear her as a robe of glory,
and bear her as a splendid crown.

[32]If you wish, my son, you can be wise;
if you apply yourself, you can be shrewd.
[33]If you are willing to listen, you can learn;
if you pay attention, you can be instructed.

[34]Stand in the company of the elders;
stay close to whoever is wise.
[35]Be eager to hear every discourse;
let no insightful saying escape you.
[36]If you see the intelligent, seek them out;
let your feet wear away their doorsteps!

[37]Reflect on the law of the Most High,
and let his commandments be your constant study.
Then he will enlighten your mind,
and make you wise as you desire.

☐ JOHN 17:20-26

17:20 "I pray not only for them, but also for those who will believe in me through their word, [21]so that they may all be one, as you, Father, are in me and I in you, that they also may be in us, that the world may believe that you sent me. [22]And I have given them the glory you gave me, so that they may be one, as we are one, [23]I in them and you in me, that they may be brought to perfection as one, that the world may know that you sent me, and that you loved them even as you loved me. [24]Father, they are your gift to me. I wish that where I am they also may be with me, that they may see my glory that you gave me, because you loved me before the foundation of the world. [25]Righteous Father, the world also does not know you, but I know you, and they know that you sent me. [26]I made known to them your name and I will make it known, that the love with which you loved me may be in them and I in them."

St. Bernard of Clairvaux

> The saints have no need of honor from us; neither does our devotion add the slightest thing to what is theirs. Clearly, if we venerate their memory, it serves us, not them. But I tell you, when I think of them, I feel myself inflamed by tremendous yearning.

☐ SIRACH 7-10

Conduct Toward God and Neighbor. 7:1 Do no evil, and evil will not overtake you;
[2]avoid wickedness, and it will turn away from you.
[3]Do not sow in the furrows of injustice,
lest you harvest it sevenfold.
[4]Do not seek from God authority or from the king a place of honor.

[5]Do not parade your righteousness before the LORD,
and before the king do not flaunt your wisdom.
[6]Do not seek to become a judge
if you do not have the strength to root out crime, Lest you show fear in the presence of the prominent and mar your integrity.
[7]Do not be guilty of any evil before the city court or disgrace yourself before the assembly.
[8]Do not plot to repeat a sin;
even for one, you will not go unpunished.
[9]Do not say, "He will appreciate my many gifts;
the Most High God will accept my offerings." [10]Do not be impatient in prayer or neglect almsgiving.
[11]Do not ridicule the embittered;
Remember: there is One who exalts and humbles.
[12]Do not plot mischief against your relative or against your friend and companion.
[13]Refuse to tell lie after lie,
for it never results in good.
[14]Do not babble in the assembly of the elders or repeat the words of your prayer.
[15]Do not hate hard work;
work was assigned by God.
[16]Do not esteem yourself more than your compatriots;
remember, his wrath will not delay.
[17]More and more, humble your pride;
what awaits mortals is worms.

Duties of Family Life, Religion and Charity. [18]Do not barter a friend for money, or a true brother for the gold of Ophir.
[19]Do not reject a sensible wife;
a gracious wife is more precious than pearls.
[20]Do not mistreat a servant who works faithfully,
or laborers who devote themselves to their task.
[21]Love wise servants as yourself;
do not refuse them freedom.

[22]Do you have livestock? Look after them;
if they are dependable, keep them.
[23]Do you have sons? Correct them and cure their stubbornness in their early youth.
[24]Do you have daughters? Keep them chaste, and do not be indulgent to them.
[25]Give your daughter in marriage, and a worry comes to an end;
but give her to a sensible man.
[26]Do you have a wife? Do not mistreat her,
but do not trust the wife you hate.

[27]With your whole heart honor your father;

your mother's birth pangs do not forget.
[28]Remember, of these parents you were born;
what can you give them for all they gave you?

[29]With all your soul fear God
and revere his priests.
[30]With all your strength love your Maker
and do not neglect his ministers.
[31]Honor God and respect the priest;
give him his portion as you have been commanded:
First fruits and contributions,
his portion of victims and holy offerings.

[32]To the poor also extend your hand,
that your blessing may be complete.
[33]Give your gift to all the living,
and do not withhold your kindness from the dead.
[34]Do not avoid those who weep,
but mourn with those who mourn.
[35]Do not hesitate to visit the sick,
because for such things you will be loved.

[36]In whatever you do, remember your last days,
and you will never sin.

Prudence in Dealing with Others. 8:1 Do not contend with the mighty, lest you fall into their power.
[2]Do not quarrel with the rich,
lest they pay out the price of your downfall.
For gold has unsettled many,
and wealth perverts the character of princes.

[3]Do not quarrel with loud-mouths,
or heap wood upon their fire.
[4]Do not associate with the senseless,
lest your ancestors be insulted.

[5]Do not reproach one who turns away from sin;
remember, we all are guilty.
[6]Do not insult one who is old,
for some of us will also grow old.
[7]Do not rejoice when someone dies;
remember, we are all to be gathered in.

[8]Do not neglect the discourse of the wise,
but busy yourself with their proverbs;
For in this way you will acquire the training
to stand in the presence of princes.
[9]Do not reject the tradition of the elders
which they have heard from their ancestors;
For from it you will learn how to answer when the need arises.

10 Do not kindle the coals of sinners,
lest you be burned in their flaming fire.
11 Do not give ground before scoundrels;
it will set them in ambush against you.
12 Do not lend to one more powerful than yourself;
or if you lend, count it as lost.
13 Do not give collateral beyond your means;
consider any collateral a debt you must pay.

14 Do not go to court against a judge,
for the case will be settled in his favor.
15 Do not travel with the ruthless lest they weigh you down with calamity;
For they will only go their own way,
and through their folly you will also perish.
16 Do not defy the quick-tempered,
or ride with them through the desert.
For bloodshed is nothing to them;
when there is no one to help, they will destroy you.

17 Do not take counsel with simpletons,
for they cannot keep a confidence.
18 Before a stranger do nothing that should be kept secret, for you do not know what it will produce later on.
19 Open your heart to no one,
do not banish your happiness.

Advice Concerning Women. 9:1 Do not be jealous of the wife of your bosom, lest you teach her to do evil against you.
2 Do not give a woman power over you to trample on your dignity.
3 Do not go near a strange woman,
lest you fall into her snares.
4 Do not dally with a singer,
lest you be captivated by her charms.
5 Do not entertain any thoughts about a virgin,
lest you be enmeshed in damages for her.
6 Do not give yourself to a prostitute
lest you lose your inheritance.
7 Do not look around the streets of the city or wander through its squares.
8 Avert your eyes from a shapely woman;
do not gaze upon beauty that is not yours;
Through woman's beauty many have been ruined,
for love of it burns like fire.
9 Never recline at table with a married woman,
or drink intoxicants with her,
Lest your heart be drawn to her
and you go down in blood to the grave.

Choice of Friends. [10]Do not abandon old friends;
new ones cannot equal them.
A new friend is like new wine—
when it has aged, you drink it with pleasure.
[11]Do not envy the wicked
for you do not know when their day will come.
[12]Do not delight in the pleasures of the ungodly;
remember, they will not die unpunished.

[13]Keep away from those who have power to kill,
and you will not be filled with the dread of death.
But if you come near them, do not offend them,
lest they take away your life.
Know that you are stepping among snares
and walking over a net.

[14]As best you can, answer your neighbor,
and associate with the wise.
[15]With the learned exchange ideas;
and let all your conversation be about the law of the Most High.
[16]Take the righteous for your table companions;
and let your glory be in the fear of God.

Concerning Rulers. [17]Work by skilled hands will earn praise;
but the people's leader is proved wise by his words.
[18]Loud mouths are feared in their city,
and whoever is reckless in speech is hated.

10:1 A wise magistrate gives stability to his people,
and government by the intelligent is well ordered.
[2]As the people's judge, so the officials;
as the head of a city, so the inhabitants.
[3]A reckless king destroys his people,
but a city grows through the intelligence of its princes.
[4]Sovereignty over the earth is in the hand of God,
who appoints the right person for the right time.
[5]Sovereignty over everyone is in the hand of God,
who imparts his majesty to the ruler.

The Sin of Pride. [6]No matter what the wrong, never harm your neighbor or go the way of arrogance.
[7]Odious to the Lord and to mortals is pride,
and for both oppression is a crime.
[8]Sovereignty is transferred from one people to another because of the lawlessness of the proud.
[9]Why are dust and ashes proud?
Even during life the body decays.
[10]A slight illness—the doctor jests;
a king today—tomorrow he is dead.
[11]When a people die,
they inherit corruption and worms, gnats and maggots.

[12]The beginning of pride is stubbornness
in withdrawing the heart from one's Maker.
[13]For sin is a reservoir of insolence,
a source which runs over with vice;
Because of it God sends unheard-of afflictions
and strikes people with utter ruin.
[14]God overturns the thrones of the proud and enthrones the lowly in their place.
[15]God plucks up the roots of the proud,
and plants the lowly in their place.
[16]The Lord lays waste the lands of the nations,
and destroys them to the very foundations of the earth.
[17]He removes them from the earth, destroying them,
erasing their memory from the world.
[18]Insolence does not befit mortals,
nor impudent anger those born of women.

True Glory. [19]Whose offspring can be honorable? Human offspring.
Those who fear the LORD are honorable offspring.
Whose offspring can be disgraceful? Human offspring.
Those who transgress the commandment are disgraceful offspring.
[20]Among relatives their leader is honored;
but whoever fears God is honored among God's people.
[22]Resident alien, stranger, foreigner, pauper—
their glory is the fear of the LORD.
[23]It is not right to despise anyone wise but poor,
nor proper to honor the lawless.

[24]The prince, the ruler, the judge are in honor;
but none is greater than the one who fears God.
[25]When the free serve a wise slave,
the wise will not complain.
[26]Do not flaunt your wisdom in managing your affairs,
or boast in your time of need.
[27]Better the worker who has goods in plenty than the boaster who has no food.

[28]My son, with humility have self-esteem;
and give yourself the esteem you deserve.
[29]Who will acquit those who condemn themselves?
Who will honor those who disgrace themselves?

[30]The poor are honored for their wisdom;
the rich are honored for their wealth.
[31]Honored in poverty, how much more so in wealth!
Disgraced in wealth, in poverty how much the more!

☐ JOHN 18:1-27

Jesus Arrested. 18:1 When he had said this, Jesus went out with his disciples across the Kidron valley to where there was a garden, into which he and his disciples entered. [2]Judas his betrayer also knew the place, because Jesus had often met there with his disciples. [3]So Judas got a band of soldiers and guards from the chief priests and the Pharisees and went there with lanterns, torches, and weapons. [4]Jesus, knowing everything that was going to happen to him, went out and said to them, "Whom are you looking for?" [5]They answered him, "Jesus the Nazorean." He said to them, "I AM." Judas his betrayer was also with them. [6]When he said to them, "I AM," they turned away and fell to the ground. [7]So he again asked them, "Whom are you looking for?" They said, "Jesus the Nazorean." [8]Jesus answered, "I told you that I AM. So if you are looking for me, let these men go." [9]This was to fulfill what he had said, "I have not lost any of those you gave me." [10]Then Simon Peter, who had a sword, drew it, struck the high priest's slave, and cut off his right ear. The slave's name was Malchus. [11]Jesus said to Peter, "Put your sword into its scabbard. Shall I not drink the cup that the Father gave me?"

[12]So the band of soldiers, the tribune, and the Jewish guards seized Jesus, bound him, [13]and brought him to Annas first. He was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was high priest that year. [14]It was Caiaphas who had counseled the Jews that it was better that one man should die rather than the people.

Peter's First Denial. [15]Simon Peter and another disciple followed Jesus. Now the other disciple was known to the high priest, and he entered the courtyard of the high priest with Jesus. [16]But Peter stood at the gate outside. So the other disciple, the acquaintance of the high priest, went out and spoke to the gatekeeper and brought Peter in. [17]Then the maid who was the gatekeeper said to Peter, "You are not one of this man's disciples, are you?" He said, "I am not." [18]Now the slaves and the guards were standing around a charcoal fire that they had made, because it was cold, and were warming themselves. Peter was also standing there keeping warm.

The Inquiry before Annas. [19]The high priest questioned Jesus about his disciples and about his doctrine. [20]Jesus answered him, "I have spoken publicly to the world. I have always taught in a synagogue or in the temple area where all the Jews gather, and in secret I have said nothing. [21]Why ask me? Ask those who heard me what I said to them. They know what I said." [22]When he had said this, one of the temple guards standing there struck Jesus and said, "Is this the way you answer the high priest?" [23]Jesus answered him, "If I have spoken wrongly, testify to the wrong; but if I have spoken rightly, why do you strike me?" [24]Then Annas sent him bound to Caiaphas the high priest.

Peter Denies Jesus Again. [25]Now Simon Peter was standing there keeping warm. And they said to him, "You are not one of his disciples, are you?" He denied it and said, "I am not." [26]One of the slaves of the high priest, a relative of the one whose ear Peter had cut off, said, "Didn't I see you in the garden with him?" [27]Again Peter denied it. And immediately the cock crowed.

Pope St. Pius X

> Holy Communion is the shortest and safest way to heaven. There are others: innocence, but that is for little children; penance, but we are afraid of it; generous endurance for the trials of life, but when they come we weep and ask to be spared. The surest, easiest, shortest way is the Eucharist.

☐ SIRACH 11-14:2

11:1 The wisdom of the poor lifts their head high and sets them among princes.
[2]Do not praise anyone for good looks;
or despise anyone because of appearance.

[3]The bee is least among winged creatures,
but it reaps the choicest of harvests.

[4]Do not mock the one who wears only a loin-cloth,
or scoff at a person's bitter day.
For strange are the deeds of the LORD,
hidden from mortals his work.
[5]Many are the oppressed who rise to the throne;
some that none would consider wear a crown.
[6]Many are the exalted who fall into utter disgrace, many the honored who are given into the power of the few.

Moderation and Patience. [7]Before investigating, do not find fault;
examine first, then criticize.
[8]Before listening, do not say a word,
interrupt no one in the midst of speaking.
[9]Do not dispute about what is not your concern;
in the quarrels of the arrogant do not take part.

[10]My son, why increase your anxiety,
since whoever is greedy for wealth will not be blameless?
Even if you chase after it, you will never overtake it;
and by fleeing you will not escape.
[11]One may work and struggle and drive,
and fall short all the same.
[12]Others go their way broken-down drifters,
with little strength and great misery—
Yet the eye of the LORD looks favorably upon them,
shaking them free of the stinking mire.
[13]He lifts up their heads and exalts them to the amazement of the many.

[14]Good and evil, life and death,
poverty and riches—all are from the LORD.
[17]The Lord's gift remains with the devout;
his favor brings lasting success.
[18]Some become rich through a miser's life,
and this is their allotted reward:
[19]When they say: "I have found rest,
now I will feast on my goods,"
They do not know how long it will be till they die and leave them to others.

[20]My child, stand by your agreement and attend to it, grow old while doing your work.
[21]Do not marvel at the works of a sinner,
but trust in the LORD and wait for his light;
For it is easy in the eyes of the LORD
suddenly, in an instant, to make the poor rich.

[22]God's blessing is the lot of the righteous,
and in due time their hope bears fruit.
[23]Do not say: "What do I need?
What further benefits can be mine?"

[24]Do not say: "I am self-sufficient.
What harm can come to me now?"
[25]The day of prosperity makes one forget adversity;
the day of adversity makes one forget prosperity.

[26]For it is easy for the Lord on the day of death
to repay mortals according to their conduct.
[27]A time of affliction brings forgetfulness of past delights;
at the end of life one's deeds are revealed.
[28]Call none happy before death,
for how they end, they are known.

Care in Choosing Friends. [29]Not everyone should be brought into your house,
for many are the snares of the crafty.
[30]Like a decoy partridge in a cage, so is the heart of the proud, and like a spy they will pick out the weak spots.
[31]For they lie in wait to turn good into evil,
and to praiseworthy deeds they attach blame.
[32]One spark kindles many coals;
a sinner lies in wait for blood.
[33]Beware of scoundrels, for they breed only evil,
and they may give you a lasting stain.
[34]Admit strangers into your home, and they will stir up trouble and make you a stranger to your own family.

12:1 If you do good, know for whom you are doing it,
and your kindness will have its effect.
[2]Do good to the righteous and reward will be yours,
if not from them, from the LORD.
[3]No good comes to those who give comfort to the wicked,
nor is it an act of mercy that they do.
[4]Give to the good but refuse the sinner;
[5]refresh the downtrodden but give nothing to the proud.
No arms for combat should you give them,
lest they use these against you;
Twofold evil you will obtain for every good deed you do for them.
[6]For God also hates sinners,
and takes vengeance on evildoers.

[8]In prosperity we cannot know our friends;
in adversity an enemy will not remain concealed.
[9]When one is successful even an enemy is friendly;
but in adversity even a friend disappears.
[10]Never trust your enemies,
for their wickedness is like corrosion in bronze.
[11]Even though they act deferentially and peaceably toward you,
take care to be on your guard against them.
Treat them as those who reveal secrets,
and be certain that in the end there will still be envy.
[12]Do not let them stand near you,
lest they push you aside and take your place.

Do not let them sit at your right hand,
or they will demand your seat,
And in the end you will appreciate my advice,
when you groan with regret, as I warned.

13 Who pities a snake charmer when he is bitten,
or anyone who goes near a wild beast?
14 So it is with the companion of the proud,
who is involved in their sins:
15 While you stand firm, they make no move;
but if you slip, they cannot hold back.
16 With their lips enemies speak sweetly,
but in their heart they scheme to plunge you into the abyss.
Though enemies have tears in their eyes,
given the chance, they will never have enough of your blood.
17 If evil comes upon you, you will find them at hand;
pretending to help, they will trip you up, 18 Then they will shake their heads and clap their hands and hiss repeatedly, and show their true faces.

Caution Regarding Associates. 13:1 Touch pitch and you blacken your hand;
associate with scoundrels and you learn their ways.
2 Do not lift a weight too heavy for you,
or associate with anyone wealthier than you.
How can the clay pot go with the metal cauldron?
When they knock together, the pot will be smashed:
3 The rich do wrong and boast of it,
while the poor are wronged and beg forgiveness.
4 As long as the rich can use you they will enslave you,
but when you are down and out they will abandon you.
5 As long as you have anything they will live with you,
but they will drain you dry without remorse.
6 When they need you they will deceive you and smile at you and raise your hopes;
they will speak kindly to you and say, “What do you need?”
7 They will embarrass you at their dinner parties,
and finally laugh at you.
Afterwards, when they see you, they will pass you by,
and shake their heads at you.
8 Be on guard: do not act too boldly;
do not be like those who lack sense.

9 When the influential draw near, keep your distance;
then they will urge you all the more.
10 Do not draw too close, lest you be rebuffed,
but do not keep too far away lest you be regarded as an enemy.
11 Do not venture to be free with them,
do not trust their many words;
For by prolonged talk they will test you,
and though smiling they will probe you.
12 Mercilessly they will make you a laughingstock,

and will not refrain from injury or chains.
[13]Be on your guard and take care
never to accompany lawless people.

[15]Every living thing loves its own kind,
and we all love someone like ourselves.
[16]Every living being keeps close to its own kind;
and people associate with their own kind.
[17]Is a wolf ever allied with a lamb?
So the sinner with the righteous.
[18]Can there be peace between the hyena and the dog?
Or peace between the rich and the poor?
[19]Wild donkeys of the desert are lion's prey;
likewise the poor are feeding grounds for the rich.
[20]Humility is an abomination to the proud;
and the poor are an abomination to the rich.
[21]When the rich stumble they are supported by friends;
when the poor trip they are pushed down by friends.
[22]When the rich speak they have many supporters;
though what they say is repugnant, it wins approval.
When the poor speak people say, "Come, come, speak up!"
though they are talking sense, they get no hearing.
[23]When the rich speak all are silent,
their wisdom people extol to the clouds.
When the poor speak people say: "Who is that?"
If they stumble, people knock them down.

[24]Wealth is good where there is no sin;
but poverty is evil by the standards of the proud.
[25]The heart changes one's face,
either for good or for evil.
[26]The sign of a good heart is a radiant face;
withdrawn and perplexed is the toiling schemer.

14:1 Happy those whose mouth causes them no grief,
those who are not stung by remorse for sin.
[2]Happy are those whose conscience does not reproach them,
those who have not lost hope.

The Trial before Pilate. 18:28 Then they brought Jesus from Caiaphas to the praetorium. It was morning. And they themselves did not enter the praetorium, in order not to be defiled so that they could eat the Passover. [29]So Pilate came out to them and said, "What charge do you bring [against] this man?" [30]They answered and said to him, "If he were not a criminal, we would not have handed him over to you." [31]At this, Pilate said to them, "Take him yourselves, and judge him according to your law." The Jews answered him, "We do not have the right to execute anyone," [32]in order that the word of Jesus might be fulfilled that he said indicating the kind of death he would die. [33]So Pilate went back into the praetorium and summoned Jesus and said to him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” [34]Jesus answered, “Do you say this on your own or have others told you about me?” [35]Pilate answered, “I am not a Jew, am I? Your own nation and the chief priests handed you over to me. What have you done?” [36]Jesus answered, “My kingdom does not belong to this world. If my kingdom did belong to this world, my attendants [would] be fighting to keep me from being handed over to the Jews. But as it is, my kingdom is not here.” [37]So Pilate said to him, “Then you are a king?” Jesus answered, “You say I am a king. For this I was born and for this I came into the world, to testify to the truth. Everyone who belongs to the truth listens to my voice.” [38]Pilate said to him, “What is truth?”

When he had said this, he again went out to the Jews and said to them, “I find no guilt in him. [39]But you have a custom that I release one prisoner to you at Passover. Do you want me to release to you the King of the Jews?” [40]They cried out again, “Not this one but Barabbas!” Now Barabbas was a revolutionary.

19:1 Then Pilate took Jesus and had him scourged. [2]And the soldiers wove a crown out of thorns and placed it on his head, and clothed him in a purple cloak, [3]and they came to him and said, “Hail, King of the Jews!” And they struck him repeatedly. [4]Once more Pilate went out and said to them, “Look, I am bringing him out to you, so that you may know that I find no guilt in him.” [5]So Jesus came out, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple cloak. And he said to them, “Behold, the man!” [6]When the chief priests and the guards saw him they cried out, “Crucify him, crucify him!” Pilate said to them, “Take him yourselves and crucify him. I find no guilt in him.” [7]The Jews answered, “We have a law, and according to that law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.” [8]Now when Pilate heard this statement, he became even more afraid, [9]and went back into the praetorium and said to Jesus, “Where are you from?” Jesus did not answer him. [10]So Pilate said to him, “Do you not speak to me? Do you not know that I have power to release you and I have power to crucify you?” [11]Jesus answered [him], “You would have no power over me if it had not been given to you from above. For this reason the one who handed me over to you has the greater sin.” [12]Consequently, Pilate tried to release him; but the Jews cried out, “If you release him, you are not a Friend of Caesar. Everyone who makes himself a king opposes Caesar.”

[13]When Pilate heard these words he brought Jesus out and seated him on the judge’s bench in the place called Stone Pavement, in Hebrew, Gabbatha. [14]It was preparation day for Passover, and it was about noon. And he said to the Jews, “Behold, your king!” [15]They cried out, “Take him away, take him away! Crucify him!” Pilate said to them, “Shall I crucify your king?” The chief priests answered, “We have no king but Caesar.” [16]Then he handed him over to them to be crucified.

The Queenship of Mary

> No one has access to the Almighty as His mother has; none has merit such as hers. Her Son will deny her nothing that she asks; and herein lies her power. While she defends the Church, neither height nor depth, neither men nor evil spirits, neither great monarchs, nor craft of man, nor popular violence, can avail to harm us; for human life is short, but Mary reigns above, a Queen forever.

☐ SIRACH 14:3-18:33

The Use of Wealth. 14:3 Wealth is not appropriate for the mean-spirited;
to misers, what use is gold?
[4]What they deny themselves they collect for someone else,
and strangers will live sumptuously on their possessions.
[5]To whom will they be generous that are stingy with themselves and do not enjoy what is their own?
[6]None are worse than those who are stingy with themselves;

they punish their own avarice.
[7]If ever they do good, it is by mistake;
in the end they reveal their meanness.
[8]Misers are evil people,
they turn away and disregard others.
[9]The greedy see their share as not enough;
greedy injustice dries up the soul.
[10]The eye of the miserly is rapacious for food,
but there is none of it on their own table.

[11]My son, if you have the means, treat yourself well,
and enjoy life as best you can.
[12]Remember that death does not delay,
and you have not been told the grave's appointed time.
[13]Before you die, be good to your friends;
give them a share in what you possess.
[14]Do not deprive yourself of good things now or let a choice portion escape you.
[15]Will you not leave your riches to others,
and your earnings to be divided by lot?
[16]Give and take, treat yourself well,
for in Sheol there are no joys to seek.
[17]All flesh grows old like a garment;
the age-old law is: everyone must die.
[18]As with the leaves growing on a luxuriant tree—
one falls off and another sprouts—
So with the generations of flesh and blood:
one dies and another flourishes.
[19]All human deeds surely perish;
the works they do follow after them.

The Search for Wisdom and Her Blessings. [20]Happy those who meditate on Wisdom, and fix their gaze on knowledge; [21]Who ponder her ways in their heart,
and understand her paths;
[22]Who pursue her like a scout,
and watch at her entry way;
[23]Who peep through her windows,
and listen at her doors;
[24]Who encamp near her house
and fasten their tent pegs next to her walls; [25]Who pitch their tent beside her,
and dwell in a good place;
[26]Who build their nest in her leaves,
and lodge in her branches;
[27]Who take refuge from the heat in her shade
and dwell in her home.

15:1 Whoever fears the LORD will do this;
whoever is practiced in the Law will come to Wisdom.
[2]She will meet him like a mother;

like a young bride she will receive him,
[3]She will feed him with the bread of learning,
and give him the water of understanding to drink.
[4]He will lean upon her and not fall;
he will trust in her and not be put to shame.
[5]She will exalt him above his neighbors,
and in the assembly she will make him eloquent.
[6]Joy and gladness he will find,
and an everlasting name he will inherit.
[7]The worthless will not attain her,
and the haughty will not behold her.
[8]She is far from the impious;
liars never think of her.
[9]Praise is unseemly on the lips of sinners,
for it has not been allotted to them by God.
[10]But praise is uttered by the mouth of the wise,
and its rightful owner teaches it.

Free Will. [11]Do not say: "It was God's doing that I fell away,"
for what he hates he does not do.
[12]Do not say: "He himself has led me astray,"
for he has no need of the wicked.
[13]Abominable wickedness the LORD hates
and he does not let it happen to those who fear him.

[14]God in the beginning created human beings
and made them subject to their own free choice.
[15]If you choose, you can keep the commandments;
loyalty is doing the will of God.
[16]Set before you are fire and water;
to whatever you choose, stretch out your hand.
[17]Before everyone are life and death,
whichever they choose will be given them.

[18]Immense is the wisdom of the LORD;
mighty in power, he sees all things.
[19]The eyes of God behold his works,
and he understands every human deed.
[20]He never commands anyone to sin,
nor shows leniency toward deceivers.

God's Punishment of Sinners. 16:1 Do not yearn for worthless children, or rejoice in wicked offspring.
[2]Even if they be many, do not rejoice in them
if they do not have fear of the LORD.
[3]Do not count on long life for them,
or have any hope for their future.
For one can be better than a thousand;
rather die childless than have impious children!
[4]Through one wise person a city can be peopled;
but through a clan of rebels it becomes desolate.

[5]Many such things my eye has seen,
and even more than these my ear has heard.
[6]Against a sinful band fire is kindled,
upon a godless people wrath blazes.
[7]He did not forgive the princes of old who rebelled long ago in their might.
[8]He did not spare the neighbors of Lot,
abominable in their pride.
[9]He did not spare the doomed people,
dispossessed because of their sin;
[10]Nor the six hundred thousand foot soldiers,
sent to their graves for the arrogance of their hearts.
[11]Had there been but one stiff-necked person,
it would be a wonder had he gone unpunished.
For mercy and anger alike are with him;
he remits and forgives, but also pours out wrath.
[12]Great as his mercy is his punishment;
he judges people, each according to their deeds.
[13]Criminals do not escape with their plunder;
the hope of the righteous, God never leaves unfulfilled.
[14]Whoever does good has a reward;
each receives according to their deeds.

[17]Do not say: "I am hidden from God;
and on high who remembers me?
Among so many people I am unknown;
what am I in the world of spirits?
[18]Look, the heavens and the highest heavens,
the abyss and the earth tremble at his visitation.
[19]The roots of the mountains and the earth's foundations—at his mere glance they quiver and quake.
[20]Of me, therefore, he will take no notice;
with my ways who will be concerned?
[21]If I sin, no eye will see me;
if all in secret I act deceitfully, who is to know?
[22]Who tells him about just deeds?
What can I expect for doing my duty?"
[23]Such the thoughts of the senseless;
only the foolish entertain them.

Divine Wisdom Seen in Creation. [24]Listen to me, my son, and take my advice,
and apply your mind to my words, [25]While I pour out my spirit by measure and impart knowledge with care.
[26]When at the first God created his works
and, as he made them, assigned their tasks, [27]He arranged for all time what they were to do,
their domains from generation to generation.
They were not to go hungry or grow weary,
or ever cease from their tasks.

[28]Never does a single one crowd its neighbor,
or do any ever disobey his word.
[29]Then the Lord looked upon the earth,
and filled it with his blessings.
[30]Its surface he covered with every kind of living creature which must return into it again.

Creation of Human Beings. 17:1 The Lord created human beings from the earth, and makes them return to earth again.
[2]A limited number of days he gave them,
but granted them authority over everything on earth.
[3]He endowed them with strength like his own,
and made them in his image.
[4]He put fear of them in all flesh,
and gave them dominion over beasts and birds.
[6]Discernment, tongues, and eyes,
ears, and a mind for thinking he gave them.
[7]With knowledge and understanding he filled them;
good and evil he showed them.
[8]He put fear of him into their hearts
to show them the grandeur of his works, [9]That they might describe the wonders of his deeds
[10]and praise his holy name.
[11]He set before them knowledge,
and allotted to them the law of life.
[12]An everlasting covenant he made with them,
and his commandments he revealed to them.
[13]His majestic glory their eyes beheld,
his glorious voice their ears heard.
[14]He said to them, "Avoid all evil";
to each of them he gave precepts about their neighbor.
[15]Their ways are ever known to him,
they cannot be hidden from his eyes.
[17]Over every nation he appointed a ruler,
but Israel is the Lord's own portion.
[19]All their works are clear as the sun to him,
and his eyes are ever upon their ways.
[20]Their iniquities cannot be hidden from him;
all their sins are before the Lord.
[22]Human goodness is like a signet ring with God,
and virtue he keeps like the apple of his eye.
[23]Later he will rise up and repay them,
requiting each one as they deserve.

Appeal for a Return to God. [24]But to the penitent he provides a way back and encourages those who are losing hope!
[25]Turn back to the Lord and give up your sins,
pray before him and make your offenses few.
[26]Turn again to the Most High and away from iniquity, and hate intensely what he loathes.

[27]Who in Sheol can glorify the Most High in place of the living who offer their praise?
[28]The dead can no more give praise than those who have never lived;
they who are alive and well glorify the Lord.
[29]How great is the mercy of the Lord,
and his forgiveness for those who return to him!
[30]For not everything is within human reach,
since human beings are not immortal.
[31]Is anything brighter than the sun? Yet it can be eclipsed.
How worthless then the thoughts of flesh and blood!
[32]God holds accountable the hosts of highest heaven,
while all mortals are dust and ashes.

The Divine Power and Mercy. 18:1 He who lives forever created the whole universe;
[2]the LORD alone is just.
[4]To whom has he given power to describe his works,
and who can search out his mighty deeds?
[5]Who can measure his majestic power,
or fully recount his mercies?
[6]No one can lessen, increase,
or fathom the wonders of the Lord.
[7]When mortals finish, they are only beginning,
and when they stop they are still bewildered.
[8]What are mortals? What are they worth?
What is good in them, and what is evil?
[9]The number of their days seems great
if it reaches a hundred years.
[10]Like a drop of water from the sea and a grain of sand,
so are these few years among the days of eternity.
[11]That is why the Lord is patient with them and pours out his mercy on them.
[12]He sees and understands that their death is wretched,
and so he forgives them all the more.
[13]Their compassion is for their neighbor,
but the Lord's compassion reaches all flesh, Reproving, admonishing, teaching,
and turning them back, as a shepherd his flock.
[14]He has compassion on those who accept his discipline,
who are eager for his precepts.

The Need for Prudence. [15]My child, add no reproach to your charity, or spoil any gift by harsh words.
[16]Does not the dew give relief from the scorching heat?
So a word can be better than a gift.
[17]Indeed does not a word count more than a good gift?
But both are offered by a kind person.
[18]The fool is ungracious and abusive,
and a grudging gift makes the eyes smart.

[19]Before you speak, learn;

before you get sick, prepare the cure.
[20]Before you are judged, examine yourself,
and at the time of scrutiny you will have forgiveness.
[21]Before you fall ill, humble yourself;
and when you have sinned, show repentance.
Do not delay forsaking your sins;
do not neglect to do so until you are in distress.

[22]Let nothing prevent the prompt payment of your vows;
do not wait until death to fulfill them.
[23]Before making a vow prepare yourself;
do not be like one who puts the Lord to the test.
[24]Think of wrath on the day of death,
the time of vengeance when he will hide his face.
[25]Think of the time of hunger in the time of plenty,
poverty and need in the day of wealth.
[26]Between morning and evening there is a change of time;
before the Lord all things are fleeting.

[27]The wise are discreet in all things;
where sin is rife they keep themselves from wrongdoing.
[28]Every wise person teaches wisdom,
and those who know her declare her praise;
[29]Those skilled in words become wise themselves,
and pour forth apt proverbs.

Self-Control. [30]Do not let your passions be your guide,
but keep your desires in check.
[31]If you allow yourself to satisfy your passions,
they will make you the laughingstock of your enemies.
[32]Take no pleasure in too much luxury
which brings on poverty redoubled.
[33]Do not become a glutton and a drunkard
with nothing in your purse.

☐ JOHN 19:17-42

The Crucifixion of Jesus. So they took Jesus, 19:17 and carrying the cross himself he went out to what is called the Place of the Skull, in Hebrew, Golgotha. [18]There they crucified him, and with him two others, one on either side, with Jesus in the middle. [19]Pilate also had an inscription written and put on the cross. It read, "Jesus the Nazorean, the King of the Jews." [20]Now many of the Jews read this inscription, because the place where Jesus was crucified was near the city; and it was written in Hebrew, Latin, and Greek. [21]So the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate, "Do not write 'The King of the Jews,' but that he said, 'I am the King of the Jews.' " [22]Pilate answered, "What I have written, I have written."

[23]When the soldiers had crucified Jesus, they took his clothes and divided them into four shares, a share for each soldier. They also took his tunic, but the tunic was seamless, woven in one piece from the top down. [24]So they said to one another, "Let's not tear it, but cast lots for it to see whose it will be," in order that the passage of scripture might be fulfilled [that says]:

"They divided my garments among them,

and for my vesture they cast lots."

This is what the soldiers did. [25]Standing by the cross of Jesus were his mother and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary of Magdala. [26]When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple there whom he loved, he said to his mother, "Woman, behold, your son." [27]Then he said to the disciple, "Behold, your mother." And from that hour the disciple took her into his home.

[28]After this, aware that everything was now finished, in order that the scripture might be fulfilled, Jesus said, "I thirst." [29]There was a vessel filled with common wine. So they put a sponge soaked in wine on a sprig of hyssop and put it up to his mouth. [30]When Jesus had taken the wine, he said, "It is finished." And bowing his head, he handed over the spirit.

The Blood and Water. [31]Now since it was preparation day, in order that the bodies might not remain on the cross on the sabbath, for the sabbath day of that week was a solemn one, the Jews asked Pilate that their legs be broken and they be taken down. [32]So the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first and then of the other one who was crucified with Jesus. [33]But when they came to Jesus and saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs, [34]but one soldier thrust his lance into his side, and immediately blood and water flowed out. [35]An eyewitness has testified, and his testimony is true; he knows that he is speaking the truth, so that you also may [come to] believe. [36]For this happened so that the scripture passage might be fulfilled:

"Not a bone of it will be broken."

[37]And again another passage says:

"They will look upon him whom they have pierced."

The Burial of Jesus. [38]After this, Joseph of Arimathea, secretly a disciple of Jesus for fear of the Jews, asked Pilate if he could remove the body of Jesus. And Pilate permitted it. So he came and took his body. [39]Nicodemus, the one who had first come to him at night, also came bringing a mixture of myrrh and aloes weighing about one hundred pounds. [40]They took the body of Jesus and bound it with burial cloths along with the spices, according to the Jewish burial custom. [41]Now in the place where he had been crucified there was a garden, and in the garden a new tomb, in which no one had yet been buried. [42]So they laid Jesus there because of the Jewish preparation day; for the tomb was close by.

St. Rose of Lima

Apart from the cross there is no other ladder by which we may get to heaven.

— St. Rose of Lima

☐ SIRACH 19-22

19:1 Whoever does this grows no richer;
those who waste the little they have will be stripped bare.
[2]Wine and women make the heart lustful,
and the companion of prostitutes becomes reckless.
[3]Rottenness and worms will possess him,
and the reckless will be snatched away.
[4]Whoever trusts others too quickly has a shallow mind,
and those who sin wrong themselves.

The Proper Use of Speech. [5]Whoever gloats over evil will be destroyed, [6]and whoever repeats gossip has no sense.
[7]Never repeat gossip,
and no one will reproach you.
[8]Tell nothing to friend or foe;
and unless it be a sin for you, do not reveal a thing.
[9]For someone may have heard you and watched you,
and in time come to hate you.
[10]Let anything you hear die with you;
never fear, it will not make you burst!
[11]Having heard something, the fool goes into labor,
like a woman giving birth to a child.
[12]Like an arrow stuck in a fool's thigh,
so is gossip in the belly of a fool.
[13]Admonish your friend—he may not have done it;
and if he did, that he may not do it again.
[14]Admonish your neighbor—he may not have said it;
and if he did, that he may not say it again.
[15]Admonish your friend—often it may be slander;
do not believe every story.
[16]Then, too, a person can slip and not mean it;
who has not sinned with his tongue?
[17]Admonish your neighbor before you break with him;
and give due place to the Law of the Most High.

How to Recognize True Wisdom. [20]All wisdom is fear of the LORD;
and in all wisdom, the observance of the Law.
[22]The knowledge of wickedness is not wisdom,
nor is there prudence in the counsel of sinners.
[23]There is a shrewdness that is detestable,
while the fool may be free from sin.
[24]Better are the God-fearing who have little understanding than those of great intelligence who violate the Law.

[25]There is a shrewdness keen but dishonest,
and there are those who are duplicitous to win a judgment.
[26]There is the villain bowed in grief,
but full of deceit within.
[27]He hides his face and pretends not to hear,
but when not observed, he will take advantage of you:
[28]Even if his lack of strength keeps him from sinning,
when he finds the right time he will do harm.
[29]People are known by their appearance;
the sensible are recognized as such when first met.
[30]One's attire, hearty laughter, and gait proclaim him for what he is.

Conduct of the Wise and the Foolish. 20:1 There is an admonition that is untimely, but the silent person is the wise one.
[2]It is much better to admonish than to lose one's temper;

[3]one who admits a fault will be kept from disgrace.
[4]Like a eunuch lusting to violate a young woman is the one who does right under compulsion.
[5]One is silent and is thought wise;
another, for being talkative, is disliked.
[6]One is silent, having nothing to say;
another is silent, biding his time.
[7]The wise remain silent till the right time comes,
but a boasting fool misses the proper time.
[8]Whoever talks too much is detested;
whoever pretends to authority is hated.

[9]There is the misfortune that brings success;
and there is the gain that turns into loss.
[10]There is the gift that profits you nothing,
and there is the gift that must be paid back double.
[11]There is the loss for the sake of glory,
and there is the one who rises above humble circumstances.
[12]There is one who buys much for little,
but pays for it seven times over.
[13]The wise make themselves beloved by a few words,
but the courtesies of fools are wasted.
[14]A gift from a fool will do you no good,
for in his eyes this one gift is equal to many.
[15]He gives little, criticizes often,
and opens his mouth like a town crier.
He lends today and asks for it tomorrow;
such a person is hateful.
[16]A fool says, "I have no friends
nor thanks for my generosity."
Those who eat his bread have a mocking tongue.
[17]How many will ridicule him, and how often!

[18]A slip on the floor is better than a slip of the tongue;
in like manner the downfall of the wicked comes quickly.
[19]A coarse person, an untimely story;
the ignorant are always ready to offer it.
[20]A proverb spoken by a fool is unwelcome,
for he does not tell it at the proper time.

[21]There is a person whose poverty prevents him from sinning,
but when he takes his rest he has no regrets.
[22]There is a person who is destroyed through shame,
and ruined by foolish posturing.
[23]There is one who promises a friend out of shame,
and so makes an enemy needlessly.

[24]A lie is a foul blot in a person,
yet it is always on the lips of the ignorant.
[25]A thief is better than an inveterate liar,
yet both will suffer ruin.

[26]A liar's way leads to dishonor,
and his shame remains ever with him.

[27]The wise gain promotion with few words,
the prudent please the great.
[28]Those who work the land have abundant crops,
and those who please the great are pardoned their faults.
[29]Favors and gifts blind the eyes;
like a muzzle over the mouth they silence reproofs.
[30]Hidden wisdom and unseen treasure—
what value has either?
[31]Better are those who hide their folly than those who hide their wisdom.

Dangers from Sin. 21:1 My child, if you have sinned, do so no more,
and for your past sins pray to be forgiven.
[2]Flee from sin as from a serpent
that will bite you if you go near it;
Its teeth, lion's teeth,
destroying human lives.
[3]All lawlessness is like a two-edged sword;
when it cuts, there is no healing.
[4]Panic and pride wipe out wealth;
so too the house of the proud is uprooted.
[5]Prayer from the lips of the poor is heard at once,
and justice is quickly granted them.
[6]Whoever hates correction walks the sinner's path,
but whoever fears the Lord repents in his heart.
[7]Glib speakers are widely known,
but when they slip the sensible perceive it.
[8]Those who build their houses with someone else's money are like those who collect stones for their funeral mounds.
[9]A band of criminals is like a bundle of tow;
they will end in a flaming fire.
[10]The path of sinners is smooth stones,
but its end is the pit of Sheol.

The Wise and Foolish: A Contrast. [11]Those who keep the Law control their thoughts;
perfect fear of the Lord is wisdom.
[12]One who is not clever can never be taught,
but there is a cleverness filled with bitterness.

[13]The knowledge of the wise wells up like a flood,
and their counsel like a living spring.
[14]A fool's mind is like a broken jar:
it cannot hold any knowledge at all.

[15]When the intelligent hear a wise saying,
they praise it and add to it.
The wanton hear it with distaste
and cast it behind their back.

[16]A fool's chatter is like a load on a journey,
but delight is to be found on the lips of the intelligent.
[17]The views of the prudent are sought in an assembly,
and their words are taken to heart.

[18]Like a house in ruins is wisdom to a fool;
to the stupid, knowledge is incomprehensible chatter.
[19]To the senseless, education is fetters on the feet,
like manacles on the right hand.
[20]Fools raise their voice in laughter,
but the prudent at most smile quietly.
[21]Like a gold ornament is education to the wise,
like a bracelet on the right arm.

[22]A fool steps boldly into a house,
while the well-bred are slow to make an entrance.
[23]A boor peeps through the doorway of a house,
but the educated stay outside.
[24]It is rude for one to listen at a door;
the discreet person would be overwhelmed by the disgrace.

[25]The lips of the arrogant talk of what is not their concern,
but the discreet carefully weigh their words.
[26]The mind of fools is in their mouths,
but the mouth of the wise is in their mind.
[27]When the godless curse their adversary,
they really curse themselves.
[28]Slanderers sully themselves,
and are hated by their neighbors.

On Laziness and Foolishness. 22:1 The sluggard is like a filthy stone;
everyone hisses at his disgrace.
[2]The sluggard is like a lump of dung;
whoever touches it shakes it off the hands.

[3]An undisciplined child is a disgrace to its father;
if it be a daughter, she brings him to poverty.
[4]A thoughtful daughter obtains a husband of her own;
a shameless one is her father's grief.
[5]A hussy shames her father and her husband;
she is despised by both.

[6]Like music at the time of mourning is ill-timed talk,
but lashes and discipline are at all times wisdom.
[9]Teaching a fool is like gluing a broken pot,
or rousing another from deep sleep.
[10]Whoever talks with a fool talks to someone asleep;
when it is over, he says, "What was that?"

[11]Weep over the dead, for their light has gone out;
weep over the fool, for sense has left him.

Weep but less bitterly over the dead, for they are at rest;
worse than death is the life of a fool.
12 Mourning for the dead, seven days—
but for the wicked fool, a whole lifetime.

13 Do not talk much with the stupid,
or visit the unintelligent.
Beware of them lest you have trouble
and be spattered when they shake themselves off.
Avoid them and you will find rest
and not be wearied by their lack of sense.
14 What is heavier than lead?
What is its name but "Fool"?
15 Sand, salt, and an iron weight are easier to bear than the stupid person.

16 A wooden beam firmly bonded into a building
is not loosened by an earthquake;
So the mind firmly resolved after careful deliberation
will not be afraid at any time.
17 The mind solidly backed by intelligent thought is like a stucco decoration on a smooth wall.
18 Small stones lying on an open height
will not remain when the wind blows;
So a timid mind based on foolish plans
cannot stand up to fear of any kind.

The Preservation of Friendship. 19 Whoever jabs the eye brings tears;
whoever pierces the heart bares its feelings.
20 Whoever throws a stone at birds drives them away;
whoever insults a friend breaks up the friendship.
21 Should you draw a sword against a friend,
do not despair, for it can be undone.
22 Should you open your mouth against a friend,
do not worry, for you can be reconciled.
But a contemptuous insult, a confidence broken,
or a treacherous attack will drive any friend away.

23 Win your neighbor's trust while he is poor,
so that you may rejoice with him in his prosperity.
In time of trouble remain true to him,
so that you may share in his inheritance when it comes.
24 The billowing smoke of a furnace precedes the fire,
so insults precede bloodshed.
25 I am not ashamed to shelter a friend,
and I will not hide from him.
26 But if harm should come to me because of him,
all who hear of it will beware of him.

Prayer. 27 Who will set a guard over my mouth,
an effective seal on my lips,

That I may not fail through them,
and my tongue may not destroy me?

☐ JOHN 20:1-18

The Empty Tomb. 20:1 On the first day of the week, Mary of Magdala came to the tomb early in the morning, while it was still dark, and saw the stone removed from the tomb. [2]So she ran and went to Simon Peter and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and told them, "They have taken the Lord from the tomb, and we don't know where they put him." [3]So Peter and the other disciple went out and came to the tomb. [4]They both ran, but the other disciple ran faster than Peter and arrived at the tomb first; [5]he bent down and saw the burial cloths there, but did not go in. [6]When Simon Peter arrived after him, he went into the tomb and saw the burial cloths there, [7]and the cloth that had covered his head, not with the burial cloths but rolled up in a separate place. [8]Then the other disciple also went in, the one who had arrived at the tomb first, and he saw and believed. [9]For they did not yet understand the scripture that he had to rise from the dead. [10]Then the disciples returned home.

The Appearance to Mary of Magdala. [11]But Mary stayed outside the tomb weeping. And as she wept, she bent over into the tomb [12]and saw two angels in white sitting there, one at the head and one at the feet where the body of Jesus had been. [13]And they said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping?" She said to them, "They have taken my Lord, and I don't know where they laid him." [14]When she had said this, she turned around and saw Jesus there, but did not know it was Jesus. [15]Jesus said to her, "Woman, why are you weeping? Whom are you looking for?" She thought it was the gardener and said to him, "Sir, if you carried him away, tell me where you laid him, and I will take him." [16]Jesus said to her, "Mary!" She turned and said to him in Hebrew, "Rabbouni," which means Teacher. [17]Jesus said to her, "Stop holding on to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father. But go to my brothers and tell them, 'I am going to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.' " [18]Mary of Magdala went and announced to the disciples, "I have seen the Lord," and what he told her.

St. Bartholomew

> We should not seek from others for the truth that can easily be received from the Church. There the apostles, like a rich man making a deposit, fully bestowed upon her all that belongs to the truth, so that whoever wishes may receive from her the water of life.
>

☐ SIRACH 23-25

23:1 Lord, Father and Master of my life,
do not abandon me to their designs,
do not let me fall because of them!

[2]Who will apply the lash to my thoughts,
and to my mind the rod of discipline,
That my failings may not be spared
or the sins of my heart overlooked?
[3]Otherwise my failings may increase,
and my sins be multiplied;
And I fall before my adversaries,
and my enemy rejoice over me?
[4]Lord, Father and God of my life,

do not give me haughty eyes;
[5]remove evil desire from my heart.
[6]Let neither gluttony nor lust overcome me;
do not give me up to shameless desires.

Proper Use of the Tongue. [7]Listen, my children, to instruction concerning the mouth,
for whoever keeps it will not be ensnared.
[8]Through the lips the sinner is caught;
by them the reviler and the arrogant are tripped up.
[9]Do not accustom your mouth to oaths,
or habitually utter the Holy Name.
[10]Just as a servant constantly under scrutiny
will not be without bruises,
So one who swears continually by the Holy Name
will never remain free from sin.
[11]Those who swear many oaths heap up offenses;
and the scourge will never be far from their houses.
If they swear in error, guilt is incurred;
if they neglect their obligation, the sin is doubly great.
If they swear without reason they cannot be declared innocent,
for their households will be filled with calamities.

[12]There are words comparable to death;
may they never be heard in the inheritance of Jacob.
To the devout all such words are foreign;
they do not wallow in sin.
[13]Do not accustom your mouth to coarse talk,
for it involves sinful speech.
[14]Keep your father and mother in mind
when you sit among the mighty, Lest you forget yourself in their presence
and disgrace your upbringing.
Then you will wish you had never been born
and will curse the day of your birth.
[15]Those accustomed to using abusive language will never acquire discipline as long as they live.

Sins of the Flesh. [16]Two types of people multiply sins,
and a third draws down wrath:
Burning passion is like a blazing fire,
not to be quenched till it burns itself out;
One unchaste with his kindred never stops until fire breaks forth.
[17]To the unchaste all bread is sweet;
he is never through till he dies.

[18]The man who dishonors his marriage bed
says to himself, “Who can see me?
Darkness surrounds me, walls hide me,
no one sees me. Who can stop me from sinning?”
He is not mindful of the Most High,

[19]fearing only human eyes.
He does not realize that the eyes of the Lord,
ten thousand times brighter than the sun,
Observe every step taken
and peer into hidden corners.
[20]The one who knows all things before they exist
still knows them all after they are made.
[21]Such a man will be denounced in the streets of the city;
and where he least suspects it, he will be apprehended.

[22]So it is with the woman unfaithful to her husband, who offers him an heir by another man.
[23]First of all, she has disobeyed the law of the Most High;
second, she has wronged her husband;
Third, through her wanton adultery
she has brought forth children by another man.
[24]Such a woman will be dragged before the assembly,
and her punishment will extend to her children.
[25]Her children will not take root;
her branches will not bring forth fruit.
[26]She will leave behind an accursed memory;
her disgrace will never be blotted out.

[27]Thus all who dwell on the earth shall know,
all who remain in the world shall understand,
That nothing is better than the fear of the Lord,
nothing sweeter than obeying the commandments of the Lord.

Praise of Wisdom. 24:1 Wisdom sings her own praises,
among her own people she proclaims her glory.
[2]In the assembly of the Most High she opens her mouth, in the presence of his host she tells of her glory:

[3]"From the mouth of the Most High I came forth,
and covered the earth like a mist.
[4]In the heights of heaven I dwelt,
and my throne was in a pillar of cloud.
[5]The vault of heaven I compassed alone,
and walked through the deep abyss.
[6]Over waves of the sea, over all the land,
over every people and nation I held sway.
[7]Among all these I sought a resting place.
In whose inheritance should I abide?

[8]"Then the Creator of all gave me his command,
and my Creator chose the spot for my tent.
He said, 'In Jacob make your dwelling,
in Israel your inheritance.'
[9]Before all ages, from the beginning, he created me,
and through all ages I shall not cease to be.
[10]In the holy tent I ministered before him,

and so I was established in Zion.

[11]In the city he loves as he loves me, he gave me rest;
in Jerusalem, my domain.
[12]I struck root among the glorious people,
in the portion of the Lord, his heritage.

[13]"Like a cedar in Lebanon I grew tall,
like a cypress on Mount Hermon; [14]I grew tall like a palm tree in Engedi,
like rosebushes in Jericho;
Like a fair olive tree in the field,
like a plane tree beside water I grew tall.
[15]Like cinnamon and fragrant cane,
like precious myrrh I gave forth perfume;
Like galbanum and onycha and mastic,
like the odor of incense in the holy tent.

[16]"I spread out my branches like a terebinth,
my branches so glorious and so graceful.
[17]I bud forth delights like a vine;
my blossoms are glorious and rich fruit.
[19]Come to me, all who desire me,
and be filled with my fruits.
[20]You will remember me as sweeter than honey,
better to have than the honeycomb.
[21]Those who eat of me will hunger still,
those who drink of me will thirst for more.
[22]Whoever obeys me will not be put to shame,
and those who serve me will never go astray."

[23]All this is the book of the covenant of the Most High God,
the Law which Moses commanded us
as a heritage for the community of Jacob.
[25]It overflows, like the Pishon, with wisdom,
and like the Tigris at the time of first fruits.
[26]It runs over, like the Euphrates, with understanding, and like the Jordan at harvest time.
[27]It floods like the Nile with instruction,
like the Gihon at vintage time.
[28]The first human being never finished comprehending wisdom,
nor will the last succeed in fathoming her.
[29]For deeper than the sea are her thoughts,
and her counsels, than the great abyss.

[30]Now I, like a stream from a river,
and like water channeling into a garden—[31]I said, "I will water my plants,
I will drench my flower beds."
Then suddenly this stream of mine became a river,
and this river of mine became a sea.
[32]Again I will make my teachings shine forth like the dawn;
I will spread their brightness afar off.

[33]Again I will pour out instruction like prophecy and bestow it on generations yet to come.

Those Who Are Worthy of Praise. 25:1 With three things I am delighted, for they are pleasing to the Lord and to human beings:
Harmony among relatives, friendship among neighbors,
and a wife and a husband living happily together.
[2]Three kinds of people I hate,
and I loathe their manner of life:
A proud pauper, a rich liar,
and a lecherous old fool.

[3]In your youth you did not gather.
How will you find anything in your old age?
[4]How appropriate is sound judgment in the gray-haired,
and good counsel in the elderly!
[5]How appropriate is wisdom in the aged,
understanding and counsel in the venerable!
[6]The crown of the elderly, wide experience;
their glory, the fear of the Lord.

[7]There are nine who come to mind as blessed,
a tenth whom my tongue proclaims:
The man who finds joy in his children,
and the one who lives to see the downfall of his enemies.
[8]Happy the man who lives with a sensible woman, and the one who does not plow with an ox and a donkey combined.
Happy the one who does not sin with the tongue,
who does not serve an inferior.
[9]Happy the one who finds a friend,
who speaks to attentive ears.
[10]How great is the one who finds wisdom,
but none is greater than the one who fears the Lord.
[11]Fear of the Lord surpasses all else.
To whom can we compare the one who has it?

Wicked and Virtuous Women. [13]Any wound, but not a wound of the heart!
Any wickedness, but not the wickedness of a woman!
[14]Any suffering, but not suffering from one's foes!
Any vengeance, but not the vengeance of one's enemies!
[15]There is no poison worse than that of a serpent,
no venom greater than that of a woman.
[16]I would rather live with a dragon or a lion than live with a wicked woman.
[17]A woman's wicked disposition changes her appearance,
and makes her face as dark as a bear.
[18]When her husband sits among his neighbors,
a bitter sigh escapes him unawares.

[19]There is hardly an evil like that in a woman;
may she fall to the lot of the sinner!

[20]Like a sandy hill to aged feet
is a garrulous wife to a quiet husband.
[21]Do not be enticed by a woman's beauty,
or be greedy for her wealth.
[22]Harsh is the slavery and great the shame
when a wife supports her husband.

[23]Depressed mind, gloomy face,
and a wounded heart—a wicked woman.
Drooping hands and quaking knees,
any wife who does not make her husband happy.
[24]With a woman sin had a beginning,
and because of her we all die.
[25]Allow water no outlet,
and no boldness of speech to a wicked woman.
[26]If she does not go along as you direct,
cut her away from you.

Appearance to the Disciples. 20:19 On the evening of that first day of the week, when the doors were locked, where the disciples were, for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in their midst and said to them, "Peace be with you." [20]When he had said this, he showed them his hands and his side. The disciples rejoiced when they saw the Lord. [21][Jesus] said to them again, "Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, so I send you." [22]And when he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, "Receive the holy Spirit. [23]Whose sins you forgive are forgiven them, and whose sins you retain are retained."

Thomas. [24]Thomas, called Didymus, one of the Twelve, was not with them when Jesus came. [25]So the other disciples said to him, "We have seen the Lord." But he said to them, "Unless I see the mark of the nails in his hands and put my finger into the nailmarks and put my hand into his side, I will not believe." [26]Now a week later his disciples were again inside and Thomas was with them. Jesus came, although the doors were locked, and stood in their midst and said, "Peace be with you." [27]Then he said to Thomas, "Put your finger here and see my hands, and bring your hand and put it into my side, and do not be unbelieving, but believe." [28]Thomas answered and said to him, "My Lord and my God!" [29]Jesus said to him, "Have you come to believe because you have seen me? Blessed are those who have not seen and have believed."

Conclusion. [30]Now Jesus did many other signs in the presence of [his] disciples that are not written in this book. [31]But these are written that you may [come to] believe that Jesus is the Messiah, the Son of God, and that through this belief you may have life in his name.

You should permit yourself to be tormented by every kind of martyrdom before you would allow yourself to commit a mortal sin.

☐ SIRACH 26-29

26:1 Happy the husband of a good wife;

the number of his days will be doubled.
[2]A loyal wife brings joy to her husband,
and he will finish his years in peace.
[3]A good wife is a generous gift bestowed upon him who fears the Lord.
[4]Whether rich or poor, his heart is content,
a smile ever on his face.

[5]There are three things I dread,
and a fourth which terrifies me:
Public slander, the gathering of a mob,
and false accusation—all harder to bear than death.
[6]A wife jealous of another wife is heartache and mourning;
everyone feels the lash of her tongue.

[7]A wicked wife is a chafing yoke;
taking hold of her is like grasping a scorpion.
[8]A drunken wife arouses great anger,
for she does not hide her shame.
[9]By her haughty stare and her eyelids
an unchaste wife can be recognized.

[10]Keep a strict watch over an unruly wife,
lest, finding an opportunity, she use it;
[11]Watch out for her impudent eye,
and do not be surprised if she betrays you:
[12]As a thirsty traveler opens his mouth
and drinks from any water nearby,
So she sits down before every tent peg
and opens her quiver for every arrow.

[13]A gracious wife delights her husband;
her thoughtfulness puts flesh on his bones.
[14]A silent wife is a gift from the Lord;
nothing is worth more than her self-discipline.
[15]A modest wife is a supreme blessing;
no scales can weigh the worth of her chastity.
[16]The sun rising in the Lord's heavens—
the beauty of a good wife in her well-ordered home.
[17]The light which shines above the holy lampstand—
a beautiful face on a stately figure.
[18]Golden columns on silver bases—
so her shapely legs and steady feet.

Dangers to Integrity and Friendship. [28]Two things bring grief to my heart,
and a third arouses my anger:
The wealthy reduced to want,
the intelligent held in contempt,
And those who pass from righteousness to sin—
the Lord prepares them for the sword.

[29]A merchant can hardly keep from wrongdoing,
nor can a shopkeeper stay free from sin;

27:1 For the sake of profit many sin,
and the struggle for wealth blinds the eyes.
[2]A stake will be driven between fitted stones—
sin will be wedged in between buying and selling.
[3]Unless one holds fast to the fear of the Lord,
with sudden swiftness will one's house be thrown down.

[4]When a sieve is shaken, the husks appear;
so do people's faults when they speak.
[5]The furnace tests the potter's vessels;
the test of a person is in conversation.
[6]The fruit of a tree shows the care it has had;
so speech discloses the bent of a person's heart.
[7]Praise no one before he speaks,
for it is then that people are tested.

[8]If you strive after justice, you will attain it,
and wear it like a splendid robe.
[9]Birds nest with their own kind,
and honesty comes to those who work at it.
[10]A lion lies in wait for prey,
so does sin for evildoers.

[11]The conversation of the godly is always wisdom,
but the fool changes like the moon.
[12]Limit the time you spend among the stupid,
but frequent the company of the thoughtful.
[13]The conversation of fools is offensive,
and their laughter is wanton sin.
[14]Their oath-filled talk makes the hair stand on end,
and their brawls make one stop the ears.
[15]The wrangling of the proud ends in bloodshed,
and their cursing is painful to hear.

[16]Whoever betrays a secret destroys confidence,
and will never find a congenial friend.
[17]Cherish your friend, keep faith with him;
but if you betray his secrets, do not go after him;
[18]For as one might kill another,
you have killed your neighbor's friendship.
[19]Like a bird released from your hand,
you have let your friend go and cannot recapture him.
[20]Do not go after him, for he is far away,
and has escaped like a gazelle from a snare.
[21]For a wound can be bandaged, and an insult forgiven,
but whoever betrays secrets does hopeless damage.

Malice, Anger and Vengeance. [22]Whoever has shifty eyes plots mischief and those who know him will keep their distance; [23]In your presence he uses honeyed talk,

and admires your words,
But later he changes his tone
and twists the words to your ruin.
[24]I have hated many things but not as much as him,
and the Lord hates him as well.
[25]A stone falls back on the head of the one who throws it high,
and a treacherous blow causes many wounds.
[26]Whoever digs a pit falls into it,
and whoever lays a snare is caught in it.
[27]The evil anyone does will recoil on him
without knowing how it came upon him.

[28]Mockery and abuse will befall the arrogant,
and vengeance lies in wait for them like a lion.
[29]Those who rejoice in the downfall of the godly will be caught in a snare,
and pain will consume them before they die.
[30]Wrath and anger, these also are abominations,
yet a sinner holds on to them.

28:1 The vengeful will face the Lord's vengeance;
indeed he remembers their sins in detail.

[2]Forgive your neighbor the wrong done to you;
then when you pray, your own sins will be forgiven.
[3]Does anyone nourish anger against another and expect healing from the LORD?
[4]Can one refuse mercy to a sinner like oneself,
yet seek pardon for one's own sins?
[5]If a mere mortal cherishes wrath,
who will forgive his sins?
[6]Remember your last days and set enmity aside;
remember death and decay, and cease from sin!
[7]Remember the commandments and do not be angry with your neighbor;
remember the covenant of the Most High, and overlook faults.

[8]Avoid strife and your sins will be fewer,
for the hot-tempered kindle strife;
[9]The sinner disrupts friendships
and sows discord among those who are at peace.
[10]The more the wood, the greater the fire,
the more the cruelty, the fiercer the strife;
The greater the strength, the sterner the anger,
the greater the wealth, the greater the wrath.
[11]Pitch and resin make fire flare up,
and a hasty quarrel provokes bloodshed.

The Evil Tongue. [12]If you blow on a spark, it turns into flame,
if you spit on it, it dies out;
yet both you do with your mouth!

[13]Cursed be gossips and the double-tongued,
for they destroy the peace of many.
[14]A meddlesome tongue subverts many,
and makes them refugees among peoples.
It destroys strong cities,
and overthrows the houses of the great.
[15]A meddlesome tongue drives virtuous women from their homes,
and robs them of the fruit of their toil.
[16]Whoever heed it will find no rest,
nor will they dwell in peace.

[17]A blow from a whip raises a welt,
but a blow from the tongue will break bones.
[18]Many have fallen by the edge of the sword,
but not as many as by the tongue.
[19]Happy the one who is sheltered from it,
and has not endured its wrath;
Who has not borne its yoke
nor been bound with its chains.
[20]For its yoke is a yoke of iron,
and its chains are chains of bronze;
[21]The death it inflicts is an evil death,
even Sheol is preferable to it.
[22]It will have no power over the godly,
nor will they be burned in its flame.
[23]But those who forsake the Lord will fall victim to it,
as it burns among them unquenchably;
It will hurl itself against them like a lion,
and like a leopard, it will tear them to pieces.
[24]As you fence in your property with thorns,
so make a door and a bolt for your mouth.
[25]As you lock up your silver and gold,
so make balances and scales for your words.
[26]Take care not to slip by your tongue
and fall victim to one lying in ambush.

Loans, Alms and Surety. 29:1 The merciful lend to their neighbor,
by holding out a helping hand, they keep the commandments.
[2]Lend to your neighbor in his time of need,
and pay back your neighbor in time.
[3]Keep your promise and be honest with him,
and at all times you will find what you need.
[4]Many borrowers ask for a loan and cause trouble for those who help them.
[5]Till he gets a loan, he kisses the lender's hand
and speaks softly of his creditor's money,
But at time of payment, delays,
makes excuses, and finds fault with the timing.
[6]If he can pay, the lender will recover barely half,
and will consider that a windfall.

If he cannot pay, the lender is cheated of his money
and acquires an enemy at no extra charge;
With curses and insults the borrower will repay,
and instead of honor will repay with abuse.
[7]Many refuse to lend, not out of meanness,
but from fear of being cheated needlessly.

[8]But with those in humble circumstances be patient;
do not keep them waiting for your alms.
[9]Because of the commandment, help the poor,
and in their need, do not send them away empty-handed.
[10]Lose your money for relative or friend;
do not hide it under a stone to rot.
[11]Dispose of your treasure according to the commandments of the Most High,
and that will profit you more than the gold.
[12]Store up almsgiving in your treasury,
and it will save you from every evil.
[13]Better than a mighty shield and a sturdy spear
it will fight for you against the enemy.

[14]A good person will be surety for a neighbor,
but whoever has lost a sense of shame will fail him.
[15]Do not forget the kindness of your backer,
for he has given his very life for you.
[16]A sinner will turn the favor of a pledge into misfortune,
[17]and the ungrateful will abandon his rescuer.
[18]Going surety has ruined many who were prosperous and tossed them about like waves of the sea;
It has exiled the prominent and sent them wandering through foreign lands.
[19]The sinner will come to grief through surety,
and whoever undertakes too much will fall into lawsuits.
[20]Help your neighbor according to your means,
but take care lest you fall yourself.

Frugality and Its Rewards. [21]Life's prime needs are water, bread, and clothing, and also a house for decent privacy.
[22]Better is the life of the poor under the shadow of their own roof than sumptuous banquets among strangers.
[23]Whether little or much, be content with what you have:
then you will hear no reproach as a parasite.
[24]It is a miserable life to go from house to house,
for where you are a guest you dare not open your mouth.
[25]You will entertain and provide drink without being thanked;
besides, you will hear these bitter words:
[26]"Come here, you parasite, set the table,
let me eat the food you have there!
[27]Go away, you parasite, for one more worthy;
for my relative's visit I need the room!"
[28]Painful things to a sensitive person are rebuke as a parasite and insults from creditors.

☐ JOHN 21

The Appearance to the Seven Disciples. 21:1 After this, Jesus revealed himself again to his disciples at the Sea of Tiberias. He revealed himself in this way. [2]Together were Simon Peter, Thomas called Didymus, Nathanael from Cana in Galilee, Zebedee's sons, and two others of his disciples. [3]Simon Peter said to them, "I am going fishing." They said to him, "We also will come with you." So they went out and got into the boat, but that night they caught nothing. [4]When it was already dawn, Jesus was standing on the shore; but the disciples did not realize that it was Jesus. [5]Jesus said to them, "Children, have you caught anything to eat?" They answered him, "No." [6]So he said to them, "Cast the net over the right side of the boat and you will find something." So they cast it, and were not able to pull it in because of the number of fish. [7]So the disciple whom Jesus loved said to Peter, "It is the Lord." When Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he tucked in his garment, for he was lightly clad, and jumped into the sea. [8]The other disciples came in the boat, for they were not far from shore, only about a hundred yards, dragging the net with the fish. [9]When they climbed out on shore, they saw a charcoal fire with fish on it and bread. [10]Jesus said to them, "Bring some of the fish you just caught." [11]So Simon Peter went over and dragged the net ashore full of one hundred fifty-three large fish. Even though there were so many, the net was not torn. [12]Jesus said to them, "Come, have breakfast." And none of the disciples dared to ask him, "Who are you?" because they realized it was the Lord. [13]Jesus came over and took the bread and gave it to them, and in like manner the fish. [14]This was now the third time Jesus was revealed to his disciples after being raised from the dead.

Jesus and Peter. [15]When they had finished breakfast, Jesus said to Simon Peter, "Simon, son of John, do you love me more than these?" He said to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you." He said to him, "Feed my lambs." [16]He then said to him a second time, "Simon, son of John, do you love me?" He said to him, "Yes, Lord, you know that I love you." He said to him, "Tend my sheep." [17]He said to him the third time, "Simon, son of John, do you love me?" Peter was distressed that he had said to him a third time, "Do you love me?" and he said to him, "Lord, you know everything; you know that I love you." [Jesus] said to him, "Feed my sheep. [18]Amen, amen, I say to you, when you were younger, you used to dress yourself and go where you wanted; but when you grow old, you will stretch out your hands, and someone else will dress you and lead you where you do not want to go." [19]He said this signifying by what kind of death he would glorify God. And when he had said this, he said to him, "Follow me."

The Beloved Disciple. [20]Peter turned and saw the disciple following whom Jesus loved, the one who had also reclined upon his chest during the supper and had said, "Master, who is the one who will betray you?" [21]When Peter saw him, he said to Jesus, "Lord, what about him?" [22]Jesus said to him, "What if I want him to remain until I come? What concern is it of yours? You follow me." [23]So the word spread among the brothers that that disciple would not die. But Jesus had not told him that he would not die, just "What if I want him to remain until I come? [What concern is it of yours?]"

Conclusion. [24]It is this disciple who testifies to these things and has written them, and we know that his testimony is true. [25]There are also many other things that Jesus did, but if these were to be described individually, I do not think the whole world would contain the books that would be written.

> Just as those who are born in the body need to be fortified so that the body may become operative, even so those who are reborn in the spirit need to be fortified by the Holy Spirit. For this reason, so that they might become strong, the apostles received the Holy Spirit after Christ's ascension. This power is conferred in the Sacrament of Confirmation.

☐ SIRACH 30-33

The Training of Children. 30:1 Whoever loves a son will chastise him often,
that he may be his joy when he grows up.
[2]Whoever disciplines a son will benefit from him,
and boast of him among acquaintances.
[3]Whoever educates a son will make his enemy jealous,
and rejoice in him among his friends.
[4]At the father's death, he will seem not dead,
for he leaves after him one like himself,
[5]Whom he looked upon through life with joy,
and in death, without regret.
[6]Against his enemies he has left an avenger,
and one to repay his friends with kindness.

[7]Whoever spoils a son will have wounds to bandage,
and will suffer heartache at every cry.
[8]An untamed horse turns out stubborn;
and a son left to himself grows up unruly.
[9]Pamper a child and he will be a terror for you,
indulge him, and he will bring you grief.
[10]Do not laugh with him lest you share sorrow with him,
and in the end you will gnash your teeth.
[11]Do not give him his own way in his youth,
and do not ignore his follies.
[12]Bow down his head in his youth,
beat his sides while he is still young,
Lest he become stubborn and disobey you,
and leave you disconsolate.
[13]Discipline your son and make heavy his yoke,
lest you be offended by his shamelessness.

Health and Cheerfulness. [14]Better the poor in vigorous health than the rich with bodily ills.
[15]I would rather have bodily health than any gold,
and contentment of spirit than pearls.
[16]No riches are greater than a healthy body;
and no happiness than a joyful heart.
[17]Better is death than a wretched life,
everlasting sleep than constant illness.
[18]Good things set before one who cannot eat
are like food offerings placed before a tomb.
[19]What good is an offering to an idol
that can neither eat nor smell?
So it is with the one being punished by the Lord,
[20]who groans at what his eyes behold.

[21]Do not give in to sadness,
or torment yourself deliberately.
[22]Gladness of heart is the very life of a person,
and cheerfulness prolongs his days.
[23]Distract yourself and renew your courage,
drive resentment far away from you;

For grief has killed many,
and nothing is to be gained from resentment.
[24]Envy and anger shorten one's days,
and anxiety brings on premature old age.
[25]Those who are cheerful and merry at table
benefit from their food.

The Proper Attitude Toward Riches. 31:1 Wakefulness over wealth wastes away the flesh, and anxiety over it drives away sleep.
[2]Wakeful anxiety banishes slumber;
more than a serious illness it disturbs repose.
[3]The rich labor to pile up wealth,
and if they rest, it is to enjoy pleasure;
[4]The poor labor for a meager living,
and if they ever rest, they become needy.
[5]The lover of gold will not be free from sin;
whoever pursues money will be led astray by it.
[6]Many have come to ruin for the sake of gold,
yet destruction lay before their very eyes;
[7]It is a stumbling block for fools;
any simpleton will be ensnared by it.

[8]Happy the rich person found without fault,
who does not turn aside after wealth.
[9]Who is he, that we may praise him?
For he has done wonders among his people.
[10]Who has been tested by gold and been found perfect?
Let it be for him his glory;
Who could have sinned but did not,
and could have done evil but did not?
[11]So his good fortune is secure,
and the assembly will recount his praises.

Table Etiquette. [12]Are you seated at the table of the great?
Bring to it no greedy gullet,
Nor say, "How much food there is here!"
[13]Remember that the greedy eye is evil.
What has been created more greedy than the eye?
Therefore, it weeps for any cause.
[15]Recognize that your neighbor feels as you do,
and keep in mind everything you dislike.
[14]Toward what he looks at, do not put out a hand;
nor reach for the same dish when he does.
[16]Eat, like anyone else, what is set before you,
but do not eat greedily, lest you be despised.
[17]Be the first to stop, as befits good manners;
and do not gorge yourself, lest you give offense.
[18]If there are many with you at table,
do not be the first to stretch out your hand.
[19]Does not a little suffice for a well-bred person?
When he lies down, he does not wheeze.

[20]Moderate eating ensures sound slumber
and a clear mind on rising the next day.
The distress of sleeplessness and of nausea
and colic are with the glutton!
[21]Should you have eaten too much,
get up to vomit and you will have relief.

[22]Listen to me, my child, and do not scorn me;
later you will find my advice good.
In whatever you do, be moderate,
and no sickness will befall you.
[23]People bless one who is generous with food,
and this testimony to his goodness is lasting.
[24]The city complains about one who is stingy with food,
and this testimony to his stinginess is lasting.
[25]Let not wine be the proof of your strength,
for wine has been the ruin of many.
[26]As the furnace tests the work of the smith,
so does wine the hearts of the insolent.
[27]Wine is very life to anyone,
if taken in moderation.
Does anyone really live who lacks the wine
which from the beginning was created for joy?
[28]Joy of heart, good cheer, and delight is wine enough, drunk at the proper time.
[29]Headache, bitterness, and disgrace
is wine drunk amid anger and strife.
[30]Wine in excess is a snare for the fool;
it lessens strength and multiplies wounds.
[31]Do not wrangle with your neighbor when wine is served,
nor despise him while he is having a good time;
Say no harsh words to him
nor distress him by making demands.

32:1 If you are chosen to preside at a dinner, do not be puffed up,
but with the guests be as one of them;
Take care of them first and then sit down;
[2]see to their needs, and then take your place,
To share in their joy
and receive a wreath for a job well done.
[3]You who are older, it is your right to speak,
but temper your knowledge and do not interrupt the singing.
[4]Where there is entertainment, do not pour out discourse,
and do not display your wisdom at the wrong time.
[5]Like a seal of carnelian in a setting of gold:
a concert of music at a banquet of wine.
[6]A seal of emerald in a work of gold:
the melody of music with delicious wine.
[7]Speak, young man, only when necessary,
when they have asked you more than once.

[8]Be brief, say much in few words;
be knowledgeable and yet quiet.
[9]When among elders do not be forward,
and with officials do not be too insistent.
[10]The lightning that flashes before a hailstorm:
the esteem that shines on modesty.
[11]Leave in good time and do not be the last;
go home quickly without delay.
[12]There enjoy doing as you wish,
but do not sin through words of pride.
[13]Above all, bless your Maker,
who showers his favors upon you.

The Providence of God. [14]Whoever seeks God must accept discipline;
and whoever resorts to him obtains an answer.
[15]Whoever seeks the law will master it,
but the hypocrite will be ensnared by it.
[16]Whoever fears the LORD will understand what is right, and out of obscurity he will draw forth a course of action.
[17]The lawless turn aside warnings
and distort the law to suit their purpose.

[18]The sensible will not neglect direction;
the proud and insolent are deterred by no fear.
[19]Do nothing without deliberation;
then once you have acted, have no regrets.
[20]Do not go on a way set with snares,
and do not stumble on the same thing twice.
[21]Do not trust the road, because of bandits;
[22]be careful on your paths.
[23]Whatever you do, be on your guard,
for whoever does so keeps the commandments.
[24]Whoever keeps the law preserves himself;
and whoever trusts in the LORD shall not be put to shame.

33:1 No evil can harm the one who fears the LORD;
through trials, again and again he is rescued.
[2]Whoever hates the law is without wisdom,
and is tossed about like a boat in a storm.
[3]The prudent trust in the word of the LORD,
and the law is dependable for them as a divine oracle.
[4]Prepare your words and then you will be listened to;
draw upon your training, and give your answer.

[5]Like the wheel of a cart is the mind of a fool,
and his thoughts like a turning axle.
[6]A mocking friend is like a stallion that neighs, no matter who the rider may be.

[7]Why is one day more important than another,
when the same sun lights up every day of the year?

[8]By the LORD's knowledge they are kept distinct;
and he designates the seasons and feasts.
[9]Some he exalts and sanctifies,
and others he lists as ordinary days.
[10]Likewise, all people are of clay,
and from earth humankind was formed;
[11]In the fullness of his knowledge the Lord distinguished them,
and he designated their different ways.
[12]Some he blessed and exalted,
and some he sanctified and drew to himself.
Others he cursed and brought low,
and expelled them from their place.
[13]Like clay in the hands of a potter,
to be molded according to his pleasure,
So are people in the hands of their Maker,
to be dealt with as he decides.
[14]As evil contrasts with good, and death with life,
so are sinners in contrast with the godly.
[15]See now all the works of the Most High:
they come in pairs, one the opposite of the other.

[16]Now I am the last to keep vigil,
like a gleaner following the grape-pickers;
[17]Since by the Lord's blessing I have made progress
till like a grape-picker I have filled my wine press, [18]Consider that not for myself only have I labored,
but for all who seek instruction.

Property and Servants. [19]Listen to me, leaders of the people;
rulers of the congregation, pay heed!
[20a]Let neither son nor wife, neither brother nor friend,
have power over you as long as you live.
[21]While breath of life is still in you,
let no one take your place.
[20b]Do not give your wealth to another,
lest you must plead for support yourself.
[22]Far better that your children plead with you than that you should look for a handout from them.
[23]Keep control over all your affairs;
bring no stain on your honor.
[24]When your few days reach their limit,
at the time of death distribute your inheritance.

[25]Fodder and whip and loads for a donkey;
food, correction and work for a slave.
[26]Make a slave work, and he will look for rest;
let his hands be idle and he will seek to be free.
[27]The yoke and harness will bow the neck;
and for a wicked slave, punishment in the stocks.
[28]Force him to work that he be not idle,

[29]for idleness teaches much mischief.
[30]Put him to work, as is fitting for him;
and if he does not obey, load him with chains.
But never lord it over any human being,
and do nothing unjust.
[31]If you have but one slave, treat him like yourself,
for you have acquired him with your life's blood;
If you have but one slave, deal with him as a brother,
for you need him as you need your life.
[32]If you mistreat him and he runs away,
[33]in what direction will you look for him?

☐ ACTS 1

The Promise of the Spirit. 1:1 In the first book, Theophilus, I dealt with all that Jesus did and taught [2]until the day he was taken up, after giving instructions through the holy Spirit to the apostles whom he had chosen. [3]He presented himself alive to them by many proofs after he had suffered, appearing to them during forty days and speaking about the kingdom of God. [4]While meeting with them, he enjoined them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for "the promise of the Father about which you have heard me speak; [5]for John baptized with water, but in a few days you will be baptized with the holy Spirit."

The Ascension of Jesus. [6]When they had gathered together they asked him, "Lord, are you at this time going to restore the kingdom to Israel?" [7]He answered them, "It is not for you to know the times or seasons that the Father has established by his own authority. [8]But you will receive power when the holy Spirit comes upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem, throughout Judea and Samaria, and to the ends of the earth." [9]When he had said this, as they were looking on, he was lifted up, and a cloud took him from their sight. [10]While they were looking intently at the sky as he was going, suddenly two men dressed in white garments stood beside them. [11]They said, "Men of Galilee, why are you standing there looking at the sky? This Jesus who has been taken up from you into heaven will return in the same way as you have seen him going into heaven." [12]Then they returned to Jerusalem from the mount called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a sabbath day's journey away.

The First Community in Jerusalem. [13]When they entered the city they went to the upper room where they were staying, Peter and John and James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James son of Alphaeus, Simon the Zealot, and Judas son of James. [14]All these devoted themselves with one accord to prayer, together with some women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and his brothers.

The Choice of Judas's Successor. [15]During those days Peter stood up in the midst of the brothers (there was a group of about one hundred and twenty persons in the one place). He said, [16]"My brothers, the scripture had to be fulfilled which the holy Spirit spoke beforehand through the mouth of David, concerning Judas, who was the guide for those who arrested Jesus. [17]He was numbered among us and was allotted a share in this ministry. [18]He bought a parcel of land with the wages of his iniquity, and falling headlong, he burst open in the middle, and all his insides spilled out. [19]This became known to everyone who lived in Jerusalem, so that the parcel of land was called in their language 'Akeldama,' that is, Field of Blood. [20]For it is written in the Book of Psalms:

'Let his encampment become desolate,
and may no one dwell in it.'

And:

'May another take his office.'

[21]Therefore, it is necessary that one of the men who accompanied us the whole time the Lord Jesus came and went among us, [22]beginning from the baptism of John until the day on which he was taken up from us, become with us a witness to his resurrection." [23]So they proposed two, Joseph called Barsabbas, who was also known as Justus, and Matthias. [24]Then they prayed, "You, Lord, who know the hearts of all, show which one of these two you have chosen [25]to take the place in this apostolic ministry from which Judas turned away to go to his own place." [26]Then they gave lots to them, and the lot fell upon Matthias, and he was counted with the eleven apostles.

St. Monica

> When I die, put this body away anywhere. Don't let care about it disturb you. I ask only this of you, that you remember me at the altar of the Lord, wherever you may be. Nothing is far from God. I need not fear that He will not know where to raise me up at the end of the world.

☐ SIRACH 34-36

Trust in the Lord and Not in Dreams. 34:1 Empty and false are the hopes of the senseless, and dreams give wings to fools.
[2]Like one grasping at shadows or chasing the wind,
so anyone who believes in dreams.
[3]What is seen in dreams is a reflection,
the likeness of a face looking at itself.
[4]How can the unclean produce what is clean?
How can the false produce what is true?
[5]Divination, omens, and dreams are unreal;
what you already expect, the mind fantasizes.
[6]Unless they are specially sent by the Most High,
do not fix your heart on them.
[7]For dreams have led many astray,
and those who put their hope in them have perished.
[8]Without such deceptions the Law will be fulfilled,
and in the mouth of the faithful is complete wisdom.

[9]A much-traveled person knows many things;
and one with much experience speaks sense.
[10]An inexperienced person knows little,
[11]whereas with travel one adds to resourcefulness.
[12]I have seen much in my travels,
and learned more than I could ever say.
[13]Often I was in danger of death,
but by these experiences I was saved.

[14]Living is the spirit of those who fear the Lord,
[15]for their hope is in their savior.
[16]Whoever fear the Lord are afraid of nothing
and are never discouraged, for he is their hope.
[17]Happy the soul that fears the Lord!

[18]In whom does he trust, and who is his support?
[19]The eyes of the Lord are upon those who love him;
he is their mighty shield and strong support,
A shelter from the heat, a shade from the noonday sun,
a guard against stumbling, a help against falling.
[20]He lifts up spirits, brings a sparkle to the eyes, gives health and life and blessing.

True Worship of God. [21]Ill-gotten goods offered in sacrifice are tainted.
[22]Presents from the lawless do not win God's favor.
[23]The Most High is not pleased with the gifts of the godless, nor for their many sacrifices does he forgive their sins.
[24]One who slays a son in his father's presence—
whoever offers sacrifice from the holdings of the poor.
[25]The bread of charity is life itself for the needy;
whoever withholds it is a murderer.
[26]To take away a neighbor's living is to commit murder;
[27]to deny a laborer wages is to shed blood.

[28]If one builds up and another tears down,
what do they gain but trouble?
[29]If one prays and another curses,
whose voice will God hear?
[30]If one again touches a corpse after bathing,
what does he gain by the purification?
[31]So one who fasts for sins,
but goes and commits them again:
Who will hear his prayer,
what is gained by mortification?

35:1 To keep the law is to make many offerings;
[2]whoever observes the commandments sacrifices a peace offering.
[3]By works of charity one offers fine flour,
[4]and one who gives alms presents a sacrifice of praise.
[5]To refrain from evil pleases the Lord,
and to avoid injustice is atonement.

[6]Do not appear before the Lord empty-handed,
[7]for all that you offer is in fulfillment of the precepts.
[8]The offering of the just enriches the altar:
a sweet odor before the Most High.
[9]The sacrifice of the just is accepted,
never to be forgotten.
[10]With a generous spirit pay homage to the Lord,
and do not spare your freewill gifts.
[11]With each contribution show a cheerful countenance,
and pay your tithes in a spirit of joy.
[12]Give to the Most High as he has given to you,
generously, according to your means.
[13]For he is a God who always repays
and will give back to you sevenfold.

[14]But offer no bribes; these he does not accept!
[15]Do not trust in sacrifice of the fruits of extortion,
For he is a God of justice,
who shows no partiality.
[16]He shows no partiality to the weak
but hears the grievance of the oppressed.
[17]He does not forsake the cry of the orphan,
nor the widow when she pours out her complaint.
[18]Do not the tears that stream down her cheek
[19]cry out against the one that causes them to fall?
[20]Those who serve God to please him are accepted;
their petition reaches the clouds.
[21]The prayer of the lowly pierces the clouds;
it does not rest till it reaches its goal;
Nor will it withdraw till the Most High responds, [22]judges justly and affirms the right.

God indeed will not delay,
and like a warrior, will not be still Till he breaks the backs of the merciless [23]and wreaks vengeance upon the nations;
Till he destroys the scepter of the proud,
and cuts off the staff of the wicked;
[24]Till he requites everyone according to their deeds,
and repays them according to their thoughts;
[25]Till he defends the cause of his people,
and makes them glad by his salvation.
[26]Welcome is his mercy in time of distress
as rain clouds in time of drought.

A Prayer for God's People. 36:1 Come to our aid, O God of the universe,
[2]and put all the nations in dread of you!
[3]Raise your hand against the foreign people,
that they may see your mighty deeds.
[4]As you have used us to show them your holiness,
so now use them to show us your glory.
[5]Thus they will know, as we know,
that there is no God but you.

[6]Give new signs and work new wonders;
[7]show forth the splendor of your right hand and arm.
[8]Rouse your anger, pour out wrath;
[9]humble the enemy, scatter the foe.
[10]Hasten the ending, appoint the time,
and let people proclaim your mighty deeds.
[11]Let raging fire consume the fugitive,
and your people's oppressors meet destruction.
[12]Crush the heads of the hostile rulers
who say, "There is no one besides me."

[13]Gather all the tribes of Jacob,

[16]that they may inherit the land as in days of old.
[17]Show mercy to the people called by your name:
Israel, whom you named your firstborn.
[18]Take pity on your holy city:
Jerusalem, your dwelling place.
[19]Fill Zion with your majesty,
your temple with your glory.

[20]Give evidence of your deeds of old;
fulfill the prophecies spoken in your name.
[21]Reward those who have hoped in you,
and let your prophets be proved true.
[22]Hear the prayer of your servants,
according to your good will toward your people.
Thus all the ends of the earth will know that you are the eternal God.

Choice of Associates. [23]The throat can swallow any food,
yet some foods are more agreeable than others.
[24]The palate tests delicacies put forward as gifts,
so does a keen mind test deceitful tidbits.
[25]One with a tortuous heart brings about grief,
but an experienced person can turn the tables on him.

[26]A woman will accept any man as husband,
but one woman will be preferable to another.
[27]A woman's beauty makes her husband's face light up,
for it surpasses all else that delights the eye.
[28]And if, besides, her speech is soothing,
her husband's lot is beyond that of mortal men.
[29]A wife is her husband's richest treasure,
a help like himself and a staunch support.
[30]A vineyard with no hedge will be overrun;
and a man with no wife becomes a homeless wanderer.
[31]Who will trust an armed band
that shifts from city to city?
Or a man who has no nest,
who lodges wherever night overtakes him?

☐ ACTS 2

The Coming of the Spirit. 2:1 When the time for Pentecost was fulfilled, they were all in one place together. [2]And suddenly there came from the sky a noise like a strong driving wind, and it filled the entire house in which they were. [3]Then there appeared to them tongues as of fire, which parted and came to rest on each one of them. [4]And they were all filled with the holy Spirit and began to speak in different tongues, as the Spirit enabled them to proclaim.

[5]Now there were devout Jews from every nation under heaven staying in Jerusalem. [6]At this sound, they gathered in a large crowd, but they were confused because each one heard them speaking in his own language. [7]They were astounded, and in amazement they asked, "Are not all these people who are speaking Galileans? [8]Then how does each of us hear them in his own native language? [9]We are Parthians, Medes, and Elamites, inhabitants of Mesopotamia, Judea and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, [10]Phrygia and Pamphylia, Egypt and the districts of Libya near Cyrene, as well as travelers from Rome, [11]both Jews and converts to Judaism, Cretans and Arabs, yet we hear them speaking in our own tongues of the mighty acts of God." [12]They were all astounded and bewildered, and said to one another, "What does this mean?" [13]But others said, scoffing, "They have had too much new wine."

Peter's Speech at Pentecost. [14]Then Peter stood up with the Eleven, raised his voice, and proclaimed to them,
"You who are Jews, indeed all of you staying in Jerusalem. Let this be known to you, and listen to my words. [15]These people are not drunk, as you suppose, for it is only nine o'clock in the morning. [16]No, this is what was spoken through the prophet Joel:

[17]'It will come to pass in the last days,' God says,
'that I will pour out a portion of my spirit upon all flesh.
Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy,
your young men shall see visions,
your old men shall dream dreams.
[18]Indeed, upon my servants and my handmaids
I will pour out a portion of my spirit in those days,
and they shall prophesy.
[19]And I will work wonders in the heavens above
and signs on the earth below:
blood, fire, and a cloud of smoke.
[20]The sun shall be turned to darkness,
and the moon to blood,
before the coming of the great and splendid day of the Lord, [21]and it shall be that everyone shall be saved who calls on the name of the Lord.'

[22]You who are Israelites, hear these words. Jesus the Nazorean was a man commended to you by God with mighty deeds, wonders, and signs, which God worked through him in your midst, as you yourselves know. [23]This man, delivered up by the set plan and foreknowledge of God, you killed, using lawless men to crucify him. [24]But God raised him up, releasing him from the throes of death, because it was impossible for him to be held by it. [25]For David says of him:

'I saw the Lord ever before me,
with him at my right hand I shall not be disturbed.
[26]Therefore my heart has been glad and my tongue has exulted;
my flesh, too, will dwell in hope, [27]because you will not abandon my soul to the netherworld,
nor will you suffer your holy one to see corruption.
[28]You have made known to me the paths of life;
you will fill me with joy in your presence.'

[29]My brothers, one can confidently say to you about the patriarch David that he died and was buried, and his tomb is in our midst to this day. [30]But since he was a prophet and knew that God had sworn an oath to him that he would set one of his descendants upon his throne, [31]he foresaw and spoke of the resurrection of the Messiah, that neither was he abandoned to the netherworld nor did his flesh see corruption. [32]God raised this Jesus; of this we are all witnesses.
[33]Exalted at the right hand of God, he received the promise of the holy Spirit from the Father and poured it forth, as you (both) see and hear. [34]For David did not go up into heaven, but he himself said:

‘The Lord said to my Lord, “Sit at my right hand
[35]until I make your enemies your footstool.’”

[36]Therefore let the whole house of Israel know for certain that God has made him both Lord and Messiah, this Jesus whom you crucified.”

[37]Now when they heard this, they were cut to the heart, and they asked Peter and the other apostles, “What are we to do, my brothers?” [38]Peter [said] to them, “Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins; and you will receive the gift of the holy Spirit. [39]For the promise is made to you and to your children and to all those far off, whomever the Lord our God will call.” [40]He testified with many other arguments, and was exhorting them, “Save yourselves from this corrupt generation.” [41]Those who accepted his message were baptized, and about three thousand persons were added that day.

Communal Life. [42]They devoted themselves to the teaching of the apostles and to the communal life, to the breaking of the bread and to the prayers. [43]Awe came upon everyone, and many wonders and signs were done through the apostles. [44]All who believed were together and had all things in common; [45]they would sell their property and possessions and divide them among all according to each one’s need. [46]Every day they devoted themselves to meeting together in the temple area and to breaking bread in their homes. They ate their meals with exultation and sincerity of heart, [47]praising God and enjoying favor with all the people. And every day the Lord added to their number those who were being saved.

St. Augustine of Hippo

God has deemed it better to bring good out of evil than not to permit evil at all.

— St. Augustine of Hippo

☐ SIRACH 37-39

37:1 Every friend declares friendship,
but there are friends who are friends in name only.
[2]Is it not a sorrow unto death
when your other self becomes your enemy?
[3]“Alas, my companion! Why were you created to fill the earth with deceit?”
[4]A harmful friend will look to your table,
but in time of trouble he stands aloof.
[5]A good friend will fight with you against the foe,
and against your enemies he will hold up your shield.
[6]Do not forget your comrade during the battle,
and do not neglect him when you distribute your spoils.

[7]Every counselor points out a way,
but some counsel ways of their own.
[8]Watch out when one offers advice;
find out first of all what he wants.
For he also may be thinking of himself—
Why should the opportunity fall to him?
[9]He may tell you how good your way will be,
and then stand by to see you impoverished.

[10]Seek no advice from your father-in-law,
and from one who is envious of you, keep your intentions hidden.
[11]Seek no advice from a woman about her rival,
from a coward about war,
from a merchant about business,
from a buyer about value,
from a miser about generosity,
from a cruel person about well-being,
from a worthless worker about his work,
from a seasonal laborer about the harvest,
from an idle slave about a great task—
pay no attention to any advice they give.

[12]Instead, associate with a religious person,
who you know keeps the commandments;
Who is like-minded with yourself
and will grieve for you if you fall.
[13]Then, too, heed your own heart's counsel;
for there is nothing you can depend on more.
[14]The heart can reveal your situation
better than seven sentinels on a tower.
[15]Then with all this, pray to God
to make your steps firm in the true path.

Wisdom and Temperance. [16]A word is the source of every deed;
a thought, of every act.
[17]The root of all conduct is the heart;
[18]four branches it shoots forth:
Good and evil, death and life,
and their absolute mistress is the tongue.
[19]One may be wise and benefit many,
yet appear foolish to himself.
[20]One may be wise, but if his words are rejected,
he will be deprived of all enjoyment.
[22]When one is wise to his own advantage,
the fruits of knowledge are seen in his own person.
[23]When one is wise to the advantage of people,
the fruits of knowledge are lasting.
[24]One wise for himself has full enjoyment,
and all who see him praise him.
[25]The days of one's life are numbered,
but the life of Israel, days without number.
[26]One wise among the people wins a heritage of glory,
and his name lives on and on.

[27]My son, while you are well, govern your appetite,
and see that you do not allow it what is bad for you.
[28]For not everything is good for everyone,
nor is everything suited to every taste.
[29]Do not go to excess with any enjoyment,

neither become a glutton for choice foods;
30For sickness comes with overeating,
and gluttony brings on nausea.
31Through lack of self-control many have died,
but the abstemious one prolongs life.

Sickness and Death. 38:1 Make friends with the doctor, for he is essential to you;
God has also established him in his profession.
2From God the doctor has wisdom,
and from the king he receives sustenance.
3Knowledge makes the doctor distinguished,
and gives access to those in authority.
4God makes the earth yield healing herbs
which the prudent should not neglect; 5Was not the water sweetened by a twig,
so that all might learn his power?
6He endows people with knowledge,
to glory in his mighty works,
7Through which the doctor eases pain,
8and the druggist prepares his medicines.
Thus God's work continues without cease
in its efficacy on the surface of the earth.

9My son, when you are ill, do not delay,
but pray to God, for it is he who heals.
10Flee wickedness and purify your hands;
cleanse your heart of every sin.
11Offer your sweet-smelling oblation and memorial,
a generous offering according to your means.
12Then give the doctor his place
lest he leave; you need him too,
13For there are times when recovery is in his hands.
14He too prays to God
That his diagnosis may be correct
and his treatment bring about a cure.
15Whoever is a sinner before his Maker
will be defiant toward the doctor.

16My son, shed tears for one who is dead
with wailing and bitter lament;
As is only proper, prepare the body,
and do not absent yourself from the burial.
17Weeping bitterly, mourning fully,
pay your tribute of sorrow, as deserved:
A day or two, to prevent gossip;
then compose yourself after your grief.
18For grief can bring on death,
and heartache can sap one's strength.
19When a person is carried away, sorrow is over;
and the life of the poor one is grievous to the heart.
20Do not turn your thoughts to him again;

cease to recall him; think rather of the end.
[21]Do not recall him, for there is no hope of his return;
you do him no good, and you harm yourself.
[22]Remember that his fate will also be yours;
for him it was yesterday, for you today.
[23]With the dead at rest, let memory cease;
be consoled, once the spirit has gone.

Vocations of the Skilled Worker and the Scribe. [24]The scribe's wisdom increases wisdom;
whoever is free from toil can become wise.
[25]How can one become learned who guides the plow,
and thrills in wielding the goad like a lance,
Who guides the ox and urges on the bullock,
and whose every concern is for cattle?
[26]His concern is to plow furrows,
and he is careful to fatten the livestock.

[27]So with every engraver and designer
who, laboring night and day, Fashions carved seals,
and whose concern is to vary the pattern.
His determination is to produce a lifelike impression,
and he is careful to finish the work.

[28]So too the smith sitting by the anvil,
intent on the iron he forges.
The flame from the fire sears his flesh,
yet he toils away in the furnace heat.
The clang of the hammer deafens his ears;
his eyes are on the object he is shaping.
His determination is to finish the work,
and he is careful to perfect it in detail.

[29]So also the potter sitting at his labor,
revolving the wheel with his feet.
He is always concerned for his products,
and turns them out in quantity.
[30]With his hands he molds the clay,
and with his feet softens it.
His determination is to complete the glazing,
and he is careful to fire the kiln.

[31]All these are skilled with their hands,
each one an expert at his own work; [32]Without them no city could be lived in,
and wherever they stay, they do not go hungry.
But they are not sought out for the council of the people, [33]nor are they prominent in the assembly.
They do not sit on the judge's bench,
nor can they understand law and justice.
They cannot expound discipline or judgment,

nor are they found among the rulers.
[34]Yet they maintain the fabric of the world,
and their concern is for exercise of their skill.

How different the person who devotes himself to the study of the law of the Most High!

39:1 He explores the wisdom of all the ancients
and is occupied with the prophecies;
[2]He preserves the discourses of the famous,
and goes to the heart of involved sayings;
[3]He seeks out the hidden meaning of proverbs,
and is busied with the enigmas found in parables.

[4]He is in attendance on the great,
and appears before rulers.
He travels among the peoples of foreign lands
to test what is good and evil among people.
[5]His care is to rise early to seek the Lord his Maker,
to petition the Most High,
To open his mouth in prayer,
to ask pardon for his sins.

[6]If it pleases the Lord Almighty,
he will be filled with the spirit of understanding;
He will pour forth his words of wisdom
and in prayer give praise to the Lord.
[7]He will direct his knowledge and his counsel,
as he meditates upon God's mysteries.
[8]He will show the wisdom of what he has learned and glory in the Law of the Lord's covenant.

[9]Many will praise his understanding;
his name can never be blotted out;
Unfading will be his memory,
through all generations his name will live;
[10]Peoples will speak of his wisdom,
and the assembly will declare his praise.
[11]While he lives he is one out of a thousand,
and when he dies he leaves a good name.

Praise of God the Creator. [12]Once more I will set forth my theme to shine like the moon in its fullness!
[13]Listen to me, my faithful children: open up your petals,
like roses planted near running waters;
[14]Send up the sweet odor of incense,
break forth in blossoms like the lily.
Raise your voices in a chorus of praise;
bless the Lord for all his works!
[15]Proclaim the greatness of his name,

loudly sing his praises,
With music on the harp and all stringed instruments;
sing out with joy as you proclaim:

16 The works of God are all of them good;
he supplies for every need in its own time.
17 At his word the waters become still as in a flask;
he had but to speak and the reservoirs were made.
18 He has but to command and his will is done;
nothing can limit his saving action.
19 The works of all humankind are present to him;
nothing is hidden from his eyes.
20 His gaze spans all the ages:
is there any limit to his saving action?
To him, nothing is small or insignificant,
and nothing too wonderful or hard for him.
21 No cause then to say: "What is the purpose of this?"
Everything is chosen to satisfy a need.

22 His blessing overflows like the Nile;
like the Euphrates it enriches the surface of the earth.
23 Even so, his wrath dispossesses the nations
and turns fertile land into a salt marsh.
24 For the virtuous his paths are level,
to the haughty they are clogged with stones.
25 Good things for the good he provided from the beginning,
but for the wicked good things and bad.
26 Chief of all needs for human life
are water and fire, iron and salt,
The heart of the wheat, milk and honey,
the blood of the grape, and oil, and clothing.
27 For the good all these are good,
but for the wicked they turn out evil.

28 There are stormwinds created to punish;
in their fury they can dislodge mountains.
In a time of destruction they hurl their force
and calm the anger of their Maker.
29 Fire and hail, famine and disease:
these too were created for punishment.
30 Ravenous beasts, scorpions, vipers,
and the avenging sword to exterminate the wicked:
All these were created to meet a need,
and are kept in his storehouse for the proper time.
31 When he commands them, they rejoice,
in their assigned tasks they do not disobey his command.

32 That is why from the first I took my stand,
and wrote down as my theme:
33 The works of God are all of them good;
he supplies for every need in its own time.

[34]There is no cause then to say: “This is not as good as that”;
for each shows its worth at the proper time.
[35]So now with full heart and voice proclaim and bless his name!

☐ ACTS 3

Cure of a Crippled Beggar. 3:1 Now Peter and John were going up to the temple area for the three o’clock hour of prayer. [2]And a man crippled from birth was carried and placed at the gate of the temple called “the Beautiful Gate” every day to beg for alms from the people who entered the temple. [3]When he saw Peter and John about to go into the temple, he asked for alms. [4]But Peter looked intently at him, as did John, and said, “Look at us.” [5]He paid attention to them, expecting to receive something from them. [6]Peter said, “I have neither silver nor gold, but what I do have I give you: in the name of Jesus Christ the Nazorean, [rise and] walk.” [7]Then Peter took him by the right hand and raised him up, and immediately his feet and ankles grew strong. [8]He leaped up, stood, and walked around, and went into the temple with them, walking and jumping and praising God. [9]When all the people saw him walking and praising God, [10]they recognized him as the one who used to sit begging at the Beautiful Gate of the temple, and they were filled with amazement and astonishment at what had happened to him.

Peter’s Speech. [11]As he clung to Peter and John, all the people hurried in amazement toward them in the portico called “Solomon’s Portico.” [12]When Peter saw this, he addressed the people, “You Israelites, why are you amazed at this, and why do you look so intently at us as if we had made him walk by our own power or piety? [13]The God of Abraham, [the God] of Isaac, and [the God] of Jacob, the God of our ancestors, has glorified his servant Jesus whom you handed over and denied in Pilate’s presence, when he had decided to release him. [14]You denied the Holy and Righteous One and asked that a murderer be released to you. [15]The author of life you put to death, but God raised him from the dead; of this we are witnesses. [16]And by faith in his name, this man, whom you see and know, his name has made strong, and the faith that comes through it has given him this perfect health, in the presence of all of you. [17]Now I know, brothers, that you acted out of ignorance, just as your leaders did; [18]but God has thus brought to fulfillment what he had announced beforehand through the mouth of all the prophets, that his Messiah would suffer. [19]Repent, therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be wiped away, [20]and that the Lord may grant you times of refreshment and send you the Messiah already appointed for you, Jesus, [21]whom heaven must receive until the times of universal restoration of which God spoke through the mouth of his holy prophets from of old. [22]For Moses said:

‘A prophet like me will the Lord, your God, raise up for you from among your own kinsmen;
to him you shall listen in all that he may say to you.
[23]Everyone who does not listen to that prophet will be cut off from the people.’

[24]Moreover, all the prophets who spoke, from Samuel and those afterwards, also announced these days. [25]You are the children of the prophets and of the covenant that God made with your ancestors when he said to Abraham, ‘In your offspring all the families of the earth shall be blessed.’ [26]For you first, God raised up his servant and sent him to bless you by turning each of you from your evil ways.”

The Martyrdom of St. John the Baptist

There is no doubt that blessed John suffered imprisonment and chains as a witness to our Redeemer, whose forerunner he was, and gave his life for Him. His persecutor had demanded not that he should deny Christ, but only that he should keep silent about the truth. Nevertheless, he died for Christ. Doesn't Christ say: "I am the truth"? Therefore, because John shed his blood for the truth, he surely died for Christ.

— St. Bede the Venerable

☐ SIRACH 40-42

Joys and Miseries of Life. 40:1 A great anxiety has God allotted,
and a heavy yoke, to the children of Adam,
From the day they leave their mother's womb
until the day they return to the mother of all the living.
[2]Troubled thoughts and fear of heart are theirs
and anxious foreboding until death.
[3]Whether one sits on a lofty throne
or grovels in dust and ashes, [4]Whether one wears a splendid crown
or is clothed in the coarsest of garments—[5]There is wrath and envy, trouble and dread, terror of death, fury and strife.
Even when one lies on his bed to rest,
his cares disturb his sleep at night.
[6]So short is his rest it seems like none,
till in his dreams he struggles as he did by day, Troubled by the visions of his mind,
like a fugitive fleeing from the pursuer.
[7]As he reaches safety, he wakes up,
astonished that there was nothing to fear.
[8]To all flesh, human being and beast,
but for sinners seven times more,
[9]Come plague and bloodshed, fiery heat and drought,
plunder and ruin, famine and death.
[10]For the wicked evil was created,
and because of them destruction hastens.

[11]All that is of earth returns to earth,
and what is from above returns above.
[12]All that comes from bribes or injustice will be wiped out,
but loyalty remains forever.
[13]Wealth from injustice is like a flooding wadi,
like a mighty stream with lightning and thunder, [14]Which, in its rising, rolls along the stones,
but suddenly, once and for all, comes to an end.
[15]The offshoot of violence will not flourish,
for the root of the godless is on sheer rock.
[16]They are like reeds on riverbanks,
withered before all other plants;
[17]But goodness, like eternity, will never be cut off,
and righteousness endures forever.

[18]Wealth or wages can make life sweet,
but better than either, finding a treasure.
[19]A child or a city will preserve one's name,
but better than either, finding wisdom.
Cattle and orchards make a person flourish;
but better than either, a devoted wife.
[20]Wine and strong drink delight the soul,
but better than either, love of friends.
[21]Flute and harp offer sweet melody,
but better than either, a pure tongue.
[22]Grace and beauty delight the eye,
but better than either, the produce of the field.
[23]A friend and a neighbor are timely guides,
but better than either, a sensible wife.
[24]Relatives and helpers for times of stress;
but better than either, charity that rescues.
[25]Gold and silver make one's way secure,
but better than either, sound judgment.
[26]Wealth and vigor make the heart exult,
but better than either, fear of God.
In the fear of the Lord there is no want;
whoever has it need seek no other support.
[27]The fear of God is a paradise of blessings;
its canopy is over all that is glorious.

[28]My son, do not live the life of a beggar;
better to die than to beg.
[29]When one has to look to a stranger's table,
life is not worth living.
The delicacies offered bring revulsion of spirit,
and to the intelligent, inward torture.
[30]In the mouth of the shameless begging is sweet,
but within him it burns like fire.

41:1 O death! How bitter is the thought of you for the one at peace in his home,
For the one who is serene and always successful,
who can still enjoy life's pleasures.
[2]O death! How welcome is your sentence to the weak, failing in strength, Stumbling and tripping on everything,
with sight gone and hope lost.
[3]Do not fear death's decree for you;
remember, it embraces those before you and those to come.
[4]This decree for all flesh is from God;
why then should you reject a law of the Most High?
Whether one has lived a thousand years, a hundred, or ten,
in Sheol there are no arguments about life.

[5]The children of sinners are a reprobate line,

and witless offspring are in the homes of the wicked.
[6]The inheritance of children of sinners will perish,
and on their offspring will be perpetual disgrace.
[7]Children curse their wicked father,
for they suffer disgrace because of him.
[8]Woe to you, O wicked people, who forsake the Law of the Most High.
[9]If you have children, calamity will be theirs;
and if you beget them, it will be only for groaning.
When you stumble, there is lasting joy;
and when you die, you become a curse.
[10]All that is nought returns to nought,
so too the godless—from void to void.

[11]The human body is a fleeting thing,
but a virtuous name will never be annihilated.
[12]Have respect for your name, for it will stand by you more than thousands of precious treasures.
[13]The good things of life last a number of days,
but a good name, for days without number.

True and False Shame. [14b]Hidden wisdom and concealed treasure,
of what value is either?
[15]Better is the person who hides his folly than the one who hides his wisdom.
[14a]My children, listen to instruction about shame;
[16a]judge of disgrace according to my rules, [16b]Not every kind of shame is shameful,
nor is every kind of disgrace to be recognized.
[17]Before father and mother be ashamed of immorality,
before prince and ruler, of falsehood;
[18]Before master and mistress, of deceit;
before the public assembly, of crime;
Before associate and friend, of disloyalty,
[19]and in the place where you settle, of theft.
Be ashamed of breaking an oath or a covenant,
and of stretching your elbow at dinner;
Of refusing to give when asked,
[21]of rebuffing your own relatives;
Of defrauding another of his appointed share,
[20a]of failing to return a greeting;
[21c]Of gazing at a man's wife,
[20b]of entertaining thoughts about another woman;
[22]Of trifling with a servant girl you have,
of violating her bed;
Of using harsh words with friends,
of following up your gifts with insults;

42:1 Of repeating what you hear,
of betraying any secret.
Be ashamed of the right things,

and you will find favor in the sight of all.

But of these things do not be ashamed,
lest you sin to save face:
[2]Of the Law of the Most High and his precepts,
or of justice that acquits the ungodly;
[3]Of sharing the expenses of a business or a journey,
of dividing an inheritance or property;
[4]Of accuracy of scales and balances,
of tested measures and weights;
Of acquiring much or little,
[5]of bargaining in dealing with a merchant;
Of constant training of children,
of beating the sides of a wicked servant;
[6]Of a seal to keep a foolish wife at home,
of a key where there are many hands;
[7]Of numbering every deposit,
of recording all that is taken in and given out;
[8]Of chastisement for the silly and the foolish,
for the aged and infirm answering for wanton conduct.
Thus you will be truly refined and recognized by all as discreet.

A Father's Care for His Daughter. [9]A daughter is a treasure that keeps her father wakeful,
and worry over her drives away sleep:
Lest in her youth she remain unmarried,
or when she is married, lest she be childless;
[10]While unmarried, lest she be defiled,
or in her husband's house, lest she prove unfaithful;
Lest she become pregnant in her father's house,
or be sterile in that of her husband.
[11]My son, keep a close watch on your daughter,
lest she make you a laughingstock for your enemies,
A byword in the city and the assembly of the people,
an object of derision in public gatherings.
See that there is no lattice in her room,
or spot that overlooks the approaches to the house.
[12]Do not let her reveal her beauty to any male,
or spend her time with married women;
[13]For just as moths come from garments,
so a woman's wickedness comes from a woman.
[14]Better a man's harshness than a woman's indulgence,
a frightened daughter than any disgrace.

The Works of God in Nature. [15]Now will I recall God's works;
what I have seen, I will describe.
By the LORD's word his works were brought into being;
he accepts the one who does his will.
[16]As the shining sun is clear to all,
so the glory of the LORD fills all his works;
[17]Yet even God's holy ones must fail

in recounting the wonders of the LORD, Though God has given his hosts the strength to stand firm before his glory.
[18]He searches out the abyss and penetrates the heart;
their secrets he understands.
For the Most High possesses all knowledge,
and sees from of old the things that are to come.
[19]He makes known the past and the future,
and reveals the deepest secrets.
[20]He lacks no understanding;
no single thing escapes him.
[21]He regulates the mighty deeds of his wisdom;
he is from all eternity one and the same,
With nothing added, nothing taken away;
no need of a counselor for him!
[22]How beautiful are all his works,
delightful to gaze upon and a joy to behold!
[23]Everything lives and abides forever;
and to meet each need all things are preserved.
[24]All of them differ, one from another,
yet none of them has he made in vain;
[25]For each in turn, as it comes, is good;
can one ever see enough of their splendor?

☐ ACTS 4

4:1 While they were still speaking to the people, the priests, the captain of the temple guard, and the Sadducees confronted them, [2]disturbed that they were teaching the people and proclaiming in Jesus the resurrection of the dead. [3]They laid hands on them and put them in custody until the next day, since it was already evening. [4]But many of those who heard the word came to believe and (the) number of men grew to [about] five thousand.

Before the Sanhedrin. [5]On the next day, their leaders, elders, and scribes were assembled in Jerusalem, [6]with Annas the high priest, Caiaphas, John, Alexander, and all who were of the high-priestly class. [7]They brought them into their presence and questioned them, "By what power or by what name have you done this?" [8]Then Peter, filled with the holy Spirit, answered them, "Leaders of the people and elders: [9]If we are being examined today about a good deed done to a cripple, namely, by what means he was saved, [10]then all of you and all the people of Israel should know that it was in the name of Jesus Christ the Nazorean whom you crucified, whom God raised from the dead; in his name this man stands before you healed. [11]He is 'the stone rejected by you, the builders, which has become the cornerstone.' [12]There is no salvation through anyone else, nor is there any other name under heaven given to the human race by which we are to be saved."

[13]Observing the boldness of Peter and John and perceiving them to be uneducated, ordinary men, they were amazed, and they recognized them as the companions of Jesus. [14]Then when they saw the man who had been cured standing there with them, they could say nothing in reply. [15]So they ordered them to leave the Sanhedrin, and conferred with one another, saying, [16]"What are we to do with these men? Everyone living in Jerusalem knows that a remarkable sign was done through them, and we cannot deny it. [17]But so that it may not be spread any further among the people, let us give them a stern warning never again to speak to anyone in this name."

[18]So they called them back and ordered them not to speak or teach at all in the name of Jesus. [19]Peter and John, however, said to them in reply, "Whether it is right in the sight of God for us to obey you rather than God, you be the judges. [20]It is impossible for us not to speak about what we have seen and heard." [21]After threatening them further, they released them, finding no way to punish them, on account of the people who were all praising God for what had happened. [22]For the man on whom this sign of healing had been done was over forty years old.

Prayer of the Community. [23]After their release they went back to their own people and reported what the chief priests and elders had told them. [24]And when they heard it, they raised their voices to God with one accord and said, "Sovereign Lord, maker of heaven and earth and the sea and all that is in them, [25]you said by the holy Spirit through the mouth of our father David, your servant:

'Why did the Gentiles rage
and the peoples entertain folly?
[26]The kings of the earth took their stand and the princes gathered together against the Lord and against his anointed.'

[27]Indeed they gathered in this city against your holy servant Jesus whom you anointed, Herod and Pontius Pilate, together with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel, [28]to do what your hand and [your] will had long ago planned to take place. [29]And now, Lord, take note of their threats, and enable your servants to speak your word with all boldness, [30]as you stretch forth [your] hand to heal, and signs and wonders are done through the name of your holy servant Jesus." [31]As they prayed, the place where they were gathered shook, and they were all filled with the holy Spirit and continued to speak the word of God with boldness.

Life in the Christian Community. [32]The community of believers was of one heart and mind, and no one claimed that any of his possessions was his own, but they had everything in common. [33]With great power the apostles bore witness to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great favor was accorded them all. [34]There was no needy person among them, for those who owned property or houses would sell them, bring the proceeds of the sale, [35]and put them at the feet of the apostles, and they were distributed to each according to need.

[36]Thus Joseph, also named by the apostles Barnabas (which is translated "son of encouragement"), a Levite, a Cypriot by birth, [37]sold a piece of property that he owned, then brought the money and put it at the feet of the apostles.

☐ SIRACH 43-44

43:1 The beauty of the celestial height and the pure firmament, heaven itself manifests its glory.
[2]The sun at its rising shines at its fullest,
a wonderful instrument, the work of the Most High!
[3]At noon it scorches the earth,
and who can bear its fiery heat?
[4]Like a blazing furnace of solid metal,
the sun's rays set the mountains aflame;
Its fiery tongue consumes the world;
the eyes are burned by its fire.
[5]Great indeed is the LORD who made it,
at whose orders it urges on its steeds.
[6]It is the moon that marks the changing seasons,
governing the times, their lasting sign.
[7]By it we know the sacred seasons and pilgrimage feasts,

a light which wanes in its course:
[8]The new moon like its name renews itself;
how wondrous it is when it changes:
A military signal for the waterskins on high,
it paves the firmament with its brilliance, [9]The beauty of the heavens and the glory of the stars,
a shining ornament in the heights of God.
[10]By the LORD's command the moon keeps its appointed place,
and does not fade as the stars keep watch.
[11]Behold the rainbow! Then bless its Maker, for majestic indeed is its splendor;
[12]It spans the heavens with its glory,
the hand of God has stretched it out in power.

[13]His rebuke marks out the path for the hail,
and makes the flashes of his judgment shine forth.
[14]For his own purposes he opens the storehouse
and makes the rain clouds fly like vultures.
[15]His might gives the clouds their strength,
and breaks off the hailstones.
[16]The thunder of his voice makes the earth writhe;
by his power he shakes the mountains.
[17]A word from him drives on the south wind,
whirlwind, hurricane, and stormwind.
He makes the snow fly like birds;
it settles down like swarms of locusts.
[18]Its shining whiteness blinds the eyes,
the mind marvels at its steady fall.
[19]He scatters frost like salt;
it shines like blossoms on the thornbush.
[20]He sends cold northern blasts
that harden the ponds like solid ground, Spreads a crust over every body of water,
and clothes each pool with a coat of armor.
[21]When mountain growth is scorched by heat,
and flowering plains as by fire, [22]The dripping clouds restore them all,
and the scattered dew enriches the parched land.
[23]His is the plan that calms the deep,
and plants the islands in the sea.
[24]Those who go down to the sea recount its extent,
and when we hear them we are thunderstruck;
[25]In it are his creatures, stupendous, amazing,
all kinds of life, and the monsters of the deep.
[26]For him each messenger succeeds,
and at his bidding accomplishes his will.

[27]More than this we need not add;
let the last word be, he is the all!
[28]Let us praise him the more, since we cannot fathom him,

for greater is he than all his works;
[29]Awesome indeed is the LORD,
and wonderful his power.
[30]Lift up your voices to glorify the LORD
as much as you can, for there is still more.
Extol him with renewed strength,
do not grow weary, for you cannot fathom him.
[31]For who has seen him and can describe him?
Who can praise him as he is?
[32]Beyond these, many things lie hidden;
only a few of his works have I seen.
[33]It is the LORD who has made all things;
to those who fear him he gives wisdom.

Praise of Israel's Great Ancestors. 44:1 I will now praise the godly,
our ancestors, in their own time,
[2]The abounding glory of the Most High's portion,
his own part, since the days of old.
[3]Subduers of the land in kingly fashion,
renowned for their might,
Counselors in their prudence,
seers of all things in prophecy,
[4]Resolute princes of the flock,
lawgivers and their rules,
Sages skilled in composition,
authors of sharp proverbs,
[5]Composers of melodious psalms,
writers of lyric poems;
[6]Stalwart, solidly established,
at peace in their own estates—
[7]All these were glorious in their time, illustrious in their day.
[8]Some of them left behind a name
so that people recount their praises.
[9]Of others no memory remains,
for when they perished, they perished,
As if they had never lived,
they and their children after them.
[10]Yet these also were godly;
their virtues have not been forgotten.
[11]Their wealth remains in their families,
their heritage with their descendants.
[12]Through God's covenant their family endures,
and their offspring for their sake.
[13]And for all time their progeny will endure,
their glory will never be blotted out;
[14]Their bodies are buried in peace,
but their name lives on and on.
[15]At gatherings their wisdom is retold,
and the assembly proclaims their praises.

The Early Ancestors. [16][ENOCH walked with the LORD and was taken,
that succeeding generations might learn by his example.]
[17]NOAH, found just and perfect, renewed the race in the time of devastation.
Because of his worth there were survivors,
and with a sign to him the deluge ended.
[18]A lasting covenant was made with him,
that never again would all flesh be destroyed.
[19]ABRAHAM, father of many peoples,
kept his glory without stain:
[20]He observed the Most High's command,
and entered into a covenant with him;
In his own flesh he incised the ordinance,
and when tested was found loyal.
[21]For this reason, God promised him with an oath
to bless the nations through his descendants,
To make him numerous as grains of dust,
and to exalt his posterity like the stars,
Giving them an inheritance from sea to sea,
and from the River to the ends of the earth.

[22]For ISAAC, too, he renewed the same promise
because of Abraham, his father.
The covenant with all his forebears was confirmed,
[23]and the blessing rested upon the head of ISRAEL.
God acknowledged him as the firstborn,
and gave him his inheritance.
He fixed the boundaries for his tribes
and their division into twelve.

☐ ACTS 5

Ananias and Sapphira. 5:1 A man named Ananias, however, with his wife Sapphira, sold a piece of property. [2]He retained for himself, with his wife's knowledge, some of the purchase price, took the remainder, and put it at the feet of the apostles. [3]But Peter said, "Ananias, why has Satan filled your heart so that you lied to the holy Spirit and retained part of the price of the land? [4]While it remained unsold, did it not remain yours? And when it was sold, was it not still under your control? Why did you contrive this deed? You have lied not to human beings, but to God." [5]When Ananias heard these words, he fell down and breathed his last, and great fear came upon all who heard of it. [6]The young men came and wrapped him up, then carried him out and buried him.

[7]After an interval of about three hours, his wife came in, unaware of what had happened. [8]Peter said to her, "Tell me, did you sell the land for this amount?" She answered, "Yes, for that amount." [9]Then Peter said to her, "Why did you agree to test the Spirit of the Lord? Listen, the footsteps of those who have buried your husband are at the door, and they will carry you out." [10]At once, she fell down at his feet and breathed her last. When the young men entered they found her dead, so they carried her out and buried her beside her husband. [11]And great fear came upon the whole church and upon all who heard of these things.

Signs and Wonders of the Apostles. [12]Many signs and wonders were done among the people at the hands of the apostles. They were all together in Solomon's portico. [13]None of the others dared to join them, but the people esteemed them. [14]Yet more than ever, believers in the Lord, great numbers of men and women, were added to them. [15]Thus they even carried the sick out into the streets and laid them on cots and mats so that when Peter came by, at least his shadow might fall on one or another of them. [16]A large number of people from the towns in the vicinity of Jerusalem also gathered, bringing the sick and those disturbed by unclean spirits, and they were all cured.

Trial before the Sanhedrin. [17]Then the high priest rose up and all his companions, that is, the party of the Sadducees, and, filled with jealousy, [18]laid hands upon the apostles and put them in the public jail. [19]But during the night, the angel of the Lord opened the doors of the prison, led them out, and said, [20]"Go and take your place in the temple area, and tell the people everything about this life." [21]When they heard this, they went to the temple early in the morning and taught. When the high priest and his companions arrived, they convened the Sanhedrin, the full senate of the Israelites, and sent to the jail to have them brought in. [22]But the court officers who went did not find them in the prison, so they came back and reported, [23]"We found the jail securely locked and the guards stationed outside the doors, but when we opened them, we found no one inside." [24]When they heard this report, the captain of the temple guard and the chief priests were at a loss about them, as to what this would come to. [25]Then someone came in and reported to them, "The men whom you put in prison are in the temple area and are teaching the people." [26]Then the captain and the court officers went and brought them in, but without force, because they were afraid of being stoned by the people.

[27]When they had brought them in and made them stand before the Sanhedrin, the high priest questioned them, [28]"We gave you strict orders [did we not?] to stop teaching in that name. Yet you have filled Jerusalem with your teaching and want to bring this man's blood upon us." [29]But Peter and the apostles said in reply, "We must obey God rather than men. [30]The God of our ancestors raised Jesus, though you had him killed by hanging him on a tree. [31]God exalted him at his right hand as leader and savior to grant Israel repentance and forgiveness of sins. [32]We are witnesses of these things, as is the holy Spirit that God has given to those who obey him."

[33]When they heard this, they became infuriated and wanted to put them to death. [34]But a Pharisee in the Sanhedrin named Gamaliel, a teacher of the law, respected by all the people, stood up, ordered the men to be put outside for a short time, [35]and said to them, "Fellow Israelites, be careful what you are about to do to these men. [36]Some time ago, Theudas appeared, claiming to be someone important, and about four hundred men joined him, but he was killed, and all those who were loyal to him were disbanded and came to nothing. [37]After him came Judas the Galilean at the time of the census. He also drew people after him, but he too perished and all who were loyal to him were scattered. [38]So now I tell you, have nothing to do with these men, and let them go. For if this endeavor or this activity is of human origin, it will destroy itself. [39]But if it comes from God, you will not be able to destroy them; you may even find yourselves fighting against God." They were persuaded by him. [40]After recalling the apostles, they had them flogged, ordered them to stop speaking in the name of Jesus, and dismissed them. [41]So they left the presence of the Sanhedrin, rejoicing that they had been found worthy to suffer dishonor for the sake of the name. [42]And all day long, both at the temple and in their homes, they did not stop teaching and proclaiming the Messiah, Jesus.

☐ SIRACH 45-46

Praise of Moses, Aaron, and Phinehas. 45:1 From him came the man who would win the favor of all the living:
Dear to God and human beings,
MOSES, whose memory is a blessing.
[2]God made him like the angels in honor,
and strengthened him with fearful powers.
[3]At his words God performed signs and sustained him in the king's presence.
He gave him the commandments for his people,

and revealed to him his glory.
[4]Because of his trustworthiness and meekness
God selected him from all flesh;
[5]He let him hear his voice,
and led him into the cloud,
Where he handed over the commandments,
the law of life and understanding,
That he might teach his precepts to Jacob,
his judgments and decrees to Israel.

[6]He also raised up, like Moses in holiness,
his brother AARON, of the tribe of Levi.
[7]He made his office perpetual and bestowed on him priesthood for his people;
He established him in honor and crowned him with lofty majesty.
[8]He clothed him in splendid garments,
and adorned him with glorious vestments:
Breeches, tunic, and robe
[9]with pomegranates at the hem
And a rustle of bells round about,
whose pleasing sound at each step
Would make him heard within the sanctuary,
a reminder for the people;
[10]The sacred vestments of gold, violet,
and crimson, worked with embroidery;
The breastpiece for decision, the ephod and cincture
[11]with scarlet yarn, the work of the weaver;
Precious stones with seal engravings
in golden settings, the work of the jeweler,
To commemorate in incised letters
each of the tribes of Israel; [12]On his turban a diadem of gold,
its plate engraved with the sacred inscription—
Majestic, glorious, renowned for splendor,
a delight to the eyes, supremely beautiful.
[13]Before him, no one had been adorned with these,
nor may they ever be worn by any other Except his sons and them alone,
generation after generation, for all time.
[14]His grain offering is wholly burnt
as an established offering twice each day;
[15]For Moses ordained him
and anointed him with the holy oil,
In a lasting covenant with him and his family,
as permanent as the heavens,
That he should serve God in the priesthood
and bless the people in his name.
[16]He chose him from all the living
to sacrifice burnt offerings and choice portions,

To burn incense, sweet odor as a memorial,
and to atone for the people of Israel.
[17]He gave to him the laws,
and authority to prescribe and to judge:
To teach precepts to the people,
and judgments to the Israelites.
[18]Strangers rose in anger against him,
grew jealous of him in the desert—
The followers of Dathan and Abiram,
and the band of Korah in their defiance.
[19]When the LORD saw this he became angry,
and destroyed them in his burning wrath.
He brought against them a marvel,
and consumed them in flaming fire.
[20]Then he increased the glory of Aaron and bestowed upon him his inheritance:
The sacred offerings he allotted to him,
with the showbread as his portion;
[21]The oblations of the LORD are his food,
a gift to him and his descendants.
[22]But he holds no land among the people
nor shares with them their heritage;
For the LORD himself is his portion and inheritance
among the Israelites.

[23]PHINEHAS too, the son of Eleazar,
was the courageous third of his line
When, zealous for the God of all,
he met the crisis of his people
And, at the prompting of his noble heart, atoned for the children of Israel.
[24]Therefore, on him also God conferred the right,
in a covenant of friendship, to provide for the sanctuary,
So that he and his descendants
should possess the high priesthood forever.
[25]For even his covenant with David,
the son of Jesse of the tribe of Judah,
Was an individual heritage through one son alone;
but the heritage of Aaron is for all his descendants.

So now bless the LORD
who has crowned you with glory!
[26]May he grant you wisdom of heart
to govern his people in justice,
Lest the benefits you confer should be forgotten,
or your authority, throughout all time.

Joshua, Caleb, the Judges, and Samuel. 46:1 Valiant warrior was JOSHUA, son of Nun, aide to Moses in the prophetic office,
Formed to be, as his name implies,
the great savior of God's chosen ones,

To punish the enemy
and to give to Israel their heritage.
2What glory was his when he raised his hand,
to brandish his sword against the city!
3Who could withstand him
when he fought the battles of the LORD?
4Was it not by that same hand the sun stopped,
so that one day became two?
5He called upon the Most High God
when his enemies beset him on all sides,
And God Most High answered him
with hailstones of tremendous power, 6That rained down upon the hostile army
till on the slope he destroyed the foe;
That all the doomed nations might know
the LORD was watching over his people's battles.
He was indeed a devoted follower of God
7and showed himself loyal in Moses' lifetime.
He and CALEB, son of Jephunneh,
when they opposed the rebel assembly,
Averted God's anger from the people
and suppressed the wicked complaint.
8Because of this, these two alone were spared from the six hundred thousand infantry,
To lead the people into their heritage,
the land flowing with milk and honey.
9The strength God gave to Caleb remained with him even in old age Till he won his way onto the summits of the land;
his family too received a heritage, 10That all the offspring of Jacob might know how good it is to be a devoted follower of the LORD.

11The JUDGES, each one of them,
whose hearts were not deceived,
Who did not abandon God—
may their memory be ever blessed!
12May their bones flourish with new life where they lie,
and their names receive fresh luster in their children!
13Beloved of his people, dear to his Maker,
pledged in a vow from his mother's womb,
As one consecrated to the LORD in the prophetic office,
was SAMUEL, the judge who offered sacrifice.
At God's word he established the kingdom and anointed princes to rule the people.
14By the law of the LORD he judged the congregation,
and visited the encampments of Jacob.
15As a trustworthy prophet he was sought out and his words proved him to be a true seer.
16He, too, called upon the mighty Lord

when his enemies pressed him on every side,
and offered up a suckling lamb.
17 Then the LORD thundered from heaven,
and the tremendous roar of his voice was heard.
18 He brought low the rulers of the enemy and destroyed all the lords of the Philistines.
19 When Samuel neared the end of life,
he testified before the LORD and his anointed prince,
"No bribe or secret gift have I taken from anyone!"
and no one could accuse him.
20 Even after death his guidance was sought;
he made known to the king his fate.
From the grave he spoke in prophecy
to put an end to wickedness.

☐ ACTS 6

The Need for Assistants. 6:1 At that time, as the number of disciples continued to grow, the Hellenists complained against the Hebrews because their widows were being neglected in the daily distribution. 2 So the Twelve called together the community of the disciples and said, "It is not right for us to neglect the word of God to serve at table. 3 Brothers, select from among you seven reputable men, filled with the Spirit and wisdom, whom we shall appoint to this task, 4 whereas we shall devote ourselves to prayer and to the ministry of the word." 5 The proposal was acceptable to the whole community, so they chose Stephen, a man filled with faith and the holy Spirit, also Philip, Prochorus, Nicanor, Timon, Parmenas, and Nicholas of Antioch, a convert to Judaism. 6 They presented these men to the apostles who prayed and laid hands on them. 7 The word of God continued to spread, and the number of the disciples in Jerusalem increased greatly; even a large group of priests were becoming obedient to the faith.

Accusation against Stephen. 8 Now Stephen, filled with grace and power, was working great wonders and signs among the people. 9 Certain members of the so-called Synagogue of Freedmen, Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and people from Cilicia and Asia, came forward and debated with Stephen, 10 but they could not withstand the wisdom and the spirit with which he spoke. 11 Then they instigated some men to say, "We have heard him speaking blasphemous words against Moses and God." 12 They stirred up the people, the elders, and the scribes, accosted him, seized him, and brought him before the Sanhedrin. 13 They presented false witnesses who testified, "This man never stops saying things against [this] holy place and the law. 14 For we have heard him claim that this Jesus the Nazorean will destroy this place and change the customs that Moses handed down to us." 15 All those who sat in the Sanhedrin looked intently at him and saw that his face was like the face of an angel.

☐ SIRACH 47-49

Nathan, David, and Solomon. 47:1 After him came NATHAN who served in David's presence.
[2]Like the choice fat of sacred offerings,
so was DAVID in Israel.
[3]He played with lions as though they were young goats,
and with bears, like lambs of the flock.
[4]As a youth he struck down the giant and wiped out the people's disgrace;
His hand let fly the slingstone
that shattered the pride of Goliath.
[5]For he had called upon the Most High God, who gave strength to his right arm
To defeat the skilled warrior
and establish the might of his people.
[6]Therefore the women sang his praises
and honored him for "the tens of thousands."
When he received the royal crown, he battled [7]and subdued the enemy on every side.
He campaigned against the hostile Philistines
and shattered their power till our own day.
[8]With his every deed he offered thanks to God Most High, in words of praise.
With his whole heart he loved his Maker
[9]and daily had his praises sung;
[10]He added beauty to the feasts
and solemnized the seasons of each year [9b]With string music before the altar, providing sweet melody for the psalms [10b]So that when the Holy Name was praised,
before daybreak the sanctuary would resound.
[11]The LORD forgave him his sins
and exalted his strength forever;
He conferred on him the rights of royalty
and established his throne in Israel.

[12]Because of his merits he had as successor
a wise son, who lived in security:
[13]SOLOMON reigned during an era of peace,
for God brought rest to all his borders.
He built a house to the name of God,
and established a lasting sanctuary.
[14]How wise you were when you were young,

overflowing with instruction, like the Nile in flood!
15 Your understanding covered the whole earth,
and, like a sea, filled it with knowledge.
16 Your fame reached distant coasts,
and you were beloved for your peaceful reign.
17 With song and proverb and riddle,
and with your answers, you astounded the nations.
18 You were called by that glorious name which was conferred upon Israel.
Gold you gathered like so much iron;
you heaped up silver as though it were lead.
19 But you abandoned yourself to women and gave them dominion over your body.
20 You brought a stain upon your glory,
shame upon your marriage bed,
Wrath upon your descendants,
and groaning upon your deathbed.
21 Thus two governments came into being,
when in Ephraim kingship was usurped.
22 But God does not withdraw his mercy,
nor permit even one of his promises to fail.
He does not uproot the posterity of the chosen,
nor destroy the offspring of his friends.
So he gave to Jacob a remnant,
to David a root from his own family.

Rehoboam and Jeroboam. 23 Solomon finally slept with his ancestors,
and left behind him one of his sons,
Broad in folly, narrow in sense,
whose policy made the people rebel.
Then arose the one who should not be remembered,
the sinner who led Israel into sin,
Who brought ruin to Ephraim 24 and caused them to be exiled from their land.

Elijah and Elisha. 25 Their sinfulness grew more and more,
and they gave themselves to every evil

48:1 Until like fire a prophet appeared,
his words a flaming furnace.
2 The staff of life, their bread, he shattered,
and in his zeal he made them few in number.
3 By God's word he shut up the heavens
and three times brought down fire.
4 How awesome are you, ELIJAH!
Whose glory is equal to yours?
5 You brought a dead body back to life
from Sheol, by the will of the LORD.
6 You sent kings down to destruction,
and nobles, from their beds of sickness.
7 You heard threats at Sinai,

at Horeb avenging judgments.
[8]You anointed the agent of these punishments,
the prophet to succeed in your place.
[9]You were taken aloft in a whirlwind,
in a chariot with fiery horses.
[10]You are destined, it is written, in time to come to put an end to wrath before the day of the LORD,
To turn back the hearts of parents toward their children,
and to re-establish the tribes of Israel.
[11]Blessed is the one who shall have seen you before he dies!

[12]When Elijah was enveloped in the whirlwind, ELISHA was filled with his spirit;
He worked twice as many marvels,
and every utterance of his mouth was wonderful.
During his lifetime he feared no one,
nor was anyone able to intimidate his will.
[13]Nothing was beyond his power;
and from where he lay buried, his body prophesied.
[14]In life he performed wonders,
and after death, marvelous deeds.
[15]Despite all this the people did not repent,
nor did they give up their sins,
Until they were uprooted from their land
and scattered all over the earth.

Judah. But Judah remained, a tiny people, with its ruler from the house of David.
[16]Some of them did what was right,
but others were extremely sinful.

Hezekiah and Isaiah. [17]HEZEKIAH fortified his city
and had water brought into it;
With bronze tools he cut through the rocks
and dammed up a mountain site for water.
[18]During his reign Sennacherib led an invasion
and sent his adjutant;
He shook his fist at Zion
and blasphemed God in his pride.
[19]The people's hearts melted within them,
and they were in anguish like that of childbirth.
[20]But they called upon the Most High God
and lifted up their hands to him;
He heard the prayer they uttered,
and saved them through ISAIAH.
[21]God struck the camp of the Assyrians and routed them with a plague.
[22]For Hezekiah did what was right and held fast to the paths of David,
As ordered by the illustrious prophet
Isaiah, who saw truth in visions.

[23]In his lifetime he turned back the sun
and prolonged the life of the king.
[24]By his powerful spirit he looked into the future and consoled the mourners of Zion;
[25]He foretold what would happen till the end of time,
hidden things yet to be fulfilled.

Josiah and the Prophets. 49:1 The name JOSIAH is like blended incense, made lasting by a skilled perfumer.
Precious is his memory, like honey to the taste,
like music at a banquet.
[2]For he grieved over our betrayals,
and destroyed the abominable idols.
[3]He kept his heart fixed on God,
and in times of lawlessness practiced virtue.
[4]Except for David, Hezekiah, and Josiah,
they all were wicked;
They abandoned the Law of the Most High,
these kings of Judah, right to the very end.
[5]So he gave over their power to others,
their glory to a foreign nation
[6]Who burned the holy city
and left its streets desolate, [7]As foretold by JEREMIAH. They mistreated him who even in the womb had been made a prophet,
To root out, pull down, and destroy,
and then to build and to plant.
[8]EZEKIEL beheld a vision
and described the different creatures of the chariot;
[9]He also referred to JOB,
who always persevered in the right path.
[10]Then, too, the TWELVE PROPHETS—
may their bones flourish with new life where they lie!—
They gave new strength to Jacob and saved him with steadfast hope.

The Heroes After the Exile. [11]How to extol ZERUBBABEL?
He was like a signet ring on the right hand,
[12]And JESHUA, Jozadak's son?
In their time they rebuilt the altar
And erected the holy temple, destined for everlasting glory.
[13]Exalted be the memory of NEHEMIAH!
He rebuilt our ruined walls,
Restored our shattered defenses,
and set up gates and bars.

The Earliest Patriarchs. [14]Few on earth have been created like ENOCH;
he also was taken up bodily.
[15]Was ever a man born like JOSEPH?

Even his dead body was provided for.
[16]Glorious, too, were SHEM and SETH and ENOSH;
but beyond that of any living being was the splendor of ADAM.

☐ ACTS 7

Stephen's Discourses. 7:1 Then the high priest asked, "Is this so?" [2]And he replied, "My brothers and fathers, listen. The God of glory appeared to our father Abraham while he was in Mesopotamia, before he had settled in Haran, [3]and said to him, 'Go forth from your land and [from] your kinsfolk to the land that I will show you.' [4]So he went forth from the land of the Chaldeans and settled in Haran. And from there, after his father died, he made him migrate to this land where you now dwell. [5]Yet he gave him no inheritance in it, not even a foot's length, but he did promise to give it to him and his descendants as a possession, even though he was childless. [6]And God spoke thus, 'His descendants shall be aliens in a land not their own, where they shall be enslaved and oppressed for four hundred years; [7]but I will bring judgment on the nation they serve,' God said, 'and after that they will come out and worship me in this place.' [8]Then he gave him the covenant of circumcision, and so he became the father of Isaac, and circumcised him on the eighth day, as Isaac did Jacob, and Jacob the twelve patriarchs.

[9]"And the patriarchs, jealous of Joseph, sold him into slavery in Egypt; but God was with him [10]and rescued him from all his afflictions. He granted him favor and wisdom before Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, who put him in charge of Egypt and [of] his entire household. [11]Then a famine and great affliction struck all Egypt and Canaan, and our ancestors could find no food; [12]but when Jacob heard that there was grain in Egypt, he sent our ancestors there a first time. [13]The second time, Joseph made himself known to his brothers, and Joseph's family became known to Pharaoh. [14]Then Joseph sent for his father Jacob, inviting him and his whole clan, seventy-five persons; [15]and Jacob went down to Egypt. And he and our ancestors died [16]and were brought back to Shechem and placed in the tomb that Abraham had purchased for a sum of money from the sons of Hamor at Shechem.

[17]"When the time drew near for the fulfillment of the promise that God pledged to Abraham, the people had increased and become very numerous in Egypt, [18]until another king who knew nothing of Joseph came to power [in Egypt]. [19]He dealt shrewdly with our people and oppressed [our] ancestors by forcing them to expose their infants, that they might not survive. [20]At this time Moses was born, and he was extremely beautiful. For three months he was nursed in his father's house; [21]but when he was exposed, Pharaoh's daughter adopted him and brought him up as her own son. [22]Moses was educated [in] all the wisdom of the Egyptians and was powerful in his words and deeds.

[23]"When he was forty years old, he decided to visit his kinsfolk, the Israelites. [24]When he saw one of them treated unjustly, he defended and avenged the oppressed man by striking down the Egyptian. [25]He assumed [his] kinsfolk would understand that God was offering them deliverance through him, but they did not understand. [26]The next day he appeared to them as they were fighting and tried to reconcile them peacefully, saying, 'Men, you are brothers. Why are you harming one another?' [27]Then the one who was harming his neighbor pushed him aside, saying, 'Who appointed you ruler and judge over us? [28]Are you thinking of killing me as you killed the Egyptian yesterday?' [29]Moses fled when he heard this and settled as an alien in the land of Midian, where he became the father of two sons.

[30]"Forty years later, an angel appeared to him in the desert near Mount Sinai in the flame of a burning bush. [31]When Moses saw it, he was amazed at the sight, and as he drew near to look at it, the voice of the Lord came, [32]'I am the God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob.' Then Moses, trembling, did not dare to look at it. [33]But the Lord said to him, 'Remove the sandals from your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground. [34]I have witnessed the affliction of my people in Egypt and have heard their groaning, and I have come down to rescue them. Come now, I will send you to Egypt.' [35]This Moses, whom they had rejected with the words, 'Who appointed you ruler and judge?' God sent as [both] ruler and deliverer, through the angel who appeared to him in the bush. [36]This man led them out, performing wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, at the Red Sea, and in the desert for forty years. [37]It was this Moses who said to the Israelites, 'God will raise up for you, from among your own kinsfolk, a prophet like me.' [38]It was he who, in the assembly in the desert, was with the angel who spoke to him on Mount Sinai and with our ancestors, and he received living utterances to hand on to us.

39 "Our ancestors were unwilling to obey him; instead, they pushed him aside and in their hearts turned back to Egypt, 40 saying to Aaron, 'Make us gods who will be our leaders. As for that Moses who led us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has happened to him.' 41 So they made a calf in those days, offered sacrifice to the idol, and reveled in the works of their hands. 42 Then God turned and handed them over to worship the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets:

'Did you bring me sacrifices and offerings
for forty years in the desert, O house of Israel?
43 No, you took up the tent of Moloch
and the star of (your) god Rephan,
the images that you made to worship.
So I shall take you into exile beyond Babylon.'

44 "Our ancestors had the tent of testimony in the desert just as the One who spoke to Moses directed him to make it according to the pattern he had seen. 45 Our ancestors who inherited it brought it with Joshua when they dispossessed the nations that God drove out from before our ancestors, up to the time of David, 46 who found favor in the sight of God and asked that he might find a dwelling place for the house of Jacob. 47 But Solomon built a house for him. 48 Yet the Most High does not dwell in houses made by human hands. As the prophet says:

49 'The heavens are my throne,
the earth is my footstool.
What kind of house can you build for me?
says the Lord,
or what is to be my resting place?
50 Did not my hand make all these things?'

Conclusion. 51 "You stiff-necked people, uncircumcised in heart and ears, you always oppose the holy Spirit; you are just like your ancestors. 52 Which of the prophets did your ancestors not persecute? They put to death those who foretold the coming of the righteous one, whose betrayers and murderers you have now become. 53 You received the law as transmitted by angels, but you did not observe it."

Stephen's Martyrdom. 54 When they heard this, they were infuriated, and they ground their teeth at him. 55 But he, filled with the holy Spirit, looked up intently to heaven and saw the glory of God and Jesus standing at the right hand of God, 56 and he said, "Behold, I see the heavens opened and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God." 57 But they cried out in a loud voice, covered their ears, and rushed upon him together. 58 They threw him out of the city, and began to stone him. The witnesses laid down their cloaks at the feet of a young man named Saul. 59 As they were stoning Stephen, he called out, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." 60 Then he fell to his knees and cried out in a loud voice, "Lord, do not hold this sin against them"; and when he said this, he fell asleep.

☐ SIRACH 50-51

Simeon, Son of Jochanan. 50:1 Greatest of his family, the glory of his people, was SIMEON the priest, son of Jochanan,

In whose time the house of God was renovated,
in whose days the temple was reinforced.
[2]In his time also the retaining wall was built with powerful turrets for the temple precincts.
[3]In his time the reservoir was dug,
a pool as vast as the sea.
[4]He protected the people against brigands
and strengthened the city against the enemy.
[5]How splendid he was as he looked out from the tent,
as he came from behind the veil!
[6]Like a star shining among the clouds,
like the full moon at the festal season;
[7]Like sun shining upon the temple of the King,
like a rainbow appearing in the cloudy sky;
[8]Like blossoms on the branches in springtime,
like a lily by running waters;
Like a green shoot on Lebanon in summer,
[9]like the fire of incense at sacrifice;
Like a vessel of hammered gold,
studded with all kinds of precious stones;
[10]Like a luxuriant olive tree heavy with fruit,
a plant with branches abounding in oil;
[11]Wearing his glorious robes,
and vested in sublime magnificence,
As he ascended the glorious altar
and lent majesty to the court of the sanctuary.
[12]When he received the portions from the priests
while he stood before the sacrificial wood,
His sons stood round him like a garland,
like young cedars on Lebanon;
And like poplars by the brook they surrounded him,
[13]all the sons of Aaron in their glory,
With the offerings to the LORD in their hands,
in the presence of the whole assembly of Israel.
[14]Once he had completed the service at the altar and arranged the sacrificial hearth for the Most High, [15]And had stretched forth his hand for the cup,
to offer blood of the grape,
And poured it out at the foot of the altar,
a sweet-smelling odor to God the Most High, [16]Then the sons of Aaron would sound a blast,
the priests, on their trumpets of beaten metal;
A blast to resound mightily
as a reminder before the Most High.
[17]All the people with one accord would fall with face to the ground
In adoration before the Most High,
before the Holy One of Israel.

[18]Then hymns would re-echo,
and over the throng sweet strains of praise resound.
[19]All the people of the land would shout for joy, praying to the Merciful One,
As the high priest completed the service at the altar
by presenting to God the fitting sacrifice.
[20]Then coming down he would raise his hands
over all the congregation of Israel;
The blessing of the LORD would be upon his lips,
the name of the LORD would be his glory.
[21]The people would again fall down to receive the blessing of the Most High.

[22]And now, bless the God of all,
who has done wonders on earth;
Who fosters growth from the womb,
fashioning it according to his will!
[23]May he grant you a wise heart
and abide with you in peace;
[24]May his goodness toward Simeon last forever;
may he fulfill for him the covenant with Phinehas
So that it may not be abrogated for him or his descendants while the heavens last.

Epilogue. [25]My whole being loathes two nations,
the third is not even a people:
[26]The inhabitants of Seir and Philistia,
and the foolish people who dwell in Shechem.

[27]Wise instruction, appropriate proverbs,
I have written in this book—
I, Yeshua Ben Eleazar Ben Sira—
as they poured forth from my heart's understanding.
[28]Happy those who meditate upon these things;
wise those who take them to heart!
[29]If they put them into practice, they can cope with anything, for the fear of the LORD is their lamp.

A Prayer of Thanksgiving. 51:1 I give you thanks, LORD and King,
I praise you, God my savior!
I declare your name, refuge of my life,
[2]because you have ransomed my life from death;
You held back my body from the pit,
and delivered my foot from the power of Sheol.

You have preserved me from the scourge of the slanderous tongue,
and from the lips of those who went over to falsehood.
You were with me against those who rise up against me;
[3]You have rescued me according to your abundant mercy
From the snare of those who look for my downfall,
and from the power of those who seek my life.

From many dangers you have saved me,
[4]from flames that beset me on every side,
From the midst of fire till there was not a whiff of it,
[5]from the deep belly of Sheol,
From deceiving lips and painters of lies,
[6]from the arrows of a treacherous tongue.

I was at the point of death,
my life was nearing the depths of Sheol;
[7]I turned every way, but there was no one to help;
I looked for support but there was none.
[8]Then I remembered the mercies of the LORD,
his acts of kindness through ages past;
For he saves those who take refuge in him,
and rescues them from every evil.

[9]So I raised my voice from the grave;
from the gates of Sheol I cried for help.
[10]I called out: LORD, you are my Father,
my champion, my savior!
Do not abandon me in time of trouble,
in the midst of storms and dangers.
[11]I will always praise your name and remember you in prayer!

Then the LORD heard my voice,
and listened to my appeal.
[12]He saved me from every evil
and preserved me in time of trouble.
For this reason I thank and praise him;
I bless the name of the LORD.

Ben Sira's Pursuit of Wisdom. [13]When I was young and innocent,
I sought wisdom.
[14]She came to me in her beauty,
and until the end I will cultivate her.

[15]As the blossoms yielded to ripening grapes,
the heart's joy,
My feet kept to the level path
because from earliest youth I was familiar with her.

[16]In the short time I paid heed,
I met with great instruction.
[17]Since in this way I have profited,
I will give my Teacher grateful praise.

[18]I resolved to tread her paths;
I have been jealous for the good and will not turn back.
[19]I burned with desire for her,
never relenting.

I became preoccupied with her,
never weary of extolling her.

I spread out my hands to the heavens
and I came to know her secrets.
[20]For her I purified my hands;
in cleanness I attained to her.

At first acquaintance with her, I gained understanding such that I will never forsake her.
[21]My whole being was stirred to seek her;
therefore I have made her my prize possession.
[22]The LORD has rewarded me with lips,
with a tongue for praising him.

[23]Come aside to me, you untutored,
and take up lodging in the house of instruction;
[24]How long will you deprive yourself of wisdom's food,
how long endure such bitter thirst?
[25]I open my mouth and speak of her:
gain wisdom for yourselves at no cost.

[26]Take her yoke upon your neck;
that your mind may receive her teaching.
For she is close to those who seek her,
and the one who is in earnest finds her.

[27]See for yourselves! I have labored only a little,
but have found much.
[28]Acquire but a little instruction,
and you will win silver and gold through her.

[29]May your soul rejoice in God's mercy;
do not be ashamed to give him praise.
[30]Work at your tasks in due season,
and in his own time God will give you your reward.

☐ ACTS 8

8:1 Now Saul was consenting to his execution.

Persecution of the Church. On that day, there broke out a severe persecution of the church in Jerusalem, and all were scattered throughout the countryside of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles. [2]Devout men buried Stephen and made a loud lament over him. [3]Saul, meanwhile, was trying to destroy the church; entering house after house and dragging out men and women, he handed them over for imprisonment.

Philip in Samaria. [4]Now those who had been scattered went about preaching the word. [5]Thus Philip went down to [the] city of Samaria and proclaimed the Messiah to them. [6]With one accord, the crowds paid attention to what was said by Philip when they heard it and saw the signs he was doing. [7]For unclean spirits, crying out in a loud voice, came out of many possessed people, and many paralyzed and crippled people were cured. [8]There was great joy in that city.

Simon the Magician. [9]A man named Simon used to practice magic in the city and astounded the people of Samaria, claiming to be someone great. [10]All of them, from the least to the greatest, paid attention to him, saying, "This man is the 'Power of God' that is called 'Great.' " [11]They paid attention to him because he had astounded them by his magic for a long time, [12]but once they began to believe Philip as he preached the good news about the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, men and women alike were baptized. [13]Even Simon himself believed and, after being baptized, became devoted to Philip; and when he saw the signs and mighty deeds that were occurring, he was astounded.

[14]Now when the apostles in Jerusalem heard that Samaria had accepted the word of God, they sent them Peter and John, [15]who went down and prayed for them, that they might receive the holy Spirit, [16]for it had not yet fallen upon any of them; they had only been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. [17]Then they laid hands on them and they received the holy Spirit.

[18]When Simon saw that the Spirit was conferred by the laying on of the apostles' hands, he offered them money [19]and said, "Give me this power too, so that anyone upon whom I lay my hands may receive the holy Spirit." [20]But Peter said to him, "May your money perish with you, because you thought that you could buy the gift of God with money. [21]You have no share or lot in this matter, for your heart is not upright before God. [22]Repent of this wickedness of yours and pray to the Lord that, if possible, your intention may be forgiven. [23]For I see that you are filled with bitter gall and are in the bonds of iniquity." [24]Simon said in reply, "Pray for me to the Lord, that nothing of what you have said may come upon me." [25]So when they had testified and proclaimed the word of the Lord, they returned to Jerusalem and preached the good news to many Samaritan villages.

Philip and the Ethiopian. [26]Then the angel of the Lord spoke to Philip, "Get up and head south on the road that goes down from Jerusalem to Gaza, the desert route." [27]So he got up and set out. Now there was an Ethiopian eunuch, a court official of the Candace, that is, the queen of the Ethiopians, in charge of her entire treasury, who had come to Jerusalem to worship, [28]and was returning home. Seated in his chariot, he was reading the prophet Isaiah. [29]The Spirit said to Philip, "Go and join up with that chariot." [30]Philip ran up and heard him reading Isaiah the prophet and said, "Do you understand what you are reading?" [31]He replied, "How can I, unless someone instructs me?" So he invited Philip to get in and sit with him. [32]This was the scripture passage he was reading:

"Like a sheep he was led to the slaughter,
and as a lamb before its shearer is silent,
so he opened not his mouth.
[33]In (his) humiliation justice was denied him.
Who will tell of his posterity?
For his life is taken from the earth."

[34]Then the eunuch said to Philip in reply, "I beg you, about whom is the prophet saying this? About himself, or about someone else?" [35]Then Philip opened his mouth and, beginning with this scripture passage, he proclaimed Jesus to him. [36]As they traveled along the road they came to some water, and the eunuch said, "Look, there is water. What is to prevent my being baptized?" [37] [38]Then he ordered the chariot to stop, and Philip and the eunuch both went down into the water, and he baptized him. [39]When they came out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord snatched Philip away, and the eunuch saw him no more, but continued on his way rejoicing. [40]Philip came to Azotus, and went about proclaiming the good news to all the towns until he reached Caesarea.

Pope St. Gregory the Great

The only true riches are those that make us rich in virtue. So if you want to be rich, beloved, love true riches. If you aspire to the heights of real honor, strive to reach the kingdom of heaven. If you value status and fame, hasten to be enrolled in the heavenly court of the angels.

☐ ISAIAH 1-2

1:1 The vision which Isaiah, son of Amoz, saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

Accusation and Appeal. [2]Hear, O heavens, and listen, O earth,
for the LORD speaks:
Sons have I raised and reared,
but they have rebelled against me!
[3]An ox knows its owner,
and an ass, its master's manger;
But Israel does not know,
my people has not understood.
[4]Ah! Sinful nation, people laden with wickedness, evil offspring, corrupt children!
They have forsaken the LORD,
spurned the Holy One of Israel,
apostatized,
[5]Why would you yet be struck,
that you continue to rebel?
The whole head is sick,
the whole heart faint.
[6]From the sole of the foot to the head
there is no sound spot in it;
Just bruise and welt and oozing wound,
not drained, or bandaged,
or eased with salve.
[7]Your country is waste,
your cities burnt with fire;
Your land—before your eyes
strangers devour it,
a waste, like the devastation of Sodom.
[8]And daughter Zion is left
like a hut in a vineyard,
Like a shed in a melon patch,
like a city blockaded.
[9]If the LORD of hosts had not left us a small remnant,
We would have become as Sodom,
would have resembled Gomorrah.

[10]Hear the word of the LORD,
princes of Sodom!
Listen to the instruction of our God,
people of Gomorrah!
[11]What do I care for the multitude of your sacrifices?
says the LORD.
I have had enough of whole-burnt rams
and fat of fatlings;
In the blood of calves, lambs, and goats
I find no pleasure.

[12]When you come to appear before me,
who asks these things of you?
[13]Trample my courts no more!
To bring offerings is useless;
incense is an abomination to me.
New moon and sabbath, calling assemblies—festive convocations with wickedness—
these I cannot bear.
[14]Your new moons and festivals I detest;
they weigh me down, I tire of the load.
[15]When you spread out your hands,
I will close my eyes to you;
Though you pray the more,
I will not listen.
Your hands are full of blood!
[16]Wash yourselves clean!
Put away your misdeeds from before my eyes;
cease doing evil;
[17]learn to do good.
Make justice your aim: redress the wronged,
hear the orphan's plea, defend the widow.

[18]Come now, let us set things right,
says the LORD:
Though your sins be like scarlet,
they may become white as snow;
Though they be red like crimson,
they may become white as wool.
[19]If you are willing, and obey,
you shall eat the good things of the land;
[20]But if you refuse and resist,
you shall be eaten by the sword:
for the mouth of the LORD has spoken!

The Purification of Jerusalem. [21]How she has become a prostitute,
the faithful city, so upright!
Justice used to lodge within her,
but now, murderers.
[22]Your silver is turned to dross,
your wine is mixed with water.
[23]Your princes are rebels
and comrades of thieves;
Each one of them loves a bribe
and looks for gifts.
The fatherless they do not defend,
the widow's plea does not reach them.
[24]Now, therefore, says the Lord,
the LORD of hosts, the Mighty One of Israel:
Ah! I will take vengeance on my foes and fully repay my enemies!

[25]I will turn my hand against you,
and refine your dross in the furnace,
removing all your alloy.
[26]I will restore your judges as at first,
and your counselors as in the beginning;
After that you shall be called
city of justice, faithful city.
[27]Zion shall be redeemed by justice,
and her repentant ones by righteousness.
[28]Rebels and sinners together shall be crushed,
those who desert the LORD shall be consumed.

Judgment on the Sacred Groves. [29]You shall be ashamed of the terebinths which you desired, and blush on account of the gardens which you chose.
[30]You shall become like a terebinth whose leaves wither,
like a garden that has no water.
[31]The strong tree shall turn to tinder,
and the one who tends it shall become a spark;
Both of them shall burn together,
and there shall be none to quench them.

2:1 This is what Isaiah, son of Amoz, saw concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

Zion, the Royal City of God. [2]In days to come,
The mountain of the LORD's house
shall be established as the highest mountain
and raised above the hills.
All nations shall stream toward it.
[3]Many peoples shall come and say:
"Come, let us go up to the LORD's mountain,
to the house of the God of Jacob,
That he may instruct us in his ways,
and we may walk in his paths."
For from Zion shall go forth instruction,
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
[4]He shall judge between the nations,
and set terms for many peoples.
They shall beat their swords into plowshares
and their spears into pruning hooks;
One nation shall not raise the sword against another,
nor shall they train for war again.
[5]House of Jacob, come,
let us walk in the light of the LORD!

The Lord's Day of Judgment on Pride. [6]You have abandoned your people,
the house of Jacob!
Because they are filled with diviners,
and soothsayers, like the Philistines;
with foreigners they clasp hands.
[7]Their land is full of silver and gold,

there is no end to their treasures;
Their land is full of horses,
there is no end to their chariots.
[8]Their land is full of idols;
they bow down to the works of their hands,
what their fingers have made.
[9]So all shall be abased,
each one brought low.
Do not pardon them!
[10]Get behind the rocks, hide in the dust,
From the terror of the LORD
and the splendor of his majesty!
[11]The eyes of human pride shall be lowered,
the arrogance of mortals shall be abased,
and the LORD alone will be exalted, on that day.
[12]For the LORD of hosts will have his day against all that is proud and arrogant, against all that is high, and it will be brought low;
[13]Yes, against all the cedars of Lebanon
and against all the oaks of Bashan, [14]Against all the lofty mountains
and all the high hills, [15]Against every lofty tower
and every fortified wall, [16]Against all the ships of Tarshish
and all stately vessels.
[17]Then human pride shall be abased,
the arrogance of mortals brought low,
And the LORD alone will be exalted on that day.
[18]The idols will vanish completely.
[19]People will go into caves in the rocks
and into holes in the earth,
At the terror of the LORD
and the splendor of his majesty,
as he rises to overawe the earth.
[20]On that day people shall throw to moles and bats their idols of silver and their idols of gold which they made for themselves to worship.
[21]And they shall go into caverns in the rocks
and into crevices in the cliffs,
At the terror of the LORD
and the splendor of his majesty,
as he rises to overawe the earth.
[22]As for you, stop worrying about mortals,
in whose nostrils is but a breath;
for of what worth are they?

☐ ACTS 9

Saul's Conversion. 9:1 Now Saul, still breathing murderous threats against the disciples of the Lord, went to the high priest [2]and asked him for letters to the synagogues in Damascus, that, if he should find any men or women who belonged to the Way, he might bring them back to Jerusalem in chains. [3]On his journey, as he was nearing Damascus, a light from the sky suddenly flashed around him. [4]He fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to him, "Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?" [5]He said, "Who are you, sir?" The reply came, "I am Jesus, whom you are persecuting. [6]Now get up and go into the city and you will be told what you must do." [7]The men who were traveling with him stood speechless, for they heard the voice but could see no one. [8]Saul got up from the ground, but when he opened his eyes he could see nothing; so they led him by the hand and brought him to Damascus. [9]For three days he was unable to see,
and he neither ate nor drank.

Saul's Baptism. [10]There was a disciple in Damascus named Ananias, and the Lord said to him in a vision, "Ananias." He answered, "Here I am, Lord." [11]The Lord said to him, "Get up and go to the street called Straight and ask at the house of Judas for a man from Tarsus named Saul. He is there praying, [12]and [in a vision] he has seen a man named Ananias come in and lay [his] hands on him, that he may regain his sight." [13]But Ananias replied, "Lord, I have heard from many sources about this man, what evil things he has done to your holy ones in Jerusalem. [14]And here he has authority from the chief priests to imprison all who call upon your name." [15]But the Lord said to him, "Go, for this man is a chosen instrument of mine to carry my name before Gentiles, kings, and Israelites, [16]and I will show him what he will have to suffer for my name." [17]So Ananias went and entered the house; laying his hands on him, he said, "Saul, my brother, the Lord has sent me, Jesus who appeared to you on the way by which you came, that you may regain your sight and be filled with the holy Spirit." [18]Immediately things like scales fell from his eyes and he regained his sight. He got up and was baptized, [19]and when he had eaten, he recovered his strength.

Saul Preaches in Damascus. He stayed some days with the disciples in Damascus, [20]and he began at once to proclaim Jesus in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God. [21]All who heard him were astounded and said, "Is not this the man who in Jerusalem ravaged those who call upon this name, and came here expressly to take them back in chains to the chief priests?" [22]But Saul grew all the stronger and confounded [the] Jews who lived in Damascus, proving that this is the Messiah.

Saul Visits Jerusalem. [23]After a long time had passed, the Jews conspired to kill him, [24]but their plot became known to Saul. Now they were keeping watch on the gates day and night so as to kill him, [25]but his disciples took him one night and let him down through an opening in the wall, lowering him in a basket.

[26]When he arrived in Jerusalem he tried to join the disciples, but they were all afraid of him, not believing that he was a disciple. [27]Then Barnabas took charge of him and brought him to the apostles, and he reported to them how on the way he had seen the Lord and that he had spoken to him, and how in Damascus he had spoken out boldly in the name of Jesus. [28]He moved about freely with them in Jerusalem, and spoke out boldly in the name of the Lord. [29]He also spoke and debated with the Hellenists, but they tried to kill him. [30]And when the brothers learned of this, they took him down to Caesarea and sent him on his way to Tarsus.

The Church at Peace. [31]The church throughout all Judea, Galilee, and Samaria was at peace. It was being built up and walked in the fear of the Lord, and with the consolation of the holy Spirit it grew in numbers.

Peter Heals Aeneas at Lydda. [32]As Peter was passing through every region, he went down to the holy ones living in Lydda. [33]There he found a man named Aeneas, who had been confined to bed for eight years, for he was paralyzed.
[34]Peter said to him, "Aeneas, Jesus Christ heals you. Get up and make your bed." He got up at once. [35]And all the inhabitants of Lydda and Sharon saw him, and they turned to the Lord.

Peter Restores Tabitha to Life. [36]Now in Joppa there was a disciple named Tabitha (which translated means Dorcas). She was completely occupied with good deeds and almsgiving. [37]Now during those days she fell sick and died, so after washing her, they laid [her] out in a room upstairs. [38]Since Lydda was near Joppa, the disciples, hearing that Peter was there, sent two men to him with the request, "Please come to us without delay." [39]So Peter got up and went with them. When he arrived, they took him to the room upstairs where all the widows came to him weeping and showing him the tunics and cloaks that Dorcas had made while she was with them. [40]Peter sent them all out and knelt down and prayed. Then he turned to her body and said, "Tabitha, rise up." She opened her eyes, saw Peter, and sat up.
[41]He gave her his hand and raised her up, and when he had called the holy ones and the widows, he presented her alive.
[42]This became known all over Joppa, and many came to believe in the Lord. [43]And he stayed a long time in Joppa with Simon, a tanner.

God is One and Christ is One, and one is His Church, and the faith is one, and His people welded together by the glue of concord into a solid unity of body. Unity cannot be rent asunder; nor can the one body of the Church, through the division of its structure, be divided into separate pieces.

☐ ISAIAH 3-4

Judgment on Jerusalem and Judah. 3:1 The Lord, the LORD of hosts, will take away from Jerusalem and from Judah Support and staff—
all support of bread,
all support of water:
2 Hero and warrior,
judge and prophet, diviner and elder,
3 The captain of fifty and the nobleman,
counselor, skilled magician, and expert charmer.
4 I will place boys as their princes;
the fickle will govern them,
5 And the people will oppress one another,
yes, each one the neighbor.
The child will be insolent toward the elder,
and the base toward the honorable.
6 When anyone seizes a brother
in their father's house, saying,
"You have clothes! Be our ruler, and take in hand this ruin!"—
7 He will cry out in that day:
"I cannot be a healer,
when there is neither bread nor clothing in my own house!
You will not make me a ruler of the people!"
8 Jerusalem has stumbled, Judah has fallen;
for their speech and deeds affront the LORD,
a provocation in the sight of his majesty.
9 Their very look bears witness against them;
they boast of their sin like Sodom,
They do not hide it.
Woe to them!
They deal out evil to themselves.
10 Happy the just, for it will go well with them,
the fruit of their works they will eat.
11 Woe to the wicked! It will go ill with them, with the work of their hands they will be repaid.
12 My people—infants oppress them,
women rule over them!
My people, your leaders deceive you,
they confuse the paths you should follow.

[13]The LORD rises to accuse, stands to try his people.
[14]The Lord enters into judgment
with the people's elders and princes:
You, you who have devoured the vineyard;
the loot wrested from the poor is in your houses.
[15]What do you mean by crushing my people,
and grinding down the faces of the poor?
says the Lord, the GOD of hosts.

The Haughty Women of Zion. [16]The LORD said:
Because the daughters of Zion are haughty,
and walk with necks outstretched, Ogling and mincing as they go,
their anklets tinkling with every step, [17]The Lord shall cover the scalps of Zion's daughters with scabs, and the LORD shall lay bare their heads.
[18]On that day the LORD will do away with the finery of the anklets, sunbursts, and crescents; [19]the pendants, bracelets, and veils; [20]the headdresses, bangles, cinctures, perfume boxes, and amulets; [21]the signet rings, and the nose rings; [22]the court dresses, wraps, cloaks, and purses; [23]the lace gowns, linen tunics, turbans, and shawls.

[24]Instead of perfume there will be stench,
instead of a girdle, a rope,
And instead of elaborate coiffure, baldness;
instead of a rich gown, a sackcloth skirt.
Then, instead of beauty, shame.
[25]Your men will fall by the sword,
and your champions, in war;
[26]Her gates will lament and mourn,
as the city sits desolate on the ground.

4:1 Seven women will take hold of one man
on that day, saying:
"We will eat our own food
and wear our own clothing;
Only let your name be given us,
put an end to our disgrace!"

Jerusalem Purified. [2]On that day,
The branch of the LORD will be beauty and glory,
and the fruit of the land will be honor and splendor
for the survivors of Israel.
[3]Everyone who remains in Zion, everyone left in Jerusalem
Will be called holy:
everyone inscribed for life in Jerusalem.
[4]When the Lord washes away
the filth of the daughters of Zion,
And purges Jerusalem's blood from her midst
with a blast of judgment, a searing blast, [5]Then will the LORD create,

over the whole site of Mount Zion
and over her place of assembly,
A smoking cloud by day
and a light of flaming fire by night.
[6]For over all, his glory will be shelter and protection:
shade from the parching heat of day,
refuge and cover from storm and rain.

☐ ACTS 10

The Vision of Cornelius. 10:1 Now in Caesarea there was a man named Cornelius, a centurion of the Cohort called the Italica, [2]devout and God-fearing along with his whole household, who used to give alms generously to the Jewish people and pray to God constantly. [3]One afternoon about three o'clock, he saw plainly in a vision an angel of God come in to him and say to him, "Cornelius." [4]He looked intently at him and, seized with fear, said, "What is it, sir?" He said to him, "Your prayers and almsgiving have ascended as a memorial offering before God. [5]Now send some men to Joppa and summon one Simon who is called Peter. [6]He is staying with another Simon, a tanner, who has a house by the sea." [7]When the angel who spoke to him had left, he called two of his servants and a devout soldier from his staff, [8]explained everything to them, and sent them to Joppa.

The Vision of Peter. [9]The next day, while they were on their way and nearing the city, Peter went up to the roof terrace to pray at about noontime. [10]He was hungry and wished to eat, and while they were making preparations he fell into a trance. [11]He saw heaven opened and something resembling a large sheet coming down, lowered to the ground by its four corners. [12]In it were all the earth's four-legged animals and reptiles and the birds of the sky. [13]A voice said to him, "Get up, Peter. Slaughter and eat." [14]But Peter said, "Certainly not, sir. For never have I eaten anything profane and unclean." [15]The voice spoke to him again, a second time, "What God has made clean, you are not to call profane." [16]This happened three times, and then the object was taken up into the sky.

[17]While Peter was in doubt about the meaning of the vision he had seen, the men sent by Cornelius asked for Simon's house and arrived at the entrance. [18]They called out inquiring whether Simon, who is called Peter, was staying there. [19]As Peter was pondering the vision, the Spirit said [to him], "There are three men here looking for you. [20]So get up, go downstairs, and accompany them without hesitation, because I have sent them." [21]Then Peter went down to the men and said, "I am the one you are looking for. What is the reason for your being here?" [22]They answered, "Cornelius, a centurion, an upright and God-fearing man, respected by the whole Jewish nation, was directed by a holy angel to summon you to his house and to hear what you have to say." [23]So he invited them in and showed them hospitality.

The next day he got up and went with them, and some of the brothers from Joppa went with him. [24]On the following day he entered Caesarea. Cornelius was expecting them and had called together his relatives and close friends. [25]When Peter entered, Cornelius met him and, falling at his feet, paid him homage. [26]Peter, however, raised him up, saying, "Get up. I myself am also a human being." [27]While he conversed with him, he went in and found many people gathered together [28]and said to them, "You know that it is unlawful for a Jewish man to associate with, or visit, a Gentile, but God has shown me that I should not call any person profane or unclean. [29]And that is why I came without objection when sent for. May I ask, then, why you summoned me?"

[30]Cornelius replied, "Four days ago at this hour, three o'clock in the afternoon, I was at prayer in my house when suddenly a man in dazzling robes stood before me and said, [31]'Cornelius, your prayer has been heard and your almsgiving remembered before God. [32]Send therefore to Joppa and summon Simon, who is called Peter. He is a guest in the house of Simon, a tanner, by the sea.' [33]So I sent for you immediately, and you were kind enough to come. Now therefore we are all here in the presence of God to listen to all that you have been commanded by the Lord."

Peter's Speech. [34]Then Peter proceeded to speak and said, "In truth, I see that God shows no partiality. [35]Rather, in every nation whoever fears him and acts uprightly is acceptable to him. [36]You know the word [that] he sent to the Israelites as he proclaimed peace through Jesus Christ, who is Lord of all, [37]what has happened all over Judea, beginning in Galilee after the baptism that John preached, [38]how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the holy Spirit and power. He went about doing good and healing all those oppressed by the devil, for God was with him. [39]We are witnesses of all that he did both in the country of the Jews and [in] Jerusalem. They put him to death by hanging him on a tree. [40]This man God raised [on] the third day and granted that he be visible, [41]not to all the people, but to us, the witnesses chosen by God in advance, who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead. [42]He commissioned us to preach to the people and testify that he is the one appointed by God as judge of the living and the dead. [43]To him all the prophets bear witness, that everyone who believes in him will receive forgiveness of sins through his name."

The Baptism of Cornelius. [44]While Peter was still speaking these things, the holy Spirit fell upon all who were listening to the word. [45]The circumcised believers who had accompanied Peter were astounded that the gift of the holy Spirit should have been poured out on the Gentiles also, [46]for they could hear them speaking in tongues and glorifying God. Then Peter responded, [47]"Can anyone withhold the water for baptizing these people, who have received the holy Spirit even as we have?" [48]He ordered them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ. [49]Then they invited him to stay for a few days.

Blessed Teresa of Calcutta

It is a great poverty to decide that a child must die so that you might live as you wish.
— Blessed Teresa of Calcutta

☐ ISAIAH 5-6

The Song of the Vineyard. 5:1 Now let me sing of my friend,
my beloved's song about his vineyard.
My friend had a vineyard
on a fertile hillside;
[2]He spaded it, cleared it of stones,
and planted the choicest vines;
Within it he built a watchtower,
and hewed out a wine press.
Then he waited for the crop of grapes,
but it yielded rotten grapes.
[3]Now, inhabitants of Jerusalem, people of Judah,
judge between me and my vineyard:
[4]What more could be done for my vineyard
that I did not do?
Why, when I waited for the crop of grapes,
did it yield rotten grapes?
[5]Now, I will let you know what I am going to do to my vineyard:
Take away its hedge, give it to grazing,
break through its wall, let it be trampled!
[6]Yes, I will make it a ruin:
it shall not be pruned or hoed,
but will be overgrown with thorns and briers;
I will command the clouds
not to rain upon it.
[7]The vineyard of the LORD of hosts is the house of Israel,
the people of Judah, his cherished plant;
He waited for judgment, but see, bloodshed!
for justice, but hark, the outcry!

Oracles of Reproach. [8]Ah! Those who join house to house, who connect field with field,
Until no space remains, and you alone dwell
in the midst of the land!
[9]In my hearing the LORD of hosts has sworn:
Many houses shall be in ruins,
houses large and fine, with nobody living there.
[10]Ten acres of vineyard
shall yield but one bath,
And a homer of seed
shall yield but an ephah.
[11]Ah! Those who rise early in the morning in pursuit of strong drink, lingering late
inflamed by wine, [12]Banqueting on wine with harp and lyre,
timbrel and flute,
But the deed of the LORD they do not regard,
the work of his hands they do not see!
[13]Therefore my people go into exile
for lack of understanding,
Its nobles starving,
its masses parched with thirst.
[14]Therefore Sheol enlarges its throat
and opens its mouth beyond measure;
Down into it go nobility and masses,
tumult and revelry.
[15]All shall be abased, each one brought low,
and the eyes of the haughty lowered, [16]But the LORD of hosts shall be exalted by judgment,
by justice the Holy God shown holy.
[17]Lambs shall graze as at pasture,
young goats shall eat in the ruins of the rich.
[18]Ah! Those who tug at guilt with cords of perversity, and at sin as if with cart ropes!
[19]Who say, "Let him make haste,
let him speed his work, that we may see it;
On with the plan of the Holy One of Israel!
let it come to pass, that we may know it!"
[20]Ah! Those who call evil good, and good evil, who change darkness to light, and light into darkness,
who change bitter to sweet, and sweet into bitter!
[21]Ah! Those who are wise in their own eyes, prudent in their own view!
[22]Ah! Those who are champions at drinking wine, masters at mixing drink!
[23]Those who acquit the guilty for bribes,
and deprive the innocent of justice!
[24]Therefore, as the tongue of fire licks up stubble,
as dry grass shrivels in the flame,

Their root shall rot
and their blossom scatter like dust;
For they have rejected the instruction of the LORD of hosts,
and scorned the word of the Holy One of Israel.

25 Therefore the wrath of the LORD blazes against his people,
he stretches out his hand to strike them;
The mountains quake,
their corpses shall be like refuse in the streets.
For all this, his wrath is not turned back,
his hand is still outstretched.

Invasion. 26 He will raise a signal to a far-off nation,
and whistle for it from the ends of the earth.
Then speedily and promptly they will come.
27 None among them is weary, none stumbles,
none will slumber, none will sleep.
None with waist belt loose,
none with sandal thong broken.
28 Their arrows are sharp,
and all their bows are bent,
The hooves of their horses like flint,
and their chariot wheels like the whirlwind.
29 They roar like the lion,
like young lions, they roar;
They growl and seize the prey,
they carry it off and none can rescue.
30 They will growl over it, on that day,
like the growling of the sea,
Look to the land—
darkness closing in,
the light dark with clouds!

The Sending of Isaiah. 6:1 In the year King Uzziah died, I saw the Lord seated on a high and lofty throne, with the train of his garment filling the temple. 2 Seraphim were stationed above; each of them had six wings: with two they covered their faces, with two they covered their feet, and with two they hovered. 3 One cried out to the other:

"Holy, holy, holy is the LORD of hosts!
All the earth is filled with his glory!"

4 At the sound of that cry, the frame of the door shook and the house was filled with smoke.

5 Then I said, "Woe is me, I am doomed! For I am a man of unclean lips, living among a people of unclean lips, and my eyes have seen the King, the LORD of hosts!" 6 Then one of the seraphim flew to me, holding an ember which he had taken with tongs from the altar.

7 He touched my mouth with it. "See," he said, "now that this has touched your lips, your wickedness is removed, your sin purged."

8 Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying, "Whom shall I send? Who will go for us?" "Here I am," I said; "send me!" 9 And he replied: Go and say to this people:

Listen carefully, but do not understand!
Look intently, but do not perceive!

[10]Make the heart of this people sluggish,
dull their ears and close their eyes;
Lest they see with their eyes, and hear with their ears,
and their heart understand,
and they turn and be healed.

[11]"How long, O Lord?" I asked. And he replied:

Until the cities are desolate,
without inhabitants,
Houses, without people,
and the land is a desolate waste.
[12]Until the LORD sends the people far away,
and great is the desolation in the midst of the land.
[13]If there remain a tenth part in it,
then this in turn shall be laid waste;
As with a terebinth or an oak whose trunk remains when its leaves have fallen.
Holy offspring is the trunk.

☐ ACTS 11

The Baptism of the Gentiles Explained. 11:1 Now the apostles and the brothers who were in Judea heard that the Gentiles too had accepted the word of God. [2]So when Peter went up to Jerusalem the circumcised believers confronted him, [3]saying, "You entered the house of uncircumcised people and ate with them." [4]Peter began and explained it to them step by step, saying, [5]"I was at prayer in the city of Joppa when in a trance I had a vision, something resembling a large sheet coming down, lowered from the sky by its four corners, and it came to me. [6]Looking intently into it, I observed and saw the four-legged animals of the earth, the wild beasts, the reptiles, and the birds of the sky. [7]I also heard a voice say to me, 'Get up, Peter. Slaughter and eat.' [8]But I said, 'Certainly not, sir, because nothing profane or unclean has ever entered my mouth.' [9]But a second time a voice from heaven answered, 'What God has made clean, you are not to call profane.' [10]This happened three times, and then everything was drawn up again into the sky. [11]Just then three men appeared at the house where we were, who had been sent to me from Caesarea. [12]The Spirit told me to accompany them without discriminating. These six brothers also went with me, and we entered the man's house. [13]He related to us how he had seen (the) angel standing in his house, saying, 'Send someone to Joppa and summon Simon, who is called Peter, [14]who will speak words to you by which you and all your household will be saved.' [15]As I began to speak, the holy Spirit fell upon them as it had upon us at the beginning, [16]and I remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said, 'John baptized with water but you will be baptized with the holy Spirit.' [17]If then God gave them the same gift he gave to us when we came to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I to be able to hinder God?" [18]When they heard this, they stopped objecting and glorified God, saying, "God has then granted life-giving repentance to the Gentiles too."

The Church at Antioch. [19]Now those who had been scattered by the persecution that arose because of Stephen went as far as Phoenicia, Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to no one but Jews. [20]There were some Cypriots and Cyrenians among them, however, who came to Antioch and began to speak to the Greeks as well, proclaiming the Lord Jesus. [21]The hand of the Lord was with them and a great number who believed turned to the Lord. [22]The news about them reached the ears of the church in Jerusalem, and they sent Barnabas [to go] to Antioch. [23]When he arrived and saw the grace of God, he rejoiced and encouraged them all to remain faithful to the Lord in firmness of heart, [24]for he was a good man, filled with the holy Spirit and faith. And a large number of people was added to the Lord. [25]Then he went to Tarsus to look for Saul, [26]and when he had found him he brought him to Antioch. For a whole year they met with the church and taught a large number of people, and it was in Antioch that the disciples were first called Christians.

The Prediction of Agabus. [27]At that time some prophets came down from Jerusalem to Antioch, [28]and one of them named Agabus stood up and predicted by the Spirit that there would be a severe famine all over the world, and it happened under Claudius. [29]So the disciples determined that, according to ability, each should send relief to the brothers who lived in Judea. [30]This they did, sending it to the presbyters in care of Barnabas and Saul.

So valuable to heaven is the dignity of the human soul that every member of the human race has a guardian angel from the moment the person begins to be.

Crisis in Judah. 7:1 In the days of Ahaz, king of Judah, son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, Rezin, king of Aram, and Pekah, king of Israel, son of Remaliah, went up to attack Jerusalem, but they were not able to conquer it. [2]When word came to the house of David that Aram had allied itself with Ephraim, the heart of the king and heart of the people trembled, as the trees of the forest tremble in the wind.

[3]Then the LORD said to Isaiah: Go out to meet Ahaz, you and your son Shear-jashub, at the end of the conduit of the upper pool, on the highway to the fuller's field, [4]and say to him: Take care you remain calm and do not fear; do not let your courage fail before these two stumps of smoldering brands, the blazing anger of Rezin and the Arameans and of the son of Remaliah— [5]because Aram, with Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, has planned evil against you. They say, [6]"Let us go up against Judah, tear it apart, make it our own by force, and appoint the son of Tabeel king there."

[7]Thus says the Lord GOD:
It shall not stand, it shall not be!
[8]The head of Aram is Damascus,
and the head of Damascus is Rezin;
[9]The head of Ephraim is Samaria,
and the head of Samaria is the son of Remaliah.
Within sixty-five years,
Ephraim shall be crushed, no longer a nation.
Unless your faith is firm,
you shall not be firm!

Emmanuel. [10]Again the LORD spoke to Ahaz: [11]Ask for a sign from the LORD, your God; let it be deep as Sheol, or high as the sky! [12]But Ahaz answered, "I will not ask! I will not tempt the LORD!" [13]Then he said: Listen, house of David! Is it not enough that you weary human beings? Must you also weary my God? [14]Therefore the Lord himself will give you a sign; the young woman, pregnant and about to bear a son, shall name him Emmanuel. [15]Curds and honey he will eat so that he may learn to reject evil and choose good; [16]for before the child learns to reject evil and choose good, the land of those two kings whom you dread shall be deserted.

[17]The LORD shall bring upon you and your people and your father's house such days as have not come since Ephraim seceded from Judah (the king of Assyria). [18]On that day

The LORD shall whistle
for the fly in the farthest streams of Egypt,
and for the bee in the land of Assyria.
[19]All of them shall come and settle in the steep ravines and in the rocky clefts,
on all thornbushes and in all pastures.

[20]On that day the Lord shall shave with the razor hired from across the River (the king of Assyria) the head, and the hair of the feet; it shall also shave off the beard.

[21]On that day a man shall keep alive a young cow or a couple of sheep, [22]and from their abundant yield of milk he shall eat curds; curds and honey shall be the food of all who are left in the land. [23]On that day every place where there were a thousand vines worth a thousand pieces of silver shall become briers and thorns. [24]One shall have to go there with bow and arrows, for all the country shall be briers and thorns. [25]But as for all the hills which were hoed with a mattock, for fear of briers and thorns you will not go there; they shall become a place for cattle to roam and sheep to trample.

A Son of Isaiah. 8:1 The LORD said to me: Take a large tablet, and inscribe on it with an ordinary stylus, "belonging to Maher-shalal-hash-baz," [2]and call reliable witnesses for me, Uriah the priest, and Zechariah, son of Jeberechiah.

[3]Then I went to the prophetess and she conceived and bore a son. The LORD said to me: Name him Maher-shalal-hash-baz, [4]for before the child learns to say, "My father, my mother," the wealth of Damascus and the spoils of Samaria shall be carried off by the king of Assyria.

The Choice: The Lord or Assyria. [5]Again the LORD spoke to me:

[6]Because this people has rejected
the waters of Shiloah that flow gently,
And melts with fear at the display of Rezin and Remaliah's son, [7]Therefore the Lord is bringing up against them
the waters of the River, great and mighty,
the king of Assyria and all his glory.
It shall rise above all its channels,
and overflow all its banks.
[8]It shall roll on into Judah,
it shall rage and pass on—
up to the neck it shall reach.
But his outspread wings will fill the width of your land, Emmanuel!
[9]Band together, O peoples, but be shattered!
Give ear, all you distant lands!
Arm yourselves, but be shattered! Arm yourselves, but be shattered!
[10]Form a plan, it shall be thwarted;
make a resolve, it shall not be carried out,
for "With us is God!"

Disciples of Isaiah. [11]For thus said the LORD—his hand strong upon me—warning me not to walk in the way of this people:

[12]Do not call conspiracy what this people calls conspiracy,
nor fear what they fear, nor feel dread.
[13]But conspire with the LORD of hosts;
he shall be your fear, he shall be your dread.
[14]He shall be a snare,
a stone for injury,
A rock for stumbling
to both the houses of Israel,
A trap and a snare
to those who dwell in Jerusalem; [15]And many among them shall stumble;

fallen and broken;
snared and captured.

16Bind up my testimony, seal the instruction with my disciples. 17I will trust in the LORD, who is hiding his face from the house of Jacob; yes, I will wait for him. 18Here am I and the children whom the LORD has given me: we are signs and portents in Israel from the LORD of hosts, who dwells on Mount Zion.
19And when they say to you, "Inquire of ghosts and soothsayers who chirp and mutter; should not a people inquire of their gods, consulting the dead on behalf of the living, 20for instruction and testimony?" Surely, those who speak like this are the ones for whom there is no dawn.

21He will pass through it hard-pressed and hungry,
and when hungry, shall become enraged,
and curse king and gods.
He will look upward,
22and will gaze at the earth,
But will see only distress and darkness,
oppressive gloom,
murky, without light.

The Promise of Salvation Under a New Davidic King. 23There is no gloom where there had been distress.
Where once he degraded the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, now he has glorified the way of the Sea, the land across the Jordan, Galilee of the Nations.

☐ ACTS 12

Herod's Persecution of the Christians. 12:1 About that time King Herod laid hands upon some members of the church to harm them. 2He had James, the brother of John, killed by the sword, 3and when he saw that this was pleasing to the Jews he proceeded to arrest Peter also. (It was [the] feast of Unleavened Bread.) 4He had him taken into custody and put in prison under the guard of four squads of four soldiers each. He intended to bring him before the people after Passover. 5Peter thus was being kept in prison, but prayer by the church was fervently being made to God on his behalf.
6On the very night before Herod was to bring him to trial, Peter, secured by double chains, was sleeping between two soldiers, while outside the door guards kept watch on the prison. 7Suddenly the angel of the Lord stood by him and a light shone in the cell. He tapped Peter on the side and awakened him, saying, "Get up quickly." The chains fell from his wrists. 8The angel said to him, "Put on your belt and your sandals." He did so. Then he said to him, "Put on your cloak and follow me." 9So he followed him out, not realizing that what was happening through the angel was real; he thought he was seeing a vision. 10They passed the first guard, then the second, and came to the iron gate leading out to the city, which opened for them by itself. They emerged and made their way down an alley, and suddenly the angel left him. 11Then Peter recovered his senses and said, "Now I know for certain that [the] Lord sent his angel and rescued me from the hand of Herod and from all that the Jewish people had been expecting." 12When he realized this, he went to the house of Mary, the mother of John who is called Mark, where there were many people gathered in prayer. 13When he knocked on the gateway door, a maid named Rhoda came to answer it. 14She was so overjoyed when she recognized Peter's voice that, instead of opening the gate, she ran in and announced that Peter was standing at the gate. 15They told her, "You are out of your mind," but she insisted that it was so. But they kept saying, "It is his angel." 16But Peter continued to knock, and when they opened it, they saw him and were astounded. 17He motioned to them with his hand to be quiet and explained [to them] how the Lord had led him out of the prison, and said, "Report this to James and the brothers." Then he left and went to another place. 18At daybreak there was no small commotion among the soldiers over what had become of Peter. 19Herod, after instituting a search but not finding him, ordered the guards tried and executed. Then he left Judea to spend some time in Caesarea.

Herod's Death. [20]He had long been very angry with the people of Tyre and Sidon, who now came to him in a body. After winning over Blastus, the king's chamberlain, they sued for peace because their country was supplied with food from the king's territory. [21]On an appointed day, Herod, attired in royal robes, [and] seated on the rostrum, addressed them publicly. [22]The assembled crowd cried out, "This is the voice of a god, not of a man." [23]At once the angel of the Lord struck him down because he did not ascribe the honor to God, and he was eaten by worms and breathed his last. [24]But the word of God continued to spread and grow.

Mission of Barnabas and Saul. [25]After Barnabas and Saul completed their relief mission, they returned to Jerusalem, taking with them John, who is called Mark.

The Holy Spirit longs to find the gates of our heart, so that He may enter in and dwell there, and sanctify it; and He goes round about to all the gates to see where He may enter.

☐ ISAIAH 9-10

9:1 The people who walked in darkness
have seen a great light;
Upon those who lived in a land of gloom
a light has shone.
[2]You have brought them abundant joy
and great rejoicing;
They rejoice before you as people rejoice at harvest,
as they exult when dividing the spoils.
[3]For the yoke that burdened them,
the pole on their shoulder,
The rod of their taskmaster,
you have smashed, as on the day of Midian.
[4]For every boot that tramped in battle,
every cloak rolled in blood,
will be burned as fuel for fire.
[5]For a child is born to us, a son is given to us;
upon his shoulder dominion rests.
They name him Wonder-Counselor, God-Hero,
Father-Forever, Prince of Peace.
[6]His dominion is vast and forever peaceful,
Upon David's throne, and over his kingdom,
which he confirms and sustains
By judgment and justice,
both now and forever.
The zeal of the LORD of hosts will do this!

Judgment on the Northern Kingdom. [7]The Lord has sent a word against Jacob,
and it falls upon Israel;
[8]And all the people know it—Ephraim and those who dwell in Samaria—

those who say in arrogance and pride of heart, 9"Bricks have fallen,
but we will rebuild with cut stone;
Sycamores have been felled,
but we will replace them with cedars."
10So the LORD raises up their foes against them and stirs up their enemies to action—11Aram from the east and the Philistines from the west—
they devour Israel with open mouth.
For all this, his wrath is not turned back,
and his hand is still outstretched!
12The people do not turn back to the one who struck them,
nor do they seek the LORD of hosts.
13So the LORD cuts off from Israel head and tail,
palm branch and reed in one day.
14(The elder and the noble are the head,
the prophet who teaches falsehood is the tail.)
15Those who lead this people lead them astray,
and those who are led are swallowed up.
16That is why the Lord does not spare their young men,
and their orphans and widows he does not pity;
For they are totally impious and wicked,
and every mouth speaks folly.
For all this, his wrath is not turned back,
his hand is still outstretched!
17For wickedness burns like fire,
devouring brier and thorn;
It kindles the forest thickets,
which go up in columns of smoke.
18At the wrath of the LORD of hosts the land quakes,
and the people are like fuel for fire;
no one spares his brother.
19They hack on the right, but remain hungry;
they devour on the left, but are not filled.
Each devours the flesh of the neighbor;
20Manasseh devours Ephraim, and Ephraim Manasseh, together they turn on Judah.
For all this, his wrath is not turned back,
his hand is still outstretched!

Perversion of Justice. 10:1 Ah! Those who enact unjust statutes, who write oppressive decrees, 2Depriving the needy of judgment,
robbing my people's poor of justice,
Making widows their plunder,
and orphans their prey!
3What will you do on the day of punishment,
when the storm comes from afar?
To whom will you flee for help?
Where will you leave your wealth,

[4]Lest it sink beneath the captive or fall beneath the slain?
For all this, his wrath is not turned back,
his hand is still outstretched!

Judgment on Assyria. [5]Ah! Assyria, the rod of my wrath, the staff I wield in anger.
[6]Against an impious nation I send him,
and against a people under my wrath I order him
To seize plunder, carry off loot,
and to trample them like the mud of the street.
[7]But this is not what he intends,
nor does he have this in mind;
Rather, it is in his heart to destroy,
to make an end of not a few nations.
[8]For he says, "Are not my commanders all kings?"
[9] "Is not Calno like Carchemish, Or Hamath like Arpad,
or Samaria like Damascus?
[10]Just as my hand reached out to idolatrous kingdoms that had more images than Jerusalem and Samaria—[11]Just as I treated Samaria and her idols, shall I not do to Jerusalem and her graven images?"

[12]But when the LORD has brought to an end all his work on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem,

I will punish the utterance
of the king of Assyria's proud heart,
and the boastfulness of his haughty eyes.
[13]For he says:
"By my own power I have done it,
and by my wisdom, for I am shrewd.
I have moved the boundaries of peoples,
their treasures I have pillaged,
and, like a mighty one, I have brought down the enthroned.
[14]My hand has seized, like a nest,
the wealth of nations.
As one takes eggs left alone,
so I took in all the earth;
No one fluttered a wing,
or opened a mouth, or chirped!"
[15]Will the ax boast against the one who hews with it?
Will the saw exalt itself above the one who wields it?
As if a rod could sway the one who lifts it,
or a staff could lift the one who is not wood!
[16]Therefore the Lord, the LORD of hosts,
will send leanness among his fat ones,
And under his glory there will be a kindling
like the kindling of fire.
[17]The Light of Israel will become a fire,

the Holy One, a flame,
That burns and consumes its briers
and its thorns in a single day.
[18]And the glory of its forests and orchards
will be consumed, soul and body,
and it will be like a sick man who wastes away.
[19]And the remnant of the trees in his forest will be so few,
that any child can record them.
[20]On that day
The remnant of Israel,
the survivors of the house of Jacob,
will no more lean upon the one who struck them;
But they will lean upon the LORD,
the Holy One of Israel, in truth.
[21]A remnant will return, the remnant of Jacob,
to the mighty God.
[22]Though your people, O Israel,
were like the sand of the sea,
Only a remnant of them will return;
their destruction is decreed,
as overflowing justice demands.

[23]For the Lord, the GOD of hosts, is about to carry out the destruction decreed in the midst of the whole land.

[24]Therefore thus says the Lord, the GOD of hosts: My people, who dwell in Zion, do not fear the Assyrian, though he strikes you with a rod, and raises his staff against you as did the Egyptians. [25]For just a brief moment more, and my wrath shall be over, and my anger shall be set for their destruction. [26]Then the LORD of hosts will raise against them a scourge such as struck Midian at the rock of Oreb; and he will raise his staff over the sea as he did in Egypt. [27]On that day,

His burden shall be taken from your shoulder,
and his yoke shattered from your neck.

The March of an Enemy Army. He has come up from Rimmon, [28]he has reached Aiath, passed through Migron,
at Michmash he has stored his supplies.
[29]He has crossed the ravine,
at Geba he has camped for the night.
Ramah trembles,
Gibeah of Saul has fled.
[30]Cry and shriek, Bath-Gallim!
Hearken, Laishah! Answer her, Anathoth!
[31]Madmenah is in flight,
the inhabitants of Gebim seek refuge.
[32]Even today he will halt at Nob,
he will shake his fist at the mount of daughter Zion,
the hill of Jerusalem!
[33]Now the Lord, the LORD of hosts,
is about to lop off the boughs with terrible violence;
The tall of stature shall be felled,
and the lofty ones shall be brought low;

[34]He shall hack down the forest thickets with an ax,
and Lebanon in its splendor shall fall.

☐ ACTS 13

13:1 Now there were in the church at Antioch prophets and teachers: Barnabas, Symeon who was called Niger, Lucius of Cyrene, Manaen who was a close friend of Herod the tetrarch, and Saul. [2]While they were worshiping the Lord and fasting, the holy Spirit said, "Set apart for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them." [3]Then, completing their fasting and prayer, they laid hands on them and sent them off.

First Mission Begins in Cyprus. [4]So they, sent forth by the holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia and from there sailed to Cyprus. [5]When they arrived in Salamis, they proclaimed the word of God in the Jewish synagogues. They had John also as their assistant. [6]When they had traveled through the whole island as far as Paphos, they met a magician named Bar-Jesus who was a Jewish false prophet. [7]He was with the proconsul Sergius Paulus, a man of intelligence, who had summoned Barnabas and Saul and wanted to hear the word of God. [8]But Elymas the magician (for that is what his name means) opposed them in an attempt to turn the proconsul away from the faith. [9]But Saul, also known as Paul, filled with the holy Spirit, looked intently at him [10]and said, "You son of the devil, you enemy of all that is right, full of every sort of deceit and fraud. Will you not stop twisting the straight paths of [the] Lord? [11]Even now the hand of the Lord is upon you. You will be blind, and unable to see the sun for a time." Immediately a dark mist fell upon him, and he went about seeking people to lead him by the hand. [12]When the proconsul saw what had happened, he came to believe, for he was astonished by the teaching about the Lord.

Paul's Arrival at Antioch in Pisidia. [13]From Paphos, Paul and his companions set sail and arrived at Perga in Pamphylia. But John left them and returned to Jerusalem. [14]They continued on from Perga and reached Antioch in Pisidia. On the sabbath they entered (into) the synagogue and took their seats. [15]After the reading of the law and the prophets, the synagogue officials sent word to them, "My brothers, if one of you has a word of exhortation for the people, please speak."

Paul's Address in the Synagogue. [16]So Paul got up, motioned with his hand, and said, "Fellow Israelites and you others who are God-fearing, listen. [17]The God of this people Israel chose our ancestors and exalted the people during their sojourn in the land of Egypt. With uplifted arm he led them out of it [18]and for about forty years he put up with them in the desert. [19]When he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Canaan, he gave them their land as an inheritance [20]at the end of about four hundred and fifty years. After these things he provided judges up to Samuel [the] prophet. [21]Then they asked for a king. God gave them Saul, son of Kish, a man from the tribe of Benjamin, for forty years. [22]Then he removed him and raised up David as their king; of him he testified, 'I have found David, son of Jesse, a man after my own heart; he will carry out my every wish.' [23]From this man's descendants God, according to his promise, has brought to Israel a savior, Jesus. [24]John heralded his coming by proclaiming a baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel; [25]and as John was completing his course, he would say, 'What do you suppose that I am? I am not he. Behold, one is coming after me; I am not worthy to unfasten the sandals of his feet.'

[26]"My brothers, children of the family of Abraham, and those others among you who are God-fearing, to us this word of salvation has been sent. [27]The inhabitants of Jerusalem and their leaders failed to recognize him, and by condemning him they fulfilled the oracles of the prophets that are read sabbath after sabbath. [28]For even though they found no grounds for a death sentence, they asked Pilate to have him put to death, [29]and when they had accomplished all that was written about him, they took him down from the tree and placed him in a tomb. [30]But God raised him from the dead, [31]and for many days he appeared to those who had come up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem. These are [now] his witnesses before the people. [32]We ourselves are proclaiming this good news to you that what God promised our ancestors [33]he has brought to fulfillment for us, (their) children, by raising up Jesus, as it is written in the second psalm, 'You are my son; this day I have begotten you.' [34]And that he raised him from the dead never to return to corruption he declared in this way, 'I shall give you the benefits assured to David.' [35]That is why he also says in another psalm, 'You will not suffer your holy one to see corruption.' [36]Now David, after he had served the will of God in his lifetime, fell asleep, was gathered to his ancestors, and did see corruption. [37]But the one whom God raised up did not see corruption. [38]You must know, my brothers, that through him forgiveness of sins is being proclaimed to you, [and] in regard to everything from which you could not be justified under the law of Moses, [39]in him every believer is justified. [40]Be careful, then, that what was said in the prophets not come about:

[41]'Look on, you scoffers,
be amazed and disappear.
For I am doing a work in your days,
a work that you will never believe even if someone tells you.' "

[42]As they were leaving, they invited them to speak on these subjects the following sabbath. [43]After the congregation had dispersed, many Jews and worshipers who were converts to Judaism followed Paul and Barnabas, who spoke to them and urged them to remain faithful to the grace of God.

Address to the Gentiles. [44]On the following sabbath almost the whole city gathered to hear the word of the Lord. [45]When the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy and with violent abuse contradicted what Paul said. [46]Both Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly and said, "It was necessary that the word of God be spoken to you first, but since you reject it and condemn yourselves as unworthy of eternal life, we now turn to the Gentiles. [47]For so the Lord has commanded us, 'I have made you a light to the Gentiles, that you may be an instrument of salvation to the ends of the earth.' "

[48]The Gentiles were delighted when they heard this and glorified the word of the Lord. All who were destined for eternal life came to believe, [49]and the word of the Lord continued to spread through the whole region. [50]The Jews, however, incited the women of prominence who were worshipers and the leading men of the city, stirred up a persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them from their territory. [51]So they shook the dust from their feet in protest against them and went to Iconium. [52]The disciples were filled with joy and the holy Spirit.

The Nativity of the Blessed Virgin Mary

Today, on the birthday of Mary, the reformation of our nature begins; the aging world is transformed anew to the divine likeness and receives the beginnings of a second formation by God.

— St. Andrew of Crete

☐ ISAIAH 11-12

The Ideal Davidic King. 11:1 But a shoot shall sprout from the stump of Jesse,
and from his roots a bud shall blossom.
[2]The spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him:
a spirit of wisdom and of understanding,
A spirit of counsel and of strength,
a spirit of knowledge and of fear of the LORD,
[3]and his delight shall be the fear of the LORD.
Not by appearance shall he judge,
nor by hearsay shall he decide,
[4]But he shall judge the poor with justice,
and decide fairly for the land's afflicted.
He shall strike the ruthless with the rod of his mouth,
and with the breath of his lips he shall slay the wicked.

[5]Justice shall be the band around his waist,
and faithfulness a belt upon his hips.
[6]Then the wolf shall be a guest of the lamb,
and the leopard shall lie down with the young goat;
The calf and the young lion shall browse together,
with a little child to guide them.
[7]The cow and the bear shall graze,
together their young shall lie down;
the lion shall eat hay like the ox.
[8]The baby shall play by the viper's den,
and the child lay his hand on the adder's lair.
[9]They shall not harm or destroy on all my holy mountain;
for the earth shall be filled with knowledge of the LORD,
as water covers the sea.

Restoration. [10]On that day,
The root of Jesse,
set up as a signal for the peoples—
Him the nations will seek out;
his dwelling shall be glorious.
[11]On that day,
The Lord shall again take it in hand
to reclaim the remnant of his people that is left from Assyria and Egypt,
Pathros, Ethiopia, and Elam,
Shinar, Hamath, and the isles of the sea.
[12]He shall raise a signal to the nations and gather the outcasts of Israel;
The dispersed of Judah he shall assemble
from the four corners of the earth.
[13]The envy of Ephraim shall pass away,
and those hostile to Judah shall be cut off;
Ephraim shall not envy Judah,
and Judah shall not be hostile to Ephraim; [14]But they shall swoop down on the foothills
of the Philistines to the west,
together they shall plunder the people of the east;
Edom and Moab shall be their possessions,
and the Ammonites their subjects.
[15]The LORD shall dry up the tongue of the Sea of Egypt, and wave his hand over the Euphrates with his fierce wind,
And divide it into seven streamlets,
so that it can be crossed in sandals.
[16]There shall be a highway for the remnant of his people that is left from Assyria,
As there was for Israel
when it came up from the land of Egypt.

Song of Thanksgiving. 12:1 On that day, you will say:
I give you thanks, O LORD;

though you have been angry with me,
your anger has abated, and you have consoled me.
[2]God indeed is my salvation;
I am confident and unafraid.
For the LORD is my strength and my might,
and he has been my salvation.
[3]With joy you will draw water from the fountains of salvation, [4]And you will say on that day:
give thanks to the LORD, acclaim his name;
Among the nations make known his deeds,
proclaim how exalted is his name.
[5]Sing praise to the LORD for he has done glorious things;
let this be known throughout all the earth.
[6]Shout with exultation, City of Zion,
for great in your midst
is the Holy One of Israel!

☐ ACTS 14

Paul and Barnabas at Iconium. 14:1 In Iconium they entered the Jewish synagogue together and spoke in such a way that a great number of both Jews and Greeks came to believe, [2]although the disbelieving Jews stirred up and poisoned the minds of the Gentiles against the brothers. [3]So they stayed for a considerable period, speaking out boldly for the Lord, who confirmed the word about his grace by granting signs and wonders to occur through their hands. [4]The people of the city were divided: some were with the Jews; others, with the apostles. [5]When there was an attempt by both the Gentiles and the Jews, together with their leaders, to attack and stone them, [6]they realized it and fled to the Lycaonian cities of Lystra and Derbe and to the surrounding countryside, [7]where they continued to proclaim the good news.

Paul and Barnabas at Lystra. [8]At Lystra there was a crippled man, lame from birth, who had never walked. [9]He listened to Paul speaking, who looked intently at him, saw that he had the faith to be healed, [10]and called out in a loud voice, "Stand up straight on your feet." He jumped up and began to walk about. [11]When the crowds saw what Paul had done, they cried out in Lycaonian, "The gods have come down to us in human form." [12]They called Barnabas "Zeus" and Paul "Hermes," because he was the chief speaker. [13]And the priest of Zeus, whose temple was at the entrance to the city, brought oxen and garlands to the gates, for he together with the people intended to offer sacrifice.

[14]The apostles Barnabas and Paul tore their garments when they heard this and rushed out into the crowd, shouting, [15] "Men, why are you doing this? We are of the same nature as you, human beings. We proclaim to you good news that you should turn from these idols to the living God, 'who made heaven and earth and sea and all that is in them.' [16]In past generations he allowed all Gentiles to go their own ways; [17]yet, in bestowing his goodness, he did not leave himself without witness, for he gave you rains from heaven and fruitful seasons, and filled you with nourishment and gladness for your hearts." [18]Even with these words, they scarcely restrained the crowds from offering sacrifice to them.

[19]However, some Jews from Antioch and Iconium arrived and won over the crowds. They stoned Paul and dragged him out of the city, supposing that he was dead. [20]But when the disciples gathered around him, he got up and entered the city. On the following day he left with Barnabas for Derbe.

End of the First Mission. [21]After they had proclaimed the good news to that city and made a considerable number of disciples, they returned to Lystra and to Iconium and to Antioch. [22]They strengthened the spirits of the disciples and exhorted them to persevere in the faith, saying, "It is necessary for us to undergo many hardships to enter the kingdom of God." [23]They appointed presbyters for them in each church and, with prayer and fasting, commended them to the Lord in whom they had put their faith. [24]Then they traveled through Pisidia and reached Pamphylia. [25]After proclaiming the word at Perga they went down to Attalia. [26]From there they sailed to Antioch, where they had been commended to the grace of God for the work they had now accomplished. [27]And when they arrived, they called the church together and reported what God had done with them and how he had opened the door of faith to the Gentiles. [28]Then they spent no little time with the disciples.

☐ ISAIAH 13-14

Babylon. 13:1 An oracle concerning Babylon; a vision of Isaiah, son of Amoz.

[2]Upon the bare mountains set up a signal;
cry out to them,
Beckon for them to enter
the gates of the nobles.
[3]I have commanded my consecrated ones,
I have summoned my warriors,
eager and bold to carry out my anger.
[4]Listen! the rumble on the mountains:
that of an immense throng!
Listen! the noise of kingdoms, nations assembled!
The LORD of hosts is mustering
an army for battle.
[5]They come from a far-off country,
and from the end of the heavens,
The LORD and the instruments of his wrath,
to destroy all the land.
[6]Howl, for the day of the LORD is near;
as destruction from the Almighty it comes.
[7]Therefore all hands fall helpless,
every human heart melts,
[8]and they are terrified,
Pangs and sorrows take hold of them,
like a woman in labor they writhe;
They look aghast at each other,
their faces aflame.
[9]Indeed, the day of the LORD comes,
cruel, with wrath and burning anger;
To lay waste the land
and destroy the sinners within it!
[10]The stars of the heavens and their constellations
will send forth no light;
The sun will be dark at its rising,

and the moon will not give its light.
[11]Thus I will punish the world for its evil
and the wicked for their guilt.
I will put an end to the pride of the arrogant,
the insolence of tyrants I will humble.
[12]I will make mortals more rare than pure gold,
human beings, than the gold of Ophir.
[13]For this I will make the heavens tremble
and the earth shall be shaken from its place,
At the wrath of the LORD of hosts
on the day of his burning anger.
[14]Like a hunted gazelle,
or a flock that no one gathers,
They shall turn each to their own people
and flee each to their own land.
[15]Everyone who is taken shall be run through;
and everyone who is caught shall fall by the sword.
[16]Their infants shall be dashed to pieces in their sight;
their houses shall be plundered
and their wives ravished.
[17]I am stirring up against them the Medes,
who think nothing of silver
and take no delight in gold.
[18]With their bows they shall shatter the young men,
And the fruit of the womb they shall not spare,
nor shall their eye take pity on children.
[19]And Babylon, the jewel of kingdoms,
the glory and pride of the Chaldeans, Shall become like Sodom and Gomorrah,
overthrown by God.
[20]It shall never be inhabited,
nor dwelt in, from age to age;
Arabians shall not pitch their tents there,
nor shepherds rest their flocks there.
[21]But desert demons shall rest there and owls shall fill the houses;
There ostriches shall dwell,
and satyrs shall dance.
[22]Wild dogs shall dwell in its castles,
and jackals in its luxurious palaces.
Its time is near at hand
and its days shall not be prolonged.

Restoration of Israel. 14:1 But the LORD will take pity on Jacob and again choose Israel, and will settle them on their own land; foreigners will join them and attach themselves to the house of Jacob. [2]The nations will take them and bring them to their place, and the house of Israel will possess them as male and female slaves on the Lord's land; they will take captive their captors and rule over their oppressors.

Downfall of the King of Babylon. [3]On the day when the LORD gives you rest from your sorrow and turmoil, from the hard service with which you served, [4]you will take up this taunt-song against the king of Babylon:

How the oppressor has come to an end!
how the turmoil has ended!
5 The LORD has broken the rod of the wicked,
the staff of the tyrants
6 That struck the peoples in wrath
with relentless blows;
That ruled the nations in anger,
with boundless persecution.
7 The whole earth rests peacefully,
song breaks forth;
8 The very cypresses rejoice over you,
the cedars of Lebanon:
"Now that you are laid to rest,
no one comes to cut us down."
9 Below, Sheol is all astir preparing for your coming;
Awakening the shades to greet you,
all the leaders of the earth;
Making all the kings of the nations
rise from their thrones.
10 All of them speak out
and say to you,
"You too have become weak like us,
you are just like us!
11 Down to Sheol your pomp is brought,
the sound of your harps.
Maggots are the couch beneath you,
worms your blanket."
12 How you have fallen from the heavens,
O Morning Star, son of the dawn!
How you have been cut down to the earth,
you who conquered nations!
13 In your heart you said:
"I will scale the heavens;
Above the stars of God
I will set up my throne;
I will take my seat on the Mount of Assembly,
on the heights of Zaphon.
14 I will ascend above the tops of the clouds;
I will be like the Most High!" 15 No! Down to Sheol you will be brought to the depths of the pit!
16 When they see you they will stare,
pondering over you:
"Is this the man who made the earth tremble,
who shook kingdoms?
17 Who made the world a wilderness,
razed its cities,
and gave captives no release?"
18 All the kings of the nations lie in glory,

each in his own tomb;
[19]But you are cast forth without burial,
like loathsome carrion,
Covered with the slain, with those struck by the sword,
a trampled corpse,
Going down to the very stones of the pit.
[20]You will never be together with them in the grave,
For you have ruined your land,
you have slain your people!
Let him never be named,
that offshoot of evil!
[21]Make ready to slaughter his sons
for the guilt of their fathers;
Lest they rise and possess the earth,
and fill the breadth of the world with cities.

[22]I will rise up against them, says the LORD of hosts, and cut off from Babylon name and remnant, progeny and offspring, says the LORD. [23]I will make it a haunt of hoot owls and a marshland; I will sweep it with the broom of destruction, oracle of the LORD of hosts.

God's Plan for Assyria. [24]The LORD of hosts has sworn:
As I have resolved,
so shall it be;
As I have planned,
so shall it stand:
[25]To break the Assyrian in my land
and trample him on my mountains;
Then his yoke shall be removed from them,
and his burden from their shoulder.
[26]This is the plan proposed for the whole earth,
and this the hand outstretched over all the nations.
[27]The LORD of hosts has planned;
who can thwart him?
His hand is stretched out;
who can turn it back?

Philistia. [28]In the year that King Ahaz died, there came this oracle:

[29]Do not rejoice, Philistia, not one of you,
that the rod which struck you is broken;
For out of the serpent's root shall come an adder,
its offspring shall be a flying saraph.
[30]In my pastures the poor shall graze,
and the needy lie down in safety;
But I will kill your root with famine
that shall slay even your remnant.
[31]Howl, O gate; cry out, O city!
Philistia, all of you melts away!
For there comes a smoke from the north,
without a straggler in its ranks.
[32]What will one answer the messengers of the nations?

"The LORD has established Zion, and in her the afflicted of his people find refuge."

☐ ACTS 15

Council of Jerusalem. 15:1 Some who had come down from Judea were instructing the brothers, "Unless you are circumcised according to the Mosaic practice, you cannot be saved." [2]Because there arose no little dissension and debate by Paul and Barnabas with them, it was decided that Paul, Barnabas, and some of the others should go up to Jerusalem to the apostles and presbyters about this question. [3]They were sent on their journey by the church, and passed through Phoenicia and Samaria telling of the conversion of the Gentiles, and brought great joy to all the brothers. [4]When they arrived in Jerusalem, they were welcomed by the church, as well as by the apostles and the presbyters, and they reported what God had done with them. [5]But some from the party of the Pharisees who had become believers stood up and said, "It is necessary to circumcise them and direct them to observe the Mosaic law."

[6]The apostles and the presbyters met together to see about this matter. [7]After much debate had taken place, Peter got up and said to them, "My brothers, you are well aware that from early days God made his choice among you that through my mouth the Gentiles would hear the word of the gospel and believe. [8]And God, who knows the heart, bore witness by granting them the holy Spirit just as he did us. [9]He made no distinction between us and them, for by faith he purified their hearts. [10]Why, then, are you now putting God to the test by placing on the shoulders of the disciples a yoke that neither our ancestors nor we have been able to bear? [11]On the contrary, we believe that we are saved through the grace of the Lord Jesus, in the same way as they." [12]The whole assembly fell silent, and they listened while Paul and Barnabas described the signs and wonders God had worked among the Gentiles through them.

James on Dietary Law. [13]After they had fallen silent, James responded, "My brothers, listen to me. [14]Symeon has described how God first concerned himself with acquiring from among the Gentiles a people for his name. [15]The words of the prophets agree with this, as is written:

[16]'After this I shall return and rebuild the fallen hut of David;
from its ruins I shall rebuild it
and raise it up again, [17]so that the rest of humanity may seek out the Lord,
even all the Gentiles on whom my name is invoked.
Thus says the Lord who accomplishes these things,
[18]known from of old.'

[19]It is my judgment, therefore, that we ought to stop troubling the Gentiles who turn to God, [20]but tell them by letter to avoid pollution from idols, unlawful marriage, the meat of strangled animals, and blood. [21]For Moses, for generations now, has had those who proclaim him in every town, as he has been read in the synagogues every sabbath."

Letter of the Apostles. [22]Then the apostles and presbyters, in agreement with the whole church, decided to choose representatives and to send them to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas. The ones chosen were Judas, who was called Barsabbas, and Silas, leaders among the brothers. [23]This is the letter delivered by them: "The apostles and the presbyters, your brothers, to the brothers in Antioch, Syria, and Cilicia of Gentile origin: greetings. [24]Since we have heard that some of our number [who went out] without any mandate from us have upset you with their teachings and disturbed your peace of mind, [25]we have with one accord decided to choose representatives and to send them to you along with our beloved Barnabas and Paul, [26]who have dedicated their lives to the name of our Lord Jesus Christ. [27]So we are sending Judas and Silas who will also convey this same message by word of mouth: [28]'It is the decision of the holy Spirit and of us not to place on you any burden beyond these necessities, [29]namely, to abstain from meat sacrificed to idols, from blood, from meats of strangled animals, and from unlawful marriage. If you keep free of these, you will be doing what is right. Farewell.' "

Delegates at Antioch. [30]And so they were sent on their journey. Upon their arrival in Antioch they called the assembly together and delivered the letter. [31]When the people read it, they were delighted with the exhortation. [32]Judas and Silas, who were themselves prophets, exhorted and strengthened the brothers with many words. [33]After they had spent some time there, they were sent off with greetings of peace from the brothers to those who had commissioned them. [34] [35]But Paul and Barnabas remained in Antioch, teaching and proclaiming with many others the word of the Lord.

Paul and Barnabas Separate. [36]After some time, Paul said to Barnabas, "Come, let us make a return visit to see how the brothers are getting on in all the cities where we proclaimed the word of the Lord." [37]Barnabas wanted to take with them also John, who was called Mark, [38]but Paul insisted that they should not take with them someone who had deserted them at Pamphylia and who had not continued with them in their work. [39]So sharp was their disagreement that they separated. Barnabas took Mark and sailed to Cyprus. [40]But Paul chose Silas and departed after being commended by the brothers to the grace of the Lord. [41]He traveled through Syria and Cilicia bringing strength to the churches.

> If you were the handsomest and the richest man in the world, and could work wonders and drive out devils, all that would be something extrinsic to you; it would not belong to you, and you could not boast of it. But there is one thing of which we can boast: We can boast of our humiliations and in taking up daily the holy cross of our Lord Jesus Christ.

☐ ISAIAH 15-16

Moab. 15:1 Oracle on Moab:
Laid waste in a night,
Ar of Moab is destroyed;
Laid waste in a night,
Kir of Moab is destroyed.
[2]Daughter Dibon has gone up to the high places to weep;
Over Nebo and over Medeba
Moab is wailing.
Every head is shaved,
every beard sheared off.
[3]In the streets they wear sackcloth,
and on the rooftops;
In the squares
everyone wails, streaming with tears.
[4]Heshbon and Elealeh cry out,
they are heard as far as Jahaz.
At this the loins of Moab tremble,
his soul quivers within him;
[5]My heart cries out for Moab,
his fugitives reach Zoar, Eglath-shelishiyah:
The ascent of Luhith
they ascend weeping;
On the way to Horonaim
they utter rending cries;

[6]The waters of Nimrim
have become a waste,
The grass is withered,
new growth is gone,
nothing is green.
[7]So now whatever they have acquired or stored away
they carry across the Wadi of the Poplars.
[8]The cry has gone round
the territory of Moab;
As far as Eglaim his wailing,
even at Beer-elim his wailing.
[9]The waters of Dimon are filled with blood,
but I will bring still more upon Dimon:
Lions for those who are fleeing from Moab
and for those who remain in the land!

16:1 Send them forth, hugging the earth like reptiles,
from Sela across the desert,
to the mount of daughter Zion.
[2]Like flushed birds,
like scattered nestlings,
Are the daughters of Moab
at the fords of the Arnon.
[3]Offer counsel, take their part;
at high noon make your shade like the night;
Hide the outcasts,
do not betray the fugitives.
[4]Let the outcasts of Moab live with you,
be their shelter from the destroyer.
When there is an end to the oppressor,
when destruction has ceased,
and the marauders have vanished from the land,
[5]A throne shall be set up in mercy,
and on it shall sit in fidelity,
in David's tent,
A judge upholding right,
prompt to do justice.
[6]We have heard of the pride of Moab,
how very proud he is,
Of his haughtiness, pride, and arrogance
that his empty words do not match.
[7]Therefore let Moab wail,
let everyone wail for Moab;
For the raisin cakes of Kir-hareseth
let them sigh, stricken with grief.
[8]The terraced slopes of Heshbon languish,
the vines of Sibmah, Whose clusters once overpowered
the lords of nations,
Reaching as far as Jazer

winding through the wilderness,
Whose branches spread forth,
crossing over the sea.
[9]Therefore I weep with Jazer
for the vines of Sibmah;
I drench you with my tears,
Heshbon and Elealeh;
For on your summer fruits and harvests
the battle cry has fallen.
[10]From the orchards are taken away
joy and gladness,
In the vineyards there is no singing,
no shout of joy;
In the wine presses no one treads grapes,
the vintage shout is stilled.
[11]Therefore for Moab
my heart moans like a lyre,
my inmost being for Kir-hareseth.
[12]When Moab wears himself out on the high places,
and enters his sanctuary to pray,
it shall avail him nothing.

[13]That is the word the LORD spoke against Moab in times past. [14]But now the LORD speaks: In three years, like the years of a hired laborer, the glory of Moab shall be empty despite all its great multitude; and the remnant shall be very small and weak.

☐ ACTS 16

Paul in Lycaonia: Timothy. 16:1 He reached (also) Derbe and Lystra where there was a disciple named Timothy, the son of a Jewish woman who was a believer, but his father was a Greek. [2]The brothers in Lystra and Iconium spoke highly of him, [3]and Paul wanted him to come along with him. On account of the Jews of that region, Paul had him circumcised, for they all knew that his father was a Greek. [4]As they traveled from city to city, they handed on to the people for observance the decisions reached by the apostles and presbyters in Jerusalem. [5]Day after day the churches grew stronger in faith and increased in number.

Through Asia Minor. [6]They traveled through the Phrygian and Galatian territory because they had been prevented by the holy Spirit from preaching the message in the province of Asia. [7]When they came to Mysia, they tried to go on into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus did not allow them, [8]so they crossed through Mysia and came down to Troas. [9]During [the] night Paul had a vision. A Macedonian stood before him and implored him with these words, "Come over to Macedonia and help us." [10]When he had seen the vision, we sought passage to Macedonia at once, concluding that God had called us to proclaim the good news to them.

Into Europe. [11]We set sail from Troas, making a straight run for Samothrace, and on the next day to Neapolis, [12]and from there to Philippi, a leading city in that district of Macedonia and a Roman colony. We spent some time in that city. [13]On the sabbath we went outside the city gate along the river where we thought there would be a place of prayer. We sat and spoke with the women who had gathered there. [14]One of them, a woman named Lydia, a dealer in purple cloth, from the city of Thyatira, a worshiper of God, listened, and the Lord opened her heart to pay attention to what Paul was saying. [15]After she and her household had been baptized, she offered us an invitation, "If you consider me a believer in the Lord, come and stay at my home," and she prevailed on us.

Imprisonment at Philippi. [16]As we were going to the place of prayer, we met a slave girl with an oracular spirit, who used to bring a large profit to her owners through her fortune-telling. [17]She began to follow Paul and us, shouting, "These people are slaves of the Most High God, who proclaim to you a way of salvation." [18]She did this for many days. Paul became annoyed, turned, and said to the spirit, "I command you in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her." Then it came out at that moment.

[19]When her owners saw that their hope of profit was gone, they seized Paul and Silas and dragged them to the public square before the local authorities. [20]They brought them before the magistrates and said, "These people are Jews and are disturbing our city [21]and are advocating customs that are not lawful for us Romans to adopt or practice." [22]The crowd joined in the attack on them, and the magistrates had them stripped and ordered them to be beaten with rods. [23]After inflicting many blows on them, they threw them into prison and instructed the jailer to guard them securely. [24]When he received these instructions, he put them in the innermost cell and secured their feet to a stake.

Deliverance from Prison. [25]About midnight, while Paul and Silas were praying and singing hymns to God as the prisoners listened, [26]there was suddenly such a severe earthquake that the foundations of the jail shook; all the doors flew open, and the chains of all were pulled loose. [27]When the jailer woke up and saw the prison doors wide open, he drew [his] sword and was about to kill himself, thinking that the prisoners had escaped. [28]But Paul shouted out in a loud voice, "Do no harm to yourself; we are all here." [29]He asked for a light and rushed in and, trembling with fear, he fell down before Paul and Silas. [30]Then he brought them out and said, "Sirs, what must I do to be saved?" [31]And they said, "Believe in the Lord Jesus and you and your household will be saved." [32]So they spoke the word of the Lord to him and to everyone in his house. [33]He took them in at that hour of the night and bathed their wounds; then he and all his family were baptized at once. [34]He brought them up into his house and provided a meal and with his household rejoiced at having come to faith in God.

[35]But when it was day, the magistrates sent the lictors with the order, "Release those men." [36]The jailer reported the[se] words to Paul, "The magistrates have sent orders that you be released. Now, then, come out and go in peace." [37]But Paul said to them, "They have beaten us publicly, even though we are Roman citizens and have not been tried, and have thrown us into prison. And now, are they going to release us secretly? By no means. Let them come themselves and lead us out." [38]The lictors reported these words to the magistrates, and they became alarmed when they heard that they were Roman citizens. [39]So they came and placated them, and led them out and asked that they leave the city. [40]When they had come out of the prison, they went to Lydia's house where they saw and encouraged the brothers, and then they left.

St. Jean Gabriel Perboyre

Many people have difficulty in finding a meditation book. But I have found nothing so good as my own heart and the heart of Jesus. Why is it that we so often change the subject of our meditation? Only one thing is necessary: Jesus Christ. Think unceasingly of Him.

☐ ISAIAH 17-18

Damascus. 17:1 Oracle on Damascus:
See, Damascus shall cease to be a city
and become a pile of ruins;
[2]Her cities shall be forever abandoned,
for flocks to lie in undisturbed.
[3]The fortress shall vanish from Ephraim and dominion from Damascus;
The remnant of Aram shall become like the glory of the Israelites—

oracle of the LORD of hosts.
4On that day
The glory of Jacob shall fade,
and his full body shall grow thin.
5Like the reaper's mere armful of stalks,
when he gathers the standing grain;
Or as when one gleans the ears
in the Valley of Rephaim.
6Only gleanings shall be left in it,
as when an olive tree has been beaten—
Two or three olives at the very top, four or five on its most fruitful branches—
oracle of the LORD, the God of Israel.
7On that day people shall turn to their maker,
their eyes shall look to the Holy One of Israel.
8They shall not turn to the altars, the work of their hands,
nor shall they look to what their fingers have made:
the asherahs or the incense stands.
9On that day his strong cities shall be like those abandoned by the Hivites and Amorites
When faced with the Israelites;
and there shall be desolation.
10Truly, you have forgotten the God who saves you,
the Rock, your refuge, you have not remembered.
Therefore, though you plant plants for the Pleasant One,
and set out cuttings for a foreign one, 11Though you make them grow the day you plant them
and make them blossom the morning you set them out,
The harvest shall disappear on a day of sickness
and incurable pain.
12Ah! the roaring of many peoples—
a roar like the roar of the seas!
The thundering of nations—
thunder like the thundering of mighty waters!
13But God shall rebuke them,
and they shall flee far away,
Driven like chaff on the mountains before a wind,
like tumbleweed before a storm.
14At evening, there is terror,
but before morning, they are gone!
Such is the portion of those who despoil us,
the lot of those who plunder us.

Ethiopia. 18:1 Ah! Land of buzzing insects, beyond the rivers of Ethiopia, 2Sending ambassadors by sea,
in papyrus boats on the waters!
Go, swift messengers,
to a nation tall and bronzed,

To a people dreaded near and far,
a nation strong and conquering,
whose land is washed by rivers.
[3]All you who inhabit the world,
who dwell on earth,
When the signal is raised on the mountain, look!
When the trumpet blows, listen!
[4]For thus says the LORD to me:
I will be quiet, looking on from where I dwell,
Like the shimmering heat in sunshine,
like a cloud of dew at harvest time.
[5]Before the vintage, when the flowering has ended,
and the blooms are succeeded by ripening grapes,
Then comes the cutting of branches with pruning hooks,
and the discarding of the lopped-off shoots.
[6]They shall all be left to the mountain vultures
and to the beasts of the earth;
The vultures shall summer on them,
all the beasts of the earth shall winter on them.

[7]Then will gifts be brought to the LORD of hosts—to the place of the name of the LORD of hosts, Mount Zion—from a people tall and bronzed, from a people dreaded near and far, a nation strong and conquering, whose land is washed by rivers.

☐ ACTS 17

Paul in Thessalonica. 17:1 When they took the road through Amphipolis and Apollonia, they reached Thessalonica, where there was a synagogue of the Jews. [2]Following his usual custom, Paul joined them, and for three sabbaths he entered into discussions with them from the scriptures, [3]expounding and demonstrating that the Messiah had to suffer and rise from the dead, and that "This is the Messiah, Jesus, whom I proclaim to you." [4]Some of them were convinced and joined Paul and Silas; so, too, a great number of Greeks who were worshipers, and not a few of the prominent women. [5]But the Jews became jealous and recruited some worthless men loitering in the public square, formed a mob, and set the city in turmoil. They marched on the house of Jason, intending to bring them before the people's assembly. [6]When they could not find them, they dragged Jason and some of the brothers before the city magistrates, shouting, "These people who have been creating a disturbance all over the world have now come here, [7]and Jason has welcomed them. They all act in opposition to the decrees of Caesar and claim instead that there is another king, Jesus." [8]They stirred up the crowd and the city magistrates who, upon hearing these charges, [9]took a surety payment from Jason and the others before releasing them.

Paul in Beroea. [10]The brothers immediately sent Paul and Silas to Beroea during the night. Upon arrival they went to the synagogue of the Jews. [11]These Jews were more fair-minded than those in Thessalonica, for they received the word with all willingness and examined the scriptures daily to determine whether these things were so. [12]Many of them became believers, as did not a few of the influential Greek women and men. [13]But when the Jews of Thessalonica learned that the word of God had now been proclaimed by Paul in Beroea also, they came there too to cause a commotion and stir up the crowds. [14]So the brothers at once sent Paul on his way to the seacoast, while Silas and Timothy remained behind. [15]After Paul's escorts had taken him to Athens, they came away with instructions for Silas and Timothy to join him as soon as possible.

Paul in Athens. [16]While Paul was waiting for them in Athens, he grew exasperated at the sight of the city full of idols. [17]So he debated in the synagogue with the Jews and with the worshipers, and daily in the public square with whoever happened to be there. [18]Even some of the Epicurean and Stoic philosophers engaged him in discussion. Some asked, "What is this scavenger trying to say?" Others said, "He sounds like a promoter of foreign deities," because he was preaching about ‘Jesus’ and ‘Resurrection.’ [19]They took him and led him to the Areopagus and said, “May we learn what this new teaching is that you speak of? [20]For you bring some strange notions to our ears; we should like to know what these things mean.” [21]Now all the Athenians as well as the foreigners residing there used their time for nothing else but telling or hearing something new.

Paul’s Speech at the Areopagus. [22]Then Paul stood up at the Areopagus and said:

“You Athenians, I see that in every respect you are very religious. [23]For as I walked around looking carefully at your shrines, I even discovered an altar inscribed, ‘To an Unknown God.’ What therefore you unknowingly worship, I proclaim to you. [24]The God who made the world and all that is in it, the Lord of heaven and earth, does not dwell in sanctuaries made by human hands, [25]nor is he served by human hands because he needs anything. Rather it is he who gives to everyone life and breath and everything. [26]He made from one the whole human race to dwell on the entire surface of the earth, and he fixed the ordered seasons and the boundaries of their regions, [27]so that people might seek God, even perhaps grope for him and find him, though indeed he is not far from any one of us. [28]For ‘In him we live and move and have our being,’ as even some of your poets have said, ‘For we too are his offspring.’ [29]Since therefore we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the divinity is like an image fashioned from gold, silver, or stone by human art and imagination. [30]God has overlooked the times of ignorance, but now he demands that all people everywhere repent [31]because he has established a day on which he will ‘judge the world with justice’ through a man he has appointed, and he has provided confirmation for all by raising him from the dead.”

[32]When they heard about resurrection of the dead, some began to scoff, but others said, “We should like to hear you on this some other time.” [33]And so Paul left them. [34]But some did join him, and became believers. Among them were Dionysius, a member of the Court of the Areopagus, a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

> If a man begins to continue in his sins, despair is born of the multitude of those sins, and obstinacy is begotten of despair. God does not compel anyone to be obstinate; obstinacy results rather from His indulgence and forgiveness. It was not divine power, but divine patience, that hardened Pharaoh.

☐ ISAIAH 19-20

Egypt. 19:1 Oracle on Egypt:
See, the LORD is riding on a swift cloud
on his way to Egypt;
The idols of Egypt tremble before him,
the hearts of the Egyptians melt within them.
[2]I will stir up Egypt against Egypt:
brother will war against brother,
Neighbor against neighbor,
city against city, kingdom against kingdom.
[3]The courage of the Egyptians shall ebb away within them,
and I will bring their counsel to nought;
They shall consult idols and charmers, ghosts and clairvoyants.
[4]I will deliver Egypt
into the power of a cruel master,
A harsh king who shall rule over them—
oracle of the Lord, the LORD of hosts.
[5]The waters shall be drained from the sea,
the river shall parch and dry up;

[6]Its streams shall become foul,
and the canals of Egypt shall dwindle and parch.
Reeds and rushes shall wither away,
[7]and bulrushes on the bank of the Nile;
All the sown land along the Nile
shall dry up and blow away, and be no more.
[8]The fishermen shall mourn and lament,
all who cast hook in the Nile;
Those who spread their nets in the water shall pine away.
[9]The linen-workers shall be disappointed,
the combers and weavers shall turn pale;
[10]The spinners shall be crushed,
all the hired laborers shall be despondent.
[11]Utter fools are the princes of Zoan!
the wisest of Pharaoh's advisers give stupid counsel.
How can you say to Pharaoh,
"I am a descendant of wise men, of ancient kings"?
[12]Where then are your wise men?
Let them tell you and make known
What the LORD of hosts has planned against Egypt.
[13]The princes of Zoan have become fools,
the princes of Memphis have been deceived.
The chiefs of its tribes
have led Egypt astray.
[14]The LORD has prepared among them
a spirit of dizziness,
And they have made Egypt stagger in whatever she does,
as a drunkard staggers in his vomit.
[15]Egypt shall accomplish nothing—neither head nor tail, palm branch nor reed, shall accomplish anything.

[16]On that day the Egyptians shall be like women, trembling with fear, because of the LORD of hosts shaking his fist at them. [17]And the land of Judah shall be a terror to the Egyptians. Every time they think of Judah, they shall stand in dread because of the plan the LORD of hosts has in mind for them.

[18]On that day there shall be five cities in the land of Egypt that speak the language of Canaan and swear by the LORD of hosts; one shall be called "City of the Sun."

[19]On that day there shall be an altar to the LORD at the center of Egypt, and a sacred pillar to the LORD near its boundary. [20]This will be a sign and witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt, so that when they cry out to the LORD because of their oppressors, he will send them a savior to defend and deliver them. [21]The LORD shall make himself known to Egypt, and the Egyptians shall know the LORD in that day; they shall offer sacrifices and oblations, make vows to the LORD and fulfill them. [22]Although the LORD shall smite Egypt severely, he shall heal them; they shall turn to the LORD and he shall be moved by their entreaty and heal them.

[23]On that day there shall be a highway from Egypt to Assyria; the Assyrians shall enter Egypt, and the Egyptians enter Assyria, and the Egyptians shall worship with the Assyrians.

[24]On that day Israel shall be a third party with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, [25]when the LORD of hosts gives this blessing: "Blessed be my people Egypt, and the work of my hands Assyria, and my heritage, Israel."

Isaiah's Warning Against Trust in Egypt and Ethiopia. 20:1 In the year the general sent by Sargon, king of Assyria, came to Ashdod, fought against it, and captured it— [2]at that time the LORD had spoken through Isaiah, the son of Amoz: Go and take off the sackcloth from your waist, and remove the sandals from your feet. This he did, walking naked and barefoot. [3]Then the LORD said: Just as my servant Isaiah has gone naked and barefoot for three years as a sign and portent against Egypt and Ethiopia, [4]so shall the king of Assyria lead away captives from Egypt, and exiles from Ethiopia, young and old, naked and barefoot, with buttocks uncovered, the shame of Egypt. [5]They shall be dismayed and ashamed because of Ethiopia, their hope, and because of Egypt, their boast. [6]The inhabitants of this coastland shall say on that day, "See what has happened to those we hoped in, to whom we fled for help and deliverance from the king of Assyria! What escape is there for us now?"

Paul in Corinth. 18:1 After this he left Athens and went to Corinth. [2]There he met a Jew named Aquila, a native of Pontus, who had recently come from Italy with his wife Priscilla because Claudius had ordered all the Jews to leave Rome. He went to visit them [3]and, because he practiced the same trade, stayed with them and worked, for they were tentmakers by trade. [4]Every sabbath, he entered into discussions in the synagogue, attempting to convince both Jews and Greeks.

[5]When Silas and Timothy came down from Macedonia, Paul began to occupy himself totally with preaching the word, testifying to the Jews that the Messiah was Jesus. [6]When they opposed him and reviled him, he shook out his garments and said to them, "Your blood be on your heads! I am clear of responsibility. From now on I will go to the Gentiles." [7]So he left there and went to a house belonging to a man named Titus Justus, a worshiper of God; his house was next to a synagogue. [8]Crispus, the synagogue official, came to believe in the Lord along with his entire household, and many of the Corinthians who heard believed and were baptized. [9]One night in a vision the Lord said to Paul, "Do not be afraid. Go on speaking, and do not be silent, [10]for I am with you. No one will attack and harm you, for I have many people in this city." [11]He settled there for a year and a half and taught the word of God among them.

Accusations before Gallio. [12]But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews rose up together against Paul and brought him to the tribunal, [13]saying, "This man is inducing people to worship God contrary to the law." [14]When Paul was about to reply, Gallio spoke to the Jews, "If it were a matter of some crime or malicious fraud, I should with reason hear the complaint of you Jews; [15]but since it is a question of arguments over doctrine and titles and your own law, see to it yourselves. I do not wish to be a judge of such matters." [16]And he drove them away from the tribunal. [17]They all seized Sosthenes, the synagogue official, and beat him in full view of the tribunal. But none of this was of concern to Gallio.

Return to Syrian Antioch. [18]Paul remained for quite some time, and after saying farewell to the brothers he sailed for Syria, together with Priscilla and Aquila. At Cenchreae he had his hair cut because he had taken a vow. [19]When they reached Ephesus, he left them there, while he entered the synagogue and held discussions with the Jews. [20]Although they asked him to stay for a longer time, he did not consent, [21]but as he said farewell he promised, "I shall come back to you again, God willing." Then he set sail from Ephesus. [22]Upon landing at Caesarea, he went up and greeted the church and then went down to Antioch. [23]After staying there some time, he left and traveled in orderly sequence through the Galatian country and Phrygia, bringing strength to all the disciples.

Apollos. [24]A Jew named Apollos, a native of Alexandria, an eloquent speaker, arrived in Ephesus. He was an authority on the scriptures. [25]He had been instructed in the Way of the Lord and, with ardent spirit, spoke and taught accurately about Jesus, although he knew only the baptism of John. [26]He began to speak boldly in the synagogue; but when Priscilla and Aquila heard him, they took him aside and explained to him the Way (of God) more accurately. [27]And when he wanted to cross to Achaia, the brothers encouraged him and wrote to the disciples there to welcome him. After his arrival he gave great assistance to those who had come to believe through grace. [28]He vigorously refuted the Jews in public, establishing from the scriptures that the Messiah is Jesus.

St. John Chrysostom

> Scatter what you have, then, so that you may not lose; give away, so that you may keep; lay out, so that you may save; spend, so that you may gain. If your treasures are to be hoarded, don't be the one who hoards them, for in doing so you will surely be throwing them away. Instead, entrust them to God, for no one can steal them from Him. Lend to Him who gives an interest greater than the principal.

☐ ISAIAH 21-22

Fall of Babylon. 21:1 Oracle on the wastelands by the sea:
Like whirlwinds sweeping through the Negeb,
it comes from the desert,
from the fearful land.
2 A harsh vision has been announced to me:
"The traitor betrays,
the despoiler spoils.
Go up, O Elam; besiege, O Media;
put an end to all its groaning!"
3 Therefore my loins are filled with anguish, pangs have seized me like those of a woman in labor;
I am too bewildered to hear,
too dismayed to look.
4 My mind reels,
shuddering assails me;
The twilight I yearned for
he has turned into dread.
5 They set the table,
spread out the rugs;
they eat, they drink.
Rise up, O princes,
oil the shield!
6 For thus my Lord said to me:
Go, station a watchman,
let him tell what he sees.
7 If he sees a chariot,
a pair of horses,
Someone riding a donkey,
someone riding a camel,
Then let him pay heed,
very close heed.
8 Then the watchman cried,
"On the watchtower, my Lord,
I stand constantly by day;
And I stay at my post
through all the watches of the night.
9 Here he comes—
a single chariot,
a pair of horses—

He calls out and says,
'Fallen, fallen is Babylon!
All the images of her gods
are smashed to the ground!' " 10To you, who have been threshed, beaten on my threshing floor,
What I have heard
from the LORD of hosts,
The God of Israel,
I have announced to you.

Dumah. 11Oracle on Dumah:
They call to me from Seir,
"Watchman, how much longer the night?
Watchman, how much longer the night?"
12The watchman replies,
"Morning has come, and again night.
If you will ask, ask; come back again."

In the Steppe. 13Oracle: in the steppe:
In the thicket in the steppe you will spend the night,
caravans of Dedanites.
14Meet the thirsty, bring them water,
inhabitants of the land of Tema,
greet the fugitives with bread.
15For they have fled from the sword,
from the drawn sword;
From the taut bow,
from the thick of battle.

16For thus the Lord has said to me: In another year, like the years of a hired laborer, all the glory of Kedar shall come to an end. 17Few of Kedar's stalwart archers shall remain, for the LORD, the God of Israel, has spoken.

The Valley of Vision. 22:1 Oracle on the Valley of Vision:
What is the matter with you now, that you have gone up,
all of you, to the housetops, 2You who were full of noise,
tumultuous city,
exultant town?
Your slain are not slain with the sword,
nor killed in battle.
3All your leaders fled away together,
they were captured without use of bow;
All who were found were captured together,
though they had fled afar off.
4That is why I say: Turn away from me,
let me weep bitterly;
Do not try to comfort me
for the ruin of the daughter of my people.
5It is a day of panic, rout and confusion,
from the Lord, the GOD of hosts, in the Valley of Vision

Walls crash;
a cry for help to the mountains.
6 Elam takes up the quiver, Aram mounts the horses
and Kir uncovers the shields.
7 Your choice valleys are filled with chariots,
horses are posted at the gates—
8 and shelter over Judah is removed.

On that day you looked to the weapons in the House of the Forest; 9 you saw that the breaches in the City of David were many; you collected the water of the lower pool. 10 You numbered the houses of Jerusalem, tearing some down to strengthen the wall; 11 you made a reservoir between the two walls for the water of the old pool. But you did not look to the city's Maker, nor consider the one who fashioned it long ago.

12 On that day the Lord,
the God of hosts, called For weeping and mourning,
for shaving the head and wearing sackcloth.
13 But look! instead, there was celebration and joy,
slaughtering cattle and butchering sheep,
Eating meat and drinking wine:
"Eat and drink, for tomorrow we die!"

14 This message was revealed in my hearing from the Lord of hosts:

This iniquity will not be forgiven you until you die,
says the Lord, the God of hosts.

Shebna and Eliakim. 15 Thus says the Lord, the God of hosts:
Up, go to that official,
Shebna, master of the palace,
16 "What have you here? Whom have you here, that you have hewn for yourself a tomb here, Hewing a tomb on high,
carving a resting place in the rock?"
17 The Lord shall hurl you down headlong, mortal man!
He shall grip you firmly,
18 And roll you up and toss you like a ball
into a broad land.
There you will die, there with the chariots you glory in,
you disgrace to your master's house!
19 I will thrust you from your office
and pull you down from your station.
20 On that day I will summon my servant
Eliakim, son of Hilkiah;
21 I will clothe him with your robe,
gird him with your sash,
confer on him your authority.
He shall be a father to the inhabitants of Jerusalem,
and to the house of Judah.
22 I will place the key of the House of David on his shoulder;

what he opens, no one will shut,
what he shuts, no one will open.
[23]I will fix him as a peg in a firm place,
a seat of honor for his ancestral house;
[24]On him shall hang all the glory of his ancestral house:
descendants and offspring,
all the little dishes, from bowls to jugs.

[25]On that day, says the LORD of hosts, the peg fixed in a firm place shall give way, break off and fall, and the weight that hung on it shall be done away with; for the LORD has spoken.

☐ ACTS 19

Paul in Ephesus. 19:1 While Apollos was in Corinth, Paul traveled through the interior of the country and came (down) to Ephesus where he found some disciples. [2]He said to them, "Did you receive the holy Spirit when you became believers?" They answered him, "We have never even heard that there is a holy Spirit." [3]He said, "How were you baptized?" They replied, "With the baptism of John." [4]Paul then said, "John baptized with a baptism of repentance, telling the people to believe in the one who was to come after him, that is, in Jesus." [5]When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. [6]And when Paul laid [his] hands on them, the holy Spirit came upon them, and they spoke in tongues and prophesied. [7]Altogether there were about twelve men.

[8]He entered the synagogue, and for three months debated boldly with persuasive arguments about the kingdom of God. [9]But when some in their obstinacy and disbelief disparaged the Way before the assembly, he withdrew and took his disciples with him and began to hold daily discussions in the lecture hall of Tyrannus. [10]This continued for two years with the result that all the inhabitants of the province of Asia heard the word of the Lord, Jews and Greeks alike. [11]So extraordinary were the mighty deeds God accomplished at the hands of Paul [12]that when face cloths or aprons that touched his skin were applied to the sick, their diseases left them and the evil spirits came out of them.

The Jewish Exorcists. [13]Then some itinerant Jewish exorcists tried to invoke the name of the Lord Jesus over those with evil spirits, saying, "I adjure you by the Jesus whom Paul preaches." [14]When the seven sons of Sceva, a Jewish high priest, tried to do this, [15]the evil spirit said to them in reply, "Jesus I recognize, Paul I know, but who are you?" [16]The person with the evil spirit then sprang at them and subdued them all. He so overpowered them that they fled naked and wounded from that house. [17]When this became known to all the Jews and Greeks who lived in Ephesus, fear fell upon them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was held in great esteem. [18]Many of those who had become believers came forward and openly acknowledged their former practices. [19]Moreover, a large number of those who had practiced magic collected their books and burned them in public. They calculated their value and found it to be fifty thousand silver pieces. [20]Thus did the word of the Lord continue to spread with influence and power.

Paul's Plans. [21]When this was concluded, Paul made up his mind to travel through Macedonia and Achaia, and then to go on to Jerusalem, saying, "After I have been there, I must visit Rome also." [22]Then he sent to Macedonia two of his assistants, Timothy and Erastus, while he himself stayed for a while in the province of Asia.

The Riot of the Silversmiths. [23]About that time a serious disturbance broke out concerning the Way. [24]There was a silversmith named Demetrius who made miniature silver shrines of Artemis and provided no little work for the craftsmen. [25]He called a meeting of these and other workers in related crafts and said, "Men, you know well that our prosperity derives from this work. [26]As you can now see and hear, not only in Ephesus but throughout most of the province of Asia this Paul has persuaded and misled a great number of people by saying that gods made by hands are not gods at all. [27]The danger grows, not only that our business will be discredited, but also that the temple of the great goddess Artemis will be of no account, and that she whom the whole province of Asia and all the world worship will be stripped of her magnificence."

[28]When they heard this, they were filled with fury and began to shout, "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" [29]The city was filled with confusion, and the people rushed with one accord into the theater, seizing Gaius and Aristarchus, the Macedonians, Paul's traveling companions. [30]Paul wanted to go before the crowd, but the disciples would not let him, [31]and even some of the Asiarchs who were friends of his sent word to him advising him not to venture into the theater.

[32]Meanwhile, some were shouting one thing, others something else; the assembly was in chaos, and most of the people had no idea why they had come together. [33]Some of the crowd prompted Alexander, as the Jews pushed him forward, and Alexander signaled with his hand that he wished to explain something to the gathering. [34]But when they recognized that he was a Jew, they all shouted in unison, for about two hours, "Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!" [35]Finally the town clerk restrained the crowd and said, "You Ephesians, what person is there who does not know that the city of the Ephesians is the guardian of the temple of the great Artemis and of her image that fell from the sky? [36]Since these things are undeniable, you must calm yourselves and not do anything rash. [37]The men you brought here are not temple robbers, nor have they insulted our goddess. [38]If Demetrius and his fellow craftsmen have a complaint against anyone, courts are in session, and there are proconsuls. Let them bring charges against one another. [39]If you have anything further to investigate, let the matter be settled in the lawful assembly, [40]for, as it is, we are in danger of being charged with rioting because of today's conduct. There is no cause for it. We shall [not] be able to give a reason for this demonstration." With these words he dismissed the assembly.

The Triumph of the Holy Cross

The Cross: once as the tree of torture known; now the bright gate to Jesus' throne.

— St. Peter Damian

☐ ISAIAH 23-24

Tyre and Sidon. 23:1 Oracle on Tyre:
Wail, ships of Tarshish,
for your port is destroyed;
From the land of the Kittim
the news reaches them.
[2]Silence! you who dwell on the coast,
you merchants of Sidon,
Whose messengers crossed the sea
[3]over the deep waters,
Whose revenue was the grain of Shihor, the harvest of the Nile,
you who were the merchant among the nations.
[4]Be ashamed, Sidon, fortress on the sea,
for the sea has spoken,
"I have not been in labor, nor given birth,
nor raised young men,
nor reared young women."
[5]When the report reaches Egypt
they shall be in anguish at the report about Tyre.
[6]Pass over to Tarshish,
wail, you who dwell on the coast!
[7]Is this your exultant city,
whose origin is from old, Whose feet have taken her
to dwell in distant lands?
[8]Who has planned such a thing
against Tyre, the bestower of crowns, Whose merchants are princes,

whose traders are the earth's honored men?
[9]The LORD of hosts has planned it,
to disgrace the height of all beauty,
to degrade all the honored of the earth.
[10]Cross to your own land,
ship of Tarshish;
the harbor is no more.
[11]His hand he stretches out over the sea,
he shakes kingdoms;
The LORD commanded the destruction of Canaan's strongholds:
[12]Crushed, you shall exult no more,
virgin daughter Sidon.
Arise, pass over to the Kittim,
even there you shall find no rest.
[13]Look at the land of the Chaldeans,
the people that has ceased to be.
Assyria founded it for ships,
raised its towers,
Only to tear down its palaces,
and turn it into a ruin.
[14]Lament, ships of Tarshish,
for your stronghold is destroyed.

[15]On that day, Tyre shall be forgotten for seventy years, the lifetime of one king. At the end of seventy years, the song about the prostitute will be Tyre's song:

[16]Take a harp, go about the city,
forgotten prostitute;
Pluck the strings skillfully, sing many songs,
that you may be remembered.

[17]At the end of the seventy years the LORD shall visit Tyre. She shall return to her hire and serve as prostitute with all the world's kingdoms on the face of the earth. [18]But her merchandise and her hire shall be sacred to the LORD. It shall not be stored up or laid away; instead, her merchandise shall belong to those who dwell before the LORD, to eat their fill and clothe themselves in choice attire.

Judgment upon the World and the Lord's Enthronement on Mount Zion. 24:1 See! The LORD is about to empty the earth and lay it waste;
he will twist its surface,
and scatter its inhabitants:
[2]People and priest shall fare alike:
servant and master,
Maid and mistress,
buyer and seller,
Lender and borrower,
creditor and debtor.
[3]The earth shall be utterly laid waste, utterly stripped,
for the LORD has decreed this word.
[4]The earth mourns and fades,
the world languishes and fades;

both heaven and earth languish.
[5]The earth is polluted because of its inhabitants,
for they have transgressed laws, violated statutes,
broken the ancient covenant.
[6]Therefore a curse devours the earth,
and its inhabitants pay for their guilt;
Therefore they who dwell on earth have dwindled,
and only a few are left.
[7]The new wine mourns, the vine languishes,
all the merry-hearted groan.
[8]Stilled are the cheerful timbrels,
ended the shouts of the jubilant,
stilled the cheerful harp.
[9]They no longer drink wine and sing;
strong brew is bitter to those who drink it.
[10]Broken down is the city of chaos,
every house is shut against entry.
[11]In the streets they cry out for lack of wine;
all joy has grown dim,
cheer is exiled from the land.
[12]In the city nothing remains but desolation,
gates battered into ruins.
[13]For thus it shall be in the midst of the earth,
among the peoples,
As when an olive tree has been beaten,
as with a gleaning when the vintage is done.
[14]These shall lift up their voice,
they shall sing for joy in the majesty of the LORD,
they shall shout from the western sea:
[15]"Therefore, in the east
give glory to the LORD!
In the coastlands of the sea,
to the name of the LORD, the God of Israel!"
[16]From the end of the earth we hear songs:
"Splendor to the Just One!"
But I said, "I am wasted, wasted away.
Woe is me! The traitors betray;
with treachery have the traitors betrayed!
[17]Terror, pit, and trap
for you, inhabitant of the earth!
[18]One who flees at the sound of terror
will fall into the pit;
One who climbs out of the pit
will be caught in the trap.
For the windows on high are open and the foundations of the earth shake.
[19]The earth will burst asunder,
the earth will be shaken apart,
the earth will be convulsed.
[20]The earth will reel like a drunkard,

sway like a hut;
Its rebellion will weigh it down;
it will fall, never to rise again."
[21]On that day the LORD will punish the host of the heavens in the heavens,
and the kings of the earth on the earth.
[22]They will be gathered together
like prisoners into a pit;
They will be shut up in a dungeon,
and after many days they will be punished.
[23]Then the moon will blush
and the sun be ashamed,
For the LORD of hosts will reign
on Mount Zion and in Jerusalem, glorious in the sight of the elders.

☐ ACTS 20

Journey to Macedonia and Greece. 20:1 When the disturbance was over, Paul had the disciples summoned and, after encouraging them, he bade them farewell and set out on his journey to Macedonia. [2]As he traveled throughout those regions, he provided many words of encouragement for them. Then he arrived in Greece, [3]where he stayed for three months. But when a plot was made against him by the Jews as he was about to set sail for Syria, he decided to return by way of Macedonia.

Return to Troas. [4]Sopater, the son of Pyrrhus, from Beroea, accompanied him, as did Aristarchus and Secundus from Thessalonica, Gaius from Derbe, Timothy, and Tychicus and Trophimus from Asia [5]who went on ahead and waited for us at Troas. [6]We sailed from Philippi after the feast of Unleavened Bread, and rejoined them five days later in Troas, where we spent a week.

Eutychus Restored to Life. [7]On the first day of the week when we gathered to break bread, Paul spoke to them because he was going to leave on the next day, and he kept on speaking until midnight. [8]There were many lamps in the upstairs room where we were gathered, [9]and a young man named Eutychus who was sitting on the window sill was sinking into a deep sleep as Paul talked on and on. Once overcome by sleep, he fell down from the third story and when he was picked up, he was dead. [10]Paul went down, threw himself upon him, and said as he embraced him, "Don't be alarmed; there is life in him." [11]Then he returned upstairs, broke the bread, and ate; after a long conversation that lasted until daybreak, he departed. [12]And they took the boy away alive and were immeasurably comforted.

Journey to Miletus. [13]We went ahead to the ship and set sail for Assos where we were to take Paul on board, as he had arranged, since he was going overland. [14]When he met us in Assos, we took him aboard and went on to Mitylene. [15]We sailed away from there on the next day and reached a point off Chios, and a day later we reached Samos, and on the following day we arrived at Miletus. [16]Paul had decided to sail past Ephesus in order not to lose time in the province of Asia, for he was hurrying to be in Jerusalem, if at all possible, for the day of Pentecost.

Paul's Farewell Speech at Miletus. [17]From Miletus he had the presbyters of the church at Ephesus summoned. [18]When they came to him, he addressed them, "You know how I lived among you the whole time from the day I first came to the province of Asia. [19]I served the Lord with all humility and with the tears and trials that came to me because of the plots of the Jews, [20]and I did not at all shrink from telling you what was for your benefit, or from teaching you in public or in your homes. [21]I earnestly bore witness for both Jews and Greeks to repentance before God and to faith in our Lord Jesus. [22]But now, compelled by the Spirit, I am going to Jerusalem. What will happen to me there I do not know, [23]except that in one city after another the holy Spirit has been warning me that imprisonment and hardships await me. [24]Yet I consider life of no importance to me, if only I may finish my course and the ministry that I received from the Lord Jesus, to bear witness to the gospel of God's grace.

[25]"But now I know that none of you to whom I preached the kingdom during my travels will ever see my face again.
[26]And so I solemnly declare to you this day that I am not responsible for the blood of any of you, [27]for I did not shrink from proclaiming to you the entire plan of God. [28]Keep watch over yourselves and over the whole flock of which the holy Spirit has appointed you overseers, in which you tend the church of God that he acquired with his own blood. [29]I know that after my departure savage wolves will come among you, and they will not spare the flock. [30]And from your own group, men will come forward perverting the truth to draw the disciples away after them. [31]So be vigilant and remember that for three years, night and day, I unceasingly admonished each of you with tears. [32]And now I commend you to God and to that gracious word of his that can build you up and give you the inheritance among all who are consecrated. [33]I have never wanted anyone's silver or gold or clothing. [34]You know well that these very hands have served my needs and my companions. [35]In every way I have shown you that by hard work of that sort we must help the weak, and keep in mind the words of the Lord Jesus who himself said, 'It is more blessed to give than to receive.' "

[36]When he had finished speaking he knelt down and prayed with them all. [37]They were all weeping loudly as they threw their arms around Paul and kissed him, [38]for they were deeply distressed that he had said that they would never see his face again. Then they escorted him to the ship.

Our Lady of Sorrows; St. Catherine of Genoa

Blessed Mother dear, lend me your heart. I look for it each day to pour my troubles into.

— St. Gemma Galgani

☐ ISAIAH 25-26:19

Praise for God's Deliverance and the Celebration in Zion. 25:1 O LORD, you are my God,
I extol you, I praise your name;
For you have carried out your wonderful plans of old,
faithful and true.
[2]For you have made the city a heap,
the fortified city a ruin,
The castle of the insolent, a city no more,
not ever to be rebuilt.
[3]Therefore a strong people will honor you,
ruthless nations will fear you.
[4]For you have been a refuge to the poor,
a refuge to the needy in their distress;
Shelter from the rain,
shade from the heat.
When the blast of the ruthless was like a winter rain,
[5]the roar of strangers like heat in the desert,
You subdued the heat with the shade of a cloud,
the rain of the tyrants was vanquished.
[6]On this mountain the LORD of hosts will provide for all peoples
A feast of rich food and choice wines,
juicy, rich food and pure, choice wines.
[7]On this mountain he will destroy the veil that veils all peoples,
The web that is woven over all nations.

[8]He will destroy death forever.
The Lord GOD will wipe away
the tears from all faces;
The reproach of his people he will remove from the whole earth; for the LORD has spoken.
[9]On that day it will be said:
"Indeed, this is our God; we looked to him, and he saved us!
This is the LORD to whom we looked;
let us rejoice and be glad that he has saved us!"

Judgment on Moab. [10]For the hand of the LORD will rest on this mountain, but Moab will be trodden down
as straw is trodden down in the mire.
[11]He will spread out his hands in its midst,
as a swimmer spreads out his hands to swim;
His pride will be brought low
despite his strokes.
[12]The high-walled fortress he will raze, bringing it low, leveling it to the ground, to the very dust.

Judah's Praise and Prayer for Deliverance. 26:1 On that day this song shall be sung in the land of Judah:

"A strong city have we;
he sets up victory as our walls and ramparts.
[2]Open up the gates
that a righteous nation may enter,
one that keeps faith.
[3]With firm purpose you maintain peace;
in peace, because of our trust in you."
[4]Trust in the LORD forever!
For the LORD is an eternal Rock.
[5]He humbles those who dwell on high,
the lofty city he brings down, Brings it down to the ground,
levels it to the dust.
[6]The feet of the needy trample on it—
the feet of the poor.
[7]The way of the just is smooth;
the path of the just you make level.
[8]The course of your judgments, LORD, we await;
your name and your memory are the desire of our souls.
[9]My soul yearns for you at night,
yes, my spirit within me seeks you at dawn;
When your judgment comes upon the earth,
the world's inhabitants learn justice.
[10]The wicked, when spared, do not learn justice;
in an upright land they act perversely,
and do not see the majesty of the LORD.
[11]LORD, your hand is raised high,
but they do not perceive it;

Let them be put to shame when they see your zeal for your people:
let the fire prepared for your enemies consume them.
[12]LORD, you will decree peace for us,
for you have accomplished all we have done.
[13]LORD, our God, lords other than you have ruled us;
only because of you can we call upon your name.
[14]Dead they are, they cannot live,
shades that cannot rise;
Indeed, you have punished and destroyed them,
and wiped out all memory of them.
[15]You have increased the nation, LORD,
you have increased the nation, have added to your glory,
you have extended far all the boundaries of the land.
[16]LORD, oppressed by your punishment,
we cried out in anguish under your discipline.
[17]As a woman about to give birth
writhes and cries out in pain,
so were we before you, LORD.
[18]We conceived and writhed in pain,
giving birth only to wind;
Salvation we have not achieved for the earth,
no inhabitants for the world were born.
[19]But your dead shall live, their corpses shall rise!
Awake and sing, you who lie in the dust!
For your dew is a dew of light,
and you cause the land of shades to give birth.

☐ ACTS 21:1-39

Arrival at Tyre. 21:1 When we had taken leave of them we set sail, made a straight run for Cos, and on the next day for Rhodes, and from there to Patara. [2]Finding a ship crossing to Phoenicia, we went on board and put out to sea. [3]We caught sight of Cyprus but passed by it on our left and sailed on toward Syria and put in at Tyre where the ship was to unload cargo. [4]There we sought out the disciples and stayed for a week. They kept telling Paul through the Spirit not to embark for Jerusalem. [5]At the end of our stay we left and resumed our journey. All of them, women and children included, escorted us out of the city, and after kneeling on the beach to pray, [6]we bade farewell to one another. Then we boarded the ship, and they returned home.

Arrival at Ptolemais and Caesarea. [7]We continued the voyage and came from Tyre to Ptolemais, where we greeted the brothers and stayed a day with them. [8]On the next day we resumed the trip and came to Caesarea, where we went to the house of Philip the evangelist, who was one of the Seven, and stayed with him. [9]He had four virgin daughters gifted with prophecy. [10]We had been there several days when a prophet named Agabus came down from Judea. [11]He came up to us, took Paul's belt, bound his own feet and hands with it, and said, "Thus says the holy Spirit: This is the way the Jews will bind the owner of this belt in Jerusalem, and they will hand him over to the Gentiles." [12]When we heard this, we and the local residents begged him not to go up to Jerusalem. [13]Then Paul replied, "What are you doing, weeping and breaking my heart? I am prepared not only to be bound but even to die in Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." [14]Since he would not be dissuaded we let the matter rest, saying, "The Lord's will be done."

Paul and James in Jerusalem. [15]After these days we made preparations for our journey, then went up to Jerusalem. [16]Some of the disciples from Caesarea came along to lead us to the house of Mnason, a Cypriot, a disciple of long standing, with whom we were to stay. [17]When we reached Jerusalem the brothers welcomed us warmly. [18]The next day, Paul accompanied us on a visit to James, and all the presbyters were present. [19]He greeted them, then proceeded to tell them in detail what God had accomplished among the Gentiles through his ministry. [20]They praised

God when they heard it but said to him, "Brother, you see how many thousands of believers there are from among the Jews, and they are all zealous observers of the law. [21]They have been informed that you are teaching all the Jews who live among the Gentiles to abandon Moses and that you are telling them not to circumcise their children or to observe their customary practices. [22]What is to be done? They will surely hear that you have arrived. [23]So do what we tell you. We have four men who have taken a vow. [24]Take these men and purify yourself with them, and pay their expenses that they may have their heads shaved. In this way everyone will know that there is nothing to the reports they have been given about you but that you yourself live in observance of the law. [25]As for the Gentiles who have come to believe, we sent them our decision that they abstain from meat sacrificed to idols, from blood, from the meat of strangled animals, and from unlawful marriage." [26]So Paul took the men, and on the next day after purifying himself together with them entered the temple to give notice of the day when the purification would be completed and the offering made for each of them.

Paul's Arrest. [27]When the seven days were nearly completed, the Jews from the province of Asia noticed him in the temple, stirred up the whole crowd, and laid hands on him, [28]shouting, "Fellow Israelites, help us. This is the man who is teaching everyone everywhere against the people and the law and this place, and what is more, he has even brought Greeks into the temple and defiled this sacred place." [29]For they had previously seen Trophimus the Ephesian in the city with him and supposed that Paul had brought him into the temple. [30]The whole city was in turmoil with people rushing together. They seized Paul and dragged him out of the temple, and immediately the gates were closed. [31]While they were trying to kill him, a report reached the cohort commander that all Jerusalem was rioting. [32]He immediately took soldiers and centurions and charged down on them. When they saw the commander and the soldiers they stopped beating Paul. [33]The cohort commander came forward, arrested him, and ordered him to be secured with two chains; he tried to find out who he might be and what he had done. [34]Some in the mob shouted one thing, others something else; so, since he was unable to ascertain the truth because of the uproar, he ordered Paul to be brought into the compound. [35]When he reached the steps, he was carried by the soldiers because of the violence of the mob, [36]for a crowd of people followed and shouted, "Away with him!"

[37]Just as Paul was about to be taken into the compound, he said to the cohort commander, "May I say something to you?" He replied, "Do you speak Greek? [38]So then you are not the Egyptian who started a revolt some time ago and led the four thousand assassins into the desert?" [39]Paul answered, "I am a Jew, of Tarsus in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city; I request you to permit me to speak to the people."

Sts. Cornelius and Cyprian of Carthage

Whatever a man prefers to God, he makes a god to himself.

— St. Cyprian of Carthage

☐ ISAIAH 26:20-28:29

The Lord's Response. 26:20 Go, my people, enter your chambers,
and close the doors behind you;
Hide yourselves for a brief moment,
until the wrath is past.
21 See, the LORD goes forth from his place,
to punish the wickedness of the earth's inhabitants;
The earth will reveal the blood shed upon it,
and no longer conceal the slain.

The Judgment and Deliverance of Israel. 27:1 On that day,
The LORD will punish with his sword
that is cruel, great, and strong, Leviathan the fleeing serpent,
Leviathan the coiled serpent;
he will slay the dragon in the sea.

2 On that day—
The pleasant vineyard, sing about it!
3 I, the LORD, am its keeper,
I water it every moment;
Lest anyone harm it,
night and day I guard it.
4 I am not angry.
But if I were to find briers and thorns,
In battle I would march against it;
I would burn it all.
5 But if it holds fast to my refuge,
it shall have peace with me;
it shall have peace with me.

6 In days to come Jacob shall take root,
Israel shall sprout and blossom,
covering all the world with fruit.
7 Was he smitten as his smiter was smitten?
Was he slain as his slayer was slain?
8 Driving out and expelling, he struggled against it, carrying it off with his cruel wind on a day of storm.
9 This, then, shall be the expiation of Jacob's guilt,
this the result of removing his sin:
He shall pulverize all the stones of the altars
like pieces of chalk;

no asherahs or incense altars shall stand.
[10]For the fortified city shall be desolate,
an abandoned pasture, a forsaken wilderness;
There calves shall graze, there they shall lie down,
and consume its branches.
[11]When its boughs wither, they shall be broken off;
and women shall come to kindle fires with them.
For this is not an understanding people;
therefore their maker shall not spare them;
their creator shall not be gracious to them.
[12]On that day,
The LORD shall beat out grain
from the channel of the Euphrates to the Wadi of Egypt, and you shall be gleaned one by one, children of Israel.
[13]On that day,
A great trumpet shall blow,
and the lost in the land of Assyria
and the outcasts in the land of Egypt Shall come and worship the LORD
on the holy mountain, in Jerusalem.

The Fate of Samaria. 28:1 Ah! majestic garland
of the drunkards of Ephraim, Fading blooms of his glorious beauty,
at the head of the fertile valley,
upon those stupefied with wine.
[2]See, the LORD has a strong one, a mighty one,
who, like an onslaught of hail, a destructive storm,
Like a flood of water, great and overflowing,
levels to the ground with violence;
[3]With feet that will trample
the majestic garland of the drunkards of Ephraim.
[4]The fading blooms of his glorious beauty
at the head of the fertile valley
Will be like an early fig before summer:
whoever sees it,
swallows it as soon as it is in hand.
[5]On that day the LORD of hosts
will be a glorious crown
And a brilliant diadem
for the remnant of his people, [6]A spirit of judgment
for the one who sits in judgment,
And strength for those who turn back the battle at the gate.

Against Judah. [7]But these also stagger from wine
and stumble from strong drink:
Priest and prophet stagger from strong drink,
overpowered by wine;

They are confused by strong drink,
they stagger in their visions,
they totter when giving judgment.
[8]Yes, all the tables
are covered with vomit,
with filth, and no place left clean.
[9]"To whom would he impart knowledge?
To whom would he convey the message?
To those just weaned from milk,
those weaned from the breast?
[10]For he says,
'Command on command, command on command,
rule on rule, rule on rule,
here a little, there a little!' "
[11]Yes, with stammering lips and in a strange language
he will speak to this people, [12]to whom he said:
"This is the resting place,
give rest to the weary;
And this is the place of repose"—
but they refused to hear.
[13]So for them the word of the LORD shall be:
"Command on command, command on command,
Rule on rule, rule on rule,
here a little, there a little!"
So that when they walk, they shall stumble backward,
broken, ensnared, and captured.
[14]Therefore, hear the word of the LORD, you scoffers, who rule this people in Jerusalem:
[15]You have declared, "We have made a covenant with death,
with Sheol we have made a pact;
When the raging flood passes through,
it will not reach us;
For we have made lies our refuge,
and in falsehood we have found a hiding place,"—
[16]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD:
See, I am laying a stone in Zion,
a stone that has been tested,
A precious cornerstone as a sure foundation;
whoever puts faith in it will not waver.
[17]I will make judgment a measuring line,
and justice a level.—
Hail shall sweep away the refuge of lies,
and waters shall flood the hiding place.
[18]Your covenant with death shall be canceled
and your pact with Sheol shall not stand.
When the raging flood passes through,
you shall be beaten down by it.
[19]Whenever it passes, it shall seize you;
morning after morning it shall pass,

by day and by night.
Sheer terror
to impart the message!
20For the bed shall be too short to stretch out in,
and the cover too narrow to wrap in.
21For the LORD shall rise up as on Mount Perazim, bestir himself as in the Valley of Gibeon,
To carry out his work—strange his work!
to perform his deed—alien his deed!
22Now, cease scoffing,
lest your bonds be tightened,
For I have heard a decree of destruction
from the Lord, the GOD of hosts,
for the whole land.

The Parable of the Farmer. 23Give ear and hear my voice,
pay attention and hear my word:
24Is the plowman forever plowing in order to sow,
always loosening and harrowing the field?
25When he has leveled the surface,
does he not scatter caraway and sow cumin,
Put in wheat and barley,
with spelt as its border?
26His God has taught him this rule,
he has instructed him.
27For caraway is not threshed with a sledge,
nor does a cartwheel roll over cumin.
But caraway is beaten out with a staff,
and cumin with a rod.
28Grain is crushed for bread, but not forever;
though he thresh it thoroughly,
and drive his cartwheel and horses over it,
he does not pulverize it.
29This too comes from the LORD of hosts;
wonderful is his counsel and great his wisdom.

☐ ACTS 21:40-22:29

21:40 When he had given his permission, Paul stood on the steps and motioned with his hand to the people; and when all was quiet he addressed them in Hebrew.

Paul's Defense before the Jerusalem Jews. 22:1 "My brothers and fathers, listen to what I am about to say to you in my defense." 2When they heard him addressing them in Hebrew they became all the more quiet. And he continued, 3"I am a Jew, born in Tarsus in Cilicia, but brought up in this city. At the feet of Gamaliel I was educated strictly in our ancestral law and was zealous for God, just as all of you are today. 4I persecuted this Way to death, binding both men and women and delivering them to prison. 5Even the high priest and the whole council of elders can testify on my behalf. For from them I even received letters to the brothers and set out for Damascus to bring back to Jerusalem in chains for punishment those there as well.

[6]"On that journey as I drew near to Damascus, about noon a great light from the sky suddenly shone around me. [7]I fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to me, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?' [8]I replied, 'Who are you, sir?' And he said to me, 'I am Jesus the Nazorean whom you are persecuting.' [9]My companions saw the light but did not hear the voice of the one who spoke to me. [10]I asked, 'What shall I do, sir?' The Lord answered me, 'Get up and go into Damascus, and there you will be told about everything appointed for you to do.' [11]Since I could see nothing because of the brightness of that light, I was led by hand by my companions and entered Damascus.

[12]"A certain Ananias, a devout observer of the law, and highly spoken of by all the Jews who lived there, [13]came to me and stood there and said, 'Saul, my brother, regain your sight.' And at that very moment I regained my sight and saw him. [14]Then he said, 'The God of our ancestors designated you to know his will, to see the Righteous One, and to hear the sound of his voice; [15]for you will be his witness before all to what you have seen and heard. [16]Now, why delay? Get up and have yourself baptized and your sins washed away, calling upon his name.'

[17]"After I had returned to Jerusalem and while I was praying in the temple, I fell into a trance [18]and saw the Lord saying to me, 'Hurry, leave Jerusalem at once, because they will not accept your testimony about me.' [19]But I replied, 'Lord, they themselves know that from synagogue to synagogue I used to imprison and beat those who believed in you. [20]And when the blood of your witness Stephen was being shed, I myself stood by giving my approval and keeping guard over the cloaks of his murderers.' [21]Then he said to me, 'Go, I shall send you far away to the Gentiles.' "

Paul Imprisoned. [22]They listened to him until he said this, but then they raised their voices and shouted, "Take such a one as this away from the earth. It is not right that he should live." [23]And as they were yelling and throwing off their cloaks and flinging dust into the air, [24]the cohort commander ordered him to be brought into the compound and gave instruction that he be interrogated under the lash to determine the reason why they were making such an outcry against him. [25]But when they had stretched him out for the whips, Paul said to the centurion on duty, "Is it lawful for you to scourge a man who is a Roman citizen and has not been tried?" [26]When the centurion heard this, he went to the cohort commander and reported it, saying, "What are you going to do? This man is a Roman citizen." [27]Then the commander came and said to him, "Tell me, are you a Roman citizen?" "Yes," he answered. [28]The commander replied, "I acquired this citizenship for a large sum of money." Paul said, "But I was born one." [29]At once those who were going to interrogate him backed away from him, and the commander became alarmed when he realized that he was a Roman citizen and that he had had him bound.

St. Robert Bellarmine; St. Hildegard of Bingen

The school of Christ is the school of charity. On the last day, when the general examination takes place, there will be no question at all on the text of Aristotle, the aphorisms of Hippocrates, or the paragraphs of Justinian. Charity will be the whole syllabus.

☐ ISAIAH 29-30

Judgment and Deliverance of Jerusalem. 29:1 Ah! Ariel, Ariel, city where David encamped!
Let year follow year,
and feast follow feast,
[2]But I will bring distress upon Ariel,
and there will be mourning and moaning.
You shall be to me like Ariel:
[3]I will encamp like David against you;
I will circle you with outposts
and set up siege works against you.

[4]You shall speak from beneath the earth,
and from the dust below, your words shall come.
Your voice shall be that of a ghost from the earth,
and your words shall whisper from the dust.
[5]The horde of your arrogant shall be like fine dust,
a horde of tyrants like flying chaff.
Then suddenly, in an instant,
[6]you shall be visited by the LORD of hosts,
With thunder, earthquake, and great noise,
whirlwind, storm, and the flame of consuming fire.
[7]Then like a dream,
a vision of the night,
Shall be the horde of all the nations
who make war against Ariel:
All the outposts, the siege works against it,
all who distress it.
[8]As when a hungry man dreams he is eating and awakens with an empty stomach,
Or when a thirsty man dreams he is drinking and awakens faint, his throat parched,
So shall the horde of all the nations be,
who make war against Mount Zion.

Blindness and Perversity. [9]Stupefy yourselves and stay stupid;
blind yourselves and stay blind!
You who are drunk, but not from wine,
who stagger, but not from strong drink!
[10]For the LORD has poured out on you
a spirit of deep sleep.
He has shut your eyes (the prophets)
and covered your heads (the seers).

[11]For you the vision of all this has become like the words of a sealed scroll. When it is handed to one who can read, with the request, "Read this," the reply is, "I cannot, because it is sealed." [12]When the scroll is handed to one who cannot read, with the request, "Read this," the reply is, "I cannot read."

[13]The Lord said:
Since this people draws near with words only
and honors me with their lips alone,
though their hearts are far from me,
And fear of me has become mere precept of human teaching, [14]Therefore I will again deal with this people
in surprising and wondrous fashion:
The wisdom of the wise shall perish,
the prudence of the prudent shall vanish.
[15]Ah! You who would hide a plan too deep for the LORD!
Who work in the dark, saying,
"Who sees us, who knows us?"

[16]Your perversity is as though the potter
were taken to be the clay:
As though what is made should say of its maker,
"He did not make me!"
Or the vessel should say of the potter,
"He does not understand."

Redemption. [17]Surely, in a very little while,
Lebanon shall be changed into an orchard,
and the orchard be considered a forest!
[18]On that day the deaf shall hear
the words of a scroll;
And out of gloom and darkness,
the eyes of the blind shall see.
[19]The lowly shall again find joy in the LORD,
the poorest rejoice in the Holy One of Israel.
[20]For the tyrant shall be no more,
the scoffer shall cease to be;
All who are ready for evil shall be cut off,
[21]those who condemn with a mere word,
Who ensnare the defender at the gate,
and leave the just with an empty claim.
[22]Therefore thus says the LORD,
the God of the house of Jacob,
who redeemed Abraham:
No longer shall Jacob be ashamed,
no longer shall his face grow pale.
[23]For when his children see
the work of my hands in his midst,
They shall sanctify my name;
they shall sanctify the Holy One of Jacob,
be in awe of the God of Israel.
[24]Those who err in spirit shall acquire understanding,
those who find fault shall receive instruction.

Oracle on the Futility of an Alliance with Egypt. 30:1 Ah! Rebellious children,
oracle of the LORD,
Who carry out a plan that is not mine,
who make an alliance I did not inspire,
thus adding sin upon sin;
[2]They go down to Egypt,
without asking my counsel,
To seek strength in Pharaoh's protection and take refuge in Egypt's shadow.
[3]Pharaoh's protection shall become your shame,
refuge in Egypt's shadow your disgrace.
[4]When his princes are at Zoan
and his messengers reach Hanes, [5]All shall be ashamed
of a people that gain them nothing,

Neither help nor benefit,
but only shame and reproach.
[6]Oracle on the Beasts of the Negeb.
Through the distressed and troubled land
of the lioness and roaring lion,
of the viper and flying saraph,
They carry their riches on the backs of donkeys
and their treasures on the humps of camels
To a people good for nothing,
[7]to Egypt whose help is futile and vain.
Therefore I call her
"Rahab Sit-still."
[8]Now come, write it on a tablet they can keep,
inscribe it on a scroll;
That in time to come it may be an eternal witness.
[9]For this is a rebellious people,
deceitful children,
Children who refuse to listen to the instruction of the LORD;
[10]Who say to the seers, "Do not see";
to the prophets, "Do not prophesy truth for us;
speak smooth things to us, see visions that deceive!
[11]Turn aside from the way! Get out of the path!
Let us hear no more of the Holy One of Israel!"
[12]Therefore, thus says the Holy One of Israel:
Because you reject this word,
And put your trust in oppression and deceit,
and depend on them, [13]This iniquity of yours shall be like a descending rift Bulging out in a high wall
whose crash comes suddenly, in an instant, [14]Crashing like a potter's jar
smashed beyond rescue,
And among its fragments cannot be found a sherd to scoop fire from the hearth
or dip water from the cistern.
[15]For thus said the Lord GOD,
the Holy One of Israel:
By waiting and by calm you shall be saved,
in quiet and in trust shall be your strength.
But this you did not will.
[16]"No," you said,
"Upon horses we will flee."
Very well, you shall flee!
"Upon swift steeds we will ride."
Very well, swift shall be your pursuers!
[17]A thousand shall tremble at the threat of one—

if five threaten, you shall flee.
You will then be left like a flagstaff on a mountaintop,
like a flag on a hill.

Zion's Future Deliverance. [18]Truly, the LORD is waiting to be gracious to you, truly, he shall rise to show you mercy;
For the LORD is a God of justice:
happy are all who wait for him!
[19]Yes, people of Zion, dwelling in Jerusalem,
you shall no longer weep;
He will be most gracious to you when you cry out;
as soon as he hears he will answer you.
[20]The Lord will give you bread in adversity
and water in affliction.
No longer will your Teacher hide himself,
but with your own eyes you shall see your Teacher, [21]And your ears shall hear a word behind you:
"This is the way; walk in it,"
when you would turn to the right or the left.
[22]You shall defile your silver-plated idols
and your gold-covered images;
You shall throw them away like filthy rags,
you shall say, "Get out!"
[23]He will give rain for the seed
you sow in the ground,
And the bread that the soil produces
will be rich and abundant.
On that day your cattle will graze
in broad meadows;
[24]The oxen and the donkeys that till the ground
will eat silage tossed to them
with shovel and pitchfork.
[25]Upon every high mountain and lofty hill
there will be streams of running water.
On the day of the great slaughter,
when the towers fall,
[26]The light of the moon will be like the light of the sun,
and the light of the sun will be seven times greater,
like the light of seven days,
On the day the LORD binds up the wounds of his people and heals the bruises left by his blows.

Divine Judgment on Assyria. [27]See, the name of the LORD is coming from afar, burning with anger, heavy with threat,
His lips filled with fury,
tongue like a consuming fire, [28]Breath like an overflowing torrent
that reaches up to the neck!
He will winnow the nations with a destructive winnowing and bridle the jaws of the peoples to send them astray.

[29]For you, there will be singing
as on a night when a feast is observed,
And joy of heart
as when one marches along with a flute
Going to the mountain of the LORD,
to the Rock of Israel.
[30]The LORD will make his glorious voice heard,
and reveal his arm coming down
In raging fury and flame of consuming fire,
in tempest, and rainstorm, and hail.
[31]For at the voice of the LORD, Assyria will be shattered,
as he strikes with the rod;
[32]And every sweep of the rod of his punishment,
which the LORD will bring down on him,
Will be accompanied by timbrels and lyres,
while he wages war against him.
[33]For his tophet has long been ready,
truly it is prepared for the king;
His firepit made both deep and wide,
with fire and firewood in abundance,
And the breath of the LORD, like a stream of sulfur,
setting it afire.

☐ ACTS 22:30-23:35

Paul before the Sanhedrin. 22:30 The next day, wishing to determine the truth about why he was being accused by the Jews, he freed him and ordered the chief priests and the whole Sanhedrin to convene. Then he brought Paul down and made him stand before them.

23:1 Paul looked intently at the Sanhedrin and said, "My brothers, I have conducted myself with a perfectly clear conscience before God to this day." [2]The high priest Ananias ordered his attendants to strike his mouth. [3]Then Paul said to him, "God will strike you, you whitewashed wall. Do you indeed sit in judgment upon me according to the law and yet in violation of the law order me to be struck?" [4]The attendants said, "Would you revile God's high priest?" [5]Paul answered, "Brothers, I did not realize he was the high priest. For it is written, 'You shall not curse a ruler of your people.' "

[6]Paul was aware that some were Sadducees and some Pharisees, so he called out before the Sanhedrin, "My brothers, I am a Pharisee, the son of Pharisees; [I] am on trial for hope in the resurrection of the dead." [7]When he said this, a dispute broke out between the Pharisees and Sadducees, and the group became divided. [8]For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection or angels or spirits, while the Pharisees acknowledge all three. [9]A great uproar occurred, and some scribes belonging to the Pharisee party stood up and sharply argued, "We find nothing wrong with this man. Suppose a spirit or an angel has spoken to him?" [10]The dispute was so serious that the commander, afraid that Paul would be torn to pieces by them, ordered his troops to go down and rescue him from their midst and take him into the compound. [11]The following night the Lord stood by him and said, "Take courage. For just as you have borne witness to my cause in Jerusalem, so you must also bear witness in Rome."

Transfer to Caesarea. [12]When day came, the Jews made a plot and bound themselves by oath not to eat or drink until they had killed Paul. [13]There were more than forty who formed this conspiracy. [14]They went to the chief priests and elders and said, "We have bound ourselves by a solemn oath to taste nothing until we have killed Paul. [15]You, together with the Sanhedrin, must now make an official request to the commander to have him bring him down to you, as though you meant to investigate his case more thoroughly. We on our part are prepared to kill him before he arrives." [16]The son of Paul's sister, however, heard about the ambush; so he went and entered the compound and reported it to Paul. [17]Paul then called one of the centurions and requested, “Take this young man to the commander; he has something to report to him.” [18]So he took him and brought him to the commander and explained, “The prisoner Paul called me and asked that I bring this young man to you; he has something to say to you.” [19]The commander took him by the hand, drew him aside, and asked him privately, “What is it you have to report to me?” [20]He replied, “The Jews have conspired to ask you to bring Paul down to the Sanhedrin tomorrow, as though they meant to inquire about him more thoroughly, [21]but do not believe them. More than forty of them are lying in wait for him; they have bound themselves by oath not to eat or drink until they have killed him. They are now ready and only wait for your consent.” [22]As the commander dismissed the young man he directed him, “Tell no one that you gave me this information.”

[23]Then he summoned two of the centurions and said, “Get two hundred soldiers ready to go to Caesarea by nine o’clock tonight, along with seventy horsemen and two hundred auxiliaries. [24]Provide mounts for Paul to ride and give him safe conduct to Felix the governor.” [25]Then he wrote a letter with this content: [26]“Claudius Lysias to his excellency the governor Felix, greetings. [27]This man, seized by the Jews and about to be murdered by them, I rescued after intervening with my troops when I learned that he was a Roman citizen. [28]I wanted to learn the reason for their accusations against him so I brought him down to their Sanhedrin. [29]I discovered that he was accused in matters of controversial questions of their law and not of any charge deserving death or imprisonment. [30]Since it was brought to my attention that there will be a plot against the man, I am sending him to you at once, and have also notified his accusers to state (their case) against him before you.”

[31]So the soldiers, according to their orders, took Paul and escorted him by night to Antipatris. [32]The next day they re turned to the compound, leaving the horsemen to complete the journey with him. [33]When they arrived in Caesarea they delivered the letter to the governor and presented Paul to him. [34]When he had read it and asked to what province he belonged, and learned that he was from Cilicia, [35]he said, “I shall hear your case when your accusers arrive.” Then he ordered that he be held in custody in Herod’s praetorium.

Obedience is a little dog that leads the blind.

☐ ISAIAH 31-32

Against the Egyptian Alliance. 31:1 Ah! Those who go down to Egypt for help, who rely on horses;
Who put their trust in chariots because of their number,
and in horsemen because of their combined power,
But look not to the Holy One of Israel
nor seek the LORD!
[2]Yet he too is wise and will bring disaster;
he will not turn from his threats.
He will rise up against the house of the wicked
and against those who help evildoers.
[3]The Egyptians are human beings, not God,
their horses flesh, not spirit;
When the LORD stretches forth his hand,
the helper shall stumble, the one helped shall fall,
and both of them shall perish together.
[4]For thus says the LORD to me:
As a lion or its young

growling over the prey,
With a band of shepherds
assembled against it,
Is neither dismayed by their shouts
nor cowed by their noise,
So shall the LORD of hosts come down to wage war upon Mount Zion, upon its height.
[5]Like hovering birds, so the LORD of hosts
shall shield Jerusalem,
To shield and deliver,
to spare and rescue.

[6]Return, O Israelites, to him whom you have utterly deserted. [7]On that day each one of you shall reject his idols of silver and gold, which your hands have made.

[8]Assyria shall fall by a sword, not wielded by human being,
no mortal sword shall devour him;
He shall flee before the sword,
and his young men shall be impressed as laborers.
[9]He shall rush past his crag in panic,
and his princes desert the standard in terror, Says the LORD who has a fire in Zion
and a furnace in Jerusalem.

The Kingdom of Justice. 32:1 See, a king will reign justly and princes will rule rightly.
[2]Each of them will be like a shelter from the wind,
a refuge from the rain.
They will be like streams of water in a dry country,
like the shade of a great rock in a parched land.
[3]The eyes of those who see will not be closed;
the ears of those who hear will be attentive.
[4]The hasty of heart shall take thought to know,
and tongues of stutterers shall speak readily and clearly.
[5]No more will the fool be called noble,
nor the deceiver be considered honorable.
[6]For the fool speaks folly,
his heart plans evil:
Godless actions,
perverse speech against the LORD, Letting the hungry go empty
and the thirsty without drink.
[7]The deceits of the deceiver are evil,
he plans devious schemes:
To ruin the poor with lies,
and the needy when they plead their case.
[8]But the noble plan noble deeds,
and in noble deeds they persist.

The Women of Jerusalem. [9]You women so complacent, rise up and hear my voice, daughters so confident, give heed to my words.

[10]In a little more than a year
your confidence will be shaken;
For the vintage will fail,
no fruit harvest will come in.
[11]Tremble, you who are so complacent!
Shudder, you who are so confident!
Strip yourselves bare,
with only a loincloth for cover.
[12]Beat your breasts
for the pleasant fields,
for the fruitful vine;
[13]For the soil of my people,
overgrown with thorns and briers;
For all the joyful houses,
the exultant city.
[14]The castle will be forsaken,
the noisy city deserted;
Citadel and tower will become wasteland forever,
the joy of wild donkeys, the pasture of flocks;
[15]Until the spirit from on high
is poured out on us.
And the wilderness becomes a garden land
and the garden land seems as common as forest.
[16]Then judgment will dwell in the wilderness
and justice abide in the garden land.
[17]The work of justice will be peace;
the effect of justice, calm and security forever.
[18]My people will live in peaceful country,
in secure dwellings and quiet resting places.
[19]And the forest will come down completely,
the city will be utterly laid low.
[20]Happy are you who sow beside every stream,
and let the ox and the donkey go freely!

☐ ACTS 24

Trial before Felix. 24:1 Five days later the high priest Ananias came down with some elders and an advocate, a certain Tertullus, and they presented formal charges against Paul to the governor. [2]When he was called, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, “Since we have attained much peace through you, and reforms have been accomplished in this nation through your provident care, [3]we acknowledge this in every way and everywhere, most excellent Felix, with all gratitude. [4]But in order not to detain you further, I ask you to give us a brief hearing with your customary graciousness. [5]We found this man to be a pest; he creates dissension among Jews all over the world and is a ringleader of the sect of the Nazoreans. [6]He even tried to desecrate our temple, but we arrested him. [7] [8]If you examine him you will be able to learn from him for yourself about everything of which we are accusing him.” [9]The Jews also joined in the attack and asserted that these things were so.

[10]Then the governor motioned to him to speak and Paul replied, “I know that you have been a judge over this nation for many years and so I am pleased to make my defense before you. [11]As you can verify, not more than twelve days have passed since I went up to Jerusalem to worship. [12]Neither in the temple, nor in the synagogues, nor anywhere in the city did they find me arguing with anyone or instigating a riot among the people. [13]Nor can they prove to you the accusations they are now making against me. [14]But this I do admit to you, that according to the Way, which they call a sect, I worship the God of our ancestors and I believe everything that is in accordance with the law and written in the prophets. [15]I have the same hope in God as they themselves have that there will be a resurrection of the righteous and the unrighteous. [16]Because of this, I always strive to keep my conscience clear before God and man. [17]After many years, I came to bring alms for my nation and offerings. [18]While I was so engaged, they found me, after my purification, in the temple without a crowd or disturbance. [19]But some Jews from the province of Asia, who should be here before you to make whatever accusation they might have against me— [20]or let these men themselves state what crime they discovered when I stood before the Sanhedrin, [21]unless it was my one outcry as I stood among them, that 'I am on trial before you today for the resurrection of the dead.' "

[22]Then Felix, who was accurately informed about the Way, postponed the trial, saying, "When Lysias the commander comes down, I shall decide your case." [23]He gave orders to the centurion that he should be kept in custody but have some liberty, and that he should not prevent any of his friends from caring for his needs.

Captivity in Caesarea. [24]Several days later Felix came with his wife Drusilla, who was Jewish. He had Paul summoned and listened to him speak about faith in Christ Jesus. [25]But as he spoke about righteousness and self-restraint and the coming judgment, Felix became frightened and said, "You may go for now; when I find an opportunity I shall summon you again." [26]At the same time he hoped that a bribe would be offered him by Paul, and so he sent for him very often and conversed with him.

[27]Two years passed and Felix was succeeded by Porcius Festus. Wishing to ingratiate himself with the Jews, Felix left Paul in prison.

☐ ISAIAH 33-34

Overthrow of Assyria. 33:1 Ah! You destroyer never destroyed, betrayer never betrayed!
When you have finished destroying, you will be destroyed;
when you have stopped betraying, you will be betrayed.
[2]LORD, be gracious to us; for you we wait.
Be our strength every morning,
our salvation in time of trouble!
[3]At the roaring sound, peoples flee;
when you rise in your majesty, nations are scattered.
[4]Spoil is gathered up as caterpillars gather,
an onrush like the rush of locusts.
[5]The LORD is exalted, enthroned on high;
he fills Zion with right and justice.
[6]That which makes her seasons certain,
her wealth, salvation, wisdom, and knowledge,
is the fear of the LORD, her treasure.
[7]See, the men of Ariel cry out in the streets,
the messengers of Shalem weep bitterly.
[8]The highways are desolate,
travelers have quit the paths,

Covenants are broken, witnesses spurned;
yet no one gives it a thought.
[9]The country languishes in mourning,
Lebanon withers with shame;
Sharon is like the Arabah,
Bashan and Carmel are stripped bare.
[10]Now I will rise up, says the LORD,
now exalt myself,
now lift myself up.
[11]You conceive dry grass, bring forth stubble;
my spirit shall consume you like fire.
[12]The peoples shall be burned to lime,
thorns cut down to burn in fire.
[13]Hear, you who are far off, what I have done;
you who are near, acknowledge my might.
[14]In Zion sinners are in dread,
trembling grips the impious:
"Who of us can live with consuming fire?
who of us can live with everlasting flames?"
[15]Whoever walks righteously and speaks honestly,
who spurns what is gained by oppression,
Who waves off contact with a bribe,
who stops his ears so as not to hear of bloodshed,
who closes his eyes so as not to look on evil—[16]That one shall dwell on the heights,
with fortresses of rock for stronghold,
food and drink in steady supply.
[17]Your eyes will see a king in his splendor,
they will look upon a vast land.
[18]Your mind will dwell on the terror:
"Where is the one who counted, where the one who weighed?
Where the one who counted the towers?"
[19]You shall no longer see a defiant people,
a people of speech too obscure to comprehend,
stammering in a tongue not understood.
[20]Look to Zion, the city of our festivals;
your eyes shall see Jerusalem
as a quiet abode, a tent not to be struck, Whose pegs will never be pulled up,
nor any of its ropes severed.
[21]Indeed the LORD in majesty will be there for us a place of rivers and wide streams
on which no galley may go,
where no majestic ship may pass.
[22]For the LORD is our judge,
the LORD is our lawgiver,
the LORD is our king;
he it is who will save us.
[23]The rigging hangs slack;
it cannot hold the mast in place,

nor keep the sail spread out.
Then the blind will divide great spoils
and the lame will carry off the loot.
[24]No one who dwells there will say, "I am sick";
the people who live there will be forgiven their guilt.

Judgment upon Edom. 34:1 Come near, nations, and listen;
be attentive, you peoples!
Let the earth and what fills it listen,
the world and all it produces.
[2]The LORD is angry with all the nations,
enraged against all their host;
He has placed them under the ban,
given them up to slaughter.
[3]Their slain shall be cast out,
their corpses shall send up a stench;
the mountains shall run with their blood,
[4]All the host of heaven shall rot;
the heavens shall be rolled up like a scroll.
All their host shall wither away,
as the leaf wilts on the vine,
or as the fig withers on the tree.
[5]When my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens,
it shall come down upon Edom for judgment,
upon a people under my ban.
[6]The LORD has a sword sated with blood,
greasy with fat,
With the blood of lambs and goats,
with the fat of rams' kidneys;
For the LORD has a sacrifice in Bozrah,
a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
[7]Wild oxen shall be struck down with fatlings,
and bullocks with bulls;
Their land shall be soaked with blood,
and their soil greasy with fat.
[8]For the LORD has a day of vengeance,
a year of requital for the cause of Zion.
[9]Edom's streams shall be changed into pitch,
its soil into sulfur,
and its land shall become burning pitch;
[10]Night and day it shall not be quenched,
its smoke shall rise forever.
From generation to generation it shall lie waste,
never again shall anyone pass through it.
[11]But the desert owl and hoot owl shall possess it,
the screech owl and raven shall dwell in it.
The LORD will stretch over it the measuring line of chaos,
the plumb line of confusion.
[12]Its nobles shall be no more,
nor shall kings be proclaimed there;

all its princes are gone.
[13]Its castles shall be overgrown with thorns,
its fortresses with thistles and briers.
It shall become an abode for jackals,
a haunt for ostriches.
[14]Wildcats shall meet with desert beasts,
satyrs shall call to one another;
There shall the lilith repose,
and find for herself a place to rest.
[15]There the hoot owl shall nest and lay eggs,
hatch them out and gather them in her shadow;
There shall the kites assemble,
each with its mate.
[16]Search through the book of the LORD and read:
not one of these shall be lacking,
For the mouth of the LORD has ordered it,
and his spirit gathers them there.
[17]It is he who casts the lot for them;
his hand measures off their portions;
They shall possess it forever,
and dwell in it from generation to generation.

☐ ACTS 25

Appeal to Caesar. 25:1 Three days after his arrival in the province, Festus went up from Caesarea to Jerusalem [2]where the chief priests and Jewish leaders presented him their formal charges against Paul. They asked him [3]as a favor to have him sent to Jerusalem, for they were plotting to kill him along the way. [4]Festus replied that Paul was being held in custody in Caesarea and that he himself would be returning there shortly. [5]He said, "Let your authorities come down with me, and if this man has done something improper, let them accuse him."

[6]After spending no more than eight or ten days with them, he went down to Caesarea, and on the following day took his seat on the tribunal and ordered that Paul be brought in. [7]When he appeared, the Jews who had come down from Jerusalem surrounded him and brought many serious charges against him, which they were unable to prove. [8]In defending himself Paul said, "I have committed no crime either against the Jewish law or against the temple or against Caesar." [9]Then Festus, wishing to ingratiate himself with the Jews, said to Paul in reply, "Are you willing to go up to Jerusalem and there stand trial before me on these charges?" [10]Paul answered, "I am standing before the tribunal of Caesar; this is where I should be tried. I have committed no crime against the Jews, as you very well know. [11]If I have committed a crime or done anything deserving death, I do not seek to escape the death penalty; but if there is no substance to the charges they are bringing against me, then no one has the right to hand me over to them. I appeal to Caesar." [12]Then Festus, after conferring with his council, replied, "You have appealed to Caesar. To Caesar you will go."

Paul before King Agrippa. [13]When a few days had passed, King Agrippa and Bernice arrived in Caesarea on a visit to Festus. [14]Since they spent several days there, Festus referred Paul's case to the king, saying, "There is a man here left in custody by Felix. [15]When I was in Jerusalem the chief priests and the elders of the Jews brought charges against him and demanded his condemnation. [16]I answered them that it was not Roman practice to hand over an accused person before he has faced his accusers and had the opportunity to defend himself against their charge. [17]So when (they) came together here, I made no delay; the next day I took my seat on the tribunal and ordered the man to be brought in. [18]His accusers stood around him, but did not charge him with any of the crimes I suspected. [19]Instead they had some issues with him about their own religion and about a certain Jesus who had died but who Paul claimed was alive. [20]Since I was at a loss how to investigate this controversy, I asked if he were willing to go to Jerusalem and there stand trial on these charges. [21]And when Paul appealed that he be held in custody for the Emperor's decision, I ordered him held until I could send him to Caesar." [22]Agrippa said to Festus, "I too should like to hear this man." He replied, "Tomorrow you will hear him."

[23]The next day Agrippa and Bernice came with great ceremony and entered the audience hall in the company of cohort commanders and the prominent men of the city and, by command of Festus, Paul was brought in. [24]And Festus said, "King Agrippa and all you here present with us, look at this man about whom the whole Jewish populace petitioned me here and in Jerusalem, clamoring that he should live no longer. [25]I found, however, that he had done nothing deserving death, and so when he appealed to the Emperor, I decided to send him. [26]But I have nothing definite to write about him to our sovereign; therefore I have brought him before all of you, and particularly before you, King Agrippa, so that I may have something to write as a result of this investigation. [27]For it seems senseless to me to send up a prisoner without indicating the charges against him."

☐ ISAIAH 35-36

Israel's Deliverance. 35:1 The wilderness and the parched land will exult;
the Arabah will rejoice and bloom;
[2]Like the crocus it shall bloom abundantly,
and rejoice with joyful song.
The glory of Lebanon will be given to it,
the splendor of Carmel and Sharon;
They will see the glory of the LORD,
the splendor of our God.
[3]Strengthen hands that are feeble,
make firm knees that are weak,
[4]Say to the fearful of heart:
Be strong, do not fear!
Here is your God,
he comes with vindication;
With divine recompense
he comes to save you.
[5]Then the eyes of the blind shall see,
and the ears of the deaf be opened;
[6]Then the lame shall leap like a stag,
and the mute tongue sing for joy.
For waters will burst forth in the wilderness,
and streams in the Arabah.
[7]The burning sands will become pools,
and the thirsty ground, springs of water;
The abode where jackals crouch

will be a marsh for the reed and papyrus.
[8]A highway will be there,
called the holy way;
No one unclean may pass over it,
but it will be for his people;
no traveler, not even fools, shall go astray on it.
[9]No lion shall be there,
nor any beast of prey approach,
nor be found.
But there the redeemed shall walk,
[10]And the ransomed of the LORD shall return,
and enter Zion singing,
crowned with everlasting joy;
They meet with joy and gladness,
sorrow and mourning flee away.

Invasion of Sennacherib. 36:1 In the fourteenth year of King Hezekiah, Sennacherib, king of Assyria, went up against all the fortified cities of Judah and captured them. [2]From Lachish the king of Assyria sent his commander with a great army to King Hezekiah in Jerusalem. When he stopped at the conduit of the upper pool, on the highway of the fuller's field, [3]there came out to him the master of the palace, Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, and Shebna the scribe, and the chancellor, Joah, son of Asaph. [4]The commander said to them, "Tell Hezekiah: Thus says the great king, the king of Assyria: On what do you base this trust of yours? [5]Do you think mere words substitute for strategy and might in war? In whom, then, do you place your trust, that you rebel against me? [6]Do you trust in Egypt, that broken reed of a staff which pierces the hand of anyone who leans on it? That is what Pharaoh, king of Egypt, is to all who trust in him. [7]Or do you say to me: It is in the LORD, our God, we trust? Is it not he whose high places and altars Hezekiah has removed, commanding Judah and Jerusalem, 'Worship before this altar'?

[8]"Now, make a wager with my lord, the king of Assyria: I will give you two thousand horses, if you are able to put riders on them. [9]How then can you turn back even a captain, one of the least servants of my lord, trusting, as you do, in Egypt for chariots and horses? [10]Did I come up to destroy this land without the LORD? The LORD himself said to me, Go up and destroy that land!"

[11]Then Eliakim and Shebna and Joah said to the commander, "Please speak to your servants in Aramaic; we understand it. Do not speak to us in the language of Judah within earshot of the people who are on the wall."

[12]But the commander replied, "Was it to your lord and to you that my lord sent me to speak these words? Was it not rather to those sitting on the wall, who, with you, will have to eat their own excrement and drink their own urine?" [13]Then the commander stepped forward and cried out in a loud voice in the language of Judah, "Listen to the words of the great king, the king of Assyria. [14]Thus says the king: Do not let Hezekiah deceive you, for he cannot rescue you. [15]And do not let Hezekiah induce you to trust in the LORD, saying, 'The LORD will surely rescue us, and this city will not be handed over to the king of Assyria.' [16]Do not listen to Hezekiah, for thus says the king of Assyria:

Make peace with me
and surrender to me!
Eat, each of you, from your vine,
each from your own fig tree.
Drink water, each from your own well,
[17]until I arrive and take you to a land like your own,
A land of grain and wine,
a land of bread and vineyards.

[18]Do not let Hezekiah seduce you by saying, 'The LORD will rescue us.' Has any of the gods of the nations rescued his land from the power of the king of Assyria? [19]Where are the gods of Hamath and Arpad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Where are the gods of Samaria? Have they saved Samaria from my power? [20]Who among all the gods of these lands ever rescued their land from my power, that the LORD should save Jerusalem from my power?" [21]But they remained silent and did not answer at all, for the king's command was, "Do not answer him."

[22]Then the master of the palace, Eliakim, son of Hilkiah, Shebna the scribe, and the chancellor Joah, son of Asaph, came to Hezekiah with their garments torn, and reported to him the words of the commander.

☐ ACTS 26

King Agrippa Hears Paul. 26:1 Then Agrippa said to Paul, "You may now speak on your own behalf." So Paul stretched out his hand and began his defense. [2]"I count myself fortunate, King Agrippa, that I am to defend myself before you today against all the charges made against me by the Jews, [3]especially since you are an expert in all the Jewish customs and controversies. And therefore I beg you to listen patiently. [4]My manner of living from my youth, a life spent from the beginning among my people and in Jerusalem, all [the] Jews know. [5]They have known about me from the start, if they are willing to testify, that I have lived my life as a Pharisee, the strictest party of our religion. [6]But now I am standing trial because of my hope in the promise made by God to our ancestors. [7]Our twelve tribes hope to attain to that promise as they fervently worship God day and night; and on account of this hope I am accused by Jews, O king. [8]Why is it thought unbelievable among you that God raises the dead? [9]I myself once thought that I had to do many things against the name of Jesus the Nazorean, [10]and I did so in Jerusalem. I imprisoned many of the holy ones with the authorization I received from the chief priests, and when they were to be put to death I cast my vote against them. [11]Many times, in synagogue after synagogue, I punished them in an attempt to force them to blaspheme; I was so enraged against them that I pursued them even to foreign cities.

[12]"On one such occasion I was traveling to Damascus with the authorization and commission of the chief priests. [13]At midday, along the way, O king, I saw a light from the sky, brighter than the sun, shining around me and my traveling companions. [14]We all fell to the ground and I heard a voice saying to me in Hebrew, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me? It is hard for you to kick against the goad.' [15]And I said, 'Who are you, sir?' And the Lord replied, 'I am Jesus whom you are persecuting. [16]Get up now, and stand on your feet. I have appeared to you for this purpose, to appoint you as a servant and witness of what you have seen [of me] and what you will be shown. [17]I shall deliver you from this people and from the Gentiles to whom I send you, [18]to open their eyes that they may turn from darkness to light and from the power of Satan to God, so that they may obtain forgiveness of sins and an inheritance among those who have been consecrated by faith in me.'

[19]"And so, King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision. [20]On the contrary, first to those in Damascus and in Jerusalem and throughout the whole country of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, I preached the need to repent and turn to God, and to do works giving evidence of repentance. [21]That is why the Jews seized me [when I was] in the temple and tried to kill me. [22]But I have enjoyed God's help to this very day, and so I stand here testifying to small and great alike, saying nothing different from what the prophets and Moses foretold, [23]that the Messiah must suffer and that, as the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles."

Reactions to Paul's Speech. [24]While Paul was so speaking in his defense, Festus said in a loud voice, "You are mad, Paul; much learning is driving you mad." [25]But Paul replied, "I am not mad, most excellent Festus; I am speaking words of truth and reason. [26]The king knows about these matters and to him I speak boldly, for I cannot believe that [any] of this has escaped his notice; this was not done in a corner. [27]King Agrippa, do you believe the prophets? I know you believe." [28]Then Agrippa said to Paul, "You will soon persuade me to play the Christian." [29]Paul replied, "I would pray to God that sooner or later not only you but all who listen to me today might become as I am except for these chains."

[30]Then the king rose, and with him the governor and Bernice and the others who sat with them. [31]And after they had withdrawn they said to one another, "This man is doing nothing [at all] that deserves death or imprisonment." [32]And Agrippa said to Festus, "This man could have been set free if he had not appealed to Caesar."

St. Matthew

There is no reason for surprise that Matthew the tax collector abandoned earthly wealth as soon as the Lord commanded him. Nor should one be amazed that neglecting his wealth, he joined a band of men whose Leader had, on Matthew's assessment, no riches at all. For Matthew understood that Christ, who was summoning him away from earthly possessions, had the everlasting treasures of heaven to give.

— St. Bede the Venerable

☐ ISAIAH 37-39

37:1 When King Hezekiah heard this, he tore his garments, covered himself with sackcloth, and went into the house of the LORD. [2]He sent Eliakim, the master of the palace, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covered with sackcloth, to tell the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz,

[3]"Thus says Hezekiah:
A day of distress and rebuke,
a day of disgrace is this day!
Children are due to come forth,
but the strength to give birth is lacking.

[4]Perhaps the LORD, your God, will hear the words of the commander, whom his lord, the king of Assyria, sent to taunt the living God, and will rebuke him for the words which the LORD, your God, has heard. So lift up a prayer for the remnant that is here."

[5]When the servants of King Hezekiah had come to Isaiah, [6]he said to them: "Tell this to your lord: Thus says the LORD: Do not be frightened by the words you have heard, by which the deputies of the king of Assyria have blasphemed me.

[7]I am putting in him such a spirit that when he hears a report
he will return to his land.
I will make him fall by the sword in his land."

[8]When the commander, on his return, heard that the king of Assyria had withdrawn from Lachish, he found him besieging Libnah. [9]The king of Assyria heard a report: "Tirhakah, king of Ethiopia, has come out to fight against you." Again he sent messengers to Hezekiah to say: [10]"Thus shall you say to Hezekiah, king of Judah: Do not let your God in whom you trust deceive you by saying, 'Jerusalem will not be handed over to the king of Assyria.' [11]You, certainly, have heard what the kings of Assyria have done to all the lands: they put them under the ban! And are you to be delivered? [12]Did the gods of the nations whom my fathers destroyed deliver them—Gozan, Haran, Rezeph, and the Edenites in Telassar? [13]Where are the king of Hamath, the king of Arpad, or a king of the cities Sepharvaim, Hena or Ivvah?"

[14]Hezekiah took the letter from the hand of the messengers and read it; then he went up to the house of the LORD, and spreading it out before the LORD, [15]Hezekiah prayed to the LORD:

[16]"LORD of hosts, God of Israel,
enthroned on the cherubim!
You alone are God
over all the kingdoms of the earth.
It is you who made
the heavens and the earth.

[17]Incline your ear, LORD, and listen!
open your eyes, LORD, and see!
Hear all the words Sennacherib has sent to taunt the living God.
[18]Truly, O LORD,
the kings of Assyria have laid waste
the nations and their lands.
[19]They gave their gods to the fire
—they were not gods at all,
but the work of human hands—
Wood and stone, they destroyed them.
[20]Therefore, LORD, our God,
save us from this man's power,
That all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you alone, LORD, are God."

[21]Then Isaiah, son of Amoz, sent this message to Hezekiah: "Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to whom you have prayed concerning Sennacherib, king of Assyria: I have listened! [22]This is the word the LORD has spoken concerning him:

She despises you, laughs you to scorn,
the virgin daughter Zion;
Behind you she wags her head,
daughter Jerusalem.
[23]Whom have you insulted and blasphemed,
at whom have you raised your voice
And lifted up your eyes on high?
At the Holy One of Israel!
[24]Through the mouths of your messengers
you have insulted the Lord when you said:
'With my many chariots I went up to the tops of the peaks,
to the recesses of Lebanon,
To cut down its lofty cedars,
its choice cypresses;
I reached the farthest shelter,
the forest ranges.
[25]I myself dug wells
and drank foreign water;
Drying up all the rivers of Egypt
beneath the soles of my feet.'
[26]Have you not heard?
A long time ago I prepared it,
from days of old I planned it,
Now I have brought it about:
You are here to reduce fortified cities to heaps of ruins, [27]Their people powerless,
dismayed and distraught,
They are plants of the field,

green growth,
thatch on the rooftops,
Grain scorched by the east wind.
[28]I know when you stand or sit,
when you come or go,
and how you rage against me.
[29]Because you rage against me
and your smugness has reached my ears,
I will put my hook in your nose
and my bit in your mouth,
And make you leave by the way you came.
[30]This shall be a sign for you:
This year you shall eat the aftergrowth,
next year, what grows of itself;
But in the third year, sow and reap,
plant vineyards and eat their fruit!
[31]The remaining survivors of the house of Judah shall again strike root below
and bear fruit above.
[32]For out of Jerusalem shall come a remnant,
and from Mount Zion, survivors.
The zeal of the LORD of hosts shall do this.

[33]Therefore, thus says the LORD about the king of Assyria:

He shall not come as far as this city,
nor shoot there an arrow,
nor confront it with a shield,
Nor cast up a siege-work against it.
[34]By the way he came he shall leave,
never coming as far as this city,
oracle of the LORD.
[35]I will shield and save this city for my own sake and the sake of David my servant."

[36]Then the angel of the LORD went forth and struck down one hundred and eighty-five thousand in the Assyrian camp. Early the next morning, there they were, all those corpses, dead! [37]So Sennacherib, the king of Assyria, broke camp, departed, returned home, and stayed in Nineveh.

[38]When he was worshiping in the temple of his god Nisroch, his sons Adrammelech and Sharezer struck him down with the sword and fled into the land of Ararat. His son Esarhaddon reigned in his place.

Sickness and Recovery of Hezekiah. 38:1 In those days, when Hezekiah was mortally ill, the prophet Isaiah, son of Amoz, came and said to him: "Thus says the LORD: Put your house in order, for you are about to die; you shall not recover." [2]Hezekiah turned his face to the wall and prayed to the LORD:

[3]"Ah, LORD, remember how faithfully and wholeheartedly I conducted myself in your presence, doing what was good in your sight!" And Hezekiah wept bitterly.

[4]Then the word of the LORD came to Isaiah: [5]Go, tell Hezekiah: Thus says the LORD, the God of your father David: I have heard your prayer; I have seen your tears. Now I will add fifteen years to your life. [6]I will rescue you and this city from the hand of the king of Assyria; I will be a shield to this city.

[7]This will be the sign for you from the LORD that the LORD will carry out the word he has spoken: [8]See, I will make the shadow cast by the sun on the stairway to the terrace of Ahaz go back the ten steps it has advanced. So the sun came back the ten steps it had advanced.

Hezekiah's Hymn of Thanksgiving. [9]The song of Hezekiah, king of Judah, after he had been sick and had recovered from his illness:

[10]In the noontime of life I said,
I must depart!
To the gates of Sheol I have been consigned
for the rest of my years.
[11]I said, I shall see the LORD no more
in the land of the living.
Nor look on any mortals
among those who dwell in the world.
[12]My dwelling, like a shepherd's tent,
is struck down and borne away from me;
You have folded up my life, like a weaver
who severs me from the last thread.
From morning to night you make an end of me;
[13]I cry out even until the dawn.
Like a lion he breaks all my bones;
from morning to night you make an end of me.
[14]Like a swallow I chirp;
I moan like a dove.
My eyes grow weary looking heavenward:
Lord, I am overwhelmed; go security for me!
[15]What am I to say or tell him?
He is the one who has done it!
All my sleep has fled,
because of the bitterness of my soul.
[16]Those live whom the LORD protects;
yours is the life of my spirit.
You have given me health and restored my life!
[17]Peace in place of bitterness!
You have preserved my life
from the pit of destruction;
Behind your back
you cast all my sins.
[18]For it is not Sheol that gives you thanks,
nor death that praises you;
Neither do those who go down into the pit
await your kindness.
[19]The living, the living give you thanks,
as I do today.
Parents declare to their children,
O God, your faithfulness.
[20]The LORD is there to save us.
We shall play our music
In the house of the LORD
all the days of our life.

[21]Then Isaiah said, “Bring a poultice of figs and apply it to the boil for his recovery.” [22]Hezekiah asked, “What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD?”

Embassy from Merodach-baladan. 39:1 At that time Merodach-baladan, son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and gifts to Hezekiah, when he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. [2]Hezekiah was pleased at their coming, and then showed the messengers his treasury, the silver and gold, the spices and perfumed oil, his whole armory, and everything in his storerooms; there was nothing in his house or in all his realm that Hezekiah did not show them.

[3]Then Isaiah the prophet came to King Hezekiah and asked him, “What did these men say to you? Where did they come from?” Hezekiah replied, “They came to me from a distant land, from Babylon.” [4]He asked, “What did they see in your house?” Hezekiah answered, “They saw everything in my house. There is nothing in my storerooms that I did not show them.” [5]Then Isaiah said to Hezekiah, “Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: [6]The time is coming when all that is in your house, everything that your ancestors have stored up until this day, shall be carried off to Babylon; nothing shall be left, says the LORD. [7]Some of your own descendants, your progeny, shall be taken and made attendants in the palace of the king of Babylon.” [8]Hezekiah replied to Isaiah, “The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good.” For he thought, “There will be peace and stability in my lifetime.”

Departure for Rome. 27:1 When it was decided that we should sail to Italy, they handed Paul and some other prisoners over to a centurion named Julius of the Cohort Augusta. [2]We went on board a ship from Adramyttium bound for ports in the province of Asia and set sail. Aristarchus, a Macedonian from Thessalonica, was with us. [3]On the following day we put in at Sidon where Julius was kind enough to allow Paul to visit his friends who took care of him. [4]From there we put out to sea and sailed around the sheltered side of Cyprus because of the headwinds, [5]and crossing the open sea off the coast of Cilicia and Pamphylia we came to Myra in Lycia.

Storm and Shipwreck. [6]There the centurion found an Alexandrian ship that was sailing to Italy and put us on board. [7]For many days we made little headway, arriving at Cnidus only with difficulty, and because the wind would not permit us to continue our course we sailed for the sheltered side of Crete off Salmone. [8]We sailed past it with difficulty and reached a place called Fair Havens, near which was the city of Lasea.

[9]Much time had now passed and sailing had become hazardous because the time of the fast had already gone by, so Paul warned them, [10]“Men, I can see that this voyage will result in severe damage and heavy loss not only to the cargo and the ship, but also to our lives.” [11]The centurion, however, paid more attention to the pilot and to the owner of the ship than to what Paul said. [12]Since the harbor was unfavorably situated for spending the winter, the majority planned to put out to sea from there in the hope of reaching Phoenix, a port in Crete facing west-northwest, there to spend the winter.

[13]A south wind blew gently, and thinking they had attained their objective, they weighed anchor and sailed along close to the coast of Crete. [14]Before long an offshore wind of hurricane force called a “Northeaster” struck. [15]Since the ship was caught up in it and could not head into the wind we gave way and let ourselves be driven. [16]We passed along the sheltered side of an island named Cauda and managed only with difficulty to get the dinghy under control. [17]They hoisted it aboard, then used cables to undergird the ship. Because of their fear that they would run aground on the shoal of Syrtis, they lowered the drift anchor and were carried along in this way. [18]We were being pounded by the storm so violently that the next day they jettisoned some cargo, [19]and on the third day with their own hands they threw even the ship’s tackle overboard. [20]Neither the sun nor the stars were visible for many days, and no small storm raged. Finally, all hope of our surviving was taken away.

[21]When many would no longer eat, Paul stood among them and said, “Men, you should have taken my advice and not have set sail from Crete and you would have avoided this disastrous loss. [22]I urge you now to keep up your courage; not one of you will be lost, only the ship. [23]For last night an angel of the God to whom (I) belong and whom I serve stood by me [24]and said, ‘Do not be afraid, Paul. You are destined to stand before Caesar; and behold, for your sake, God has granted safety to all who are sailing with you.’ [25]Therefore, keep up your courage, men; I trust in God that it will turn out as I have been told. [26]We are destined to run aground on some island.”

[27]On the fourteenth night, as we were still being driven about on the Adriatic Sea, toward midnight the sailors began to suspect that they were nearing land. [28]They took soundings and found twenty fathoms; a little farther on, they again took soundings and found fifteen fathoms. [29]Fearing that we would run aground on a rocky coast, they dropped four anchors from the stern and prayed for day to come. [30]The sailors then tried to abandon ship; they lowered the dinghy to the sea on the pretext of going to lay out anchors from the bow. [31]But Paul said to the centurion and the soldiers,
"Unless these men stay with the ship, you cannot be saved." [32]So the soldiers cut the ropes of the dinghy and set it adrift.

[33]Until the day began to dawn, Paul kept urging all to take some food. He said, "Today is the fourteenth day that you have been waiting, going hungry and eating nothing. [34]I urge you, therefore, to take some food; it will help you survive. Not a hair of the head of anyone of you will be lost." [35]When he said this, he took bread, gave thanks to God in front of them all, broke it, and began to eat. [36]They were all encouraged, and took some food themselves. [37]In all, there were two hundred seventy-six of us on the ship. [38]After they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship by throwing the wheat into the sea.

[39]When day came they did not recognize the land, but made out a bay with a beach. They planned to run the ship ashore on it, if they could. [40]So they cast off the anchors and abandoned them to the sea, and at the same time they unfastened the lines of the rudders, and hoisting the foresail into the wind, they made for the beach. [41]But they struck a sandbar and ran the ship aground. The bow was wedged in and could not be moved, but the stern began to break up under the pounding [of the waves]. [42]The soldiers planned to kill the prisoners so that none might swim away and escape, [43]but the centurion wanted to save Paul and so kept them from carrying out their plan. He ordered those who could swim to jump overboard first and get to the shore, [44]and then the rest, some on planks, others on debris from the ship. In this way, all reached shore safely.

St. Thomas of Villanova

> If you want God to hear your prayers, hear the voice of the poor. If you want God to anticipate your wants, provide those of the needy without waiting for them to ask you. Especially anticipate the needs of those who are ashamed to beg. To make them ask for alms is to make them buy it.

☐ ISAIAH 40-41

Promise of Salvation. 40:1 Comfort, give comfort to my people,
says your God.
[2]Speak to the heart of Jerusalem, and proclaim to her that her service has ended,
that her guilt is expiated,
That she has received from the hand of the LORD
double for all her sins.

[3]A voice proclaims:
In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD!
Make straight in the wasteland a highway for our God!
[4]Every valley shall be lifted up,
every mountain and hill made low;
The rugged land shall be a plain,
the rough country, a broad valley.
[5]Then the glory of the LORD shall be revealed,

and all flesh shall see it together;
for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

[6]A voice says, "Proclaim!"
I answer, "What shall I proclaim?"
"All flesh is grass,
and all their loyalty like the flower of the field.
[7]The grass withers, the flower wilts,
when the breath of the LORD blows upon it."
"Yes, the people is grass!
[8]The grass withers, the flower wilts,
but the word of our God stands forever."

[9]Go up onto a high mountain,
Zion, herald of good news!
Cry out at the top of your voice,
Jerusalem, herald of good news!
Cry out, do not fear!
Say to the cities of Judah:
Here is your God!
[10]Here comes with power
the Lord GOD,
who rules by his strong arm;
Here is his reward with him,
his recompense before him.
[11]Like a shepherd he feeds his flock;
in his arms he gathers the lambs,
Carrying them in his bosom,
leading the ewes with care.

Power of God and the Vanity of Idols. [12]Who has measured with his palm the waters, marked off the heavens with a span,
held in his fingers the dust of the earth,
weighed the mountains in scales
and the hills in a balance?
[13]Who has directed the spirit of the LORD,
or instructed him as his counselor?
[14]Whom did he consult to gain knowledge?
Who taught him the path of judgment,
or showed him the way of understanding?

[15]See, the nations count as a drop in the bucket,
as a wisp of cloud on the scales;
the coastlands weigh no more than a speck.
[16]Lebanon would not suffice for fuel,
nor its animals be enough for burnt offerings.
[17]Before him all the nations are as nought,
as nothing and void he counts them.

[18]To whom can you liken God?
With what likeness can you confront him?

19 An idol? An artisan casts it,
the smith plates it with gold,
fits it with silver chains.
20 Is mulberry wood the offering?
A skilled artisan picks out
a wood that will not rot, Seeks to set up for himself
an idol that will not totter.

21 Do you not know? Have you not heard?
Was it not told you from the beginning?
Have you not understood from the founding of the earth?
22 The one who is enthroned above the vault of the earth,
its inhabitants like grasshoppers,
Who stretches out the heavens like a veil
and spreads them out like a tent to dwell in, 23 Who brings princes to nought
and makes the rulers of the earth as nothing.
24 Scarcely are they planted, scarcely sown,
scarcely their stem rooted in the earth,
When he breathes upon them and they wither,
and the stormwind carries them away like straw.

25 To whom can you liken me as an equal?
says the Holy One.
26 Lift up your eyes on high and see who created these:
He leads out their army and numbers them,
calling them all by name.
By his great might and the strength of his power
not one of them is missing!
27 Why, O Jacob, do you say,
and declare, O Israel,
"My way is hidden from the LORD,
and my right is disregarded by my God"?
28 Do you not know?
Have you not heard?
The LORD is God from of old,
creator of the ends of the earth.
He does not faint or grow weary,
and his knowledge is beyond scrutiny.
29 He gives power to the faint,
abundant strength to the weak.
30 Though young men faint and grow weary,
and youths stagger and fall,
31 They that hope in the LORD will renew their strength,
they will soar on eagles' wings;
They will run and not grow weary,
walk and not grow faint.

The Liberator of Israel. 41:1 Keep silence before me, O coastlands;
let the nations renew their strength.
Let them draw near and speak;
let us come together for judgment.
2 Who has stirred up from the East the champion of justice,
and summoned him to be his attendant?
To him he delivers nations
and subdues kings;
With his sword he reduces them to dust,
with his bow, to driven straw.
3 He pursues them, passing on without loss,
by a path his feet scarcely touch.
4 Who has performed these deeds?
Who has called forth the generations from the beginning?
I, the LORD, am the first,
and at the last I am he.
5 The coastlands see, and fear;
the ends of the earth tremble:
they approach, they come on.

6 Each one helps his neighbor,
one says to the other, "Courage!"
7 The woodworker encourages the goldsmith,
the one who beats with the hammer, him who strikes on the anvil, Saying of the soldering, "It is good!"
then fastening it with nails so it will not totter.

8 But you, Israel, my servant,
Jacob, whom I have chosen,
offspring of Abraham my friend—9 You whom I have taken from the ends of the earth and summoned from its far-off places,
To whom I have said, You are my servant;
I chose you, I have not rejected you—10 Do not fear: I am with you;
do not be anxious: I am your God.
I will strengthen you, I will help you,
I will uphold you with my victorious right hand.

11 Yes, all shall be put to shame and disgrace
who vent their anger against you;
Those shall be as nothing and perish
who offer resistance.
12 You shall seek but not find
those who strive against you;
They shall be as nothing at all who do battle with you.

13 For I am the LORD, your God,
who grasp your right hand;
It is I who say to you, Do not fear,

I will help you.
14 Do not fear, you worm Jacob,
you maggot Israel;
I will help you—oracle of the LORD;
the Holy One of Israel is your redeemer.
15 I will make of you a threshing sledge,
sharp, new, full of teeth,
To thresh the mountains and crush them,
to make the hills like chaff.
16 When you winnow them, the wind shall carry them off,
the storm shall scatter them.
But you shall rejoice in the LORD;
in the Holy One of Israel you shall glory.

17 The afflicted and the needy seek water in vain,
their tongues are parched with thirst.
I, the LORD, will answer them;
I, the God of Israel, will not forsake them.
18 I will open up rivers on the bare heights,
and fountains in the broad valleys;
I will turn the wilderness into a marshland,
and the dry ground into springs of water.
19 In the wilderness I will plant the cedar,
acacia, myrtle, and olive;
In the wasteland I will set the cypress,
together with the plane tree and the pine, 20 That all may see and know,
observe and understand,
That the hand of the LORD has done this,
the Holy One of Israel has created it.

21 Present your case, says the LORD;
bring forward your arguments, says the King of Jacob.
22 Let them draw near and foretell to us
what it is that shall happen!
What are the things of long ago?
Tell us, that we may reflect on them
and know their outcome;
Or declare to us the things to come,
23 tell what is to be in the future,
that we may know that you are gods!
Do something, good or evil,
that will put us in awe and in fear.
24 Why, you are nothing
and your work is nought;
to choose you is an abomination!

25 I have stirred up one from the north, and he comes;
from the east I summon him by name;
He shall trample the rulers down like mud,
like a potter treading clay.

[26]Who announced this from the beginning, that we might know;
beforehand, that we might say, "True"?
Not one of you foretold it, not one spoke;
not one heard you say,
[27]"The first news for Zion: here they come,"
or, "I will give Jerusalem a herald of good news."
[28]When I look, there is not one,
not one of them to give counsel,
to make an answer when I question them.
[29]Ah, all of them are nothing,
their works are nought,
their idols, empty wind!

☐ ACTS 28

Winter in Malta. 28:1 Once we had reached safety we learned that the island was called Malta. [2]The natives showed us extraordinary hospitality; they lit a fire and welcomed all of us because it had begun to rain and was cold. [3]Paul had gathered a bundle of brushwood and was putting it on the fire when a viper, escaping from the heat, fastened on his hand. [4]When the natives saw the snake hanging from his hand, they said to one another, "This man must certainly be a murderer; though he escaped the sea, Justice has not let him remain alive." [5]But he shook the snake off into the fire and suffered no harm. [6]They were expecting him to swell up or suddenly to fall down dead but, after waiting a long time and seeing nothing unusual happen to him, they changed their minds and began to say that he was a god. [7]In the vicinity of that place were lands belonging to a man named Publius, the chief of the island. He welcomed us and received us cordially as his guests for three days. [8]It so happened that the father of Publius was sick with a fever and dysentery. Paul visited him and, after praying, laid his hands on him and healed him. [9]After this had taken place, the rest of the sick on the island came to Paul and were cured. [10]They paid us great honor and when we eventually set sail they brought us the provisions we needed.

Arrival in Rome. [11]Three months later we set sail on a ship that had wintered at the island. It was an Alexandrian ship with the Dioscuri as its figurehead. [12]We put in at Syracuse and stayed there three days, [13]and from there we sailed round the coast and arrived at Rhegium. After a day, a south wind came up and in two days we reached Puteoli. [14]There we found some brothers and were urged to stay with them for seven days. And thus we came to Rome. [15]The brothers from there heard about us and came as far as the Forum of Appius and Three Taverns to meet us. On seeing them, Paul gave thanks to God and took courage. [16]When he entered Rome, Paul was allowed to live by himself, with the soldier who was guarding him.

Testimony to Jews in Rome. [17]Three days later he called together the leaders of the Jews. When they had gathered he said to them, "My brothers, although I had done nothing against our people or our ancestral customs, I was handed over to the Romans as a prisoner from Jerusalem. [18]After trying my case the Romans wanted to release me, because they found nothing against me deserving the death penalty. [19]But when the Jews objected, I was obliged to appeal to Caesar, even though I had no accusation to make against my own nation. [20]This is the reason, then, I have requested to see you and to speak with you, for it is on account of the hope of Israel that I wear these chains." [21]They answered him, "We have received no letters from Judea about you, nor has any of the brothers arrived with a damaging report or rumor about you. [22]But we should like to hear you present your views, for we know that this sect is denounced everywhere."

[23]So they arranged a day with him and came to his lodgings in great numbers. From early morning until evening, he expounded his position to them, bearing witness to the kingdom of God and trying to convince them about Jesus from the law of Moses and the prophets. [24]Some were convinced by what he had said, while others did not believe. [25]Without reaching any agreement among themselves they began to leave; then Paul made one final statement. "Well did the holy Spirit speak to your ancestors through the prophet Isaiah, saying:

[26]'Go to this people and say:

You shall indeed hear but not understand.
You shall indeed look but never see.
[27]Gross is the heart of this people;
they will not hear with their ears;
they have closed their eyes,
so they may not see with their eyes
and hear with their ears
and understand with their heart and be converted,
and I heal them.'

[28]Let it be known to you that this salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles; they will listen."[29]
[30]He remained for two full years in his lodgings. He received all who came to him, [31]and with complete assurance and without hindrance he proclaimed the kingdom of God and taught about the Lord Jesus Christ.

St. Pio of Pietrelcina

Do everything for the love of God and His glory without looking at the outcome of the undertaking. Work is judged, not by its result, but by its intention.

☐ ISAIAH 42-43

The Servant of the Lord. 42:1 Here is my servant whom I uphold,
my chosen one with whom I am pleased.
Upon him I have put my spirit;
he shall bring forth justice to the nations.
[2]He will not cry out, nor shout,
nor make his voice heard in the street.
[3]A bruised reed he will not break,
and a dimly burning wick he will not quench.
He will faithfully bring forth justice.
[4]He will not grow dim or be bruised
until he establishes justice on the earth;
the coastlands will wait for his teaching.

[5]Thus says God, the LORD,
who created the heavens and stretched them out,
who spread out the earth and its produce,
Who gives breath to its people
and spirit to those who walk on it:
[6]I, the LORD, have called you for justice,
I have grasped you by the hand;
I formed you, and set you
as a covenant for the people,
a light for the nations,
[7]To open the eyes of the blind,
to bring out prisoners from confinement,

and from the dungeon, those who live in darkness.
[8]I am the LORD, LORD is my name;
my glory I give to no other,
nor my praise to idols.
[9]See, the earlier things have come to pass,
new ones I now declare;
Before they spring forth
I announce them to you.

The Lord's Purpose for Israel. [10]Sing to the LORD a new song,
his praise from the ends of the earth:
Let the sea and what fills it resound,
the coastlands, and those who dwell in them.
[11]Let the wilderness and its cities cry out,
the villages where Kedar dwells;
Let the inhabitants of Sela exult,
and shout from the top of the mountains.
[12]Let them give glory to the LORD,
and utter his praise in the coastlands.

[13]The LORD goes forth like a warrior,
like a man of war he stirs up his fury;
He shouts out his battle cry,
against his enemies he shows his might:
[14]For a long time I have kept silent,
I have said nothing, holding myself back;
Now I cry out like a woman in labor,
gasping and panting.
[15]I will lay waste mountains and hills,
all their undergrowth I will dry up;
I will turn the rivers into marshes,
and the marshes I will dry up.
[16]I will lead the blind on a way they do not know;
by paths they do not know I will guide them.
I will turn darkness into light before them,
and make crooked ways straight.
These are my promises:
I made them, I will not forsake them.

[17]They shall be turned back in utter shame
who trust in idols;
Who say to molten images,
"You are our gods."
[18]You deaf ones, listen,
you blind ones, look and see!
[19]Who is blind but my servant,
or deaf like the messenger I send?
Who is blind like the one I restore,
blind like the servant of the LORD?
[20]You see many things but do not observe;
ears open, but do not hear.

[21]It was the LORD's will for the sake of his justice to make his teaching great and glorious.

[22]This is a people plundered and despoiled,
all of them trapped in holes,
hidden away in prisons.
They are taken as plunder, with no one to rescue them,
as spoil, with no one to say, "Give back!"
[23]Who among you will give ear to this,
listen and pay attention from now on?
[24]Who was it that gave Jacob to be despoiled,
Israel to the plunderers?
Was it not the LORD, against whom we have sinned?
In his ways they refused to walk,
his teaching they would not heed.
[25]So he poured out wrath upon them,
his anger, and the fury of battle;
It blazed all around them, yet they did not realize,
it burned them, but they did not take it to heart.

Promises of Redemption and Restoration. 43:1 But now, thus says the LORD, who created you, Jacob, and formed you, Israel:
Do not fear, for I have redeemed you;
I have called you by name: you are mine.
[2]When you pass through waters, I will be with you;
through rivers, you shall not be swept away.
When you walk through fire, you shall not be burned,
nor will flames consume you.
[3]For I, the LORD, am your God,
the Holy One of Israel, your savior.
I give Egypt as ransom for you,
Ethiopia and Seba in exchange for you.
[4]Because you are precious in my eyes
and honored, and I love you,
I give people in return for you and nations in exchange for your life.
[5]Fear not, for I am with you;
from the east I will bring back your offspring,
from the west I will gather you.
[6]I will say to the north: Give them up!
and to the south: Do not hold them!
Bring back my sons from afar,
and my daughters from the ends of the earth:
[7]All who are called by my name
I created for my glory;
I formed them, made them.
[8]Lead out the people, blind though they have eyes,
deaf though they have ears.

[9]Let all the nations gather together, let the peoples assemble!

Who among them could have declared this,
or announced to us the earlier things?
Let them produce witnesses to prove themselves right,
that one may hear and say, "It is true!"
[10]You are my witnesses—oracle of the LORD—
my servant whom I have chosen To know and believe in me and understand that I am he.
Before me no god was formed,
and after me there shall be none.
[11]I, I am the LORD;
there is no savior but me.
[12]It is I who declared, who saved,
who announced, not some strange god among you;
You are my witnesses—oracle of the LORD.
I am God,
[13]yes, from eternity I am he;
There is none who can deliver from my hand:
I act and who can cancel it?

[14]Thus says the LORD, your redeemer,
the Holy One of Israel:
For your sake I send to Babylon;
I will bring down all her defenses,
and the Chaldeans shall cry out in lamentation.
[15]I am the LORD, your Holy One,
the creator of Israel, your King.
[16]Thus says the LORD,
who opens a way in the sea,
a path in the mighty waters, [17]Who leads out chariots and horsemen,
a powerful army,
Till they lie prostrate together, never to rise,
snuffed out, quenched like a wick.
[18]Remember not the events of the past,
the things of long ago consider not;
[19]See, I am doing something new!
Now it springs forth, do you not perceive it?
In the wilderness I make a way,
in the wasteland, rivers.
[20]Wild beasts honor me,
jackals and ostriches,
For I put water in the wilderness and rivers in the wasteland
for my chosen people to drink, [21]The people whom I formed for myself,
that they might recount my praise.

[22]Yet you did not call upon me, Jacob,

for you grew weary of me, Israel.
[23]You did not bring me sheep for your burnt offerings,
nor honor me with your sacrifices.
I did not exact from you the service of offerings,
nor weary you for frankincense.
[24]You did not buy me sweet cane,
nor did you fill me with the fat of your sacrifices;
Instead, you burdened me with your sins,
wearied me with your crimes.
[25]It is I, I, who wipe out,
for my own sake, your offenses;
your sins I remember no more.
[26]Would you have me remember, have us come to trial?
Speak up, prove your innocence!
[27]Your first father sinned;
your spokesmen rebelled against me [28]Till I repudiated the holy princes, put Jacob under the ban,
exposed Israel to scorn.

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, an apostle not from human beings nor through a human being but through Jesus Christ and God the Father who raised him from the dead, [2]and all the brothers who are with me, to the churches of Galatia: [3]grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ, [4]who gave himself for our sins that he might rescue us from the present evil age in accord with the will of our God and Father, [5]to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

[6]I am amazed that you are so quickly forsaking the one who called you by [the] grace [of Christ] for a different gospel [7](not that there is another). But there are some who are disturbing you and wish to pervert the gospel of Christ. [8]But even if we or an angel from heaven should preach [to you] a gospel other than the one that we preached to you, let that one be accursed! [9]As we have said before, and now I say again, if anyone preaches to you a gospel other than the one that you received, let that one be accursed!

[10]Am I now currying favor with human beings or God? Or am I seeking to please people? If I were still trying to please people, I would not be a slave of Christ.

His Call by Christ. [11]Now I want you to know, brothers, that the gospel preached by me is not of human origin. [12]For I did not receive it from a human being, nor was I taught it, but it came through a revelation of Jesus Christ.

[13]For you heard of my former way of life in Judaism, how I persecuted the church of God beyond measure and tried to destroy it, [14]and progressed in Judaism beyond many of my contemporaries among my race, since I was even more a zealot for my ancestral traditions. [15]But when [God], who from my mother's womb had set me apart and called me through his grace, was pleased [16]to reveal his Son to me, so that I might proclaim him to the Gentiles, I did not immediately consult flesh and blood, [17]nor did I go up to Jerusalem to those who were apostles before me; rather, I went into Arabia and then returned to Damascus.

[18]Then after three years I went up to Jerusalem to confer with Cephas and remained with him for fifteen days. [19]But I did not see any other of the apostles, only James the brother of the Lord. [20](As to what I am writing to you, behold, before God, I am not lying.) [21]Then I went into the regions of Syria and Cilicia. [22]And I was unknown personally to the churches of Judea that are in Christ; [23]they only kept hearing that "the one who once was persecuting us is now preaching the faith he once tried to destroy." [24]So they glorified God because of me.

Our Lady of Mercy

There is no sinner in the world, however much at enmity with God, who cannot recover God's grace by recourse to Mary, and by asking her assistance.

☐ ISAIAH 44-45

44:1 Hear then, Jacob, my servant,
Israel, whom I have chosen.
[2]Thus says the LORD who made you,
your help, who formed you from the womb:
Do not fear, Jacob, my servant,
Jeshurun, whom I have chosen.
[3]I will pour out water upon the thirsty ground,
streams upon the dry land;
I will pour out my spirit upon your offspring,
my blessing upon your descendants.
[4]They shall spring forth amid grass
like poplars beside flowing waters.
[5]One shall say, "I am the LORD's,"
another shall be named after Jacob,
And this one shall write on his hand, "The LORD's,"
and receive the name Israel.

The True God and False Gods. [6]Thus says the LORD, Israel's king, its redeemer, the LORD of hosts:
I am the first, I am the last;
there is no God but me.
[7]Who is like me? Let him stand up and declare,
make it evident, and confront me with it.
Who of old announced future events?
Let them foretell to us the things to come.
[8]Do not fear or be troubled.
Did I not announce it to you long ago?
I declared it, and you are my witnesses.
Is there any God but me?
There is no other Rock, I know of none!

[9]Those who fashion idols are all nothing;
their precious works are of no avail.
They are their witnesses:
they see nothing, know nothing,
and so they are put to shame.
[10]Who would fashion a god or cast an idol,
that is of no use?
[11]Look, all its company will be shamed;
they are artisans, mere human beings!
They all assemble and stand there,
only to cower in shame.
[12]The ironsmith fashions a likeness,

he works it over the coals,
Shaping it with hammers,
working it with his strong arm.
With hunger his strength wanes,
without water, he grows faint.
13The woodworker stretches a line,
and marks out a shape with a stylus.
He shapes it with scraping tools,
with a compass measures it off,
Making it the copy of a man,
human display, enthroned in a shrine.
14He goes out to cut down cedars,
takes a holm tree or an oak.
He picks out for himself trees of the forest,
plants a fir, and the rain makes it grow.
15It is used for fuel:
with some of the wood he warms himself,
makes a fire and bakes bread.
Yet he makes a god and worships it,
turns it into an idol and adores it!
16Half of it he burns in the fire,
on its embers he roasts meat;
he eats the roast and is full.
He warms himself and says, "Ah!
I am warm! I see the flames!"
17The rest of it he makes into a god,
an image to worship and adore.
He prays to it and says,
"Help me! You are my god!"
18They do not know, do not understand;
their eyes are too clouded to see,
their minds, to perceive.
19He does not think clearly;
he lacks the wit and knowledge to say,
"Half the wood I burned in the fire,
on its embers I baked bread,
I roasted meat and ate.
Shall I turn the rest into an abomination?
Shall I worship a block of wood?"
20He is chasing ashes!
A deluded mind has led him astray;
He cannot save himself,
does not say, "This thing in my right hand—is it not a fraud?"

21Remember these things, Jacob,
Israel, for you are my servant!
I formed you, a servant to me;
Israel, you shall never be forgotten by me:
22I have brushed away your offenses like a cloud,
your sins like a mist;

return to me, for I have redeemed you.

[23]Raise a glad cry, you heavens—the LORD has acted!
Shout, you depths of the earth.
Break forth, mountains, into song,
forest, with all your trees.
For the LORD has redeemed Jacob, shows his glory through Israel.

Cyrus, Anointed of the Lord, Agent of Israel's Liberation. [24]Thus says the LORD, your redeemer, who formed you from the womb:
I am the LORD, who made all things,
who alone stretched out the heavens,
I spread out the earth by myself.
[25]I bring to nought the omens of babblers,
make fools of diviners,
Turn back the wise
and make their knowledge foolish.
[26]I confirm the words of my servant,
carry out the plan my messengers announce.
I say to Jerusalem, Be inhabited!
To the cities of Judah, Be rebuilt!
I will raise up their ruins.
[27]I say to the deep, Be dry!
I will dry up your rivers.
[28]I say of Cyrus, My shepherd!
He carries out my every wish,
Saying of Jerusalem, "Let it be rebuilt,"
and of the temple, "Lay its foundations."

45:1 Thus says the LORD to his anointed, Cyrus, whose right hand I grasp,
Subduing nations before him,
stripping kings of their strength,
Opening doors before him,
leaving the gates unbarred:
[2]I will go before you
and level the mountains;
Bronze doors I will shatter,
iron bars I will snap.
[3]I will give you treasures of darkness,
riches hidden away,
That you may know I am the LORD,
the God of Israel, who calls you by name.

[4]For the sake of Jacob, my servant,
of Israel my chosen one,
I have called you by name,
giving you a title, though you do not know me.
[5]I am the LORD, there is no other,
there is no God besides me.

It is I who arm you, though you do not know me,
[6]so that all may know, from the rising of the sun
to its setting, that there is none besides me.
I am the LORD, there is no other.
[7]I form the light, and create the darkness,
I make weal and create woe;
I, the LORD, do all these things.
[8]Let justice descend, you heavens, like dew from above,
like gentle rain let the clouds drop it down.
Let the earth open and salvation bud forth;
let righteousness spring up with them!
I, the LORD, have created this.
[9]Woe to anyone who contends with their Maker;
a potsherd among potsherds of the earth!
Shall the clay say to the potter, "What are you doing?"
or, "What you are making has no handles"?
[10]Woe to anyone who asks a father, "What are you begetting?"
or a woman, "What are you giving birth to?"
[11]Thus says the LORD,
the Holy One of Israel, his maker:
Do you question me about my children,
tell me how to treat the work of my hands?
[12]It was I who made the earth and created the people upon it;
It was my hands that stretched out the heavens;
I gave the order to all their host.
[13]It was I who stirred him up for justice;
all his ways I make level.
He shall rebuild my city
and let my exiles go free Without price or payment,
says the LORD of hosts.

[14]Thus says the LORD:
The earnings of Egypt, the gain of Ethiopia,
and the Sabeans, tall of stature,
Shall come over to you and belong to you;
they shall follow you, coming in chains.
Before you they shall bow down,
saying in prayer:
"With you alone is God; and there is none other,
no other god!
[15]Truly with you God is hidden,
the God of Israel, the savior!
[16]They are put to shame and disgrace, all of them;
they go in disgrace who carve images.
[17]Israel has been saved by the LORD, saved forever!
You shall never be put to shame or disgrace
in any future age."

[18]For thus says the LORD,
The creator of the heavens,
who is God,
The designer and maker of the earth
who established it,
Not as an empty waste did he create it,
but designing it to be lived in:
I am the LORD, and there is no other.
[19]I have not spoken in secret
from some place in the land of darkness,
I have not said to the descendants of Jacob,
"Look for me in an empty waste."
I, the LORD, promise justice,
I declare what is right.

[20]Come and assemble, gather together,
you fugitives from among the nations!
They are without knowledge who bear wooden idols
and pray to gods that cannot save.
[21]Come close and declare;
let them take counsel together:
Who announced this from the beginning,
declared it from of old?
Was it not I, the LORD,
besides whom there is no other God?
There is no just and saving God but me.

[22]Turn to me and be safe,
all you ends of the earth,
for I am God; there is no other!
[23]By myself I swear,
uttering my just decree,
a word that will not return:
To me every knee shall bend;
by me every tongue shall swear, [24]Saying, "Only in the LORD
are just deeds and power.
Before him in shame shall come
all who vent their anger against him.
[25]In the LORD all the descendants of Israel shall have vindication and glory."

The Council of Jerusalem. 2:1 Then after fourteen years I again went up to Jerusalem with Barnabas, taking Titus along also. [2]I went up in accord with a revelation, and I presented to them the gospel that I preach to the Gentiles—but privately to those of repute—so that I might not be running, or have run, in vain. [3]Moreover, not even Titus, who was with me, although he was a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised, [4]but because of the false brothers secretly brought in, who slipped in to spy on our freedom that we have in Christ Jesus, that they might enslave us— [5]to them we did not submit even for a moment, so that the truth of the gospel might remain intact for you. [6]But from those who were reputed to be important (what they once were makes no difference to me; God shows no partiality)—those of repute made me add nothing. [7]On the contrary, when they saw that I had been entrusted with the gospel to the uncircumcised, just as Peter to the circumcised, [8]for the one who worked in Peter for an apostolate to the circumcised worked also in me for the Gentiles, [9]and when they recognized the grace bestowed upon me, James and Cephas and John, who were reputed to be pillars, gave me and Barnabas their right hands in partnership, that we should go to the Gentiles and they to the circumcised. [10]Only, we were to be mindful of the poor, which is the very thing I was eager to do.

Peter's Inconsistency at Antioch. [11]And when Cephas came to Antioch, I opposed him to his face because he clearly was wrong. [12]For, until some people came from James, he used to eat with the Gentiles; but when they came, he began to draw back and separated himself, because he was afraid of the circumcised. [13]And the rest of the Jews [also] acted hypocritically along with him, with the result that even Barnabas was carried away by their hypocrisy. [14]But when I saw that they were not on the right road in line with the truth of the gospel, I said to Cephas in front of all, "If you, though a Jew, are living like a Gentile and not like a Jew, how can you compel the Gentiles to live like Jews?"

Faith and Works. [15]We, who are Jews by nature and not sinners from among the Gentiles, [16][yet] who know that a person is not justified by works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Christ Jesus that we may be justified by faith in Christ and not by works of the law, because by works of the law no one will be justified. [17]But if, in seeking to be justified in Christ, we ourselves are found to be sinners, is Christ then a minister of sin? Of course not! [18]But if I am building up again those things that I tore down, then I show myself to be a transgressor. [19]For through the law I died to the law, that I might live for God. I have been crucified with Christ; [20]yet I live, no longer I, but Christ lives in me; insofar as I now live in the flesh, I live by faith in the Son of God who has loved me and given himself up for me. [21]I do not nullify the grace of God; for if justification comes through the law, then Christ died for nothing.

☐ ISAIAH 46-47

The Gods of Babylon. 46:1 Bel bows down, Nebo stoops,
their idols set upon beasts and cattle;
They must be borne upon shoulders,
a load for weary animals.
[2]They stoop and bow down together;
unable to deliver those who bear them,
they too go into captivity.

[3]Hear me, O house of Jacob,
all the remnant of the house of Israel,
My burden from the womb,
whom I have carried since birth.
[4]Even to your old age I am he,
even when your hair is gray I will carry you;
I have done this, and I will lift you up,
I will carry you to safety.

[5]To whom would you liken me as an equal,
compare me, as though we were alike?
[6]There are those who pour out gold from a purse
and weigh out silver on the scales;
They hire a goldsmith to make it into a god
before which they bow down in worship.
[7]They lift it to their shoulders to carry;
when they set it down, it stays,
and does not move from the place.
They cry out to it, but it cannot answer;
it delivers no one from distress.

[8]Remember this and be firm,
take it to heart, you rebels;
[9]remember the former things, those long ago:
I am God, there is no other;
I am God, there is none like me.
[10]At the beginning I declare the outcome;
from of old, things not yet done.
I say that my plan shall stand,
I accomplish my every desire.

[11]I summon from the east a bird of prey,
from a distant land, one to carry out my plan.
Yes, I have spoken, I will accomplish it;
I have planned it, and I will do it.
[12]Listen to me, you fainthearted,
far from the victory of justice:
[13]I am bringing on that victory, it is not far off,
my salvation shall not tarry;
I will put salvation within Zion,
give to Israel my glory.

The Fall of Babylon. 47:1 Come down, sit in the dust,
virgin daughter Babylon;
Sit on the ground, dethroned,
daughter of the Chaldeans.
No longer shall you be called dainty and delicate.
[2]Take the millstone and grind flour,
remove your veil;
Strip off your skirt, bare your legs,
cross through the streams.
[3]Your nakedness shall be uncovered,
and your shame be seen;
I will take vengeance,
I will yield to no entreaty,
says [4]our redeemer,
Whose name is the LORD of hosts,
the Holy One of Israel.

[5]Go into darkness and sit in silence,
daughter of the Chaldeans,
No longer shall you be called sovereign mistress of kingdoms.
[6]Angry at my people,
I profaned my heritage
And gave them into your power;
but you showed them no mercy;
Upon the aged
you laid a very heavy yoke.
[7]You said, “I shall remain always,
a sovereign mistress forever!”
You did not take these things to heart,
but disregarded their outcome.
[8]Now hear this, voluptuous one,
enthroned securely,
Saying in your heart,
“I, and no one else!
I shall never be a widow,
bereft of my children”— [9]Both these things shall come to you suddenly, in a single day:
Complete bereavement and widowhood shall come upon you Despite your many sorceries
and the full power of your spells; [10]Secure in your wickedness,
you said, “No one sees me.”
Your wisdom and your knowledge
led you astray,
And you said in your heart,
“I, and no one else!”
[11]But upon you shall come an evil
you will not be able to charm away;
Upon you shall fall a disaster
you cannot ward off.
Upon you shall suddenly come
a ruin you cannot imagine.

[12]Keep on with your spells
and your many sorceries,
at which you toiled from your youth.
Perhaps you can prevail,
perhaps you can strike terror!
[13]You wore yourself out with so many consultations!
Let the astrologers stand forth to save you,
The stargazers who forecast at each new moon
what would happen to you.
[14]See, they are like stubble,
fire consumes them;

They cannot deliver themselves
from the spreading flames.
This is no warming ember,
no fire to sit before!
15Thus do your wizards serve you
with whom you have toiled from your youth;
They wander their separate ways,
with none to save you.

Justification by Faith. 3:1 O stupid Galatians! Who has bewitched you, before whose eyes Jesus Christ was publicly portrayed as crucified? 2I want to learn only this from you: did you receive the Spirit from works of the law, or from faith in what you heard? 3Are you so stupid? After beginning with the Spirit, are you now ending with the flesh? 4Did you experience so many things in vain?—if indeed it was in vain. 5Does, then, the one who supplies the Spirit to you and works mighty deeds among you do so from works of the law or from faith in what you heard? 6Thus Abraham "believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness."

7Realize then that it is those who have faith who are children of Abraham. 8Scripture, which saw in advance that God would justify the Gentiles by faith, foretold the good news to Abraham, saying, "Through you shall all the nations be blessed." 9Consequently, those who have faith are blessed along with Abraham who had faith. 10For all who depend on works of the law are under a curse; for it is written, "Cursed be everyone who does not persevere in doing all the things written in the book of the law." 11And that no one is justified before God by the law is clear, for "the one who is righteous by faith will live." 12But the law does not depend on faith; rather, "the one who does these things will live by them." 13Christ ransomed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us, for it is written, "Cursed be everyone who hangs on a tree," 14that the blessing of Abraham might be extended to the Gentiles through Christ Jesus, so that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.

The Law Did Not Nullify the Promise. 15Brothers, in human terms I say that no one can annul or amend even a human will once ratified. 16Now the promises were made to Abraham and to his descendant. It does not say, "And to descendants," as referring to many, but as referring to one, "And to your descendant," who is Christ. 17This is what I mean: the law, which came four hundred and thirty years afterward, does not annul a covenant previously ratified by God, so as to cancel the promise. 18For if the inheritance comes from the law, it is no longer from a promise; but God bestowed it on Abraham through a promise.

19Why, then, the law? It was added for transgressions, until the descendant came to whom the promise had been made; it was promulgated by angels at the hand of a mediator. 20Now there is no mediator when only one party is involved, and God is one. 21Is the law then opposed to the promises [of God]? Of course not! For if a law had been given that could bring life, then righteousness would in reality come from the law. 22But scripture confined all things under the power of sin, that through faith in Jesus Christ the promise might be given to those who believe.

What Faith Has Brought Us. 23Before faith came, we were held in custody under law, confined for the faith that was to be revealed. 24Consequently, the law was our disciplinarian for Christ, that we might be justified by faith. 25But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a disciplinarian. 26For through faith you are all children of God in Christ Jesus. 27For all of you who were baptized into Christ have clothed yourselves with Christ. 28There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free person, there is not male and female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus. 29And if you belong to Christ, then you are Abraham's descendant, heirs according to the promise.

☐ ISAIAH 48-49

Exhortations to the Exiles. 48:1 Hear this, house of Jacob called by the name Israel,
sprung from the stock of Judah,
You who swear by the name of the LORD and invoke the God of Israel
without sincerity, without justice, [2]Though you are named after the holy city
and rely on the God of Israel,
whose name is the LORD of hosts.
[3]Things of the past I declared long ago,
they went forth from my mouth, I announced them;
then suddenly I took action and they came to be.
[4]Because I know that you are stubborn and that your neck is an iron sinew
and your forehead bronze, [5]I declared them to you of old;
before they took place I informed you,
That you might not say, "My idol did them,
my statue, my molten image commanded them."
[6]Now that you have heard, look at all this;
must you not admit it?
From now on I announce new things to you,
hidden events you never knew.
[7]Now, not from of old, they are created,
before today you did not hear of them,
so that you cannot claim, "I have known them."
[8]You never heard, you never knew,
they never reached your ears beforehand.
Yes, I know you are utterly treacherous,
a rebel you were named from the womb.
[9]For the sake of my name I restrain my anger,
for the sake of my renown I hold it back from you,
lest I destroy you.
[10]See, I refined you, but not like silver;
I tested you in the furnace of affliction.
[11]For my sake, for my own sake, I do this;
why should my name be profaned?
My glory I will not give to another.

[12]Listen to me, Jacob,
Israel, whom I called!
I, it is I who am the first,
and am I the last.
[13]Yes, my hand laid the foundations of the earth;
my right hand spread out the heavens.
When I summon them,

they stand forth at once.

[14]All of you assemble and listen:
Who among you declared these things?
The one the LORD loves shall do his will against Babylon and the offspring of Chaldea.
[15]I myself have spoken, I have summoned him,
I have brought him, and his way succeeds!
[16]Come near to me and hear this!
From the beginning I did not speak in secret;
At the time it happens, I am there:
"Now the Lord GOD has sent me, and his spirit."

[17]Thus says the LORD, your redeemer,
the Holy One of Israel:
I am the LORD, your God,
teaching you how to prevail,
leading you on the way you should go.
[18]If only you would attend to my commandments,
your peace would be like a river,
your vindication like the waves of the sea, [19]Your descendants like the sand,
the offspring of your loins like its grains,
Their name never cut off
or blotted out from my presence.
[20]Go forth from Babylon, flee from Chaldea!
With shouts of joy declare this, announce it;
Make it known to the ends of the earth,
Say: "The LORD has redeemed his servant Jacob.
[21]They did not thirst
when he led them through dry lands;
Water from the rock he set flowing for them;
he cleft the rock, and waters welled forth."

[22]There is no peace for the wicked,
says the LORD.

The Servant of the Lord. 49:1 Hear me, coastlands,
listen, distant peoples.
Before birth the LORD called me,
from my mother's womb he gave me my name.
[2]He made my mouth like a sharp-edged sword, concealed me, shielded by his hand.
He made me a sharpened arrow,
in his quiver he hid me.
[3]He said to me, You are my servant,
in you, Israel, I show my glory.

[4]Though I thought I had toiled in vain,
for nothing and for naught spent my strength,
Yet my right is with the LORD,

my recompense is with my God.
[5]For now the LORD has spoken
who formed me as his servant from the womb, That Jacob may be brought back to him
and Israel gathered to him;
I am honored in the sight of the LORD,
and my God is now my strength!
[6]It is too little, he says, for you to be my servant,
to raise up the tribes of Jacob,
and restore the survivors of Israel;
I will make you a light to the nations,
that my salvation may reach to the ends of the earth.
[7]Thus says the LORD,
the redeemer, the Holy One of Israel,
To the one despised, abhorred by the nations,
the slave of rulers:
When kings see you, they shall stand up,
and princes shall bow down
Because of the LORD who is faithful,
the Holy One of Israel who has chosen you.

The Liberation and Restoration of Zion. [8]Thus says the LORD:
In a time of favor I answer you,
on the day of salvation I help you;
I form you and set you
as a covenant for the people,
To restore the land
and allot the devastated heritages, [9]To say to the prisoners: Come out!
To those in darkness: Show yourselves!
Along the roadways they shall find pasture,
on every barren height shall their pastures be.
[10]They shall not hunger or thirst;
nor shall scorching wind or sun strike them;
For he who pities them leads them
and guides them beside springs of water.
[11]I will turn all my mountains into roadway,
and make my highways level.
[12]See, these shall come from afar:
some from the north and the west,
others from the land of Syene.

[13]Sing out, heavens, and rejoice, earth,
break forth into song, you mountains,
For the LORD comforts his people
and shows mercy to his afflicted.

[14]But Zion said, "The LORD has forsaken me;
my Lord has forgotten me."
[15]Can a mother forget her infant,
be without tenderness for the child of her womb?

Even should she forget,
I will never forget you.
16 See, upon the palms of my hands I have engraved you;
your walls are ever before me.
17 Your children hasten—
your levelers, your destroyers
go forth from you;
18 Look about and see,
they are all gathering and coming to you.
As I live—oracle of the LORD—
you shall don them as jewels,
bedeck yourself like a bride.

19 Though you were waste and desolate,
a land of ruins,
Now you shall be too narrow for your inhabitants,
while those who swallowed you up will be far away.
20 The children of whom you were bereft shall yet say in your hearing,
"This place is too narrow for me,
make room for me to live in."
21 You shall ask yourself:
"Who has borne me these,
when I was bereft and barren?
Exiled and repudiated,
who has reared them?
I was left all alone;
where then do these come from?"
22 Thus says the Lord GOD:
See, I will lift up my hand to the nations,
and to the peoples raise my signal;
They shall bring your sons in their arms,
your daughters shall be carried on their shoulders.
23 Kings shall be your guardians,
their princesses your nursemaids;
Face to the ground, they shall bow down before you
and lick the dust at your feet.
Then you shall know that I am the LORD,
none who hope in me shall be ashamed.
24 Can plunder be taken from a warrior, or captives rescued from a tyrant?
25 Thus says the LORD:
Yes, captives can be taken from a warrior,
and plunder rescued from a tyrant;
Those who oppose you I will oppose,
and your sons I will save.
26 I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh,
and they shall be drunk with their own blood
as though with new wine.
All flesh shall know that I, the LORD, am your savior,

your redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

God's Free Children in Christ. 4:1 I mean that as long as the heir is not of age, he is no different from a slave, although he is the owner of everything, [2]but he is under the supervision of guardians and administrators until the date set by his father. [3]In the same way we also, when we were not of age, were enslaved to the elemental powers of the world. [4]But when the fullness of time had come, God sent his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, [5]to ransom those under the law, so that we might receive adoption. [6]As proof that you are children, God sent the spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying out, "Abba, Father!" [7]So you are no longer a slave but a child, and if a child then also an heir, through God.

Do Not Throw This Freedom Away. [8]At a time when you did not know God, you became slaves to things that by nature are not gods; [9]but now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how can you turn back again to the weak and destitute elemental powers? Do you want to be slaves to them all over again? [10]You are observing days, months, seasons, and years. [11]I am afraid on your account that perhaps I have labored for you in vain.

Appeal to Former Loyalty. [12]I implore you, brothers, be as I am, because I have also become as you are. You did me no wrong; [13]you know that it was because of a physical illness that I originally preached the gospel to you, [14]and you did not show disdain or contempt because of the trial caused you by my physical condition, but rather you received me as an angel of God, as Christ Jesus. [15]Where now is that blessedness of yours? Indeed, I can testify to you that, if it had been possible, you would have torn out your eyes and given them to me. [16]So now have I become your enemy by telling you the truth? [17]They show interest in you, but not in a good way; they want to isolate you, so that you may show interest in them. [18]Now it is good to be shown interest for good reason at all times, and not only when I am with you. [19]My children, for whom I am again in labor until Christ be formed in you! [20]I would like to be with you now and to change my tone, for I am perplexed because of you.

An Allegory on Christian Freedom. [21]Tell me, you who want to be under the law, do you not listen to the law? [22]For it is written that Abraham had two sons, one by the slave woman and the other by the freeborn woman. [23]The son of the slave woman was born naturally, the son of the freeborn through a promise. [24]Now this is an allegory. These women represent two covenants. One was from Mount Sinai, bearing children for slavery; this is Hagar. [25]Hagar represents Sinai, a mountain in Arabia; it corresponds to the present Jerusalem, for she is in slavery along with her children. [26]But the Jerusalem above is freeborn, and she is our mother. [27]For it is written:

"Rejoice, you barren one who bore no children;
break forth and shout, you who were not in labor;
for more numerous are the children of the deserted one than of her who has a husband."

[28]Now you, brothers, like Isaac, are children of the promise. [29]But just as then the child of the flesh persecuted the child of the spirit, it is the same now. [30]But what does the scripture say?

"Drive out the slave woman and her son!
For the son of the slave woman shall not share the inheritance with the son" of the freeborn. [31]Therefore, brothers, we are children not of the slave woman but of the freeborn woman.

☐ ISAIAH 50-51

Salvation Through the Lord's Servant. 50:1 Thus says the LORD:
Where is the bill of divorce
with which I dismissed your mother?
Or to which of my creditors
have I sold you?
It was for your sins you were sold,
for your rebellions your mother was dismissed.

2 Why was no one there when I came?
Why did no one answer when I called?
Is my hand too short to ransom?
Have I not the strength to deliver?
See, with my rebuke I dry up the sea,
I turn rivers into wilderness;
Their fish rot for lack of water,
and die of thirst.
3 I clothe the heavens in black,
and make sackcloth their covering.

4 The Lord GOD has given me
a well-trained tongue,
That I might know how to answer the weary
a word that will waken them.
Morning after morning
he wakens my ear to hear as disciples do;
5 The Lord GOD opened my ear;
I did not refuse,
did not turn away.
6 I gave my back to those who beat me,
my cheeks to those who tore out my beard;
My face I did not hide
from insults and spitting.

7 The Lord GOD is my help,
therefore I am not disgraced;
Therefore I have set my face like flint,
knowing that I shall not be put to shame.
8 He who declares my innocence is near.
Who will oppose me?
Let us appear together.
Who will dispute my right?
Let them confront me.
9 See, the Lord GOD is my help;
who will declare me guilty?

See, they will all wear out like a garment,
consumed by moths.
10 Who among you fears the LORD,
heeds his servant's voice?
Whoever walk in darkness,
without any light,
Yet trust in the name of the LORD
and rely upon their God!
11 All you who kindle flames
and set flares alight,
Walk by the light of your own fire
and by the flares you have burnt!
This is your fate from my hand:
you shall lie down in a place of torment.

Exhortation To Trust in the Lord. 51:1 Listen to me, you who pursue justice, who seek the LORD;
Look to the rock from which you were hewn,
to the quarry from which you were taken;
2 Look to Abraham, your father,
and to Sarah, who gave you birth;
Though he was but one when I called him,
I blessed him and made him many.
3 Yes, the LORD shall comfort Zion,
shall comfort all her ruins;
Her wilderness he shall make like Eden,
her wasteland like the garden of the LORD;
Joy and gladness shall be found in her,
thanksgiving and the sound of song.

4 Be attentive to me, my people;
my nation, give ear to me.
For teaching shall go forth from me,
and my judgment, as light to the peoples.
5 I will make my victory come swiftly;
my salvation shall go forth
and my arm shall judge the nations;
In me the coastlands shall hope,
and my arm they shall await.

6 Raise your eyes to the heavens,
look at the earth below;
Though the heavens vanish like smoke,
the earth wear out like a garment
and its inhabitants die like flies,
My salvation shall remain forever
and my victory shall always be firm.
7 Hear me, you who know justice,
you people who have my teaching at heart:
Do not fear the reproach of others;
remain firm at their revilings.

[8]They shall be like a garment eaten by moths,
like wool consumed by grubs;
But my victory shall remain forever,
my salvation, for all generations.

[9]Awake, awake, put on strength,
arm of the LORD!
Awake as in the days of old,
in ages long ago!
Was it not you who crushed Rahab,
you who pierced the dragon?
[10]Was it not you who dried up the sea,
the waters of the great deep,
You who made the depths of the sea into a way for the redeemed to pass through?
[11]Those whom the LORD has ransomed will return
and enter Zion singing,
crowned with everlasting joy;
They will meet with joy and gladness,
sorrow and mourning will flee.

[12]I, it is I who comfort you.
Can you then fear mortals who die,
human beings who are just grass, [13]And forget the LORD, your maker,
who stretched out the heavens
and laid the foundations of earth?
All the day you are in constant dread
of the fury of the oppressor
When he prepares himself to destroy;
but where is the oppressor's fury?

[14]The captives shall soon be released;
they shall not die and go down into the pit,
nor shall they want for bread.
[15]For I am the LORD, your God,
who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar;
the LORD of hosts by name.
[16]I have put my words into your mouth,
I covered you, shielded by my hand,
Stretching out the heavens,
laying the foundations of the earth,
saying to Zion: You are my people.

The Cup of the Lord. [17]Wake up, wake up!
Arise, Jerusalem,
You who drank at the LORD's hand
the cup of his wrath;
Who drained to the dregs
the bowl of staggering!
[18]She has no one to guide her

of all the children she bore;
She has no one to take her by the hand,
of all the children she reared!— 19 Your misfortunes are double;
who is there to grieve with you?
Desolation and destruction, famine and sword!
Who is there to comfort you?
20 Your children lie helpless
at every street corner
like antelopes in a net.
They are filled with the wrath of the LORD,
the rebuke of your God.

21 But now, hear this, afflicted one,
drunk, but not with wine,
22 Thus says the LORD, your Master,
your God, who defends his people:
See, I am taking from your hand
the cup of staggering;
The bowl of my wrath
you shall no longer drink.
23 I will put it into the hands of your tormentors,
those who said to you,
"Bow down, that we may walk over you."
So you offered your back like the ground,
like the street for them to walk on.

The Importance of Faith. 5:1 For freedom Christ set us free; so stand firm and do not submit again to the yoke of slavery.

2 It is I, Paul, who am telling you that if you have yourselves circumcised, Christ will be of no benefit to you. 3 Once again I declare to every man who has himself circumcised that he is bound to observe the entire law. 4 You are separated from Christ, you who are trying to be justified by law; you have fallen from grace. 5 For through the Spirit, by faith, we await the hope of righteousness. 6 For in Christ Jesus, neither circumcision nor uncircumcision counts for anything, but only faith working through love.

Be Not Misled. 7 You were running well; who hindered you from following [the] truth? 8 That enticement does not come from the one who called you. 9 A little yeast leavens the whole batch of dough. 10 I am confident of you in the Lord that you will not take a different view, and that the one who is troubling you will bear the condemnation, whoever he may be. 11 As for me, brothers, if I am still preaching circumcision, why am I still being persecuted? In that case, the stumbling block of the cross has been abolished. 12 Would that those who are upsetting you might also castrate themselves!

Freedom for Service. 13 For you were called for freedom, brothers. But do not use this freedom as an opportunity for the flesh; rather, serve one another through love. 14 For the whole law is fulfilled in one statement, namely, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself." 15 But if you go on biting and devouring one another, beware that you are not consumed by one another.

16 I say, then: live by the Spirit and you will certainly not gratify the desire of the flesh. 17 For the flesh has desires against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; these are opposed to each other, so that you may not do what you want. 18 But if you are guided by the Spirit, you are not under the law. 19 Now the works of the flesh are obvious: immorality, impurity, licentiousness, 20 idolatry, sorcery, hatreds, rivalry, jealousy, outbursts of fury, acts of selfishness, dissensions, factions, [21]occasions of envy, drinking bouts, orgies, and the like. I warn you, as I warned you before, that those who do such things will not inherit the kingdom of God. [22]In contrast, the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, generosity, faithfulness, [23]gentleness, self-control. Against such there is no law. [24]Now those who belong to Christ [Jesus] have crucified their flesh with its passions and desires. [25]If we live in the Spirit, let us also follow the Spirit. [26]Let us not be conceited, provoking one another, envious of one another.

St. Wenceslaus; St. Lawrence Ruiz and Companions

We ought to make some progress, however little, every day, and show some increase of fervor. We ought to act as if we were at war — as, indeed, we are — and never relax until we have won the victory.

☐ ISAIAH 52-53

Let Zion Rejoice. 52:1 Awake, awake!
Put on your strength, Zion;
Put on your glorious garments,
Jerusalem, holy city.
Never again shall the uncircumcised
or the unclean enter you.
[2]Arise, shake off the dust,
sit enthroned, Jerusalem;
Loose the bonds from your neck,
captive daughter Zion!
[3]For thus says the LORD:
For nothing you were sold,
without money you shall be redeemed.

[4]For thus says the Lord GOD:
To Egypt long ago my people went down,
to sojourn there;
Assyria, too, oppressed them for nought.
[5]But now, what am I to do here?
—oracle of the LORD.
My people have been taken away for nothing;
their rulers mock, oracle of the LORD;
constantly, every day, my name is reviled.
[6]Therefore my people shall know my name
on that day, that it is I who speaks: Here I am!
[7]How beautiful upon the mountains
are the feet of the one bringing good news, Announcing peace, bearing good news,
announcing salvation, saying to Zion,
"Your God is King!"

[8]Listen! Your sentinels raise a cry, together they shout for joy,

For they see directly, before their eyes,
the LORD's return to Zion.
[9]Break out together in song,
O ruins of Jerusalem!
For the LORD has comforted his people,
has redeemed Jerusalem.
[10]The LORD has bared his holy arm
in the sight of all the nations;
All the ends of the earth can see the salvation of our God.

[11]Depart, depart, go out from there,
touch nothing unclean!
Out from there! Purify yourselves,
you who carry the vessels of the LORD.
[12]But not in hurried flight will you go out,
nor leave in headlong haste,
For the LORD goes before you,
and your rear guard is the God of Israel.

Suffering and Triumph of the Servant of the Lord. [13]See, my servant shall prosper,
he shall be raised high and greatly exalted.
[14]Even as many were amazed at him—
so marred were his features, beyond that of mortals
his appearance, beyond that of human beings—[15]So shall he startle many nations,
kings shall stand speechless;
For those who have not been told shall see,
those who have not heard shall ponder it.

53:1 Who would believe what we have heard?
To whom has the arm of the LORD been revealed?
[2]He grew up like a sapling before him,
like a shoot from the parched earth;
He had no majestic bearing to catch our eye,
no beauty to draw us to him.
[3]He was spurned and avoided by men,
a man of suffering, knowing pain,
Like one from whom you turn your face,
spurned, and we held him in no esteem.

[4]Yet it was our pain that he bore,
our sufferings he endured.
We thought of him as stricken,
struck down by God and afflicted, [5]But he was pierced for our sins,
crushed for our iniquity.
He bore the punishment that makes us whole,
by his wounds we were healed.
[6]We had all gone astray like sheep,

all following our own way;
But the LORD laid upon him
the guilt of us all.

[7]Though harshly treated, he submitted
and did not open his mouth;
Like a lamb led to slaughter
or a sheep silent before shearers,
he did not open his mouth.
[8]Seized and condemned, he was taken away.
Who would have thought any more of his destiny?
For he was cut off from the land of the living,
struck for the sins of his people.
[9]He was given a grave among the wicked,
a burial place with evildoers,
Though he had done no wrong,
nor was deceit found in his mouth.
[10]But it was the LORD's will to crush him with pain.
By making his life as a reparation offering,
he shall see his offspring, shall lengthen his days,
and the LORD's will shall be accomplished through him.
[11]Because of his anguish he shall see the light;
because of his knowledge he shall be content;
My servant, the just one, shall justify the many,
their iniquity he shall bear.
[12]Therefore I will give him his portion among the many,
and he shall divide the spoils with the mighty,
Because he surrendered himself to death,
was counted among the transgressors, Bore the sins of many,
and interceded for the transgressors.

Life in the Community of Christ. 6:1 Brothers, even if a person is caught in some transgression, you who are spiritual should correct that one in a gentle spirit, looking to yourself, so that you also may not be tempted. [2]Bear one another's burdens, and so you will fulfill the law of Christ. [3]For if anyone thinks he is something when he is nothing, he is deluding himself. [4]Each one must examine his own work, and then he will have reason to boast with regard to himself alone, and not with regard to someone else; [5]for each will bear his own load.

[6]One who is being instructed in the word should share all good things with his instructor. [7]Make no mistake: God is not mocked, for a person will reap only what he sows, [8]because the one who sows for his flesh will reap corruption from the flesh, but the one who sows for the spirit will reap eternal life from the spirit. [9]Let us not grow tired of doing good, for in due time we shall reap our harvest, if we do not give up. [10]So then, while we have the opportunity, let us do good to all, but especially to those who belong to the family of the faith.

Final Appeal. [11]See with what large letters I am writing to you in my own hand! [12]It is those who want to make a good appearance in the flesh who are trying to compel you to have yourselves circumcised, only that they may not be persecuted for the cross of Christ. [13]Not even those having themselves circumcised observe the law themselves; they only want you to be circumcised so that they may boast of your flesh. [14]But may I never boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, through which the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world. [15]For neither does circumcision mean anything, nor does uncircumcision, but only a new creation. [16]Peace and mercy be to all who follow this rule and to the Israel of God.

[17]From now on, let no one make troubles for me; for I bear the marks of Jesus on my body.

[18]The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit, brothers. Amen.

Sts. Michael, Gabriel, and Raphael

> The angels are the guardians of the divisions of the earth; they are set over nations and regions allotted to them by their Creator. They govern all our affairs and bring us help. Why? Surely, because they are set over us by God's will and command, and they are always near Him.

☐ ISAIAH 54-55

The New Zion. 54:1 Raise a glad cry, you barren one who never bore a child, break forth in jubilant song, you who have never been in labor,
For more numerous are the children of the deserted wife
than the children of her who has a husband,
says the LORD.
[2]Enlarge the space for your tent,
spread out your tent cloths unsparingly;
lengthen your ropes and make firm your pegs.
[3]For you shall spread abroad to the right and left;
your descendants shall dispossess the nations
and shall people the deserted cities.

[4]Do not fear, you shall not be put to shame;
do not be discouraged, you shall not be disgraced.
For the shame of your youth you shall forget,
the reproach of your widowhood no longer remember.
[5]For your husband is your Maker;
the LORD of hosts is his name,
Your redeemer, the Holy One of Israel, called God of all the earth.

[6]The LORD calls you back,
like a wife forsaken and grieved in spirit,
A wife married in youth and then cast off,
says your God.
[7]For a brief moment I abandoned you,
but with great tenderness I will take you back.
[8]In an outburst of wrath, for a moment
I hid my face from you;
But with enduring love I take pity on you,
says the LORD, your redeemer.

[9]This is for me like the days of Noah:
As I swore then that the waters of Noah
should never again flood the earth,
So I have sworn now not to be angry with you,
or to rebuke you.
[10]Though the mountains fall away
and the hills be shaken,
My love shall never fall away from you
nor my covenant of peace be shaken, says the LORD, who has mercy on you.

[11]O afflicted one, storm-battered and unconsoled,
I lay your pavements in carnelians,
your foundations in sapphires;
[12]I will make your battlements of rubies,
your gates of jewels,
and all your walls of precious stones.
[13]All your children shall be taught by the LORD;
great shall be the peace of your children.
[14]In justice shall you be established,
far from oppression, you shall not fear,
from destruction, it cannot come near.
[15]If there be an attack, it is not my doing;
whoever attacks shall fall before you.

[16]See, I have created the smith who blows on the burning coals
and forges weapons as his work;
It is I also who have created the destroyer to work havoc.
[17]Every weapon fashioned against you shall fail;
every tongue that brings you to trial
you shall prove false.

This is the lot of the servants of the LORD,
their vindication from me—oracle of the LORD.

An Invitation to Grace. 55:1 All you who are thirsty,
come to the water!
You who have no money,
come, buy grain and eat;
Come, buy grain without money,
wine and milk without cost!
[2]Why spend your money for what is not bread;
your wages for what does not satisfy?
Only listen to me, and you shall eat well,
you shall delight in rich fare.
[3]Pay attention and come to me;
listen, that you may have life.
I will make with you an everlasting covenant,
the steadfast loyalty promised to David.

[4]As I made him a witness to peoples,
a leader and commander of peoples,
[5]So shall you summon a nation you knew not,
and a nation that knew you not shall run to you,
Because of the LORD, your God,
the Holy One of Israel, who has glorified you.

[6]Seek the LORD while he may be found,
call upon him while he is near.
[7]Let the wicked forsake their way,
and sinners their thoughts;
Let them turn to the LORD to find mercy;
to our God, who is generous in forgiving.
[8]For my thoughts are not your thoughts,
nor are your ways my ways—oracle of the LORD.
[9]For as the heavens are higher than the earth,
so are my ways higher than your ways,
my thoughts higher than your thoughts.

[10]Yet just as from the heavens
the rain and snow come down
And do not return there till they have watered the earth,
making it fertile and fruitful, Giving seed to the one who sows
and bread to the one who eats, [11]So shall my word be
that goes forth from my mouth;
It shall not return to me empty,
but shall do what pleases me,
achieving the end for which I sent it.

[12]Yes, in joy you shall go forth,
in peace you shall be brought home;
Mountains and hills shall break out in song before you,
all trees of the field shall clap their hands.
[13]In place of the thornbush, the cypress shall grow, instead of nettles, the myrtle.
This shall be to the LORD's renown,
as an everlasting sign that shall not fail.

☐ PHILIPPIANS 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul and Timothy, slaves of Christ Jesus, to all the holy ones in Christ Jesus who are in Philippi, with the overseers and ministers: [2]grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving. [3]I give thanks to my God at every remembrance of you, [4]praying always with joy in my every prayer for all of you, [5]because of your partnership for the gospel from the first day until now. [6]I am confident of this, that the one who began a good work in you will continue to complete it until the day of Christ Jesus. [7]It is right that I should think this way about all of you, because I hold you in my heart, you who are all partners with me in grace, both in my imprisonment and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel. [8]For God is my witness, how I long for all of you with the affection of Christ Jesus. [9]And this is my prayer: that your love may increase ever more and more in knowledge and every kind of perception, [10]to discern what is of value, so that you may be pure and blameless for the day of Christ, [11]filled with the fruit of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ for the glory and praise of God.

[12]I want you to know, brothers, that my situation has turned out rather to advance the gospel, [13]so that my imprisonment has become well known in Christ throughout the whole praetorium and to all the rest, [14]and so that the majority of the brothers, having taken encouragement in the Lord from my imprisonment, dare more than ever to proclaim the word fearlessly.

[15]Of course, some preach Christ from envy and rivalry, others from good will. [16]The latter act out of love, aware that I am here for the defense of the gospel; [17]the former proclaim Christ out of selfish ambition, not from pure motives, thinking that they will cause me trouble in my imprisonment. [18]What difference does it make, as long as in every way, whether in pretense or in truth, Christ is being proclaimed? And in that I rejoice.

Indeed I shall continue to rejoice, [19]for I know that this will result in deliverance for me through your prayers and support from the Spirit of Jesus Christ. [20]My eager expectation and hope is that I shall not be put to shame in any way, but that with all boldness, now as always, Christ will be magnified in my body, whether by life or by death. [21]For to me life is Christ, and death is gain. [22]If I go on living in the flesh, that means fruitful labor for me. And I do not know which I shall choose. [23]I am caught between the two. I long to depart this life and be with Christ, [for] that is far better. [24]Yet that I remain [in] the flesh is more necessary for your benefit. [25]And this I know with confidence, that I shall remain and continue in the service of all of you for your progress and joy in the faith, [26]so that your boasting in Christ Jesus may abound on account of me when I come to you again.

Steadfastness in Faith. [27]Only, conduct yourselves in a way worthy of the gospel of Christ, so that, whether I come and see you or am absent, I may hear news of you, that you are standing firm in one spirit, with one mind struggling together for the faith of the gospel, [28]not intimidated in any way by your opponents. This is proof to them of destruction, but of your salvation. And this is God's doing. [29]For to you has been granted, for the sake of Christ, not only to believe in him but also to suffer for him. [30]Yours is the same struggle as you saw in me and now hear about me.

St. Jerome

> True friendship can harbor no suspicion. A friend must speak to a friend as freely as to his second self.
>
> — St. Jerome

☐ ISAIAH 56-57

Salvation for the Just. 56:1 Thus says the LORD:
Observe what is right, do what is just,
for my salvation is about to come,
my justice, about to be revealed.
[2]Happy is the one who does this,
whoever holds fast to it:
Keeping the sabbath without profaning it,
keeping one's hand from doing any evil.

Obligations and Promises To Share in the Covenant. [3]The foreigner joined to the LORD should not say,
"The LORD will surely exclude me from his people";
Nor should the eunuch say,
"See, I am a dry tree."

[4]For thus says the LORD:
To the eunuchs who keep my sabbaths,
who choose what pleases me,
and who hold fast to my covenant,
[5]I will give them, in my house and within my walls, a monument and a name Better than sons and daughters;
an eternal name, which shall not be cut off, will I give them.
[6]And foreigners who join themselves to the LORD,
to minister to him,
To love the name of the LORD,
to become his servants—
All who keep the sabbath without profaning it and hold fast to my covenant, [7]Them I will bring to my holy mountain
and make them joyful in my house of prayer;
Their burnt offerings and their sacrifices
will be acceptable on my altar,
For my house shall be called a house of prayer for all peoples.
[8]Oracle of the Lord GOD,
who gathers the dispersed of Israel—
Others will I gather to them
besides those already gathered.

Unworthy Shepherds. [9]All you beasts of the field,
come to devour,
all you beasts in the forest!
[10]All the sentinels of Israel are blind,
they are without knowledge;
They are all mute dogs,
unable to bark;
Dreaming, reclining,
loving their sleep.
[11]Yes, the dogs have a ravenous appetite;
they never know satiety,
Shepherds who have no understanding;
all have turned their own way,
each one covetous for gain:
[12]"Come, let me bring wine;
let us fill ourselves with strong drink,
And tomorrow will be like today,
or even greater."

57:1 The just have perished,
but no one takes it to heart;
The steadfast are swept away,
while no one understands.
Yet the just are taken away from the presence of evil,
[2]and enter into peace;

They rest upon their couches,
the sincere, who walk in integrity.

An Idolatrous People. [3]But you, draw near,
you children of a sorceress,
offspring of an adulterer and a prostitute!
[4]Against whom do you make sport,
against whom do you open wide your mouth,
and stick out your tongue?
Are you not rebellious children,
deceitful offspring—
[5]You who burn with lust among the oaks,
under every green tree;
You who immolate children in the wadies,
among the clefts of the rocks?
[6]Among the smooth stones of the wadi is your portion,
they, they are your allotment;
Indeed, you poured out a drink offering to them,
and brought up grain offerings.
With these things, should I be appeased?
[7]Upon a towering and lofty mountain
you set up your bed,
and there you went up to offer sacrifice.
[8]Behind the door and the doorpost
you set up your symbol.
Yes, deserting me, you carried up your bedding;
and spread it wide.
You entered an agreement with them,
you loved their couch, you gazed upon nakedness.
[9]You approached the king with oil,
and multiplied your perfumes;
You sent your ambassadors far away,
down even to deepest Sheol.
[10]Though worn out with the length of your journey,
you never said, "It is hopeless";
You found your strength revived,
and so you did not weaken.
[11]Whom did you dread and fear,
that you told lies,
And me you did not remember
nor take to heart?
Am I to keep silent and conceal,
while you show no fear of me?
[12]I will proclaim your justice
and your works;
but they shall not help you.
[13]When you cry out,
let your collection of idols save you.
All these the wind shall carry off,
a mere breath shall bear them away;

But whoever takes refuge in me shall inherit the land,
and possess my holy mountain.

The Way to Peace for God's People. [14]And I say:
Build up, build up, prepare the way,
remove every obstacle from my people's way.
[15]For thus says the high and lofty One,
the One who dwells forever, whose name is holy:
I dwell in a high and holy place,
but also with the contrite and lowly of spirit,
To revive the spirit of the lowly,
to revive the heart of the crushed.
[16]For I will not accuse forever,
nor always be angry;
For without me their spirit fails,
the life breath that I have given.
[17]Because of their wicked avarice I grew angry;
I struck them, hiding myself from them in wrath.
But they turned back, following the way
of their own heart.
[18]I saw their ways,
but I will heal them.
I will lead them and restore full comfort to them
and to those who mourn for them, [19]creating words of comfort.
Peace! Peace to those who are far and near,
says the LORD; and I will heal them.
[20]But the wicked are like the tossing sea
which cannot be still,
Its waters cast up mire and mud.
[21]There is no peace for the wicked!
says my God.

□ PHILIPPIANS 2

Plea for Unity and Humility. 2:1 If there is any encouragement in Christ, any solace in love, any participation in the Spirit, any compassion and mercy, [2]complete my joy by being of the same mind, with the same love, united in heart, thinking one thing. [3]Do nothing out of selfishness or out of vainglory; rather, humbly regard others as more important than yourselves, [4]each looking out not for his own interests, but [also] everyone for those of others.
[5]Have among yourselves the same attitude that is also yours in Christ Jesus,

[6]Who, though he was in the form of God,
did not regard equality with God something to be grasped.
[7]Rather, he emptied himself,
taking the form of a slave,
coming in human likeness;
and found human in appearance, [8]he humbled himself,
becoming obedient to death, even death on a cross.
[9]Because of this, God greatly exalted him and bestowed on him the name

that is above every name, [10]that at the name of Jesus
every knee should bend,
of those in heaven and on earth and under the earth, [11]and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord,
to the glory of God the Father.

Obedience and Service in the World. [12]So then, my beloved, obedient as you have always been, not only when I am present but all the more now when I am absent, work out your salvation with fear and trembling. [13]For God is the one who, for his good purpose, works in you both to desire and to work. [14]Do everything without grumbling or questioning, [15]that you may be blameless and innocent, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom you shine like lights in the world, [16]as you hold on to the word of life, so that my boast for the day of Christ may be that I did not run in vain or labor in vain. [17]But, even if I am poured out as a libation upon the sacrificial service of your faith, I rejoice and share my joy with all of you. [18]In the same way you also should rejoice and share your joy with me.

Timothy and Paul. [19]I hope, in the Lord Jesus, to send Timothy to you soon, so that I too may be heartened by hearing news of you. [20]For I have no one comparable to him for genuine interest in whatever concerns you. [21]For they all seek their own interests, not those of Jesus Christ. [22]But you know his worth, how as a child with a father he served along with me in the cause of the gospel. [23]He it is, then, whom I hope to send as soon as I see how things go with me, [24]but I am confident in the Lord that I myself will also come soon.

Epaphroditus. [25]With regard to Epaphroditus, my brother and co-worker and fellow soldier, your messenger and minister in my need, I consider it necessary to send him to you. [26]For he has been longing for all of you and was distressed because you heard that he was ill. [27]He was indeed ill, close to death; but God had mercy on him, not just on him but also on me, so that I might not have sorrow upon sorrow. [28]I send him therefore with the greater eagerness, so that, on seeing him, you may rejoice again, and I may have less anxiety. [29]Welcome him then in the Lord with all joy and hold such people in esteem, [30]because for the sake of the work of Christ he came close to death, risking his life to make up for those services to me that you could not perform.

St. Thérèse of Lisieux

Even a little child can scatter flowers, to scent the throne room with their fragrance; even a little child can sing, in its shrill treble, the great canticle of Love. That will be my life: to scatter flowers — to miss no single opportunity of making some small sacrifice, here by a smiling look, there by a kindly word, always doing the tiniest things right, and doing it for love.

— St. Thérèse of Lisieux

☐ ISAIAH 58-59

Reasons for Judgment. 58:1 Cry out full-throated and unsparingly, lift up your voice like a trumpet blast;
Proclaim to my people their transgression,
to the house of Jacob their sins.
[2]They seek me day after day,
and desire to know my ways,
Like a nation that has done what is just
and not abandoned the judgment of their God;
They ask of me just judgments,
they desire to draw near to God.
[3]"Why do we fast, but you do not see it?
afflict ourselves, but you take no note?"
See, on your fast day you carry out your own pursuits,
and drive all your laborers.
[4]See, you fast only to quarrel and fight
and to strike with a wicked fist!
Do not fast as you do today
to make your voice heard on high!
[5]Is this the manner of fasting I would choose,
a day to afflict oneself?
To bow one's head like a reed,
and lie upon sackcloth and ashes?
Is this what you call a fast,
a day acceptable to the LORD?

Authentic Fasting That Leads to Blessing. [6]Is this not, rather, the fast that I choose:
releasing those bound unjustly,
untying the thongs of the yoke;
Setting free the oppressed,
breaking off every yoke?
[7]Is it not sharing your bread with the hungry,
bringing the afflicted and the homeless into your house;
Clothing the naked when you see them,
and not turning your back on your own flesh?
[8]Then your light shall break forth like the dawn,
and your wound shall quickly be healed;
Your vindication shall go before you,
and the glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard.

[9]Then you shall call, and the LORD will answer, you shall cry for help, and he will say: "Here I am!"
If you remove the yoke from among you,
the accusing finger, and malicious speech;
[10]If you lavish your food on the hungry
and satisfy the afflicted;
Then your light shall rise in the darkness,
and your gloom shall become like midday;
[11]Then the LORD will guide you always and satisfy your thirst in parched places, will give strength to your bones
And you shall be like a watered garden,
like a flowing spring whose waters never fail.
[12]Your people shall rebuild the ancient ruins;
the foundations from ages past you shall raise up;
"Repairer of the breach," they shall call you,
"Restorer of ruined dwellings."

Authentic Sabbath Observance That Leads to Blessing. [13]If you refrain from trampling the sabbath, from following your own pursuits on my holy day;
If you call the sabbath a delight,
the LORD's holy day glorious;
If you glorify it by not following your ways,
seeking your own interests, or pursuing your own affairs—[14]Then you shall delight in the LORD, and I will make you ride upon the heights of the earth;
I will nourish you with the heritage of Jacob, your father,
for the mouth of the LORD has spoken.

Salvation Delayed. 59:1 No, the hand of the LORD is not too short to save,
nor his ear too dull to hear.
[2]Rather, it is your crimes
that separate you from your God,
It is your sins that make him hide his face
so that he does not hear you.
[3]For your hands are defiled with blood,
and your fingers with crime;
Your lips speak falsehood,
and your tongue utters deceit.
[4]No one brings suit justly,
no one pleads truthfully;
They trust an empty plea and tell lies;
they conceive mischief and bring forth malice.
[5]They hatch adders' eggs,
and weave spiders' webs:
Whoever eats the eggs will die,
if one of them is crushed, it will hatch a viper;
[6]Their webs cannot serve as clothing,
nor can they cover themselves with their works.
Their works are evil works,

and deeds of violence are in their hands.
[7]Their feet run to evil,
and they hasten to shed innocent blood;
Their thoughts are thoughts of wickedness,
violence and destruction are on their highways.
[8]The way of peace they know not,
and there is no justice on their paths;
Their roads they have made crooked,
no one who walks in them knows peace.

Acknowledgment of Transgressions. [9]That is why judgment is far from us and justice does not reach us.
We look for light, but there is darkness;
for brightness, and we walk in gloom!
[10]Like those who are blind we grope along the wall,
like people without eyes we feel our way.
We stumble at midday as if at twilight,
among the vigorous, we are like the dead.
[11]Like bears we all growl,
like doves we moan without ceasing.
We cry out for justice, but it is not there;
for salvation, but it is far from us.
[12]For our transgressions before you are many,
our sins bear witness against us.
Our transgressions are present to us,
and our crimes we acknowledge:
[13]Transgressing, and denying the LORD,
turning back from following our God,
Planning fraud and treachery,
uttering lying words conceived in the heart.
[14]Judgment is turned away,
and justice stands far off;
For truth stumbles in the public square,
and uprightness cannot enter.
[15]Fidelity is lacking,
and whoever turns from evil is despoiled.

Divine Intervention. The LORD saw this, and was aggrieved that there was no justice.
[16]He saw that there was no one,
was appalled that there was none to intervene;
Then his own arm brought about the victory,
and his justice sustained him.
[17]He put on justice as his breastplate,
victory as a helmet on his head;
He clothed himself with garments of vengeance,
wrapped himself in a mantle of zeal.
[18]According to their deeds he repays his enemies
and requites his foes with wrath;
to the coastlands he renders recompense.

[19]Those in the west shall fear the name of the LORD,
and those in the east, his glory,
Coming like a pent-up stream driven on by the breath of the LORD.
[20]Then for Zion shall come a redeemer, to those in Jacob who turn from transgression—oracle of the LORD.
[21]This is my covenant with them,
which I myself have made, says the LORD:
My spirit which is upon you and my words that I have put in your mouth Shall not depart from your mouth,
nor from the mouths of your children
Nor the mouths of your children's children from this time forth and forever, says the LORD.

☐ PHILIPPIANS 3

Concluding Admonitions. 3:1 Finally, my brothers, rejoice in the Lord. Writing the same things to you is no burden for me but is a safeguard for you.

Against Legalistic Teachers. [2]Beware of the dogs! Beware of the evil workers! Beware of the mutilation! [3]For we are the circumcision, we who worship through the Spirit of God, who boast in Christ Jesus and do not put our confidence in flesh, [4]although I myself have grounds for confidence even in the flesh.

Paul's Autobiography. If anyone else thinks he can be confident in flesh, all the more can I. [5]Circumcised on the eighth day, of the race of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrew parentage, in observance of the law a Pharisee, [6]in zeal I persecuted the church, in righteousness based on the law I was blameless.

Righteousness from God. [7][But] whatever gains I had, these I have come to consider a loss because of Christ. [8]More than that, I even consider everything as a loss because of the supreme good of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have accepted the loss of all things and I consider them so much rubbish, that I may gain Christ [9]and be found in him, not having any righteousness of my own based on the law but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God, depending on faith [10]to know him and the power of his resurrection and [the] sharing of his sufferings by being conformed to his death, [11]if somehow I may attain the resurrection from the dead.

Forward in Christ. [12]It is not that I have already taken hold of it or have already attained perfect maturity, but I continue my pursuit in hope that I may possess it, since I have indeed been taken possession of by Christ [Jesus]. [13]Brothers, I for my part do not consider myself to have taken possession. Just one thing: forgetting what lies behind but straining forward to what lies ahead, [14]I continue my pursuit toward the goal, the prize of God's upward calling, in Christ Jesus. [15]Let us, then, who are "perfectly mature" adopt this attitude. And if you have a different attitude, this too God will reveal to you. [16]Only, with regard to what we have attained, continue on the same course.

Wrong Conduct and Our Goal. [17]Join with others in being imitators of me, brothers, and observe those who thus conduct themselves according to the model you have in us. [18]For many, as I have often told you and now tell you even in tears, conduct themselves as enemies of the cross of Christ. [19]Their end is destruction. Their God is their stomach; their glory is in their "shame." Their minds are occupied with earthly things. [20]But our citizenship is in heaven, and from it we also await a savior, the Lord Jesus Christ. [21]He will change our lowly body to conform with his glorified body by the power that enables him also to bring all things into subjection to himself.

The Guardian Angels

When tempted, invoke your angel. He is more eager to help you than you are to be helped! Ignore the devil and do not be afraid of him: he trembles and flees at the sight of your guardian angel.

— St. John Bosco

☐ ISAIAH 60-61

The Dawning of Divine Glory for Zion. 60:1 Arise! Shine, for your light has come,
the glory of the LORD has dawned upon you.
2 Though darkness covers the earth,
and thick clouds, the peoples,
Upon you the LORD will dawn,
and over you his glory will be seen.
3 Nations shall walk by your light,
kings by the radiance of your dawning.

The Nations Come to Zion. 4 Raise your eyes and look about;
they all gather and come to you—
Your sons from afar,
your daughters in the arms of their nurses.
5 Then you shall see and be radiant,
your heart shall throb and overflow.
For the riches of the sea shall be poured out before you,
the wealth of nations shall come to you.
6 Caravans of camels shall cover you,
dromedaries of Midian and Ephah;
All from Sheba shall come bearing gold and frankincense,
and heralding the praises of the LORD.
7 All the flocks of Kedar shall be gathered for you,
the rams of Nebaioth shall serve your needs;
They will be acceptable offerings on my altar,
and I will glorify my glorious house.
8 Who are these that fly along like a cloud,
like doves to their cotes?
9 The vessels of the coastlands are gathering,
with the ships of Tarshish in the lead,
To bring your children from afar,
their silver and gold with them—
For the name of the LORD, your God,
for the Holy One of Israel who has glorified you.

Honor and Service for Zion. 10 Foreigners shall rebuild your walls,
their kings shall minister to you;
Though in my wrath I struck you,
yet in my good will I have shown you mercy.
11 Your gates shall stand open constantly;
day and night they shall not be closed
So that they may bring you the wealth of nations,
with their kings in the vanguard.
12 For the nation or kingdom that will not serve you shall perish;

such nations shall be utterly destroyed!
[13]The glory of Lebanon shall come to you—
the juniper, the fir, and the cypress all together—
To bring beauty to my sanctuary,
and glory to the place where I stand.
[14]The children of your oppressors shall come,
bowing before you;
All those who despised you,
shall bow low at your feet.
They shall call you "City of the LORD,"
"Zion of the Holy One of Israel."
[15]No longer forsaken and hated,
with no one passing through,
Now I will make you the pride of the ages,
a joy from generation to generation.
[16]You shall suck the milk of nations,
and be nursed at royal breasts;
And you shall know that I, the LORD, am your savior,
your redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.
[17]Instead of bronze I will bring gold,
instead of iron I will bring silver;
Instead of wood, bronze;
instead of stones, iron.
I will appoint peace your governor,
and justice your ruler.
[18]No longer shall violence be heard of in your land,
or plunder and ruin within your borders.
You shall call your walls "Salvation"
and your gates "Praise."

Eternal Light for Zion. [19]No longer shall the sun
be your light by day,
Nor shall the brightness of the moon
give you light by night;
Rather, the LORD will be your light forever,
your God will be your glory.
[20]No longer will your sun set,
or your moon wane;
For the LORD will be your light forever,
and the days of your grieving will be over.
[21]Your people will all be just;
for all time they will possess the land;
They are the shoot that I planted,
the work of my hands, that I might be glorified.
[22]The least one shall become a clan,
the smallest, a mighty nation;
I, the LORD, will swiftly accomplish
these things when the time comes.

The Anointed Bearer of Glad Tidings. 61:1 The spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me, because the LORD has anointed me;

He has sent me to bring good news to the afflicted,
to bind up the brokenhearted,
To proclaim liberty to the captives,
release to the prisoners,
[2]To announce a year of favor from the LORD
and a day of vindication by our God;
To comfort all who mourn;
[3]to place on those who mourn in Zion
a diadem instead of ashes,
To give them oil of gladness instead of mourning,
a glorious mantle instead of a faint spirit.

Restoration and Blessing. They will be called oaks of justice,
the planting of the LORD to show his glory.
[4]They shall rebuild the ancient ruins,
the former wastes they shall raise up
And restore the desolate cities,
devastations of generation upon generation.
[5]Strangers shall stand ready to pasture your flocks, foreigners shall be your farmers and vinedressers.
[6]You yourselves shall be called "Priests of the LORD,"
"Ministers of our God" you shall be called.
You shall eat the wealth of the nations
and in their riches you will boast.
[7]Because their shame was twofold
and disgrace was proclaimed their portion,
They will possess twofold in their own land;
everlasting joy shall be theirs.

God's Word of Promise. [8]For I, the LORD, love justice,
I hate robbery and wrongdoing;
I will faithfully give them their recompense,
an everlasting covenant I will make with them.
[9]Their offspring shall be renowned among the nations,
and their descendants in the midst of the peoples;
All who see them shall acknowledge them:
"They are offspring the LORD has blessed."

Thanksgiving for God's Deliverance. [10]I will rejoice heartily in the LORD,
my being exults in my God;
For he has clothed me with garments of salvation,
and wrapped me in a robe of justice,
Like a bridegroom adorned with a diadem,
as a bride adorns herself with her jewels.
[11]As the earth brings forth its shoots,
and a garden makes its seeds spring up,
So will the Lord GOD make justice spring up,
and praise before all the nations.

☐ PHILIPPIANS 4

Live in Concord. 4:1 Therefore, my brothers, whom I love and long for, my joy and crown, in this way stand firm in the Lord, beloved.

[2]I urge Euodia and I urge Syntyche to come to a mutual understanding in the Lord. [3]Yes, and I ask you also, my true yokemate, to help them, for they have struggled at my side in promoting the gospel, along with Clement and my other co-workers, whose names are in the book of life.

Joy and Peace. [4]Rejoice in the Lord always. I shall say it again: rejoice! [5]Your kindness should be known to all. The Lord is near. [6]Have no anxiety at all, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, make your requests known to God. [7]Then the peace of God that surpasses all understanding will guard your hearts and minds in Christ Jesus.

[8]Finally, brothers, whatever is true, whatever is honorable, whatever is just, whatever is pure, whatever is lovely, whatever is gracious, if there is any excellence and if there is anything worthy of praise, think about these things. [9]Keep on doing what you have learned and received and heard and seen in me. Then the God of peace will be with you.

[10]I rejoice greatly in the Lord that now at last you revived your concern for me. You were, of course, concerned about me but lacked an opportunity. [11]Not that I say this because of need, for I have learned, in whatever situation I find myself, to be self-sufficient. [12]I know indeed how to live in humble circumstances; I know also how to live with abundance. In every circumstance and in all things I have learned the secret of being well fed and of going hungry, of living in abundance and of being in need. [13]I have the strength for everything through him who empowers me. [14]Still, it was kind of you to share in my distress.

[15]You Philippians indeed know that at the beginning of the gospel, when I left Macedonia, not a single church shared with me in an account of giving and receiving, except you alone. [16]For even when I was at Thessalonica you sent me something for my needs, not only once but more than once. [17]It is not that I am eager for the gift; rather, I am eager for the profit that accrues to your account. [18]I have received full payment and I abound. I am very well supplied because of what I received from you through Epaphroditus, "a fragrant aroma," an acceptable sacrifice, pleasing to God. [19]My God will fully supply whatever you need, in accord with his glorious riches in Christ Jesus. [20]To our God and Father, glory forever and ever. Amen.

[21]Give my greetings to every holy one in Christ Jesus. The brothers who are with me send you their greetings; [22]all the holy ones send you their greetings, especially those of Caesar's household. [23]The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.

Blessed Columba Marmion

> Wouldn't it indeed be a failure of respect to neglect the divine Guest who awaits us in the tabernacle? He dwells there, really present, He who was present in the crib, at Nazareth, upon the mountains of Judea, at the Last Supper, upon the cross. He is there, the same Christ who healed the lepers, stilled the tempest, and promised to the good thief a place in His kingdom. We find there our Savior, our Friend, our elder Brother, in the fullness of His almighty power, in the ever-fruitful virtue of His mysteries, the infinite superabundance of His merits, and the ineffable mercy of His love.

☐ ISAIAH 62-63

A New Name for Zion. 62:1 For Zion's sake I will not be silent, for Jerusalem's sake I will not keep still,
Until her vindication shines forth like the dawn
and her salvation like a burning torch.

[2]Nations shall behold your vindication,
and all kings your glory;
You shall be called by a new name bestowed by the mouth of the LORD.
[3]You shall be a glorious crown in the hand of the LORD,
a royal diadem in the hand of your God.
[4]No more shall you be called "Forsaken," nor your land called "Desolate,"
But you shall be called "My Delight is in her,"
and your land "Espoused."
For the LORD delights in you,
and your land shall be espoused.
[5]For as a young man marries a virgin,
your Builder shall marry you;
And as a bridegroom rejoices in his bride
so shall your God rejoice in you.
[6]Upon your walls, Jerusalem,
I have stationed sentinels;
By day and by night,
they shall never be silent.
You who are to remind the LORD,
take no rest,
[7]And give him no rest,
until he re-establishes Jerusalem
And makes it the praise of the earth.

The Blessings of Salvation for God's People. [8]The LORD has sworn by his right hand and by his mighty arm:
No more will I give your grain
as food to your enemies;
Nor shall foreigners drink the wine,
for which you toiled.
[9]But those who harvest shall eat,
and praise the LORD;
Those who gather shall drink
in my holy courts.
[10]Pass through, pass through the gates,
prepare a way for the people;
Build up, build up the highway, clear it of stones,
raise up a standard over the nations.
[11]The LORD has proclaimed
to the ends of the earth:
Say to daughter Zion,
"See, your savior comes!
See, his reward is with him,
his recompense before him."
[12]They shall be called "The Holy People,"
"The Redeemed of the LORD."
And you shall be called "Cared For,"
"A City Not Forsaken."

The Divine Warrior: 63:1 Who is this that comes from Edom, in crimsoned garments, from Bozrah?
Who is this, glorious in his apparel,
striding in the greatness of his strength?
"It is I, I who announce vindication, mighty to save."
[2]Why is your apparel red,
and your garments like one who treads the wine press?
[3]"The wine press I have trodden alone,
and from the peoples no one was with me.
I trod them in my anger,
and trampled them down in my wrath;
Their blood spurted on my garments,
all my apparel I stained.
[4]For a day of vindication was in my heart,
my year for redeeming had come.
[5]I looked about, but there was no one to help,
I was appalled that there was no one to lend support;
So my own arm brought me victory
and my own wrath lent me support.
[6]I trampled down the peoples in my anger,
I made them drunk in my wrath,
and I poured out their blood upon the ground."

Prayer for the Return of God's Favor. [7]The loving deeds of the LORD I will recall,
the glorious acts of the LORD,
Because of all the LORD has done for us,
the immense goodness to the house of Israel,
Which he has granted according to his mercy
and his many loving deeds.
[8]He said: "They are indeed my people,
children who are not disloyal."
So he became their savior
[9]in their every affliction.
It was not an envoy or a messenger,
but his presence that saved them.
Because of his love and pity
the LORD redeemed them, Lifting them up and carrying them
all the days of old.
[10]But they rebelled
and grieved his holy spirit;
So he turned to become their enemy,
and warred against them.

[11]Then they remembered the days of old, of Moses, his servant:

Where is the one who brought up out of the sea
the shepherd of his flock?
Where is the one who placed in their midst
his holy spirit,

[12]Who guided Moses by the hand,
with his glorious arm?
Where is the one who divided the waters before them—
winning for himself an everlasting renown—[13]Who guided them through the depths,
like horses in open country?
[14]As cattle going down into the valley,
they did not stumble.
The spirit of the LORD guided them.
Thus you led your people,
to make for yourself a glorious name.
[15]Look down from heaven and regard us
from your holy and glorious palace!
Where is your zealous care and your might,
your surge of pity?
Your mercy hold not back!
[16]For you are our father.
Were Abraham not to know us,
nor Israel to acknowledge us,
You, LORD, are our father,
our redeemer you are named from of old.
[17]Why do you make us wander, LORD, from your ways,
and harden our hearts so that we do not fear you?
Return for the sake of your servants,
the tribes of your heritage.
[18]Why have the wicked invaded your holy place,
why have our enemies trampled your sanctuary?
[19]Too long have we been like those you do not rule,
on whom your name is not invoked.
Oh, that you would rend the heavens and come down,
with the mountains quaking before you,

☐ JUDE

Address and Greeting. 1 Jude, a slave of Jesus Christ and brother of James, to those who are called, beloved in God the Father and kept safe for Jesus Christ: [2]may mercy, peace, and love be yours in abundance.

Occasion for Writing. [3]Beloved, although I was making every effort to write to you about our common salvation, I now feel a need to write to encourage you to contend for the faith that was once for all handed down to the holy ones. [4]For there have been some intruders, who long ago were designated for this condemnation, godless persons, who pervert the grace of our God into licentiousness and who deny our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.

The False Teachers. [5]I wish to remind you, although you know all things, that [the] Lord who once saved a people from the land of Egypt later destroyed those who did not believe. [6]The angels too, who did not keep to their own domain but deserted their proper dwelling, he has kept in eternal chains, in gloom, for the judgment of the great day. [7]Likewise, Sodom, Gomorrah, and the surrounding towns, which, in the same manner as they, indulged in sexual promiscuity and practiced unnatural vice, serve as an example by undergoing a punishment of eternal fire.

[8]Similarly, these dreamers nevertheless also defile the flesh, scorn lordship, and revile glorious beings. [9]Yet the archangel Michael, when he argued with the devil in a dispute over the body of Moses, did not venture to pronounce a reviling judgment upon him but said, "May the Lord rebuke you!" [10]But these people revile what they do not understand and are destroyed by what they know by nature like irrational animals. [11]Woe to them! They followed the way of Cain, abandoned themselves to Balaam's error for the sake of gain, and perished in the rebellion of Korah. [12]These are blemishes on your love feasts, as they carouse fearlessly and look after themselves. They are waterless clouds blown about by winds, fruitless trees in late autumn, twice dead and uprooted. [13]They are like wild waves of the sea, foaming up their shameless deeds, wandering stars for whom the gloom of darkness has been reserved forever.

[14]Enoch, of the seventh generation from Adam, prophesied also about them when he said, "Behold, the Lord has come with his countless holy ones [15]to execute judgment on all and to convict everyone for all the godless deeds that they committed and for all the harsh words godless sinners have uttered against him." [16]These people are complainers, disgruntled ones who live by their desires; their mouths utter bombast as they fawn over people to gain advantage.

Exhortations. [17]But you, beloved, remember the words spoken beforehand by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ, [18]for they told you, "In [the] last time there will be scoffers who will live according to their own godless desires." [19]These are the ones who cause divisions; they live on the natural plane, devoid of the Spirit. [20]But you, beloved, build yourselves up in your most holy faith; pray in the holy Spirit. [21]Keep yourselves in the love of God and wait for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to eternal life. [22]On those who waver, have mercy; [23]save others by snatching them out of the fire; on others have mercy with fear, abhorring even the outer garment stained by the flesh.

Doxology. [24]To the one who is able to keep you from stumbling and to present you unblemished and exultant, in the presence of his glory, [25]to the only God, our savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord be glory, majesty, power, and authority from ages past, now, and for ages to come. Amen.

St. Francis of Assisi

Sanctify yourself, and you will sanctify society.

— St. Francis of Assisi

☐ ISAIAH 64-66

64:1 As when brushwood is set ablaze,
or fire makes the water boil!
Then your name would be made known to your enemies
and the nations would tremble before you, [2]While you worked awesome deeds we could not hope for,
[3]such as had not been heard of from of old.
No ear has ever heard, no eye ever seen,
any God but you
working such deeds for those who wait for him.
[4]Would that you might meet us doing right,
that we might be mindful of you in our ways!
Indeed, you are angry; we have sinned,
we have acted wickedly.
[5]We have all become like something unclean,
all our just deeds are like polluted rags;
We have all withered like leaves,
and our crimes carry us away like the wind.
[6]There are none who call upon your name,
none who rouse themselves to take hold of you;
For you have hidden your face from us
and have delivered us up to our crimes.

A Final Plea. [7]Yet, LORD, you are our father;
we are the clay and you our potter:
we are all the work of your hand.
[8]Do not be so very angry, LORD,
do not remember our crimes forever;
look upon us, who are all your people!
[9]Your holy cities have become a wilderness;
Zion has become wilderness, Jerusalem desolation!
[10]Our holy and glorious house
in which our ancestors praised you
Has been burned with fire;
all that was dear to us is laid waste.
[11]Can you hold back, LORD, after all this?
Can you remain silent, and afflict us so severely?

65:1 I was ready to respond to those who did not ask,
to be found by those who did not seek me.
I said: Here I am! Here I am!
To a nation that did not invoke my name.
[2]I have stretched out my hands all day
to a rebellious people,
Who walk in a way that is not good,
following their own designs;
[3]A people who provoke me
continually to my face, Offering sacrifices in gardens
and burning incense on bricks, [4]Sitting in tombs
and spending the night in caves,
Eating the flesh of pigs,
with broth of unclean meat in their dishes;
[5]Crying out, "Hold back,
do not come near me, lest I render you holy!"
These things are smoke in my nostrils,
a fire that burns all the day.
[6]See, it stands written before me;
I will not remain quiet until I have repaid in full [7]Your crimes and the crimes of your ancestors as well,
says the LORD.
Since they burned incense on the mountains,
and insulted me on the hills,
I will at once pour out in full measure their recompense into their laps.

Fate of the Just and Unjust in Israel. [8]Thus says the LORD:
As when the juice is pressed from a cluster,
and someone says, "Do not destroy it,
for there is still good in it,"
So will I do for the sake of my servants:
I will not destroy them all.

[9]From Jacob I will bring forth offspring,
from Judah, those who are to possess my mountains;
My chosen ones shall possess the land,
my servants shall dwell there.
[10]Sharon shall become a pasture for the flocks,
the Valley of Achor a resting place for the cattle,
for my people who have sought me.
[11]But you who forsake the LORD,
who forget my holy mountain,
Who spread a table for Fortune
and fill cups of mixed wine for Destiny, [12]You I will destine for the sword;
you shall all bow down for slaughter;
Because I called and you did not answer,
I spoke and you did not listen,
But did what is evil in my sight
and things I do not delight in, you chose,
[13]therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
My servants shall eat,
but you shall go hungry;
My servants shall drink,
but you shall be thirsty;
My servants shall rejoice,
but you shall be put to shame;
[14]My servants shall shout
for joy of heart,
But you shall cry out for grief of heart,
and howl for anguish of spirit.
[15]You will leave your name for a curse to my chosen ones
when the Lord GOD slays you,
and calls his servants by another name.
[16]Whoever invokes a blessing in the land shall bless by the God of truth;
Whoever takes an oath in the land shall swear by the God of truth;
For the hardships of the past shall be forgotten
and hidden from my eyes.

A World Renewed. [17]See, I am creating new heavens
and a new earth;
The former things shall not be remembered
nor come to mind.
[18]Instead, shout for joy and be glad forever
in what I am creating.
Indeed, I am creating Jerusalem to be a joy
and its people to be a delight;
[19]I will rejoice in Jerusalem
and exult in my people.
No longer shall the sound of weeping be heard there,
or the sound of crying;

[20]No longer shall there be in it
an infant who lives but a few days,
nor anyone who does not live a full lifetime;
One who dies at a hundred years shall be considered a youth,
and one who falls short of a hundred shall be thought accursed.
[21]They shall build houses and live in them,
they shall plant vineyards and eat their fruit;
[22]They shall not build and others live there;
they shall not plant and others eat.
As the years of a tree, so the years of my people;
and my chosen ones shall long enjoy
the work of their hands.
[23]They shall not toil in vain,
nor beget children for sudden destruction;
For they shall be a people blessed by the LORD
and their descendants with them.
[24]Before they call, I will answer;
while they are yet speaking, I will hear.
[25]The wolf and the lamb shall pasture together,
and the lion shall eat hay like the ox—
but the serpent's food shall be dust.
None shall harm or destroy
on all my holy mountain, says the LORD.

True and False Worship. 66:1 Thus says the LORD:
The heavens are my throne,
the earth, my footstool.
What house can you build for me?
Where is the place of my rest?
[2]My hand made all these things
when all of them came to be—oracle of the LORD.
This is the one whom I approve:
the afflicted one, crushed in spirit,
who trembles at my word.
[3]The one slaughtering an ox, striking a man,
sacrificing a lamb, breaking a dog's neck,
Making an offering of pig's blood,
burning incense, honoring an idol—
These have chosen their own ways,
and taken pleasure in their own abominations.
[4]I in turn will choose affliction for them
and bring upon them what they fear.
Because when I called, no one answered,
when I spoke, no one listened.
Because they did what was evil in my sight,
and things I do not delight in they chose,
[5]Hear the word of the LORD,
you who tremble at his word!
Your kin who hate you
and cast you out because of my name say,

"May the LORD show his glory,
that we may see your joy";
but they shall be put to shame.
[6]A voice roaring from the city,
a voice from the temple;
The voice of the LORD
rendering recompense to his enemies!

Blessings of Prosperity and Consolation. [7]Before she is in labor,
she gives birth;
Before her pangs come upon her,
she delivers a male child.
[8]Who ever heard of such a thing,
or who ever saw the like?
Can a land be brought forth in one day,
or a nation be born in a single moment?
Yet Zion was scarcely in labor
when she bore her children.
[9]Shall I bring a mother to the point of birth, and yet not let her child be born? says the LORD.
Or shall I who bring to birth
yet close her womb? says your God.
[10]Rejoice with Jerusalem and be glad because of her,
all you who love her;
Rejoice with her in her joy,
all you who mourn over her—[11]So that you may nurse and be satisfied
from her consoling breast;
That you may drink with delight
at her abundant breasts!
[12]For thus says the LORD:
I will spread prosperity over her like a river,
like an overflowing torrent,
the wealth of nations.
You shall nurse, carried in her arms,
cradled upon her knees;
[13]As a mother comforts her child,
so I will comfort you;
in Jerusalem you shall find your comfort.
[14]You will see and your heart shall exult,
and your bodies shall flourish like the grass;
The LORD's power shall be revealed to his servants,
but to his enemies, his wrath.
[15]For see, the LORD will come in fire,
his chariots like the stormwind;
To wreak his anger in burning rage
and his rebuke in fiery flames.
[16]For with fire the LORD shall enter into judgment,
and, with his sword, against all flesh;
Those slain by the LORD shall be many.

[17]Those who sanctify and purify themselves to go into the gardens, following one who stands within, eating pig's flesh, abominable things, and mice, shall all together come to an end, with their deeds and purposes—oracle of the LORD.

God Gathers the Nations. [18]I am coming to gather all nations and tongues; they shall come and see my glory. [19]I will place a sign among them; from them I will send survivors to the nations: to Tarshish, Put and Lud, Mosoch, Tubal and Javan, to the distant coastlands which have never heard of my fame, or seen my glory; and they shall proclaim my glory among the nations. [20]They shall bring all your kin from all the nations as an offering to the LORD, on horses and in chariots, in carts, upon mules and dromedaries, to Jerusalem, my holy mountain, says the LORD, just as the Israelites bring their grain offering in a clean vessel to the house of the LORD. [21]Some of these I will take as priests and Levites, says the LORD.

[22]Just as the new heavens and the new earth which I am making Shall endure before me—oracle of the LORD—
so shall your descendants and your name endure.
[23]From new moon to new moon,
and from sabbath to sabbath,
All flesh shall come to worship
before me, says the LORD.
[24]They shall go out and see the corpses
of the people who rebelled against me;
For their worm shall not die,
their fire shall not be extinguished;
and they shall be an abhorrence to all flesh.

☐ EPHESIANS 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, to the holy ones who are [in Ephesus] faithful in Christ Jesus: [2]grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Father's Plan of Salvation. [3]Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in Christ with every spiritual blessing in the heavens, [4]as he chose us in him, before the foundation of the world, to be holy and without blemish before him. In love [5]he destined us for adoption to himself through Jesus Christ, in accord with the favor of his will, [6]for the praise of the glory of his grace that he granted us in the beloved.

Fulfillment through Christ. [7]In him we have redemption by his blood, the forgiveness of transgressions, in accord with the riches of his grace [8]that he lavished upon us. In all wisdom and insight, [9]he has made known to us the mystery of his will in accord with his favor that he set forth in him [10]as a plan for the fullness of times, to sum up all things in Christ, in heaven and on earth.

Inheritance through the Spirit. [11]In him we were also chosen, destined in accord with the purpose of the One who accomplishes all things according to the intention of his will, [12]so that we might exist for the praise of his glory, we who first hoped in Christ. [13]In him you also, who have heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and have believed in him, were sealed with the promised holy Spirit, [14]which is the first installment of our inheritance toward redemption as God's possession, to the praise of his glory.

The Church as Christ's Body. [15]Therefore, I, too, hearing of your faith in the Lord Jesus and of your love for all the holy ones, [16]do not cease giving thanks for you, remembering you in my prayers, [17]that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and revelation resulting in knowledge of him. [18]May the eyes of [your] hearts be enlightened, that you may know what is the hope that belongs to his call, what are the riches of glory in his inheritance among the holy ones, [19]and what is the surpassing greatness of his power for us who believe, in accord with the exercise of his great might, [20]which he worked in Christ, raising him from the dead and seating him at his right hand in the heavens, [21]far above every principality, authority, power, and dominion, and every name that is named not only in this age but also in the one to come. [22]And he put all things beneath his feet and gave him as head over all things to the church, [23]which is his body, the fullness of the one who fills all things in every way.

☐ JEREMIAH 1-2

1:1 The words of Jeremiah, son of Hilkiah, one of the priests from Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin. [2]The word of the LORD came to him in the days of Josiah, son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirteenth year of his reign, [3]and again in the days of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, until the end of the eleventh year of Zedekiah, son of Josiah, king of Judah—down to the exile of Jerusalem, in the fifth month.

Call of Jeremiah. [4]The word of the LORD came to me:
[5]Before I formed you in the womb I knew you,
before you were born I dedicated you,
a prophet to the nations I appointed you.
[6]"Ah, Lord GOD!" I said,
"I do not know how to speak. I am too young!"
[7]But the LORD answered me,
Do not say, "I am too young."
To whomever I send you, you shall go;
whatever I command you, you shall speak.
[8]Do not be afraid of them,
for I am with you to deliver you—oracle of the LORD.

[9]Then the LORD extended his hand and touched my mouth, saying to me,

See, I place my words in your mouth!
[10]Today I appoint you over nations and over kingdoms,
To uproot and to tear down,
to destroy and to demolish,
to build and to plant.

[11]The word of the LORD came to me: What do you see, Jeremiah? "I see a branch of the almond tree," I replied. [12]Then the LORD said to me: You have seen well, for I am watching over my word to carry it out. [13]A second time the word of the LORD came to me: What do you see? I replied, "I see a boiling kettle whose mouth is tipped away from the north."
[14]The LORD said to me, And from the north evil will pour out over all who dwell in the land.

[15]Look, I am summoning

all the kingdoms of the north—oracle of the LORD—
Each king shall come and set up his throne
in the gateways of Jerusalem, Against all its surrounding walls
and against all the cities of Judah.
16I will pronounce my sentence against them
for all their wickedness in forsaking me,
In burning incense to other gods,
in bowing down to the works of their hands.
17But you, prepare yourself;
stand up and tell them
all that I command you.
Do not be terrified on account of them,
or I will terrify you before them;
18For I am the one who today
makes you a fortified city,
A pillar of iron, a wall of bronze,
against the whole land:
Against Judah's kings and princes,
its priests and the people of the land.
19They will fight against you, but not prevail over you,
for I am with you to deliver you—oracle of the LORD.

Infidelity of Israel. 2:1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2Go, cry out this message for Jerusalem to hear!

I remember the devotion of your youth,
how you loved me as a bride,
Following me in the wilderness,
in a land unsown.
3Israel was dedicated to the LORD,
the first fruits of his harvest;
All who ate of it were held guilty,
evil befell them—oracle of the LORD.
4Listen to the word of the LORD, house of Jacob!
All you clans of the house of Israel,
5thus says the LORD:
What fault did your ancestors find in me
that they withdrew from me, Went after emptiness,
and became empty themselves?
6They did not ask, "Where is the LORD
who brought us up from the land of Egypt,
Who led us through the wilderness,
through a land of wastes and ravines,
A land of drought and darkness,
a land which no one crosses,
where no one dwells?"
7I brought you into the garden land
to eat its fine fruits,
But you entered and defiled my land,

you turned my heritage into an abomination.
[8]The priests did not ask,
"Where is the LORD?"
The experts in the law did not know me:
the shepherds rebelled against me.
The prophets prophesied by Baal,
and went after useless idols.
[9]Therefore I will again accuse you—oracle of the LORD—
even your children's children I will accuse.
[10]Cross to the coast of Cyprus and see,
send to Kedar and carefully inquire:
Where has anything like this been done?
[11]Does any other nation change its gods?—
even though they are not gods at all!
But my people have changed their glory
for useless things.
[12]Be horrified at this, heavens;
shudder, be appalled—oracle of the LORD.
[13]Two evils my people have done:
they have forsaken me, the source of living waters;
They have dug themselves cisterns,
broken cisterns that cannot hold water.
[14]Is Israel a slave, a house-born servant?
Why then has he become plunder?
[15]Against him lions roar,
they raise their voices.
They have turned his land into a waste;
his cities are charred ruins, without an inhabitant.
[16]Yes, the people of Memphis and Tahpanhes shave the crown of your head.
[17]Has not forsaking the LORD, your God,
done this to you?
[18]And now, why go to Egypt,
to drink the waters of the Nile?
Why go to Assyria,
to drink the waters of the River?
[19]Your own wickedness chastises you,
your own infidelities punish you.
Know then, and see, how evil and bitter is your forsaking the LORD, your God,
And your showing no fear of me,
oracle of the Lord, the GOD of hosts.
[20]Long ago you broke your yoke,
you tore off your bonds.
You said, "I will not serve."
On every high hill, under every green tree,
you sprawled and served as a prostitute.
[21]But I had planted you as a choice vine,
all pedigreed stock;
How could you turn out so obnoxious to me,

a spurious vine?
22 Even if you scour it with lye,
and use much soap,
The stain of your guilt is still before me,
oracle of the Lord GOD.
23 How can you say, "I am not defiled,
I have not pursued the Baals"?
Consider your conduct in the Valley,
recall what you have done:
A skittish young camel,
running back and forth,
24 a wild donkey bred in the wilderness,
Sniffing the wind in her desire—
who can restrain her lust?
None seeking her need tire themselves;
in her time they will find her.
25 Stop wearing out your feet
and parching your throat!
But you say, "No use! No!
How I love these strangers,
after them I must go."
26 As the thief is shamed when caught,
so shall the house of Israel be shamed:
They, their kings, their princes,
their priests and their prophets;
27 They say to a piece of wood, "You are my father,"
and to a stone, "You gave me birth."
They turn their backs to me, not their faces;
yet in their time of trouble they cry out,
"Rise up and save us!"
28 Where are the gods you made for yourselves?
Let them rise up!
Will they save you in your time of trouble?
For as numerous as your cities
are your gods, O Judah!
And as many as the streets of Jerusalem
are the altars you have set up for Baal.
29 Why are you arguing with me?
You have all rebelled against me—oracle of the LORD.
30 In vain I struck your children;
correction they did not take.
Your sword devoured your prophets
like a ravening lion.
31 You people of this generation,
consider the word of the Lord:
Have I become a wilderness to Israel, a land of gloom?
Why then do my people say, "We have moved on,
we will not come to you any more"?
32 Does a young woman forget her jewelry,

a bride her sash?
Yet my people have forgotten me
days without number.
33How well you pick your way
when seeking love!
In your wickedness,
you have gone by ways unclean!
34On your clothing is the life-blood of the innocent,
you did not find them committing burglary; 35Nonetheless you say, "I am innocent;
at least, his anger is turned away from me."
Listen! I will judge you on that word of yours, "I have not sinned." 36How frivolous you have become in changing your course!
By Egypt you will be shamed,
just as you were shamed by Assyria.
37From there too you will go out,
your hands upon your head;
For the LORD has rejected those in whom you trust,
with them you will have no success.

☐ EPHESIANS 2

Generosity of God's Plan. 2:1 You were dead in your transgressions and sins 2in which you once lived following the age of this world, following the ruler of the power of the air, the spirit that is now at work in the disobedient. 3All of us once lived among them in the desires of our flesh, following the wishes of the flesh and the impulses, and we were by nature children of wrath, like the rest. 4But God, who is rich in mercy, because of the great love he had for us, 5even when we were dead in our transgressions, brought us to life with Christ (by grace you have been saved), 6raised us up with him, and seated us with him in the heavens in Christ Jesus, 7that in the ages to come he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in his kindness to us in Christ Jesus. 8For by grace you have been saved through faith, and this is not from you; it is the gift of God; 9it is not from works, so no one may boast. 10For we are his handiwork, created in Christ Jesus for the good works that God has prepared in advance, that we should live in them.

One in Christ. 11Therefore, remember that at one time you, Gentiles in the flesh, called the uncircumcision by those called the circumcision, which is done in the flesh by human hands, 12were at that time without Christ, alienated from the community of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, without hope and without God in the world. 13But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have become near by the blood of Christ.

14For he is our peace, he who made both one and broke down the dividing wall of enmity, through his flesh, 15abolishing the law with its commandments and legal claims, that he might create in himself one new person in place of the two, thus establishing peace, 16and might reconcile both with God, in one body, through the cross, putting that enmity to death by it. 17He came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near, 18for through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father.

19So then you are no longer strangers and sojourners, but you are fellow citizens with the holy ones and members of the household of God, 20built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, with Christ Jesus himself as the capstone. 21Through him the whole structure is held together and grows into a temple sacred in the Lord; 22in him you also are being built together into a dwelling place of God in the Spirit.

St. Bruno; Blessed Marie-Rose Durocher

By your work you show what you love and what you know.

— St. Bruno

☐ JEREMIAH 3-4

3:1 If a man divorces his wife
and she leaves him
and then becomes the wife of another,
Can she return to the first?
Would not this land be wholly defiled?
But you have played the prostitute with many lovers,
and yet you would return to me!—oracle of the LORD.
[2]Raise your eyes to the heights, and look,
where have men not lain with you?
Along the roadways you waited for them
like an Arabian in the wilderness.
You defiled the land
by your wicked prostitution.
[3]Therefore the showers were withheld,
the spring rain did not fall.
But because you have a prostitute's brow,
you refused to be ashamed.
[4]Even now do you not call me, "My father,
you are the bridegroom of my youth?
[5]Will he keep his wrath forever,
will he hold his grudge to the end?"
This is what you say; yet you do all the evil you can.

Judah and Israel. [6]The LORD said to me in the days of King Josiah: Do you see what rebellious Israel has done? She has gone up every high mountain, and under every green tree she has played the prostitute. [7]And I thought: After she has done all this, she will return to me. But she did not return. Then, even though that traitor her sister Judah, saw [8]that, in response to all the adulteries rebel Israel had committed, I sent her away and gave her a bill of divorce, nevertheless Judah, the traitor, her sister, was not frightened; she too went off and played the prostitute. [9]With her casual prostitution, she polluted the land, committing adultery with stone and wood. [10]In spite of all this, Judah, the traitor, her sister, did not return to me wholeheartedly, but insincerely—oracle of the LORD.

Restoration of Israel. [11]Then the LORD said to me: Rebel Israel is more just than traitor Judah. [12]Go, proclaim these words toward the north, and say:

Return, rebel Israel—oracle of the LORD—
I will not remain angry with you;
For I am merciful, oracle of the LORD,
I will not keep my anger forever.
[13]Only admit your guilt:
how you have rebelled against the LORD, your God,
How you ran here and there to strangers

under every green tree
and would not listen to my voice—oracle of the LORD.
[14]Return, rebellious children—oracle of the LORD—
for I am your master;
I will take you, one from a city, two from a clan,
and bring you to Zion.
[15]I will appoint for you shepherds after my own heart,
who will shepherd you wisely and prudently.
[16]When you increase in number and are fruitful in the land—
oracle of the LORD—
They will in those days no longer say,
"The ark of the covenant of the LORD!"
They will no longer think of it, or remember it,
or miss it, or make another one.

[17]At that time they will call Jerusalem "the LORD's throne." All nations will gather together there to honor the name of the LORD at Jerusalem, and they will no longer stubbornly follow their wicked heart. [18]In those days the house of Judah will walk alongside the house of Israel; together they will come from the land of the north to the land which I gave your ancestors as a heritage.

Conditions for Forgiveness. [19]I thought:
How I would like to make you my children!
So I gave you a pleasant land,
the most beautiful heritage among the nations!
You would call me, "My Father," I thought,
and you would never turn away from me.
[20]But like a woman faithless to her lover,
thus have you been faithless to me,
house of Israel—oracle of the LORD.
[21]A cry is heard on the heights!
the plaintive weeping of Israel's children,
Because they have perverted their way,
they have forgotten the LORD, their God.
[22]Return, rebellious children!
I will heal your rebellions.
"Here we are! We belong to you,
for you are the LORD, our God.
[23]Deceptive indeed are the hills,
the mountains, clamorous;
Only in the LORD our God
is Israel's salvation.
[24]The shameful thing has devoured
our ancestors' worth from our youth,
Their sheep and cattle,
their sons and daughters.
[25]Let us lie down in our shame,
let our disgrace cover us,
for we have sinned against the LORD, our God,
We and our ancestors, from our youth to this day;
we did not listen to the voice of the LORD, our God."

4:1 If you return, Israel—oracle of the LORD—return to me.
If you put your detestable things out of my sight,
and do not stray,
2 And swear, "As the LORD lives,"
in truth, in judgment, and in justice,
Then the nations shall bless themselves in him
and in him glory.

3 For to the people of Judah and Jerusalem, thus says the LORD:

Till your untilled ground,
and do not sow among thorns.
4 Be circumcised for the LORD,
remove the foreskins of your hearts,
people of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem;
Or else my anger will break out like fire,
and burn so that no one can quench it,
because of your evil deeds.

The Invasion from the North. 5 Proclaim it in Judah,
in Jerusalem announce it;
Blow the trumpet throughout the land,
call out, "Fill the ranks!"
Say, "Assemble, let us march to the fortified cities."
6 Raise the signal—to Zion!
Seek refuge! Don't stand there!
Disaster I bring from the north,
and great destruction.
7 Up comes the lion from its lair,
the destroyer of nations has set out,
has left its place,
To turn your land into a desolation,
your cities into an uninhabited waste.
8 So put on sackcloth,
mourn and wail:
"The blazing anger of the LORD
has not turned away from us."
9 In that day—oracle of the LORD—
The king will lose heart, and the princes;
the priests will be horrified,
and the prophets stunned.
10 "Ah! Lord GOD," they will say,
"You really did deceive us
When you said: You shall have peace,
while the sword was at our very throats."
11 At that time it will be said to this people and to Jerusalem,
A scorching wind from the bare heights comes through the wilderness toward my daughter, the people.

Not to winnow, not to cleanse,
[12]a strong wind from there comes at my bidding.
Now I too pronounce sentence upon them.
[13]See! like storm clouds he advances,
like a whirlwind, his chariots;
Swifter than eagles, his horses:
"Woe to us! we are ruined."
[14]Cleanse your heart of evil, Jerusalem,
that you may be saved.
How long will you entertain wicked schemes?
[15]A voice proclaims it from Dan,
announces wickedness from Mount Ephraim: [16]"Make this known to the nations,
announce it against Jerusalem:
Besiegers are coming from the distant land,
shouting their war cry against the cities of Judah."
[17]Like watchers in the fields they surround her,
for she has rebelled against me—oracle of the LORD.
[18]Your conduct, your deeds, have done this to you;
how bitter is this evil of yours,
how it reaches to your very heart!
[19]My body! my body! how I writhe!
The walls of my heart!
My heart beats wildly,
I cannot be still;
For I myself have heard the blast of the horn,
the battle cry.
[20]Ruin upon ruin is reported;
the whole land is laid waste.
In an instant my tents are ravaged;
in a flash, my shelters.
[21]How long must I see the signal,
hear the blast of the horn!
[22]My people are fools,
they do not know me;
They are senseless children,
without understanding;
They are wise at evil,
but they do not know how to do good.
[23]I looked at the earth—it was waste and void;
at the heavens—their light had gone out!
[24]I looked at the mountains—they were quaking!
All the hills were crumbling!
[25]I looked—there was no one;
even the birds of the air had flown away!
[26]I looked—the garden land was a wilderness,
with all its cities destroyed
before the LORD, before his blazing anger.

[27]For thus says the LORD:
The whole earth shall be waste,
but I will not wholly destroy it.
[28]Because of this the earth shall mourn,
the heavens above shall darken;
I have spoken, I will not change my mind,
I have decided, I will not turn back.
[29]At the shout of rider and archer
each city takes to flight;
They shrink into the thickets,
they scale the rocks:
All the cities are abandoned,
no one lives in them.
[30]You now who are doomed, what are you doing
dressing in purple,
bedecking yourself with gold,
Enlarging your eyes with kohl?
You beautify yourself in vain!
Your lovers reject you,
they seek your life.
[31]Yes, I hear the cry, like that of a woman in labor,
like the anguish of a mother bearing her first child—
The cry of daughter Zion gasping,
as she stretches out her hands:
"Ah, woe is me! I sink exhausted before my killers!"

☐ EPHESIANS 3

Commission to Preach God's Plan. 3:1 Because of this, I, Paul, a prisoner of Christ [Jesus] for you Gentiles— [2]if, as I suppose, you have heard of the stewardship of God's grace that was given to me for your benefit, [3][namely, that] the mystery was made known to me by revelation, as I have written briefly earlier. [4]When you read this you can understand my insight into the mystery of Christ, [5]which was not made known to human beings in other generations as it has now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit, [6]that the Gentiles are coheirs, members of the same body, and copartners in the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

[7]Of this I became a minister by the gift of God's grace that was granted me in accord with the exercise of his power. [8]To me, the very least of all the holy ones, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the inscrutable riches of Christ, [9]and to bring to light [for all] what is the plan of the mystery hidden from ages past in God who created all things, [10]so that the manifold wisdom of God might now be made known through the church to the principalities and authorities in the heavens. [11]This was according to the eternal purpose that he accomplished in Christ Jesus our Lord, [12]in whom we have boldness of speech and confidence of access through faith in him. [13]So I ask you not to lose heart over my afflictions for you; this is your glory.

Prayer for the Readers. [14]For this reason I kneel before the Father, [15]from whom every family in heaven and on earth is named, [16]that he may grant you in accord with the riches of his glory to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in the inner self, [17]and that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith; that you, rooted and grounded in love, [18]may have strength to comprehend with all the holy ones what is the breadth and length and height and depth, [19]and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, so that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.

[20]Now to him who is able to accomplish far more than all we ask or imagine, by the power at work within us, [21]to him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus to all generations, forever and ever. Amen.

The Rosary is a crown of roses that we place on the heads of Jesus and Mary.

☐ JEREMIAH 5-6

Universal Corruption. 5:1 Roam the streets of Jerusalem,
look about and observe,
Search through her squares,
to find even one Who acts justly
and seeks honesty,
and I will pardon her!
[2]They say, "As the LORD lives,"
but in fact they swear falsely.
[3]LORD, do your eyes not search for honesty?
You struck them, but they did not flinch;
you laid them low, but they refused correction;
They set their faces harder than stone,
and refused to return.
[4]I thought: These are only the lowly,
they behave foolishly;
For they do not know the way of the LORD,
the justice of their God.
[5]Let me go to the leaders
and speak with them;
For they must know the way of the LORD,
the justice of their God.
But, one and all, they have broken the yoke,
torn off the harness.
[6]Therefore, lions from the forest slay them,
wolves of the desert ravage them,
Leopards keep watch round their cities:
all who come out are torn to pieces,
For their crimes are many,
their rebellions numerous.
[7]Why should I pardon you?
Your children have forsaken me,
they swear by gods that are no gods.
I fed them, but they commit adultery;
to the prostitute's house they throng.
[8]They are lustful stallions,
each neighs after the other's wife.
[9]Should I not punish them for this?—oracle of the LORD;
on a nation like this should I not take vengeance?
[10]Climb her terraces, and ravage them,
destroy them completely.

Tear away her tendrils,
they do not belong to the LORD.
[11]For they have openly rebelled against me,
both the house of Israel and the house of Judah—
oracle of the LORD.
[12]They denied the LORD,
saying, "He is nothing,
No evil shall come to us,
neither sword nor famine shall we see.
[13]The prophets are wind,
and the word is not with them.
Let it be done to them!"
[14]Therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of hosts, because you have said this—See! I make my words
a fire in your mouth,
And this people the wood
that it shall devour!—
[15]Beware! I will bring against you a nation from far away,
O House of Israel—oracle of the LORD;
A long-lived nation, an ancient nation,
a people whose language you do not know,
whose speech you cannot understand.
[16]Their quivers are like open graves;
all of them are warriors.
[17]They will devour your harvest and your bread,
devour your sons and your daughters,
Devour your sheep and cattle,
devour your vines and fig trees;
With their swords they will beat down
the fortified cities in which you trust.

[18]Yet even in those days—oracle of the LORD—I will not completely destroy you. [19]And when they ask, "Why has the LORD our God done all these things to us?" say to them, "As you have abandoned me to serve foreign gods in your own land, so shall you serve foreigners in a land not your own."

[20]Announce this to the house of Jacob, proclaim it in Judah:
[21]Pay attention to this,
you foolish and senseless people,
Who have eyes and do not see,
who have ears and do not hear.
[22]Should you not fear me—oracle of the LORD—
should you not tremble before me?
I made the sandy shore the sea's limit,
which by eternal decree it may not overstep.
Toss though it may, it is to no avail;
though its billows roar, they cannot overstep.
[23]But this people's heart is stubborn and rebellious;

they turn and go away, [24]And do not say in their hearts,
"Let us fear the LORD, our God,
Who gives us rain
early and late, in its time;
Who watches for us
over the appointed weeks of harvest."
[25]Your crimes have prevented these things,
your sins have turned these blessings away from you.
[26]For criminals lurk among my people;
like fowlers they set traps,
but it is human beings they catch.
[27]Their houses are as full of treachery
as a bird-cage is of birds;
Therefore they grow powerful and rich,
[28]fat and sleek.
They pass over wicked deeds;
justice they do not defend
By advancing the claim of the orphan or judging the cause of the poor.
[29]Shall I not punish these things?—oracle of the LORD;
on a nation such as this shall I not take vengeance?
[30]Something shocking and horrible
has happened in the land:
[31]The prophets prophesy falsely,
and the priests teach on their own authority;
Yet my people like it this way;
what will you do when the end comes?

The Enemy at the Gates. 6:1 Seek refuge, Benjaminites,
from the midst of Jerusalem!
Blow the trumpet in Tekoa,
raise a signal over Beth-haccherem;
For disaster threatens from the north,
and mighty destruction.
[2]Lovely and delicate daughter Zion, you are ruined!
[3]Against her, shepherds come with their flocks;
all around, they pitch their tents against her;
each one grazes his portion.
[4]"Prepare for war against her,
Up! let us rush upon her at midday!"
"Woe to us! the day is waning, evening shadows lengthen!"
[5]"Up! let us rush upon her by night, destroy her palaces!"
[6]For thus says the LORD of hosts:
Hew down her trees,
throw up a siege mound against Jerusalem.
Woe to the city marked for punishment;

there is nothing but oppression within her!
[7]As a well keeps its waters fresh,
so she keeps fresh her wickedness.
Violence and destruction resound in her;
ever before me are wounds and blows.
[8]Be warned, Jerusalem,
or I will be estranged from you,
And I will turn you into a wilderness,
a land where no one dwells.
[9]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Glean, glean like a vine
the remnant of Israel;
Pass your hand, like a vintager,
repeatedly over the tendrils.
[10]To whom shall I speak?
whom shall I warn, and be heard?
See! their ears are uncircumcised,
they cannot pay attention;
See, the word of the LORD has become for them
an object of scorn, for which they have no taste.
[11]But the wrath of the LORD brims up within me,
I am weary of holding it in.
I will pour it out upon the child in the street,
upon the young men gathered together.
Yes, husband and wife will be taken,
elder with ancient.
[12]Their houses will fall to others,
their fields and their wives as well;
For I will stretch forth my hand against those who dwell in the land—oracle of the LORD.
[13]Small and great alike, all are greedy for gain;
prophet and priest, all practice fraud.
[14]They have treated lightly
the injury to my people:
"Peace, peace!" they say,
though there is no peace.
[15]They have acted shamefully, committing abominations,
yet they are not at all ashamed,
they do not know how to blush.
Therefore they will fall among the fallen;
in the time of their punishment they shall stumble,
says the LORD.
[16]Thus says the LORD:
Stand by the earliest roads,
ask the pathways of old,
"Which is the way to good?" and walk it;
thus you will find rest for yourselves.
But they said, "We will not walk it."
[17]I raised up watchmen for them:
"Pay attention to the sound of the trumpet!"

But they said, “We will not pay attention!”
[18]Therefore hear, O nations,
and know, O earth,
what I will do with them:
[19]See, I bring evil upon this people,
the fruit of their own schemes,
Because they did not pay attention to my words,
because they rejected my law.
[20]Of what use to me is incense that comes from Sheba,
or sweet cane from far-off lands?
Your burnt offerings find no favor with me,
your sacrifices do not please me.
[21]Therefore, thus says the LORD:
See, I will place before this people obstacles to trip them up;
Parents and children alike,
neighbors and friends shall perish.
[22]Thus says the LORD:
See, a people comes from the land of the north,
a great nation, rising from the very ends of the earth.
[23]Bow and javelin they wield;
cruel and pitiless are they.
They sound like the roaring sea
as they ride forth on horses,
Each in his place for battle against you, daughter Zion.
[24]We hear news of them;
our hands hang helpless,
Anguish takes hold of us,
pangs like a woman in childbirth.
[25]Do not go out into the field,
do not step into the street,
For the enemy has a sword;
terror on every side!
[26]Daughter of my people, dress in sackcloth,
roll in the ashes.
Mourn as for an only child
with bitter wailing:
“How suddenly the destroyer comes upon us!”
[27]A tester for my people I have appointed you,
to search and test their way.
[28]Arch-rebels are they all,
dealers in slander,
bronze and iron, all of them,
destroyers they are.
[29]The bellows are scorched,
the lead is consumed by the fire;
In vain has the refiner refined,
the wicked are not drawn off.

30 "Silver rejected" they shall be called,
for the LORD has rejected them.

☐ EPHESIANS 4

Unity in the Body. 4:1 I, then, a prisoner for the Lord, urge you to live in a manner worthy of the call you have received, 2 with all humility and gentleness, with patience, bearing with one another through love, 3 striving to preserve the unity of the spirit through the bond of peace: 4 one body and one Spirit, as you were also called to the one hope of your call; 5 one Lord, one faith, one baptism; 6 one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

Diversity of Gifts. 7 But grace was given to each of us according to the measure of Christ's gift. 8 Therefore, it says:

"He ascended on high and took prisoners captive;
he gave gifts to men."

9 What does "he ascended" mean except that he also descended into the lower [regions] of the earth? 10 The one who descended is also the one who ascended far above all the heavens, that he might fill all things.

11 And he gave some as apostles, others as prophets, others as evangelists, others as pastors and teachers, 12 to equip the holy ones for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ, 13 until we all attain to the unity of faith and knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood, to the extent of the full stature of Christ, 14 so that we may no longer be infants, tossed by waves and swept along by every wind of teaching arising from human trickery, from their cunning in the interests of deceitful scheming. 15 Rather, living the truth in love, we should grow in every way into him who is the head, Christ, 16 from whom the whole body, joined and held together by every supporting ligament, with the proper functioning of each part, brings about the body's growth and builds itself up in love.

Renewal in Christ. 17 So I declare and testify in the Lord that you must no longer live as the Gentiles do, in the futility of their minds; 18 darkened in understanding, alienated from the life of God because of their ignorance, because of their hardness of heart, 19 they have become callous and have handed themselves over to licentiousness for the practice of every kind of impurity to excess. 20 That is not how you learned Christ, 21 assuming that you have heard of him and were taught in him, as truth is in Jesus, 22 that you should put away the old self of your former way of life, corrupted through deceitful desires, 23 and be renewed in the spirit of your minds, 24 and put on the new self, created in God's way in righteousness and holiness of truth.

Rules for the New Life. 25 Therefore, putting away falsehood, speak the truth, each one to his neighbor, for we are members one of another. 26 Be angry but do not sin; do not let the sun set on your anger, 27 and do not leave room for the devil. 28 The thief must no longer steal, but rather labor, doing honest work with his [own] hands, so that he may have something to share with one in need. 29 No foul language should come out of your mouths, but only such as is good for needed edification, that it may impart grace to those who hear. 30 And do not grieve the holy Spirit of God, with which you were sealed for the day of redemption. 31 All bitterness, fury, anger, shouting, and reviling must be removed from you, along with all malice. 32 [And] be kind to one another, compassionate, forgiving one another as God has forgiven you in Christ.

Purity prepares the soul for love, and love confirms the soul in purity.

The Temple Sermon. 7:1 The word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]Stand at the gate of the house of the LORD and proclaim this message there: Hear the word of the LORD, all you of Judah who enter these gates to worship the LORD! [3]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Reform your ways and your deeds so that I may dwell with you in this place. [4]Do not put your trust in these deceptive words: "The temple of the LORD! The temple of the LORD! The temple of the LORD!" [5]Only if you thoroughly reform your ways and your deeds; if each of you deals justly with your neighbor; [6]if you no longer oppress the alien, the orphan, and the widow; if you no longer shed innocent blood in this place or follow after other gods to your own harm, [7]only then will I let you continue to dwell in this place, in the land I gave your ancestors long ago and forever.

[8]But look at you! You put your trust in deceptive words to your own loss! [9]Do you think you can steal and murder, commit adultery and perjury, sacrifice to Baal, follow other gods that you do not know, [10]and then come and stand in my presence in this house, which bears my name, and say: "We are safe! We can commit all these abominations again!"? [11]Has this house which bears my name become in your eyes a den of thieves? I have seen it for myself!—oracle of the LORD. [12]Go to my place at Shiloh, where I made my name dwell in the beginning. See what I did to it because of the wickedness of my people Israel. [13]And now, because you have committed all these deeds—oracle of the LORD—because you did not listen, though I spoke to you untiringly, and because you did not answer, though I called you, [14]I will do to this house, which bears my name, in which you trust, and to the place which I gave you and your ancestors, exactly what I did to Shiloh. [15]I will cast you out of my sight, as I cast away all your kindred, all the offspring of Ephraim.

Abuses in Worship. [16]You, now, must not intercede for this people! Do not raise a cry or prayer in their behalf! Do not press me, for I will not listen to you! [17]Do you not see what they are doing in the cities of Judah, in the streets of Jerusalem? [18]The children gather wood, their fathers light the fire, and the women knead dough to make cakes for the Queen of Heaven, while libations are poured out to other gods—all to offend me! [19]Are they really offending me—oracle of the LORD—or rather themselves, to their own disgrace? [20]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: my anger and my wrath will pour out upon this place, upon human being and beast, upon the trees of the field and the fruits of the earth; it will burn and not be quenched.

[21]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Heap your burnt offerings upon your sacrifices; eat up the meat! [22]In speaking to your ancestors on the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, I gave them no command concerning burnt offering or sacrifice. [23]This rather is what I commanded them: Listen to my voice; then I will be your God and you shall be my people. Walk exactly in the way I command you, so that you may prosper.

[24]But they did not listen to me, nor did they pay attention. They walked in the stubbornness of their evil hearts and turned their backs, not their faces, to me. [25]From the day that your ancestors left the land of Egypt even to this day, I kept on sending all my servants the prophets to you. [26]Yet they have not listened to me nor have they paid attention; they have stiffened their necks and done worse than their ancestors. [27]When you speak all these words to them, they will not listen to you either. When you call to them, they will not answer you. [28]Say to them: This is the nation which does not listen to the voice of the LORD, its God, or take correction. Faithfulness has disappeared; the word itself is banished from their speech.

[29]Cut off your hair and throw it away!
on the heights raise a lament;
The LORD has indeed rejected and cast off
the generation that draws down his wrath.

[30]The people of Judah have done what is evil in my eyes—oracle of the LORD. They have set up their detestable things in the house which bears my name, thereby defiling it. [31]In the Valley of Ben-hinnom they go on building the high places of Topheth to sacrifice their sons and daughters by fire, something I never commanded or considered. [32]Be assured! Days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when they will no longer say "Topheth" or "Valley of Ben-hinnom" but "Valley of Slaughter." For want of space, Topheth will become burial ground. [33]The corpses of this people will be food for the birds of the sky and beasts of the earth, which no one will drive away. [34]I will silence the cry of joy, the cry of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem; for the land will be turned to rubble.

8:1 At that time—oracle of the LORD—the bones of the kings and princes of Judah, the bones of the priests and the prophets, and the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem will be brought out of their graves [2]and spread out before the sun, the moon, and the whole host of heaven, which they loved and served, which they followed, consulted, and worshiped. They will not be gathered up for burial, but will lie like dung upon the ground. [3]Death will be preferred to life by all the survivors of this wicked people who remain in any of the places to which I banish them—oracle of the LORD of hosts.

Israel's Conduct Incomprehensible. [4]Tell them: Thus says the LORD:
When someone falls, do they not rise again?
if they turn away, do they not turn back?
[5]Why then do these people resist
with persistent rebellion?
Why do they cling to deception,
refuse to turn back?
[6]I have listened closely:
they speak what is not true;
No one regrets wickedness,
saying, "What have I done?"
Everyone keeps on running their course,
like a horse dashing into battle.
[7]Even the stork in the sky
knows its seasons;
Turtledove, swift, and thrush
observe the time of their return,
But my people do not know
the order of the LORD.
[8]How can you say, "We are wise,
we have the law of the LORD"?
See, that has been changed into falsehood
by the lying pen of the scribes!
[9]The wise are put to shame,
terrified, and trapped;
Since they have rejected the word of the LORD,
what sort of wisdom do they have?

Shameless in Their Crimes. [10]Therefore, I will give their wives to other men, their fields to new owners.
Small and great alike, all are greedy for gain,
prophet and priest, all practice fraud.
[11]They have treated lightly
the injury to the daughter of my people:
"Peace, peace!" they say,
though there is no peace.
[12]They have acted shamefully; they have done abominable things,
yet they are not at all ashamed,
they do not know how to blush.
Hence they shall be among those who fall;
in their time of punishment they shall stumble,
says the LORD.

Threats of Punishment. [13]I will gather them all in—oracle of the LORD:

no grapes on the vine,
No figs on the fig trees,
foliage withered!
Whatever I have given them is gone.
[14]Why do we remain here?
Let us assemble and flee to the fortified cities,
where we will meet our doom;
For the LORD our God has doomed us,
he has given us poisoned water to drink,
because we have sinned against the LORD.
[15]We wait for peace to no avail;
for a time of healing, but terror comes instead.
[16]From Dan is heard
the snorting of horses;
The neighing of stallions
shakes the whole land.
They come to devour the land and everything in it,
the city and its inhabitants.
[17]Yes, I will send against you poisonous snakes.
Against them no charm will work
when they bite you—oracle of the LORD.

The Prophet's Grief over the People's Suffering. [18]My joy is gone, grief is upon me,
my heart is sick.
[19]Listen! the cry of the daughter of my people,
far and wide in the land!
"Is the LORD no longer in Zion, is her King no longer in her midst?"
Why do they provoke me with their idols,
with their foreign nonentities?
[20]"The harvest is over, the summer ended,
but we have not yet been saved!"
[21]I am broken by the injury of the daughter of my people.
I am in mourning; horror has seized me.
[22]Is there no balm in Gilead,
no healer there?
Why does new flesh not grow
over the wound of the daughter of my people?
[23]Oh, that my head were a spring of water,
my eyes a fountain of tears,
That I might weep day and night
over the slain from the daughter of my people!

☐ EPHESIANS 5

5:1 So be imitators of God, as beloved children, [2]and live in love, as Christ loved us and handed himself over for us as a sacrificial offering to God for a fragrant aroma. [3]Immorality or any impurity or greed must not even be mentioned among you, as is fitting among holy ones, [4]no obscenity or silly or suggestive talk, which is out of place, but instead, thanksgiving. [5]Be sure of this, that no immoral or impure or greedy person, that is, an idolater, has any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.

Duty to Live in the Light. [6]Let no one deceive you with empty arguments, for because of these things the wrath of God is coming upon the disobedient. [7]So do not be associated with them. [8]For you were once darkness, but now you are light in the Lord. Live as children of light, [9]for light produces every kind of goodness and righteousness and truth. [10]Try to learn what is pleasing to the Lord. [11]Take no part in the fruitless works of darkness; rather expose them, [12]for it is shameful even to mention the things done by them in secret; [13]but everything exposed by the light becomes visible, [14]for everything that becomes visible is light. Therefore, it says:

"Awake, O sleeper,
and arise from the dead,
and Christ will give you light."

[15]Watch carefully then how you live, not as foolish persons but as wise, [16]making the most of the opportunity, because the days are evil. [17]Therefore, do not continue in ignorance, but try to understand what is the will of the Lord. [18]And do not get drunk on wine, in which lies debauchery, but be filled with the Spirit, [19]addressing one another [in] psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and playing to the Lord in your hearts, [20]giving thanks always and for everything in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ to God the Father.

Wives and Husbands. [21]Be subordinate to one another out of reverence for Christ. [22]Wives should be subordinate to their husbands as to the Lord. [23]For the husband is head of his wife just as Christ is head of the church, he himself the savior of the body. [24]As the church is subordinate to Christ, so wives should be subordinate to their husbands in everything. [25]Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ loved the church and handed himself over for her [26]to sanctify her, cleansing her by the bath of water with the word, [27]that he might present to himself the church in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish. [28]So [also] husbands should love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. [29]For no one hates his own flesh but rather nourishes and cherishes it, even as Christ does the church, [30]because we are members of his body.

[31]"For this reason a man shall leave [his] father and [his] mother and be joined to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh."

[32]This is a great mystery, but I speak in reference to Christ and the church. [33]In any case, each one of you should love his wife as himself, and the wife should respect her husband.

☐ JEREMIAH 9-10

The Corruption of the People. 9:1 Oh, that I had in the wilderness a travelers' lodging!
That I might leave my people
and depart from them.

They are all adulterers,
a band of traitors.
[2]They ready their tongues like a drawn bow;
with lying, and not with truth,
they are powerful in the land.
They go from evil to evil,
and me they do not know—oracle of the LORD.
[3]Be on your guard, everyone against his neighbor;
put no trust in any brother.
Every brother imitates Jacob, the supplanter,
every neighbor is guilty of slander.
[4]Each one deceives the other,
no one speaks the truth.
They have accustomed their tongues to lying,
they are perverse and cannot repent.
[5]Violence upon violence,
deceit upon deceit:
They refuse to know me—
oracle of the LORD.
[6]Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts:
I will refine them and test them;
how else should I deal with the daughter of my people?
[7]A murderous arrow is their tongue,
their mouths utter deceit;
They speak peaceably with their neighbors,
but in their hearts they lay an ambush!
[8]Should I not punish them for these deeds—oracle of the LORD;
on a nation such as this should I not take vengeance?

Dirge over the Ravaged Land. [9]Over the mountains I shall break out in cries of lamentation, over the pastures in the wilderness, in a dirge:
They are scorched, and no one crosses them,
no sound of lowing cattle;
Birds of the air as well as beasts,
all have fled and are gone.
[10]I will turn Jerusalem into a heap of ruins,
a haunt of jackals;
The cities of Judah I will make a waste,
where no one dwells.

[11]Who is wise enough to understand this? To whom has the mouth of the LORD spoken? Let him declare it!

Why is the land ravaged,
scorched like a wilderness no one crosses?

[12]The LORD said: Because they have abandoned my law, which I set before them, and did not listen to me or follow it, [13]but followed instead their stubborn hearts and the Baals, as their ancestors had taught them, [14]therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See now, I will give this people wormwood to eat and poisoned water to drink. [15]I will scatter them among nations whom neither they nor their ancestors have known; I will send the sword to pursue them until I have completely destroyed them.

[16]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Inquire, and call the wailing women to come;
summon the most skilled of them.
[17]Let them come quickly
and raise for us a dirge,
That our eyes may run with tears,
our pupils flow with water.
[18]The sound of the dirge is heard from Zion:
We are ruined and greatly ashamed;
We have left the land,
given up our dwellings!
[19]Hear, you women, the word of the LORD,
let your ears receive the word of his mouth.
Teach your daughters a dirge,
and each other a lament:
[20]Death has come up through our windows,
has entered our citadels,
To cut down children in the street,
young people in the squares.
[21]Corpses shall fall
like dung in the open field,
Like sheaves behind the harvester,
with no one to gather them.

True Glory. [22]Thus says the LORD:
Let not the wise boast of his wisdom,
nor the strong boast of his strength,
nor the rich man boast of his riches;
[23]But rather, let those who boast, boast of this,
that in their prudence they know me,
Know that I, the LORD, act with fidelity,
justice, and integrity on earth.
How I take delight in these—oracle of the LORD.

False Circumcision. [24]See, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when I will demand an account of all those circumcised in the foreskin: [25]Egypt and Judah, Edom and the Ammonites, Moab, and those who live in the wilderness and shave their temples. For all the nations are uncircumcised, even the whole house of Israel is uncircumcised at heart.

The Folly of Idolatry. 10:1 Hear the word the LORD speaks to you, house of Israel. [2]Thus says the LORD:

Do not learn the ways of the nations,
and have no fear of the signs in the heavens,
even though the nations fear them.
[3]For the carvings of the nations are nonentities, wood cut from the forest,
Fashioned by artisans with the adze,
[4]adorned with silver and gold.
With nails and hammers they are fastened,
so they do not fall.
[5]Like a scarecrow in a cucumber field are they,

they cannot speak;
They must be carried about,
for they cannot walk.
Do not fear them, they can do no harm,
neither can they do good.
[6]No one is like you, LORD,
you are great,
great and mighty is your name.
[7]Who would not fear you,
King of the nations,
for it is your due!
Among all the wisest of the nations,
and in all their domains,
there is none like you.
[8]One and all they are stupid and senseless,
the instruction from nonentities—only wood!
[9]Silver plates brought from Tarshish,
and gold from Ophir,
The work of the artisan
and the handiwork of the smelter, Clothed with violet and purple—
all of them the work of skilled workers.
[10]The LORD is truly God,
he is the living God, the eternal King,
Before whose anger the earth quakes,
whose wrath the nations cannot endure.

[11]Thus shall you say of them: The gods that did not make heaven and earth—let these perish from earth and from beneath heaven!

[12]The one who made the earth by his power, established the world by his wisdom,
and by his skill stretched out the heavens.
[13]When he thunders, the waters in the heavens roar,
and he brings up clouds from the end of the earth,
Makes lightning flash in the rain,
and brings forth the wind from his storehouses.
[14]Everyone is too stupid to know;
every artisan is put to shame by his idol:
He has molded a fraud,
without breath of life.
[15]They are nothing, objects of ridicule;
they will perish in their time of punishment.
[16]Jacob's portion is nothing like them:
for he is the maker of everything!
Israel is his very own tribe,
LORD of hosts is his name.

Abandonment of Judah. [17]Gather up your bundle from the land,
City living under siege!
[18]For thus says the LORD:

Now, at this time
I will sling away the inhabitants of the land;
I will hem them in,
that they may be taken.
[19]Woe is me! I am undone,
my wound is beyond healing.
Yet I had thought:
if I make light of my sickness, I can bear it.
[20]My tent is ruined,
all its cords are severed.
My children have left me, they are no more:
no one to pitch my tent,
no one to raise its curtains.
[21]How stupid are the shepherds!
The LORD they have not sought;
For this reason they have failed,
and all their flocks scattered.
[22]Listen! a rumor! here it comes,
a great commotion from the land of the north:
To make the cities of Judah a desolation,
the haunt of jackals.

Prayer of Jeremiah. [23]I know, LORD,
that no one chooses their way,
Nor determines their course
nor directs their own step.
[24]Correct me, LORD, but with equity,
not in anger, lest you diminish me.
[25]Pour out your wrath on the nations that do not know you,
on the tribes that do not call your name;
For they have utterly devoured Jacob,
and laid waste his home.

Children and Parents. 6:1 Children, obey your parents [in the Lord], for this is right. [2]"Honor your father and mother." This is the first commandment with a promise, [3]"that it may go well with you and that you may have a long life on earth." [4]Fathers, do not provoke your children to anger, but bring them up with the training and instruction of the Lord.

Slaves and Masters. [5]Slaves, be obedient to your human masters with fear and trembling, in sincerity of heart, as to Christ, [6]not only when being watched, as currying favor, but as slaves of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart, [7]willingly serving the Lord and not human beings, [8]knowing that each will be requited from the Lord for whatever good he does, whether he is slave or free. [9]Masters, act in the same way toward them, and stop bullying, knowing that both they and you have a Master in heaven and that with him there is no partiality.

Battle against Evil. [10]Finally, draw your strength from the Lord and from his mighty power. [11]Put on the armor of God so that you may be able to stand firm against the tactics of the devil. [12]For our struggle is not with flesh and blood but with the principalities, with the powers, with the world rulers of this present darkness, with the evil spirits in the heavens. [13]Therefore, put on the armor of God, that you may be able to resist on the evil day and, having done everything, to hold your ground. [14]So stand fast with your loins girded in truth, clothed with righteousness as a breastplate, [15]and your feet shod in readiness for the gospel of peace. [16]In all circumstances, hold faith as a shield, to quench all [the] flaming arrows of the evil one. [17]And take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God.

Constant Prayer. [18]With all prayer and supplication, pray at every opportunity in the Spirit. To that end, be watchful with all perseverance and supplication for all the holy ones [19]and also for me, that speech may be given me to open my mouth, to make known with boldness the mystery of the gospel [20]for which I am an ambassador in chains, so that I may have the courage to speak as I must.

A Final Message. [21]So that you also may have news of me and of what I am doing, Tychicus, my beloved brother and trustworthy minister in the Lord, will tell you everything. [22]I am sending him to you for this very purpose, so that you may know about us and that he may encourage your hearts.

[23]Peace be to the brothers, and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ. [24]Grace be with all who love our Lord Jesus Christ in immortality.

☐ JEREMIAH 11-12

Plea for Fidelity to the Covenant. 11:1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]Speak to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, [3]and say to them: Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Cursed be anyone who does not observe the words of this covenant, [4]which I commanded your ancestors the day I brought them up out of the land of Egypt, that iron furnace, saying: Listen to my voice and do all that I command you. Then you shall be my people, and I will be your God. [5]Thus I will fulfill the oath I swore to your ancestors, to give them a land flowing with milk and honey, the one you have today. "Amen, LORD," I answered.

[6]Then the LORD said to me: Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem: Hear the words of this covenant and obey them. [7]I warned your ancestors unceasingly from the day I brought them up out of the land of Egypt even to this day: obey my voice. [8]But they did not listen or obey. They each walked in the stubbornness of their evil hearts, till I brought upon them all the threats of this covenant which they had failed to observe as I commanded them.

[9]A conspiracy has been found, the LORD said to me, among the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: [10]They have returned to the crimes of their ancestors who refused to obey my words. They also have followed and served other gods; the house of Israel and the house of Judah have broken the covenant I made with their ancestors. [11]Therefore, thus says the LORD: See, I am bringing upon them a disaster they cannot escape. Though they cry out to me, I will not listen to them. [12]Then the cities of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem will go and cry out to the gods to whom they have been offering incense. But these gods will give them no help whatever in the time of their disaster.

[13]For as many as your cities
are your gods, O Judah!
As many as the streets of Jerusalem
are the altars for sacrifice to Baal.

[14]Now, you must not intercede for this people; do not raise on their behalf a cry or prayer! I will not listen when they call to me in the time of their disaster.

Sacrifices of No Avail. [15]What right has my beloved in my house, while she devises her plots?
Can vows and sacred meat turn away
your disaster from you?
Will you still be jubilant
[16]when you hear the great tumult?
The LORD has named you
"a spreading olive tree, a pleasure to behold";
Now he sets fire to it,
its branches burn.

[17]The LORD of hosts who planted you has decreed disaster for you because of the evil done by the house of Israel and by the house of Judah, who provoked me by sacrificing to Baal.

The Plot Against Jeremiah. [18]I knew it because the LORD informed me: at that time you showed me their doings.
[19]Yet I was like a trusting lamb led to slaughter, not knowing that they were hatching plots against me: "Let us destroy the tree in its vigor; let us cut him off from the land of the living, so that his name will no longer be remembered."

[20]But, you, LORD of hosts, just Judge, searcher of mind and heart,
Let me witness the vengeance you take on them,
for to you I have entrusted my cause!

[21]Therefore, thus says the LORD concerning the men of Anathoth who seek your life and say, "Do not prophesy in the name of the LORD; otherwise you shall die by our hand." [22]Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts: I am going to punish them. The young men shall die by the sword; their sons and daughters shall die by famine. [23]None shall be spared among them, for I will bring disaster upon the men of Anathoth, the year of their punishment.

12:1 You would be in the right, O LORD,
if I should dispute with you;
even so, I must lay out the case against you.
Why does the way of the wicked prosper,
why do all the treacherous live in contentment?
[2]You planted them; they have taken root,
they flourish and bear fruit as well.
You are upon their lips,
but far from their thoughts.
[3]LORD, you know me, you see me,
you have found that my heart is with you.
Pick them out like sheep for the butcher,
set them apart for the day of slaughter.
[4]How long must the land mourn,
the grass of the whole countryside wither?
Because of the wickedness of those who dwell in it
beasts and birds disappear,
for they say, "God does not care about our future."

[5]If running against men has wearied you,
how will you race against horses?
And if you are safe only on a level stretch,
what will you do in the jungle of the Jordan?

[6]Your kindred and your father's house, even they betray you; they have recruited a force against you. Do not believe them, even when they speak fair words to you.

The Lord's Complaint. [7]I have abandoned my house,
cast off my heritage;
The beloved of my soul I have delivered
into the hand of her foes.
[8]My heritage has become for me
like a lion in the thicket;
She has raised her voice against me,
therefore she has incurred my hatred.
[9]My heritage is a prey for hyenas,
is surrounded by vultures;
Come, gather together, all you wild animals,
come and eat!
[10]Many shepherds have ravaged my vineyard,
have trampled down my heritage;
My delightful portion they have turned into a desert waste.
[11]They have made it a mournful waste,
desolate before me,
Desolate, the whole land,
because no one takes it to heart.
[12]Upon every height in the wilderness
marauders have appeared.
The LORD has a sword that consumes
the land from end to end:
no peace for any living thing.
[13]They have sown wheat and reaped thorns,
they have tired themselves out for no purpose;
They are shamed by their harvest,
the burning anger of the LORD.

Judah's Neighbors. [14]Thus says the LORD, against all my evil neighbors who plunder the heritage I gave my people Israel as their own: See, I will uproot them from their land; the house of Judah I will uproot in their midst.

[15]But after uprooting them, I will have compassion on them again and bring them back, each to their heritage, each to their land. [16]And if they truly learn my people's custom of swearing by my name, "As the LORD lives," just as they taught my people to swear by Baal, then they shall be built up in the midst of my people. [17]But if they do not obey, I will uproot and destroy that nation entirely—oracle of the LORD.

□ 1 THESSALONIANS 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy to the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ: grace to you and peace.

Thanksgiving for Their Faith. [2]We give thanks to God always for all of you, remembering you in our prayers, unceasingly [3]calling to mind your work of faith and labor of love and endurance in hope of our Lord Jesus Christ, before our God and Father, [4]knowing, brothers loved by God, how you were chosen. [5]For our gospel did not come to you in word alone, but also in power and in the holy Spirit and [with] much conviction. You know what sort of people we were [among] you for your sake. [6]And you became imitators of us and of the Lord, receiving the word in great affliction, with joy from the holy Spirit, [7]so that you became a model for all the believers in Macedonia and in Achaia. [8]For from you the word of the Lord has sounded forth not only in Macedonia and [in] Achaia, but in every place your faith in God has gone forth, so that we have no need to say anything. [9]For they themselves openly declare about us what sort of reception we had among you, and how you turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God [10]and to await his Son from heaven, whom he raised from [the] dead, Jesus, who delivers us from the coming wrath.

Blessed Pope John XXIII

> To keep me from sin and straying from Him, God has used devotion to the Sacred Heart of Jesus in the Blessed Sacrament. My life vows are destined to be spent in the light irradiating from the tabernacle, and it is to the heart of Jesus that I dare go for the solution of all my problems.

☐ JEREMIAH 13-14

Judah's Corruption. 13:1 The LORD said to me: Go buy yourself a linen loincloth; wear it on your loins, but do not put it in water. [2]I bought the loincloth, as the LORD commanded, and put it on. [3]A second time the word of the LORD came to me thus: [4]Take the loincloth which you bought and are wearing, and go at once to the Perath; hide it there in a cleft of the rock. [5]Obedient to the LORD's command, I went to the Perath and buried the loincloth. [6]After a long time, the LORD said to me: Go now to the Perath and fetch the loincloth which I told you to hide there. [7]So I went to the Perath, looked for the loincloth and took it from the place I had hidden it. But it was rotted, good for nothing! [8]Then the word came to me from the LORD: [9]Thus says the LORD: So also I will allow the pride of Judah to rot, the great pride of Jerusalem. [10]This wicked people who refuse to obey my words, who walk in the stubbornness of their hearts and follow other gods, serving and worshiping them, will be like this loincloth, good for nothing. [11]For, as the loincloth clings to a man's loins, so I made the whole house of Israel and the whole house of Judah cling to me—oracle of the LORD—to be my people, my fame, my praise, my glory. But they did not listen.

The Broken Wineflask. [12]Now speak to them this word: Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Every wineflask should be filled with wine. If they reply, "Do we not know that every wineflask should be filled with wine?" [13]say to them: Thus says the LORD: Beware! I am making all the inhabitants of this land drunk, the kings who sit on David's throne, the priests and prophets, and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [14]I will smash them against each other, parents and children together—oracle of the LORD—showing no compassion, I will neither spare nor pity, but I will destroy them.

A Last Warning. [15]Listen and give ear, do not be arrogant,
for the LORD speaks.
[16]Give glory to the LORD, your God,
before he brings darkness;
Before your feet stumble
on mountains at twilight;
Before the light you look for turns to darkness,
changes into black clouds.
[17]If you do not listen to this in your pride,
I will weep many tears in secret;
My eyes will run with tears
for the LORD's flock, led away to exile.

Exile. [18]Say to the king and to the queen mother:
come down from your throne;
From your heads

your splendid crowns will fall.
[19]The cities of the Negeb are besieged,
with no one to relieve them;
Judah is taken into exile—all of it—
in total exile.

Jerusalem's Disgrace. [20]Lift up your eyes and see those coming in from the north.
Where is the flock entrusted to you,
your splendid sheep?
[21]What will you say when rulers are appointed over you,
those you taught to be allies?
Will not pains seize you like those of a woman giving birth?
[22]If you say to yourself:
"Why have these things happened to me?"
For your great guilt your skirts are stripped away
and you are violated.
[23]Can Ethiopians change their skin,
leopards their spots?
As easily would you be able to do good,
accustomed to evil as you are.
[24]I will scatter them like chaff that flies
on the desert wind.
[25]This is your lot, the portion I have measured out to you—
oracle of the LORD.
Because you have forgotten me,
and trusted in deception, [26]I now will strip away your skirts,
so that your shame is visible.
[27]Your adulteries, your neighings,
your shameless prostitutions:
On the hills, in the fields
I see your detestable crimes.
Woe to you, Jerusalem! How long will it be before you are clean?

The Great Drought. 14:1 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah concerning the drought:

[2]Judah mourns,
her gates are lifeless;
They are bowed to the ground,
and the outcry of Jerusalem goes up.
[3]The nobles send their servants for water,
but when they come to the cisterns
They find no water
and return with empty jars.
Confounded, despairing, they cover their heads
[4]because of the ruined soil;
Because there is no rain in the land

the farmers are confounded, they cover their heads.
[5]Even the doe in the field deserts her young because there is no grass.
[6]The wild donkeys stand on the bare heights,
gasping for breath like jackals;
Their eyes grow dim;
there is no grass.
[7]Even though our crimes bear witness against us, act, LORD, for your name's sake—
Even though our rebellions are many,
and we have sinned against you.
[8]Hope of Israel, LORD,
our savior in time of need!
Why should you be a stranger in the land,
like a traveler stopping only for a night?
[9]Why are you like someone bewildered,
a champion who cannot save?
You are in our midst, LORD,
your name we bear:
do not forsake us!
[10]Thus says the LORD about this people:
They so love to wander
that they cannot restrain their feet.
The LORD takes no pleasure in them;
now he remembers their guilt,
and will punish their sins.

[11]Then the LORD said to me: Do not intercede for the well-being of this people. [12]If they fast, I will not listen to their supplication. If they sacrifice burnt offerings or grain offerings, I will take no pleasure in them. Rather, I will destroy them with the sword, famine, and plague.

[13]"Ah! Lord GOD," I replied, "it is the prophets who say to them, 'You shall not see the sword; famine shall not befall you. Indeed, I will give you lasting peace in this place.' "

[14]These prophets utter lies in my name, the LORD said to me: I did not send them; I gave them no command, nor did I speak to them. They prophesy to you lying visions, foolish divination, deceptions from their own imagination. [15]Therefore, thus says the LORD: Concerning the prophets who prophesy in my name, though I did not send them, and who say, "Sword and famine shall not befall this land": by sword and famine shall these prophets meet their end. [16]The people to whom they prophesy shall be thrown out into the streets of Jerusalem because of famine and the sword. No one shall bury them, their wives, their sons, or their daughters, for I will pour out upon them their own wickedness. [17]Speak to them this word:

Let my eyes stream with tears
night and day, without rest,
Over the great destruction which overwhelms
the virgin daughter of my people,
over her incurable wound.
[18]If I walk out into the field,
look! those slain by the sword;
If I enter the city,
look! victims of famine.
Both prophet and priest ply their trade

in a land they do not know.
[19]Have you really cast Judah off?
Is Zion loathsome to you?
Why have you struck us a blow
that cannot be healed?
We wait for peace, to no avail;
for a time of healing, but terror comes instead.
[20]We recognize our wickedness, LORD,
the guilt of our ancestors:
we have sinned against you.
[21]Do not reject us, for your name's sake,
do not disgrace your glorious throne.
Remember! Do not break your covenant with us.
[22]Among the idols of the nations are there any that give rain?
Or can the mere heavens send showers?
Is it not you, LORD,
our God, to whom we look?
You alone do all these things.

Paul's Ministry Among Them. 2:1 For you yourselves know, brothers, that our reception among you was not without effect. [2]Rather, after we had suffered and been insolently treated, as you know, in Philippi, we drew courage through our God to speak to you the gospel of God with much struggle. [3]Our exhortation was not from delusion or impure motives, nor did it work through deception. [4]But as we were judged worthy by God to be entrusted with the gospel, that is how we speak, not as trying to please human beings, but rather God, who judges our hearts. [5]Nor, indeed, did we ever appear with flattering speech, as you know, or with a pretext for greed—God is witness— [6]nor did we seek praise from human beings, either from you or from others, [7]although we were able to impose our weight as apostles of Christ. Rather, we were gentle among you, as a nursing mother cares for her children. [8]With such affection for you, we were determined to share with you not only the gospel of God, but our very selves as well, so dearly beloved had you become to us. [9]You recall, brothers, our toil and drudgery. Working night and day in order not to burden any of you, we proclaimed to you the gospel of God. [10]You are witnesses, and so is God, how devoutly and justly and blamelessly we behaved toward you believers. [11]As you know, we treated each one of you as a father treats his children, [12]exhorting and encouraging you and insisting that you conduct yourselves as worthy of the God who calls you into his kingdom and glory.

Further Thanksgiving. [13]And for this reason we too give thanks to God unceasingly, that, in receiving the word of God from hearing us, you received not a human word but, as it truly is, the word of God, which is now at work in you who believe. [14]For you, brothers, have become imitators of the churches of God that are in Judea in Christ Jesus. For you suffer the same things from your compatriots as they did from the Jews, [15]who killed both the Lord Jesus and the prophets and persecuted us; they do not please God, and are opposed to everyone, [16]trying to prevent us from speaking to the Gentiles that they may be saved, thus constantly filling up the measure of their sins. But the wrath of God has finally begun to come upon them.

Paul's Recent Travel Plans. [17]Brothers, when we were bereft of you for a short time, in person, not in heart, we were all the more eager in our great desire to see you in person. [18]We decided to go to you—I, Paul, not only once but more than once—yet Satan thwarted us. [19]For what is our hope or joy or crown to boast of in the presence of our Lord Jesus at his coming if not you yourselves? [20]For you are our glory and joy.

October 12

At the end of life, we will be judged by love.

☐ JEREMIAH 15-16

15:1 The LORD said to me: Even if Moses and Samuel stood before me, my heart would not turn toward this people.
Send them away from me and let them go. [2]If they ask you, "Where should we go?" tell them, Thus says the LORD:
Whoever is marked for death, to death; whoever is marked for the sword, to the sword; whoever is marked for famine, to famine; whoever is marked for captivity, to captivity. [3]Four kinds of scourge I have decreed against them—oracle of the LORD—the sword to kill them; dogs to drag them off; the birds of the sky and the beasts of the earth to devour and destroy them. [4]And I will make them an object of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth because of what Manasseh, son of Hezekiah, king of Judah, did in Jerusalem.

Scene of Tragedy. [5]Who will pity you, Jerusalem,
who will grieve for you?
Who will stop to ask about your welfare?
[6]It is you who have disowned me—oracle of the LORD—
turned your back upon me;
I stretched out my hand to destroy you,
because I was weary of relenting.
[7]I winnowed them with a winnowing fork
at the gates of the land;
I have bereaved, destroyed my people;
they have not turned from their evil ways.
[8]Their widows were more numerous before me
than the sands of the sea.
I brought against the mother of youths
the destroyer at midday;
Suddenly I struck her
with anguish and terror.
[9]The mother of seven faints away,
breathing out her life;
Her sun sets in full day,
she is ashamed, abashed.
Their survivors I will give to the sword
in the presence of their enemies—oracle of the LORD.

Jeremiah's Complaint. [10]Woe to me, my mother, that you gave me birth!
a man of strife and contention to all the land!
I neither borrow nor lend,
yet everyone curses me.
[11]Tell me, LORD, have I not served you for their good?
Have I not interceded with you in time of misfortune and anguish?
[12]Can one break iron,
iron from the north, and bronze?
[13]Your wealth and your treasures
I give as plunder, demanding no payment,
because of all your sins, throughout all your territory.

[14]And I shall enslave you to your enemies
in a land you do not know,
For fire has broken out from my anger,
it is kindled against you.
[15]You know, LORD:
Remember me and take care of me,
avenge me on my persecutors.
Because you are slow to anger, do not banish me;
know that for you I have borne insult.
[16]When I found your words, I devoured them;
your words were my joy, the happiness of my heart,
Because I bear your name,
LORD, God of hosts.
[17]I did not sit celebrating
in the circle of merrymakers;
Under the weight of your hand I sat alone
because you filled me with rage.
[18]Why is my pain continuous,
my wound incurable, refusing to be healed?
To me you are like a deceptive brook,
waters that cannot be relied on!
[19]Thus the LORD answered me:
If you come back and I take you back,
in my presence you shall stand;
If you utter what is precious and not what is worthless,
you shall be my mouth.
Then they will be the ones who turn to you,
not you who turn to them.
[20]And I will make you toward this people
a fortified wall of bronze.
Though they fight against you,
they shall not prevail,
For I am with you,
to save and rescue you—oracle of the LORD.
[21]I will rescue you from the hand of the wicked,
and ransom you from the power of the violent.

Jeremiah's Life a Warning. 16:1 This word came to me from the LORD: [2]Do not take a wife and do not have sons and daughters in this place, [3]for thus says the LORD concerning the sons and daughters born in this place, the mothers who give them birth, the fathers who beget them in this land: [4]Of deadly disease they shall die. Unlamented and unburied they will lie like dung on the ground. Sword and famine will make an end of them, and their corpses will become food for the birds of the sky and the beasts of the earth.

[5]Thus says the LORD: Do not go into a house of mourning; do not go there to lament or grieve for them. For I have withdrawn my peace from this people—oracle of the LORD—my love and my compassion. [6]They shall die, the great and the lowly, in this land, unburied and unlamented. No one will gash themselves or shave their heads for them. [7]They will not break bread with the bereaved to offer consolation for the dead; they will not give them the cup of consolation to drink over the death of father or mother.

[8]Do not enter a house of feasting to sit eating and drinking with them. [9]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Before your eyes and in your lifetime, I will silence in this place the song of joy and the song of gladness, the song of the bridegroom and the song of the bride.

[10]When you proclaim all these words to this people and they ask you: "Why has the LORD pronounced all this great disaster against us? What is our crime? What sin have we committed against the LORD, our God?"— [11]you shall answer them: It is because your ancestors have forsaken me—oracle of the LORD—and followed other gods that they served and worshiped; but me they have forsaken, and my law they did not keep. [12]And you have done worse than your ancestors. Here you are, every one of you, walking in the stubbornness of your evil heart instead of listening to me. [13]I will throw you out of this land into a land that neither you nor your ancestors have known; there you can serve other gods day and night because I will not show you mercy.

Return from Exile. [14]Therefore, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when it will no longer be said, "As the LORD lives, who brought the Israelites out of Egypt"; [15]but rather, "As the LORD lives, who brought the Israelites out of the land of the north and out of all the countries to which he had banished them." I will bring them back to the land I gave their ancestors.

Double Punishment. [16]Look!—oracle of the LORD—I will send many fishermen to catch them. After that, I will send many hunters to hunt them out from every mountain and hill and rocky crevice. [17]For my eyes are upon all their ways; they are not hidden from me, nor does their guilt escape my sight. [18]I will at once repay them double for their crime and their sin because they profaned my land with the corpses of their detestable idols, and filled my heritage with their abominations.

Conversion of the Nations. [19]LORD, my strength, my fortress,
my refuge in the day of distress!
To you nations will come from the ends of the earth, and say,
"Our ancestors inherited mere frauds, empty, worthless."
[20]Can human beings make for themselves gods?
But these are not gods at all!
[21]Therefore, I will indeed give them knowledge;
this time I will make them acknowledge
My strength and my power:
they shall know that my name is LORD.

☐ 1 THESSALONIANS 3

3:1 That is why, when we could bear it no longer, we decided to remain alone in Athens [2]and sent Timothy, our brother and co-worker for God in the gospel of Christ, to strengthen and encourage you in your faith, [3]so that no one be disturbed in these afflictions. For you yourselves know that we are destined for this. [4]For even when we were among you, we used to warn you in advance that we would undergo affliction, just as has happened, as you know. [5]For this reason, when I too could bear it no longer, I sent to learn about your faith, for fear that somehow the tempter had put you to the test and our toil might come to nothing.

[6]But just now Timothy has returned to us from you, bringing us the good news of your faith and love, and that you always think kindly of us and long to see us as we long to see you. [7]Because of this, we have been reassured about you, brothers, in our every distress and affliction, through your faith. [8]For we now live, if you stand firm in the Lord.

Concluding Thanksgiving and Prayer. [9]What thanksgiving, then, can we render to God for you, for all the joy we feel on your account before our God? [10]Night and day we pray beyond measure to see you in person and to remedy the deficiencies of your faith. [11]Now may God himself, our Father, and our Lord Jesus direct our way to you, [12]and may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, just as we have for you, [13]so as to strengthen your hearts, to be blameless in holiness before our God and Father at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his holy ones. [Amen.]

October 13

The day that is past must not judge the day that is present, nor the present day judge that which is past. It is only the Last Day that judges all.

— St. Francis de Sales

☐ JEREMIAH 17-18

The Sin of Judah and Its Punishment. 17:1 The sin of Judah is written with an iron stylus, Engraved with a diamond point
upon the tablets of their hearts,

And the horns of their altars, [2]when their children remember their altars and their asherahs, beside the green trees, on the high hills, [3]the peaks in the country.

Your wealth and all your treasures
I give as plunder,
As payment for all your sins
throughout your territory,
[4]You will relinquish your hold on your heritage
which I have given you.
I will enslave you to your enemies
in a land you do not know:
For a fire has broken out from my anger,
burning forever.

True Wisdom. [5]Thus says the LORD:
Cursed is the man who trusts in human beings,
who makes flesh his strength,
whose heart turns away from the LORD.
[6]He is like a barren bush in the wasteland
that enjoys no change of season,
But stands in lava beds in the wilderness,
a land, salty and uninhabited.
[7]Blessed are those who trust in the LORD;
the LORD will be their trust.
[8]They are like a tree planted beside the waters
that stretches out its roots to the stream:
It does not fear heat when it comes,
its leaves stay green;
In the year of drought it shows no distress,
but still produces fruit.
[9]More tortuous than anything is the human heart,
beyond remedy; who can understand it?
[10]I, the LORD, explore the mind
and test the heart,
Giving to all according to their ways,
according to the fruit of their deeds.
[11]A partridge that broods but does not hatch

are those who acquire wealth unjustly:
In midlife it will desert them;
in the end they are only fools.

The Source of Life. [12]A throne of glory, exalted from the beginning,
such is our holy place.
[13]O Hope of Israel, LORD!
all who forsake you shall be put to shame;
The rebels shall be enrolled in the netherworld;
they have forsaken the LORD, source of living waters.

Prayer for Vengeance. [14]Heal me, LORD, that I may be healed;
save me, that I may be saved,
for you are my praise.
[15]See how they say to me,
"Where is the word of the LORD?
Let it come to pass!"
[16]Yet I did not press you to send disaster;
the day without remedy I have not desired.
You know what passed my lips;
it is present before you.
[17]Do not become a terror to me,
you are my refuge in the day of disaster.
[18]Let my persecutors be confounded—not me!
let them be terrified—not me!
Bring upon them the day of disaster,
crush them with double destruction.

Observance of the Sabbath. [19]Thus said the LORD to me: Go, stand at the Gate of Benjamin, where the kings of Judah enter and leave, and at the other gates of Jerusalem. [20]There say to them: Hear the word of the LORD, you kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all you inhabitants of Jerusalem who enter these gates! [21]Thus says the LORD: As you love your lives, take care not to carry burdens on the sabbath, to bring them in through the gates of Jerusalem. [22]Bring no burden from your homes on the sabbath. Do no work whatever, but keep holy the sabbath day, as I commanded your ancestors, [23]though they did not listen or give ear, but stiffened their necks so they could not hear or take correction. [24]If you truly obey me—oracle of the LORD—and carry no burden through the gates of this city on the sabbath, keeping the sabbath day holy and abstaining from all work on it, [25]then, through the gates of this city, kings who sit upon the throne of David will continue to enter, riding in their chariots or upon their horses, along with their princes, and the people of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. This city will remain inhabited forever. [26]To it people will come from the cities of Judah and the neighborhood of Jerusalem, from the land of Benjamin and from the Shephelah, from the hill country and the Negeb, to bring burnt offerings and sacrifices, grain offerings, incense, and thank offerings to the house of the LORD. [27]But if you do not obey me and keep holy the sabbath day, if you carry burdens and come through the gates of Jerusalem on the sabbath, I will set fire to its gates—a fire never to be extinguished—and it will consume the palaces of Jerusalem.

The Potter's Vessel. 18:1 This word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]Arise and go down to the potter's house; there you will hear my word. [3]I went down to the potter's house and there he was, working at the wheel. [4]Whenever the vessel of clay he was making turned out badly in his hand, he tried again, making another vessel of whatever sort he pleased. [5]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [6]Can I not do to you, house of Israel, as this potter has done?—oracle of the LORD. Indeed, like clay in the hand of the potter, so are you in my hand, house of Israel. [7]At one moment I may decree concerning a nation or kingdom that I will uproot and tear down and destroy it; [8]but if that nation against whom I have decreed turns from its evil, then I will have a change of heart regarding the evil which I have decreed. [9]At another moment, I may decree concerning a nation or kingdom that I will build up and plant it; [10]but if that nation does what is evil in my eyes, refusing to obey my voice, then I will have a change of heart regarding the good with which I planned to bless it.

[11]And now, tell this to the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: Thus says the LORD: Look, I am fashioning evil against you and making a plan. Return, all of you, from your evil way; reform your ways and your deeds. [12]But they will say, "No use! We will follow our own devices; each one of us will behave according to the stubbornness of our evil hearts!"

Unnatural Apostasy. [13]Therefore thus says the LORD:

Ask among the nations—
who has ever heard the like?
Truly horrible things
virgin Israel has done!
[14]Does the snow of Lebanon
desert the rocky heights?
Do the gushing waters dry up that flow fresh down the mountains?
[15]Yet my people have forgotten me:
they offer incense in vain.
They stumble off their paths,
the ways of old,
Traveling on bypaths,
not the beaten track.
[16]Their land shall be made a waste,
an object of endless hissing:
All passersby will be horrified,
shaking their heads.
[17]Like the east wind, I will scatter them
before their enemies;
I will show them my back, not my face,
in their day of disaster.

Another Prayer for Vengeance. [18]"Come," they said, "let us devise a plot against Jeremiah, for instruction will not perish from the priests, nor counsel from the wise, nor the word from the prophets. Come, let us destroy him by his own tongue. Let us pay careful attention to his every word."

[19]Pay attention to me, O LORD,
and listen to what my adversaries say.
[20]Must good be repaid with evil
that they should dig a pit to take my life?
Remember that I stood before you
to speak on their behalf,
to turn your wrath away from them.
[21]So now, give their children to famine,
deliver them to the power of the sword.
Let their wives be childless and widows;
let their husbands die of pestilence,
their youths be struck down by the sword in battle.
[22]May cries be heard from their homes,

when suddenly you send plunderers against them.
For they have dug a pit to capture me,
they have hidden snares for my feet;
[23]But you, LORD, know
all their planning for my death.
Do not forgive their crime,
and their sin do not blot out from your sight!
Let them stumble before you,
in the time of your anger act against them.

General Exhortations. 4:1 Finally, brothers, we earnestly ask and exhort you in the Lord Jesus that, as you received from us how you should conduct yourselves to please God—and as you are conducting yourselves—you do so even more. [2]For you know what instructions we gave you through the Lord Jesus.

Holiness in Sexual Contact. [3]This is the will of God, your holiness: that you refrain from immorality, [4]that each of you know how to acquire a wife for himself in holiness and honor, [5]not in lustful passion as do the Gentiles who do not know God; [6]not to take advantage of or exploit a brother in this matter, for the Lord is an avenger in all these things, as we told you before and solemnly affirmed. [7]For God did not call us to impurity but to holiness. [8]Therefore, whoever disregards this, disregards not a human being but God, who [also] gives his holy Spirit to you.

Mutual Charity. [9]On the subject of mutual charity you have no need for anyone to write you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love one another. [10]Indeed, you do this for all the brothers throughout Macedonia. Nevertheless we urge you, brothers, to progress even more, [11]and to aspire to live a tranquil life, to mind your own affairs, and to work with your [own] hands, as we instructed you, [12]that you may conduct yourselves properly toward outsiders and not depend on anyone.

Hope for the Christian Dead. [13]We do not want you to be unaware, brothers, about those who have fallen asleep, so that you may not grieve like the rest, who have no hope. [14]For if we believe that Jesus died and rose, so too will God, through Jesus, bring with him those who have fallen asleep. [15]Indeed, we tell you this, on the word of the Lord, that we who are alive, who are left until the coming of the Lord, will surely not precede those who have fallen asleep. [16]For the Lord himself, with a word of command, with the voice of an archangel and with the trumpet of God, will come down from heaven, and the dead in Christ will rise first. [17]Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. Thus we shall always be with the Lord. [18]Therefore, console one another with these words.

Pope St. Callistus I

We must busy ourselves with preparations for our departure from this world. For even if the day when the whole world ends never overtakes us, the end of each of us is right at the door.

☐ JEREMIAH 19-20

Symbol of the Potter's Flask. 19:1 Thus said the LORD: Go, buy a potter's earthenware flask. Take along some of the elders of the people and some of the priests, [2]and go out toward the Valley of Ben-hinnom, at the entrance of the Potsherd Gate; there proclaim the words which I will speak to you: [3]You shall say, Listen to the word of the LORD, kings of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I am going to bring such evil upon this place that the ears of all who hear of it will ring. [4]All because they have forsaken me and profaned this place by burning incense to other gods which neither they nor their ancestors knew; and because the kings of Judah have filled this place with innocent blood, [5]building high places for Baal to burn their children in fire as offerings to Baal —something I never considered or said or commanded. [6]Therefore, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when this place will no longer be called Topheth, or the Valley of Ben-hinnom, but rather, the Valley of Slaughter. [7]In this place I will foil the plan of Judah and Jerusalem; I will make them fall by the sword before their enemies, at the hand of those who seek their lives. Their corpses I will give as food to the birds of the sky and the beasts of the earth. [8]I will make this city a waste and an object of hissing. Because of all its wounds, every passerby will be horrified and hiss. [9]I will have them eat the flesh of their sons and daughters; they shall eat one another's flesh during the harsh siege under which their enemies and those who seek their lives will confine them.

[10]And you shall break the flask in the sight of the men who went with you, [11]and say to them: Thus says the LORD of hosts: Thus will I smash this people and this city, as one smashes a clay pot so that it cannot be repaired. And Topheth shall be its burial place, for there will be no other place for burial. [12]Thus I will do to this place and to its inhabitants—oracle of the LORD; I will make this city like Topheth. [13]And the houses of Jerusalem and the houses of the kings of Judah shall be defiled like the place of Topheth, all the houses upon whose roofs they burnt incense to the whole host of heaven and poured out libations to other gods.

[14]When Jeremiah returned from Topheth, where the LORD had sent him to prophesy, he stood in the court of the house of the LORD and said to all the people: [15]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I will bring upon this city all the evil I have spoken against it, because they have become stubborn and have not obeyed my words.

20:1 Now the priest Pashhur, son of Immer, chief officer in the house of the LORD, heard Jeremiah prophesying these things. [2]So he struck the prophet and put him in the stocks at the upper Gate of Benjamin in the house of the LORD. [3]The next morning, after Pashhur had released Jeremiah from the stocks, the prophet said to him: "Instead of Pashhur, the LORD names you 'Terror on every side.' [4]For thus says the LORD: Indeed, I will hand you over to terror, you and all your friends. Your own eyes shall see them fall by the sword of their enemies. All Judah I will hand over to the power of the king of Babylon, who shall take them captive to Babylon or strike them down with the sword. [5]All the wealth of this city, all its resources and its valuables, all the treasures of the kings of Judah, I will hand over to their enemies, who will plunder it and carry it away to Babylon. [6]You, Pashhur, and all the members of your household shall go into exile. To Babylon you shall go; there you shall die and be buried, you and all your friends, because you have prophesied lies to them."

Jeremiah's Interior Crisis. [7]You seduced me, LORD, and I let myself be seduced;
you were too strong for me, and you prevailed.
All day long I am an object of laughter;
everyone mocks me.
[8]Whenever I speak, I must cry out,
violence and outrage I proclaim;
The word of the LORD has brought me
reproach and derision all day long.
[9]I say I will not mention him,
I will no longer speak in his name.
But then it is as if fire is burning in my heart,
imprisoned in my bones;
I grow weary holding back,
I cannot!
[10]Yes, I hear the whisperings of many:
"Terror on every side!
Denounce! let us denounce him!"
All those who were my friends are on the watch for any misstep of mine.
"Perhaps he can be tricked; then we will prevail,

and take our revenge on him."
[11]But the LORD is with me, like a mighty champion:
my persecutors will stumble, they will not prevail.
In their failure they will be put to utter shame,
to lasting, unforgettable confusion.
[12]LORD of hosts, you test the just,
you see mind and heart,
Let me see the vengeance you take on them,
for to you I have entrusted my cause.
[13]Sing to the LORD,
praise the LORD,
For he has rescued the life of the poor
from the power of the evildoers!

[14]Cursed be the day
on which I was born!
May the day my mother gave me birth
never be blessed!
[15]Cursed be the one who brought the news
to my father,
"A child, a son, has been born to you!"
filling him with great joy.
[16]Let that man be like the cities
which the LORD relentlessly overthrew;
Let him hear war cries in the morning,
battle alarms at noonday,
[17]because he did not kill me in the womb!
Then my mother would have been my grave,
her womb confining me forever.
[18]Why did I come forth from the womb,
to see sorrow and pain,
to end my days in shame?

☐ 1 THESSALONIANS 5

Vigilance. 5:1 Concerning times and seasons, brothers, you have no need for anything to be written to you. [2]For you yourselves know very well that the day of the Lord will come like a thief at night. [3]When people are saying, "Peace and security," then sudden disaster comes upon them, like labor pains upon a pregnant woman, and they will not escape.

[4]But you, brothers, are not in darkness, for that day to overtake you like a thief. [5]For all of you are children of the light and children of the day. We are not of the night or of darkness. [6]Therefore, let us not sleep as the rest do, but let us stay alert and sober. [7]Those who sleep go to sleep at night, and those who are drunk get drunk at night. [8]But since we are of the day, let us be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love and the helmet that is hope for salvation. [9]For God did not destine us for wrath, but to gain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, [10]who died for us, so that whether we are awake or asleep we may live together with him. [11]Therefore, encourage one another and build one another up, as indeed you do.

Church Order. [12]We ask you, brothers, to respect those who are laboring among you and who are over you in the Lord and who admonish you, [13]and to show esteem for them with special love on account of their work. Be at peace among yourselves.

[14]We urge you, brothers, admonish the idle, cheer the fainthearted, support the weak, be patient with all. [15]See that no one returns evil for evil; rather, always seek what is good [both] for each other and for all. [16]Rejoice always. [17]Pray without ceasing. [18]In all circumstances give thanks, for this is the will of God for you in Christ Jesus. [19]Do not quench the Spirit. [20]Do not despise prophetic utterances. [21]Test everything; retain what is good. [22]Refrain from every kind of evil.

Concluding Prayer. [23]May the God of peace himself make you perfectly holy and may you entirely, spirit, soul, and body, be preserved blameless for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. [24]The one who calls you is faithful, and he will also accomplish it. [25]Brothers, pray for us [too].

[26]Greet all the brothers with a holy kiss. [27]I adjure you by the Lord that this letter be read to all the brothers. [28]The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

St. Teresa of Ávila

> Christ has no body on earth but yours, no hands but yours, no feet but yours. Yours are the eyes through which Christ's compassion for the world is to look out; yours are the feet with which He is to go about doing good; and yours are the hands with which He is to bless us now.

☐ JEREMIAH 21-22

Fate of Zedekiah and Jerusalem. 21:1 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD when King Zedekiah sent Pashhur, son of Malchiah, and the priest Zephaniah, son of Maaseiah, to him with this request: [2]Inquire for us of the LORD, because Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, is attacking us. Perhaps the LORD will act for us in accord with his wonderful works by making him withdraw from us. [3]But Jeremiah answered them: This is what you shall report to Zedekiah: [4]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I will turn against you the weapons with which you are fighting the king of Babylon and the Chaldeans who besiege you outside the walls. These weapons I will pile up in the midst of this city, [5]and I myself will fight against you with outstretched hand and mighty arm, in anger, wrath, and great rage! [6]I will strike down the inhabitants of this city, human being and beast; they shall die in a great pestilence. [7]After that—oracle of the LORD—I will hand over Zedekiah, king of Judah, and his ministers and the people in this city who survive pestilence, sword, and famine, to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, to their enemies and those who seek their lives. He shall strike them down with the edge of the sword, without quarter, without mercy or compassion. [8]And to this people you shall say: Thus says the LORD: See, I am giving you a choice between the way to life and the way to death. [9]Whoever remains in this city shall die by the sword or famine or pestilence. But whoever leaves and surrenders to the Chaldeans who are besieging you shall live and escape with his life. [10]I have set my face against this city, for evil and not for good—oracle of the LORD. It shall be given into the power of the king of Babylon who shall set it on fire.

Oracles Regarding the Kings. [11]To the royal house of Judah:
Hear the word of the LORD,
[12]house of David!
Thus says the LORD:
Each morning dispense justice,
rescue the oppressed from the hand of the oppressor,
Or my fury will break out like fire
and burn with no one to quench it
because of your evil deeds.
[13]Beware! I am against you, Ruler of the Valley, Rock of the Plain—oracle of the LORD.
You say, "Who will attack us,

who can storm our defenses?"
[14]I will punish you—oracle of the LORD—
as your deeds deserve!
I will kindle a fire in its forest
that shall devour all its surroundings.

22:1 Thus says the LORD: Go down to the palace of the king of Judah and there deliver this word: [2]You shall say: Listen to the word of the LORD, king of Judah, who sit on the throne of David, you, your ministers, and your people who enter by these gates! [3]Thus says the LORD: Do what is right and just. Rescue the victims from the hand of their oppressors. Do not wrong or oppress the resident alien, the orphan, or the widow, and do not shed innocent blood in this place. [4]If you carry out these commands, kings who succeed to the throne of David will continue to enter the gates of this house, riding in chariots or mounted on horses, with their ministers, and their people. [5]But if you do not obey these commands, I swear by myself—oracle of the LORD: this house shall become rubble. [6]For thus says the LORD concerning the house of the king of Judah:

Though you be to me like Gilead,
like the peak of Lebanon,
I swear I shall turn you into a waste,
with cities uninhabited.
[7]Against you I will send destroyers,
each with their tools:
They shall cut down your choice cedars,
and cast them into the fire.

[8]Many nations will pass by this city and ask one another: "Why has the LORD done this to so great a city?" [9]And they will be told: "Because they have deserted their covenant with the LORD, their God, by worshiping and serving other gods."

Jehoahaz. [10]Do not weep for him who is dead,
nor mourn for him!
Weep rather for him who is going away;
never again to see
the land of his birth.

[11]Thus says the LORD concerning Shallum, son of Josiah, king of Judah, his father's successor, who left this place: He shall never return, [12]but in the place where they exiled him, there he shall die; he shall never see this land again.

Jehoiakim. [13]Woe to him who builds his house on wrongdoing,
his roof-chambers on injustice;
Who works his neighbors without pay,
and gives them no wages.
[14]Who says, "I will build myself a spacious house,
with airy rooms,"
Who cuts out windows for it,
panels it with cedar,
and paints it with vermilion.
[15]Must you prove your rank among kings
by competing with them in cedar?
Did not your father eat and drink,
And act justly and righteously?
Then he prospered.

[16]Because he dispensed justice to the weak and the poor,
he prospered.
Is this not to know me?—
oracle of the LORD.
[17]But your eyes and heart are set on nothing except your own gain,
On shedding innocent blood
and practicing oppression and extortion.

[18]Therefore, thus says the LORD concerning Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah:

They shall not lament him,
"Alas! my brother"; "Alas! sister."
They shall not lament him,
"Alas, Lord! alas, Majesty!"
[19]The burial of a donkey he shall be given,
dragged forth and cast out beyond the gates of Jerusalem.

Jeconiah. [20]Climb Lebanon and cry out,
in Bashan lift up your voice;
Cry out from Abarim,
for all your lovers are crushed.
[21]I spoke to you when you were secure,
but you answered, "I will not listen."
This has been your way from your youth,
not to listen to my voice.
[22]The wind shall shepherd all your shepherds,
your lovers shall go into exile.
Surely then you shall be ashamed and confounded because of all your wickedness.
[23]You who dwell on Lebanon,
who nest in the cedars,
How you shall groan when pains come upon you,
like the pangs of a woman in childbirth!

[24]As I live—oracle of the LORD—even if you, Coniah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, were a signet ring on my right hand, I would snatch you off. [25]I will hand you over to those who seek your life, to those you dread: Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and the Chaldeans. [26]I will cast you out, you and the mother who bore you, into a land different from the land of your birth; and there you will die; [27]Neither shall return to the land for which they yearn.

[28]Is this man Coniah a thing despised, to be broken,
a vessel that no one wants?
Why are he and his offspring cast out?
why thrown into a land they do not know?
[29]O land, land, land,
hear the word of the LORD—
[30]Thus says the LORD:
Write this man down as childless,
a man who will never prosper in his life!
Nor shall any of his descendants prosper,

to sit upon the throne of David,
to rule again over Judah.

☐ COLOSSIANS 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, [2]to the holy ones and faithful brothers in Christ in Colossae: grace to you and peace from God our Father.

Thanksgiving. [3]We always give thanks to God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, when we pray for you, [4]for we have heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and the love that you have for all the holy ones [5]because of the hope reserved for you in heaven. Of this you have already heard through the word of truth, the gospel, [6]that has come to you. Just as in the whole world it is bearing fruit and growing, so also among you, from the day you heard it and came to know the grace of God in truth, [7]as you learned it from Epaphras our beloved fellow slave, who is a trustworthy minister of Christ on your behalf [8]and who also told us of your love in the Spirit.

Prayer for Continued Progress. [9]Therefore, from the day we heard this, we do not cease praying for you and asking that you may be filled with the knowledge of his will through all spiritual wisdom and understanding [10]to live in a manner worthy of the Lord, so as to be fully pleasing, in every good work bearing fruit and growing in the knowledge of God, [11]strengthened with every power, in accord with his glorious might, for all endurance and patience, with joy [12]giving thanks to the Father, who has made you fit to share in the inheritance of the holy ones in light. [13]He delivered us from the power of darkness and transferred us to the kingdom of his beloved Son, [14]in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.

His Person and Work. [15]He is the image of the invisible God,
the firstborn of all creation.
[16]For in him were created all things in heaven and on earth,
the visible and the invisible,
whether thrones or dominions or principalities or powers;
all things were created through him and for him.
[17]He is before all things,
and in him all things hold together.
[18]He is the head of the body, the church.
He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead,
that in all things he himself might be preeminent.
[19]For in him all the fullness was pleased to dwell, [20]and through him to reconcile all things for him,
making peace by the blood of his cross
[through him], whether those on earth or those in heaven.

[21]And you who once were alienated and hostile in mind because of evil deeds [22]he has now reconciled in his fleshly body through his death, to present you holy, without blemish, and irreproachable before him, [23]provided that you persevere in the faith, firmly grounded, stable, and not shifting from the hope of the gospel that you heard, which has been preached to every creature under heaven, of which I, Paul, am a minister.

Christ in Us. [24]Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I am filling up what is lacking in the afflictions of Christ on behalf of his body, which is the church, [25]of which I am a minister in accordance with God's stewardship given to me to bring to completion for you the word of God, [26]the mystery hidden from ages and from generations past. But now it has been manifested to his holy ones, [27]to whom God chose to make known the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; it is Christ in you, the hope for glory. [28]It is he whom we proclaim, admonishing everyone and teaching everyone with all wisdom, that we may present everyone perfect in Christ. [29]For this I labor and struggle, in accord with the exercise of his power working within me.

St. Hedwig; St. Margaret Mary Alacoque

One righteous soul can obtain pardon for a thousand sinners.

— St. Margaret Mary Alacoque

☐ JEREMIAH 23-24

A Just Shepherd. 23:1 Woe to the shepherds who destroy and scatter the flock of my pasture—oracle of the LORD.
[2]Therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, against the shepherds who shepherd my people: You have scattered my sheep and driven them away. You have not cared for them, but I will take care to punish your evil deeds. [3]I myself will gather the remnant of my flock from all the lands to which I have banished them and bring them back to their folds;
there they shall be fruitful and multiply. [4]I will raise up shepherds for them who will shepherd them so that they need no longer fear or be terrified; none shall be missing—oracle of the LORD.

[5]See, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—
when I will raise up a righteous branch for David;
As king he shall reign and govern wisely,
he shall do what is just and right in the land.
[6]In his days Judah shall be saved,
Israel shall dwell in security.
This is the name to be given him:
"The LORD our justice."

[7]Therefore, the days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when they shall no longer say, "As the LORD lives, who brought the Israelites out of the land of Egypt"; [8]but rather, "As the LORD lives, who brought the descendants of the house of Israel up from the land of the north"—and from all the lands to which I banished them; they shall again live on their own soil.

The False Prophets. [9]Concerning the prophets:
My heart is broken within me,
all my bones tremble;
I am like a drunk,
like one overcome by wine,
Because of the LORD,
because of his holy words.
[10]The land is filled with adulterers;
because of the curse the land mourns,
the pastures of the wilderness are withered.
Theirs is an evil course,
theirs is unjust power.
[11]Both prophet and priest are godless!
In my very house I find their wickedness—
oracle of the LORD.
[12]Hence their way shall become for them
slippery ground.
Into the darkness they shall be driven,
and fall headlong;
For I will bring disaster upon them,
the year of their punishment—oracle of the LORD.

[13]Among Samaria's prophets
I saw something unseemly:
They prophesied by Baal
and led my people Israel astray.
[14]But among Jerusalem's prophets
I saw something more shocking:
Adultery, walking in deception,
strengthening the power of the wicked,
so that no one turns from evil;
To me they are all like Sodom,
its inhabitants like Gomorrah.

[15]Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts against the prophets:

Look, I will give them wormwood to eat,
and poisoned water to drink;
For from Jerusalem's prophets
ungodliness has gone forth into the whole land.
[16]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Do not listen to the words of your prophets,
who fill you with emptiness;
They speak visions from their own fancy,
not from the mouth of the LORD.
[17]They say to those who despise the word of the LORD,
"Peace shall be yours";
And to everyone who walks in hardness of heart,
"No evil shall overtake you."
[18]Now, who has stood in the council of the LORD,
to see him and to hear his word?
Who has heeded his word so as to announce it?
[19]See, the storm of the LORD!
His wrath breaks forth
In a whirling storm
that bursts upon the heads of the wicked.
[20]The anger of the LORD shall not abate
until he has carried out completely
the decisions of his heart.
In days to come
you will understand fully.
[21]I did not send these prophets,
yet they ran;
I did not speak to them,
yet they prophesied.
[22]Had they stood in my council,
they would have proclaimed my words to my people,
They would have brought them back from their evil ways
and from their wicked deeds.
[23]Am I a God near at hand only—oracle of the LORD—
and not a God far off?
[24]Can anyone hide in secret

without my seeing them?—oracle of the LORD.
Do I not fill
heaven and earth?—oracle of the LORD.

[25]I have heard the prophets who prophesy lies in my name say, "I had a dream! I had a dream!" [26]How long? Will the hearts of the prophets who prophesy lies and their own deceitful fancies ever turn back? [27]By the dreams they tell each other, they plan to make my people forget my name, just as their ancestors forgot my name for Baal. [28]Let the prophets who have dreams tell their dreams; let those who have my word speak my word truthfully!

What has straw to do with wheat?
—oracle of the LORD.
[29]Is not my word like fire—oracle of the LORD—
like a hammer shattering rock?

[30]Therefore I am against the prophets—oracle of the LORD—those who steal my words from each other. [31]Yes, I am against the prophets—oracle of the LORD—those who compose their own speeches and call them oracles. [32]Yes, I am against the prophets who tell lying dreams—oracle of the LORD—those who lead my people astray by recounting their reckless lies. It was not I who sent them or commanded them; they do this people no good at all—oracle of the LORD.

[33]And when this people or a prophet or a priest asks you, "What is the burden of the LORD?" you shall answer, "You are the burden, and I cast you off"—oracle of the LORD. [34]If a prophet or a priest or anyone else mentions "the burden of the LORD," I will punish that man and his household. [35]Thus you shall ask, when speaking to one another, "What answer did the LORD give?" or "What did the LORD say?" [36]But "the burden of the LORD" you shall mention no more. For each of you, your own word becomes the burden so that you pervert the words of the living God, the LORD of hosts, our God. [37]Thus shall you ask the prophet, "What answer did the LORD give?" or "What did the LORD say?" [38]But if you ask about "the burden of the LORD," then thus says the LORD: Because you use this phrase, "the burden of the LORD," though I forbade you to use it, [39]therefore I will lift you on high and cast you from my presence, you and the city which I gave to you and your ancestors. [40]And I will bring upon you eternal reproach, eternal shame, never to be forgotten.

The Two Baskets of Figs. 24:1 The LORD showed me two baskets of figs placed before the temple of the LORD. This was after Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, had exiled from Jerusalem Jeconiah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and the princes of Judah, the artisans and smiths, and brought them to Babylon. [2]One basket contained excellent figs, those that ripen early. But the other basket contained very bad figs, so bad they could not be eaten. [3]Then the LORD said to me: What do you see, Jeremiah? "Figs," I replied; "the good ones are very good, but the bad ones very bad, so bad they cannot be eaten." [4]Thereupon this word of the LORD came to me: [5]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Like these good figs, I will also regard with favor Judah's exiles whom I sent away from this place into the land of the Chaldeans. [6]I will look after them for good and bring them back to this land, to build them up, not tear them down; to plant them, not uproot them. [7]I will give them a heart to know me, that I am the LORD. They shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart. [8]But like the figs that are bad, so bad they cannot be eaten—yes, thus says the LORD—even so will I treat Zedekiah, king of Judah, and his princes, the remnant of Jerusalem remaining in this land and those who have settled in the land of Egypt. [9]I will make them an object of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, a reproach and a byword, a taunt and a curse, in all the places to which I will drive them. [10]I will send upon them sword, famine, and pestilence, until they have disappeared from the land which I gave them and their ancestors.

2:1 For I want you to know how great a struggle I am having for you and for those in Laodicea and all who have not seen me face to face, [2]that their hearts may be encouraged as they are brought together in love, to have all the richness of fully assured understanding, for the knowledge of the mystery of God, Christ, [3]in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

A General Admonition. [4]I say this so that no one may deceive you by specious arguments. [5]For even if I am absent in the flesh, yet I am with you in spirit, rejoicing as I observe your good order and the firmness of your faith in Christ. [6]So, as you received Christ Jesus the Lord, walk in him, [7]rooted in him and built upon him and established in the faith as you were taught, abounding in thanksgiving. [8]See to it that no one captivate you with an empty, seductive philosophy according to human tradition, according to the elemental powers of the world and not according to Christ.

Sovereign Role of Christ. [9]For in him dwells the whole fullness of the deity bodily, [10]and you share in this fullness in him, who is the head of every principality and power. [11]In him you were also circumcised with a circumcision not administered by hand, by stripping off the carnal body, with the circumcision of Christ. [12]You were buried with him in baptism, in which you were also raised with him through faith in the power of God, who raised him from the dead. [13]And even when you were dead [in] transgressions and the uncircumcision of your flesh, he brought you to life along with him, having forgiven us all our transgressions; [14]obliterating the bond against us, with its legal claims, which was opposed to us, he also removed it from our midst, nailing it to the cross; [15]despoiling the principalities and the powers, he made a public spectacle of them, leading them away in triumph by it.

Practices Contrary to Faith. [16]Let no one, then, pass judgment on you in matters of food and drink or with regard to a festival or new moon or sabbath. [17]These are shadows of things to come; the reality belongs to Christ. [18]Let no one disqualify you, delighting in self-abasement and worship of angels, taking his stand on visions, inflated without reason by his fleshly mind, [19]and not holding closely to the head, from whom the whole body, supported and held together by its ligaments and bonds, achieves the growth that comes from God.

[20]If you died with Christ to the elemental powers of the world, why do you submit to regulations as if you were still living in the world? [21]"Do not handle! Do not taste! Do not touch!" [22]These are all things destined to perish with use; they accord with human precepts and teachings. [23]While they have a semblance of wisdom in rigor of devotion and self-abasement [and] severity to the body, they are of no value against gratification of the flesh.

Seventy Years of Exile. 25:1 The word that came to Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah (the first year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon). [2]This word the prophet Jeremiah spoke to all the people of Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem: [3]Since the thirteenth year of Josiah, son of Amon, king of Judah, to this day—that is, twenty-three years—the word of the LORD has come to me and I spoke to you untiringly, but you would not listen. [4]The LORD kept sending you all his servants the prophets, but you refused to listen or pay attention [5]to this message: Turn back, each of you, from your evil way and from your evil deeds; then you shall remain in the land which the LORD gave you and your ancestors, from of old and forever. [6]Do not follow other gods to serve and bow down to them; do not provoke me with the works of your hands, or I will bring evil upon you. [7]But you would not listen to me—oracle of the LORD—and so you provoked me with the works of your hands to your own harm. [8]Hence, thus says the LORD of hosts: Since you would not listen to my words, [9]I am about to send for and fetch all the tribes from the north—oracle of the LORD—and I will send for Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, my servant; I will bring them against this land, its inhabitants, and all these neighboring nations. I will doom them, making them an object of horror, of hissing, of everlasting reproach. [10]Among them I will put to an end the song of joy and the song of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride, the sound of the millstone and the light of the lamp. [11]This whole land shall be a ruin and a waste. Seventy years these nations shall serve the king of Babylon; [12]but when the seventy years have elapsed, I will punish the king of Babylon and that nation and the land of the Chaldeans for their guilt—oracle of the LORD. Their land I will turn into everlasting waste. [13]Against that land I will fulfill all the words I have spoken against it, all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah prophesied against all the nations. [14]They also shall serve many nations and great kings, and thus I will repay them according to their own deeds and according to the works of their hands.

The Cup of Judgment on the Nations. [15]For thus said the LORD, the God of Israel, to me: Take this cup of the wine of wrath from my hand and have all the nations to whom I will send you drink it. [16]They shall drink, and retch, and go mad, because of the sword I will send among them. [17]I took the cup from the hand of the LORD and gave it as drink to all the nations to whom the LORD sent me: [18]to Jerusalem, the cities of Judah, its kings and princes, to make them a ruin and a waste, an object of hissing and cursing, as they are today; [19]to Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and his servants, princes, all his people [20]and those of mixed ancestry; all the kings of the land of Uz; all the kings of the land of the Philistines: Ashkelon, Gaza, Ekron, and the remnant of Ashdod; [21]Edom, Moab, and the Ammonites; [22]all the kings of Tyre, of Sidon, and of the shores beyond the sea; [23]Dedan and Tema and Buz, all the desert dwellers who shave their temples; [24]all the kings of Arabia; [25]all the kings of Zimri, of Elam, of the Medes; [26]all the kings of the north, near and far, one after the other; all the kingdoms upon the face of the earth and after them the king of Sheshach shall drink.

[27]Tell them: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Drink! Get drunk and vomit! Fall, never to rise, before the sword that I will send among you! [28]If they refuse to take the cup from your hand and drink, say to them: Thus says the LORD of hosts: You must drink! [29]Now that I am inflicting evil on this city, called by my name, how can you possibly escape? You shall not escape! I am calling down the sword upon all the inhabitants of the earth—oracle of the LORD of hosts. [30]As for you, prophesy against them all these words and say to them:

The LORD roars from on high,
from his holy dwelling he raises his voice;
Mightily he roars over his sheepfold,
a shout like that of vintagers echoes
over all the inhabitants of the earth.
[31]The uproar spreads
to the end of the earth;
For the LORD has an indictment against the nations,
he enters into judgment against all flesh:
The wicked shall be given to the sword—
oracle of the LORD.
[32]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Look! disaster stalks
nation after nation;
A violent storm surges
from the recesses of the earth.

[33]On that day, those whom the LORD has slain will be strewn from one end of the earth to the other. They will not be mourned, they will not be gathered, they will not be buried; they shall lie like dung upon the ground.

[34]Howl, you shepherds, and wail!
roll on the ground, leaders of the flock!
The time for your slaughter has come;
like choice rams you shall fall.
[35]There is no flight for the shepherds,
no escape for the leaders of the flock.

[36]Listen! Wailing from the shepherds, howling from the leaders of the flock!
For the LORD lays waste their grazing place;
[37]desolate are the peaceful pastures,
from the burning wrath of the LORD.
[38]Like a lion he leaves his lair,
and their land is made desolate
By the sweeping sword,
and the burning wrath of the LORD.

Jeremiah Threatened with Death. 26:1 In the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came from the LORD: [2]Thus says the LORD: Stand in the court of the house of the LORD and speak to the inhabitants of all the cities of Judah who come to worship in the house of the LORD; whatever I command you, tell them, and hold nothing back. [3]Perhaps they will listen and turn, all of them from their evil way, so that I may repent of the evil I plan to inflict upon them for their evil deeds. [4]Say to them: Thus says the LORD: If you do not obey me, by walking according to the law I set before you [5]and listening to the words of my servants the prophets, whom I kept sending you, even though you do not listen to them, [6]I will treat this house like Shiloh, and make this city a curse for all the nations of the earth.

[7]Now the priests, the prophets, and all the people heard Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the LORD. [8]When Jeremiah finished speaking all that the LORD commanded him to speak to all the people, then the priests, the prophets, and all the people laid hold of him, crying, "You must die! [9]Why do you prophesy in the name of the LORD: 'This house shall become like Shiloh,' and 'This city shall be desolate, without inhabitant'?" And all the people crowded around Jeremiah in the house of the LORD.

[10]When the princes of Judah heard about these things, they came up from the house of the king to the house of the LORD and convened at the New Gate of the house of the LORD. [11]The priests and prophets said to the princes and to all the people, "Sentence this man to death! He has prophesied against this city! You heard it with your own ears." [12]Jeremiah said to the princes and all the people: "It was the LORD who sent me to prophesy against this house and city everything you have heard. [13]Now, therefore, reform your ways and your deeds; listen to the voice of the LORD your God, so that the LORD will have a change of heart regarding the evil he has spoken against you. [14]As for me, I am in your hands; do with me what is good and right in your eyes. [15]But you should certainly know that by putting me to death, you bring innocent blood on yourselves, on this city and its inhabitants. For in truth it was the LORD who sent me to you, to speak all these words for you to hear."

[16]Then the princes and all the people said to the priests and the prophets, "This man does not deserve a death sentence; it is in the name of the LORD, our God, that he speaks to us." [17]At this, some of the elders of the land arose and said to the whole assembly of the people, [18]"Micah of Moresheth used to prophesy in the days of Hezekiah, king of Judah, and he said to all the people of Judah: Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Zion shall be plowed as a field,
Jerusalem, a heap of ruins,
and the temple mount,
a forest ridge.

[19]Did Hezekiah, king of Judah, and all Judah condemn him to death? Did he not fear the LORD and entreat the favor of the LORD, so that the LORD had a change of heart regarding the evil he had spoken against them? We, however, are about to do great evil against ourselves."

The Fate of Uriah. [20]There was another man who used to prophesy in the name of the LORD, Uriah, son of Shemaiah, from Kiriath-jearim; he prophesied against this city and this land the same message as Jeremiah. [21]When King Jehoiakim and all his officers and princes heard his words, the king sought to have him killed. But Uriah heard of it and fled in fear to Egypt. [22]Then King Jehoiakim sent Elnathan, son of Achbor, and others with him into Egypt, [23]and they brought Uriah out of Egypt and took him to Jehoiakim the king, who struck him down with the sword and threw his corpse into the common burial ground. [24]But the hand of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, protected Jeremiah, so they did not hand him over to the people to be put to death.

☐ COLOSSIANS 3

Mystical Death and Resurrection. 3:1 If then you were raised with Christ, seek what is above, where Christ is seated at the right hand of God. [2]Think of what is above, not of what is on earth. [3]For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. [4]When Christ your life appears, then you too will appear with him in glory.

Renunciation of Vice. [5]Put to death, then, the parts of you that are earthly: immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and the greed that is idolatry. [6]Because of these the wrath of God is coming [upon the disobedient]. [7]By these you too once conducted yourselves, when you lived in that way. [8]But now you must put them all away: anger, fury, malice, slander, and obscene language out of your mouths. [9]Stop lying to one another, since you have taken off the old self with its practices [10]and have put on the new self, which is being renewed, for knowledge, in the image of its creator. [11]Here there is not Greek and Jew, circumcision and uncircumcision, barbarian, Scythian, slave, free; but Christ is all and in all.

[12]Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, heartfelt compassion, kindness, humility, gentleness, and patience, [13]bearing with one another and forgiving one another, if one has a grievance against another; as the Lord has forgiven you, so must you also do. [14]And over all these put on love, that is, the bond of perfection. [15]And let the peace of Christ control your hearts, the peace into which you were also called in one body. And be thankful. [16]Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly, as in all wisdom you teach and admonish one another, singing psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs with gratitude in your hearts to God. [17]And whatever you do, in word or in deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him.

The Christian Family. [18]Wives, be subordinate to your husbands, as is proper in the Lord. [19]Husbands, love your wives, and avoid any bitterness toward them. [20]Children, obey your parents in everything, for this is pleasing to the Lord. [21]Fathers, do not provoke your children, so they may not become discouraged.

Slaves and Masters. [22]Slaves, obey your human masters in everything, not only when being watched, as currying favor, but in simplicity of heart, fearing the Lord. [23]Whatever you do, do from the heart, as for the Lord and not for others, [24]knowing that you will receive from the Lord the due payment of the inheritance; be slaves of the Lord Christ. [25]For the wrongdoer will receive recompense for the wrong he committed, and there is no partiality.

Serve Babylon or Perish. 27:1 In the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]The LORD said to me: Make for yourself thongs and yoke bars and put them on your shoulders. [3]Send them to the kings of Edom, Moab, the Ammonites, Tyre, and Sidon, through the ambassadors who have come to Jerusalem to Zedekiah, king of Judah, [4]and command them to tell their lords: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Thus shall you say to your lords: [5]It was I who made the earth, human being and beast on the face of the earth, by my great power, with my outstretched arm; and I can give them to whomever I think fit. [6]Now I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, my servant; even the wild animals I have given him to serve him. [7]All nations shall serve him and his son and his grandson, until the time comes for him and his land; then many nations and great kings will enslave him. [8]Meanwhile, the nation or the kingdom that will not serve him, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, or bend its neck under the yoke of the king of Babylon, I will punish that nation with sword, famine, and pestilence—oracle of the LORD—until I finish them by his hand.

[9]You, however, must not listen to your prophets, to your diviners and dreamers, to your soothsayers and sorcerers, who say to you, "Do not serve the king of Babylon." [10]For they prophesy lies to you, so as to drive you far from your land, making me banish you so that you perish. [11]The people that bends the neck to the yoke of the king of Babylon to serve him, I will leave in peace on its own land—oracle of the LORD—to cultivate it and dwell on it.

[12]To Zedekiah, king of Judah, I spoke the same words: Bend your necks to the yoke of the king of Babylon; serve him and his people, so that you may live. [13]Why should you and your people die by sword, famine, and pestilence, in accordance with the word the LORD has spoken to the nation that will not serve the king of Babylon? [14]Do not listen to the words of the prophets who say to you, "Do not serve the king of Babylon." They prophesy lies to you! [15]I did not send them—oracle of the LORD—but they prophesy falsely in my name. As a result I must banish you, and you will perish, you and the prophets who are prophesying to you.

[16]To the priests and to all the people I said: Thus says the LORD: Do not listen to the words of your prophets who prophesy to you: "The vessels of the house of the LORD will soon be brought back from Babylon," for they prophesy lies to you. [17]Do not listen to them! Serve the king of Babylon that you may live. Why should this city become rubble? [18]If they were prophets, if the word of the LORD were with them, then they would intercede with the LORD of hosts, that the vessels remaining in the house of the LORD and in the house of the king of Judah and in Jerusalem should not also go to Babylon. [19]For thus says the LORD of hosts concerning the pillars, the sea, the stands, and the rest of the vessels remaining in this city, [20]which Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, did not take when he exiled Jeconiah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, from Jerusalem to Babylon, along with all the nobles of Judah and Jerusalem— [21]thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, concerning the vessels remaining in the house of the LORD, in the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: [22]To Babylon they shall go, and there they shall remain, until the day I look for them—oracle of the LORD; then I will bring them back and restore them to this place.

The Two Yokes. 28:1 That same year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah, in the fifth month of the fourth year, Hananiah the prophet, son of Azzur, from Gibeon, said to me in the house of the LORD in the sight of the priests and all the people: [2]"Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. [3]Within two years I will restore to this place all the vessels of the house of the LORD which Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, took from this place and carried away to Babylon. [4]And Jeconiah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the exiles of Judah who went to Babylon, I will bring back to this place—oracle of the LORD—for I will break the yoke of the king of Babylon."

[5]Jeremiah the prophet answered the prophet Hananiah in the sight of the priests and all the people standing in the house of the LORD, [6]and said: Amen! thus may the LORD do! May the LORD fulfill your words that you have prophesied, by bringing back the vessels of the house of the LORD and all the exiles from Babylon to this place! [7]But now, listen to the word I am about to speak in your hearing and the hearing of all the people. [8]In the past, the prophets who came before you and me prophesied war, disaster, and pestilence against many lands and mighty kingdoms. [9]But the prophet who prophesies peace is recognized as the prophet whom the LORD has truly sent only when his word comes to pass.

[10]Thereupon Hananiah the prophet took the yoke bar from the neck of Jeremiah the prophet and broke it. [11]He said in the sight of all the people: "Thus says the LORD: Like this, within two years I will break the yoke of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, from the neck of all the nations." At that, the prophet Jeremiah went on his way.

[12]After Hananiah the prophet had broken the yoke bar off the neck of the prophet Jeremiah, the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [13]Go tell Hananiah this: Thus says the LORD: By breaking a wooden yoke bar, you make an iron yoke! [14]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: A yoke of iron I have placed on the necks of all these nations serving Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and they shall serve him; even the wild animals I have given him.

[15]And Jeremiah the prophet said to Hananiah the prophet: Listen to this, Hananiah! The LORD has not sent you, and you have led this people to rely on deception. [16]For this, says the LORD, I am sending you from the face of the earth; this very year you shall die, because you have preached rebellion against the LORD. [17]Hananiah the prophet died in that year, in the seventh month.

☐ JEREMIAH 29-30

Letter to the Exiles in Babylon. 29:1 These are the words of the scroll which Jeremiah the prophet sent from Jerusalem to the remaining elders among the exiles, to the priests, the prophets, and all the people whom Nebuchadnezzar exiled from Jerusalem to Babylon. [2]This was after King Jeconiah and the queen mother, the court officials, the princes of Judah and Jerusalem, the artisans and smiths had left Jerusalem. [3]Delivered in Babylon by Elasah, son of Shaphan, and by Gemariah, son of Hilkiah, whom Zedekiah, king of Judah, sent to the king of Babylon, the letter read:

[4]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, to all the exiles whom I exiled from Jerusalem to Babylon: [5]Build houses and live in them; plant gardens and eat their fruits. [6]Take wives and have sons and daughters; find wives for your sons and give your daughters to husbands, so that they may bear sons and daughters. Increase there; do not decrease. [7]Seek the welfare of the city to which I have exiled you; pray for it to the LORD, for upon its welfare your own depends. [8]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Do not be deceived by the prophets and diviners who are among you; do not listen to those among you who dream dreams, [9]for they prophesy lies to you in my name; I did not send them—oracle of the LORD.

[10]For thus says the LORD: Only after seventy years have elapsed for Babylon will I deal with you and fulfill for you my promise to bring you back to this place. [11]For I know well the plans I have in mind for you—oracle of the LORD—plans for your welfare and not for woe, so as to give you a future of hope. [12]When you call me, and come and pray to me, I will listen to you. [13]When you look for me, you will find me. Yes, when you seek me with all your heart, [14]I will let you find me—oracle of the LORD—and I will change your lot; I will gather you together from all the nations and all the places to which I have banished you—oracle of the LORD—and bring you back to the place from which I have exiled you. [15]As for your saying, "The LORD has raised up for us prophets here in Babylon"—

[16]Thus says the LORD concerning the king sitting on David's throne and all the people living in this city, your kinsmen who did not go with you into exile; [17]thus says the LORD of hosts: I am sending against them sword, famine, and pestilence. I will make them like rotten figs, so spoiled that they cannot be eaten. [18]I will pursue them with sword, famine, and pestilence, and make them an object of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth, a curse, a desolation, a hissing, and a reproach to all the nations among which I have banished them, [19]because they did not listen to my words —oracle of the LORD—even though I kept sending them my servants the prophets, but they would not listen to them—oracle of the LORD.

[20]As for you, listen to the word of the LORD, all you exiles whom I sent away from Jerusalem to Babylon. [21]This is what the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, says about Ahab, son of Kolaiah, and Zedekiah, son of Maaseiah, who prophesy lies to you in my name: I am handing them over to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, who will kill them before your eyes. [22]And because of them this curse will be used by all the exiles of Judah in Babylon: "May the LORD make you like Zedekiah and Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted in fire," [23]because they have committed an outrage in Israel, committing adultery with their neighbors' wives, and alleging in my name things I did not command. I know, I am witness—oracle of the LORD.

The False Prophet Shemaiah. [24]To Shemaiah, the Nehelamite, say: [25]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Because you sent documents in your own name to all the people in Jerusalem, to Zephaniah, the priest, son of Maaseiah, and to all the priests saying: [26]"It is the LORD who has appointed you priest in place of the priest Jehoiada, to provide officers for the house of the LORD, that you may confine in stocks or pillory any madman who poses as a prophet. [27]Why, then, have you not rebuked Jeremiah of Anathoth who poses as a prophet among you? [28]For he sent this message to us in Babylon: It will be a long time; build houses to live in; plant gardens and eat their fruit…."

[29]When the priest Zephaniah read this letter to Jeremiah the prophet, [30]the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [31]Send to all the exiles: Thus says the LORD concerning Shemaiah, the Nehelamite: Because Shemaiah prophesies to you, although I did not send him, and has led you to rely on a lie, [32]therefore thus says the LORD, I will punish Shemaiah, the Nehelamite, and his descendants. None of them shall dwell among this people to see the good I will do for this people—oracle of the LORD—because he preached rebellion against the LORD.

The Restoration. 30:1 This word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Write down on a scroll all the words I have spoken to you. [3]For indeed, the days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when I will restore the fortunes of my people Israel and Judah—oracle of the LORD. I will bring them back to the land which I gave to their ancestors, and they shall take possession of it.

[4]These are the words the LORD spoke to Israel and to Judah: [5]Thus says the LORD:

We hear a cry of fear:
terror, not peace.
[6]Inquire and see:
does a male give birth?

Why, then, do I see all these men,
their hands on their loins
Like women in labor,
all their faces drained of color?
7 Ah! How mighty is that day—
there is none like it!
A time of distress for Jacob,
though he shall be saved from it.

8 On that day—oracle of the LORD of hosts—I will break his yoke off your neck and snap your bonds. Strangers shall no longer enslave them; 9 instead, they shall serve the LORD, their God, and David, their king, whom I will raise up for them.

10 But you, my servant Jacob, do not fear!—oracle of the LORD—
do not be dismayed, Israel!
For I will soon deliver you from places far away,
your offspring from the land of their exile;
Jacob shall again find rest,
secure, with none to frighten him,
11 for I am with you—oracle of the LORD—to save you.
I will bring to an end all the nations
among whom I have scattered you;
but you I will not bring to an end.
I will chastise you as you deserve,
I will not let you go unpunished.
12 For thus says the LORD:
Incurable is your wound,
grievous your injury;
13 There is none to plead your case,
no remedy for your running sore,
no healing for you.
14 All your lovers have forgotten you,
they do not seek you out.
I struck you as an enemy would strike,
punishing you cruelly.
15 Why cry out over your wound?
There is no relief for your pain.
Because of your great guilt,
your numerous sins,
I have done this to you.
16 Yet all who devour you shall be devoured,
all your enemies shall go into exile.
All who plunder you shall become plunder,
all who pillage you I will hand over to be pillaged.
17 For I will restore your health;
I will heal your injuries—oracle of the LORD.
"The outcast" they have called you,
"whom no one looks for."
18 Thus says the LORD:
See! I will restore the fortunes of Jacob's tents,

on his dwellings I will have compassion;
A city shall be rebuilt upon its own ruins,
a citadel restored where it should be.
19From them will come praise,
the sound of people rejoicing.
I will increase them, they will not decrease,
I will glorify them, they will not be insignificant.
20His children shall be as of old,
his assembly shall stand firm in my presence,
I will punish all his oppressors.
21His leader shall be one of his own,
and his ruler shall emerge from his ranks.
He shall approach me when I summon him;
Why else would he dare approach me?—oracle of the LORD.
22You shall be my people,
and I will be your God.
23Look! The storm of the LORD!
His wrath breaks out
In a whirling storm
that bursts upon the heads of the wicked.
24The anger of the LORD will not abate
until he has carried out completely
the decisions of his heart.
In days to come
you will fully understand it.

☐ 2 PETER 1

Greeting. 1:1 Symeon Peter, a slave and apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who have received a faith of equal value to ours through the righteousness of our God and savior Jesus Christ: 2may grace and peace be yours in abundance through knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord.

The Power of God's Promise. 3His divine power has bestowed on us everything that makes for life and devotion, through the knowledge of him who called us by his own glory and power. 4Through these, he has bestowed on us the precious and very great promises, so that through them you may come to share in the divine nature, after escaping from the corruption that is in the world because of evil desire. 5For this very reason, make every effort to supplement your faith with virtue, virtue with knowledge, 6knowledge with self-control, self-control with endurance, endurance with devotion, 7devotion with mutual affection, mutual affection with love. 8If these are yours and increase in abundance, they will keep you from being idle or unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. 9Anyone who lacks them is blind and shortsighted, forgetful of the cleansing of his past sins. 10Therefore, brothers, be all the more eager to make your call and election firm, for, in doing so, you will never stumble. 11For, in this way, entry into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and savior Jesus Christ will be richly provided for you.

Apostolic Witness. 12Therefore, I will always remind you of these things, even though you already know them and are established in the truth you have. 13I think it right, as long as I am in this "tent," to stir you up by a reminder, 14since I know that I will soon have to put it aside, as indeed our Lord Jesus Christ has shown me. 15I shall also make every effort to enable you always to remember these things after my departure.

16We did not follow cleverly devised myths when we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but we had been eyewitnesses of his majesty. 17For he received honor and glory from God the Father when that unique declaration came to him from the majestic glory, "This is my Son, my beloved, with whom I am well pleased." 18We ourselves heard this voice come from heaven while we were with him on the holy mountain. 19Moreover, we possess the prophetic message that is altogether reliable. You will do well to be attentive to it, as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts. [20]Know this first of all, that there is no prophecy of scripture that is a matter of personal interpretation, [21]for no prophecy ever came through human will; but rather human beings moved by the holy Spirit spoke under the influence of God.

St. Paul of the Cross

> It is very good and holy to consider the passion of Our Lord, and to meditate on it, for by this sacred path we reach union with God. In this most holy school we learn true wisdom, for it was there that all the saints learned it.

☐ JEREMIAH 31-32

Good News of the Return. 31:1 At that time—oracle of the LORD—
I will be the God of all the families of Israel,
and they shall be my people.
[2]Thus says the LORD:
The people who escaped the sword
find favor in the wilderness.
As Israel comes forward to receive rest,
[3]from afar the LORD appears:
With age-old love I have loved you;
so I have kept my mercy toward you.
[4]Again I will build you, and you shall stay built,
virgin Israel;
Carrying your festive tambourines,
you shall go forth dancing with merrymakers.
[5]You shall again plant vineyards
on the mountains of Samaria;
those who plant them shall enjoy their fruits.
[6]Yes, a day will come when the watchmen
call out on Mount Ephraim:
"Come, let us go up to Zion,
to the LORD, our God."

The Road of Return. [7]For thus says the LORD:
Shout with joy for Jacob,
exult at the head of the nations;
proclaim your praise and say:
The LORD has saved his people,
the remnant of Israel.
[8]Look! I will bring them back from the land of the north;
I will gather them from the ends of the earth,
the blind and the lame in their midst,
Pregnant women, together with those in labor—

an immense throng—they shall return.
[9]With weeping they shall come,
but with compassion I will guide them;
I will lead them to streams of water,
on a level road, without stumbling.
For I am a father to Israel,
Ephraim is my firstborn.
[10]Hear the word of the LORD, you nations,
proclaim it on distant coasts, and say:
The One who scattered Israel, now gathers them;
he guards them as a shepherd his flock.
[11]The LORD shall ransom Jacob,
he shall redeem him from a hand too strong for him.
[12]Shouting, they shall mount the heights of Zion,
they shall come streaming to the LORD's blessings:
The grain, the wine, and the oil,
flocks of sheep and cattle;
They themselves shall be like watered gardens,
never again neglected.
[13]Then young women shall make merry and dance,
young men and old as well.
I will turn their mourning into joy,
I will show them compassion and have them rejoice after their sorrows.
[14]I will lavish choice portions on the priests,
and my people shall be filled with my blessings—
oracle of the LORD.

End of Rachel's Mourning. [15]Thus says the LORD:
In Ramah is heard the sound of sobbing,
bitter weeping!
Rachel mourns for her children,
she refuses to be consoled
for her children—they are no more!
[16]Thus says the LORD:
Cease your cries of weeping,
hold back your tears!
There is compensation for your labor—
oracle of the LORD—
they shall return from the enemy's land.
[17]There is hope for your future—oracle of the LORD—
your children shall return to their own territory.
[18]Indeed, I heard Ephraim rocking in grief:
You chastised me, and I was chastised;
I was like an untamed calf.
Bring me back, let me come back,
for you are the LORD, my God.
[19]For after I turned away, I repented;
after I came to myself, I struck my thigh;
I was ashamed, even humiliated,
because I bore the disgrace of my youth.

[20]Is Ephraim not my favored son,
the child in whom I delight?
Even though I threaten him,
I must still remember him!
My heart stirs for him,
I must show him compassion!—oracle of the LORD.

Summons To Return Home. [21]Set up road markers,
put up signposts;
Turn your attention to the highway,
the road you walked.
Turn back, virgin Israel,
turn back to these your cities.
[22]How long will you continue to hesitate, rebellious daughter?
The LORD has created a new thing upon the earth:
woman encompasses man.

[23]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: When I restore their fortunes in the land of Judah and in its cities, they shall again use this greeting: "May the LORD bless you, Tent of Justice, Holy Mountain!" [24]Judah and all its cities, the farmers and those who lead the flock shall dwell there together. [25]For I will slake the thirst of the faint; the appetite of all the weary I will satisfy. [26]At this I awoke and opened my eyes; my sleep was satisfying.

[27]See, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when I will sow the house of Israel and the house of Judah with the seed of human beings and the seed of animals. [28]As I once watched over them to uproot and tear down, to demolish, to destroy, and to harm, so I will watch over them to build and to plant—oracle of the LORD. [29]In those days they shall no longer say,

"The parents ate unripe grapes,
and the children's teeth are set on edge,"

[30]but all shall die because of their own iniquity: the teeth of anyone who eats unripe grapes shall be set on edge.

The New Covenant. [31]See, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah. [32]It will not be like the covenant I made with their ancestors the day I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt. They broke my covenant, though I was their master—oracle of the LORD. [33]But this is the covenant I will make with the house of Israel after those days—oracle of the LORD. I will place my law within them, and write it upon their hearts; I will be their God, and they shall be my people. [34]They will no longer teach their friends and relatives, "Know the LORD!" Everyone, from least to greatest, shall know me—oracle of the LORD—for I will forgive their iniquity and no longer remember their sin.

Certainty of God's Promise. [35]Thus says the LORD,
Who gives the sun to light the day,
moon and stars to light the night;
Who stirs up the sea so that its waves roar,
whose name is LORD of hosts:
[36]If ever this fixed order gives way
before me—oracle of the LORD—
Then would the offspring of Israel cease
as a people before me forever.
[37]Thus says the LORD:
If the heavens on high could be measured,
or the foundations below the earth be explored,

Then would I reject all the offspring of Israel
because of all they have done—oracle of the LORD.

Jerusalem Rebuilt. [38]See, days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when the city shall be rebuilt as the LORD's, from the Tower of Hananel to the Corner Gate. [39]A measuring line shall be stretched from there straight to the hill Gareb and then turn to Goah. [40]The whole valley of corpses and ashes, all the terraced slopes toward the Wadi Kidron, as far as the corner of the Horse Gate at the east, shall be holy to the LORD. Never again shall the city be uprooted or demolished.

Pledge of Restoration. 32:1 The word came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the tenth year of Zedekiah, king of Judah, the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar. [2]At that time the army of the king of Babylon was besieging Jerusalem, while Jeremiah the prophet was confined to the court of the guard, in the house of the king of Judah. [3]Zedekiah, king of Judah, had confined him there, saying: "How dare you prophesy: Thus says the LORD: I am handing this city over to the king of Babylon that he may capture it. [4]Zedekiah, king of Judah, shall not escape the hands of the Chaldeans: he shall indeed be handed over to the king of Babylon. He shall speak with him face to face and see him eye to eye. [5]He shall take Zedekiah to Babylon. There he shall remain, until I attend to him—oracle of the LORD. If you fight against the Chaldeans, you cannot win!"

[6]Jeremiah said, This word came to me from the LORD: [7]Hanamel, son of your uncle Shallum, will come to you with the offer: "Purchase my field in Anathoth, since you, as nearest relative, have the first right of purchase." [8]And, just as the LORD had said, my cousin Hanamel came to me in the court of the guard and said, "Please purchase my field in Anathoth, in the territory of Benjamin; as nearest relative, you have the first right of possession—purchase it for yourself." Then I knew this was the word of the LORD. [9]So I bought the field in Anathoth from my cousin Hanamel, weighing out for him the silver, seventeen shekels of silver.

[10]When I had written and sealed the deed, called witnesses and weighed out the silver on the scales, [11]I accepted the deed of purchase, both the sealed copy, containing title and conditions, and the open copy. [12]I gave this deed of purchase to Baruch, son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, in the presence of my cousin Hanamel and the witnesses who had signed the deed of purchase and before all the Judahites sitting around in the court of the guard.

[13]In their presence I gave Baruch this charge: [14]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Take these deeds of purchase, both the sealed and the open deeds, and put them in an earthenware jar, so they can last a long time. [15]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: They shall again purchase houses and fields and vineyards in this land.

[16]After I had given the deed of purchase to Baruch, son of Neriah, I prayed to the LORD: [17]Ah, my Lord GOD! You made the heavens and the earth with your great power and your outstretched arm; nothing is too difficult for you. [18]You continue your kindness through a thousand generations; but you repay the ancestors' guilt upon their children who follow them. Great and mighty God, whose name is LORD of hosts, [19]great in counsel, mighty in deed, whose eyes are fixed on all the ways of mortals, giving to all according to their ways, according to the fruit of their deeds: [20]you performed signs and wonders in the land of Egypt and to this day, in Israel and among all peoples, you have made a name for yourself as on this day. [21]You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and an outstretched arm, and great terror. [22]And you gave them this land, as you had sworn to their ancestors to give them, a land flowing with milk and honey. [23]They went in and took possession of it, but they did not listen to your voice. They did not live by your law; they did not do anything you commanded them to do. Then you made all this evil fall upon them. [24]See, the siegeworks have arrived at this city to capture it; the city is handed over to the Chaldeans who are attacking it, with sword, starvation, and disease. What you threatened has happened—you can see it for yourself. [25]Yet you told me, my Lord GOD: Purchase the field with silver and summon witnesses, when the city has already been handed over to the Chaldeans!

[26]Then this word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [27]I am the LORD, the God of all the living! Is anything too difficult for me? [28]Therefore the LORD says: I am handing over this city to the Chaldeans and to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and he shall capture it. [29]The Chaldeans who are attacking this city shall go in and set the city on fire, burning it and the houses, on whose roofs incense was burned to Baal and libations were poured out to other gods in order to provoke me. [30]From their youth the Israelites and the Judahites have been doing only what is evil in my eyes; the Israelites have been provoking me with the works of their hands—oracle of the LORD. [31]This city has so stirred my anger and wrath, from the day it was built to this day, that I must put it out of my sight, [32]for all the evil the Israelites and Judahites have done to provoke me—they, their kings, their princes, their priests, and their prophets, the people of Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. [33]They turned their backs to me, not their faces; though I taught them persistently, they would not listen or accept correction. [34]Instead they set up their abominations in the house which bears my name in order to defile it. [35]They built high places to Baal in the Valley of Ben-hinnom to sacrifice their sons and daughters to Molech; I never commanded them to do this, nor did it even enter my mind that they would practice this abomination, so as to bring sin upon Judah.

[36]Now, therefore, thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning this city, which you say is being handed over to the king of Babylon by means of the sword, starvation, and disease: [37]See, I am gathering them from all the lands to which I drove them in my rising fury and great anger; I will bring them back to this place and settle them here in safety. [38]They shall be my people, and I will be their God. [39]I will give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me always, for their own good and the good of their children after them. [40]With them I will make an everlasting covenant, never to cease doing good to them; I will put fear of me in their hearts so that they never turn away from me. [41]I will take delight in doing good to them: I will plant them firmly in this land, with all my heart and soul.

[42]For thus says the LORD: Just as I have brought upon this people all this great evil, so I will bring upon them all the good I have promised them. [43]Fields shall be purchased in this land, about which you say, "It is a wasteland, without human beings or animals, handed over to the Chaldeans." [44]They will purchase fields with silver, write up deeds, seal them, and have them witnessed in the land of Benjamin, in the neighborhood of Jerusalem, in the cities of Judah and of the hill country, in the cities of the Shephelah and the Negeb, when I restore their fortunes—oracle of the LORD.

False Teachers. 2:1 There were also false prophets among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you, who will introduce destructive heresies and even deny the Master who ransomed them, bringing swift destruction on themselves. [2]Many will follow their licentious ways, and because of them the way of truth will be reviled. [3]In their greed they will exploit you with fabrications, but from of old their condemnation has not been idle and their destruction does not sleep.

Lessons from the Past. [4]For if God did not spare the angels when they sinned, but condemned them to the chains of Tartarus and handed them over to be kept for judgment; [5]and if he did not spare the ancient world, even though he preserved Noah, a herald of righteousness, together with seven others, when he brought a flood upon the godless world; [6]and if he condemned the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah [to destruction], reducing them to ashes, making them an example for the godless [people] of what is coming; [7]and if he rescued Lot, a righteous man oppressed by the licentious conduct of unprincipled people [8](for day after day that righteous man living among them was tormented in his righteous soul at the lawless deeds that he saw and heard), [9]then the Lord knows how to rescue the devout from trial and to keep the unrighteous under punishment for the day of judgment, [10]and especially those who follow the flesh with its depraved desire and show contempt for lordship.

False Teachers Denounced. Bold and arrogant, they are not afraid to revile glorious beings, [11]whereas angels, despite their superior strength and power, do not bring a reviling judgment against them from the Lord. [12]But these people, like irrational animals born by nature for capture and destruction, revile things that they do not understand, and in their destruction they will also be destroyed, [13]suffering wrong as payment for wrongdoing. Thinking daytime revelry a delight, they are stains and defilements as they revel in their deceits while carousing with you. [14]Their eyes are full of adultery and insatiable for sin. They seduce unstable people, and their hearts are trained in greed. Accursed children! [15]Abandoning the straight road, they have gone astray, following the road of Balaam, the son of Bosor, who loved payment for wrongdoing, [16]but he received a rebuke for his own crime: a mute beast spoke with a human voice and restrained the prophet's madness.

[17]These people are waterless springs and mists driven by a gale; for them the gloom of darkness has been reserved. [18]For, talking empty bombast, they seduce with licentious desires of the flesh those who have barely escaped from people who live in error. [19]They promise them freedom, though they themselves are slaves of corruption, for a person is a slave of whatever overcomes him. [20]For if they, having escaped the defilements of the world through the knowledge of

[our] Lord and savior Jesus Christ, again become entangled and overcome by them, their last condition is worse than their first. [21]For it would have been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness than after knowing it to turn back from the holy commandment handed down to them. [22]What is expressed in the true proverb has happened to them, "The dog returns to its own vomit," and "A bathed sow returns to wallowing in the mire."

Restoration of Jerusalem. 33:1 The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah a second time while he was still confined in the court of the guard: [2]Thus says the LORD who made the earth, giving it shape and stability, LORD is his name: [3]Call to me, and I will answer you; I will tell you great things beyond the reach of your knowledge. [4]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city and the houses of the kings of Judah, which are being torn down because of the siegeworks and the sword: [5]men come to battle the Chaldeans, and to fill these houses with the corpses of those whom I have struck down in my raging anger, when I hid my face from this city because of all their wickedness.

[6]Look! I am bringing the city recovery and healing; I will heal them and reveal to them an abundance of lasting peace. [7]I will restore the fortunes of Judah and Israel, and rebuild them as they were in the beginning. [8]I will purify them of all the guilt they incurred by sinning against me; I will forgive all their offenses by which they sinned and rebelled against me. [9]Then this city shall become joy for me, a name of praise and pride, before all the nations of the earth, as they hear of all the good I am doing for them. They shall fear and tremble because of all the prosperity I give it.

[10]Thus says the LORD: In this place, about which you say: "It is a waste without people or animals!" and in the cities of Judah, in the streets of Jerusalem now deserted, without people, without inhabitant, without animal, there shall yet be heard [11]the song of joy, the song of gladness, the song of the bridegroom, the song of the bride, the song of those bringing thank offerings to the house of the LORD: "Give thanks to the LORD of hosts, for the LORD is good; God's love endures forever." For I will restore the fortunes of this land as they were in the beginning, says the LORD.

[12]Thus says the LORD of hosts: In this place, now a waste, without people or animals, and in all its cities there shall again be sheepfolds for the shepherds to rest their flocks. [13]In the cities of the hill country, of the Shephelah and the Negeb, in the land of Benjamin and the neighborhood of Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, flocks will again pass under the hands of the one who counts them, says the LORD.

[14]The days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when I will fulfill the promise I made to the house of Israel and the house of Judah. [15]In those days, at that time, I will make a just shoot spring up for David; he shall do what is right and just in the land. [16]In those days Judah shall be saved and Jerusalem shall dwell safely; this is the name they shall call her: "The LORD our justice." [17]For thus says the LORD: David shall never lack a successor on the throne of the house of Israel, [18]nor shall the priests of Levi ever be lacking before me, to sacrifice burnt offerings, to burn cereal offerings, and to make sacrifices.

[19]This word of the LORD also came to Jeremiah: [20]Thus says the LORD: If you can break my covenant with day and my covenant with night so that day and night no longer appear in their proper time, [21]only then can my covenant with my servant David be broken, so that he will not have a descendant to act as king upon his throne, and my covenant with the priests of Levi who minister to me. [22]Just as the host of heaven cannot be numbered and the sands of the sea cannot be counted, so I will multiply the descendants of David my servant and the Levites who minister to me.

[23]This word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [24]Have you not noticed what these people are saying: "The LORD has rejected the two tribes he had chosen"? They hold my people in contempt as if it were no longer a nation in their eyes. [25]Thus says the LORD: If I have no covenant with day and night, if I did not establish statutes for heaven and earth, [26]then I will also reject the descendants of Jacob and of David my servant, no longer selecting from his descendants rulers for the offspring of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. Yes, I will restore their fortunes and show them mercy.

Fate of Zedekiah. 34:1 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD while Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and all his army and all the earth's kingdoms under his rule, and all the peoples were attacking Jerusalem and all her cities: [2]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Go to Zedekiah, king of Judah, and tell him: Thus says the LORD: I am handing this city over to the king of Babylon; he will burn it with fire. [3]You yourself shall not escape his hand; rather you will be captured and fall into his hand. You shall see the king of Babylon eye to eye and speak to him face to face. Then you shall go to Babylon.

[4]Just hear the word of the LORD, Zedekiah, king of Judah! Then, says the LORD concerning you, you shall not die by the sword. [5]You shall die in peace, and they will burn spices for you as they did for your ancestors, the earlier kings who preceded you, and they shall make lament over you, "Alas, Lord." I myself make this promise—oracle of the LORD.

[6]Jeremiah the prophet told all these things to Zedekiah, king of Judah, in Jerusalem, [7]while the army of the king of Babylon was attacking Jerusalem and the remaining cities of Judah, Lachish, and Azekah. Only these fortified cities were left standing out of all the cities of Judah!

The Pact Broken. [8]This is the word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD after King Zedekiah had made a covenant with all the people in Jerusalem to proclaim freedom: [9]Everyone must free their Hebrew slaves, male and female, so that no one should hold another Judahite in servitude. [10]All the princes and the people who entered this covenant agreed to set free their slaves, their male and female servants, so that they should no longer be in servitude. But even though they agreed and freed them, [11]afterward they took back their male and female servants whom they had set free and again forced them into servitude.

[12]Then this word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [13]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: I myself made a covenant with your ancestors the day I brought them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery: [14]Every seventh year each of you must set free all Hebrews who have sold themselves to you; six years they shall serve you, but then you shall let them go free. Your ancestors, however, did not listen to me or obey me. [15]As for you, today you repented and did what is right in my eyes by proclaiming freedom for your neighbor and making a covenant before me in the house which bears my name. [16]But then you again profaned my name by taking back your male and female slaves whom you had just set free for life; you forced them to become your slaves again. [17]Therefore, thus says the LORD: You for your part did not obey me by proclaiming freedom for your families and neighbors. So I now proclaim freedom for you—oracle of the LORD—for the sword, starvation, and disease. I will make you an object of horror to all the kingdoms of the earth. [18]Those who violated my covenant and did not observe the terms of the covenant they made in my presence —I will make them like the calf which they cut in two so they could pass between its parts— [19]the princes of Judah and of Jerusalem, the court officials, the priests, and all the people of the land, who passed between the parts of the calf. [20]These I will hand over to their enemies, to those who seek their lives: their corpses shall become food for the birds of the air and the beasts of the field.

[21]Zedekiah, king of Judah, and his princes, I will hand also over to their enemies, to those who seek their lives, to the army of the king of Babylon which is now withdrawing from you. [22]I am giving the command—oracle of the LORD—to bring them back to this city. They shall attack and capture it, and burn it with fire; the cities of Judah I will turn into a waste, where no one dwells.

Denial of the Parousia. 3:1 This is now, beloved, the second letter I am writing to you; through them by way of reminder I am trying to stir up your sincere disposition, [2]to recall the words previously spoken by the holy prophets and the commandment of the Lord and savior through your apostles. [3]Know this first of all, that in the last days scoffers will come [to] scoff, living according to their own desires [4]and saying, "Where is the promise of his coming? From the time when our ancestors fell asleep, everything has remained as it was from the beginning of creation." [5]They deliberately ignore the fact that the heavens existed of old and earth was formed out of water and through water by the word of God; [6]through these the world that then existed was destroyed, deluged with water. [7]The present heavens and earth have been reserved by the same word for fire, kept for the day of judgment and of destruction of the godless.

[8]But do not ignore this one fact, beloved, that with the Lord one day is like a thousand years and a thousand years like one day. [9]The Lord does not delay his promise, as some regard "delay," but he is patient with you, not wishing that any should perish but that all should come to repentance. [10]But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a mighty roar and the elements will be dissolved by fire, and the earth and everything done on it will be found out.

Exhortation to Preparedness. [11]Since everything is to be dissolved in this way, what sort of persons ought [you] to be, conducting yourselves in holiness and devotion, [12]waiting for and hastening the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be dissolved in flames and the elements melted by fire. [13]But according to his promise we await new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells.

[14]Therefore, beloved, since you await these things, be eager to be found without spot or blemish before him, at peace. [15]And consider the patience of our Lord as salvation, as our beloved brother Paul, according to the wisdom given to him, also wrote to you, [16]speaking of these things as he does in all his letters. In them there are some things hard to understand that the ignorant and unstable distort to their own destruction, just as they do the other scriptures.

[17]Therefore, beloved, since you are forewarned, be on your guard not to be led into the error of the unprincipled and to fall from your own stability. [18]But grow in grace and in the knowledge of our Lord and savior Jesus Christ. To him be glory now and to the day of eternity. [Amen.]

☐ JEREMIAH 35-36

The Faithful Rechabites. 35:1 The word that came to Jeremiah from the LORD in the days of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2]Go to the house of the Rechabites, speak to them, and bring them to the house of the LORD, to one of the rooms there, and give them wine to drink. [3]So I took Jaazaniah, son of Jeremiah, son of Habazziniah, his brothers and all his sons—the whole house of the Rechabites— [4]and I brought them to the house of the LORD, to the room of the sons of Hanan, son of Igdaliah, the man of God, next to the room of the princes above the room of Maaseiah, son of Shallum, the guard at the entrance. [5]I set before the Rechabites bowls full of wine, and cups, and said to them, "Drink some wine."

[6]"We do not drink wine," they said to me; "Jonadab, Rechab's son, our father, commanded us, 'Neither you nor your children shall ever drink wine. [7]Build no house and sow no seed; do not plant vineyards or own any. You must dwell in tents all your lives, so that you may live long on the land where you live as resident aliens.' [8]We have obeyed Jonadab, Rechab's son, our father, in everything that he commanded us: not drinking wine as long as we live—neither we nor our wives nor our sons nor our daughters; [9]not building houses to live in; not owning vineyards or fields or crops. [10]We live in tents, doing everything our father Jonadab commanded us. [11]But when Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, invaded this land, we said, 'Come, let us go into Jerusalem to escape the army of the Chaldeans and the army of the Arameans.' That is why we are now living in Jerusalem."

[12]Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah: [13]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Go, say to the people of Judah and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem: Will you not take correction and obey my words?—oracle of the LORD. [14]The words of Jonadab, Rechab's son, by which he commanded his children not to drink wine, have been upheld: to this day they have not drunk wine; they obeyed their ancestor's command. I, however, have spoken to you time and again. But you did not obey me! [15]Time and again I sent you all my servants the prophets, saying: Turn away, each of you, from your evil way and reform your actions! Do not follow other gods to serve them that you may remain in the land which I gave you and your ancestors. But you did not pay attention. You did not obey me. [16]Yes, the children of Jonadab, Rechab's son, upheld the command which their father laid on them. But this people has not obeyed me! [17]Now, therefore, says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: I will soon bring upon Judah and all the inhabitants of Jerusalem every evil with which I threatened them because I spoke but they did not obey, I called but they did not answer.

[18]But to the house of the Rechabites Jeremiah said: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Since you have obeyed the command of Jonadab, your father, kept all his commands and done everything he commanded you, [19]therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Never shall there fail to be a descendant of Jonadab, Rechab's son, standing in my presence.

Baruch, the Scribe of Jeremiah. 36:1 In the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, this word came to Jeremiah from the LORD: [2]Take a scroll and write on it all the words I have spoken to you about Israel, Judah, and all the nations, from the day I first spoke to you, from the days of Josiah, until today. [3]Perhaps, if the house of Judah hears all the evil I have in mind to do to them, so that all of them turn from their evil way, then I can forgive their wickedness and their sin. [4]So Jeremiah called Baruch, son of Neriah, and he wrote down on a scroll what Jeremiah said, all the words which the LORD had spoken to him. [5]Then Jeremiah commanded Baruch: "I cannot enter the house of the LORD; I am barred from it. [6]So you yourself must go. On a fast day in the hearing of the people in the LORD's house, read the words of the LORD from the scroll you wrote at my dictation; read them also to all the people of Judah who come up from their cities. [7]Perhaps they will present their supplication before the LORD and will all turn back from their evil way; for great is the anger and wrath with which the LORD has threatened this people."

[8]Baruch, son of Neriah, did everything Jeremiah the prophet commanded; from the scroll he read the LORD's words in the LORD's house. [9]In the ninth month, in the fifth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah, all the people of Jerusalem and all those who came from Judah's cities to Jerusalem proclaimed a fast before the LORD. [10]So Baruch read the words of Jeremiah from the scroll in the room of Gemariah, son of the scribe Shaphan, in the upper court of the LORD's house, at the entrance of the New Temple Gate, in the hearing of all the people.

[11]Now Micaiah, son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan, heard all the words of the LORD read from the scroll. [12]So he went down to the house of the king, into the scribe's chamber, where the princes were meeting in session: Elishama, the scribe; Delaiah, son of Shemaiah; Elnathan, son of Achbor; Gemariah, son of Shaphan; Zedekiah, son of Hananiah; and the other princes. [13]Micaiah reported to them all that he had heard Baruch read from his scroll in the hearing of the people. [14]The princes immediately sent Jehudi, son of Nethaniah, son of Shelemiah, son of Cushi, to Baruch with the order: "The scroll you read in the hearing of the people—bring it with you and come." Scroll in hand, Baruch, son of Neriah, went to them. [15]"Sit down," they said to him, "and read it in our hearing." Baruch read it in their hearing, [16]and when they had heard all its words, they turned to each other in alarm and said to Baruch, "We have to tell the king all these things." [17]Then they asked Baruch: "Tell us, please, how did you come to write down all these words? Was it at his dictation?" [18]"Yes, he would dictate all these words to me," Baruch answered them, "while I wrote them down with ink in the scroll." [19]The princes said to Baruch, "Go into hiding, you and Jeremiah; do not let anyone know where you are."

[20]They went in to the king, into the courtyard; they had deposited the scroll in the room of Elishama the scribe. When they told the king everything that had happened, [21]the king sent Jehudi to get the scroll. Jehudi brought it from the room of Elishama the scribe, and read it to the king and to all the princes who were attending the king. [22]Now the king was sitting in his winter house, since it was the ninth month, and a fire was burning in the brazier before him. [23]Each time Jehudi finished reading three or four columns, he would cut off the piece with a scribe's knife and throw it into the fire in the brazier, until the entire scroll was consumed in the fire in the brazier. [24]As they were listening to all these words the king and all his officials did not become alarmed, nor did they tear their garments. [25]And though Elnathan, Delaiah, and Gemariah urged the king not to burn the scroll, he would not listen to them. [26]He commanded Jerahmeel, a royal prince, and Seraiah, son of Azriel, and Shelemiah, son of Abdeel, to arrest Baruch, the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet. But the LORD had hidden them away.

[27]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah, after the king burned the scroll and the words Jeremiah had dictated to Baruch: [28]Take another scroll, and write on it all the words in the first scroll, which Jehoiakim, king of Judah, burned. [29]And against Jehoiakim, king of Judah, say this: Thus says the LORD: You are the one who burned that scroll, saying, "Why did you write on it: Babylon's king shall surely come and ravage this land, emptying it of every living thing"? [30]The LORD now says of Jehoiakim, king of Judah: No descendant of his shall sit on David's throne; his corpse shall be thrown out, exposed to heat by day, frost by night. [31]I will punish him and his descendants and his officials for their wickedness; upon them, the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the people of Judah I will bring all the evil threats to which they did not listen.

[32]Then Jeremiah took another scroll and gave it to his scribe, Baruch, son of Neriah, who wrote on it at Jeremiah's dictation all the words contained in the scroll which Jehoiakim, king of Judah, had burned in the fire, adding many words like them.

☐ 2 THESSALONIANS 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy to the church of the Thessalonians in God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ: [2]grace to you and peace from God [our] Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving. [3]We ought to thank God always for you, brothers, as is fitting, because your faith flourishes ever more, and the love of every one of you for one another grows ever greater. [4]Accordingly, we ourselves boast of you in the churches of God regarding your endurance and faith in all your persecutions and the afflictions you endure.

[5]This is evidence of the just judgment of God, so that you may be considered worthy of the kingdom of God for which you are suffering. [6]For it is surely just on God's part to repay with afflictions those who are afflicting you, [7]and to grant rest along with us to you who are undergoing afflictions, at the revelation of the Lord Jesus from heaven with his mighty angels, [8]in blazing fire, inflicting punishment on those who do not acknowledge God and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus. [9]These will pay the penalty of eternal ruin, separated from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his power, [10]when he comes to be glorified among his holy ones and to be marveled at on that day among all who have believed, for our testimony to you was believed.

Prayer. [11]To this end, we always pray for you, that our God may make you worthy of his calling and powerfully bring to fulfillment every good purpose and every effort of faith, [12]that the name of our Lord Jesus may be glorified in you, and you in him, in accord with the grace of our God and Lord Jesus Christ.

St. John of Capistrano

> Jesus said, "You are the light of the world." Now a light does not illumine itself, but instead it diffuses its rays and shines all around upon everything that comes into its view. So it must be with the glowing lives of upright and holy priests. By the brightness of their holiness they must bring light and serenity to all who gaze upon them.

☐ JEREMIAH 37-38

Jeremiah in the Dungeon. 37:1 Zedekiah, son of Josiah, became king, succeeding Coniah, son of Jehoiakim; Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, appointed him king over the land of Judah. [2]Neither he, nor his officials, nor the people of the land would listen to the words which the LORD spoke through Jeremiah the prophet. [3]Yet King Zedekiah sent Jehucal, son of Shelemiah, and Zephaniah, son of Maaseiah the priest, to Jeremiah the prophet with this request: "Please appeal to the LORD, our God, for us." [4]At this time Jeremiah still came and went freely among the people; he had not yet been put into prison. [5]Meanwhile, Pharaoh's army had set out from Egypt, and when the Chaldeans who were besieging Jerusalem heard this report, they withdrew from the city.

[6]Then the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah the prophet: [7]Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel: Thus you must say to the king of Judah who sent you to consult me: Listen! Pharaoh's army, which has set out to help you, will return to Egypt, its own land. [8]The Chaldeans shall return and attack this city; they shall capture it and destroy it by fire.

[9]Thus says the LORD: Do not deceive yourselves, saying: "The Chaldeans are surely leaving us forever." They are not! [10]Even if you could defeat the whole Chaldean army that is now attacking you, and only the wounded remained, each in his tent, these would rise up and destroy the city with fire.

[11]Now when the Chaldean army withdrew from Jerusalem because of the army of Pharaoh, [12]Jeremiah set out from Jerusalem to go to the territory of Benjamin, to receive his share of property among the people. [13]But at the Gate of Benjamin, the captain of the guard, by the name of Irijah, son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah, arrested Jeremiah the prophet, saying, "You are deserting to the Chaldeans!" [14]"That is a lie!" Jeremiah answered, "I am not deserting to the Chaldeans." Without listening to him, Irijah kept Jeremiah in custody and brought him to the princes.

[15]The princes were enraged at Jeremiah and had Jeremiah beaten and imprisoned in the house of Jonathan the scribe, for they were using it as a jail. [16]And so Jeremiah went into a room in the dungeon, where he remained many days.

[17]Then King Zedekiah had him brought to his palace, and he asked him secretly, "Is there any word from the LORD?" "There is!" Jeremiah answered: "You shall be handed over to the king of Babylon." [18]Jeremiah then asked King Zedekiah: "How have I wronged you or your officials or this people, that you should put me in prison? [19]Where are your own prophets who prophesied for you, saying: 'The King of Babylon will not attack you or this land'? [20]Please hear me, my lord king! Grant my petition: do not send me back into the house of Jonathan the scribe, or I shall die there."

[21]So King Zedekiah ordered that Jeremiah be confined in the court of the guard and given a ration of bread every day from the bakers' street until all the bread in the city was eaten up. Thus Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

Jeremiah in the Muddy Cistern. 38:1 Shephatiah, son of Mattan, Gedaliah, son of Pashhur, Jucal, son of Shelemiah, and Pashhur, son of Malchiah, heard the words Jeremiah was speaking to all the people: [2]Thus says the LORD: Those who remain in this city shall die by means of the sword, starvation, and disease; but those who go out to the Chaldeans shall live. Their lives shall be spared them as spoils of war that they may live. [3]Thus says the LORD: This city shall certainly be handed over to the army of the king of Babylon; he shall capture it.

[4]Then the princes said to the king, "This man ought to be put to death. He is weakening the resolve of the soldiers left in this city and of all the people, by saying such things to them; he is not seeking the welfare of our people, but their ruin." [5]King Zedekiah answered: "He is in your hands," for the king could do nothing with them. [6]And so they took Jeremiah and threw him into the cistern of Prince Malchiah, in the court of the guard, letting him down by rope. There was no water in the cistern, only mud, and Jeremiah sank down into the mud.

[7]Now Ebed-melech, an Ethiopian, a court official in the king's house, heard that they had put Jeremiah in the cistern. The king happened to be sitting at the Gate of Benjamin, [8]and Ebed-melech went there from the house of the king and said to him, [9]"My lord king, these men have done wrong in all their treatment of Jeremiah the prophet, throwing him into the cistern. He will starve to death on the spot, for there is no more bread in the city." [10]Then the king ordered Ebed-melech the Ethiopian: "Take three men with you, and get Jeremiah the prophet out of the cistern before he dies." [11]Ebed-melech took the men with him, and went first to the linen closet in the house of the king. He took some old, tattered rags and lowered them by rope to Jeremiah in the cistern. [12]Then he said to Jeremiah, "Put these old, tattered rags between your armpits and the ropes." Jeremiah did so, [13]and they pulled him up by rope out of the cistern. But Jeremiah remained in the court of the guard.

[14]King Zedekiah summoned Jeremiah the prophet to meet him at the third entrance of the house of the LORD. "I have a question to ask you," the king said to Jeremiah. "Do not hide anything from me." [15]Jeremiah answered Zedekiah: "If I tell you anything, will you not have me put to death? If I counsel you, you will not listen to me!" [16]But King Zedekiah swore to Jeremiah secretly: "As the LORD lives who gave us our lives, I will not kill you, nor will I hand you over to those men who seek your life."

[17]Jeremiah then said to Zedekiah: "Thus says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: If you will only surrender to the princes of Babylon's king, you shall save your life; this city shall not be destroyed by fire, and you and your household shall live. [18]But if you do not surrender to the princes of Babylon's king, this city shall fall into the hand of the Chaldeans, who shall destroy it by fire, and you shall not escape their hand."

[19]King Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "I am afraid of the Judahites who have deserted to the Chaldeans; I could be handed over to them, and they will mistreat me." [20]"You will not be handed over to them," Jeremiah answered. "I beg you! Please listen to the voice of the LORD regarding what I tell you so that it may go well with you and your life be spared. [21]But if you refuse to surrender, this is what the LORD has shown: [22]I see all the women who remain in the house of Judah's king being brought out to the princes of Babylon's king, and they are crying:

'They betrayed you, outdid you,
your good friends!
Now that your feet are sunk in mud,
they slink away.'

[23]All your wives and children shall be brought out to the Chaldeans, and you shall not escape their hands; you shall be handed over to the king of Babylon, and this city shall be destroyed by fire."

[24]Then Zedekiah said to Jeremiah, "Let no one know about this conversation, or you shall die. [25]If the princes should hear I spoke with you and if they should come and ask you, 'Tell us what you said to the king; do not hide it from us, or we will kill you,' or, 'What did the king say to you?' [26]then give them this answer: 'I petitioned the king not to send me back to Jonathan's house lest I die there.' " [27]When all the princes came to Jeremiah and questioned him, he answered them with the very words the king had commanded. They said no more to him, for nothing had been overheard of the conversation. [28]Thus Jeremiah stayed in the court of the guard until the day Jerusalem was taken.

Christ and the Lawless One. 2:1 We ask you, brothers, with regard to the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our assembling with him, [2]not to be shaken out of your minds suddenly, or to be alarmed either by a "spirit," or by an oral statement, or by a letter allegedly from us to the effect that the day of the Lord is at hand. [3]Let no one deceive you in any way. For unless the apostasy comes first and the lawless one is revealed, the one doomed to perdition, [4]who opposes and exalts himself above every so-called god and object of worship, so as to seat himself in the temple of God, claiming that he is a god— [5]do you not recall that while I was still with you I told you these things? [6]And now you know what is restraining, that he may be revealed in his time. [7]For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work. But the one who restrains is to do so only for the present, until he is removed from the scene. [8]And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord [Jesus] will kill with the breath of his mouth and render powerless by the manifestation of his coming, [9]the one whose coming springs from the power of Satan in every mighty deed and in signs and wonders that lie, [10]and in every wicked deceit for those who are perishing because they have not accepted the love of truth so that they may be saved. [11]Therefore, God is sending them a deceiving power so that they may believe the lie, [12]that all who have not believed the truth but have approved wrongdoing may be condemned.

[13]But we ought to give thanks to God for you always, brothers loved by the Lord, because God chose you as the firstfruits for salvation through sanctification by the Spirit and belief in truth. [14]To this end he has [also] called you through our gospel to possess the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ. [15]Therefore, brothers, stand firm and hold fast to the traditions that you were taught, either by an oral statement or by a letter of ours.

[16]May our Lord Jesus Christ himself and God our Father, who has loved us and given us everlasting encouragement and good hope through his grace, [17]encourage your hearts and strengthen them in every good deed and word.

St. Anthony Mary Claret

Christian perfection consists in three things: praying heroically, working heroically, and suffering heroically.

— St. Anthony Mary Claret

☐ JEREMIAH 39-40

The Capture of Jerusalem. When Jerusalem was taken, 39:1 in the ninth year of Zedekiah, king of Judah, in the tenth month, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and all his army marched against Jerusalem and placed it under siege. [2]In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, on the ninth day of the fourth month, the city wall was breached. [3]All the princes of the king of Babylon came and took their seats at the middle gate: Nergal-sharezer of Simmagir, a chief officer; Nebushazban, a high dignitary; and all the rest of the princes of the king of Babylon. [4]When Zedekiah, king of Judah, and all his warriors saw this, they fled, leaving the city at night by way of the king's garden, through a gate between the two walls. He went in the direction of the Arabah, [5]but the Chaldean army pursued them; they caught up with Zedekiah in the wilderness near Jericho and took him prisoner. They brought him to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in Riblah, in the land of Hamath, and he pronounced sentence upon him. [6]The king of Babylon executed the sons of Zedekiah at Riblah before his very eyes; the king of Babylon also executed all the nobles of Judah. [7]He then blinded Zedekiah and bound him in chains to bring him to Babylon.

[8]The Chaldeans set fire to the king's house and the houses of the people and tore down the walls of Jerusalem. [9]Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard, deported to Babylon the rest of the people left in the city, those who had deserted to him, and the rest of the workers. [10]But Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard, left in the land of Judah some of the poor who had nothing and at the same time gave them vineyards and farms.

Jeremiah Released to Gedaliah's Custody. [11]Concerning Jeremiah, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, gave these orders through Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard: [12]"Take him and look after him; do not let anything happen to him. Whatever he may ask, you must do for him." [13]Thereupon Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard, and Nebushazban, a high dignitary, and Nergal-sharezer, a chief officer, and all the nobles of the king of Babylon, [14]had Jeremiah taken out of the courtyard of the guard and entrusted to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, to bring him home. And so he remained among the people.

A Word of Comfort for Ebed-melech. [15]While Jeremiah was still imprisoned in the court of the guard, the word of the LORD came to him: [16]Go, tell this to Ebed-melech the Ethiopian: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: See, I am now carrying out my words against this city, for evil and not for good; this will happen in your presence on that day. [17]But on that day I will deliver you—oracle of the LORD; you shall not be handed over to the men you dread. [18]I will make certain that you escape and do not fall by the sword. Your life will be your spoils of war because you trusted in me—oracle of the LORD.

Jeremiah Still in Judah. 40:1 The word which came to Jeremiah from the LORD, after Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard, had released him in Ramah, where he found him a prisoner in chains among the captives of Jerusalem and Judah being exiled to Babylon. [2]The captain of the bodyguard took charge of Jeremiah and said to him, "The LORD, your God, decreed ruin for this place. [3]Now he has made it happen, accomplishing what he decreed; because you sinned against the LORD and did not listen to his voice, this decree has been realized against you. [4]Now, I release you today from the chains upon your hands; if you want to come with me to Babylon, then come: I will look out for you. But if you do not want to come to Babylon, very well. See, the whole land lies before you; go wherever you think good and proper. [5]Or go to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon has set over the cities of Judah. Stay with him among the people. Or go wherever you want!" The captain of the bodyguard gave him food and gifts and let him go. [6]So Jeremiah went to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, in Mizpah, and dwelt with him among the people left in the land.

[7]When the military leaders still in the field with their soldiers heard that the king of Babylon had set Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, over the land and had put him in charge of men, women, and children, from the poor of the land who had not been deported to Babylon, [8]they and their soldiers came to Gedaliah in Mizpah: Ishmael, son of Nethaniah; Johanan, son of Kareah; Seraiah, son of Tanhumeth; the sons of Ephai of Netophah; and Jezaniah of Beth-maacah. [9]Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, swore an oath to them and their men: "Do not be afraid to serve the Chaldeans. Stay in the land and serve the king of Babylon, so that everything may go well with you. [10]As for me, I will remain in Mizpah, as your representative before the Chaldeans when they come to us. You, for your part, harvest the wine, the fruit, and the oil, store them in jars, and remain in the cities you occupied." [11]Then all the Judahites in Moab, in Ammon, in Edom, and those in all other lands heard that the king of Babylon had left a remnant in Judah and had set over them Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan. [12]They all returned to the land of Judah from the places to which they had scattered. They went to Gedaliah at Mizpah and had a rich harvest of wine and fruit.

Assassination of Gedaliah. [13]Now Johanan, son of Kareah, and all the military leaders in the field came to Gedaliah in Mizpah [14]and said to him, "Surely you are aware that Baalis, the Ammonite king, has sent Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, to assassinate you?" But Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, would not believe them. [15]Then Johanan, son of Kareah, said secretly to Gedaliah in Mizpah: "Please let me go and kill Ishmael, son of Nethaniah; no one will know it. What if he assassinates you? All the Judahites who have now rallied behind you would scatter and the remnant of Judah would perish." [16]Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, answered Johanan, son of Kareah, "You must not do that. What you are saying about Ishmael is a lie!"

Request for Prayers. 3:1 Finally, brothers, pray for us, so that the word of the Lord may speed forward and be glorified, as it did among you, [2]and that we may be delivered from perverse and wicked people, for not all have faith. [3]But the Lord is faithful; he will strengthen you and guard you from the evil one. [4]We are confident of you in the Lord that what we instruct you, you [both] are doing and will continue to do. [5]May the Lord direct your hearts to the love of God and to the endurance of Christ.

Neglect of Work. [6]We instruct you, brothers, in the name of [our] Lord Jesus Christ, to shun any brother who conducts himself in a disorderly way and not according to the tradition they received from us. [7]For you know how one must imitate us. For we did not act in a disorderly way among you, [8]nor did we eat food received free from anyone. On the contrary, in toil and drudgery, night and day we worked, so as not to burden any of you. [9]Not that we do not have the right. Rather, we wanted to present ourselves as a model for you, so that you might imitate us. [10]In fact, when we were with you, we instructed you that if anyone was unwilling to work, neither should that one eat. [11]We hear that some are conducting themselves among you in a disorderly way, by not keeping busy but minding the business of others. [12]Such people we instruct and urge in the Lord Jesus Christ to work quietly and to eat their own food. [13]But you, brothers, do not be remiss in doing good. [14]If anyone does not obey our word as expressed in this letter, take note of this person not to associate with him, that he may be put to shame. [15]Do not regard him as an enemy but admonish him as a brother. [16]May the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times and in every way. The Lord be with all of you.

[17]This greeting is in my own hand, Paul's. This is the sign in every letter; this is how I write. [18]The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with all of you.

☐ JEREMIAH 41-42

41:1 In the seventh month, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of royal descent, one of the king's nobles, came with ten men to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, at Mizpah. While they were together at table in Mizpah, [2]Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, and the ten with him, stood up and struck down Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with swords. They killed him, since the king of Babylon had set him over the land; [3]Ishmael also killed all the Judahites of military age who were with Gedaliah and the Chaldean soldiers stationed there.

[4]The day after the murder of Gedaliah, before anyone learned about it, [5]eighty men, in ragged clothes, with beards shaved off and gashes on their bodies, came from Shechem, Shiloh, and Samaria, bringing grain offerings and incense for the house of the LORD. [6]Weeping as he went, Ishmael son of Nethaniah, set out from Mizpah to meet them. "Come to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam," he said as he met them. [7]Once they were inside the city, Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, and his men slaughtered them and threw them into the cistern. [8]Ten of them said to Ishmael: "Do not kill us! We have stores of wheat and barley, oil and honey hidden in the field." So he spared them and did not kill them as he had killed their companions. [9]The cistern into which Ishmael threw all the bodies of the men he had killed was the large one King Asa made to defend himself against Baasha, king of Israel; Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, filled this cistern with the slain.

Flight to Egypt. [11]But when Johanan, son of Kareah, and the other army leaders with him heard about the crimes Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, had committed, [12]they took all their men and set out to attack Ishmael, son of Nethaniah. They overtook him at the great pool in Gibeon. [13]At the sight of Johanan, son of Kareah, and the other army leaders, the people with Ishmael rejoiced; [14]all of those whom Ishmael had taken captive from Mizpah went back to Johanan, son of Kareah. [15]But Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, escaped from Johanan with eight men and fled to the Ammonites. [16]Then Johanan, son of Kareah, and all the military leaders took charge of all the rest of the people whom Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, had taken away from Mizpah after he killed Gedaliah, son of Ahikam—the soldiers, the women with children, and court officials, whom he brought back from Gibeon. [17]They set out and stopped at Geruth Chimham near Bethlehem, intending to go into Egypt. [18]They were afraid of the Chaldeans, because Ishmael, son of Nethaniah, had slain Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had set over the land.

42:1 Then all the military leaders, including Johanan, son of Kareah, Azariah, son of Hoshaiah, and all the people, from the least to the greatest, [2]approached Jeremiah the prophet and said, "Please grant our petition; pray for us to the LORD, your God, for all this remnant. As you see, only a few of us remain, but once we were many. [3]May the LORD, your God, show us the way we should take and what we should do." [4]"Very well!" Jeremiah the prophet answered them: "I will pray to the LORD, your God, as you desire; whatever the LORD answers, I will tell you; I will withhold nothing from you." [5]And they said to Jeremiah, "May the LORD be a true and faithful witness against us if we do not follow all the instructions the LORD, your God, sends us through you. [6]Whether we like it or not, we will obey the command of the LORD, our God, to whom we are sending you, so that it may go well with us for obeying the command of the LORD, our God."

[7]Ten days passed before the word of the LORD came to Jeremiah. [8]Then he called Johanan, son of Kareah, his army leaders, and all the people, from the least to the greatest, [9]and said to them: Thus says the LORD, the God of Israel, to whom you sent me to offer your petition: [10]If indeed you will remain in this land, I will build you up, and not tear you down; I will plant you, not uproot you; for I repent of the evil I have done you. [11]Do not fear the king of Babylon, as you do now. Do not fear him—oracle of the LORD—for I am with you to save you, to rescue you from his power. [12]I will take pity on you, so that he will have pity on you and let you return to your land. [13]But if you keep saying, "We will not stay in this land," thus disobeying the voice of the LORD, your God, [14]and saying, "No, we will go to the land of Egypt, where we will not see war, nor hear the trumpet alarm, nor hunger for bread. There we will live!" [15]then listen to the word of the LORD, remnant of Judah: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: If you are set on going to Egypt and settling down there once you arrive, [16]the sword you fear shall overtake you in the land of Egypt; the hunger you dread shall pursue you to Egypt and there you shall die. [17]All those determined to go to Egypt to live shall die by the sword, famine, and disease: not one shall survive or escape the evil that I am bringing upon them. [18]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: Just as my furious wrath was poured out upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so shall my anger be poured out on you when you reach Egypt. You shall become a malediction and a horror, a curse and a reproach, and you shall never see this place again.

19 The LORD has spoken to you, remnant of Judah. Do not go to Egypt! Mark well that I am warning you this day.
20 At the cost of your lives you have been deceitful, for you yourselves sent me to the LORD, your God, saying, "Pray for us to the LORD, our God; whatever the LORD, our God, shall say, tell us and we will do it." 21 Today I have told you, but you have not listened to the voice of the LORD your God, in anything that he has sent me to tell you. 22 Have no doubt about this: you shall die by the sword, famine, and disease in the place where you want to go and live.

☐ 2 TIMOTHY 1

Greeting. 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God for the promise of life in Christ Jesus, 2 to Timothy, my dear child: grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Lord.

Thanksgiving. 3 I am grateful to God, whom I worship with a clear conscience as my ancestors did, as I remember you constantly in my prayers, night and day. 4 I yearn to see you again, recalling your tears, so that I may be filled with joy, 5 as I recall your sincere faith that first lived in your grandmother Lois and in your mother Eunice and that I am confident lives also in you.

The Gifts Timothy Has Received. 6 For this reason, I remind you to stir into flame the gift of God that you have through the imposition of my hands. 7 For God did not give us a spirit of cowardice but rather of power and love and self-control. 8 So do not be ashamed of your testimony to our Lord, nor of me, a prisoner for his sake; but bear your share of hardship for the gospel with the strength that comes from God.

9 He saved us and called us to a holy life, not according to our works but according to his own design and the grace bestowed on us in Christ Jesus before time began, 10 but now made manifest through the appearance of our savior Christ Jesus, who destroyed death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel, 11 for which I was appointed preacher and apostle and teacher. 12 On this account I am suffering these things; but I am not ashamed, for I know him in whom I have believed and am confident that he is able to guard what has been entrusted to me until that day. 13 Take as your norm the sound words that you heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. 14 Guard this rich trust with the help of the holy Spirit that dwells within us.

Paul's Suffering. 15 You know that everyone in Asia deserted me, including Phygelus and Hermogenes. 16 May the Lord grant mercy to the family of Onesiphorus because he often gave me new heart and was not ashamed of my chains.
17 But when he came to Rome, he promptly searched for me and found me. 18 May the Lord grant him to find mercy from the Lord on that day. And you know very well the services he rendered in Ephesus.

☐ JEREMIAH 43-44

43:1 When Jeremiah finished telling the people all the words the LORD, their God, sent to them, 2 Azariah, son of Hoshaiah, Johanan, son of Kareah, and all the others had the insolence to say to Jeremiah: "You lie; the LORD, our God, did not send you to tell us, 'Do not to go to Egypt to live there.' 3 Baruch, son of Neriah, is inciting you against us, to hand us over to the Chaldeans to be killed or exiled to Babylon."

4 So Johanan, son of Kareah, and the rest of the leaders and the people did not listen to the voice of the LORD to stay in the land of Judah. 5 Instead, Johanan, son of Kareah, and the military leaders took along all the remnant of Judah who had been dispersed among the nations and then had returned to dwell in the land of Judah: 6 men, women, and children, the princesses and everyone whom Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard, had consigned to Gedaliah, son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan; also Jeremiah, the prophet, and Baruch, son of Neriah. 7 They went to Egypt—they did not listen to the voice of the LORD—and came to Tahpanhes.

Jeremiah in Egypt. [8]The word of the LORD came to Jeremiah in Tahpanhes: [9]Take some large stones in your hand and set them in mortar in the terrace at the entrance to the house of Pharaoh in Tahpanhes, while the Judahites watch.
[10]Then say to them: Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I will send for my servant Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon. He will place his throne upon these stones which I, Jeremiah, have set up, and stretch his canopy above them.
[11]He shall come and strike the land of Egypt: with death, those marked for death; with exile, those marked for exile; with the sword, those marked for the sword. [12]He shall set fire to the temples of Egypt's gods, burn the gods and carry them off. He shall pick the land of Egypt clean, as a shepherd picks lice off his cloak, and then depart victorious. [13]He shall smash the obelisks at the Temple of the Sun in the land of Egypt and destroy with fire the temples of the Egyptian gods.

44:1 The word that came to Jeremiah for all the Judahites who were living in Egypt, those living in Migdol, Tahpanhes, and Memphis, and in Upper Egypt: [2]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You yourselves have seen all the evil I brought upon Jerusalem and the other cities of Judah. Today they lie in ruins uninhabited, [3]because of the evil they did to provoke me, going after other gods, offering incense and serving other gods they did not know, neither they, nor you, nor your ancestors. [4]Though I repeatedly sent you all my servants the prophets, saying: "You must not commit this abominable deed I hate," [5]they did not listen or incline their ears in order to turn from their evil, no longer offering incense to other gods. [6]Therefore the fury of my anger poured forth and kindled fire in the cities of Judah and the streets of Jerusalem, to turn them into the ruined wasteland they are today.

[7]Now thus says the LORD God of hosts, the God of Israel: Why inflict so great an evil upon yourselves, cutting off from Judah man and woman, child and infant, not leaving yourselves even a remnant? [8]Why do you provoke me with the works of your hands, offering sacrifice to other gods here in the land of Egypt where you have come to live? Will you cut yourselves off and become a curse, a reproach among all the nations of the earth? [9]Have you forgotten the evil of your ancestors, the evil of the kings of Judah, the evil of their wives, and your own evil and the evil of your wives—all that they did in the land of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem? [10]To this day they have not been crushed down, nor have they shown fear. They have not followed my law and my statutes that I set before you and your ancestors.

[11]Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: I have set my face against you for evil, to cut off all Judah. [12]I will take away the remnant of Judah who insisted on going to the land of Egypt to live there; in the land of Egypt they shall meet their end. They shall fall by the sword or be consumed by hunger. From the least to the greatest, they shall die by sword or hunger; they shall become a malediction, a horror, a curse, a reproach. [13]Thus I will punish those who live in Egypt, just as I punished Jerusalem, with sword, hunger, and disease, [14]so that none of the remnant of Judah who came to live in the land of Egypt shall escape or survive. No one shall return to the land of Judah. Even though they long to return and live there, they shall not return except as refugees.

[15]They answered Jeremiah—all the men who knew that their wives were offering sacrifices to other gods, all the women standing there in the immense crowd, and all the people who lived in Lower and Upper Egypt: [16]"Regarding the word you have spoken to us in the name of the LORD, we are not listening to you. [17]Rather we will go on doing what we proposed; we will offer incense to the Queen of Heaven and pour out libations to her, just as we have done, along with our ancestors, our kings and princes, in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem. Then we had plenty to eat, we prospered, and we suffered no misfortune. [18]But ever since we stopped offering sacrifices to the Queen of Heaven and pouring out libations to her, we lack everything and are being destroyed by sword and hunger." [19]And the women said,
"When we offered sacrifices to the Queen of Heaven and poured out libations to her, did we bake cakes in her image and pour out libations to her without our husbands' consent?"

[20]To all the people, men and women, who gave him this answer, Jeremiah said: [21]As for the sacrifices you offered in the cities of Judah and in the streets of Jerusalem—you, your ancestors, your kings and princes, and the people of the land—did not the LORD remember them? Did it not enter his mind? [22]The LORD could no longer bear the evil of your deeds, the abominations you were doing; then your land became a waste, a horror, a curse, without even one inhabitant, as it is today. [23]Because you offered sacrifice and sinned against the LORD, not listening to the voice of the LORD, not following his law, his statutes, and his decrees, therefore this evil has overtaken you, as it is today.

[24]Jeremiah said to all the people and to all the women: Hear the word of the LORD, all you Judahites in the land of Egypt: [25]Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel: You and your wives have carried out with your hands what your mouths have spoken: "We will go on fulfilling the vows we have made to offer sacrifice to the Queen of Heaven and to pour out libations to her." Very well! keep your vows, fulfill your vows! [26]And then listen to the word of the LORD, all you Judahites living in Egypt; I swear by my own great name, says the LORD: in the whole land of Egypt, my name shall no longer be pronounced by the lips of any Judahite, saying, "As the Lord GOD lives." [27]I am watching over them for evil, not for good. All the Judahites in Egypt shall come to an end by sword or famine until they are completely destroyed. [28]Those who escape the sword to return from the land of Egypt to the land of Judah shall be few in number. The whole remnant of Judah who came to Egypt to live shall know whose word stands, mine or theirs.

[29]And this shall be a sign to you—oracle of the LORD—I will punish you in this place so that you will know that my words stand solidly against you for evil. [30]Thus says the LORD: See! I will hand over Pharaoh Hophra, king of Egypt, to his enemies, to those seeking his life, just as I handed over Zedekiah, king of Judah, to his enemy Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon, to the one seeking his life.

Timothy's Conduct. 2:1 So you, my child, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus. [2]And what you heard from me through many witnesses entrust to faithful people who will have the ability to teach others as well. [3]Bear your share of hardship along with me like a good soldier of Christ Jesus. [4]To satisfy the one who recruited him, a soldier does not become entangled in the business affairs of life. [5]Similarly, an athlete cannot receive the winner's crown except by competing according to the rules. [6]The hardworking farmer ought to have the first share of the crop. [7]Reflect on what I am saying, for the Lord will give you understanding in everything.

[8]Remember Jesus Christ, raised from the dead, a descendant of David: such is my gospel, [9]for which I am suffering, even to the point of chains, like a criminal. But the word of God is not chained. [10]Therefore, I bear with everything for the sake of those who are chosen, so that they too may obtain the salvation that is in Christ Jesus, together with eternal glory. [11]This saying is trustworthy:

If we have died with him
  we shall also live with him; [12]if we persevere
  we shall also reign with him.
But if we deny him
  he will deny us.
[13]If we are unfaithful
  he remains faithful,
  for he cannot deny himself.

Warning against Useless Disputes. [14]Remind people of these things and charge them before God to stop disputing about words. This serves no useful purpose since it harms those who listen. [15]Be eager to present yourself as acceptable to God, a workman who causes no disgrace, imparting the word of truth without deviation. [16]Avoid profane, idle talk, for such people will become more and more godless, [17]and their teaching will spread like gangrene. Among them are Hymenaeus and Philetus, [18]who have deviated from the truth by saying that [the] resurrection has already taken place and are upsetting the faith of some. [19]Nevertheless, God's solid foundation stands, bearing this inscription, "The Lord knows those who are his"; and, "Let everyone who calls upon the name of the Lord avoid evil."

[20]In a large household there are vessels not only of gold and silver but also of wood and clay, some for lofty and others for humble use. [21]If anyone cleanses himself of these things, he will be a vessel for lofty use, dedicated, beneficial to the master of the house, ready for every good work. [22]So turn from youthful desires and pursue righteousness, faith, love, and peace, along with those who call on the Lord with purity of heart. [23]Avoid foolish and ignorant debates, for you know that they breed quarrels. [24]A slave of the Lord should not quarrel, but should be gentle with everyone, able to teach, tolerant, [25]correcting opponents with kindness. It may be that God will grant them repentance that leads to knowledge of the truth, [26]and that they may return to their senses out of the devil's snare, where they are entrapped by him, for his will.

October 27

Nothing is more to be feared than too long a peace. You are deceived if you think that a Christian can live without persecution. He suffers the greatest persecution of all who lives under none. A storm puts a man on his guard and obliges him to exert his utmost efforts to avoid shipwreck.

— St. Jerome

☐ JEREMIAH 45-46

A Message to Baruch. 45:1 The word that Jeremiah the prophet spoke to Baruch, son of Neriah, when he wrote on a scroll words from Jeremiah's own mouth in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah: [2]Thus says the LORD, God of Israel, to you, Baruch. [3]You said, "Woe is me! the LORD has added grief to my pain. I have worn myself out with groaning; rest eludes me." [4]You must say this to him. Thus says the LORD: What I have built, I am tearing down; what I have planted, I am uprooting: all this land. [5]And you, do you seek great things for yourself? Do not seek them! I am bringing evil on all flesh—oracle of the LORD—but I will grant you your life as spoils of war, wherever you may go.

46:1 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the nations.

Against Egypt. [2]Concerning Egypt. Against the army of Pharaoh Neco, king of Egypt, defeated at Carchemish on the Euphrates by Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim, son of Josiah, king of Judah:

[3]Prepare buckler and shield!
move forward to battle!
[4]Harness the horses,
charioteers, mount up!
Fall in, with helmets on;
polish your spears, put on your armor.
[5]What do I see?
Are they panicking, falling apart?
Their warriors are hammered back,
They flee headlong
never making a stand.
Terror on every side—
oracle of the LORD!
[6]The swift cannot flee,
nor the warrior escape:
There up north, on the banks of the Euphrates
they stumble and fall.
[7]Who is this? Like the Nile, it rears up;
like rivers, its waters surge.
[8]Egypt rears up like the Nile,
like rivers, its waters surge.
"I will rear up," it says, "and cover the earth,
destroying the city and its people.
[9]Forward, horses!
charge, chariots!
March forth, warriors,
Cush and Put, bearing shields,
Archers of Lud, stretching bows!"
[10]Today belongs to the Lord GOD of hosts,

a day of vengeance, vengeance on his foes!
The sword devours and is sated, drunk with their blood:
for the Lord GOD of hosts holds a sacrifice
in the land of the north, on the River Euphrates.
[11]Go up to Gilead, procure balm,
Virgin daughter Egypt!
No use to multiply remedies;
for you there is no healing.
[12]The nations hear your cries,
your screaming fills the earth.
Warrior stumbles against warrior,
both collapse together.

[13]The word that the LORD spoke to Jeremiah the prophet when Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon, came to attack the land of Egypt:

[14]Proclaim in Egypt, announce in Migdol, announce in Memphis and Tahpanhes!
Say: Fall in, get ready,
the sword has devoured your neighbors.
[15]Why has Apis fled?
Your champion did not stand,
Because the LORD thrust him down;
[16]he stumbled repeatedly then collapsed.
They said to each other,
"Get up! We must return to our own people,
To the land of our birth,
away from the destroying sword."
[17]Give Pharaoh, king of Egypt, the name
"Braggart-missed-his-chance."
[18]As I live, says the King
whose name is LORD of hosts,
Like Tabor above mountains,
like Carmel above the sea, he comes.
[19]Pack your bags for exile,
enthroned daughter Egypt;
Memphis shall become a wasteland,
an empty ruin.
[20]Egypt is a beautiful heifer,
a horsefly from the north keeps coming.
[21]Even the mercenaries in her ranks
are like fattened calves;
They too turn and flee together—
they do not stand their ground,
For their day of ruin comes upon them,
their time of punishment.
[22]Her voice is like a snake!
Yes, they come in force;
They attack her with axes,
like those who fell trees.

[23]They cut down her forest—oracle of the LORD—impenetrable though it be;
More numerous than locusts,
they cannot be counted.
[24]Shamed is daughter Egypt, handed over to a people from the north.

[25]The LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, has said: See! I will punish Amon of Thebes and Egypt, gods, kings, Pharaoh, and those who trust in him. [26]I will hand them over to those who seek their lives, to Nebuchadrezzar, king of Babylon, and to his officers. But later, Egypt shall be inhabited again, as in days of old—oracle of the LORD.

[27]But you, my servant Jacob, do not fear;
do not be dismayed, Israel!
Listen! I will deliver you from far-off lands;
your offspring, from the land of their exile.
Jacob shall again find rest,
secure, with none to frighten him.
[28]You, Jacob my servant, must not fear—oracle of the LORD—
for I am with you;
I will make an end of all the nations
to which I have driven you,
But of you I will not make an end:
I will chastise you as you deserve,
I cannot let you go unpunished.

☐ 2 TIMOTHY 3

The Dangers of the Last Days. 3:1 But understand this: there will be terrifying times in the last days. [2]People will be self-centered and lovers of money, proud, haughty, abusive, disobedient to their parents, ungrateful, irreligious, [3]callous, implacable, slanderous, licentious, brutal, hating what is good, [4]traitors, reckless, conceited, lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God, [5]as they make a pretense of religion but deny its power. Reject them. [6]For some of these slip into homes and make captives of women weighed down by sins, led by various desires, [7]always trying to learn but never able to reach a knowledge of the truth. [8]Just as Jannes and Jambres opposed Moses, so they also oppose the truth—people of depraved mind, unqualified in the faith. [9]But they will not make further progress, for their foolishness will be plain to all, as it was with those two.

Paul's Example and Teaching. [10]You have followed my teaching, way of life, purpose, faith, patience, love, endurance, [11]persecutions, and sufferings, such as happened to me in Antioch, Iconium, and Lystra, persecutions that I endured. Yet from all these things the Lord delivered me. [12]In fact, all who want to live religiously in Christ Jesus will be persecuted. [13]But wicked people and charlatans will go from bad to worse, deceivers and deceived. [14]But you, remain faithful to what you have learned and believed, because you know from whom you learned it, [15]and that from infancy you have known [the] sacred scriptures, which are capable of giving you wisdom for salvation through faith in Christ Jesus. [16]All scripture is inspired by God and is useful for teaching, for refutation, for correction, and for training in righteousness, [17]so that one who belongs to God may be competent, equipped for every good work.

Sts. Simon and Jude

The very tradition, teaching, and faith of the Catholic Church from the beginning, which the Lord gave, was preached by the apostles and was preserved by the Fathers. On this was the Church founded, and if anyone departs from this, he neither is, nor any longer ought to be called, a Christian.

— St. Athanasius of Alexandria

☐ JEREMIAH 47-48

Against the Philistines. 47:1 The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning the Philistines, before Pharaoh attacked Gaza:

[2]Thus says the LORD:
See: waters are rising from the north,
to become a torrent in flood;
They shall flood the land and all it contains,
the cities and their inhabitants.
People will howl and wail,
every inhabitant of the land.
[3]At the noise of the pounding hooves of his steeds,
the clanking chariots, the rumbling wheels,
Parents do not turn back for their children;
their hands hang helpless,
[4]Because of the day that is coming to destroy all the Philistines And cut off from Tyre and Sidon
the last of their allies.
Yes, the LORD is destroying the Philistines,
the remnant from the coasts of Caphtor.
[5]Baldness is visited upon Gaza,
Ashkelon is reduced to silence;
Ashdod, remnant of their strength,
how long will you gash yourself?
[6]Ah! Sword of the LORD!
When will you find rest?
Return to your scabbard;
stop, be still!
[7]How can it find rest
when the LORD has commanded it?
Against Ashkelon and the seacoast,
there he has appointed it.

Against Moab. 48:1 Concerning Moab. Thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:

Ah, Nebo! it is ravaged;
Kiriathaim is disgraced, captured;
Disgraced and overthrown is the stronghold:
[2]Moab's glory is no more.
In Heshbon they plot evil against her:
"Come! We will put an end to her as a nation."
You, too, Madmen, shall be silenced;

you the sword stalks!
3 Listen! an outcry from Horonaim,
"Ruin and great destruction!"
4 "Moab is crushed!"
their outcry is heard in Zoar.
5 Up the ascent of Luhith
they go weeping;
At the descent to Horonaim
they hear cries of anguish:
6 "Flee, save your lives!
Be like a wild donkey in the wilderness!"
7 Because you trusted in your works and your treasures,
you also shall be captured.
Chemosh shall go into exile,
his priests and princes with him.
8 The destroyer comes upon every city,
not a city escapes;
Ruined is the valley,
wasted the plateau—oracle of the LORD.
9 Set up a tombstone for Moab;
it will soon become a complete wasteland,
Its cities turned into ruins
where no one dwells.
10 Cursed are they who do the LORD's work carelessly, cursed those who keep their sword from shedding blood.
11 Moab has been resting from its youth,
suspended above its dregs,
Never poured from flask to flask,
never driven into exile.
Thus it retained its flavor,
its bouquet is not lost.

12 Be assured! The days are coming—oracle of the LORD—when I will send him wine-makers to decant the wine; they shall empty its flasks and smash its jars. 13 Chemosh shall disappoint Moab, just as the house of Israel was disappointed by Bethel, in which they trusted.

14 How can you say, "We are heroes, mighty warriors"?
15 The one who ravages Moab and its cities comes up,
the best of its youth go down to slaughter—
oracle of the King, whose name is LORD of hosts.
16 Moab's ruin is near at hand,
its disaster approaches swiftly.
17 Mourn, all you neighbors,
all you who know its name!
Say: How the mighty scepter is broken,
the glorious staff!
18 Come down from glory, sit on the parched ground,
enthroned daughter Dibon; Moab's destroyer has fallen upon you,

has shattered your strongholds.
19 Stand along the road, keep watch,
enthroned Aroer;
Ask the fleeing man, the escaping woman:
ask them what has happened.
20 "Moab is put to shame, destroyed."
Wail and cry out,
Proclaim it at the Arnon:
"Moab is destroyed!"

21 Judgment has come upon the plateau: on Holon, Jahzah, and Mephaath, 22 on Dibon, Nebo, and Beth-diblathaim, 23 on Kiriathaim, Beth-gamul, and Beth-meon, 24 on Kerioth and on Bozrah: on all the cities of the land of Moab, far and near.

25 The horn of Moab is cut off,
its arm is broken—oracle of the LORD.

26 Make him drunk because he set himself over against the LORD; let Moab swim in his vomit and become a laughingstock. 27 Has Israel not been a laughingstock to you? Was he caught among thieves that you wag your heads whenever you speak of him?

28 Abandon the cities, take shelter in the crags, inhabitants of Moab.
Be like the dove that nests
in the walls of a gorge.
29 We have heard of the pride of Moab,
pride beyond bounds:
His loftiness, his pride, his scorn,
his insolent heart.
30 I myself know his arrogance—oracle of the LORD—
liar in word, liar in deed.
31 And so I wail over Moab,
over all Moab I cry,
over the people of Kir-heres I moan.
32 More than for Jazer I weep for you,
vine of Sibmah.
Your tendrils trailed down to the sea,
as far as Jazer they stretched.
Upon your summer harvest and your vintage,
the destroyer has fallen.
33 Joy and gladness are taken away from the garden land, the land of Moab.
I dry up the wine from the wine vats,
the treader treads no more,
the vintage shout is stilled.

34 The cry of Heshbon and Elealeh is heard as far as Jahaz; they call from Zoar to Horonaim and to Eglath-shelishiyah; even the waters of Nimrim turn into a wasteland. 35 I will leave no one in Moab—oracle of the LORD—to offer burnt offerings on the high place or to make sacrifices to their gods. 36 Hence my heart wails like a flute for Moab; my heart wails like a flute for the people of Kir-heres: the wealth they accumulated has perished. 37 Every head has been shaved bald, every beard cut off; every hand gashed, and all their loins are draped in sackcloth. [38]On all the rooftops of Moab and in all its squares there is mourning. I have shattered Moab like a pot that no one wants—oracle of the LORD. [39]How terrified they are, how they wail! How Moab turns its back in shame! Moab has become a laughingstock and a horror to all its neighbors!

[40]For thus says the LORD:
Look there! Like an eagle he swoops, spreading his wings over Moab.
[41]Cities are captured,
strongholds seized:
On that day the hearts of Moab's warriors
become like the heart of a woman in labor.
[42]Moab shall be wiped out, a people no more,
because it set itself over against the LORD.
[43]Terror, pit, and trap be upon you,
enthroned Moab—oracle of the LORD.
[44]Those fleeing the terror
fall into the pit;
Those climbing out of the pit
are caught in the trap;
Ah, yes! I will bring these things upon Moab
in the year of their punishment—oracle of the LORD.
[45]In Heshbon's shadow the fugitives
stop short, exhausted;
For fire blazes up from Heshbon,
and flames up from the house of Sihon:
It consumes the forehead of Moab,
the scalp of the noisemakers.
[46]Woe to you, Moab!
You are finished, people of Chemosh!
Your sons are taken into exile,
your daughters into captivity.
[47]Yet I will restore the fortunes of Moab
in the days to come—oracle of the LORD.

Thus far the judgment on Moab.

☐ 2 TIMOTHY 4

Solemn Charge. 4:1 I charge you in the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who will judge the living and the dead, and by his appearing and his kingly power: [2]proclaim the word; be persistent whether it is convenient or inconvenient; convince, reprimand, encourage through all patience and teaching. [3]For the time will come when people will not tolerate sound doctrine but, following their own desires and insatiable curiosity, will accumulate teachers [4]and will stop listening to the truth and will be diverted to myths. [5]But you, be self-possessed in all circumstances; put up with hardship; perform the work of an evangelist; fulfill your ministry.

Reward for Fidelity. [6]For I am already being poured out like a libation, and the time of my departure is at hand. [7]I have competed well; I have finished the race; I have kept the faith. [8]From now on the crown of righteousness awaits me, which the Lord, the just judge, will award to me on that day, and not only to me, but to all who have longed for his appearance.

Paul's Loneliness. [9]Try to join me soon, [10]for Demas, enamored of the present world, deserted me and went to Thessalonica, Crescens to Galatia, and Titus to Dalmatia. [11]Luke is the only one with me. Get Mark and bring him with you, for he is helpful to me in the ministry. [12]I have sent Tychicus to Ephesus. [13]When you come, bring the cloak I left with Carpus in Troas, the papyrus rolls, and especially the parchments.

[14]Alexander the coppersmith did me a great deal of harm; the Lord will repay him according to his deeds. [15]You too be on guard against him, for he has strongly resisted our preaching.

[16]At my first defense no one appeared on my behalf, but everyone deserted me. May it not be held against them! [17]But the Lord stood by me and gave me strength, so that through me the proclamation might be completed and all the Gentiles might hear it. And I was rescued from the lion's mouth. [18]The Lord will rescue me from every evil threat and will bring me safe to his heavenly kingdom. To him be glory forever and ever. Amen.

Final Greeting. [19]Greet Prisca and Aquila and the family of Onesiphorus. [20]Erastus remained in Corinth, while I left Trophimus sick at Miletus. [21]Try to get here before winter. Eubulus, Pudens, Linus, Claudia, and all the brothers send greetings.

[22]The Lord be with your spirit. Grace be with all of you.

Yoke yourself under the law of God, so that you may be in truth a free man.

☐ JEREMIAH 49-50

Against the Ammonites. 49:1 Concerning the Ammonites. Thus says the LORD:

Has Israel no sons?
  none to inherit?
Why has Milcom disinherited Gad,
  why are his people living in its cities?
[2]Therefore the days are coming—oracle of the LORD—
  when I will sound the battle alarm against Rabbah of the Ammonites;
It shall become a mound of ruins,
  and its villages destroyed by fire.

Israel shall then inherit those who disinherited it—
oracle of the LORD.
3 Wail, Heshbon, "The ruin is destroyed!"
shriek, villages of Rabbah!
Put on sackcloth and lament!
Run back and forth in the sheepfolds.
For Milcom is going into exile,
taking priest and prince with him.
4 Why boast in your strength,
your ebbing strength, rebellious daughter?
Why trust in your treasures, saying,
"Who would dare attack me?"
5 See, I am bringing terror upon you—oracle of the Lord GOD of hosts—
from all around you;
You shall be scattered, each in headlong flight,
with no one to gather the fugitives.
6 But afterward I will restore the fortunes of the Ammonites—oracle of the LORD.

Against Edom. 7 Concerning Edom. Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Is there no more wisdom in Teman,
has counsel perished from the prudent,
is their wisdom gone?
8 Flee, retreat, hide deep for lodging,
inhabitants of Dedan:
For I bring disaster upon Esau
when I come to punish them.
9 If vintagers came upon you,
they would leave no gleanings;
If thieves by night,
they would destroy as they pleased.
10 So I myself will strip Esau;
I will uncover his lairs so he cannot hide.
Offspring and family are destroyed,
neighbors, too; he is no more.
11 Leave your orphans behind, I will keep them alive;
your widows, let them trust in me.

12 For thus says the LORD: Look, even those not sentenced to drink the cup must drink it! Shall you then go unpunished? You shall not! You shall drink every bit of it! 13 By myself I have sworn—oracle of the LORD—Bozrah shall become an object of horror, a disgrace, a desolation, and a curse. Bozrah and all its cities shall become ruins forever.

14 I have heard a report from the LORD,
a herald has been sent among the nations:
"Gather together, move against it,
get ready for battle!"
15 I will make you the least among the nations,
despised by all people!
16 The terror you spread,

the pride of your heart, beguiled you.
You denizens of rocks and crevices,
occupying towering peaks:
Though you build your nest high as the eagle,
from there I will bring you down—oracle of the LORD.

17 Edom shall become an object of horror. Passersby recoil in terror, hissing at all its wounds. 18 As when Sodom, Gomorrah, and their neighbors were overthrown—oracle of the LORD—no one shall live in it, nor anyone settle there.

19 As when a lion comes up from a thicket of the Jordan
to a permanent pasture,
So in an instant, I will chase them off;
I will establish there whomever I choose.
For who is like me? Who holds me accountable?
What shepherd can stand against me?
20 Therefore, listen to the strategy
the LORD devised for Edom;
The plans he has drawn up against the inhabitants of Teman:
They shall be dragged away, even the smallest of the flock;
their pasture shall be aghast because of them.
21 With the din of their collapse the earth quakes,
to the Red Sea the outcry is heard!
22 Look! like an eagle he soars aloft,
and spreads his wings over Bozrah;
On that day the hearts of Edom's warriors become like the heart of a woman in labor.

Against Damascus. 23 Concerning Damascus.

Hamath and Arpad are shamed,
for they have heard bad news;
Anxious, they surge like the sea
which cannot calm down.
24 Damascus loses heart, turns to flee;
panic has seized it.
Distress and pangs take hold,
like the pain of a woman in labor.
25 How can the glorious city be abandoned,
the town of joy!
26 But now its young men shall fall in its squares,
all the warriors destroyed on that day—
oracle of the LORD of hosts.
27 I will set fire to the wall of Damascus;
it shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

Against Arabia. 28 About Kedar and the kingdoms of Hazor, which Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, defeated.

Thus says the LORD:
Rise up, attack Kedar,
destroy the people from the east.

[29]Their tents and flocks shall be taken away,
their tent curtains and all their goods;
Their camels they carry off,
they shout over them, "Terror on every side!"
[30]Flee! wander about, hide deep for lodging, inhabitants of Hazor—oracle of the LORD;
For Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, has devised a strategy against you,
drawn up a plan against you, [31]Get up! set out against a tranquil nation,
living in security—oracle of the LORD—Without gates or bars,
dwelling alone.
[32]Their camels shall become spoils,
their hordes of cattle, plunder;
I will scatter to the winds those who shave their temples;
from every side I will bring their ruin—
oracle of the LORD.
[33]Hazor shall become a haunt for jackals,
a wasteland forever,
Where no one lives,
no mortal stays.

Against Elam. [34]The word of the LORD that came to Jeremiah the prophet concerning Elam at the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah, king of Judah:

[35]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Look! I will break the bow of Elam, the mainstay of their might.
[36]I will bring upon Elam the four winds
from the four ends of the heavens:
I will scatter them to all these winds, until there is no nation
to which the outcasts of Elam have not gone.
[37]I will terrify Elam before their foes,
those seeking their life;
I will bring evil upon them,
my burning wrath—oracle of the LORD.
I will send sword after them
until I have finished them off; [38]I will set up my throne in Elam and destroy from there king and princes—
oracle of the LORD.
[39]But at the end of days I will restore the fortunes of Elam—oracle of the LORD.

The First Oracle Against Babylon. 50:1 The word the LORD spoke against Babylon, against the land of the Chaldeans, through Jeremiah the prophet:

[2]Proclaim this among the nations, announce it!
Announce it, do not hide it, but say:
Babylon is captured, Bel put to shame, Marduk terrified;

its images are put to shame, its idols shattered.
[3]A nation from the north advances against it,
making the land desolate
So that no one can live there;
human beings and animals have fled.
[4]In those days and at that time—oracle of the LORD—
Israelite and Judahite shall come together,
Weeping as they come, to seek the LORD, their God;
[5]They shall ask for Zion,
seeking out the way.
"Come, let us join ourselves to the LORD
in an everlasting covenant, never to be forgotten."
[6]Lost sheep were my people,
their shepherds misled them,
leading them astray on the mountains;
From mountain to hill they wandered,
forgetting their fold.
[7]Whoever happened upon them devoured them;
their enemies said, "We are not guilty,
Because they sinned against the LORD,
the abode of justice, the hope of their ancestors."
[8]Flee from the midst of Babylon, leave the land of the Chaldeans,
be like rams at the head of the flock.
[9]See, I am stirring up against Babylon
a band of great nations from the land of the north;
They are arrayed against her,
from there she shall be taken.
Their arrows are like the arrows of a skilled warrior who never returns empty-handed.
[10]Chaldea shall become plunder;
all its plunderers shall be enriched—
oracle of the LORD.
[11]Yes, rejoice and exult,
you that plunder my heritage;
Frisk like calves on the grass,
neigh like stallions!
[12]Your mother will indeed be put to shame,
she that bore you shall be abashed;
See, the last of the nations,
a wilderness, a dry wasteland.
[13]Because of the LORD's wrath it shall be uninhabited, become an utter wasteland;
Everyone who passes by Babylon will be appalled
and hiss at all its wounds.
[14]Take your posts encircling Babylon,
you who bend the bow;
Shoot at it, do not spare your arrows,
[15]raise the war cry against it on every side.
It surrenders, its bastions fall,

its walls are torn down:
This is retribution from the LORD! Take retribution on her,
as she has done, do to her;
for she sinned against the LORD.
16 Cut off the sower from Babylon
and those who wield sickles at harvest time!
Before the destroying sword,
all of them turn back to their own people,
all flee to their own land.
17 Israel was a stray sheep
that lions pursued;
The king of Assyria once devoured him;
now Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon gnaws his bones.
18 Therefore, thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:
I will punish the king of Babylon and his land,
as I once punished the king of Assyria;
19 But I will bring Israel back to its pasture,
to feed on Carmel and Bashan,
And on Mount Ephraim and Gilead,
until they have their fill.

20 In those days, at that time—oracle of the LORD:

The guilt of Israel may be sought, but it no longer exists,
the sin of Judah, but it can no longer be found;
for I will forgive the remnant I preserve.
21 Attack the land of Merathaim,
and those who live in Pekod;
Slaughter and put them under the ban—oracle of the LORD—
do all I have commanded you.
22 Battle alarm in the land,
great destruction!
23 How the hammer of the whole earth
has been cut off and broken!
What an object of horror
Babylon has become among the nations!
24 You ensnared yourself and were caught,
Babylon, before you knew it!
You were discovered and seized,
because you challenged the LORD.
25 The LORD opens his armory,
brings out the weapons of his wrath;
The Lord GOD of hosts has work to do in the land of the Chaldeans.
26 Come upon them from every side,
open their granaries,
Pile them up in heaps and put them under the ban;
do not leave a remnant.
27 Slay all the oxen,
take them down to slaughter;

Woe to them! their day has come,
the time of their punishment.
[28]Listen! the fugitives, the refugees
from the land of Babylon:
They announce in Zion
the retribution of the LORD, our God.
[29]Call archers out against Babylon,
all who bend the bow;
Encamp around them;
let no one escape.
Repay them for their deeds;
what they have done, do to them,
For they insulted the LORD,
the Holy One of Israel.
[30]Therefore their young men shall fall in the squares,
all their warriors shall be stilled on that day—
oracle of the LORD.
[31]I am against you, O Insolence—
oracle of the Lord GOD of hosts;
For your day has come,
the time for me to punish you.
[32]Insolence stumbles and falls;
there is no one to raise him up.
I will kindle a fire in his cities
to devour everything around him.
[33]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Oppressed are the people of Israel,
together with the people of Judah;
All their captors hold them fast
and refuse to let them go.
[34]Strong is their Redeemer,
whose name is LORD of hosts,
The sure defender of their cause,
who gives rest to their land,
but unrest to those who live in Babylon.
[35]A sword upon the Chaldeans—oracle of the LORD—
upon the inhabitants of Babylon, her princes and sages!
[36]A sword upon the soothsayers,
and they become fools!
A sword upon the warriors,
and they tremble;
[37]A sword upon their motley throng,
and they become women!
A sword upon their treasures,
and they are plundered;
[38]A drought upon the waters,
and they dry up!
For it is a land of idols,
soon made frantic by phantoms.
[39]Hence, wildcats shall dwell there with hyenas,

and ostriches occupy it;
Never again shall it be inhabited or settled,
from age to age.
40 As happened when God overturned Sodom and Gomorrah and their neighbors—oracle of the LORD—
No one shall dwell there,
no mortal shall settle there.
41 See, a people comes from the north,
a great nation, and mighty kings
rising from the ends of the earth.
42 Bow and javelin they wield,
cruel and pitiless are they;
They sound like the roaring sea,
as they ride forth on horses,
Each in place for battle against you, daughter Babylon.
43 The king of Babylon hears news of them,
and his hands hang helpless;
Anguish takes hold of him,
like the pangs of a woman giving birth.
44 As happens when a lion comes up from a thicket of the Jordan to permanent pasture,
So I, in an instant, will chase them off,
and establish there whomever I choose!
For who is like me? Who can call me to account?
What shepherd can stand against me?
45 Therefore, hear the strategy of the LORD,
which he has devised against Babylon;
Hear the plans drawn up against the land of the Chaldeans:
They shall be dragged away, even the smallest sheep;
their own pasture aghast because of them.
46 At the cry "Babylon is captured!" the earth quakes;
the outcry is heard among the nations.

☐ PHILEMON

Address and Greeting. 1 Paul, a prisoner for Christ Jesus, and Timothy our brother, to Philemon, our beloved and our co-worker, 2 to Apphia our sister, to Archippus our fellow soldier, and to the church at your house. 3 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Thanksgiving. 4 I give thanks to my God always, remembering you in my prayers, 5 as I hear of the love and the faith you have in the Lord Jesus and for all the holy ones, 6 so that your partnership in the faith may become effective in recognizing every good there is in us that leads to Christ.

Plea for Onesimus. 7 For I have experienced much joy and encouragement from your love, because the hearts of the holy ones have been refreshed by you, brother. 8 Therefore, although I have the full right in Christ to order you to do what is proper, 9 I rather urge you out of love, being as I am, Paul, an old man, and now also a prisoner for Christ Jesus. 10 I urge you on behalf of my child Onesimus, whose father I have become in my imprisonment, 11 who was once useless to you but is now useful to [both] you and me. 12 I am sending him, that is, my own heart, back to you. 13 I should have liked to retain him for myself, so that he might serve me on your behalf in my imprisonment for the gospel, 14 but I did not want to do anything without your consent, so that the good you do might not be forced but voluntary. 15 Perhaps this is why he was away from you for a while, that you might have him back forever, [16]no longer as a slave but more than a slave, a brother, beloved especially to me, but even more so to you, as a man and in the Lord. [17]So if you regard me as a partner, welcome him as you would me. [18]And if he has done you any injustice or owes you anything, charge it to me. [19]I, Paul, write this in my own hand: I will pay. May I not tell you that you owe me your very self. [20]Yes, brother, may I profit from you in the Lord. Refresh my heart in Christ.

[21]With trust in your compliance I write to you, knowing that you will do even more than I say. [22]At the same time prepare a guest room for me, for I hope to be granted to you through your prayers.

Final Greetings. [23]Epaphras, my fellow prisoner in Christ Jesus, greets you, [24]as well as Mark, Aristarchus, Demas, and Luke, my co-workers. [25]The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.

> From what does such contrariness arise in habitually angry people, but from a secret cause of too high an opinion of themselves so that it pierces their heart when they see any man esteem them less than they esteem themselves? An inflated estimation of ourselves is more than half the weight of our wrath.

☐ JEREMIAH 51-52

The Second Oracle Against Babylon. 51:1 Thus says the LORD:
See! I rouse against Babylon, and the inhabitants of Chaldea,
a destroyer wind.
[2]To Babylon I will send winnowers
to winnow and lay waste the land;
They shall besiege it on every side
on the day of affliction.
[3]How can the archers draw back their bows,
lift their armor?
Do not spare her young men,
put the entire army under the ban.
[4]The slain shall fall in the land of Chaldea,
the wounded, in its streets;
[5]For Israel and Judah are not left widowed by their God, the LORD of hosts, Even though the land is full of guilt
against the Holy One of Israel.
[6]Flee from Babylon;
each of you save your own life,
do not perish because of her guilt;
This is a time of retribution from the LORD,
[7]who pays out her due.
Babylon was a golden cup in the hand of the LORD
making the whole earth drunk;
The nations drank its wine,
thus they have gone mad.
[8]Babylon suddenly falls and is broken:

wail over her!
Bring balm for her wounds,
in case she can be healed.
9"We have tried to heal Babylon,
but she cannot be healed.
Leave her, each of us must go to our own land."
The judgment against her reaches the heavens,
it touches the clouds.
10The LORD has brought forth our vindication;
come, let us tell in Zion
what the LORD, our God, has done.
11Sharpen the arrows,
fill the quivers;
The LORD has stirred up the spirit of the kings of the Medes,
for his resolve is Babylon's destruction.
Yes, it is retribution from the LORD,
retribution for his temple.
12Over the walls of Babylon raise a signal,
reinforce the watch;
Post sentries,
arrange ambushes!
For the LORD has both planned and carried out
what he spoke against the inhabitants of Babylon.
13You who dwell by mighty waters,
rich in treasure,
Your end has come,
the time at which you shall be cut off!
14The LORD of hosts has sworn by himself:
I will fill you with people as numerous as locusts,
who shall raise over you a joyous shout!
15He made the earth by his power,
established the world by wisdom,
and by his skill stretched out the heavens.
16When he thunders, the waters in the heavens roar,
he summons clouds from the ends of the earth,
Makes lightning flash in the rain,
and brings out winds from their storehouses.
17Every man is stupid, ignorant;
every artisan is put to shame by his idol:
He molds a fraud,
without life-breath.
18They are nothing, a ridiculous work,
that will perish at the time of punishment.
19Jacob's portion is nothing like them:
he is the creator of all things.
Israel is his very own tribe;
LORD of hosts is his name.
20You are my hammer,
a weapon for war;
With you I shatter nations,

with you I destroy kingdoms.
[21]With you I shatter horse and rider,
with you I shatter chariot and driver.
[22]With you I shatter man and woman, with you I shatter old and young,
with you I shatter the young man and young woman.
[23]With you I shatter shepherd and flock,
with you I shatter farmer and team,
with you I shatter governors and officers.
[24]Thus I will repay Babylon,
all the inhabitants of Chaldea,
For all the evil they committed against Zion,
before your very eyes—oracle of the LORD.
[25]Beware! I am against you, destroying mountain—oracle of the LORD—
destroyer of the entire earth,
I will stretch forth my hand against you,
roll you down over the cliffs,
and make you a burnt mountain:
[26]They will not take from you a cornerstone,
or a foundation stone;
You shall remain ruins forever—
oracle of the LORD.
[27]Raise a signal in the land,
sound the trumpet among the nations;
Dedicate nations for war against her,
summon against her the kingdoms:
Ararat, Minni, and Ashkenaz;
Appoint a recruiting officer against her,
dispatch horses like bristling locusts.
[28]Dedicate nations for war against her:
the king of the Medes,
Its governors and all its officers,
every land in its domain.
[29]The earth quakes and writhes,
the LORD's plan against Babylon is carried out, Turning the land of Babylon
into a wasteland without inhabitants.
[30]Babylon's warriors have ceased to fight,
they remain in their strongholds;
Dried up is their strength,
they have become women.
Burned down are their homes,
broken their gates.
[31]One runner meets another,
herald meets herald,
Telling the king of Babylon
that his entire city has been taken.
[32]The fords have been seized,
marshes set on fire,

warriors panic.

[33]For thus says the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel:

Daughter Babylon is like a threshing floor
at the time of treading;
Yet a little while,
and the harvest time will come for her.
[34]"He consumed me, defeated me, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon;
he left me like an empty vessel,
Swallowed me like a sea monster,
filled his belly with my delicacies and cast me out.
[35]Let my torn flesh be visited upon Babylon," says enthroned Zion;
"My blood upon the inhabitants of Chaldea," says Jerusalem.
[36]But now, thus says the LORD:
I will certainly defend your cause,
I will certainly avenge you;
I will dry up her sea,
and drain her fountain.
[37]Babylon shall become a heap of ruins,
a haunt of jackals;
A place of horror and hissing,
without inhabitants.
[38]They roar like lions,
growl like lion cubs.
[39]When they are parched, I will set drink before them to make them drunk, that they may be overcome with everlasting sleep, never to awaken—
oracle of the LORD.
[40]I will bring them down like lambs to slaughter,
like rams and goats.
[41]How she has been seized, taken captive,
the glory of the whole world!
What a horror Babylon has become among the nations:
[42]against Babylon the sea rises,
she is overwhelmed by roaring waves!
[43]Her cities have become wasteland,
a parched and arid land
Where no one lives,
no one passes through.
[44]I will punish Bel in Babylon,
and make him vomit up what he swallowed;
nations shall no longer stream to him.
Even the wall of Babylon falls!
[45]Leave her, my people; each of you save your own life
from the burning wrath of the LORD.

[46]Do not be discouraged when rumors spread through the land; this year one rumor comes, next year another:
"Violence in the land!" or "Ruler against ruler!" [47]Realize that the days are coming when I will punish the idols of Babylon; the whole land shall be put to shame, all her slain shall fall in her midst. [48]Then heaven and earth and everything in them shall shout over Babylon with joy, when the destroyers come against her from the north—oracle of the LORD.
[49]Babylon, too, must fall, you slain of Israel, because by the hand of Babylon the slain of all the earth have fallen.

[50]You who have escaped the sword,
go, do not stand idle;
Remember the LORD from far away,
let Jerusalem come to mind.
[51]We are ashamed because we have heard taunts,
disgrace covers our faces;
strangers have entered sanctuaries in the LORD's house.
[52]Therefore see, the days are coming—oracle of the LORD—
when I will punish her idols,
and throughout the land the wounded will groan.
[53]Though Babylon scale the heavens,
and make her strong heights inaccessible,
my destroyers shall reach her—oracle of the LORD.
[54]A sound of crying from Babylon,
great destruction from the land of the Chaldeans; [55]For the LORD lays Babylon waste,
silences her loud cry,
Waves roaring like mighty waters,
a clamor resounding.
[56]For the destroyer comes upon her, upon Babylon;
warriors are captured, their bows broken;
The LORD is a God of recompense,
he will surely repay.

[57]I will make her princes and sages drunk, with her governors, officers, and warriors, so that they sleep an everlasting sleep, never to awaken—oracle of the King, whose name is LORD of hosts.

[58]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
The walls of spacious Babylon shall be leveled to the ground,
its lofty gates destroyed by fire.
The toil of the peoples is for nothing;
the nations weary themselves for what the flames consume.

The Prophecy Sent to Babylon. [59]The mission Jeremiah the prophet gave to Seraiah, son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, when he went to Babylon with King Zedekiah, king of Judah, in the fourth year of his reign; Seraiah was chief quartermaster. [60]Jeremiah wrote down on one scroll the disaster that would befall Babylon; all these words were written against Babylon. [61]And Jeremiah said to Seraiah: "When you reach Babylon, see that you read all these words aloud, [62]and then say: LORD, you yourself spoke against this place in order to cut it down so that nothing, human being or beast, could live in it, because it is to remain a wasteland forever. [63]When you have finished reading this scroll, tie a stone to it and throw it into the Euphrates, [64]and say: Thus Babylon shall sink. It will never rise, because of the disaster I am bringing upon it." Thus far the words of Jeremiah.

Capture of Jerusalem. 52:1 Zedekiah was twenty-one years old when he became king; he reigned eleven years in Jerusalem. His mother's name was Hamutal, daughter of Jeremiah from Libnah. [2]He did what was evil in the sight of the LORD, just as Jehoiakim had done. [3]Indeed, the things done in Jerusalem and in Judah so angered the LORD that he cast them out from his presence. Thus Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon. [4]In the tenth month of the ninth year of his reign, on the tenth day of the month, Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and his entire army advanced against Jerusalem, encamped around it, and built siege walls on every side. [5]The siege of the city continued until the eleventh year of King Zedekiah.

[6]On the ninth day of the fourth month, when famine had gripped the city and the people had no more bread, [7]the city walls were breached. All the soldiers fled and left the city by night through the gate between the two walls which was near the king's garden. With the Chaldeans surrounding the city, they went in the direction of the Arabah. [8]But the Chaldean army pursued the king and overtook Zedekiah in the wilderness near Jericho; his whole army fled from him.

[9]The king, therefore, was arrested and brought to Riblah, in the land of Hamath, to the king of Babylon, who pronounced judgment on him. [10]As Zedekiah looked on, the king of Babylon slaughtered his sons before his eyes! All the nobles of Judah were slaughtered at Riblah. [11]And the eyes of Zedekiah he then blinded, bound him with chains, and the King of Babylon brought him to Babylon and kept him in prison until the day he died.

Destruction of Jerusalem. [12]On the tenth day of the fifth month, this was in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, Nebuzaradan, captain of the bodyguard, came to Jerusalem as the representative of the king of Babylon. [13]He burned the house of the LORD, the palace of the king, and all the houses of Jerusalem; every large building he destroyed with fire. [14]Then the Chaldean troops with the captain of the guard tore down all the walls that surrounded Jerusalem.

[15]Nebuzaradan, captain of the guard, led into exile the remnant of people left in the city, those who had deserted to the king of Babylon, and the rest of the artisans. [16]But Nebuzaradan, captain of the guard, left behind some of the country's poor as vinedressers and farmers.

[17]The bronze pillars that belonged to the house of the LORD, and the wheeled carts and the bronze sea in the house of the LORD, the Chaldeans broke into pieces; they carried away all the bronze to Babylon. [18]They also took the pots, shovels, snuffers, bowls, pans, and all the bronze vessels used for service; [19]the basins, fire holders, bowls, pots, lampstands, pans, the sacrificial bowls made of gold or silver. Along with these furnishings the captain of the guard carried off [20]the two pillars, the one sea and its base of twelve oxen cast in bronze, and the wheeled carts King Solomon had commissioned for the house of the LORD. The bronze from all these furnishings was impossible to weigh.

[21]As for the pillars, each of them was eighteen cubits high and twelve cubits in diameter; each was four fingers thick and hollow inside. [22]A bronze capital five cubits high crowned the one pillar, and a network with pomegranates encircled the capital, all of bronze; and so for the other pillar, with pomegranates. [23]There were ninety-six pomegranates on the sides, a hundred pomegranates surrounding the network.

[24]The captain of the guard also took Seraiah the high priest, Zephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the entrance. [25]From the city he took one courtier, a commander of soldiers, and seven men in the personal service of the king still in the city, the scribe of the army commander who mustered the people of the land, and sixty of the common people remaining in the city. [26]The captain of the guard, Nebuzaradan, arrested them and brought them to the king of Babylon at Riblah, [27]who had them struck down and executed in Riblah, in the land of Hamath.

Thus Judah was exiled from the land. [28]This is the number of people Nebuchadnezzar led away captive: in his seventh year, three thousand twenty-three people of Judah; [29]in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, eight hundred thirty-two persons from Jerusalem; [30]in the twenty-third year of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuzaradan, captain of the guard, deported seven hundred forty-five Judahites: four thousand six hundred persons in all.

Favor Shown to Jehoiachin. [31]In the thirty-seventh year of the exile of Jehoiachin, king of Judah, on the twenty-fifth day of the twelfth month, Evil-merodach, king of Babylon, in the inaugural year of his reign, raised up Jehoiachin, king of Judah, and released him from prison. [32]He spoke kindly to him and gave him a throne higher than the thrones of the other kings who were with him in Babylon. [33]Jehoiachin took off his prison garb and ate at the king's table as long as he lived. [34]The allowance given him by the king of Babylon was a perpetual allowance, in fixed daily amounts, all the days of his life until the day of his death.

1:1 James, a slave of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes in the dispersion, greetings.

Perseverance in Trial. [2]Consider it all joy, my brothers, when you encounter various trials, [3]for you know that the testing of your faith produces perseverance. [4]And let perseverance be perfect, so that you may be perfect and complete, lacking in nothing. [5]But if any of you lacks wisdom, he should ask God who gives to all generously and ungrudgingly, and he will be given it. [6]But he should ask in faith, not doubting, for the one who doubts is like a wave of the sea that is driven and tossed about by the wind. [7]For that person must not suppose that he will receive anything from the Lord, [8]since he is a man of two minds, unstable in all his ways.

[9]The brother in lowly circumstances should take pride in his high standing, [10]and the rich one in his lowliness, for he will pass away "like the flower of the field." [11]For the sun comes up with its scorching heat and dries up the grass, its flower droops, and the beauty of its appearance vanishes. So will the rich person fade away in the midst of his pursuits.

Temptation. [12]Blessed is the man who perseveres in temptation, for when he has been proved he will receive the crown of life that he promised to those who love him. [13]No one experiencing temptation should say, "I am being tempted by God"; for God is not subject to temptation to evil, and he himself tempts no one. [14]Rather, each person is tempted when he is lured and enticed by his own desire. [15]Then desire conceives and brings forth sin, and when sin reaches maturity it gives birth to death.

[16]Do not be deceived, my beloved brothers: [17]all good giving and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom there is no alteration or shadow caused by change. [18]He willed to give us birth by the word of truth that we may be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

Doers of the Word. [19]Know this, my dear brothers: everyone should be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath, [20]for the wrath of a man does not accomplish the righteousness of God. [21]Therefore, put away all filth and evil excess and humbly welcome the word that has been planted in you and is able to save your souls.

[22]Be doers of the word and not hearers only, deluding yourselves. [23]For if anyone is a hearer of the word and not a doer, he is like a man who looks at his own face in a mirror. [24]He sees himself, then goes off and promptly forgets what he looked like. [25]But the one who peers into the perfect law of freedom and perseveres, and is not a hearer who forgets but a doer who acts, such a one shall be blessed in what he does.

[26]If anyone thinks he is religious and does not bridle his tongue but deceives his heart, his religion is vain. [27]Religion that is pure and undefiled before God and the Father is this: to care for orphans and widows in their affliction and to keep oneself unstained by the world.

How can a man say he believes in Christ if he doesn't do what Christ commanded him to do?

— St. Cyprian of Carthage

☐ LAMENTATIONS 1-2

The Desolation of Jerusalem. 1:1 How solitary sits the city,
once filled with people.
She who was great among the nations
is now like a widow.
Once a princess among the provinces,
now a toiling slave.

[2]She weeps incessantly in the night,
her cheeks damp with tears.
She has no one to comfort her
from all her lovers;
Her friends have all betrayed her,

and become her enemies.

[3]Judah has gone into exile,
after oppression and harsh labor;
She dwells among the nations,
yet finds no rest:
All her pursuers overtake her in the narrow straits.

[4]The roads to Zion mourn,
empty of pilgrims to her feasts.
All her gateways are desolate,
her priests groan,
Her young women grieve;
her lot is bitter.

[5]Her foes have come out on top,
her enemies are secure;
Because the LORD has afflicted her
for her many rebellions.
Her children have gone away,
captive before the foe.

[6]From daughter Zion has gone
all her glory:
Her princes have become like rams that find no pasture.
They have gone off exhausted
before their pursuers.

[7]Jerusalem remembers
in days of wretched homelessness,
All the precious things she once had
in days gone by.
But when her people fell into the hands of the foe,
and she had no help,
Her foes looked on and laughed
at her collapse.

[8]Jerusalem has sinned grievously,
therefore she has become a mockery;
Those who honored her now demean her,
for they saw her nakedness;
She herself groans out loud,
and turns away.

[9]Her uncleanness is on her skirt;
she has no thought of her future.
Her downfall is astonishing,
with no one to comfort her.
"Look, O LORD, at my misery;

how the enemy triumphs!”

10 The foe stretched out his hands
to all her precious things;
She has seen the nations
enter her sanctuary,
Those you forbade to come into your assembly.

11 All her people groan,
searching for bread;
They give their precious things for food,
to retain the breath of life.
“Look, O LORD, and pay attention
to how I have been demeaned!

12 Come, all who pass by the way,
pay attention and see:
Is there any pain like my pain,
which has been ruthlessly inflicted upon me,
With which the LORD has tormented me
on the day of his blazing wrath?

13 From on high he hurled fire down into my very bones;
He spread out a net for my feet,
and turned me back.
He has left me desolate,
in misery all day long.

14 The yoke of my rebellions is bound together,
fastened by his hand.
His yoke is upon my neck;
he has made my strength fail.
The Lord has delivered me into the grip
of those I cannot resist.

15 All my valiant warriors
my Lord has cast away;
He proclaimed a feast against me
to crush my young men;
My Lord has trodden in the wine press
virgin daughter Judah.

16 For these things I weep—My eyes! My eyes!
They stream with tears!
How far from me is anyone to comfort,
anyone to restore my life.
My children are desolate;
the enemy has prevailed.”

[17]Zion stretches out her hands,
with no one to comfort her;
The LORD has ordered against Jacob
his foes all around;
Jerusalem has become in their midst
a thing unclean.

[18]"The LORD is in the right;
I had defied his command.
Listen, all you peoples,
and see my pain:
My young women and young men have gone into captivity.

[19]I cried out to my lovers,
but they failed me.
My priests and my elders
perished in the city;
How desperately they searched for food,
to save their lives!

[20]Look, O LORD, at the anguish I suffer!
My stomach churns,
And my heart recoils within me:
How bitter I am!
Outside the sword bereaves—
indoors, there is death.

[21]Hear how I am groaning;
there is no one to comfort me.
All my enemies hear of my misery and rejoice
over what you have done.
Bring on the day you proclaimed,
and let them become like me!

[22]Let all their evil come before you
and deal with them
As you have so ruthlessly dealt with me
for all my rebellions.
My groans are many,
my heart is sick."

The Lord's Wrath and Zion's Ruin. 2:1 How the Lord in his wrath
has abhorred daughter Zion, Casting down from heaven to earth
the glory of Israel,
Not remembering his footstool
on the day of his wrath!

[2]The Lord has devoured without pity
all of Jacob's dwellings;

In his fury he has razed
daughter Judah's defenses,
Has brought to the ground in dishonor
a kingdom and its princes.

[3]In blazing wrath, he cut down entirely
the horn of Israel;
He withdrew the support of his right hand
when the enemy approached;
He burned against Jacob like a blazing fire
that consumes everything in its path.

[4]He bent his bow like an enemy;
the arrow in his right hand
Like a foe, he killed
all those held precious;
On the tent of daughter Zion
he poured out his wrath like fire.

[5]The Lord has become the enemy,
he has devoured Israel:
Devoured all its strongholds,
destroyed its defenses,
Multiplied moaning and groaning throughout daughter Judah.

[6]He laid waste his booth like a garden,
destroyed his shrine;
The LORD has blotted out in Zion
feast day and sabbath,
Has scorned in fierce wrath
king and priest.

[7]The Lord has rejected his altar,
spurned his sanctuary;
He has handed over to the enemy
the walls of its strongholds.
They shout in the house of the LORD
as on a feast day.

[8]The LORD was bent on destroying the wall of daughter Zion:
He stretched out the measuring line;
did not hesitate to devour, Brought grief on rampart and wall
till both succumbed.

[9]Her gates sank into the ground;
he smashed her bars to bits.
Her king and her princes are among the nations;
instruction is wanting,

Even her prophets do not obtain any vision from the LORD.

[10]The elders of daughter Zion
sit silently on the ground;
They cast dust on their heads
and dress in sackcloth;
The young women of Jerusalem
bow their heads to the ground.

[11]My eyes are spent with tears,
my stomach churns;
My bile is poured out on the ground
at the brokenness of the daughter of my people,
As children and infants collapse
in the streets of the town.

[12]They cry out to their mothers,
"Where is bread and wine?"
As they faint away like the wounded
in the streets of the city,
As their life is poured out
in their mothers' arms.

[13]To what can I compare you—to what can I liken you—
O daughter Jerusalem?
What example can I give in order to comfort you,
virgin daughter Zion?
For your breach is vast as the sea;
who could heal you?

[14]Your prophets provided you visions
of whitewashed illusion;
They did not lay bare your guilt,
in order to restore your fortunes;
They saw for you only oracles
of empty deceit.

[15]All who pass by on the road,
clap their hands at you;
They hiss and wag their heads
over daughter Jerusalem:
"Is this the city they used to call perfect in beauty and joy of all the earth?"

[16]They open their mouths against you,
all your enemies;
They hiss and gnash their teeth,
saying, "We have devoured her!
How we have waited for this day—
we have lived to see it!"

17 The LORD has done what he planned.
    He has fulfilled the threat Decreed from days of old,
    destroying without pity!
He let the enemy gloat over you and exalted the horn of your foes.

18 Cry out to the Lord from your heart,
    wall of daughter Zion!
Let your tears flow like a torrent
    day and night;
Give yourself no rest,
    no relief for your eyes.

19 Rise up! Wail in the night, at the start of every watch;
Pour out your heart like water
    before the Lord;
Lift up your hands to him
    for the lives of your children, Who collapse from hunger
    at the corner of every street.

20 "Look, O LORD, and pay attention:
    to whom have you been so ruthless?
Must women eat their own offspring,
    the very children they have borne?
Are priest and prophet to be slain
    in the sanctuary of the Lord?

21 They lie on the ground in the streets,
    young and old alike;
Both my young women and young men
    are cut down by the sword;
You killed them on the day of your wrath,
    slaughtered without pity.

22 You summoned as to a feast day
    terrors on every side;
On the day of the LORD's wrath,
    none survived or escaped.
Those I have borne and nurtured,
    my enemy has utterly destroyed."

☐ JAMES 2

Sin of Partiality. 2:1 My brothers, show no partiality as you adhere to the faith in our glorious Lord Jesus Christ. 2 For if a man with gold rings on his fingers and in fine clothes comes into your assembly, and a poor person in shabby clothes also comes in, 3 and you pay attention to the one wearing the fine clothes and say, "Sit here, please," while you say to the poor one, "Stand there," or "Sit at my feet," 4 have you not made distinctions among yourselves and become judges with evil designs?

[5]Listen, my beloved brothers. Did not God choose those who are poor in the world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom that he promised to those who love him? [6]But you dishonored the poor person. Are not the rich oppressing you? And do they themselves not haul you off to court? [7]Is it not they who blaspheme the noble name that was invoked over you? [8]However, if you fulfill the royal law according to the scripture, "You shall love your neighbor as yourself," you are doing well. [9]But if you show partiality, you commit sin, and are convicted by the law as transgressors. [10]For whoever keeps the whole law, but falls short in one particular, has become guilty in respect to all of it. [11]For he who said, "You shall not commit adultery," also said, "You shall not kill." Even if you do not commit adultery but kill, you have become a transgressor of the law. [12]So speak and so act as people who will be judged by the law of freedom.
[13]For the judgment is merciless to one who has not shown mercy; mercy triumphs over judgment.

Faith and Works. [14]What good is it, my brothers, if someone says he has faith but does not have works? Can that faith save him? [15]If a brother or sister has nothing to wear and has no food for the day, [16]and one of you says to them,
"Go in peace, keep warm, and eat well," but you do not give them the necessities of the body, what good is it? [17]So also faith of itself, if it does not have works, is dead.

[18]Indeed someone may say, "You have faith and I have works." Demonstrate your faith to me without works, and I will demonstrate my faith to you from my works. [19]You believe that God is one. You do well. Even the demons believe that and tremble. [20]Do you want proof, you ignoramus, that faith without works is useless? [21]Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he offered his son Isaac upon the altar? [22]You see that faith was active along with his works, and faith was completed by the works. [23]Thus the scripture was fulfilled that says, "Abraham believed God, and it was credited to him as righteousness," and he was called "the friend of God." [24]See how a person is justified by works and not by faith alone. [25]And in the same way, was not Rahab the harlot also justified by works when she welcomed the messengers and sent them out by a different route? [26]For just as a body without a spirit is dead, so also faith without works is dead.

All Saints

Those in the Catholic Church, whom some rebuke for praying to saints and going on pilgrimages, do not seek any saint as their savior. Instead, they seek saints as those whom their Savior loves, and whose intercession and prayer for the seeker He will be content to hear. For His own sake, He would have those He loves honored. And when they are thus honored for His sake, then the honor that is given them for His sake overflows especially to himself.

— St. Thomas More

☐ LAMENTATIONS 3-5

The Voice of a Suffering Individual. 3:1 I am one who has known affliction
under the rod of God's anger, [2]One whom he has driven and forced to walk
in darkness, not in light;
[3]Against me alone he turns his hand—
again and again all day long.

[4]He has worn away my flesh and my skin,
he has broken my bones;
[5]He has besieged me all around with poverty and hardship;
[6]He has left me to dwell in dark places
like those long dead.

[7]He has hemmed me in with no escape,
weighed me down with chains;
[8]Even when I cry for help,
he stops my prayer;
[9]He has hemmed in my ways with fitted stones,
and made my paths crooked.

[10]He has been a bear lying in wait for me,
a lion in hiding!
[11]He turned me aside and tore me apart,
leaving me ravaged.
[12]He bent his bow, and set me up as a target for his arrow.

[13]He pierced my kidneys
with shafts from his quiver.
[14]I have become a laughingstock to all my people,
their taunt all day long;
[15]He has sated me with bitterness,
filled me with wormwood.

[16]He has made me eat gravel,
trampled me into the dust;
[17]My life is deprived of peace,

I have forgotten what happiness is;
18 My enduring hope, I said,
has perished before the LORD.

19 The thought of my wretched homelessness
is wormwood and poison; 20 Remembering it over and over,
my soul is downcast.
21 But this I will call to mind;
therefore I will hope:

22 The LORD's acts of mercy are not exhausted,
his compassion is not spent;
23 They are renewed each morning—
great is your faithfulness!
24 The LORD is my portion, I tell myself,
therefore I will hope in him.

25 The LORD is good to those who trust in him,
to the one that seeks him;
26 It is good to hope in silence
for the LORD's deliverance.
27 It is good for a person, when young,
to bear the yoke,

28 To sit alone and in silence,
when its weight lies heavy, 29 To put one's mouth in the dust—
there may yet be hope—30 To offer one's cheek to be struck,
to be filled with disgrace.

31 For the Lord does not reject forever;
32 Though he brings grief, he takes pity,
according to the abundance of his mercy;
33 He does not willingly afflict
or bring grief to human beings.

34 That someone tramples underfoot
all the prisoners in the land, 35 Or denies justice to anyone in the very sight of the Most High, 36 Or subverts a person's lawsuit—
does the Lord not see?

37 Who speaks so that it comes to pass,
unless the Lord commands it?
38 Is it not at the word of the Most High that both good and bad take place?
39 What should the living complain about?

about their sins!

40 Let us search and examine our ways,
and return to the LORD!
41 Let us lift up our hearts as well as our hands toward God in heaven!
42 We have rebelled and been obstinate;
you have not forgiven us.

43 You wrapped yourself in wrath and pursued us,
killing without pity;
44 You wrapped yourself in a cloud,
which no prayer could pierce.
45 You have made us filth and rubbish
among the peoples.

46 They have opened their mouths against us,
all our enemies;
47 Panic and the pit have been our lot,
desolation and destruction;
48 My eyes stream with tears over the destruction of the daughter of my people.

49 My eyes will flow without ceasing,
without rest,
50 Until the LORD from heaven
looks down and sees.
51 I am tormented by the sight of all the daughters of my city.

52 Without cause, my enemies snared me
as though I were a bird;
53 They tried to end my life in the pit,
pelting me with stones.
54 The waters flowed over my head:
and I said, "I am lost!"

55 I have called upon your name, O LORD,
from the bottom of the pit;
56 You heard me call, "Do not let your ear be deaf to my cry for help."
57 You drew near on the day I called you;
you said, "Do not fear!"

58 You pleaded my case, Lord,
you redeemed my life.
59 You see, LORD, how I am wronged;
do me justice!
60 You see all their vindictiveness,
all their plots against me.

[61]You hear their reproach, LORD,
all their plots against me,
[62]The whispered murmurings of my adversaries,
against me all day long;
[63]Look! Whether they sit or stand,
I am the butt of their taunt.

[64]Give them what they deserve, LORD,
according to their deeds;
[65]Give them hardness of heart;
your curse be upon them;
[66]Pursue them in wrath and destroy them
from under the LORD's heaven!

Miseries of the Besieged City. 4:1 How the gold has lost its luster,
the noble metal changed;
Jewels lie scattered
at the corner of every street.

[2]And Zion's precious children,
worth their weight in gold—
How they are treated like clay jugs,
the work of any potter!

[3]Even jackals offer their breasts
to nurse their young;
But the daughter of my people is as cruel
as the ostrich in the wilderness.

[4]The tongue of the infant cleaves to the roof of its mouth in thirst;
Children beg for bread,
but no one gives them a piece.

[5]Those who feasted on delicacies
are abandoned in the streets;
Those who reclined on crimson now embrace dung heaps.

[6]The punishment of the daughter of my people surpassed the penalty of Sodom,
Which was overthrown in an instant
with no hand laid on it.

[7]Her princes were brighter than snow,
whiter than milk,
Their bodies more ruddy than coral,
their beauty like the sapphire.

[8]Now their appearance is blacker than soot,
they go unrecognized in the streets;

Their skin has shrunk on their bones,
and become dry as wood.

9 Better for those pierced by the sword
than for those pierced by hunger, Better for those who bleed from wounds
than for those who lack food.

10 The hands of compassionate women have boiled their own children!
They became their food
when the daughter of my people was shattered.

11 The LORD has exhausted his anger, poured out his blazing wrath;
He has kindled a fire in Zion
that has consumed her foundations.

12 The kings of the earth did not believe,
nor any of the world's inhabitants,
That foe or enemy could enter
the gates of Jerusalem.

13 Except for the sins of her prophets and the crimes of her priests,
Who poured out in her midst
the blood of the just.

14 They staggered blindly in the streets,
defiled with blood,
So that people could not touch
even their garments:

15 "Go away! Unclean!" they cried to them,
"Away, away, do not touch!"
If they went away and wandered,
it would be said among the nations,
"They can no longer live here!

16 The presence of the LORD was their portion,
but he no longer looks upon them.
The priests are shown no regard,
the elders, no mercy.

17 Even now our eyes are worn out,
searching in vain for help;
From our watchtower we have watched for a nation unable to save.

18 They dogged our every step,
we could not walk in our squares;
Our end drew near, our time was up;

yes, our end had come.

19 Our pursuers were swifter
than eagles in the sky,
In the mountains they were hot on our trail,
they ambushed us in the wilderness.

20 The LORD's anointed—our very lifebreath!—
was caught in their snares,
He in whose shade we thought
to live among the nations.

21 Rejoice and gloat, daughter Edom,
dwelling in the land of Uz,
The cup will pass to you as well;
you shall become drunk and strip yourself naked!

22 Your punishment is completed, daughter Zion,
the Lord will not prolong your exile;
The Lord will punish your iniquity, daughter Edom,
will lay bare your sins.

The Community's Lament to the Lord. 5:1 Remember, LORD, what has happened to us,
pay attention, and see our disgrace:
2 Our heritage is turned over to strangers,
our homes, to foreigners.
3 We have become orphans, without fathers;
our mothers are like widows.
4 We pay money to drink our own water,
our own wood comes at a price.
5 With a yoke on our necks, we are driven;
we are worn out, but allowed no rest.

6 We extended a hand to Egypt and Assyria,
to satisfy our need of bread.
7 Our ancestors, who sinned, are no more;
but now we bear their guilt.
8 Servants rule over us,
with no one to tear us from their hands.
9 We risk our lives just to get bread,
exposed to the desert heat;
10 Our skin heats up like an oven,
from the searing blasts of famine.

11 Women are raped in Zion,
young women in the cities of Judah;
12 Princes have been hanged by them,
elders shown no respect.
13 Young men carry millstones,
boys stagger under loads of wood; 14 The elders have abandoned the gate,

the young men their music.

15 The joy of our hearts has ceased,
dancing has turned into mourning;
16 The crown has fallen from our head:
woe to us that we sinned!
17 Because of this our hearts grow sick,
at this our eyes grow dim:
18 Because of Mount Zion, lying desolate,
and the jackals roaming there!

19 But you, LORD, are enthroned forever;
your throne stands from age to age.
20 Why have you utterly forgotten us,
forsaken us for so long?
21 Bring us back to you, LORD, that we may return:
renew our days as of old.
22 For now you have indeed rejected us
and utterly turned your wrath against us.

Power of the Tongue. 3:1 Not many of you should become teachers, my brothers, for you realize that we will be judged more strictly, 2 for we all fall short in many respects. If anyone does not fall short in speech, he is a perfect man, able to bridle his whole body also. 3 If we put bits into the mouths of horses to make them obey us, we also guide their whole bodies. 4 It is the same with ships: even though they are so large and driven by fierce winds, they are steered by a very small rudder wherever the pilot's inclination wishes. 5 In the same way the tongue is a small member and yet has great pretensions.

Consider how small a fire can set a huge forest ablaze. 6 The tongue is also a fire. It exists among our members as a world of malice, defiling the whole body and setting the entire course of our lives on fire, itself set on fire by Gehenna. 7 For every kind of beast and bird, of reptile and sea creature, can be tamed and has been tamed by the human species, 8 but no human being can tame the tongue. It is a restless evil, full of deadly poison. 9 With it we bless the Lord and Father, and with it we curse human beings who are made in the likeness of God. 10 From the same mouth come blessing and cursing. This need not be so, my brothers. 11 Does a spring gush forth from the same opening both pure and brackish water? 12 Can a fig tree, my brothers, produce olives, or a grapevine figs? Neither can salt water yield fresh.

True Wisdom. 13 Who among you is wise and understanding? Let him show his works by a good life in the humility that comes from wisdom. 14 But if you have bitter jealousy and selfish ambition in your hearts, do not boast and be false to the truth. 15 Wisdom of this kind does not come down from above but is earthly, unspiritual, demonic. 16 For where jealousy and selfish ambition exist, there is disorder and every foul practice. 17 But the wisdom from above is first of all pure, then peaceable, gentle, compliant, full of mercy and good fruits, without inconstancy or insincerity. 18 And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace for those who cultivate peace.

All Souls

We have loved the departed during life; let us not abandon them until we have conducted them by our prayers into the house of the Lord.

— St. Ambrose of Milan

☐ BARUCH 1-2

1:1 Now these are the words of the scroll which Baruch, son of Neriah, son of Mahseiah, son of Zedekiah, son of Hasadiah, son of Hilkiah, wrote in Babylon, [2]in the fifth year, on the seventh day of the month, at the time the Chaldeans took Jerusalem and destroyed it with fire. [3]Baruch read the words of this scroll in the hearing of Jeconiah, son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and all the people who came to the reading: [4]the nobles, kings' sons, elders, and all the people, small and great—all who lived in Babylon by the river Sud.

[5]They wept, fasted, and prayed before the Lord, [6]and collected such funds as each could afford. [7]These they sent to Jerusalem, to Jehoiakim the priest, son of Hilkiah, son of Shallum, and to the priests and the whole people who were with him in Jerusalem. [8](At the same time he received the vessels of the house of the LORD that had been removed from the temple, to restore them to the land of Judah, on the tenth of Sivan. These silver vessels Zedekiah, son of Josiah, king of Judah, had had made [9]after Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, carried off as captives Jeconiah and the princes, the skilled workers, the nobles, and the people of the land from Jerusalem, and brought them to Babylon.)

[10]The message was: "We send you funds, with which you are to procure burnt offerings, sin offerings, and frankincense, and to prepare grain offerings; offer these on the altar of the LORD our God, [11]and pray for the life of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and of Belshazzar, his son, that their lifetimes may be as the days of the heavens above the earth. [12]Pray that the LORD may give us strength, and light to our eyes, that we may live under the protective shadow of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, and of Belshazzar, his son, to serve them many days, and find favor in their sight. [13]Pray for us to the LORD, our God, for we have sinned against the LORD, our God. Even to this day the wrath of the LORD and his anger have not turned away from us. [14]On the feast day and during the days of assembly, read aloud in the house of the LORD this scroll that we send you:

[15]"To the Lord our God belongs justice; to us, people of Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem, to be shamefaced, as on this day— [16]to us, our kings, rulers, priests, and prophets, and our ancestors. [17]We have sinned in the LORD's sight [18]and disobeyed him. We have not listened to the voice of the LORD, our God, so as to follow the precepts the LORD set before us. [19]From the day the LORD led our ancestors out of the land of Egypt until the present day, we have been disobedient to the LORD, our God, and neglected to listen to his voice. [20]Even today evils cling to us, the curse the LORD pronounced to Moses, his servant, at the time he led our ancestors out of the land of Egypt to give us a land flowing with milk and honey. [21]For we did not listen to the voice of the LORD, our God, in all the words of the prophets he sent us, [22]but each of us has followed the inclinations of our wicked hearts, served other gods, and done evil in the sight of the LORD, our God.

2:1 "So the LORD carried out the warning he had uttered against us: against our judges, who governed Israel, against our kings and princes, and against the people of Israel and Judah. [2]Nowhere under heaven has anything been done like what he did in Jerusalem, as was written in the law of Moses: [3]that we would each eat the flesh of our sons, each the flesh of our daughters. [4]He has made us subject to all the kingdoms around us, an object of reproach and horror among all the peoples around us, where the LORD has scattered us. [5]We are brought low, not raised high, because we sinned against the LORD, our God, not listening to his voice.

[6]"To the LORD, our God, belongs justice; to us and to our ancestors, to be shamefaced, as on this day. [7]All the evils of which the LORD had warned us have come upon us. [8]We did not entreat the favor of the LORD by turning, each one, from the designs of our evil hearts. [9]The LORD kept watch over the evils, and brought them home to us; for the LORD is just in all the works he commanded us to do, [10]but we did not listen to his voice, or follow the precepts of the LORD which he had set before us.

[11]"And now, LORD, God of Israel, who led your people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, with signs and wonders and great might, and with an upraised arm, so that you have made for yourself a name to the present day: [12]we have sinned, we have committed sacrilege, we have violated all your statutes, LORD, our God. [13]Withdraw your anger from us, for we are left few in number among the nations where you have scattered us. [14]Hear, LORD, our prayer of supplication, and deliver us for your own sake: grant us favor in the sight of those who brought us into exile, [15]that the whole earth may know that you are the LORD, our God, and that Israel and his descendants bear your name. [16]LORD, look down from your holy dwelling and take thought of us; LORD, incline your ear to hear us. [17]Open your eyes and see: it is not the dead in Hades, whose breath has been taken from within them, who will declare the glory and vindication to the LORD. [18]The person who is deeply grieved, who walks bowed and feeble, with failing eyes and famished soul, will declare your glory and justice, LORD!

[19]"Not on the just deeds of our ancestors and our kings do we base our plea for mercy in your sight, LORD, our God. [20]You have sent your wrath and anger upon us, as you had warned us through your servants the prophets: [21]Thus says the LORD: Bend your necks and serve the king of Babylon, that you may continue in the land I gave your ancestors; [22]for if you do not listen to the LORD's voice so as to serve the king of Babylon, [23]I will silence from the cities of Judah and from the streets of Jerusalem the cry of joy and the cry of gladness, the voice of the bridegroom and the voice of the bride; and all the land shall be deserted, without inhabitants. [24]But we did not listen to your voice, or serve the king of Babylon, and you carried out the threats you had made through your servants the prophets, that the bones of our kings and the bones of our ancestors would be brought out from their burial places. [25]And indeed, they lie exposed to the heat of day and the frost of night. They died in great suffering, by famine and sword and plague. [26]And you reduced the house which bears your name to what it is today, because of the wickedness of the house of Israel and the house of Judah.

God's Promises Recalled. [27]"But with us, Lord, our God, you have dealt in all your clemency and in all your great mercy. [28]Thus you spoke through your servant Moses, the day you ordered him to write down your law in the presence of the Israelites: [29]'If you do not listen to my voice, surely this great and numerous throng will dwindle away among the nations to which I will scatter them. [30]For I know they will not listen to me, because they are a stiff-necked people. But in the land of their exile they shall have a change of heart; [31]they shall know that I, the LORD, am their God. I will give them a heart and ears that listen; [32]and they shall praise me in the land of their exile, and shall remember my name. [33]Then they shall turn back from their stiff-necked stubbornness, and from their evil deeds, because they shall remember the ways of their ancestors, who sinned against the LORD. [34]And I will bring them back to the land I promised on oath to their ancestors, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and they shall rule it. I will make them increase; they shall not be few. [35]And I will establish for them an eternal covenant: I will be their God, and they shall be my people; and I will never again remove my people Israel from the land I gave them.' "

☐ JAMES 4

Causes of Division. 4:1 Where do the wars and where do the conflicts among you come from? Is it not from your passions that make war within your members? [2]You covet but do not possess. You kill and envy but you cannot obtain; you fight and wage war. You do not possess because you do not ask. [3]You ask but do not receive, because you ask wrongly, to spend it on your passions. [4]Adulterers! Do you not know that to be a lover of the world means enmity with God? Therefore, whoever wants to be a lover of the world makes himself an enemy of God. [5]Or do you suppose that the scripture speaks without meaning when it says, "The spirit that he has made to dwell in us tends toward jealousy"? [6]But he bestows a greater grace; therefore, it says:

"God resists the proud,
but gives grace to the humble."

[7]So submit yourselves to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you. [8]Draw near to God, and he will draw near to you. Cleanse your hands, you sinners, and purify your hearts, you of two minds. [9]Begin to lament, to mourn, to weep. Let your laughter be turned into mourning and your joy into dejection. [10]Humble yourselves before the Lord and he will exalt you.

[11]Do not speak evil of one another, brothers. Whoever speaks evil of a brother or judges his brother speaks evil of the law and judges the law. If you judge the law, you are not a doer of the law but a judge. [12]There is one lawgiver and judge who is able to save or to destroy. Who then are you to judge your neighbor?

Warning against Presumption. [13]Come now, you who say, "Today or tomorrow we shall go into such and such a town, spend a year there doing business, and make a profit"— [14]you have no idea what your life will be like tomorrow. You are a puff of smoke that appears briefly and then disappears. [15]Instead you should say, "If the Lord wills it, we shall live to do this or that." [16]But now you are boasting in your arrogance. All such boasting is evil. [17]So for one who knows the right thing to do and does not do it, it is a sin.

St. Martin de Porres

When the Lord knows that good health is necessary for our welfare, He sends it to us; and when we need sickness, He sends that too.

— St. Teresa of Ávila

3:1 "LORD Almighty, God of Israel, the anguished soul, the dismayed spirit cries out to you. [2]Hear, LORD, and have mercy, for you are a merciful God; have mercy on us, who have sinned against you: [3]for you are enthroned forever, while we are perishing forever. [4]LORD Almighty, God of Israel, hear the prayer of the dead of Israel, children who sinned against you; they did not listen to the voice of the LORD, their God, and their evils cling to us. [5]Do not remember the wicked deeds of our ancestors, but remember at this time your power and your name, [6]for you are the LORD our God; and you, LORD, we will praise! [7]This is why you put into our hearts the fear of you: that we may call upon your name, and praise you in our exile, when we have removed from our hearts all the wickedness of our ancestors who sinned against you. [8]See, today we are in exile, where you have scattered us, an object of reproach and cursing and punishment for all the wicked deeds of our ancestors, who withdrew from the LORD, our God."

A. Importance of Wisdom. [9]Hear, Israel, the commandments of life:
listen, and know prudence!
[10]How is it, Israel,
that you are in the land of your foes,
grown old in a foreign land, [11]Defiled with the dead,
counted among those destined for Hades?
[12]You have forsaken the fountain of wisdom!
[13]Had you walked in the way of God,
you would have dwelt in enduring peace.

[14]Learn where prudence is,
where strength, where understanding;
That you may know also
where are length of days, and life,
where light of the eyes, and peace.
[15]Who has found the place of wisdom?
Who has entered into her treasuries?
[16]Where are the rulers of the nations,
who lorded it over the wild beasts of the earth, [17]made sport of the birds in the heavens,
Who heaped up the silver,
the gold in which people trust,

whose possessions were unlimited, [18]Who schemed anxiously for money,
their doings beyond discovery?
[19]They have vanished, gone down to Hades,
and others have risen up in their stead.
[20]Later generations have seen the light of day,
have dwelt on the earth,
But the way to understanding they have not known, [21]they have not perceived her paths or reached her;
their children remain far from the way to her.
[22]She has not been heard of in Canaan,
nor seen in Teman.
[23]The descendants of Hagar who seek knowledge on earth,
the merchants of Medan and Tema,
the storytellers and those seeking knowledge—
These have not known the way to wisdom,
nor have they kept her paths in mind.

B. Inaccessibility of Wisdom. [24]O Israel, how vast is the dwelling of God, how broad the scope of his dominion:
[25]Vast and endless,
high and immeasurable!
[26]In it were born the giants,
renowned at the first,
huge in stature, skilled in war.
[27]These God did not choose,
nor did he give them the way of understanding;
[28]They perished for lack of prudence,
perished through their own folly.

[29]Who has gone up to the heavens and taken her,
bringing her down from the clouds?
[30]Who has crossed the sea and found her,
bearing her away rather than choice gold?
[31]None knows the way to her,
nor has at heart her path.
[32]But the one who knows all things knows her;
he has probed her by his knowledge—
The one who established the earth for all time,
and filled it with four-footed animals, [33]Who sends out the lightning, and it goes,
calls it, and trembling it obeys him;
[34]Before whom the stars at their posts shine and rejoice.
[35]When he calls them, they answer, “Here we are!”
shining with joy for their Maker.
[36]Such is our God;
no other is to be compared to him:

C. Wisdom Contained in the Law. [37]He has uncovered the whole way of understanding, and has given her to Jacob, his servant,

to Israel, his beloved.

[38]Thus she has appeared on earth,
is at home with mortals.

4:1 She is the book of the precepts of God,
the law that endures forever;
All who cling to her will live,
but those will die who forsake her.
[2]Turn, O Jacob, and receive her:
walk by her light toward splendor.
[3]Do not give your glory to another,
your privileges to an alien nation.
[4]Blessed are we, O Israel;
for what pleases God is known to us!

A. Baruch Addresses Diaspora. [5]Take courage, my people!
Remember, O Israel,
[6]You were sold to the nations
not for destruction;
It was because you angered God
that you were handed over to your foes.
[7]For you provoked your Maker
with sacrifices to demons and not to God;
[8]You forgot the eternal God who nourished you,
and you grieved Jerusalem who nurtured you.
[9]She indeed saw coming upon you
the wrath of God; and she said:

B. Jerusalem Addresses Neighbors. "Hear, you neighbors of Zion!
God has brought great mourning upon me,
[10]For I have seen the captivity that the Eternal One has brought upon my sons and daughters.
[11]With joy I nurtured them;
but with mourning and lament I sent them away.
[12]Let no one gloat over me,
a widow, bereft of many;
For the sins of my children I am left desolate,
because they turned from the law of God, [13]and did not acknowledge his statutes;
In the ways of God's commandments they did not walk,
nor did they tread the disciplined paths of his justice.

[14]"Let Zion's neighbors come—Remember the captivity of my sons and daughters, brought upon them by the Eternal One.
[15]He has brought against them a nation from afar,
a nation ruthless and of alien speech,
That has neither reverence for old age
nor pity for the child;

16 They have led away this widow's beloved sons,
have left me solitary, without daughters.

C. Jerusalem Addresses Diaspora. 17 What can I do to help you?
18 The one who has brought this evil upon you must himself deliver you from your enemies' hands.
19 Farewell, my children, farewell;
I am left desolate.
20 I have taken off the garment of peace,
have put on sackcloth for my prayer of supplication;
while I live I will cry out to the Eternal One.

21 "Take courage, my children; call upon God;
he will deliver you from oppression, from enemy hands.
22 I have put my hope for your deliverance in the Eternal One,
and joy has come to me from the Holy One Because of the mercy that will swiftly reach you from your eternal Savior.
23 With mourning and lament I sent you away,
but God will give you back to me
with gladness and joy forever.
24 As Zion's neighbors lately saw you taken captive,
so shall they soon see God's salvation come to you,
with great glory and the splendor of the Eternal One.

25 "My children, bear patiently the wrath
that has come upon you from God;
Your enemies have persecuted you,
but you will soon see their destruction
and trample upon their necks.
26 My pampered children have trodden rough roads,
carried off by their enemies like sheep in a raid.
27 Take courage, my children; call out to God!
The one who brought this upon you will remember you.
28 As your hearts have been disposed to stray from God,
so turn now ten times the more to seek him;
29 For the one who has brought disaster upon you will, in saving you, bring you eternal joy."

D. Baruch Addresses Jerusalem. 30 Take courage, Jerusalem!
The one who gave you your name will console you.
31 Wretched shall be those who harmed you,
who rejoiced at your downfall;
32 Wretched shall be the cities where your children were enslaved, wretched the city that received your children.
33 As that city rejoiced at your collapse,
and made merry at your downfall,
so shall she grieve over her own desolation.
34 I will take from her the rejoicing crowds,
and her exultation shall be turned to mourning:
35 For fire shall come upon her from the Eternal One, for many a day,

to be inhabited by demons for a long time.
[36]Look to the east, Jerusalem;
see the joy that comes to you from God!
[37]Here come your children whom you sent away,
gathered in from east to west
By the word of the Holy One, rejoicing in the glory of God.

☐ JAMES 5

Warning to the Rich. 5:1 Come now, you rich, weep and wail over your impending miseries. [2]Your wealth has rotted away, your clothes have become moth-eaten, [3]your gold and silver have corroded, and that corrosion will be a testimony against you; it will devour your flesh like a fire. You have stored up treasure for the last days. [4]Behold, the wages you withheld from the workers who harvested your fields are crying aloud, and the cries of the harvesters have reached the ears of the Lord of hosts. [5]You have lived on earth in luxury and pleasure; you have fattened your hearts for the day of slaughter. [6]You have condemned; you have murdered the righteous one; he offers you no resistance.

Patience and Oaths. [7]Be patient, therefore, brothers, until the coming of the Lord. See how the farmer waits for the precious fruit of the earth, being patient with it until it receives the early and the late rains. [8]You too must be patient. Make your hearts firm, because the coming of the Lord is at hand. [9]Do not complain, brothers, about one another, that you may not be judged. Behold, the Judge is standing before the gates. [10]Take as an example of hardship and patience, brothers, the prophets who spoke in the name of the Lord. [11]Indeed we call blessed those who have persevered. You have heard of the perseverance of Job, and you have seen the purpose of the Lord, because "the Lord is compassionate and merciful."

[12]But above all, my brothers, do not swear, either by heaven or by earth or with any other oath, but let your "Yes" mean "Yes" and your "No" mean "No," that you may not incur condemnation.

Anointing of the Sick. [13]Is anyone among you suffering? He should pray. Is anyone in good spirits? He should sing praise. [14]Is anyone among you sick? He should summon the presbyters of the church, and they should pray over him and anoint [him] with oil in the name of the Lord, [15]and the prayer of faith will save the sick person, and the Lord will raise him up. If he has committed any sins, he will be forgiven.

Confession and Intercession. [16]Therefore, confess your sins to one another and pray for one another, that you may be healed. The fervent prayer of a righteous person is very powerful. [17]Elijah was a human being like us; yet he prayed earnestly that it might not rain, and for three years and six months it did not rain upon the land. [18]Then he prayed again, and the sky gave rain and the earth produced its fruit.

Conversion of Sinners. [19]My brothers, if anyone among you should stray from the truth and someone bring him back, [20]he should know that whoever brings back a sinner from the error of his way will save his soul from death and will cover a multitude of sins.

St. Charles Borromeo

Nothing pleases God more than for us to be His Son's helpers and to undertake the charge of saving souls. Nothing brings more joy to the Church than those who restore souls to spiritual life, thus despoiling hell, defeating the devil, casting out sin, opening heaven, making the angels glad, glorifying the Most Holy Trinity, and preparing for themselves a never-fading crown.

— St. Charles Borromeo

☐ BARUCH 5-6

5:1 Jerusalem, take off your robe of mourning and misery;
put on forever the splendor of glory from God:
[2]Wrapped in the mantle of justice from God,
place on your head the diadem
of the glory of the Eternal One.
[3]For God will show your splendor to all under the heavens;
[4]you will be named by God forever:
the peace of justice, the glory of God's worship.

[5]Rise up, Jerusalem! stand upon the heights;
look to the east and see your children Gathered from east to west
at the word of the Holy One, rejoicing that they are remembered by God.
[6]Led away on foot by their enemies they left you:
but God will bring them back to you carried high in glory as on royal thrones.
[7]For God has commanded that every lofty mountain
and the age-old hills be made low,
That the valleys be filled to make level ground,
that Israel may advance securely in the glory of God.
[8]The forests and every kind of fragrant tree
have overshadowed Israel at God's command; [9]For God is leading Israel in joy
by the light of his glory,
with the mercy and justice that are his.

6:1 A copy of the letter which Jeremiah sent to those led captive to Babylon by the king of the Babylonians, to tell them what God had commanded him:

For the sins you committed before God, you are being led captive to Babylon by Nebuchadnezzar, king of the Babylonians. [2]When you reach Babylon you will be there many years, a long time—seven generations; after that I will bring you back from there in peace. [3]And now in Babylon you will see gods of silver and gold and wood, carried shoulder high, to cast fear upon the nations. [4]Take care that you yourselves do not become like these foreigners and let not such fear possess you. [5]When you see the crowd before them and behind worshiping them, say in your hearts, "You, Lord, are the one to be worshiped!" [6]For my angel is with you, and he will keep watch on you.

[7]Their tongues are smoothed by woodworkers; they are covered with gold and silver—but they are frauds, and cannot speak. [8]People bring gold, as though for a girl fond of dressing up, [9]and prepare crowns for the heads of their gods. Then sometimes the priests filch the gold and silver from their gods and spend it on themselves, [10]or give part of it to harlots in the brothel. They dress them up in clothes like human beings, these gods of silver and gold and wood. [11]Though they are wrapped in purple clothing, they are not safe from rust and corrosion. [12]Their faces are wiped clean of the cloud of dust which is thick upon them. [13]Each has a scepter, like the human ruler of a district, but none can do away with those that offend against it. [14]Each has in its right hand an ax or dagger, but it cannot save itself from war or pillage. Thus it is known they are not gods; do not fear them.

[15]As useless as a broken pot [16]are their gods, set up in their temples, their eyes full of dust from the feet of those who enter. [17]Their courtyards are walled in like those of someone brought to execution for a crime against the king; the priests reinforce their temples with gates and bars and bolts, so they will not be carried off by robbers. [18]They light more lamps for them than for themselves, yet not one of these can they see. [19]They are like any timber in the temple; their hearts, it is said, are eaten away. Though crawling creatures from the ground consume them and their garments, they do not feel it. [20]Their faces become sooty from the smoke in the temple. [21]Bats and swallows alight on their bodies and heads—any bird, and cats as well. [22]Know, therefore, that they are not gods; do not fear them.

[23]Gold adorns them, but unless someone wipes away the corrosion, they do not shine; they felt nothing when they were molded. [24]They are bought at whatever price, but there is no spirit in them. [25]Since they have no feet, they are carried shoulder high, displaying to all how worthless they are; even those who worship them are put to shame [26]because, if they fall to the ground, the worshipers must pick them up. They neither move of themselves if one sets them upright, nor come upright if they are tipped over; offerings are set out for them as for the dead. [27]Their priests sell their sacrifices for their own advantage. Likewise their wives cure some of the meat, but they do not share it with the poor and the weak; [28]women ritually unclean or at childbirth handle their sacrifices. From such things, know that they are not gods; do not fear them.

[29]How can they be called gods? Women set out the offerings for these gods of silver and gold and wood, [30]and in their temples the priests squat with torn tunic and with shaven hair and beard, and with their heads uncovered. [31]They shout and wail before their gods as others do at a funeral banquet. [32]The priests take some of the clothing from their gods and put it on their wives and children. [33]Whether these gods are treated well or badly by anyone, they cannot repay it. They can neither set up nor remove a king. [34]They cannot give anyone riches or pennies; if one fails to fulfill a vow to them, they will not exact it. [35]They neither save anyone from death, nor deliver the weak from the strong, [36]nor do they restore sight to the blind, or rescue anyone in distress. [37]The widow they do not pity, the orphan they do not help. [38]These gilded and silvered wooden statues are no better than stones from the mountains; their worshipers will be put to shame. [39]How then can it be thought or claimed that they are gods?

[40]Even the Chaldeans themselves have no respect for them; for when they see a deaf mute, unable to speak, they bring forward Bel and expect him to make a sound, as though he could hear. [41]They themselves are unable to reflect and abandon these gods, for they have no sense. [42]And the women, with cords around them, sit by the roads, burning chaff for incense; [43]and whenever one of them is taken aside by some passerby who lies with her, she mocks her neighbor who has not been thought thus worthy, and has not had her cord broken. [44]All that is done for these gods is a fraud; how then can it be thought or claimed that they are gods?

[45]They are produced by woodworkers and goldsmiths; they are nothing other than what these artisans wish them to be. [46]Even those who produce them are not long-lived; [47]how then can the things they have produced be gods? They have left frauds and disgrace to their successors. [48]For when war or disaster comes upon them, the priests deliberate among themselves where they can hide with them. [49]How then can one not understand that these are not gods, who save themselves neither from war nor from disaster? [50]Beings that are wooden, gilded and silvered, they will later be known for frauds. To all nations and kings it will be clear that they are not gods, but human handiwork; and that God's work is not in them. [51]Is it not obvious that they are not gods?

[52]They set no king over the land, nor do they give rain. [53]They neither vindicate their own rights, nor do they rescue anyone wronged, for they are powerless. [54]They are like crows in midair. For when fire breaks out in the temple of these wooden or gilded or silvered gods, though the priests flee and are safe, they themselves are burned up in the fire like timbers. [55]They cannot resist a king or enemy forces. [56]How then can it be admitted or thought that they are gods?

They are safe from neither thieves nor bandits, these wooden and silvered and gilded gods. [57]Anyone who can will strip off the gold and the silver, and go away with the clothing that was on them; they cannot help themselves. [58]How much better to be a king displaying his valor, or a handy tool in a house, the joy of its owner, than these false gods; better the door of a house, protecting whatever is within, than these false gods; better a wooden post in a palace, than these false gods! [59]The sun and moon and stars are bright, obedient in the task for which they are sent. [60]Likewise the lightning, when it flashes, is a great sight; and the one wind blows over every land. [61]The clouds, too, when commanded by God to proceed across the whole world, fulfill the command; [62]and fire, sent from on high to burn up the mountains and the forests, carries out its command. But these false gods are not their equal, whether in appearance or in power. [63]So it is unthinkable, and cannot be claimed that they are gods. They can neither execute judgment, nor benefit anyone. [64]Know, therefore, that they are not gods; do not fear them.

[65]Kings they can neither curse nor bless. [66]They show the nations no signs in the heavens, nor do they shine like the sun, nor give light like the moon. [67]The beasts are better than they—beasts can help themselves by fleeing to shelter. [68]Thus is it in no way apparent to us that they are gods; so do not fear them.

[69]For like a scarecrow in a cucumber patch, providing no protection, are their wooden, gilded, silvered gods. [70]Just like a thornbush in a garden on which perches every kind of bird, or like a corpse hurled into darkness, are their wooden, gilded, silvered gods. [71]From the rotting of the purple and the linen upon them, you can know that they are not gods; they themselves will in the end be consumed, and be a disgrace in the land. [72]Better the just who has no idols; such shall be far from disgrace!

☐ 1 JOHN 1-2

The Word of Life

1:1 What was from the beginning,
what we have heard,
what we have seen with our eyes,
what we looked upon
and touched with our hands
concerns the Word of life—[2]for the life was made visible;
we have seen it and testify to it and proclaim to you the eternal life that was with the Father and was made visible to us—[3]what we have seen and heard
we proclaim now to you,
so that you too may have fellowship with us;
for our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son, Jesus Christ.
[4]We are writing this so that our joy may be complete.

God is Light. [5]Now this is the message that we have heard from him and proclaim to you: God is light, and in him there is no darkness at all. [6]If we say, "We have fellowship with him," while we continue to walk in darkness, we lie and do not act in truth. [7]But if we walk in the light as he is in the light, then we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of his Son Jesus cleanses us from all sin. [8]If we say, "We are without sin," we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. [9]If we acknowledge our sins, he is faithful and just and will forgive our sins and cleanse us from every wrongdoing. [10]If we say, "We have not sinned," we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

Christ and His Commandments. 2:1 My children, I am writing this to you so that you may not commit sin. But if anyone does sin, we have an Advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous one. [2]He is expiation for our sins, and not for our sins only but for those of the whole world. [3]The way we may be sure that we know him is to keep his commandments. [4]Whoever says, "I know him," but does not keep his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him. [5]But whoever keeps his word, the love of God is truly perfected in him. This is the way we may know that we are in union with him: [6]whoever claims to abide in him ought to live [just] as he lived.

The New Commandment. [7]Beloved, I am writing no new commandment to you but an old commandment that you had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word that you have heard. [8]And yet I do write a new commandment to you, which holds true in him and among you, for the darkness is passing away, and the true light is already shining. [9]Whoever says he is in the light, yet hates his brother, is still in the darkness. [10]Whoever loves his brother remains in the light, and there is nothing in him to cause a fall. [11]Whoever hates his brother is in darkness; he walks in darkness and does not know where he is going because the darkness has blinded his eyes.

Members of the Community. [12]I am writing to you, children, because your sins have been forgiven for his name's sake.

[13]I am writing to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.
I am writing to you, young men, because you have conquered the evil one.

[14]I write to you, children, because you know the Father.

I write to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.

I write to you, young men, because you are strong and the word of God remains in you, and you have conquered the evil one.

[15]Do not love the world or the things of the world. If anyone loves the world, the love of the Father is not in him. [16]For all that is in the world, sensual lust, enticement for the eyes, and a pretentious life, is not from the Father but is from the world. [17]Yet the world and its enticement are passing away. But whoever does the will of God remains forever.

Antichrists. [18]Children, it is the last hour; and just as you heard that the antichrist was coming, so now many antichrists have appeared. Thus we know this is the last hour. [19]They went out from us, but they were not really of our number; if they had been, they would have remained with us. Their desertion shows that none of them was of our number. [20]But you have the anointing that comes from the holy one, and you all have knowledge. [21]I write to you not because you do not know the truth but because you do, and because every lie is alien to the truth. [22]Who is the liar? Whoever denies that Jesus is the Christ. Whoever denies the Father and the Son, this is the antichrist. [23]No one who denies the Son has the Father, but whoever confesses the Son has the Father as well.

Life from God's Anointing. [24]Let what you heard from the beginning remain in you. If what you heard from the beginning remains in you, then you will remain in the Son and in the Father. [25]And this is the promise that he made us: eternal life. [26]I write you these things about those who would deceive you. [27]As for you, the anointing that you received from him remains in you, so that you do not need anyone to teach you. But his anointing teaches you about everything and is true and not false; just as it taught you, remain in him.

Children of God. [28]And now, children, remain in him, so that when he appears we may have confidence and not be put to shame by him at his coming. [29]If you consider that he is righteous, you also know that everyone who acts in righteousness is begotten by him.

☐ EZEKIEL 1-3

The Vision: God on the Cherubim. 1:1 In the thirtieth year, on the fifth day of the fourth month, while I was among the exiles by the river Chebar, the heavens opened, and I saw divine visions.— [2]On the fifth day of the month—this was the fifth year of King Jehoiachin's exile— [3]the word of the LORD came to the priest Ezekiel, the son of Buzi, in the land of the Chaldeans by the river Chebar. There the hand of the LORD came upon him.

[4]As I watched, a great stormwind came from the North, a large cloud with flashing fire, a bright glow all around it, and something like polished metal gleamed at the center of the fire. [5]From within it figures in the likeness of four living creatures appeared. This is what they looked like: [6]They were in human form, but each had four faces and four wings, [7]and their legs were straight, the soles of their feet like the hooves of a bull, gleaming like polished brass. [8]Human hands were under their wings, and the wings of one touched those of another. [9]Their faces and their wings looked out on all their four sides; they did not turn when they moved, but each went straight ahead.

[10]Their faces were like this: each of the four had a human face, and on the right the face of a lion, and on the left, the face of an ox, and each had the face of an eagle. [11]Such were their faces. Their wings were spread out above. On each one, two wings touched one another, and the other two wings covered the body. [12]Each went straight ahead. Wherever the spirit would go, they went; they did not change direction when they moved. [13]And the appearance of the living creatures seemed like burning coals of fire. Something indeed like torches moved back and forth among the living creatures. The fire gleamed intensely, and from it lightning flashed. [14]The creatures darting back and forth flashed like lightning.

15 As I looked at the living creatures, I saw wheels on the ground, one alongside each of the four living creatures.
16 The wheels and their construction sparkled like yellow topaz, and all four of them looked the same: their construction seemed as though one wheel was inside the other. 17 When they moved, they went in any of the four directions without veering as they moved. 18 The four of them had rims, high and fearsome—eyes filled the four rims all around. 19 When the living creatures moved, the wheels moved with them; and when the living creatures were raised from the ground, the wheels also were raised. 20 Wherever the spirit would go, they went. And they were raised up together with the living creatures, for the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels. 21 Wherever the living creatures moved, the wheels moved; when they stood still, the wheels stood still. When they were lifted up from the earth, the wheels were lifted up with them. For the spirit of the living creatures was in the wheels.

22 Above the heads of the living creatures was a likeness of the firmament; it was awesome, stretching upwards like shining crystal over their heads. 23 Beneath the firmament their wings stretched out toward one another; each had two wings covering the body. 24 Then I heard the sound of their wings, like the roaring of mighty waters, like the voice of the Almighty. When they moved, the sound of the tumult was like the din of an army. And when they stood still, they lowered their wings. 25 While they stood with their wings lowered, a voice came from above the firmament over their heads.

26 Above the firmament over their heads was the likeness of a throne that looked like sapphire; and upon this likeness of a throne was seated, up above, a figure that looked like a human being. 27 And I saw something like polished metal, like the appearance of fire enclosed on all sides, from what looked like the waist up; and from what looked like the waist down, I saw something like the appearance of fire and brilliant light surrounding him. 28 Just like the appearance of the rainbow in the clouds on a rainy day so was the appearance of brilliance that surrounded him. Such was the appearance of the likeness of the glory of the LORD. And when I saw it, I fell on my face and heard a voice speak.

Eating of the Scroll. 2:1 The voice said to me: Son of man, stand up! I wish to speak to you. 2 As he spoke to me, the spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and I heard the one who was speaking 3 say to me: Son of man, I am sending you to the Israelites, a nation of rebels who have rebelled against me; they and their ancestors have been in revolt against me to this very day. 4 Their children are bold of face and stubborn of heart—to them I am sending you.
You shall say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD. 5 And whether they hear or resist—they are a rebellious house—they shall know that a prophet has been among them. 6 But as for you, son of man, do not fear them or their words. Do not fear, even though there are briers or thorns and you sit among scorpions. Do not be afraid of their words or be terrified by their looks for they are a rebellious house. 7 You must speak my words to them, whether they hear or resist, because they are rebellious. 8 But you, son of man, hear me when I speak to you and do not rebel like this rebellious house. Open your mouth and eat what I am giving you.

9 It was then I saw a hand stretched out to me; in it was a written scroll. 10 He unrolled it before me; it was covered with writing front and back. Written on it was: Lamentation, wailing, woe!

3:1 He said to me: Son of man, eat what you find here: eat this scroll, then go, speak to the house of Israel. 2 So I opened my mouth, and he gave me the scroll to eat. 3 Son of man, he said to me, feed your stomach and fill your belly with this scroll I am giving you. I ate it, and it was as sweet as honey in my mouth. 4 Then he said to me, Son of man, go now to the house of Israel, and speak my words to them.

5 Not to a people with obscure speech and difficult language am I sending you, but to the house of Israel. 6 Nor to many nations of obscure speech and difficult language whose words you cannot understand. For if I were to send you to these, they would listen to you. 7 But the house of Israel will refuse to listen to you, since they refuse to listen to me. For the whole house of Israel is stubborn of brow and hard of heart. 8 Look! I make your face as hard as theirs, and your brow as stubborn as theirs. 9 Like diamond, harder than flint, I make your brow. Do not be afraid of them, or be terrified by their looks, for they are a rebellious house.

10 Then he said to me, Son of man, take into your heart all my words that I speak to you; hear them well. 11 Now go to the exiles, to your own people, and speak to them. Say to them, whether they hear or refuse to hear: Thus says the LORD God!

[12]Then the spirit lifted me up, and I heard behind me a loud rumbling noise as the glory of the LORD rose from its place: [13]the noise of the wings of the living creatures beating against one another, and the noise of the wheels alongside them, a loud rumbling. [14]And the spirit lifted me up and took me away, and I went off, my spirit angry and bitter, for the hand of the LORD pressed hard on me. [15]Thus I came to the exiles who lived at Tel-abib by the river Chebar; and there where they dwelt, I stayed among them distraught for seven days. [16]At the end of the seven days, the word of the LORD came to me:

The Prophet as Sentinel. [17]Son of man, I have appointed you a sentinel for the house of Israel. When you hear a word from my mouth, you shall warn them for me.

[18]If I say to the wicked, You shall surely die—and you do not warn them or speak out to dissuade the wicked from their evil conduct in order to save their lives—then they shall die for their sin, but I will hold you responsible for their blood. [19]If, however, you warn the wicked and they still do not turn from their wickedness and evil conduct, they shall die for their sin, but you shall save your life.

[20]But if the just turn away from their right conduct and do evil when I place a stumbling block before them, then they shall die. Even if you warned them about their sin, they shall still die, and the just deeds that they performed will not be remembered on their behalf. I will, however, hold you responsible for their blood. [21]If, on the other hand, you warn the just to avoid sin, and they do not sin, they will surely live because of the warning, and you in turn shall save your own life.

Ezekiel Mute. [22]The hand of the LORD came upon me there and he said to me: Get up and go out into the plain, where I will speak with you. [23]So I got up and went out into the plain. There it was! The glory of the LORD was standing there like the glory I had seen by the river Chebar. Then I fell on my face, [24]but the spirit entered into me, set me on my feet; he spoke to me, and said: Go, shut yourself in your house. [25]As for you, son of man, know that they will put ropes on you and bind you with them, so that you cannot go out among them. [26]And I will make your tongue stick to the roof of your mouth so that you will be mute, no longer one who rebukes them for being a rebellious house. [27]Only when I speak to you and open your mouth, shall you say to them: Thus says the LORD God: Let those who hear, hear! Let those who resist, resist! They are truly a rebellious house.

3:1 See what love the Father has bestowed on us that we may be called the children of God. Yet so we are. The reason the world does not know us is that it did not know him. [2]Beloved, we are God's children now; what we shall be has not yet been revealed. We do know that when it is revealed we shall be like him, for we shall see him as he is. [3]Everyone who has this hope based on him makes himself pure, as he is pure.

Avoiding Sin. [4]Everyone who commits sin commits lawlessness, for sin is lawlessness. [5]You know that he was revealed to take away sins, and in him there is no sin. [6]No one who remains in him sins; no one who sins has seen him or known him. [7]Children, let no one deceive you. The person who acts in righteousness is righteous, just as he is righteous. [8]Whoever sins belongs to the devil, because the devil has sinned from the beginning. Indeed, the Son of God was revealed to destroy the works of the devil. [9]No one who is begotten by God commits sin, because God's seed remains in him; he cannot sin because he is begotten by God. [10]In this way, the children of God and the children of the devil are made plain; no one who fails to act in righteousness belongs to God, nor anyone who does not love his brother.

[11]For this is the message you have heard from the beginning: we should love one another, [12]unlike Cain who belonged to the evil one and slaughtered his brother. Why did he slaughter him? Because his own works were evil, and those of his brother righteous. [13]Do not be amazed, [then,] brothers, if the world hates you. [14]We know that we have passed from death to life because we love our brothers. Whoever does not love remains in death. [15]Everyone who hates his brother is a murderer, and you know that no murderer has eternal life remaining in him. [16]The way we came to know love was that he laid down his life for us; so we ought to lay down our lives for our brothers. [17]If someone who has worldly means sees a brother in need and refuses him compassion, how can the love of God remain in him? [18]Children, let us love not in word or speech but in deed and truth.

Confidence before God. [19][Now] this is how we shall know that we belong to the truth and reassure our hearts before him [20]in whatever our hearts condemn, for God is greater than our hearts and knows everything. [21]Beloved, if [our] hearts do not condemn us, we have confidence in God [22]and receive from him whatever we ask, because we keep his commandments and do what pleases him. [23]And his commandment is this: we should believe in the name of his Son, Jesus Christ, and love one another just as he commanded us. [24]Those who keep his commandments remain in him, and he in them, and the way we know that he remains in us is from the Spirit that he gave us.

> The fear of God prepares a place for love. But once love has begun to dwell in our hearts, the fear that prepared the place for it is driven out. In sewing, the needle introduces the thread into the cloth. The needle goes in, but the thread cannot follow unless the needle comes out first. In the same way, the fear of God first occupies our minds, but it does not remain there, because it enters only in order to introduce love.

☐ EZEKIEL 4-5

Acts Symbolic of Siege and Exile. 4:1 You, son of man, take a clay tablet; place it in front of you, and draw on it a city, Jerusalem. [2]Lay siege to it: build up siege works, raise a ramp against it, pitch camps and set up battering rams all around it. [3]Then take an iron pan and set it up as an iron wall between you and the city. Set your face toward it and put it under siege. So you must lay siege to it as a sign for the house of Israel. [4]Then lie down on your left side, while I place the guilt of the house of Israel upon you. As many days as you lie like this, you shall bear their guilt. [5]I allot you three hundred and ninety days during which you must bear the guilt of the house of Israel, the same number of years they sinned. [6]When you have completed this, you shall lie down a second time, on your right side to bear the guilt of the house of Judah forty days; I allot you one day for each year. [7]Turning your face toward the siege of Jerusalem, with bared arm you shall prophesy against it. [8]See, I bind you with ropes so that you cannot turn from one side to the other until you have completed the days of your siege.

[9]Then take wheat and barley, beans and lentils, millet and spelt; put them into a single pot and make them into bread. Eat it for as many days as you lie upon your side, three hundred and ninety days. [10]The food you eat shall be twenty shekels a day by weight; each day you shall eat it. [11]And the water you drink shall be the sixth of a hin by measure; each day you shall drink it. [12]And the barley cake you eat you must bake on human excrement in the sight of
all. [13]The LORD said: Thus the Israelites shall eat their food, unclean, among the nations where I drive them. [14]"Oh no, Lord GOD," I protested. "Never have I defiled myself nor have I eaten carrion flesh or flesh torn by wild beasts, nor from my youth till now has any unclean meat entered my mouth." [15]Very well, he replied, I will let you use cow manure in place of human dung. You can bake your bread on that. [16]Then he said to me: Son of man, I am about to break the staff of bread in Jerusalem so they shall eat bread which they have weighed out anxiously and drink water which they have measured out fearfully. [17]Because they lack bread and water they shall be devastated; each and every one will waste away because of their guilt.

5:1 Now you, son of man, take a sharp sword and use it like a barber's razor, to shave your head and your beard.
Then take a balance scale for weighing and divide the hair. [2]Set a third on fire within the city, when the days of your siege are completed; place another third around the city and strike it with the sword; the final third scatter to the wind and then unsheathe the sword after it. [3]But take a few of the hairs and tie them in the hem of your garment. [4]Take some of these and throw them into the fire and burn them in the fire. Because of this, fire will flash out against the whole house of Israel.

[5]Thus says the Lord GOD: This is Jerusalem! I placed it in the midst of the nations, surrounded by foreign lands. [6]But it rebelled against my ordinances more wickedly than the nations, and against my statutes more than the foreign lands around it; they rejected my ordinances and did not walk in my statutes. [7]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have caused more uproar than the nations surrounding you, not living by my statutes nor carrying out my judgments, nor even living by the ordinances of the surrounding nations; [8]therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: See, I am coming against you! I will carry out judgments among you while the nations look on. [9]Because of all your abominations I will do to you what I have never done before, the like of which I will never do again. [10]Therefore, parents will eat their children in your midst, and children will eat their parents. I will inflict punishments upon you and scatter all who remain to the winds.

[11]Therefore, as I live, says the Lord GOD, because you have defiled my sanctuary with all your atrocities and all your abominations, I will surely withdraw and not look upon you with pity nor spare you. [12]A third of your people shall die of disease or starve to death within you; another third shall fall by the sword all around you; a third I will scatter to the winds and pursue them with the sword.

[13]Thus my anger will spend itself; I will vent my wrath against them until I am satisfied. Then they will know that I the LORD spoke in my passion when I spend my wrath upon them. [14]I will make you a desolation and a reproach among the nations around you, in the sight of every passerby. [15]And you will be a reproach and a taunt, a warning and a horror to the nations around you when I execute judgments against you in angry wrath, with furious chastisements. I, the LORD, have spoken! [16]When I loose against you the deadly arrows of starvation that I am sending to destroy you, I will increase starvation and will break your staff of bread. [17]I will send against you starvation and wild beasts who will leave you childless, while disease and bloodshed sweep through you. I will bring the sword against you. I, the LORD, have spoken.

Testing the Spirits. 4:1 Beloved, do not trust every spirit but test the spirits to see whether they belong to God, because many false prophets have gone out into the world. [2]This is how you can know the Spirit of God: every spirit that acknowledges Jesus Christ come in the flesh belongs to God, [3]and every spirit that does not acknowledge Jesus does not belong to God. This is the spirit of the antichrist that, as you heard, is to come, but in fact is already in the world. [4]You belong to God, children, and you have conquered them, for the one who is in you is greater than the one who is in the world. [5]They belong to the world; accordingly, their teaching belongs to the world, and the world listens to them. [6]We belong to God, and anyone who knows God listens to us, while anyone who does not belong to God refuses to hear us. This is how we know the spirit of truth and the spirit of deceit.

God's Love and Christian Life. [7]Beloved, let us love one another, because love is of God; everyone who loves is begotten by God and knows God. [8]Whoever is without love does not know God, for God is love. [9]In this way the love of God was revealed to us: God sent his only Son into the world so that we might have life through him. [10]In this is love: not that we have loved God, but that he loved us and sent his Son as expiation for our sins. [11]Beloved, if God so loved us, we also must love one another. [12]No one has ever seen God. Yet, if we love one another, God remains in us, and his love is brought to perfection in us.

[13]This is how we know that we remain in him and he in us, that he has given us of his Spirit. [14]Moreover, we have seen and testify that the Father sent his Son as savior of the world. [15]Whoever acknowledges that Jesus is the Son of God, God remains in him and he in God. [16]We have come to know and to believe in the love God has for us.

God is love, and whoever remains in love remains in God and God in him. [17]In this is love brought to perfection among us, that we have confidence on the day of judgment because as he is, so are we in this world. [18]There is no fear in love, but perfect love drives out fear because fear has to do with punishment, and so one who fears is not yet perfect in love. [19]We love because he first loved us. [20]If anyone says, "I love God," but hates his brother, he is a liar; for whoever does not love a brother whom he has seen cannot love God whom he has not seen. [21]This is the commandment we have from him: whoever loves God must also love his brother.

God did not tell us to follow Him because He needed our help, but because He knew that loving Him would make us whole.

☐ EZEKIEL 6-7

Against the Mountains of Israel. 6:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, set your face toward the mountains of Israel and prophesy against them: [3]You shall say: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD. Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys: Pay attention! I am bringing a sword against you, and I will destroy your high places. [4]Your altars shall be laid waste, your incense stands smashed, and I will throw your slain down in front of your idols. [5]Yes, I will lay the corpses of the Israelites in front of their idols, and scatter your bones around your altars. [6]Wherever you live, cities shall be ruined and high places laid waste, in order that your altars be laid waste and devastated, your idols broken and smashed, your incense altars hacked to pieces, and whatever you have made wiped out. [7]The slain shall fall in your midst, and you shall know that I am the LORD. [8]But I will spare some of you from the sword to live as refugees among the nations when you are scattered to foreign lands. [9]Then your refugees will remember me among the nations to which they have been exiled, after I have broken their lusting hearts that turned away from me and their eyes that lusted after idols. They will loathe themselves for all the evil they have done, for all their abominations. [10]Then they shall know that I the LORD did not threaten in vain to inflict this evil on them.

[11]Thus says the Lord GOD: Clap your hands, stamp your feet, and cry "Alas!" for all the evil abominations of the house of Israel! They shall fall by the sword, starvation, and disease. [12]Those far off shall die of disease, those nearby shall fall by the sword, and those who survive and are spared shall perish by starvation; thus will I spend my fury upon them. [13]They shall know that I am the LORD, when their slain lie among their idols, all around their altars, on every high hill and mountaintop, beneath every green tree and leafy oak—any place they offer sweet-smelling oblations to all their idols. [14]I will stretch out my hand against them; I will make the land a desolate waste, from the wilderness to Riblah, wherever they live. Thus they shall know that I am the LORD.

The End Has Come. 7:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, now say: Thus says the Lord GOD to the land of Israel: An end! The end comes upon the four corners of the land! [3]Now the end is upon you; I will unleash my anger against you, judge you according to your ways, and hold against you all your abominations. [4]My eye will not spare you, nor will I have pity; but I will hold your conduct against you, since your abominations remain within you; then shall you know that I am the LORD.

[5]Thus says the Lord GOD: Evil upon evil! See it coming! [6]An end is coming, the end is coming; it is ripe for you! See it coming! [7]The crisis has come for you who dwell in the land! The time has come, near is the day: panic, no rejoicing on the mountains. [8]Soon now I will pour out my fury upon you and spend my anger against you; I will judge you according to your ways and hold against you all your abominations. [9]My eye will not spare, nor will I take pity; I will hold your conduct against you since your abominations remain within you, then you shall know that it is I, the LORD, who strikes.

[10]The day is here! Look! it is coming! The crisis has come! Lawlessness is blooming, insolence budding; [11]the violent have risen up to wield a scepter of wickedness. But none of them shall remain; none of their crowd, none of their wealth, for none of them are innocent. [12]The time has come, the day dawns. The buyer must not rejoice, nor the seller mourn, for wrath is coming upon all the throng. [13]Assuredly, the seller shall not regain what was sold, as long as they all live; for the vision is for the whole crowd: it shall not be revoked! Yes, because of their guilt, they shall not hold on to life. [14]They will sound the trumpet and get everything ready, but no one will go out to battle, for my wrath weighs upon all the crowd.

15The sword is outside; disease and hunger are within. Whoever is in the fields will die by the sword; whoever is in the city disease and hunger will devour. 16If their survivors flee, they will die on the mountains, moaning like doves of the valley on account of their guilt. 17All their hands will hang limp, and all their knees turn to water. 18They put on sackcloth, horror clothes them; shame is on all their faces, all their heads are shaved bald. 19They fling their silver into the streets, and their gold is considered unclean. Their silver and gold cannot save them on the day of the LORD's wrath. They cannot satisfy their hunger or fill their bellies, for it has been the occasion of their sin. 20In their beautiful ornaments they took pride; out of them they made their abominable images, their detestable things. For this reason I will make them unclean. 21I will hand them over as spoils to foreigners, as plunder to the wicked of the earth, so that they may defile them. 22I will turn my face away from them. My treasure will be defiled; the violent will enter and defile it. 23They will wreak slaughter, for the land is filled with bloodshed and the city with violence. 24I will bring in the worst of the nations to take possession of their houses. I will put an end to their proud strength, and their sanctuaries will be defiled. 25When anguish comes, they will seek peace, but there is none. 26Disaster after disaster, rumor upon rumor. They keep seeking a vision from the prophet; instruction from the priest is missing, and counsel from the elders. 27The king mourns, the prince is terror-stricken, the hands of the common people tremble. I will deal with them according to their ways, and according to their judgments I will judge them. They shall know that I am the LORD.

☐ 1 JOHN 5

Faith is Victory over the World. 5:1 Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ is begotten by God, and everyone who loves the father loves [also] the one begotten by him. 2In this way we know that we love the children of God when we love God and obey his commandments. 3For the love of God is this, that we keep his commandments.
And his commandments are not burdensome, 4for whoever is begotten by God conquers the world. And the victory that conquers the world is our faith. 5Who [indeed] is the victor over the world but the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

6This is the one who came through water and blood, Jesus Christ, not by water alone, but by water and blood. The Spirit is the one that testifies, and the Spirit is truth. 7So there are three that testify, 8the Spirit, the water, and the blood, and the three are of one accord. 9If we accept human testimony, the testimony of God is surely greater. Now the testimony of God is this, that he has testified on behalf of his Son. 10Whoever believes in the Son of God has this testimony within himself. Whoever does not believe God has made him a liar by not believing the testimony God has given about his Son. 11And this is the testimony: God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. 12Whoever possesses the Son has life; whoever does not possess the Son of God does not have life.

Prayer for Sinners. 13I write these things to you so that you may know that you have eternal life, you who believe in the name of the Son of God. 14And we have this confidence in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he hears us. 15And if we know that he hears us in regard to whatever we ask, we know that what we have asked him for is ours. 16If anyone sees his brother sinning, if the sin is not deadly, he should pray to God and he will give him life. This is only for those whose sin is not deadly. There is such a thing as deadly sin, about which I do not say that you should pray. 17All wrongdoing is sin, but there is sin that is not deadly.

18We know that no one begotten by God sins; but the one begotten by God he protects, and the evil one cannot touch him. 19We know that we belong to God, and the whole world is under the power of the evil one. 20We also know that the Son of God has come and has given us discernment to know the one who is true. And we are in the one who is true, in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life. 21Children, be on your guard against idols.

☐ EZEKIEL 8-9

8:1 In the sixth year, on the fifth day of the sixth month, as I was sitting in my house, with the elders of Judah sitting before me, the hand of the Lord GOD fell upon me there. [2]I looked up and there was a figure that looked like a man. Downward from what looked like his waist, there was fire; from his waist upward, like the brilliance of polished bronze.

Vision of Abominations in the Temple. [3]He stretched out the form of a hand and seized me by the hair of my head. The spirit lifted me up between earth and heaven and brought me in divine vision to Jerusalem to the entrance of the inner gate facing north where the statue of jealousy that provokes jealousy stood. [4]There I saw the glory of the God of Israel, like the vision I had seen in the plain. [5]He said to me: Son of man, lift your eyes to the north! I looked to the north and there in the entry north of the altar gate was this statue of jealousy. [6]He asked, Son of man, do you see what they are doing? Do you see the great abominations that the house of Israel is practicing here, so that I must depart from my sanctuary? You shall see even greater abominations!

[7]Then he brought me to the entrance of the courtyard, and there I saw a hole in the wall. [8]Son of man, he ordered, dig through the wall. I dug through the wall—there was a doorway. [9]Go in, he said to me, and see the evil abominations they are doing here. [10]I went in and looked—figures of all kinds of creeping things and loathsome beasts, all the idols of the house of Israel, pictured around the wall. [11]Before them stood seventy of the elders of the house of Israel. Among them stood Jaazaniah, son of Shaphan, each with censer in hand; a cloud of incense drifted upward. [12]Then he said to me: Do you see, son of man, what the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, each in his idol chamber? They think: "The LORD cannot see us; the LORD has forsaken the land." [13]He said: You will see them practicing even greater abominations.

[14]Then he brought me to the entrance of the north gate of the house of the LORD. There women sat and wept for Tammuz. [15]He said to me: Do you see this, son of man? You will see other abominations, greater than these!

[16]Then he brought me into the inner court of the house of the LORD. There at the door of the LORD's temple, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men with their backs to the LORD's temple and their faces toward the east; they were bowing eastward to the sun. [17]He said: Do you see, son of man? Are the abominable things the house of Judah has done here so slight that they should also fill the land with violence, provoking me again and again? Now they are putting the branch to my nose! [18]Therefore I in turn will act furiously: my eye will not spare, nor will I take pity. Even if they cry out in a loud voice for me to hear, I shall not listen to them.

Slaughter of the Idolaters. 9:1 Then he cried aloud for me to hear: Come, you scourges of the city! [2]And there were six men coming from the direction of the upper gate which faces north, each with a weapon of destruction in his hand. In their midst was a man dressed in linen, with a scribe's case at his waist. They entered and stood beside the bronze altar. [3]Then the glory of the God of Israel moved off the cherub and went up to the threshold of the temple. He called to the man dressed in linen with the scribe's case at his waist, [4]and the LORD said to him: Pass through the city, through the midst of Jerusalem, and mark an X on the foreheads of those who grieve and lament over all the abominations practiced within it. [5]To the others he said in my hearing: Pass through the city after him and strike! Do not let your eyes spare; do not take pity. [6]Old and young, male and female, women and children—wipe them out! But do not touch anyone marked with the X. Begin at my sanctuary. So they began with the elders who were in front of the temple. [7]Defile the temple, he said to them, fill its courts with the slain. Then go out and strike in the city.

[8]As they were striking, I was left alone. I fell on my face, crying out, "Alas, Lord GOD! Will you destroy all that is left of Israel when you pour out your fury on Jerusalem?" [9]He answered me: The guilt of the house of Israel and the house of Judah is too great to measure; the land is filled with bloodshed, the city with lawlessness. They think that the LORD has abandoned the land, that he does not see them. [10]My eye, however, will not spare, nor shall I take pity, but I will bring their conduct down upon their heads.

[11]Just then the man dressed in linen with the scribe's case at his waist made his report: "I have done as you commanded!"

☐ 2 JOHN

1 The Presbyter to the chosen Lady and to her children whom I love in truth—and not only I but also all who know the truth— [2]because of the truth that dwells in us and will be with us forever. [3]Grace, mercy, and peace will be with us from God the Father and from Jesus Christ the Father's Son in truth and love.

[4]I rejoiced greatly to find some of your children walking in the truth just as we were commanded by the Father. [5]But now, Lady, I ask you, not as though I were writing a new commandment but the one we have had from the beginning: let us love one another. [6]For this is love, that we walk according to his commandments; this is the commandment, as you heard from the beginning, in which you should walk.

[7]Many deceivers have gone out into the world, those who do not acknowledge Jesus Christ as coming in the flesh; such is the deceitful one and the antichrist. [8]Look to yourselves that you do not lose what we worked for but may receive a full recompense. [9]Anyone who is so "progressive" as not to remain in the teaching of the Christ does not have God; whoever remains in the teaching has the Father and the Son. [10]If anyone comes to you and does not bring this doctrine, do not receive him in your house or even greet him; [11]for whoever greets him shares in his evil works.

[12]Although I have much to write to you, I do not intend to use paper and ink. Instead, I hope to visit you and to speak face to face so that our joy may be complete. [13]The children of your chosen sister send you greetings.

The Dedication of the Basilica of St. John Lateran

It is on Peter that He builds the Church, and to him that He entrusts the sheep to feed. And although He assigns a like power to all the apostles, yet He founded a single chair, thus establishing by His own authority the source and hallmark of the Church's unity.

10:1 Then I looked and there above the firmament over the heads of the cherubim was something like a sapphire, something that looked like a throne. [2]And he said to the man dressed in linen: Go within the wheelwork under the cherubim; fill both your hands with burning coals from the place among the cherubim, then scatter them over the city. As I watched, he entered. [3]Now the cherubim were standing to the south of the temple when the man went in and a cloud filled the inner court. [4]The glory of the LORD had moved off the cherubim to the threshold of the temple; the temple was filled with the cloud, the whole court brilliant with the glory of the LORD. [5]The sound of the wings of the cherubim could be heard as far as the outer court; it was like the voice of God Almighty speaking. [6]He commanded the man dressed in linen: Take fire from within the wheelwork among the cherubim. The man entered and stood by one of the wheels. [7]Thereupon a cherub stretched out a hand from among the cherubim toward the fire in the midst of the cherubim, took some, and put it in the hands of the one dressed in linen. He took it and came out. [8]Something like a human hand was visible under the wings of the cherubim. [9]I also saw four wheels beside the cherubim, one wheel beside each cherub, and the wheels appeared to have the sparkle of yellow topaz. [10]And the appearance of the four all seemed alike, as though one wheel were inside the other. [11]When they moved, they went in any of the four directions without veering as they moved; in whatever direction the first cherub faced, the others followed without veering as they went. [12]Their entire bodies—backs, hands, and wings—and wheels were covered with eyes all around like the four wheels. [13]I heard the wheels called "wheelwork." [14]Each living creature had four faces: the first a cherub, the second a human being, the third a lion, the fourth an eagle. [15]When the cherubim rose up, they were indeed the living creatures I had seen by the river Chebar. [16]When the cherubim moved, the wheels went beside them; when the cherubim lifted up their wings to rise from the earth, even then the wheels did not leave their sides. [17]When they stood still, the wheels stood still; when they rose up, the wheels rose up with them, for the spirit of the living creatures was in them. [18]Then the glory of the LORD left the threshold of the temple and took its place upon the cherubim. [19]The cherubim lifted their wings and rose up from the earth before my eyes as they departed with the wheels beside them. They stopped at the entrance of the eastern gate of the LORD's house, and the glory of the God of Israel was up above them. [20]These were the living creatures I had seen beneath the God of Israel by the river Chebar. Now I knew they were cherubim. [21]Each of them had four faces and four wings, and something like human hands under their wings. [22]Their faces looked just like the faces I had seen by the river Chebar; and each one went straight ahead.

Death for the Remnant in Jerusalem. 11:1 The spirit lifted me up and brought me to the east gate of the house of the LORD facing east. There at the entrance of the gate were twenty-five men; among them I saw the public officials Jaazaniah, son of Azzur, and Pelatiah, son of Benaiah. [2]The LORD said to me: Son of man, these are the men who are planning evil and giving wicked counsel in this city. [3]They are saying, "No need to build houses! The city is the pot, and we are the meat." [4]Therefore prophesy against them, son of man, prophesy! [5]Then the spirit of the LORD fell upon me and told me to say: Thus says the LORD: This is how you talk, house of Israel. I know the things that come into your mind! [6]You have slain many in this city, filled its streets with the slain. [7]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: The slain whom you piled up in it, that is the meat, the pot is the city. But you I will bring out of it. [8]You fear the sword—that sword I will bring upon you—oracle of the Lord GOD. [9]I will bring you out of the city, hand you over to foreigners, and execute judgments against you. [10]By the sword you shall fall. At the borders of Israel I will judge you so that you will know that I am the LORD. [11]The city shall not be a pot for you, nor shall you be meat within it. At the borders of Israel I will judge you, [12]so you shall know that I am the LORD, whose statutes you did not follow, whose ordinances you did not keep. Instead, you acted according to the ordinances of the nations around you.

[13]While I was prophesying, Pelatiah, the son of Benaiah, dropped dead. I fell down on my face and cried out in a loud voice: "Alas, Lord GOD! You are finishing off what remains of Israel!"

Restoration for the Exiles. [14]The word of the LORD came to me: [15]Son of man, the inhabitants of Jerusalem are saying about all your relatives, the other exiles, and all the house of Israel, "They are far away from the LORD. The land is given to us as a possession." [16]Therefore say: Thus says the Lord GOD: I have indeed sent them far away among the nations, scattered them over the lands, and have been but little sanctuary for them in the lands to which they have gone. [17]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD, I will gather you from the nations and collect you from the lands through which you were scattered, so I can give you the land of Israel. [18]They will enter it and remove all its atrocities and abominations. [19]And I will give them another heart and a new spirit I will put within them. From their bodies I will remove the hearts of stone, and give them hearts of flesh, [20]so that they walk according to my statutes, taking care to keep my ordinances. Thus they will be my people, and I will be their God. [21]But as for those whose hearts are devoted to their atrocities and abominations, I will bring their conduct down upon their heads—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[22]Then the cherubim lifted their wings and the wheels alongside them, with the glory of the God of Israel above them. [23]The glory of the LORD rose up from the middle of the city and came to rest on the mountain east of the city. [24]In a vision, the spirit lifted me up and brought me back to the exiles in Chaldea, by the spirit of God. The vision I had seen left me, [25]and I told the exiles everything the LORD had shown me.

☐ 3 JOHN

1 The Presbyter to the beloved Gaius whom I love in truth.

[2]Beloved, I hope you are prospering in every respect and are in good health, just as your soul is prospering. [3]I rejoiced greatly when some of the brothers came and testified to how truly you walk in the truth. [4]Nothing gives me greater joy than to hear that my children are walking in the truth.

[5]Beloved, you are faithful in all you do for the brothers, especially for strangers; [6]they have testified to your love before the church. Please help them in a way worthy of God to continue their journey. [7]For they have set out for the sake of the Name and are accepting nothing from the pagans. [8]Therefore, we ought to support such persons, so that we may be co-workers in the truth.

[9]I wrote to the church, but Diotrephes, who loves to dominate, does not acknowledge us. [10]Therefore, if I come, I will draw attention to what he is doing, spreading evil nonsense about us. And not content with that, he will not receive the brothers, hindering those who wish to do so and expelling them from the church.

[11]Beloved, do not imitate evil but imitate good. Whoever does what is good is of God; whoever does what is evil has never seen God. [12]Demetrius receives a good report from all, even from the truth itself. We give our testimonial as well, and you know our testimony is true.

[13]I have much to write to you, but I do not wish to write with pen and ink. [14]Instead, I hope to see you soon, when we can talk face to face. [15]Peace be with you. The friends greet you; greet the friends there each by name.

☐ EZEKIEL 12-13

Acts Symbolic of the Exile. 12:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, you live in the midst of a rebellious house; they have eyes to see, but do not see, and ears to hear but do not hear. They are such a rebellious house! [3]Now, son of man, during the day while they watch, pack a bag for exile, and again while they watch, go into exile from your place to another place; perhaps they will see that they are a rebellious house. [4]During the day, while they watch, bring out your bag, an exile's bag. In the evening, again while they watch, go out as if into exile. [5]While they watch, dig a hole through the wall and go out through it. [6]While they watch, shoulder your load and go out in darkness. Cover your face so you cannot see the land, for I am making you a sign for the house of Israel!

[7]I did just as I was commanded. During the day I brought out my bag, an exile's bag. In the evening while they watched, I dug a hole through the wall with my hands and set out in darkness, shouldering my load.

[8]In the morning, the word of the LORD came to me: [9]Son of man, did not the house of Israel, that house of rebels, say, "What are you doing?" [10]Tell them: Thus says the Lord GOD: This load is the prince in Jerusalem and the whole house of Israel within it. [11]Say, I am a sign for you: just as I have done, so it shall be done to them; into exile, as captives they shall go. [12]The prince among them shall shoulder his load in darkness and go out through the hole they dug in the wall to bring him out. His face shall be covered so that he cannot even see the ground. [13]I will spread my net over him and he shall be caught in my snare. I will bring him into Babylon, to the land of the Chaldeans, though he shall not see it, and there he shall die. [14]All his retinue, his aides and all his troops, I will scatter to the winds and pursue them with the sword. [15]Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I disperse them among the nations and scatter them throughout the lands. [16]But I will let a few of them escape the sword, starvation, and plague, so that they may recount all their abominations among the nations to which they go. Thus they may know that I am the LORD.

[17]The word of the LORD came to me: [18]Son of man, eat your bread trembling and drink your water shaking with fear. [19]And say to the people of the land: Thus says the Lord GOD about the inhabitants of Jerusalem in the land of Israel: they shall eat their bread in fear and drink their water in horror, because the land will be emptied of what fills it—the lawlessness of all its inhabitants. [20]Inhabited cities shall be in ruins, the land a desolate place. Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

Prophecy Ridiculed. [21]The word of the LORD came to me: [22]Son of man, what is this proverb you have in the land of Israel: "The days drag on, and every vision fails"? [23]Say to them therefore: Thus says the Lord GOD: I will put an end to that proverb; they shall never use it again in Israel. Say to them instead: "The days are at hand and every vision fulfilled." [24]No longer shall there be any false visions or deceitful divinations within the house of Israel, [25]for whatever word I speak shall happen without delay. In your days, rebellious house, whatever I speak I will bring about—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[26]The word of the LORD came to me: [27]Son of man, listen! The house of Israel is saying, "The vision he sees is a long time off; he prophesies for distant times!" [28]Say to them therefore: Thus says the Lord GOD: None of my words shall be delayed any longer. Whatever I say is final; it shall be done—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Against the Prophets of Peace. 13:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, prophesy against the prophets of Israel, prophesy! Say to those who prophesy their own thoughts: Hear the word of the LORD! [3]Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to those prophets, the fools who follow their own spirit and see nothing. [4]Like foxes among ruins are your prophets, Israel! [5]You did not step into the breach, nor repair the wall around the house of Israel so it would stand firm against attack on the day of the LORD. [6]False visions! Lying divinations! They say, "The oracle of the LORD," even though the LORD did not send them. Then they expect their word to be confirmed! [7]Was not the vision you saw false? Did you not report a lying divination when you said, "Oracle of the LORD," even though I never spoke? [8]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because you have spoken falsehood and seen lying visions, therefore, for certain I am coming at you—oracle of the Lord GOD. [9]My hand is against the prophets who see false visions and who make lying divinations. They shall not belong to the community of my people. They shall not be written in the register of the house of Israel, nor shall they enter the land of Israel. Thus you shall know that I am the LORD.

[10]Because they led my people astray, saying, "Peace!" when there is no peace, and when a wall is built, they cover it with whitewash, [11]say then to the whitewashers: I will bring down a flooding rain; hailstones shall fall, and a stormwind shall break forth. [12]When the wall has fallen, will you not be asked: "Where is the whitewash you spread on it?"

[13]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: In my fury I will let loose stormwinds; because of my anger there will be flooding rain, and hailstones will fall with destructive wrath. [14]I will tear down the wall you whitewashed and level it to the ground, laying bare its foundations. When it falls, you shall be crushed beneath it. Thus you shall know that I am the LORD. [15]When I have poured out my fury on the wall and its whitewashers, it will fall. Then I will say to you: No wall! No whitewashers— [16]the prophets of Israel who prophesy to Jerusalem and see visions of peace for it when there is no peace—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Against Witches. [17]As for you, son of man, now set your face against the daughters of your people who play the prophet from their own thoughts, and prophesy against them. [18]You shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to those who sew amulets for the wrists of every arm and make veils for every head size to snare lives! You ensnare the lives of my people, even as you preserve your own lives! [19]You have profaned me among my people for handfuls of barley and crumbs of bread, slaying those who should not be slain, and keeping alive those who should not live, lying to my people, who listen to lies. [20]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: See! I am coming after your amulets by which you ensnare lives like prey. I will tear them from your arms and set free the lives of those you have ensnared like prey. [21]I will tear off your veils and deliver my people from your power, so that they shall never again be ensnared by your hands. Thus you shall know that I am the LORD. [22]Because you discourage the righteous with lies when I did not want them to be distressed, and encourage the wicked so they do not turn from their evil ways and save their lives, [23]therefore you shall no longer see false visions or practice divination again. I will deliver my people from your hand. Thus you shall know that I am the LORD.

1:1 Since many have undertaken to compile a narrative of the events that have been fulfilled among us, [2]just as those who were eyewitnesses from the beginning and ministers of the word have handed them down to us, [3]I too have decided, after investigating everything accurately anew, to write it down in an orderly sequence for you, most excellent Theophilus, [4]so that you may realize the certainty of the teachings you have received.

Announcement of the Birth of John. [5]In the days of Herod, King of Judea, there was a priest named Zechariah of the priestly division of Abijah; his wife was from the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elizabeth. [6]Both were righteous in the eyes of God, observing all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blamelessly. [7]But they had no child, because Elizabeth was barren and both were advanced in years. [8]Once when he was serving as priest in his division's turn before God, [9]according to the practice of the priestly service, he was chosen by lot to enter the sanctuary of the Lord to burn incense. [10]Then, when the whole assembly of the people was praying outside at the hour of the incense offering, [11]the angel of the Lord appeared to him, standing at the right of the altar of incense. [12]Zechariah was troubled by what he saw, and fear came upon him. [13]But the angel said to him, "Do not be afraid, Zechariah, because your prayer has been heard. Your wife Elizabeth will bear you a son, and you shall name him John. [14]And you will have joy and gladness, and many will rejoice at his birth, [15]for he will be great in the sight of [the] Lord. He will drink neither wine nor strong drink. He will be filled with the holy Spirit even from his mother's womb, [16]and he will turn many of the children of Israel to the Lord their God. [17]He will go before him in the spirit and power of Elijah to turn the hearts of fathers toward children and the disobedient to the understanding of the righteous, to prepare a people fit for the Lord." [18]Then Zechariah said to the angel, "How shall I know this? For I am an old man, and my wife is advanced in years." [19]And the angel said to him in reply, "I am Gabriel, who stand before God. I was sent to speak to you and to announce to you this good news. [20]But now you will be speechless and unable to talk until the day these things take place, because you did not believe my words, which will be fulfilled at their proper time."

[21]Meanwhile the people were waiting for Zechariah and were amazed that he stayed so long in the sanctuary. [22]But when he came out, he was unable to speak to them, and they realized that he had seen a vision in the sanctuary. He was gesturing to them but remained mute. [23]Then, when his days of ministry were completed, he went home. [24]After this time his wife Elizabeth conceived, and she went into seclusion for five months, saying, [25]"So has the Lord done for me at a time when he has seen fit to take away my disgrace before others."

Announcement of the Birth of Jesus. [26]In the sixth month, the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a town of Galilee called Nazareth, [27]to a virgin betrothed to a man named Joseph, of the house of David, and the virgin's name was Mary. [28]And coming to her, he said, "Hail, favored one! The Lord is with you." [29]But she was greatly troubled at what was said and pondered what sort of greeting this might be. [30]Then the angel said to her, "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. [31]Behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall name him Jesus. [32]He will be great and will be called Son of the Most High, and the Lord God will give him the throne of David his father, [33]and he will rule over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there will be no end." [34]But Mary said to the angel, "How can this be, since I have no relations with a man?" [35]And the angel said to her in reply, "The holy Spirit will come upon you, and the power of the Most High will overshadow you. Therefore the child to be born will be called holy, the Son of God. [36]And behold, Elizabeth, your relative, has also conceived a son in her old age, and this is the sixth month for her who was called barren; [37]for nothing will be impossible for God." [38]Mary said, "Behold, I am the handmaid of the Lord. May it be done to me according to your word." Then the angel departed from her.

Mary Visits Elizabeth. [39]During those days Mary set out and traveled to the hill country in haste to a town of Judah, [40]where she entered the house of Zechariah and greeted Elizabeth. [41]When Elizabeth heard Mary's greeting, the infant leaped in her womb, and Elizabeth, filled with the holy Spirit, [42]cried out in a loud voice and said, "Most blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb. [43]And how does this happen to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? [44]For at the moment the sound of your greeting reached my ears, the infant in my womb leaped for joy. [45]Blessed are you who believed that what was spoken to you by the Lord would be fulfilled."

The Canticle of Mary. [46]And Mary said:

"My soul proclaims the greatness of the Lord;
[47]my spirit rejoices in God my savior.
[48]For he has looked upon his handmaid's lowliness;
behold, from now on will all ages call me blessed.
[49]The Mighty One has done great things for me,
and holy is his name.
[50]His mercy is from age to age
to those who fear him.
[51]He has shown might with his arm,
dispersed the arrogant of mind and heart.
[52]He has thrown down the rulers from their thrones
but lifted up the lowly.
[53]The hungry he has filled with good things;
the rich he has sent away empty.
[54]He has helped Israel his servant,
remembering his mercy,
[55]according to his promise to our fathers,
to Abraham and to his descendants forever."

[56]Mary remained with her about three months and then returned to her home.

The Birth of John. [57]When the time arrived for Elizabeth to have her child she gave birth to a son. [58]Her neighbors and relatives heard that the Lord had shown his great mercy toward her, and they rejoiced with her. [59]When they came on the eighth day to circumcise the child, they were going to call him Zechariah after his father, [60]but his mother said in reply, "No. He will be called John." [61]But they answered her, "There is no one among your relatives who has this name." [62]So they made signs, asking his father what he wished him to be called. [63]He asked for a tablet and wrote, "John is his name," and all were amazed. [64]Immediately his mouth was opened, his tongue freed, and he spoke blessing God. [65]Then fear came upon all their neighbors, and all these matters were discussed throughout the hill country of Judea. [66]All who heard these things took them to heart, saying, "What, then, will this child be?" For surely the hand of the Lord was with him.

The Canticle of Zechariah. [67]Then Zechariah his father, filled with the holy Spirit, prophesied, saying:

[68]"Blessed be the Lord, the God of Israel,
for he has visited and brought redemption to his people.
[69]He has raised up a horn for our salvation
within the house of David his servant, [70]even as he promised through the mouth of his holy prophets from of old:
[71]salvation from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us, [72]to show mercy to our fathers and to be mindful of his holy covenant [73]and of the oath he swore to Abraham our father,
and to grant us that,
[74]rescued from the hand of enemies,
without fear we might worship him [75]in holiness and righteousness
before him all our days.
[76]And you, child, will be called prophet of the Most High,
for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways, [77]to give his people knowledge of salvation
through the forgiveness of their sins, [78]because of the tender mercy of our God
by which the daybreak from on high will visit us [79]to shine on those who sit in darkness and death's shadow,
to guide our feet into the path of peace."

[80]The child grew and became strong in spirit, and he was in the desert until the day of his manifestation to Israel.

☐ EZEKIEL 14-15

Idolatry and Unfaithfulness. 14:1 Some elders of Israel came and sat down before me. [2]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [3]Son of man, these men keep the memory of their idols alive in their hearts, setting the stumbling block of their sin before them. Should I allow myself to be consulted by them? [4]Therefore say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: If any of the house of Israel who keep the memory of their idols in their hearts, setting the stumbling block of their sin before them, come to a prophet, I the LORD will answer in person because of their many idols, [5]in order to catch the hearts of the house of Israel, estranged from me because of all their idols.

[6]Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord GOD: Return, turn away from your idols; from all your abominations, turn your faces. [7]For if anyone of the house of Israel or any alien residing in Israel who are estranged from me and who keep their idols in their hearts, setting the stumbling block of their sin before them, come to ask a prophet to consult me on their behalf, I the LORD will answer them in person. [8]I will set my face against them and make them a sign and a byword, and cut them off from the midst of my people. Thus you shall know that I am the LORD.

[9]As for the prophet, if he speaks a deceiving word, I the LORD am the one who deceives that prophet. I will stretch out my hand against him and destroy him from the midst of my people Israel. [10]They will be punished for their own sins, the inquirer and the prophet alike, [11]so that the house of Israel may no longer stray from me, no longer defile themselves by all their sins. Then they shall be my people, and I shall be their God—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Just Cause. [12]The word of the LORD came to me: [13]Son of man, if a land sins against me by breaking faith, and I stretch out my hand against it, breaking its staff of bread and setting famine loose upon it, cutting off from it human being and beast alike— [14]even if these three were in it, Noah, Daniel, and Job, they could only save themselves by their righteousness—oracle of the Lord GOD. [15]If I summoned wild beasts to prowl the land, depopulating it so that it became a wasteland which no one would cross because of the wild beasts, [16]and these three were in it, as I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—I swear they could save neither sons nor daughters; they alone would be saved, but the land would become a wasteland. [17]Or if I bring the sword upon this land, commanding the sword to pass through the land cutting off from it human being and beast alike, [18]and these three were in it, as I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—they could save neither sons nor daughters; they alone would be saved. [19]Or if I send plague into this land, pouring out upon it my bloody wrath, cutting off from it human being and beast alike, [20]even if Noah, Daniel, and Job were in it, as I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—they could save neither son nor daughter; they would save only themselves by their righteousness.

[21]Thus says the Lord GOD: Even though I send against Jerusalem my four evil punishments—sword, famine, wild beasts, and plague—to cut off from it human being and beast alike, [22]there will still be some survivors in it who will bring out sons and daughters. When they come out to you and you see their ways and their deeds, you shall be consoled regarding the evil I brought on Jerusalem, everything I brought upon it. [23]They shall console you when you see their ways and their deeds, and you shall know that not without reason did I do to it everything I did—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Parable of the Vine. 15:1 The word of the LORD came to me:

[2]Son of man,
what makes the wood of the vine
Better than the wood of branches
found on the trees in the forest?
[3]Can wood be taken from it
to make something useful?
Can someone make even a peg out of it
on which to hang a vessel?
[4]Of course not! If it is fed to the fire for fuel, and the fire devours both ends of it,
Leaving the middle charred,
is it useful for anything then?
[5]Even when it is whole
it cannot be used for anything;

So when fire has devoured and charred it,
how useful can it be?
[6]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD:
Like vine wood among forest trees,
which I have given as fuel for fire,
So I will give the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
[7]I will set my face against them:
Although they have escaped the fire,
the fire will still devour them;
You shall know that I am the LORD,
when I set my face against them.
[8]Yes, I will make the land desolate, because they are so unfaithful—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

☐ LUKE 2

The Birth of Jesus. 2:1 In those days a decree went out from Caesar Augustus that the whole world should be enrolled. [2]This was the first enrollment, when Quirinius was governor of Syria. [3]So all went to be enrolled, each to his own town. [4]And Joseph too went up from Galilee from the town of Nazareth to Judea, to the city of David that is called Bethlehem, because he was of the house and family of David, [5]to be enrolled with Mary, his betrothed, who was with child. [6]While they were there, the time came for her to have her child, [7]and she gave birth to her firstborn son. She wrapped him in swaddling clothes and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

[8]Now there were shepherds in that region living in the fields and keeping the night watch over their flock. [9]The angel of the Lord appeared to them and the glory of the Lord shone around them, and they were struck with great fear. [10]The angel said to them, "Do not be afraid; for behold, I proclaim to you good news of great joy that will be for all the people. [11]For today in the city of David a savior has been born for you who is Messiah and Lord. [12]And this will be a sign for you: you will find an infant wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger." [13]And suddenly there was a multitude of the heavenly host with the angel, praising God and saying:

[14]"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace to those on whom his favor rests."

The Visit of the Shepherds. [15]When the angels went away from them to heaven, the shepherds said to one another, "Let us go, then, to Bethlehem to see this thing that has taken place, which the Lord has made known to us." [16]So they went in haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the infant lying in the manger. [17]When they saw this, they made known the message that had been told them about this child. [18]All who heard it were amazed by what had been told them by the shepherds. [19]And Mary kept all these things, reflecting on them in her heart. [20]Then the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all they had heard and seen, just as it had been told to them.

The Circumcision and Naming of Jesus. [21]When eight days were completed for his circumcision, he was named Jesus, the name given him by the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

The Presentation in the Temple. [22]When the days were completed for their purification according to the law of Moses, they took him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord, [23]just as it is written in the law of the Lord, "Every male that opens the womb shall be consecrated to the Lord," [24]and to offer the sacrifice of "a pair of turtledoves or two young pigeons," in accordance with the dictate in the law of the Lord.

[25]Now there was a man in Jerusalem whose name was Simeon. This man was righteous and devout, awaiting the consolation of Israel, and the holy Spirit was upon him. [26]It had been revealed to him by the holy Spirit that he should not see death before he had seen the Messiah of the Lord. [27]He came in the Spirit into the temple; and when the parents brought in the child Jesus to perform the custom of the law in regard to him, [28]he took him into his arms and blessed God, saying:

29 "Now, Master, you may let your servant go in peace, according to your word, 30 for my eyes have seen your salvation,
31 which you prepared in sight of all the peoples, 32 a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and glory for your people Israel."

33 The child's father and mother were amazed at what was said about him; 34 and Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, "Behold, this child is destined for the fall and rise of many in Israel, and to be a sign that will be contradicted 35 (and you yourself a sword will pierce) so that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed." 36 There was also a prophetess, Anna, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher. She was advanced in years, having lived seven years with her husband after her marriage, 37 and then as a widow until she was eighty-four. She never left the temple, but worshiped night and day with fasting and prayer. 38 And coming forward at that very time, she gave thanks to God and spoke about the child to all who were awaiting the redemption of Jerusalem.

The Return to Nazareth. 39 When they had fulfilled all the prescriptions of the law of the Lord, they returned to Galilee, to their own town of Nazareth. 40 The child grew and became strong, filled with wisdom; and the favor of God was upon him.

The Boy Jesus in the Temple. 41 Each year his parents went to Jerusalem for the feast of Passover, 42 and when he was twelve years old, they went up according to festival custom. 43 After they had completed its days, as they were returning, the boy Jesus remained behind in Jerusalem, but his parents did not know it. 44 Thinking that he was in the caravan, they journeyed for a day and looked for him among their relatives and acquaintances, 45 but not finding him, they returned to Jerusalem to look for him. 46 After three days they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, listening to them and asking them questions, 47 and all who heard him were astounded at his understanding and his answers. 48 When his parents saw him, they were astonished, and his mother said to him, "Son, why have you done this to us? Your father and I have been looking for you with great anxiety." 49 And he said to them, "Why were you looking for me? Did you not know that I must be in my Father's house?" 50 But they did not understand what he said to them. 51 He went down with them and came to Nazareth, and was obedient to them; and his mother kept all these things in her heart. 52 And Jesus advanced [in] wisdom and age and favor before God and man.

St. Josaphat

Where sin was hatched, let tears now wash the nest.

— St. Robert Southwell

☐ EZEKIEL 16-17

A Parable of Infidelity. 16:1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 Son of man, make known to Jerusalem her abominations. 3 You shall say, Thus says the Lord GOD to Jerusalem: By origin and birth you belong to the land of the Canaanites; your father was an Amorite, your mother a Hittite. 4 As for your birth, on the day you were born your navel cord was not cut; you were not washed with water or anointed; you were not rubbed with salt or wrapped in swaddling clothes. 5 No eye looked on you with pity or compassion to do any of these things for you. Rather, on the day you were born you were left out in the field, rejected.

6 Then I passed by and saw you struggling in your blood, and I said to you in your blood, "Live!" 7 I helped you grow up like a field plant, so that you grew, maturing into a woman with breasts developed and hair grown; but still you were stark naked. 8 I passed by you again and saw that you were now old enough for love. So I spread the corner of my cloak over you to cover your nakedness; I swore an oath to you and entered into covenant with you—oracle of the Lord GOD—and you became mine. 9 Then I bathed you with water, washed away your blood, and anointed you with oil. [10]I clothed you with an embroidered gown, put leather sandals on your feet; I gave you a fine linen sash and silk robes to wear. [11]I adorned you with jewelry, putting bracelets on your arms, a necklace about your neck, [12]a ring in your nose, earrings in your ears, and a beautiful crown on your head. [13]Thus you were adorned with gold and silver; your garments made of fine linen, silk, and embroidered cloth. Fine flour, honey, and olive oil were your food. You were very, very beautiful, fit for royalty. [14]You were renowned among the nations for your beauty, perfected by the splendor I showered on you—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[15]But you trusted in your own beauty and used your renown to serve as a prostitute. You poured out your prostitution on every passerby—let it be his. [16]You took some of your garments and made for yourself gaudy high places, where you served as a prostitute. It has never happened before, nor will it happen again! [17]You took the splendid gold and silver ornaments that I had given you and made for yourself male images and served as a prostitute with them. [18]You took your embroidered garments to cover them; my oil and my incense you set before them; [19]the food
I had given you, the fine flour, the oil, and the honey with which I fed you, you set before them as a pleasant odor, says the Lord GOD. [20]The sons and daughters you bore for me you took and offered as sacrifices for them to devour! Was it not enough that you had become a prostitute? [21]You slaughtered and immolated my children to them, making them pass through fire. [22]In all your abominations and prostitutions you did not remember the days of your youth when you were stark naked, struggling in your blood.

[23]Then after all your evildoing—woe, woe to you! oracle of the Lord GOD— [24]you built yourself a platform and raised up a dais in every public place. [25]At every intersection you built yourself a dais so that you could degrade your beauty by spreading your legs for every passerby, multiplying your prostitutions. [26]You served as a prostitute with the Egyptians, your big-membered neighbors, and multiplied your prostitutions to provoke me. [27]Therefore I stretched out my hand against you and reduced your allotment, and delivered you over to the whim of your enemies, the Philistines, who were revolted by your depraved conduct. [28]You also served as a prostitute for the Assyrians, because you were not satisfied. Even after serving as a prostitute for them, you were still not satisfied. [29]You increased your prostitutions again, now going to Chaldea, the land of traders; but despite this, you were still not satisfied.

[30]How wild your lust!—oracle of the Lord GOD—that you did all these works of a shameless prostitute, [31]when you built your platform at every intersection and set up your high place in every public square. But unlike a prostitute, you disdained payment. [32]Adulterous wife, taking strangers in place of her husband! [33]Prostitutes usually receive gifts. But you bestowed gifts on all your lovers, bribing them to come to you for prostitution from every side. [34]Thus in your prostitution you were different from any other woman. No one solicited you for prostitution. Instead, you yourself offered payment; what a reversal!

[35]Therefore, prostitute, hear the word of the LORD! [36]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because you poured out your lust and exposed your nakedness in your prostitution with your lovers and your abominable idols, because you gave the life-blood of your children to them, [37]therefore, I will now gather together all your lovers with whom you found pleasure, both those you loved and those you hated; I will gather them against you from all sides and expose you naked for them to see. [38]I will inflict on you the sentence of adultery and murder; I will bring on you bloody wrath and jealous anger. [39]I will hand you over to them to tear down your platform and demolish your high place, to strip you of your garments and take away your splendid ornaments, leaving you stark naked. [40]They shall lead an assembly against you to stone you and hack you to pieces with their swords. [41]They shall set fire to your homes and inflict punishments on you while many women watch. Thus I will put an end to your prostitution, and you shall never again offer payment. [42]When I have spent my fury upon you I will stop being jealous about you, and calm down, no longer angry. [43]Because you did not remember the days of your youth but enraged me with all these things, see, I am bringing down your ways upon your head—oracle of the Lord GOD. Have you not added depravity to your other abominations?

[44]See, everyone who makes proverbs will make this proverb about you, "Like mother, like daughter." [45]Yes, you are truly the daughter of your mother who rejected her husband and children: you are truly a sister to your sisters who rejected their husbands and children—your mother was a Hittite and your father an Amorite. [46]Your elder sister was Samaria with her daughters to the north of you; and your younger sister was Sodom and her daughters, south of you.
[47]Not only did you walk in their ways and act as abominably as they did, but in a very short time you became more corrupt in all your ways than they were. [48]As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—I swear that your sister Sodom with her daughters have not done the things you and your daughters have done! [49]Now look at the guilt of your sister Sodom:
she and her daughters were proud, sated with food, complacent in prosperity. They did not give any help to the poor and needy. [50]Instead, they became arrogant and committed abominations before me; then, as you have seen, I removed them. [51]Samaria did not commit half the sins you did. You have done more abominable things than they did. You even made your sisters look righteous, with all the abominations you have done. [52]You, then, must bear your disgrace, for you have made a case for your sisters! Because your sins are more abominable than theirs, they seem righteous compared to you. Blush for shame, and bear the disgrace of having made your sisters appear righteous.

[53]I will restore their fortunes, the fortunes of Sodom and her daughters, the fortunes of Samaria and her daughters—and your fortunes along with them. [54]Thus you must bear your disgrace and be ashamed of all you have done to bring them comfort. [55]Yes, your sisters, Sodom and her daughters, Samaria and her daughters, shall return to the way they were, and you and your daughters shall return to the way you were. [56]Did you not hold your sister Sodom in bad repute while you felt proud of yourself, [57]before your evil was exposed? Now you are like her, reproached by the Arameans and all their neighbors, despised on all sides by the Philistines. [58]The penalty of your depravity and your abominations—you must bear it all—oracle of the LORD.

[59]For thus says the Lord GOD: I will deal with you for what you did; you despised an oath by breaking a covenant. [60]But I will remember the covenant I made with you when you were young; I will set up an everlasting covenant with you. [61]Then you shall remember your ways and be ashamed when you receive your sisters, those older and younger than you; I give them to you as daughters, but not by reason of your covenant. [62]For I will re-establish my covenant with you, that you may know that I am the LORD, [63]that you may remember and be ashamed, and never again open your mouth because of your disgrace, when I pardon you for all you have done—oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Eagles and the Vine. 17:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, propose a riddle, and tell this proverb to the house of Israel: [3]Thus says the Lord GOD:

The great eagle, with wide wingspan
and long feathers, with thick plumage,
many-hued, came to Lebanon.
He plucked the crest of the cedar,
[4]broke off its topmost branch,
And brought it to a land of merchants,
set it in a city of traders.
[5]Then he took some native seed
and planted it in fertile soil;
A shoot beside plentiful waters,
like a willow he planted it,
[6]That it might sprout and become a vine,
dense and low-lying,
With its branches turned toward him,
its roots beneath it.
Thus it became a vine, produced branches,
and put forth shoots.
[7]Then another great eagle appeared,
with wide wingspan, rich in plumage,
And see! This vine bent its roots to him,
sent out branches for him to water.
From the bed where it was planted,
[8]it was transplanted to a fertile field
By abundant waters, to produce branches,
to bear fruit, to become a majestic vine.
[9]Say: Thus says the Lord GOD: Can it thrive?
Will he not tear up its roots
and strip its fruit?

Then all its green leaves will wither—
neither strong arm nor mighty nation is needed to uproot it.
10 True, it is planted; but will it thrive?
Will it not wither up
When the east wind strikes it,
wither in the very bed where it sprouted?

11 The word of the LORD came to me:

12 Now say to the rebellious house:
Do you not understand this? Tell them!
The king of Babylon came to Jerusalem and took away its king and officials and brought them to him in Babylon.
13 After removing the nobles from the land,
he then took one of the royal line
And made a covenant with him,
binding him under oath,
14 To be a humble kingdom,
without high aspirations,
to keep his covenant and so survive.
15 But this one rebelled against him
by sending envoys to Egypt
To obtain horses and a mighty army.
Can he thrive?
Can he escape if he does this?
Can he break a covenant and go free?
16 As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—
in the house of the king who set him up to rule, Whose oath he ignored and whose covenant he broke,
there in Babylon I swear he shall die!
17 Pharaoh shall not help him on the day of battle,
with a great force and mighty horde,
When ramps are thrown up and siege works built for the cutting down of many lives.
18 He ignored his oath, breaking his covenant;
even though he gave his hand, he did all these things—
he shall not escape!
19 Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD:
As I live, my oath which he spurned,
And my covenant which he broke,
I will bring down on his head.
20 I will spread my net over him,
and he will be caught in my snare.
I will bring him to Babylon to judge him there
because he broke faith with me.
21 Any among his forces who escape
will fall by the sword,

And whoever might survive
will be scattered to the winds.
Thus you will know that I the LORD have spoken.
22Thus says the Lord GOD:
I, too, will pluck from the crest of the cedar
the highest branch.
From the top a tender shoot
I will break off and transplant
on a high, lofty mountain.
23On the mountain height of Israel
I will plant it.
It shall put forth branches and bear fruit,
and become a majestic cedar.
Every small bird will nest under it,
all kinds of winged birds will dwell
in the shade of its branches.
24Every tree of the field will know that I am the LORD.
I bring low the high tree,
lift high the lowly tree, Wither up the green tree,
and make the dry tree bloom.
As I, the LORD, have spoken, so will I do!

☐ LUKE 3

The Preaching of John the Baptist. 3:1 In the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Caesar, when Pontius Pilate was governor of Judea, and Herod was tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of the region of Ituraea and Trachonitis, and Lysanias was tetrarch of Abilene, 2during the high priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas, the word of God came to John the son of Zechariah in the desert. 3He went throughout [the] whole region of the Jordan, proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins, 4as it is written in the book of the words of the prophet Isaiah:

"A voice of one crying out in the desert:
'Prepare the way of the Lord,
make straight his paths.
5Every valley shall be filled
and every mountain and hill shall be made low.
The winding roads shall be made straight,
and the rough ways made smooth,
6and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.' "

7He said to the crowds who came out to be baptized by him, "You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the coming wrath? 8Produce good fruits as evidence of your repentance; and do not begin to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father,' for I tell you, God can raise up children to Abraham from these stones. 9Even now the ax lies at the root of the trees. Therefore every tree that does not produce good fruit will be cut down and thrown into the fire."

10And the crowds asked him, "What then should we do?" 11He said to them in reply, "Whoever has two tunics should share with the person who has none. And whoever has food should do likewise." 12Even tax collectors came to be baptized and they said to him, "Teacher, what should we do?" 13He answered them, "Stop collecting more than what is prescribed." 14Soldiers also asked him, "And what is it that we should do?" He told them, "Do not practice extortion, do not falsely accuse anyone, and be satisfied with your wages."

[15]Now the people were filled with expectation, and all were asking in their hearts whether John might be the Messiah. [16]John answered them all, saying, "I am baptizing you with water, but one mightier than I is coming. I am not worthy to loosen the thongs of his sandals. He will baptize you with the holy Spirit and fire. [17]His winnowing fan is in his hand to clear his threshing floor and to gather the wheat into his barn, but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire." [18]Exhorting them in many other ways, he preached good news to the people. [19]Now Herod the tetrarch, who had been censured by him because of Herodias, his brother's wife, and because of all the evil deeds Herod had committed, [20]added still another to these by [also] putting John in prison.

The Baptism of Jesus. [21]After all the people had been baptized and Jesus also had been baptized and was praying, heaven was opened [22]and the holy Spirit descended upon him in bodily form like a dove. And a voice came from heaven, "You are my beloved Son; with you I am well pleased."

The Genealogy of Jesus. [23]When Jesus began his ministry he was about thirty years of age. He was the son, as was thought, of Joseph, the son of Heli, [24]the son of Matthat, the son of Levi, the son of Melchi, the son of Jannai, the son of Joseph, [25]the son of Mattathias, the son of Amos, the son of Nahum, the son of Esli, the son of Naggai, [26]the son of Maath, the son of Mattathias, the son of Semein, the son of Josech, the son of Joda, [27]the son of Joanan, the son of Rhesa, the son of Zerubbabel, the son of Shealtiel, the son of Neri, [28]the son of Melchi, the son of Addi, the son of Cosam, the son of Elmadam, the son of Er, [29]the son of Joshua, the son of Eliezer, the son of Jorim, the son of Matthat, the son of Levi, [30]the son of Simeon, the son of Judah, the son of Joseph, the son of Jonam, the son of Eliakim, [31]the son of Melea, the son of Menna, the son of Mattatha, the son of Nathan, the son of David, [32]the son of Jesse, the son of Obed, the son of Boaz, the son of Sala, the son of Nahshon, [33]the son of Amminadab, the son of Admin, the son of Arni, the son of Hezron, the son of Perez, the son of Judah, [34]the son of Jacob, the son of Isaac, the son of Abraham, the son of Terah, the son of Nahor, [35]the son of Serug, the son of Reu, the son of Peleg, the son of Eber, the son of Shelah, [36]the son of Cainan, the son of Arphaxad, the son of Shem, the son of Noah, the son of Lamech, [37]the son of Methuselah, the son of Enoch, the son of Jared, the son of Mahalaleel, the son of Cainan, [38]the son of Enos, the son of Seth, the son of Adam, the son of God.

Personal Responsibility. 18:1 The word of the LORD came to me: Son of man, [2]what is the meaning of this proverb you recite in the land of Israel:

"Parents eat sour grapes,
but the children's teeth are set on edge"?

[3]As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD: I swear that none of you will ever repeat this proverb in Israel. [4]For all life is mine: the life of the parent is like the life of the child, both are mine. Only the one who sins shall die!

[5]If a man is just—if he does what is right, [6]if he does not eat on the mountains, or raise his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel; if he does not defile a neighbor's wife, or have relations with a woman during her period; [7]if he oppresses no one, gives back the pledge received for a debt, commits no robbery; gives food to the hungry and clothes the naked; [8]if he does not lend at interest or exact usury; if he refrains from evildoing and makes a fair judgment between two opponents; [9]if he walks by my statutes and is careful to observe my ordinances, that man is just—he shall surely live —oracle of the Lord GOD.

[10]But if he begets a son who is violent and commits murder, or does any of these things, [11]even though the father does none of them—a son who eats on the mountains, defiles the wife of his neighbor, [12]oppresses the poor and needy, commits robbery, does not give back a pledge, raises his eyes to idols, does abominable things, [13]lends at interest and exacts usury—this son certainly shall not live. Because he practiced all these abominations, he shall surely be put to death; his own blood shall be on him.

[14]But, in turn, if he begets a son who sees all the sins his father commits, yet fears and does not imitate him— [15]a son who does not eat on the mountains, or raise his eyes to the idols of the house of Israel, or defile a neighbor's wife; [16]who does not oppress anyone, or exact a pledge, or commit robbery; who gives his food to the hungry and clothes the naked; [17]who refrains from evildoing, accepts no interest or usury, but keeps my ordinances and walks in my statutes—this one shall not die for the sins of his father. He shall surely live! [18]Only the father, since he committed extortion and robbed his brother, and did what was not good among his people—he will die because of his sin! [19]You ask: "Why is not the son charged with the guilt of his father?" Because the son has done what is just and right and has been careful to observe all my statutes—he shall surely live! [20]Only the one who sins shall die. The son shall not be charged with the guilt of his father, nor shall the father be charged with the guilt of his son. Justice belongs to the just, and wickedness to the wicked.

[21]But if the wicked man turns away from all the sins he has committed, if he keeps all my statutes and does what is just and right, he shall surely live. He shall not die! [22]None of the crimes he has committed shall be remembered against him; he shall live because of the justice he has shown. [23]Do I find pleasure in the death of the wicked—oracle of the Lord GOD? Do I not rejoice when they turn from their evil way and live?

[24]And if the just turn from justice and do evil, like all the abominations the wicked do, can they do this evil and still live? None of the justice they did shall be remembered, because they acted treacherously and committed these sins; because of this, they shall die. [25]You say, "The LORD's way is not fair!" Hear now, house of Israel: Is it my way that is unfair? Are not your ways unfair? [26]When the just turn away from justice to do evil and die, on account of the evil they did they must die. [27]But if the wicked turn from the wickedness they did and do what is right and just, they save their lives; [28]since they turned away from all the sins they committed, they shall live; they shall not die. [29]But the house of Israel says, "The Lord's way is not fair!" Is it my way that is not fair, house of Israel? Is it not your ways that are not fair?

[30]Therefore I will judge you, house of Israel, all of you according to your ways—oracle of the Lord GOD. Turn, turn back from all your crimes, that they may not be a cause of sin for you ever again. [31]Cast away from you all the crimes you have committed, and make for yourselves a new heart and a new spirit. Why should you die, house of Israel? [32]For I find no pleasure in the death of anyone who dies—oracle of the Lord GOD. Turn back and live!

Allegory of the Lions. 19:1 As for you, raise a lamentation over the princes of Israel, [2]and say:

What a lioness was your mother,
  a lion among lions!
She made her lair among young lions,
  to raise her cubs;
[3]One cub she raised up,
  a young lion he became;
He learned to tear apart prey,
  he devoured people.
[4]Nations heard about him;
  in their pit he was caught;
They took him away with hooks
  to the land of Egypt.
[5]When she realized she had waited in vain,
  she lost hope.
She took another of her cubs,
  and made him a young lion.

[6]He prowled among the lions,
became a young lion;
He learned to tear apart prey,
he devoured people.
[7]He ravaged their strongholds,
laid waste their cities.
The earth and everything in it were terrified
at the sound of his roar.
[8]Nations laid out against him
snares all around;
They spread their net for him,
in their pit he was caught.
[9]They put him in fetters and took him away
to the king of Babylon,
So his roar would no longer be heard on the mountains of Israel.

Allegory of the Vine Branch. [10]Your mother was like a leafy vine planted by water, Fruitful and full of branches
because of abundant water.
[11]One strong branch grew into a royal scepter.
So tall it towered among the clouds,
conspicuous in height,
with dense foliage.
[12]But she was torn out in fury
and flung to the ground;
The east wind withered her up,
her fruit was plucked away;
Her strongest branch dried up,
fire devoured it.
[13]Now she is planted in a wilderness,
in a dry, parched land.
[14]Fire flashed from her branch,
and devoured her shoots;
Now she does not have a strong branch,
a royal scepter!

This is a lamentation and serves as a lamentation.

The Temptation of Jesus. 4:1 Filled with the holy Spirit, Jesus returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit into the desert [2]for forty days, to be tempted by the devil. He ate nothing during those days, and when they were over he was hungry. [3]The devil said to him, "If you are the Son of God, command this stone to become bread." [4]Jesus answered him, "It is written, 'One does not live by bread alone.' " [5]Then he took him up and showed him all the kingdoms of the world in a single instant. [6]The devil said to him, "I shall give to you all this power and their glory; for it has been handed over to me, and I may give it to whomever I wish. [7]All this will be yours, if you worship me." [8]Jesus said to him in reply, "It is written:

'You shall worship the Lord, your God,
and him alone shall you serve.' "

9Then he led him to Jerusalem, made him stand on the parapet of the temple, and said to him, "If you are the Son of God, throw yourself down from here, 10for it is written:

'He will command his angels concerning you,
to guard you,'

11and:

'With their hands they will support you,
lest you dash your foot against a stone.' "

12Jesus said to him in reply, "It also says, 'You shall not put the Lord, your God, to the test.' " 13When the devil had finished every temptation, he departed from him for a time.

The Beginning of the Galilean Ministry. 14Jesus returned to Galilee in the power of the Spirit, and news of him spread throughout the whole region. 15He taught in their synagogues and was praised by all.

The Rejection at Nazareth. 16He came to Nazareth, where he had grown up, and went according to his custom into the synagogue on the sabbath day. He stood up to read 17and was handed a scroll of the prophet Isaiah. He unrolled the scroll and found the passage where it was written:

18"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me
to bring glad tidings to the poor.
He has sent me to proclaim liberty to captives
and recovery of sight to the blind,
to let the oppressed go free,
19and to proclaim a year acceptable to the Lord."

20Rolling up the scroll, he handed it back to the attendant and sat down, and the eyes of all in the synagogue looked intently at him. 21He said to them, "Today this scripture passage is fulfilled in your hearing." 22And all spoke highly of him and were amazed at the gracious words that came from his mouth. They also asked, "Isn't this the son of Joseph?" 23He said to them, "Surely you will quote me this proverb, 'Physician, cure yourself,' and say, 'Do here in your native place the things that we heard were done in Capernaum.' " 24And he said, "Amen, I say to you, no prophet is accepted in his own native place. 25Indeed, I tell you, there were many widows in Israel in the days of Elijah when the sky was closed for three and a half years and a severe famine spread over the entire land. 26It was to none of these that Elijah was sent, but only to a widow in Zarephath in the land of Sidon. 27Again, there were many lepers in Israel during the time of Elisha the prophet; yet not one of them was cleansed, but only Naaman the Syrian." 28When the people in the synagogue heard this, they were all filled with fury. 29They rose up, drove him out of the town, and led him to the brow of the hill on which their town had been built, to hurl him down headlong. 30But he passed through the midst of them and went away.

The Cure of a Demoniac. 31Jesus then went down to Capernaum, a town of Galilee. He taught them on the sabbath, 32and they were astonished at his teaching because he spoke with authority. 33In the synagogue there was a man with the spirit of an unclean demon, and he cried out in a loud voice, 34"Ha! What have you to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are—the Holy One of God!" 35Jesus rebuked him and said, "Be quiet! Come out of him!" Then the demon threw the man down in front of them and came out of him without doing him any harm. 36They were all amazed and said to one another, "What is there about his word? For with authority and power he commands the unclean spirits, and they come out." 37And news of him spread everywhere in the surrounding region.

The Cure of Simon's Mother-in-Law. [38]After he left the synagogue, he entered the house of Simon. Simon's mother-in-law was afflicted with a severe fever, and they interceded with him about her. [39]He stood over her, rebuked the fever, and it left her. She got up immediately and waited on them.

Other Healings. [40]At sunset, all who had people sick with various diseases brought them to him. He laid his hands on each of them and cured them. [41]And demons also came out from many, shouting, "You are the Son of God." But he rebuked them and did not allow them to speak because they knew that he was the Messiah.

Jesus Leaves Capernaum. [42]At daybreak, Jesus left and went to a deserted place. The crowds went looking for him, and when they came to him, they tried to prevent him from leaving them. [43]But he said to them, "To the other towns also I must proclaim the good news of the kingdom of God, because for this purpose I have been sent." [44]And he was preaching in the synagogues of Judea.

☐ EZEKIEL 20-21

Israel's History of Infidelity. 20:1 In the seventh year, on the tenth day of the fifth month, some of the elders of Israel came to consult the LORD and sat down before me. [2]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [3]Son of man, speak to the elders of Israel and say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: Have you come to consult me? As I live, I will not allow myself to be consulted by you!—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[4]Will you judge them? Will you judge, son of man? Tell them about the abominations of their ancestors, [5]and say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: The day I chose Israel, I swore to the descendants of the house of Jacob; I revealed myself to them in the land of Egypt and swore to them, saying: I am the LORD, your God. [6]That day I swore to bring them out of the land of Egypt to the land I had searched out for them, a land flowing with milk and honey, a jewel among all lands. [7]Then I said to them: Throw away, each of you, the detestable things that held your eyes; do not defile yourselves with the idols of Egypt: I am the LORD, your God.

[8]But they rebelled and refused to listen to me; none of them threw away the detestable things that held their eyes, nor did they abandon the idols of Egypt. Then I considered pouring out my fury and spending my anger against them there in the land of Egypt. [9]I acted for the sake of my name, that it should not be desecrated in the eyes of the nations among whom they were: in the eyes of the nations I had made myself known to them, to bring them out of the land of Egypt. [10]Therefore I led them out of the land of Egypt and brought them into the wilderness. [11]Then I gave them my statutes and made known to them my ordinances, so that everyone who keeps them has life through them. [12]I also gave them my sabbaths to be a sign between me and them, to show that it is I, the LORD, who makes them holy.

[13]But the house of Israel rebelled against me in the wilderness. They did not observe my statutes, and they rejected my ordinances that bring life to those who keep them. My sabbaths, too, they desecrated grievously. Then I considered pouring out my fury on them in the wilderness to put an end to them, [14]but I acted for the sake of my name, so it would not be desecrated in the eyes of the nations in whose sight I had brought them out. [15]Nevertheless in the wilderness I swore to them that I would not bring them into the land I had given them—a land flowing with milk and honey, a jewel among all the lands. [16]Their hearts followed after their idols so closely that they did not live by my statutes, but rejected my ordinances and desecrated my sabbaths. [17]But I looked on them with pity, not wanting to destroy them, so I did not put an end to them in the wilderness.

[18]Then I said to their children in the wilderness: Do not follow the statutes of your parents. Do not keep their ordinances. Do not defile yourselves with their idols. [19]I am the LORD, your God: follow my statutes and be careful to observe my ordinances; [20]keep holy my sabbaths as a sign between me and you so that you may know that I am the LORD, your God. [21]But their children rebelled against me: they did not follow my statutes or keep my ordinances that bring life to those who observe them; my sabbaths they desecrated. Then I considered pouring out my fury on them, spending my anger against them in the wilderness; [22]but I stayed my hand, acting for the sake of my name, lest it be desecrated in the eyes of the nations, in whose sight I had brought them out. [23]Nevertheless I swore to them in the wilderness that I would disperse them among the nations and scatter them in other lands, [24]because they did not carry out my ordinances, but rejected my statutes and desecrated my sabbaths, having eyes only for the idols of their ancestors. [25]Therefore I gave them statutes that were not good, and ordinances through which they could not have life. [26]I let them become defiled by their offerings, by having them make a fiery offering of every womb's firstborn, in order to ruin them so they might know that I am the LORD.

[27]Therefore speak to the house of Israel, son of man, and tell them: Thus says the Lord GOD: In this way also your ancestors blasphemed me, breaking faith with me. [28]When I brought them to the land I had sworn to give them, and they saw all its high hills and leafy trees, there they offered sacrifices, there they made offerings to provoke me, there they sent up sweet-smelling oblations, there they poured out their libations. [29]So I said to them, "What is this high place to which you go?" Thus its name became "high place" even to this day. [30]Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord GOD: Will you defile yourselves in the way your ancestors did? Will you lust after their detestable idols? [31]By offering your gifts, by making your children pass through the fire, you defile yourselves with all your idols even to this day. Shall I let myself be consulted by you, house of Israel? As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—I swear I will not let myself be consulted by you!

[32]What has entered your mind shall never happen: You are thinking, "We shall be like the nations, like the peoples of foreign lands, serving wood and stone." [33]As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—with mighty hand and outstretched arm, with wrath poured out, I swear I will be king over you! [34]With mighty hand and outstretched arm, with wrath poured out, I will bring you out from the nations and gather you from the countries over which you are scattered; [35]I will lead you to the wilderness of the peoples and enter into judgment with you face to face. [36]Just as I entered into judgment with your ancestors in the wilderness of the land of Egypt, so will I enter into judgment with you—oracle of the Lord GOD. [37]Thus I will make you pass under the staff and will impose on you the terms of the covenant. [38]I will sort out from you those who defied me and rebelled against me; from the land where they resided as aliens I will bring them out, but they shall not return to the land of Israel. Thus you shall know that I am the LORD.

[39]As for you, house of Israel, thus says the Lord GOD: Go! each of you, and worship your idols. Listen to me! You shall never again desecrate my holy name with your offerings and your idols! [40]For on my holy mountain, on the highest mountain in Israel—oracle of the Lord GOD—there the whole house of Israel shall worship me; there in the land I will accept them all, there I will claim your tributes, the best of your offerings, from all your holy things. [41]As a sweet-smelling oblation I will accept you, when I bring you from among the nations and gather you out of the lands over which you were scattered; and through you I will manifest my holiness in the sight of the nations. [42]Thus you shall know that I am the LORD, when I bring you back to the soil of Israel, the land I swore to give your ancestors. [43]There you shall remember your ways, all the deeds by which you defiled yourselves; and you shall loathe yourselves because of all the evil you did. [44]And you shall know that I am the LORD when I deal with you thus, for the sake of my name, not according to your evil ways and wanton deeds, house of Israel—oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Sword of the Lord. 21:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, turn your face to the south: preach against the south, prophesy against the forest land in the south. [3]Say to the forest in the south: Hear the word of the LORD! Thus says the Lord GOD: See! I am kindling a fire in you that shall devour every green tree as well as every dry tree. The blazing flame shall not be quenched so that from south to north every face shall be scorched by it. [4]All flesh shall see that I, the LORD, have kindled it; it shall not be quenched.

[5]But I said, "Ah! Lord GOD, they are saying about me, 'Is not this the one who is forever spinning parables?' " [6]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [7]Son of man, turn your face toward Jerusalem: preach against its sanctuary, prophesy against the land of Israel. [8]Say to the land of Israel: Thus says the LORD: See! I am coming against you; I will draw my sword from its scabbard and cut off from you the righteous and the wicked. [9]Thus my sword shall come out from its scabbard against all flesh from south to north [10]and all flesh shall know that I, the LORD, have drawn my sword from its scabbard. It cannot return again.

Act Symbolic of the City's Fall. [11]As for you, son of man, groan! with shattered loins and bitter grief, groan in their sight. [12]When they ask you, "Why are you groaning?" you shall say: Because of what I heard! When it comes every heart shall melt, every hand fall helpless; every spirit will grow faint, and every knee run with water. See, it is coming, it is here!—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Song of the Sword. [13]The word of the LORD came to me: [14]Son of man, prophesy! say: Thus says the LORD:

A sword, a sword has been sharpened,
a sword, a sword has been burnished:
[15]Sharpened to make a slaughter,
burnished to flash lightning!
Why should I stop now?
You have rejected the rod and every judgment!
[16]I have given it over to the burnisher
that he might hold it in his hand,
A sword sharpened and burnished
to be put in the hands of an executioner.
[17]Cry out and howl, son of man,
for it is destined for my people,
For all the princes of Israel,
victims of the sword with my people.
Therefore, slap your thigh,
[18]for it is tested, and why not?
Since you rejected my staff,
should it not happen?—
oracle of the Lord GOD.
[19]As for you, son of man, prophesy,
and clap your hands!
Let the sword strike twice, a third time.
It is a sword of slaughter,
A sword for slaughtering,
whirling around them all,
[20]That every heart may tremble;
for many will be made to stumble.
At all their gates
I have stationed the sword for slaughter,
Made it flash lightning,
drawn for slaughter.
[21]Slash to the right!
turn to the left,
Wherever your edge is directed!
[22]Then I, too, shall clap my hands,
and spend my fury.
I, the LORD, have spoken.

Nebuchadnezzar at the Crossroads. [23]The word of the LORD came to me: [24]Son of man, make for yourself two roads over which the sword of the king of Babylon can come. Both roads shall start out from the same land. Then put a signpost at the head of each road [25]so the sword can come to Rabbah of the Ammonites or to Judah and its fortress, Jerusalem. [26]For the king of Babylon is standing at the fork of the two roads to read the omens: he shakes out the arrows, inquires of the teraphim, inspects the liver. [27]Into his right hand has fallen the lot marked "Jerusalem": to order the slaughter, to raise the battle cry, to set the battering rams against the gates, to throw up a ramp, to build siege works. [28]In the eyes of those bound by oath this seems like a false omen; yet the lot taken in hand exposes the wickedness for which they, still bound by oath, will be taken in hand.

[29]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because your guilt has been exposed, your crimes laid bare, your sinfulness revealed in all your deeds—because you have been exposed, you shall be taken in hand. [30]And as for you, depraved and wicked prince of Israel, a day is coming to end your life of crime. [31]Thus says the Lord GOD: Off with the turban and away with the crown! Nothing shall be as it was! Exalt the lowly and bring the exalted low! [32]A ruin, a ruin, a ruin, I shall make it! Nothing will be the same until the one comes to whom I have given it for judgment.

To the Ammonites. [33]As for you, son of man, prophesy: Thus says the Lord GOD to the Ammonites and their insults:

O sword, sword drawn for slaughter,
burnished to consume, to flash lightning!
[34]Your false visions and lying omens,
Set you over the necks of the slain,
the wicked whose day had come—
an end to their life of crime.
[35]Return to your scabbard!
In the place you were created,
In the land of your origin,
I will judge you.
[36]I will pour out my anger upon you,
breathing my fiery wrath against you;
I will hand you over to ravagers,
artisans of destruction!
[37]You shall be fuel for the fire,
your blood shall flow throughout the land;
You shall not be remembered,
for I, the LORD, have spoken.

☐ LUKE 5

The Call of Simon the Fisherman. 5:1 While the crowd was pressing in on Jesus and listening to the word of God, he was standing by the Lake of Gennesaret. [2]He saw two boats there alongside the lake; the fishermen had disembarked and were washing their nets. [3]Getting into one of the boats, the one belonging to Simon, he asked him to put out a short distance from the shore. Then he sat down and taught the crowds from the boat. [4]After he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, "Put out into deep water and lower your nets for a catch." [5]Simon said in reply, "Master, we have worked hard all night and have caught nothing, but at your command I will lower the nets." [6]When they had done this, they caught a great number of fish and their nets were tearing. [7]They signaled to their partners in the other boat to come to help them. They came and filled both boats so that they were in danger of sinking. [8]When Simon Peter saw this, he fell at the knees of Jesus and said, "Depart from me, Lord, for I am a sinful man." [9]For astonishment at the catch of fish they had made seized him and all those with him, [10]and likewise James and John, the sons of Zebedee, who were partners of Simon. Jesus said to Simon, "Do not be afraid; from now on you will be catching men." [11]When they brought their boats to the shore, they left everything and followed him.

The Cleansing of a Leper. [12]Now there was a man full of leprosy in one of the towns where he was; and when he saw Jesus, he fell prostrate, pleaded with him, and said, "Lord, if you wish, you can make me clean." [13]Jesus stretched out his hand, touched him, and said, "I do will it. Be made clean." And the leprosy left him immediately. [14]Then he ordered him not to tell anyone, but "Go, show yourself to the priest and offer for your cleansing what Moses prescribed;

that will be proof for them." [15]The report about him spread all the more, and great crowds assembled to listen to him and to be cured of their ailments, [16]but he would withdraw to deserted places to pray.

The Healing of a Paralytic. [17]One day as Jesus was teaching, Pharisees and teachers of the law were sitting there who had come from every village of Galilee and Judea and Jerusalem, and the power of the Lord was with him for healing. [18]And some men brought on a stretcher a man who was paralyzed; they were trying to bring him in and set [him] in his presence. [19]But not finding a way to bring him in because of the crowd, they went up on the roof and lowered him on the stretcher through the tiles into the middle in front of Jesus. [20]When he saw their faith, he said, "As for you, your sins are forgiven." [21]Then the scribes and Pharisees began to ask themselves, "Who is this who speaks blasphemies? Who but God alone can forgive sins?" [22]Jesus knew their thoughts and said to them in reply, "What are you thinking in your hearts? [23]Which is easier, to say, 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say, 'Rise and walk'? [24]But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he said to the man who was paralyzed, "I say to you, rise, pick up your stretcher, and go home." [25]He stood up immediately before them, picked up what he had been lying on, and went home, glorifying God. [26]Then astonishment seized them all and they glorified God, and, struck with awe, they said, "We have seen incredible things today."

The Call of Levi. [27]After this he went out and saw a tax collector named Levi sitting at the customs post. He said to him, "Follow me." [28]And leaving everything behind, he got up and followed him. [29]Then Levi gave a great banquet for him in his house, and a large crowd of tax collectors and others were at table with them. [30]The Pharisees and their scribes complained to his disciples, saying, "Why do you eat and drink with tax collectors and sinners?" [31]Jesus said to them in reply, "Those who are healthy do not need a physician, but the sick do. [32]I have not come to call the righteous to repentance but sinners."

The Question about Fasting. [33]And they said to him, "The disciples of John fast often and offer prayers, and the disciples of the Pharisees do the same; but yours eat and drink." [34]Jesus answered them, "Can you make the wedding guests fast while the bridegroom is with them? [35]But the days will come, and when the bridegroom is taken away from them, then they will fast in those days." [36]And he also told them a parable. "No one tears a piece from a new cloak to patch an old one. Otherwise, he will tear the new and the piece from it will not match the old cloak. [37]Likewise, no one pours new wine into old wineskins. Otherwise, the new wine will burst the skins, and it will be spilled, and the skins will be ruined. [38]Rather, new wine must be poured into fresh wineskins. [39][And] no one who has been drinking old wine desires new, for he says, 'The old is good.' "

To forgive those who have injured us in our body, our reputation, our goods, is more advantageous to us than to cross the seas to venerate the sepulchre of the Lord.

☐ EZEKIEL 22-23

Crimes of Jerusalem. 22:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]You, son of man, will you judge? will you judge the city of bloodshed? Then make known all its abominations, [3]and say: Thus says the Lord GOD: O city that sheds blood within itself so that its time has come, that has made idols for its own defilement: [4]By the blood you shed you have become guilty, and by the idols you made you have become defiled. You have brought on your day, you have come to the end of your years. Therefore I make you an object of scorn for the nations and a laughingstock for all lands. [5]Those near and those far off will mock you: "Defiled of Name! Queen of Tumult!" [6]See! the princes of Israel within you use their power to shed blood. [7]Within you, father and mother are dishonored; they extort the resident alien in your midst; within you, they oppress orphans and widows. [8]What I consider holy you have rejected, and my sabbaths you have desecrated. [9]In you are those who slander to cause bloodshed; within you are those who feast on the mountains; in your midst are those whose actions are depraved. [10]In you are those who uncover the nakedness of their fathers; in you those who coerce women to intercourse during their period. [11]There are those in you who do abominable things with their neighbors' wives, men who defile their daughters-in-law by incest, men who coerce their sisters to intercourse, the daughters of their own fathers. [12]There are those in you who take bribes to shed blood. You exact interest and usury; you extort profit from your neighbor by violence. But me you have forgotten—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[13]See, I am clapping my hands because of the profits you extorted and the blood shed in your midst. [14]Will your heart remain firm, will your hands be strong, in the days when I deal with you? I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will act! [15]I will disperse you among the nations and scatter you over other lands, so that I may purge your filth. [16]In you I will allow myself to be desecrated in the eyes of the nations; thus you shall know that I am the LORD.

[17]The word of the LORD came to me: [18]Son of man, the house of Israel has become dross to me. All of them are copper, tin, iron, and lead within a furnace; they have become the dross from silver. [19]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Because all of you have become dross, See! I am gathering you within Jerusalem. [20]Just as silver, copper, iron, lead, and tin are gathered within a furnace to be blasted with fire to smelt it, so I will gather you together in my furious wrath, put you in, and smelt you. [21]When I have assembled you, I will blast you with the fire of my anger and smelt you with it. [22]Just as silver is smelted in a furnace, so you shall be smelted in it. Thus you shall know that I, the LORD, have poured out my fury on you.

[23]The word of the LORD came to me: [24]Son of man, say to her: You are an unclean land receiving no rain at the time of my fury. [25]A conspiracy of its princes is like a roaring lion tearing prey; they devour people, seizing their wealth and precious things, making many widows within her. [26]Her priests violate my law and desecrate what I consider holy; they do not distinguish between holy and common, nor teach the difference between unclean and clean; they pay no attention to my sabbaths, so that I have been desecrated in their midst. [27]Within her, her officials are like wolves tearing prey, shedding blood and destroying lives to extort profit. [28]And her prophets cover them with whitewash, seeing false visions and performing lying divinations, saying, "Thus says the Lord GOD," although the LORD has not spoken. [29]The people of the land practice extortion and commit robbery; they wrong the poor and the needy, and oppress the resident alien without justice. [30]Thus I have searched among them for someone who would build a wall or stand in the breach before me to keep me from destroying the land; but I found no one. [31]Therefore I have poured out my fury upon them; with my fiery wrath I have consumed them, bringing down their ways upon their heads—oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Two Sisters. 23:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, there were two women, daughters of the same mother. [3]Even as young girls, they were prostitutes, serving as prostitutes in Egypt. There the Egyptians fondled their breasts and caressed their virgin nipples. [4]Oholah was the name of the elder, and the name of her sister was Oholibah. They became mine and gave birth to sons and daughters. As for their names: Samaria was Oholah and Jerusalem, Oholibah. [5]Oholah became a prostitute while married to me and lusted after her lovers, the Assyrians: warriors [6]dressed in purple, governors and officers, all of them handsome young soldiers, mounted on horses. [7]She gave herself as a prostitute to them, to all the Assyrian elite; with all those for whom she lusted, she also defiled herself with their idols. [8]She did not abandon the prostitution she had begun with the Egyptians, who had lain with her when she was young, fondling her virgin breasts and pouring out their lust upon her. [9]Therefore I handed her over to her lovers, to the Assyrians for whom she lusted. [10]They exposed her nakedness; her sons and daughters they took away, and her they killed with the sword. She became a byword for women because of the sentence carried out against her.

[11]Although her sister Oholibah saw all this, her lust was more depraved than her sister's; she outdid her in prostitution. [12]She too lusted after the Assyrians, governors and officers, warriors impeccably clothed, mounted on horses, all of them handsome young soldiers. [13]I saw that she had defiled herself—now both had gone down the same path. [14]She went further in her prostitution: She saw male figures drawn on the wall, images of Chaldeans drawn with vermilion, [15]with sashes tied about their waists, flowing turbans on their heads, all looking like chariot warriors, images of Babylonians, natives of Chaldea. [16]As soon as she set eyes on them she lusted for them, and she sent messengers to them in Chaldea. [17]The Babylonians came to her, to her love couch; they defiled her with their impurities. But as soon as they had defiled her, she recoiled from them. [18]When her prostitution was discovered and her shame revealed, I recoiled from her as I had recoiled from her sister. [19]But she increased her prostitution, recalling the days of her youth when she had served as a prostitute in the land of Egypt. [20]She lusted for the lechers of Egypt, whose members are like those of donkeys, whose thrusts are like those of stallions.

[21]You reverted to the depravity of your youth, when Egyptians fondled your breasts, caressing your young nipples.
[22]Therefore, Oholibah, thus says the Lord GOD: I will now stir up your lovers against you, those from whom you recoiled, and I will bring them against you from every side: [23]the men of Babylon and all of Chaldea, Pekod, Shoa and Koa, along with all the Assyrians, handsome young soldiers, all of them governors and officers, charioteers and warriors, all of them horsemen. [24]They shall invade you with armor, chariots and wagons, a horde of peoples; they will array against you on every side bucklers and shields and helmets. I will give them the right of judgment, and they will judge you according to their standards. [25]I will direct my jealousy against you, so that they deal with you in fury, cutting off your nose and ears; what is left of you shall fall by the sword. They shall take away your sons and daughters, and what is left of you shall be devoured by fire. [26]They shall strip off your clothes and seize your splendid jewelry. [27]I will put an end to your depravity and to your prostitution from the land of Egypt; you shall no longer look to them, nor even remember Egypt again.

[28]For thus says the Lord GOD: I am now handing you over to those whom you hate, to those from whom you recoil.
[29]They shall treat you with hatred, seizing all that you worked for and leaving you stark naked, so that your indecent nakedness is exposed. Your depravity and prostitution [30]brought these things upon you because you served as a prostitute for the nations, defiling yourself with their idols.

[31]Because you followed your sister's path, I will put her cup into your hand.

[32]Thus says the Lord GOD:
The cup of your sister you shall drink,
deep and wide;
It brings ridicule and mockery,
it holds so much;
[33]You will be filled with drunkenness and grief—
A cup of horror and devastation,
the cup of your sister Samaria; [34]You shall drink it dry,
its very sherds you will gnaw;
And you shall tear out your breasts;
for I have spoken—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[35]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: You have forgotten me and cast me behind your back; now suffer for your depravity and prostitution.

[36]Then the LORD said to me: Son of man, would you judge Oholah and Oholibah? Then make known to them their abominations. [37]For they committed adultery, and blood covers their hands. They committed adultery with their idols; even the children they bore for me they burnt as food for them. [38]And they also did this to me: on that day, they defiled my sanctuary and desecrated my sabbaths. [39]On the very day they slaughtered their children for their idols, they entered my sanctuary to desecrate it. Thus they acted within my house! [40]Moreover, they sent for men who had to come from afar; when a messenger was sent to them, they came. On their account you bathed, painted your eyes, and put on jewelry. [41]You sat on a magnificent couch, set before it a table, on which to lay my incense and oil. [42]The cries of a mob! The shouts of men coming in from the wilderness! They put bracelets on the women's arms and splendid crowns on their heads. [43]I said: "That worn-out one still has adulteries in her! Now they engage her as a prostitute and she …"
[44]And indeed they did come in to her as men come in to a prostitute. Thus they came to Oholah and Oholibah, the depraved women. [45]The righteous shall certainly punish them with sentences given to adulterers and murderers, for they committed adultery, and blood is on their hands.

[46]Indeed, thus says the Lord GOD: Raise up an army against them and hand them over to terror and plunder. [47]The army will stone them and hack them to pieces with their swords. They will kill their sons and daughters and set fire to their houses. [48]Thus I will put an end to depravity in the land, and all women will be warned not to imitate your depravity. [49]They shall inflict on you the penalty of your depravity, and you shall pay for your sins of idolatry. Then you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

Debates about the Sabbath. 6:1 While he was going through a field of grain on a sabbath, his disciples were picking the heads of grain, rubbing them in their hands, and eating them. [2]Some Pharisees said, "Why are you doing what is unlawful on the sabbath?" [3]Jesus said to them in reply, "Have you not read what David did when he and those [who were] with him were hungry? [4][How] he went into the house of God, took the bread of offering, which only the priests could lawfully eat, ate of it, and shared it with his companions." [5]Then he said to them, "The Son of Man is lord of the sabbath."

[6]On another sabbath he went into the synagogue and taught, and there was a man there whose right hand was withered. [7]The scribes and the Pharisees watched him closely to see if he would cure on the sabbath so that they might discover a reason to accuse him. [8]But he realized their intentions and said to the man with the withered hand, "Come up and stand before us." And he rose and stood there. [9]Then Jesus said to them, "I ask you, is it lawful to do good on the sabbath rather than to do evil, to save life rather than to destroy it?" [10]Looking around at them all, he then said to him, "Stretch out your hand." He did so and his hand was restored. [11]But they became enraged and discussed together what they might do to Jesus.

The Mission of the Twelve. [12]In those days he departed to the mountain to pray, and he spent the night in prayer to God. [13]When day came, he called his disciples to himself, and from them he chose Twelve, whom he also named apostles: [14]Simon, whom he named Peter, and his brother Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, [15]Matthew, Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, Simon who was called a Zealot, [16]and Judas the son of James, and Judas Iscariot, who became a traitor.

Ministering to a Great Multitude. [17]And he came down with them and stood on a stretch of level ground. A great crowd of his disciples and a large number of the people from all Judea and Jerusalem and the coastal region of Tyre and Sidon [18]came to hear him and to be healed of their diseases; and even those who were tormented by unclean spirits were cured. [19]Everyone in the crowd sought to touch him because power came forth from him and healed them all.

Sermon on the Plain. [20]And raising his eyes toward his disciples he said:

"Blessed are you who are poor,
for the kingdom of God is yours.
[21]Blessed are you who are now hungry,
for you will be satisfied.
Blessed are you who are now weeping,
for you will laugh.
[22]Blessed are you when people hate you,
and when they exclude and insult you,
and denounce your name as evil
on account of the Son of Man.

[23]Rejoice and leap for joy on that day! Behold, your reward will be great in heaven. For their ancestors treated the prophets in the same way.

[24]But woe to you who are rich,
for you have received your consolation.
[25]But woe to you who are filled now,
for you will be hungry.
Woe to you who laugh now,
for you will grieve and weep.
[26]Woe to you when all speak well of you,
for their ancestors treated the false prophets in this way.

Love of Enemies. [27]"But to you who hear I say, love your enemies, do good to those who hate you, [28]bless those who curse you, pray for those who mistreat you. [29]To the person who strikes you on one cheek, offer the other one as well, and from the person who takes your cloak, do not withhold even your tunic. [30]Give to everyone who asks of you, and from the one who takes what is yours do not demand it back. [31]Do to others as you would have them do to you. [32]For if you love those who love you, what credit is that to you? Even sinners love those who love them. [33]And if you do good to those who do good to you, what credit is that to you? Even sinners do the same. [34]If you lend money to those from whom you expect repayment, what credit [is] that to you? Even sinners lend to sinners, and get back the same amount. [35]But rather, love your enemies and do good to them, and lend expecting nothing back; then your reward will be great and you will be children of the Most High, for he himself is kind to the ungrateful and the wicked. [36]Be merciful, just as [also] your Father is merciful.

Judging Others. [37]"Stop judging and you will not be judged. Stop condemning and you will not be condemned. Forgive and you will be forgiven. [38]Give and gifts will be given to you; a good measure, packed together, shaken down, and overflowing, will be poured into your lap. For the measure with which you measure will in return be measured out to you." [39]And he told them a parable, "Can a blind person guide a blind person? Will not both fall into a pit? [40]No disciple is superior to the teacher; but when fully trained, every disciple will be like his teacher. [41]Why do you notice the splinter in your brother's eye, but do not perceive the wooden beam in your own? [42]How can you say to your brother, 'Brother, let me remove that splinter in your eye,' when you do not even notice the wooden beam in your own eye? You hypocrite! Remove the wooden beam from your eye first; then you will see clearly to remove the splinter in your brother's eye.

A Tree Known by Its Fruit. [43]"A good tree does not bear rotten fruit, nor does a rotten tree bear good fruit. [44]For every tree is known by its own fruit. For people do not pick figs from thornbushes, nor do they gather grapes from brambles. [45]A good person out of the store of goodness in his heart produces good, but an evil person out of a store of evil produces evil; for from the fullness of the heart the mouth speaks.

The Two Foundations. [46]"Why do you call me, 'Lord, Lord,' but not do what I command? [47]I will show you what someone is like who comes to me, listens to my words, and acts on them. [48]That one is like a person building a house, who dug deeply and laid the foundation on rock; when the flood came, the river burst against that house but could not shake it because it had been well built. [49]But the one who listens and does not act is like a person who built a house on the ground without a foundation. When the river burst against it, it collapsed at once and was completely destroyed."

☐ EZEKIEL 24-25

Allegory of the Pot. 24:1 On the tenth day of the tenth month, in the ninth year, the word of the LORD came to me:
2 Son of man, write down today's date this very day, for on this very day the king of Babylon lays siege to Jerusalem.
3 Propose this parable to the rebellious house and say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD:

Put the pot on, put it on!
  Pour in some water;
4 Add to it pieces of meat,
  all choice pieces;
With thigh and shoulder,
  with choice cuts fill it.
5 Choose the pick of the flock,
  then pile logs beneath it;
Bring it to a boil,
  cook all the pieces in it.
6 Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
  Woe to the city full of blood!
A pot containing filth,
  whose filth cannot be removed!
Take out its pieces one by one,
  for no lot has fallen on their behalf.
7 For her blood is still in her midst;
  on a bare rock she left it;
She did not pour it on the ground
  to be covered with dirt.
8 To arouse wrath, to exact vengeance,
  I have left her blood on bare rock
  not to be covered.
9 Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD:
Woe to the city full of blood!
  I will make the pyre great!
10 Pile on the wood, kindle the fire.
Cook the meat, stir the spicy mixture,
  char the bones!
11 Then set it empty on the coals,
  to heat up until its copper glows,
So its impurities melt,
  its filth disappears.
12 The toil is exhausting,
  but the great filth will not come out—
Filth, even with fire.
13 Even in defiling yourself with depravity

I would still have cleansed you,
but you would not have your impurity cleansed.
You will not be cleansed now until I wreak my fury on you.
[14]I, the LORD, have spoken;
it will happen!
I will do it and not hold back!
I will not have pity or relent.
By your conduct and deeds you shall be judged—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

Ezekiel as a Sign for the Exiles. [15]The word of the LORD came to me: [16]Son of man, with a sudden blow I am taking away from you the delight of your eyes, but do not mourn or weep or shed any tears. [17]Groan, moan for the dead, but make no public lament; bind on your turban, put your sandals on your feet, but do not cover your beard or eat the bread of mourners. [18]I spoke to the people in the morning. In the evening my wife died. The next morning I did as I had been commanded. [19]Then the people asked me, "Will you not tell us what all these things you are doing mean for us?" [20]I said to them, The word of the LORD came to me: [21]Say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord GOD: I will now desecrate my sanctuary, the pride of your strength, the delight of your eyes, the concern of your soul. The sons and daughters you left behind shall fall by the sword. [22]Then you shall do as I have done, not covering your beards nor eating the bread of mourning. [23]Your turbans shall remain on your heads, your sandals on your feet. You shall not mourn or weep, but you shall waste away because of your sins and groan to one another. [24]Ezekiel shall be a sign for you: everything he did, you shall do. When it happens, you shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

End of Ezekiel's Muteness. [25]As for you, son of man, truly, on the very day I take away from them their strength, their glorious joy, the delight of their eyes, the desire of their soul, the pride of their hearts, their sons and daughters, [26]on that day a survivor will come to you so that you may hear it with your own ears. [27]On that day, with the survivor, your mouth shall be opened; you shall speak and be mute no longer. You shall be a sign to them, and they shall know that I am the LORD.

Against Ammon. 25:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, turn toward the Ammonites and prophesy against them. [3]Say to the Ammonites: Hear the word of the LORD! Thus says the Lord GOD: Because you jeered at my sanctuary when it was desecrated, at the land of Israel when it was destroyed, and at the house of Judah when they went into exile, [4]therefore I am giving you to people from the east as a possession. They shall set up their encampments among you and pitch their tents in your midst; they shall eat your produce and drink your milk. [5]And I will turn Rabbah into a pasture for camels and all of Ammon into a grazing place for flocks. Then you shall know that I am the LORD.

[6]For thus says the Lord GOD: Because you rejoiced over the land of Israel with scorn in your heart, clapping your hands and stamping your feet, [7]therefore, see, I am stretching out my hand against you and giving you up as plunder to the nations. I will cut you off from the peoples and wipe you out of the lands. I will destroy you, and you shall know that I am the LORD.

Against Moab. [8]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Moab said, "See! the house of Judah is like all the other nations," [9]therefore, I am exposing the whole flank of Moab with its cities, the jewels of its land: Beth-jesimoth, Baalmeon, and Kiriathaim. [10]I will hand it over, along with the Ammonites, to the people from the east that it may not be remembered among the nations. [11]I will execute judgment upon Moab that they may know that I am the LORD.

Against Edom. [12]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because Edom took vengeance on the house of Judah and incurred terrible guilt by taking vengeance on them, [13]therefore thus says the Lord GOD: I will stretch out my hand against Edom and cut off from it human being and beast alike. I will turn it into ruins from Teman to Dedan; they shall fall by the sword. [14]I will put my vengeance against Edom into the hands of my people Israel; they will deal with Edom in accord with my furious anger. Thus they shall know my vengeance!—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Against the Philistines. [15]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the Philistines acted vengefully and exacted vengeance with intentional malice, destroying with undying hostility, [16]therefore thus says the Lord GOD: See! I am stretching out my hand against the Philistines, and I will cut off the Cherethites and wipe out the remnant on the seacoast. [17]Thus I will execute great acts of vengeance on them, punishing them furiously. Then they shall know that I am the LORD, when I wreak my vengeance on them.

The Healing of a Centurion's Slave. 7:1 When he had finished all his words to the people, he entered Capernaum. [2]A centurion there had a slave who was ill and about to die, and he was valuable to him. [3]When he heard about Jesus, he sent elders of the Jews to him, asking him to come and save the life of his slave. [4]They approached Jesus and strongly urged him to come, saying, "He deserves to have you do this for him, [5]for he loves our nation and he built the synagogue for us." [6]And Jesus went with them, but when he was only a short distance from the house, the centurion sent friends to tell him, "Lord, do not trouble yourself, for I am not worthy to have you enter under my roof. [7]Therefore, I did not consider myself worthy to come to you; but say the word and let my servant be healed. [8]For I too am a person subject to authority, with soldiers subject to me. And I say to one, 'Go,' and he goes; and to another, 'Come here,' and he comes; and to my slave, 'Do this,' and he does it." [9]When Jesus heard this he was amazed at him and, turning, said to the crowd following him, "I tell you, not even in Israel have I found such faith." [10]When the messengers returned to the house, they found the slave in good health.

Raising of the Widow's Son. [11]Soon afterward he journeyed to a city called Nain, and his disciples and a large crowd accompanied him. [12]As he drew near to the gate of the city, a man who had died was being carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow. A large crowd from the city was with her. [13]When the Lord saw her, he was moved with pity for her and said to her, "Do not weep." [14]He stepped forward and touched the coffin; at this the bearers halted, and he said, "Young man, I tell you, arise!" [15]The dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus gave him to his mother. [16]Fear seized them all, and they glorified God, exclaiming, "A great prophet has arisen in our midst," and "God has visited his people." [17]This report about him spread through the whole of Judea and in all the surrounding region.

The Messengers from John the Baptist. [18]The disciples of John told him about all these things. John summoned two of his disciples [19]and sent them to the Lord to ask, "Are you the one who is to come, or should we look for another?" [20]When the men came to him, they said, "John the Baptist has sent us to you to ask, 'Are you the one who is to come, or should we look for another?' " [21]At that time he cured many of their diseases, sufferings, and evil spirits; he also granted sight to many who were blind. [22]And he said to them in reply, "Go and tell John what you have seen and heard: the blind regain their sight, the lame walk, lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, the poor have the good news proclaimed to them. [23]And blessed is the one who takes no offense at me."

Jesus' Testimony to John. [24]When the messengers of John had left, Jesus began to speak to the crowds about John. "What did you go out to the desert to see—a reed swayed by the wind? [25]Then what did you go out to see? Someone dressed in fine garments? Those who dress luxuriously and live sumptuously are found in royal palaces. [26]Then what did you go out to see? A prophet? Yes, I tell you, and more than a prophet. [27]This is the one about whom scripture says:

'Behold, I am sending my messenger ahead of you,
he will prepare your way before you.'

[28]I tell you, among those born of women, no one is greater than John; yet the least in the kingdom of God is greater than he." [29](All the people who listened, including the tax collectors, and who were baptized with the baptism of John, acknowledged the righteousness of God; [30]but the Pharisees and scholars of the law, who were not baptized by him, rejected the plan of God for themselves.)

[31]"Then to what shall I compare the people of this generation? What are they like? [32]They are like children who sit in the marketplace and call to one another,

‘We played the flute for you, but you did not dance.
We sang a dirge, but you did not weep.’

33For John the Baptist came neither eating food nor drinking wine, and you said, ‘He is possessed by a demon.’ 34The Son of Man came eating and drinking and you said, ‘Look, he is a glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners.’ 35But wisdom is vindicated by all her children.”

The Pardon of the Sinful Woman. 36A Pharisee invited him to dine with him, and he entered the Pharisee’s house and reclined at table. 37Now there was a sinful woman in the city who learned that he was at table in the house of the Pharisee. Bringing an alabaster flask of ointment, 38she stood behind him at his feet weeping and began to bathe his feet with her tears. Then she wiped them with her hair, kissed them, and anointed them with the ointment. 39When the Pharisee who had invited him saw this he said to himself, “If this man were a prophet, he would know who and what sort of woman this is who is touching him, that she is a sinner.” 40Jesus said to him in reply, “Simon, I have something to say to you.” “Tell me, teacher,” he said. 41“Two people were in debt to a certain creditor; one owed five hundred days’ wages and the other owed fifty. 42Since they were unable to repay the debt, he forgave it for both. Which of them will love him more?” 43Simon said in reply, “The one, I suppose, whose larger debt was forgiven.” He said to him, “You have judged rightly.” 44Then he turned to the woman and said to Simon, “Do you see this woman? When I entered your house, you did not give me water for my feet, but she has bathed them with her tears and wiped them with her hair.
45You did not give me a kiss, but she has not ceased kissing my feet since the time I entered. 46You did not anoint my head with oil, but she anointed my feet with ointment. 47So I tell you, her many sins have been forgiven; hence, she has shown great love. But the one to whom little is forgiven, loves little.” 48He said to her, “Your sins are forgiven.” 49The others at table said to themselves, “Who is this who even forgives sins?” 50But he said to the woman, “Your faith has saved you; go in peace.”

St. Elizabeth of Hungary

As in heaven Your will, Father, is punctually performed, so may it be done on earth by all creatures, particularly in me and by me.

☐ EZEKIEL 26-27

Against the City of Tyre. 26:1 On the first day of the eleventh month of the eleventh year, the word of the LORD came to me:

2Son of man, because Tyre said of Jerusalem:
“Aha! The gateway of the peoples is smashed!
It has been turned over to me;
I will be enriched by its ruin!”
3therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
See! I am coming against you, Tyre;
I will churn up against you many nations,
just as the sea churns up its waves.
4They will destroy the walls of Tyre
and tear down its towers;
I will scrape off its debris
and leave it a bare rock.
5It will become a place for drying nets

in the midst of the sea.
For I have spoken—oracle of the Lord GOD:
she will become plunder for the nations.
[6]Her daughter cities on the mainland
will be slaughtered by the sword;
then they shall know that I am the LORD.
[7]Indeed thus says the Lord GOD:
I am bringing up against Tyre
from the north, Nebuchadnezzar,
King of Babylon, king of kings,
with horses and chariots, with cavalry,
and a mighty horde of troops.
[8]Your daughter cities on the mainland he shall slay with the sword.
He shall build a siege wall around you,
throw up a ramp against you,
and raise his shields about you.
[9]He shall pound your walls with battering-rams and break down your towers with his axes.
[10]From the surging of his horses
he will cover you with dust;
from the noise of warhorses,
wheels and chariots.
Your walls will shake
when he enters your gates,
even as one enters a city that is breached.
[11]With the hooves of his horses
he will trample all your streets;
Your people he will slay by the sword;
your mighty pillars will collapse.
[12]They shall plunder your wealth
and pillage your goods;
They will tear down your walls
and demolish your splendid houses.
Your stones, timbers, and debris
they will cast into the sea.
[13]I will bring an end to the noise of your songs;
the music of your lyres will be heard no more.
[14]I will turn you into bare rock,
you will become a place for drying nets.
You shall never be rebuilt,
for I the LORD have spoken—
oracle of the Lord GOD.
[15]Thus says the Lord GOD to Tyre:
At the sound of your downfall,
at the groaning of the wounded,
When victims are slain within you,
will the islands not quake?
[16]All the princes of the sea
will step down from their thrones,

Lay aside their robes,
and strip off their embroidered garments.
Clothed in mourning,
they will sit on the ground
And tremble, horror-struck and appalled at you.
17 They will raise lament over you
and say to you:
How you have perished,
gone from the seas,
Renowned City!
Once she was mighty on the sea,
she and her inhabitants,
Those who spread their terror
to all who dwelt nearby.
18 On this, the day of your fall,
the islands quake!
The islands in the sea
are terrified at your passing.
19 Indeed thus says the Lord GOD:
When I make you a ruined city
like cities no longer inhabited,
When I churn up the deep
and its mighty waters cover you, 20 Then I will thrust you down
with those who go down to the pit,
to those of the bygone age;
I will make you dwell in the netherworld,
in the everlasting ruins,
with those who have gone down to the pit,
So you will never return
or have a place in the land of the living.
21 I will make you a horror,
and you shall be no more;
You shall be sought for,
but never found again—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Ship Tyre. 27:1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2 You, son of man, raise a lament over Tyre, 3 and say to Tyre, who sits at the entrance to the sea, trader to peoples on many coastlands, Thus says the Lord GOD:

Tyre, you said, "I am a ship,
perfect in beauty;
4 In the heart of the sea was your territory;
your builders perfected your beauty.
5 With juniper wood from Senir
they built all your decks;
A cedar from Lebanon they took
to make you a mast.
6 With oaks of Bashan

they fashioned your oars,
Your bridge, of ivory-inlaid cypress wood
from the coasts of Kittim.
[7]Fine embroidered linen from Egypt
became your sail;
Your awnings were made of purple and scarlet
from the coasts of Elishah.
[8]Inhabitants of Sidon and Arvad
were your oarsmen;
Your own sages, Tyre, were on board,
serving as your sailors.
[9]The elders and sages of Gebal
were with you to caulk your seams.
Every ship and sailor on the sea
came to you to carry on trade.
[10]Persia and Lud and Put were warriors in your army; Shield and helmet they hung on you
to enhance your splendor.
[11]The men of Arvad and Helech were on your walls all around
And Gamadites on your towers;
they hung their shields around your walls,
they made your beauty perfect.
[12]Tarshish traded with you,
so great was your wealth,
Exchanging for your wares
silver, iron, tin, and lead.
[13]Javan, Tubal, and Meshech
also traded with you, Exchanging slaves and bronze vessels
for your merchandise.
[14]Horses, steeds, and mules from Beth-togarmah
were exchanged for your wares.
[15]Men of Rhodes trafficked with you;
many coastlands were your agents;
Ivory tusks and ebony wood
they brought back as your payment.
[16]Edom traded with you for your many wares:
garnets, purple dye, embroidered cloth,
Fine linen, coral, and rubies
they gave you as merchandise.
[17]Judah and the land of Israel
trafficked with you:
Minnith wheat, grain, honey, oil, and balm
they gave you as merchandise.
[18]Damascus traded with you for your many wares,
so great was your wealth,
exchanging Helbon wine and Zahar wool.
[19]Javan exchanged wrought iron, cassia, and aromatic cane

from Uzal for your wares.
[20]Dedan traded with you for riding gear.
[21]Arabia and the sheikhs of Kedar were your agents, dealing in lambs, rams, and goats.
[22]The merchants of Sheba and Raamah also traded with you, exchanging for your wares the very best spices,
all kinds of precious stones, and gold.
[23]Haran, Canneh, and Eden,
the merchants of Sheba, Asshur, and Chilmad, [24]Traded with you, marketing rich garments,
purple cloth, embroidered fabric,
varicolored carpets, and braided cords.
[25]The ships of Tarshish sailed for you with your goods;
You were full and heavily laden
in the heart of the sea.
[26]Out into deep waters
your oarsmen brought you;
The east wind shattered you
in the heart of the sea.
[27]Your wealth, your goods, your wares,
your sailors, your crew,
The caulkers of your seams,
those who traded for your goods,
All the warriors with you,
the whole crowd with you Sank into the heart of the sea
on the day of your downfall.
[28]At the sound of your sailors' shouts
the waves shudder, [29]Down from their ships
come all who ply the oars;
Sailors, all the seafaring crew,
stand on the shore.
[30]They raise their voices over you and shout their bitter cries;
They pour dust on their heads and cover themselves with ashes.
[31]For you they shave their heads bald
and put on sackcloth;
For you they weep bitterly,
in anguished lament.
[32]They raise a lament for you;
they wail over you:
"Who was ever destroyed like Tyre
in the midst of the sea?"
[33]By exporting your goods by sea
you satisfied many peoples,
With your great wealth and merchandise
you enriched the kings of the earth.
[34]Now you are wrecked in the sea,

in the watery depths;
Your wares and all your crew
have fallen down with you.
35 All who dwell on the coastlands
are aghast over you;
Their kings are terrified,
their faces distorted.
36 The traders among the peoples
now hiss at you;
You have become a horror,
you shall be no more.

☐ LUKE 8

Galilean Women Follow Jesus. 8:1 Afterward he journeyed from one town and village to another, preaching and proclaiming the good news of the kingdom of God. Accompanying him were the Twelve 2 and some women who had been cured of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary, called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out, 3 Joanna, the wife of Herod's steward Chuza, Susanna, and many others who provided for them out of their resources.

The Parable of the Sower. 4 When a large crowd gathered, with people from one town after another journeying to him, he spoke in a parable. 5 "A sower went out to sow his seed. And as he sowed, some seed fell on the path and was trampled, and the birds of the sky ate it up. 6 Some seed fell on rocky ground, and when it grew, it withered for lack of moisture. 7 Some seed fell among thorns, and the thorns grew with it and choked it. 8 And some seed fell on good soil, and when it grew, it produced fruit a hundredfold." After saying this, he called out, "Whoever has ears to hear ought to hear."

The Purpose of the Parables. 9 Then his disciples asked him what the meaning of this parable might be. 10 He answered, "Knowledge of the mysteries of the kingdom of God has been granted to you; but to the rest, they are made known through parables so that 'they may look but not see, and hear but not understand.'

The Parable of the Sower Explained. 11 "This is the meaning of the parable. The seed is the word of God. 12 Those on the path are the ones who have heard, but the devil comes and takes away the word from their hearts that they may not believe and be saved. 13 Those on rocky ground are the ones who, when they hear, receive the word with joy, but they have no root; they believe only for a time and fall away in time of trial. 14 As for the seed that fell among thorns, they are the ones who have heard, but as they go along, they are choked by the anxieties and riches and pleasures of life, and they fail to produce mature fruit. 15 But as for the seed that fell on rich soil, they are the ones who, when they have heard the word, embrace it with a generous and good heart, and bear fruit through perseverance.

The Parable of the Lamp. 16 "No one who lights a lamp conceals it with a vessel or sets it under a bed; rather, he places it on a lampstand so that those who enter may see the light. 17 For there is nothing hidden that will not become visible, and nothing secret that will not be known and come to light. 18 Take care, then, how you hear. To anyone who has, more will be given, and from the one who has not, even what he seems to have will be taken away."

Jesus and His Family. 19 Then his mother and his brothers came to him but were unable to join him because of the crowd. 20 He was told, "Your mother and your brothers are standing outside and they wish to see you." 21 He said to them in reply, "My mother and my brothers are those who hear the word of God and act on it."

The Calming of a Storm at Sea. 22 One day he got into a boat with his disciples and said to them, "Let us cross to the other side of the lake." So they set sail, 23 and while they were sailing he fell asleep. A squall blew over the lake, and they were taking in water and were in danger. 24 They came and woke him saying, "Master, master, we are perishing!" He awakened, rebuked the wind and the waves, and they subsided and there was a calm. 25 Then he asked them, "Where is your faith?" But they were filled with awe and amazed and said to one another, "Who then is this, who commands even the winds and the sea, and they obey him?"

The Healing of the Gerasene Demoniac. [26]Then they sailed to the territory of the Gerasenes, which is opposite Galilee. [27]When he came ashore a man from the town who was possessed by demons met him. For a long time he had not worn clothes; he did not live in a house, but lived among the tombs. [28]When he saw Jesus, he cried out and fell down before him; in a loud voice he shouted, "What have you to do with me, Jesus, son of the Most High God? I beg you, do not torment me!" [29]For he had ordered the unclean spirit to come out of the man. (It had taken hold of him many times, and he used to be bound with chains and shackles as a restraint, but he would break his bonds and be driven by the demon into deserted places.) [30]Then Jesus asked him, "What is your name?" He replied, "Legion," because many demons had entered him. [31]And they pleaded with him not to order them to depart to the abyss.

[32]A herd of many swine was feeding there on the hillside, and they pleaded with him to allow them to enter those swine; and he let them. [33]The demons came out of the man and entered the swine, and the herd rushed down the steep bank into the lake and was drowned. [34]When the swineherds saw what had happened, they ran away and reported the incident in the town and throughout the countryside. [35]People came out to see what had happened and, when they approached Jesus, they discovered the man from whom the demons had come out sitting at his feet. He was clothed and in his right mind, and they were seized with fear. [36]Those who witnessed it told them how the possessed man had been saved. [37]The entire population of the region of the Gerasenes asked Jesus to leave them because they were seized with great fear. So he got into a boat and returned. [38]The man from whom the demons had come out begged to remain with him, but he sent him away, saying, [39]"Return home and recount what God has done for you." The man went off and proclaimed throughout the whole town what Jesus had done for him.

Jairus's Daughter and the Woman with a Hemorrhage. [40]When Jesus returned, the crowd welcomed him, for they were all waiting for him. [41]And a man named Jairus, an official of the synagogue, came forward. He fell at the feet of Jesus and begged him to come to his house, [42]because he had an only daughter, about twelve years old, and she was dying. As he went, the crowds almost crushed him. [43]And a woman afflicted with hemorrhages for twelve years, who [had spent her whole livelihood on doctors and] was unable to be cured by anyone, [44]came up behind him and touched the tassel on his cloak. Immediately her bleeding stopped. [45]Jesus then asked, "Who touched me?" While all were denying it, Peter said, "Master, the crowds are pushing and pressing in upon you." [46]But Jesus said, "Someone has touched me; for I know that power has gone out from me." [47]When the woman realized that she had not escaped notice, she came forward trembling. Falling down before him, she explained in the presence of all the people why she had touched him and how she had been healed immediately. [48]He said to her, "Daughter, your faith has saved you; go in peace."

[49]While he was still speaking, someone from the synagogue official's house arrived and said, "Your daughter is dead; do not trouble the teacher any longer." [50]On hearing this, Jesus answered him, "Do not be afraid; just have faith and she will be saved." [51]When he arrived at the house he allowed no one to enter with him except Peter and John and James, and the child's father and mother. [52]All were weeping and mourning for her, when he said, "Do not weep any longer, for she is not dead, but sleeping." [53]And they ridiculed him, because they knew that she was dead. [54]But he took her by the hand and called to her, "Child, arise!" [55]Her breath returned and she immediately arose. He then directed that she should be given something to eat. [56]Her parents were astounded, and he instructed them to tell no one what had happened.

The Dedication of the Basilicas of Sts. Peter and Paul; St. Rose Philippine Duchesne

We cultivate a very small field for Christ, but we love it, knowing that God does not require great achievements but a heart that holds back nothing for self.

☐ EZEKIEL 28-29

The Prince of Tyre. 28:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, say to the prince of Tyre: Thus says the Lord GOD:

Because you are haughty of heart,
you say, "I am a god!
I sit on a god's throne
in the heart of the sea!"
But you are a man, not a god;
yet you pretend
you are a god at heart!
[3]Oh yes, you are wiser than Daniel,
nothing secret is too obscure for you!
[4]By your wisdom and intelligence
you made yourself rich,
filling your treasuries with gold and silver.
[5]Through your great wisdom in trading you heaped up riches for yourself—
your heart is haughty because of your riches.
[6]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
Because you pretend you are a god at heart,
[7]Therefore, I will bring against you strangers, the most bloodthirsty of nations.
They shall draw their swords against your splendid wisdom,
and violate your radiance.
[8]They shall thrust you down into the pit:
you shall die a violent death
in the heart of the sea.
[9]Then, face to face with your killers,
will you still say, "I am a god"?
No, you are a man, not a god,
handed over to those who slay you.
[10]You shall die the death of the uncircumcised
handed over to strangers,
for I have spoken—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[11]The word of the LORD came to me: [12]Son of man, raise a lament over the king of Tyre, and say to him: Thus says the Lord GOD:

You were a seal of perfection,
full of wisdom, perfect in beauty.
[13]In Eden, the garden of God, you lived;
precious stones of every kind were your covering:
Carnelian, topaz, and beryl, chrysolite, onyx, and jasper,
sapphire, garnet, and emerald.
Their mounts and settings
were wrought in gold,
fashioned for you the day you were created.
[14]With a cherub I placed you;
I put you on the holy mountain of God,

where you walked among fiery stones.
[15]Blameless were you in your ways
from the day you were created,
Until evil was found in you.
[16]Your commerce was full of lawlessness, and you sinned.
Therefore I banished you from the mountain of God;
the cherub drove you out
from among the fiery stones.
[17]Your heart had grown haughty
because of your beauty;
You corrupted your wisdom
because of your splendor.
I cast you to the ground,
I made you a spectacle
in the sight of kings.
[18]Because of the enormity of your guilt,
and the perversity of your trade,
you defiled your sanctuary.
I brought fire out of you;
it devoured you;
I made you ashes on the ground
in the eyes of all who see you.
[19]All the nations who knew you are appalled on account of you;
You have become a horror,
never to be again.

Against Sidon. [20]The word of the LORD came to me: [21]Son of man, turn your face toward Sidon and prophesy against it. [22]Thus says the Lord GOD:

Watch out! I am against you, Sidon;
I will win glory for myself in your midst.
They shall know that I am the LORD,
when I deliver judgment upon it and manifest my holiness in it.
[23]I will send disease into it;
blood will fill its streets,
Within it shall fall
those slain by the sword
raised against it on every side.
Then they shall know that I am the LORD.
[24]No longer will there be a thorn that tears
or a brier that scratches for the house of Israel
From the surrounding neighbors who despise them;
thus they shall know that I am the LORD.

[25]Thus says the Lord GOD: When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and I manifest my holiness through them in the sight of the nations, then they shall live on the land I gave my servant Jacob. [26]They shall dwell on it securely, building houses and planting vineyards. They shall dwell securely while I execute judgment on all their neighbors who treated them with contempt; then they shall know that I, the LORD, am their God.

Egypt the Crocodile. 29:1 In the tenth year, on the twelfth day of the tenth month, the word of the LORD came to me:
[2]Son of man, turn your face toward Pharaoh, king of Egypt, and prophesy against him and against all Egypt. [3]Say to him: Thus says the Lord GOD:

Pay attention! I am against you,
Pharaoh, king of Egypt,
Great dragon crouching
in the midst of the Nile,
Who says, "The Nile belongs to me;
I made it myself!"
[4]I will put hooks in your jaws
and make all the fish of your Nile
Cling to your scales;
I will drag you up from your Nile,
With all the fish of your Nile
clinging to your scales.
[5]I will hurl you into the wilderness,
you and all the fish of your Nile.
You will fall into an open field,
you will not be picked up or gathered together.
To the beasts of the earth
and the birds of the sky
I give you as food.
[6]Then all the inhabitants of Egypt
will know that I am the LORD.
Because you were a staff of reeds
for the house of Israel:
[7]When they took hold of you, you would splinter,
throwing shoulders out of joint.
When they leaned on you, you would break,
pitching them down headlong.
[8]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
Look! I am bringing the sword against you to cut off from you people and animals.
[9]The land of Egypt shall become a desolate waste;
then they shall know that I am the LORD.
Because you said, "The Nile belongs to me;
I made it!"
[10]Beware! I am against you and against your Nile.
I will turn the land of Egypt into ruins,
into a dry, desolate waste,
From Migdol to Syene,
up to the border of Ethiopia.
[11]No foot shall pass through it,
no human being or beast cross it;
it will remain uninhabited for forty years.
[12]I will make the land of Egypt the most desolate
among desolate lands;

Its cities, the most deserted
among deserted cities for forty years;
I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations
and disperse them throughout other lands.
[13]But thus says the Lord GOD:
At the end of forty years
I will gather the Egyptians from among the peoples
where they are scattered;
[14]I will restore Egypt's fortunes, bringing them back to the land of Pathros,
the land of their origin.
But there it will be a lowly kingdom,
[15]lower than any other kingdom,
no longer able to set itself above the nations.
I will make them few in number,
so they cannot rule other nations.
[16]No longer shall they be security
for the house of Israel,
But a reminder of its iniquity
in turning away to follow them.
Then they shall know that I am the Lord GOD.

Wages for Nebuchadnezzar. [17]In the twenty-seventh year on the first day of the first month, the word of the LORD came to me: [18]Son of man, Nebuchadnezzar, the king of Babylon, has made his army wage a hard campaign against Tyre; their heads grew bald, their shoulders rubbed raw, yet neither he nor his army received compensation from Tyre for all the effort they expended against it. [19]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: See! I am giving to Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, the land of Egypt! He will carry off its wealth, plundering and pillaging whatever he can find to provide pay for his army. [20]As payment for his toil I give him the land of Egypt—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[21]On that day I will make a horn sprout for the house of Israel, and I will let you again open your mouth in their midst; then they shall know that I am the LORD.

☐ LUKE 9

The Mission of the Twelve. 9:1 He summoned the Twelve and gave them power and authority over all demons and to cure diseases, [2]and he sent them to proclaim the kingdom of God and to heal [the sick]. [3]He said to them, "Take nothing for the journey, neither walking stick, nor sack, nor food, nor money, and let no one take a second tunic. [4]Whatever house you enter, stay there and leave from there. [5]And as for those who do not welcome you, when you leave that town, shake the dust from your feet in testimony against them." [6]Then they set out and went from village to village proclaiming the good news and curing diseases everywhere.

Herod's Opinion of Jesus. [7]Herod the tetrarch heard about all that was happening, and he was greatly perplexed because some were saying, "John has been raised from the dead"; [8]others were saying, "Elijah has appeared"; still others, "One of the ancient prophets has arisen." [9]But Herod said, "John I beheaded. Who then is this about whom I hear such things?" And he kept trying to see him.

The Return of the Twelve and the Feeding of the Five Thousand. [10]When the apostles returned, they explained to him what they had done. He took them and withdrew in private to a town called Bethsaida. [11]The crowds, meanwhile, learned of this and followed him. He received them and spoke to them about the kingdom of God, and he healed those who needed to be cured. [12]As the day was drawing to a close, the Twelve approached him and said, "Dismiss the crowd so that they can go to the surrounding villages and farms and find lodging and provisions; for we are in a deserted place here." [13]He said to them, "Give them some food yourselves." They replied, "Five loaves and two fish are all we have, unless we ourselves go and buy food for all these people." [14]Now the men there numbered about five thousand. Then he said to his disciples, "Have them sit down in groups of [about] fifty." [15]They did so and made them all sit down. [16]Then taking the five loaves and the two fish, and looking up to heaven, he said the blessing over them, broke them, and gave them to the disciples to set before the crowd. [17]They all ate and were satisfied. And when the leftover fragments were picked up, they filled twelve wicker baskets.

Peter's Confession about Jesus. [18]Once when Jesus was praying in solitude, and the disciples were with him, he asked them, "Who do the crowds say that I am?" [19]They said in reply, "John the Baptist; others, Elijah; still others, 'One of the ancient prophets has arisen.' " [20]Then he said to them, "But who do you say that I am?" Peter said in reply, "The Messiah of God." [21]He rebuked them and directed them not to tell this to anyone.

The First Prediction of the Passion. [22]He said, "The Son of Man must suffer greatly and be rejected by the elders, the chief priests, and the scribes, and be killed and on the third day be raised."

The Conditions of Discipleship. [23]Then he said to all, "If anyone wishes to come after me, he must deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me. [24]For whoever wishes to save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake will save it. [25]What profit is there for one to gain the whole world yet lose or forfeit himself? [26]Whoever is ashamed of me and of my words, the Son of Man will be ashamed of when he comes in his glory and in the glory of the Father and of the holy angels. [27]Truly I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the kingdom of God."

The Transfiguration of Jesus. [28]About eight days after he said this, he took Peter, John, and James and went up the mountain to pray. [29]While he was praying his face changed in appearance and his clothing became dazzling white. [30]And behold, two men were conversing with him, Moses and Elijah, [31]who appeared in glory and spoke of his exodus that he was going to accomplish in Jerusalem. [32]Peter and his companions had been overcome by sleep, but becoming fully awake, they saw his glory and the two men standing with him. [33]As they were about to part from him, Peter said to Jesus, "Master, it is good that we are here; let us make three tents, one for you, one for Moses, and one for Elijah." But he did not know what he was saying. [34]While he was still speaking, a cloud came and cast a shadow over them, and they became frightened when they entered the cloud. [35]Then from the cloud came a voice that said, "This is my chosen Son; listen to him." [36]After the voice had spoken, Jesus was found alone. They fell silent and did not at that time tell anyone what they had seen.

The Healing of a Boy with a Demon. [37]On the next day, when they came down from the mountain, a large crowd met him. [38]There was a man in the crowd who cried out, "Teacher, I beg you, look at my son; he is my only child. [39]For a spirit seizes him and he suddenly screams and it convulses him until he foams at the mouth; it releases him only with difficulty, wearing him out. [40]I begged your disciples to cast it out but they could not." [41]Jesus said in reply, "O faithless and perverse generation, how long will I be with you and endure you? Bring your son here." [42]As he was coming forward, the demon threw him to the ground in a convulsion; but Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, healed the boy, and returned him to his father. [43]And all were astonished by the majesty of God.

The Second Prediction of the Passion. While they were all amazed at his every deed, he said to his disciples, [44]"Pay attention to what I am telling you. The Son of Man is to be handed over to men." [45]But they did not understand this saying; its meaning was hidden from them so that they should not understand it, and they were afraid to ask him about this saying.

The Greatest in the Kingdom. [46]An argument arose among the disciples about which of them was the greatest. [47]Jesus realized the intention of their hearts and took a child and placed it by his side [48]and said to them, "Whoever receives this child in my name receives me, and whoever receives me receives the one who sent me. For the one who is least among all of you is the one who is the greatest."

Another Exorcist. [49]Then John said in reply, "Master, we saw someone casting out demons in your name and we tried to prevent him because he does not follow in our company." [50]Jesus said to him, "Do not prevent him, for whoever is not against you is for you."

Departure for Jerusalem; Samaritan Inhospitality. [51]When the days for his being taken up were fulfilled, he resolutely determined to journey to Jerusalem, [52]and he sent messengers ahead of him. On the way they entered a Samaritan village to prepare for his reception there, [53]but they would not welcome him because the destination of his journey was Jerusalem. [54]When the disciples James and John saw this they asked, "Lord, do you want us to call down fire from heaven to consume them?" [55]Jesus turned and rebuked them, [56]and they journeyed to another village.

The Would-be Followers of Jesus. [57]As they were proceeding on their journey someone said to him, "I will follow you wherever you go." [58]Jesus answered him, "Foxes have dens and birds of the sky have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to rest his head." [59]And to another he said, "Follow me." But he replied, "[Lord,] let me go first and bury my father." [60]But he answered him, "Let the dead bury their dead. But you, go and proclaim the kingdom of God." [61]And another said, "I will follow you, Lord, but first let me say farewell to my family at home." [62][To him] Jesus said, "No one who sets a hand to the plow and looks to what was left behind is fit for the kingdom of God."

☐ EZEKIEL 30-31

The Day of the Lord Against Egypt. 30:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord GOD:

Wail: "Alas the day!"
[3]Yes, a day approaches,
a day of the Lord approaches:
A day of dark cloud,
a time appointed for the nations.
[4]A sword will come against Egypt,
there will be anguish in Ethiopia,
When the slain fall in Egypt
when its hordes are seized,
its foundations razed.
[5]Ethiopia, Put, and Lud,
all the mixed rabble and Kub,
and the people of allied lands
shall fall by the sword with them.
[6]Thus says the LORD:
The pillars of Egypt shall fall,
and its proud strength sink;
From Migdol to Syene,
its people will fall by the sword—
oracle of the Lord GOD.
[7]It shall be the most desolate
among desolate lands,
Its cities the most ruined
among ruined cities.
[8]They shall know that I am the LORD,
when I set fire to Egypt,
and all its allies are shattered.
[9]On that day, messengers from me will go forth in ships
to terrorize confident Ethiopia.

Anguish will be among them
on Egypt's day—it is certainly coming!
10Thus says the Lord GOD:
I will put an end to Egypt's hordes
by the hand of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon: 11He and his army with him,
the most ruthless of nations,
will be brought in to devastate the land.
They will draw their swords against Egypt
and fill the land with the slain.
12Then I will dry up the streams of the Nile,
and sell the land into evil hands;
By the hand of foreigners I will devastate
the land and everything in it.
I, the LORD, have spoken.
13Thus says the Lord GOD:
I will destroy idols,
and put an end to images in Memphis.
There will never again be a prince
over the land of Egypt.
Instead, I will spread fear
throughout the land of Egypt.
14I will devastate Pathros,
set fire to Zoan,
and execute judgment against Thebes.
15I will pour out my wrath on Pelusium,
the fortress of Egypt,
and cut off the troops of Thebes.
16I will set fire to Egypt;
Pelusium will writhe in anguish,
Thebes will be breached,
and Memphis besieged in daylight.
17The warriors of On and Pi-beseth
will fall by the sword,
the cities taken captive.
18In Tahpanhes, the day will turn dark when I break the scepter of Egypt there and put an end to its proud strength.
Dark clouds will cover it,
and its women will go into captivity.
19I will execute judgment against Egypt
that they may know that I am the LORD.

Pharaoh's Broken Arm. 20On the seventh day of the first month in the eleventh year, the word of the LORD came to me: 21Son of man, I have broken the arm of Pharaoh, king of Egypt. See! It has not been immobilized for healing, nor set with a splint to make it strong enough to grasp a sword. 22Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: See! I am coming against Pharaoh, king of Egypt. I will break both his arms, the strong one and the broken one, making the sword fall from his hand. 23I will scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout other lands. 24I will, however, strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon and put my sword in his hand so he can bring it against Egypt for plunder and pillage. [25]When I strengthen the arms of the king of Babylon, and the arms of Pharaoh collapse, they shall know that I am the LORD, because I put my sword into the hand of the king of Babylon to wield against the land of Egypt. [26]When I scatter the Egyptians among the nations and disperse them throughout other lands, they shall know that I am the LORD.

Allegory of the Cedar. 31:1 On the first day of the third month in the eleventh year, the word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, say to Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, and to his hordes: In your greatness, whom do you resemble?

[3]Assyria! It is Assyria!
A cedar of Lebanon—Beautiful branches,
thick shade,
Towering heights,
its crown in the clouds!
[4]The waters made it grow,
the deep made it tall, Letting its currents flow
around the place it was planted,
Then sending its channels
to all the other trees of the field.
[5]Thereupon it towered in height above all the trees in the field;
Its branches were numerous
and its boughs long,
Because of the many waters
sent to its shoots.
[6]In its branches nested
all the birds of the sky;
Under its boughs all the wild animals
gave birth,
And in its shade dwelt
all the mighty nations.
[7]It was magnificent in size
and in the length of its branches,
For its roots reached down
to the many waters.
[8]In the garden of God,
no cedars could rival it,
No juniper could equal its branches,
no plane tree match its boughs.
No tree in the garden of God
could match its beauty.
[9]I made it beautiful
with abundant foliage,
So that all the trees in Eden
were envious of it.
[10]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD:
Because it was arrogant about its height,
lifting its crown among the clouds
and exalting itself because of its size,

[11]I handed it over to a ruler of nations
to deal with it according to its evil.
I have cast it off,
[12]and foreigners have cut it down,
The most ruthless nations,
have hurled it on the mountains.
Its boughs fell into every valley and its branches lay broken
in every ravine in the land.
All the peoples of the earth
departed from its shade
when it was hurled down.
[13]On its fallen trunk
sit all the birds of the sky;
Beside its fallen branches,
are found all the beasts of the field.
[14]This has happened so no well-watered tree will gain such lofty height,
or lift its crown to the clouds.
Not one of those fed by water
will tower in height over the rest.
For all of them are destined for death,
for the underworld, among mere mortals,

with those who go down to the pit.
[15]Thus says the Lord GOD:
On the day it went down to Sheol,
I made the deep close up
in mourning for it.
I restrained the currents of the deep,
and held back the many waters.
I darkened Lebanon because of it,
and all the trees of the field
languished because of it.
[16]At the sound of its fall,
I made nations shudder,
When I cast it down to Sheol
with those who go down to the pit.
In the underworld
all the trees of Eden took comfort:
Lebanon's choicest and best,
all that were fed by the waters.
[17]They too will go down to Sheol,
to those slain by the sword,
Its allies who dwelt
in its shade among the nations.
[18]To whom among the trees of Eden
do you compare in glory and greatness?
You will be brought down
with the trees of Eden to the underworld,
And lie among the uncircumcised,
with those slain by the sword.
Such is Pharaoh and all his hordes—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

☐ LUKE 10

The Mission of the Seventy-two. 10:1 After this the Lord appointed seventy [-two] others whom he sent ahead of him in pairs to every town and place he intended to visit. [2]He said to them, "The harvest is abundant but the laborers are few; so ask the master of the harvest to send out laborers for his harvest. [3]Go on your way; behold, I am sending you like lambs among wolves. [4]Carry no money bag, no sack, no sandals; and greet no one along the way. [5]Into whatever house you enter, first say, 'Peace to this household.' [6]If a peaceful person lives there, your peace will rest on him; but if not, it will return to you. [7]Stay in the same house and eat and drink what is offered to you, for the laborer deserves his payment. Do not move about from one house to another. [8]Whatever town you enter and they welcome you, eat what is set before you, [9]cure the sick in it and say to them, 'The kingdom of God is at hand for you.' [10]Whatever town you enter and they do not receive you, go out into the streets and say, [11]'The dust of your town that clings to our feet, even that we shake off against you.' Yet know this: the kingdom of God is at hand. [12]I tell you, it will be more tolerable for Sodom on that day than for that town.

Reproaches to Unrepentant Towns. [13]"Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty deeds done in your midst had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would long ago have repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes. [14]But it will be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the judgment than for you. [15]And as for you, Capernaum, 'Will you be exalted to heaven? You will go down to the netherworld.' " [16]Whoever listens to you listens to me. Whoever rejects you rejects me. And whoever rejects me rejects the one who sent me."

Return of the Seventy-two. [17]The seventy [-two] returned rejoicing, and said, "Lord, even the demons are subject to us because of your name." [18]Jesus said, "I have observed Satan fall like lightning from the sky. [19]Behold, I have given you the power 'to tread upon serpents' and scorpions and upon the full force of the enemy and nothing will harm you. [20]Nevertheless, do not rejoice because the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice because your names are written in heaven."

Praise of the Father. [21]At that very moment he rejoiced [in] the holy Spirit and said, "I give you praise, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, for although you have hidden these things from the wise and the learned you have revealed them to the childlike. Yes, Father, such has been your gracious will. [22]All things have been handed over to me by my Father. No one knows who the Son is except the Father, and who the Father is except the Son and anyone to whom the Son wishes to reveal him."

The Privileges of Discipleship. [23]Turning to the disciples in private he said, "Blessed are the eyes that see what you see. [24]For I say to you, many prophets and kings desired to see what you see, but did not see it, and to hear what you hear, but did not hear it."

The Greatest Commandment. [25]There was a scholar of the law who stood up to test him and said, "Teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?" [26]Jesus said to him, "What is written in the law? How do you read it?" [27]He said in reply, "You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your being, with all your strength, and with all your mind, and your neighbor as yourself." [28]He replied to him, "You have answered correctly; do this and you will live."

The Parable of the Good Samaritan. [29]But because he wished to justify himself, he said to Jesus, "And who is my neighbor?" [30]Jesus replied, "A man fell victim to robbers as he went down from Jerusalem to Jericho. They stripped and beat him and went off leaving him half-dead. [31]A priest happened to be going down that road, but when he saw him, he passed by on the opposite side. [32]Likewise a Levite came to the place, and when he saw him, he passed by on the opposite side. [33]But a Samaritan traveler who came upon him was moved with compassion at the sight. [34]He approached the victim, poured oil and wine over his wounds and bandaged them. Then he lifted him up on his own animal, took him to an inn and cared for him. [35]The next day he took out two silver coins and gave them to the innkeeper with the instruction, 'Take care of him. If you spend more than what I have given you, I shall repay you on my way back.' [36]Which of these three, in your opinion, was neighbor to the robbers' victim?" [37]He answered, "The one who treated him with mercy." Jesus said to him, "Go and do likewise."

Martha and Mary. [38]As they continued their journey he entered a village where a woman whose name was Martha welcomed him. [39]She had a sister named Mary [who] sat beside the Lord at his feet listening to him speak. [40]Martha, burdened with much serving, came to him and said, "Lord, do you not care that my sister has left me by myself to do the serving? Tell her to help me." [41]The Lord said to her in reply, "Martha, Martha, you are anxious and worried about many things. [42]There is need of only one thing. Mary has chosen the better part and it will not be taken from her."

☐ EZEKIEL 32-33

Lament over Pharaoh. 32:1 On the first day of the twelfth month in the twelfth year, the word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, utter a lament over Pharaoh, the king of Egypt, and say to him:

You liken yourself to a lion among nations,
but you are like the monster in the sea!
Thrashing about in your streams,

churning the water with your feet,
polluting the streams.
[3]Thus says the Lord GOD:
I will cast my net over you
by assembling many armies,
and I will hoist you up in my mesh.
[4]I will hurl you onto the land,
cast you into an open field.
I will make all the birds of the sky
roost upon you,
The beasts of the whole earth
gorge themselves on you.
[5]I will strew your flesh on the mountains,
and fill the valleys with your corpse.
[6]I will drench the land,
pouring out your blood on the mountain;
filling up the ravines with you.
[7]When I extinguish you,
I will cover the heavens
and darken all its stars.
The sun I will cover with clouds;
the moon will not give light.
[8]All the shining lights in the heavens
I will darken over you;
I will spread darkness over your land—
oracle of the Lord GOD.
[9]I will trouble the hearts
of many peoples,
When I bring you captive among the nations,
to lands you do not know.
[10]I will fill many nations with horror;
their kings will shudder at you,
when I brandish my sword in their faces.
They will tremble violently
fearing for their lives on the day of your fall.
[11]For thus says the Lord GOD:
The sword of the king of Babylon
will come against you.
[12]I will cut down your hordes
with the swords of warriors,
all of them, ruthless nations;
They will lay waste the glory of Egypt,
and all its hordes will be destroyed.
[13]I will wipe out all the livestock
from the banks of its many waters;
No human foot will disturb them again,
no animal hoof stir them up.
[14]Then I will make their waters clear and their streams flow like oil—

oracle of the Lord GOD.
15 When I make Egypt a wasteland
and the land destitute of everything,
When I strike down all its inhabitants
they shall know that I am the LORD.
16 This is the lamentation
women of all nations will chant;
They will raise it over Egypt;
over all its hordes they will chant it—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

Another Lament over Egypt. 17 On the fifteenth day of that month in the twelfth year, the word of the LORD came to me:

18 Son of man, wail over the hordes of Egypt—
you and the women of mighty nations—
Send them down to the underworld,
with those who go down into the pit.
19 Whom do you excel in beauty? Go down!
Be laid to rest with the uncircumcised!
20 Among those slain by the sword they will fall,
for the sword has been appointed!
Seize Egypt and all its hordes.
21 Out of Sheol the mighty warriors
will speak to him and his allies:
Let them descend and lie down among the uncircumcised,
those slain by the sword!
22 There is Assyria and all its company,
around it are its graves,
all of them slain, fallen by the sword.
23 The graves are set in the recesses of the pit;
Its company is assembled
around its grave,
All of them slain, fallen by the sword,
those who spread terror in the land of the living.
24 There is Elam and all its horde
around its grave,
All of them slain, fallen by the sword;
they descended uncircumcised
into the underworld,
Those who spread their terror
in the land of the living.
They bear their disgrace
with those who go down into the pit.
25 Among the slain is set its bed,
with all its horde around its grave;
All of them uncircumcised,
slain by the sword
Because of the terror they spread

in the land of the living.
They bear their disgrace
with those who go down into the pit.
Among the slain it is set!
[26]There is Meshech and Tubal and all the hordes surrounding it with their graves.
All of them uncircumcised,
slain by the sword
Because they spread their terror
in the land of the living.
[27]They do not rest with the warriors
who fell in ancient times,
who went down to Sheol fully armed.
Their swords were placed under their heads
and their shields laid over their bones;
For there was terror of these warriors
in the land of the living.
[28]But as for you, among the uncircumcised
you will be broken and laid to rest
with those slain by the sword.
[29]There is Edom, all its kings and princes, who, despite their might,
are put with those slain by the sword.
They lie among the uncircumcised,
with those who go down into the pit.
[30]There are the generals of the north and all the Sidonians
Who have gone down with the slain,
because of the terror their might inspired.
They lie uncircumcised
with those slain by the sword,
And bear their shame with those who have gone down into the pit.
[31]When Pharaoh sees them,
he will be consoled on behalf of all his hordes,
slain by the sword—
Pharaoh and all his army—
oracle of the Lord GOD.
[32]I spread terror of him
in the land of the living;
Now he is laid among the uncircumcised,
with those slain by the sword—
Pharaoh and all his horde—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Prophet as Sentinel. 33:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, speak to your people and tell them: When I bring the sword against a land, if the people of that land select one of their number as a sentinel for them, [3]and the sentinel sees the sword coming against the land, he should blow the trumpet to warn the people. [4]If they hear the trumpet but do not take the warning and a sword attacks and kills them, their blood will be on their own heads. [5]They heard the trumpet blast but ignored the warning; their blood is on them. If they had heeded the warning, they could have escaped with their lives. [6]If, however, the sentinel sees the sword coming and does not blow the trumpet, so that the sword attacks and takes someone's life, his life will be taken for his own sin, but I will hold the sentinel responsible for his blood.

[7]You, son of man—I have appointed you as a sentinel for the house of Israel; when you hear a word from my mouth, you must warn them for me. [8]When I say to the wicked, "You wicked, you must die," and you do not speak up to warn the wicked about their ways, they shall die in their sins, but I will hold you responsible for their blood. [9]If, however, you warn the wicked to turn from their ways, but they do not, then they shall die in their sins, but you shall save your life.

Individual Retribution. [10]As for you, son of man, speak to the house of Israel: You people say, "Our crimes and our sins weigh us down; we are rotting away because of them. How can we survive?" [11]Answer them: As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—I swear I take no pleasure in the death of the wicked, but rather that they turn from their ways and live. Turn, turn from your evil ways! Why should you die, house of Israel?

[12]As for you, son of man, say to your people: The justice of the just will not save them on the day they sin; the wickedness of the wicked will not bring about their downfall on the day they turn from their wickedness. No, the just cannot save their lives on the day they sin. [13]Even though I say to the just that they shall surely live, if they, relying on their justice, do wrong, none of their just deeds shall be remembered; because of the wrong they have done, they shall die. [14]And though I say to the wicked that they shall die, if they turn away from sin and do what is just and right—[15]returning pledges, restoring stolen goods, walking by statutes that bring life, doing nothing wrong—they shall surely live; they shall not die. [16]None of the sins they committed shall be remembered against them. If they do what is right and just, they shall surely live.

[17]Your people say, "The way of the LORD is not fair!" But it is their way that is not fair. [18]When the just turn away from justice and do wrong, they shall die for it. [19]When the wicked turn away from wickedness and do what is right and just, because of this they shall live. [20]But still you say, "The way of the LORD is not fair!" I will judge each of you according to your ways, house of Israel.

The Survivor from Jerusalem. [21]On the fifth day of the tenth month, in the twelfth year of our exile, the survivor came to me from Jerusalem and said, "The city is taken!" [22]The hand of the LORD had come upon me the evening before the survivor arrived and opened my mouth when he reached me in the morning. My mouth was opened, and I was mute no longer.

Those Left in Judah. [23]The word of the LORD came to me: [24]Son of man, these who live among the ruins in the land of Israel are saying: "Abraham was only one person, yet he was given possession of the land. Since we are many, the land must be given to us as our possession." [25]Therefore say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: You eat on the mountains, you raise your eyes to your idols, you shed blood—yet you would keep possession of the land? [26]You rely on your swords, you commit abominations, each defiles his neighbor's wife—yet you would keep possession of the land? [27]Say this to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: As I live, those among the ruins shall fall by the sword; those in the open field I have made food for the wild beasts; and those in rocky hideouts and caves shall die by the plague. [28]I will make the land a desolate waste, so that its proud strength will come to an end, and the mountains of Israel shall be so desolate that no one will cross them. [29]Thus they shall know that I am the LORD, when I make the land a desolate waste because of all the abominations they committed.

Popular Misunderstanding. [30]As for you, son of man, your people are talking about you beside the walls and in the doorways of houses. They say to one another, "Let's go hear the latest word that comes from the LORD." [31]My people come to you, gathering as a crowd and sitting in front of you to hear your words, but they will not act on them. Love songs are on their lips, but in their hearts they pursue dishonest gain. [32]For them you are only a singer of love songs, with a pleasant voice and a clever touch. They listen to your words, but they do not obey them. [33]But when it comes—and it is surely coming!—they shall know that there was a prophet among them.

☐ LUKE 11

The Lord's Prayer. 11:1 He was praying in a certain place, and when he had finished, one of his disciples said to him, "Lord, teach us to pray just as John taught his disciples." [2]He said to them, "When you pray, say:

Father, hallowed be your name,
your kingdom come.
[3]Give us each day our daily bread
[4]and forgive us our sins
for we ourselves forgive everyone in debt to us,
and do not subject us to the final test."

Further Teachings on Prayer. [5]And he said to them, "Suppose one of you has a friend to whom he goes at midnight and says, 'Friend, lend me three loaves of bread, [6]for a friend of mine has arrived at my house from a journey and I have nothing to offer him,' [7]and he says in reply from within, 'Do not bother me; the door has already been locked and my children and I are already in bed. I cannot get up to give you anything.' [8]I tell you, if he does not get up to give him the loaves because of their friendship, he will get up to give him whatever he needs because of his persistence.

The Answer to Prayer. [9]"And I tell you, ask and you will receive; seek and you will find; knock and the door will be opened to you. [10]For everyone who asks, receives; and the one who seeks, finds; and to the one who knocks, the door will be opened. [11]What father among you would hand his son a snake when he asks for a fish? [12]Or hand him a scorpion when he asks for an egg? [13]If you then, who are wicked, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will the Father in heaven give the holy Spirit to those who ask him?"

Jesus and Beelzebul. [14]He was driving out a demon [that was] mute, and when the demon had gone out, the mute person spoke and the crowds were amazed. [15]Some of them said, "By the power of Beelzebul, the prince of demons, he drives out demons." [16]Others, to test him, asked him for a sign from heaven. [17]But he knew their thoughts and said to them, "Every kingdom divided against itself will be laid waste and house will fall against house. [18]And if Satan is divided against himself, how will his kingdom stand? For you say that it is by Beelzebul that I drive out demons. [19]If I, then, drive out demons by Beelzebul, by whom do your own people drive them out? Therefore they will be your judges. [20]But if it is by the finger of God that [I] drive out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you. [21]When a strong man fully armed guards his palace, his possessions are safe. [22]But when one stronger than he attacks and overcomes him, he takes away the armor on which he relied and distributes the spoils. [23]Whoever is not with me is against me, and whoever does not gather with me scatters.

The Return of the Unclean Spirit. [24]"When an unclean spirit goes out of someone, it roams through arid regions searching for rest but, finding none, it says, 'I shall return to my home from which I came.' [25]But upon returning, it finds it swept clean and put in order. [26]Then it goes and brings back seven other spirits more wicked than itself who move in and dwell there, and the last condition of that person is worse than the first."

True Blessedness. [27]While he was speaking, a woman from the crowd called out and said to him, "Blessed is the womb that carried you and the breasts at which you nursed." [28]He replied, "Rather, blessed are those who hear the word of God and observe it."

The Demand for a Sign. [29]While still more people gathered in the crowd, he said to them, "This generation is an evil generation; it seeks a sign, but no sign will be given it, except the sign of Jonah. [30]Just as Jonah became a sign to the Ninevites, so will the Son of Man be to this generation. [31]At the judgment the queen of the south will rise with the men of this generation and she will condemn them, because she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and there is something greater than Solomon here. [32]At the judgment the men of Nineveh will arise with this generation and condemn it, because at the preaching of Jonah they repented, and there is something greater than Jonah here.

The Simile of Light. [33]"No one who lights a lamp hides it away or places it [under a bushel basket], but on a lampstand so that those who enter might see the light. [34]The lamp of the body is your eye. When your eye is sound, then your whole body is filled with light, but when it is bad, then your body is in darkness. [35]Take care, then, that the light in you not become darkness. [36]If your whole body is full of light, and no part of it is in darkness, then it will be as full of light as a lamp illuminating you with its brightness."

Denunciation of the Pharisees and Scholars of the Law. [37]After he had spoken, a Pharisee invited him to dine at his home. He entered and reclined at table to eat. [38]The Pharisee was amazed to see that he did not observe the prescribed washing before the meal. [39]The Lord said to him, "Oh you Pharisees! Although you cleanse the outside of the cup and the dish, inside you are filled with plunder and evil. [40]You fools! Did not the maker of the outside also make the inside? [41]But as to what is within, give alms, and behold, everything will be clean for you. [42]Woe to you Pharisees! You pay tithes of mint and of rue and of every garden herb, but you pay no attention to judgment and to love for God. These you should have done, without overlooking the others. [43]Woe to you Pharisees! You love the seat of honor in synagogues and greetings in marketplaces. [44]Woe to you! You are like unseen graves over which people unknowingly walk."

[45]Then one of the scholars of the law said to him in reply, "Teacher, by saying this you are insulting us too." [46]And he said, "Woe also to you scholars of the law! You impose on people burdens hard to carry, but you yourselves do not lift one finger to touch them. [47]Woe to you! You build the memorials of the prophets whom your ancestors killed. [48]Consequently, you bear witness and give consent to the deeds of your ancestors, for they killed them and you do the building. [49]Therefore, the wisdom of God said, 'I will send to them prophets and apostles; some of them they will kill and persecute' [50]in order that this generation might be charged with the blood of all the prophets shed since the foundation of the world, [51]from the blood of Abel to the blood of Zechariah who died between the altar and the temple building. Yes, I tell you, this generation will be charged with their blood! [52]Woe to you, scholars of the law! You have taken away the key of knowledge. You yourselves did not enter and you stopped those trying to enter." [53]When he left, the scribes and Pharisees began to act with hostility toward him and to interrogate him about many things, [54]for they were plotting to catch him at something he might say.

The Presentation of Mary

It was fitting for the Queen of virgins, by a singular privilege of sanctity, to lead a life entirely free from sin, so that while she ministered to the Destroyer of death and sin, she should obtain the gift of life and righteousness for all.

— St. Bernard of Clairvaux

Parable of the Shepherds. 34:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, prophesy against the shepherds of Israel. Prophesy and say to them: To the shepherds, thus says the Lord GOD: Woe to the shepherds of Israel who have been pasturing themselves! Should not shepherds pasture the flock? [3]You consumed milk, wore wool, and slaughtered fatlings, but the flock you did not pasture. [4]You did not strengthen the weak nor heal the sick nor bind up the injured. You did not bring back the stray or seek the lost but ruled them harshly and brutally. [5]So they were scattered for lack of a shepherd, and became food for all the wild beasts. They were scattered [6]and wandered over all the mountains and high hills; over the entire surface of the earth my sheep were scattered. No one looked after them or searched for them.

[7]Therefore, shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: [8]As I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—because my sheep became plunder, because my sheep became food for wild beasts, for lack of a shepherd, because my shepherds did not look after my sheep, but pastured themselves and did not pasture my sheep, [9]therefore, shepherds, hear the word of the LORD: [10]Thus says the Lord GOD: Look! I am coming against these shepherds. I will take my sheep out of their hand and put a stop to their shepherding my flock, so that these shepherds will no longer pasture them. I will deliver my flock from their mouths so it will not become their food.

[11]For thus says the Lord GOD: Look! I myself will search for my sheep and examine them. [12]As a shepherd examines his flock while he himself is among his scattered sheep, so will I examine my sheep. I will deliver them from every place where they were scattered on the day of dark clouds. [13]I will lead them out from among the peoples and gather them from the lands; I will bring them back to their own country and pasture them upon the mountains of Israel, in the ravines and every inhabited place in the land. [14]In good pastures I will pasture them; on the mountain heights of Israel will be their grazing land. There they will lie down on good grazing ground; in rich pastures they will be pastured on the mountains of Israel. 15I myself will pasture my sheep; I myself will give them rest—oracle of the Lord GOD. 16The lost I will search out, the strays I will bring back, the injured I will bind up, and the sick I will heal; but the sleek and the strong I will destroy. I will shepherd them in judgment.

Separation of the Sheep. 17As for you, my flock, thus says the Lord GOD: I will judge between one sheep and another, between rams and goats. 18Was it not enough for you to graze on the best pasture, that you had to trample the rest of your pastures with your hooves? Or to drink the clearest water, that you had to pollute the rest with your hooves? 19Thus my flock had to graze on what your hooves had trampled and drink what your hooves had polluted. 20Therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Now I will judge between the fat and the lean. 21Because you push with flank and shoulder, and butt all the weak sheep with your horns until you drive them off, 22I will save my flock so they can no longer be plundered; I will judge between one sheep and another. 23I will appoint one shepherd over them to pasture them, my servant David; he shall pasture them and be their shepherd. 24I, the LORD, will be their God, and my servant David will be prince in their midst. I, the LORD, have spoken.

25I will make a covenant of peace with them and rid the country of wild beasts so they will dwell securely in the wilderness and sleep in the forests. 26I will settle them around my hill and send rain in its season, the blessing of abundant rain. 27The trees of the field shall bear their fruits, and the land its crops, and they shall dwell securely on their own soil. They shall know that I am the LORD when I break the bars of their yoke and deliver them from the power of those who enslaved them. 28They shall no longer be plundered by the nations nor will wild beasts devour them, but they shall dwell securely, with no one to frighten them. 29I will prepare for them peaceful fields for planting so they are never again swept away by famine in the land or bear taunts from the nations. 30Thus they shall know that I, the LORD, their God, am with them, and that they are my people, the house of Israel—oracle of the Lord GOD. 31Yes, you are my flock: you people are the flock of my pasture, and I am your God—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Against Edom. 35:1 The word of the LORD came to me: 2Son of man, set your face against Mount Seir and prophesy against it. 3Say to it: Thus says the Lord GOD: Watch out! I am against you, Mount Seir. I will stretch out my hand against you and turn you into a desolate waste. 4Your cities I will turn into ruins, and you shall be a desolation; then you shall know that I am the LORD.

5Because you nursed a long-standing hatred and handed the Israelites over to the sword at the time of their collapse, at the time of their final punishment, 6therefore, as I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—you are guilty of blood, and blood, I swear, shall pursue you. 7I will make Mount Seir a desolate waste and cut off from it anyone who travels across it and back. 8I will fill its mountains with the slain; those slain by the sword shall fall on your hills, into your valleys and all your ravines.

9I will make you a desolation forever,
your cities will not be inhabited,
and you shall know that I am the LORD.

10Because you said: The two nations and the two lands belong to me; let us take possession of them—although the LORD was there— 11therefore, as I live—oracle of the Lord GOD—I will deal with you according to the anger and envy you dealt out to them in your hatred, and I will make myself known to them when I execute judgment on you, 12then you shall know that I am the LORD.

I have heard all the insults you spoke against the mountains of Israel, saying: They are desolate; they have been given to us to devour. 13You boasted against me with your mouths and used insolent words against me. I heard everything! 14Thus says the Lord GOD: Because you rejoiced that the whole land was desolate, so I will do to you. 15As you rejoiced over the devastation of the heritage of the house of Israel, the same I will do to you: you will become a ruin, Mount Seir, and the whole of Edom, all of it! Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

The Leaven of the Pharisees. 12:1 Meanwhile, so many people were crowding together that they were trampling one another underfoot. He began to speak, first to his disciples, "Beware of the leaven—that is, the hypocrisy—of the Pharisees.

Courage under Persecution. [2]"There is nothing concealed that will not be revealed, nor secret that will not be known. [3]Therefore whatever you have said in the darkness will be heard in the light, and what you have whispered behind closed doors will be proclaimed on the housetops. [4]I tell you, my friends, do not be afraid of those who kill the body but after that can do no more. [5]I shall show you whom to fear. Be afraid of the one who after killing has the power to cast into Gehenna; yes, I tell you, be afraid of that one. [6]Are not five sparrows sold for two small coins? Yet not one of them has escaped the notice of God. [7]Even the hairs of your head have all been counted. Do not be afraid. You are worth more than many sparrows. [8]I tell you, everyone who acknowledges me before others the Son of Man will acknowledge before the angels of God. [9]But whoever denies me before others will be denied before the angels of God.

Sayings about the Holy Spirit. [10]"Everyone who speaks a word against the Son of Man will be forgiven, but the one who blasphemes against the holy Spirit will not be forgiven. [11]When they take you before synagogues and before rulers and authorities, do not worry about how or what your defense will be or about what you are to say. [12]For the holy Spirit will teach you at that moment what you should say."

Saying against Greed. [13]Someone in the crowd said to him, "Teacher, tell my brother to share the inheritance with me." [14]He replied to him, "Friend, who appointed me as your judge and arbitrator?" [15]Then he said to the crowd, "Take care to guard against all greed, for though one may be rich, one's life does not consist of possessions."

Parable of the Rich Fool. [16]Then he told them a parable. "There was a rich man whose land produced a bountiful harvest. [17]He asked himself, 'What shall I do, for I do not have space to store my harvest?' [18]And he said, 'This is what I shall do: I shall tear down my barns and build larger ones. There I shall store all my grain and other goods [19]and I shall say to myself, "Now as for you, you have so many good things stored up for many years, rest, eat, drink, be merry!" ' [20]But God said to him, 'You fool, this night your life will be demanded of you; and the things you have prepared, to whom will they belong?' [21]Thus will it be for the one who stores up treasure for himself but is not rich in what matters to God."

Dependence on God. [22]He said to [his] disciples, "Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life and what you will eat, or about your body and what you will wear. [23]For life is more than food and the body more than clothing. [24]Notice the ravens: they do not sow or reap; they have neither storehouse nor barn, yet God feeds them. How much more important are you than birds! [25]Can any of you by worrying add a moment to your lifespan? [26]If even the smallest things are beyond your control, why are you anxious about the rest? [27]Notice how the flowers grow. They do not toil or spin. But I tell you, not even Solomon in all his splendor was dressed like one of them. [28]If God so clothes the grass in the field that grows today and is thrown into the oven tomorrow, will he not much more provide for you, O you of little faith? [29]As for you, do not seek what you are to eat and what you are to drink, and do not worry anymore. [30]All the nations of the world seek for these things, and your Father knows that you need them. [31]Instead, seek his kingdom, and these other things will be given you besides. [32]Do not be afraid any longer, little flock, for your Father is pleased to give you the kingdom. [33]Sell your belongings and give alms. Provide money bags for yourselves that do not wear out, an inexhaustible treasure in heaven that no thief can reach nor moth destroy. [34]For where your treasure is, there also will your heart be.

Vigilant and Faithful Servants. [35]"Gird your loins and light your lamps [36]and be like servants who await their master's return from a wedding, ready to open immediately when he comes and knocks. [37]Blessed are those servants whom the master finds vigilant on his arrival. Amen, I say to you, he will gird himself, have them recline at table, and proceed to wait on them. [38]And should he come in the second or third watch and find them prepared in this way, blessed are those servants. [39]Be sure of this: if the master of the house had known the hour when the thief was coming, he would not have let his house be broken into. [40]You also must be prepared, for at an hour you do not expect, the Son of Man will come."

[41]Then Peter said, "Lord, is this parable meant for us or for everyone?" [42]And the Lord replied, "Who, then, is the faithful and prudent steward whom the master will put in charge of his servants to distribute [the] food allowance at the proper time? [43]Blessed is that servant whom his master on arrival finds doing so. [44]Truly, I say to you, he will put him in charge of all his property. [45]But if that servant says to himself, 'My master is delayed in coming,' and begins to beat the menservants and the maidservants, to eat and drink and get drunk, [46]then that servant's master will come on an unexpected day and at an unknown hour and will punish him severely and assign him a place with the unfaithful. 47That servant who knew his master's will but did not make preparations nor act in accord with his will shall be beaten severely; 48and the servant who was ignorant of his master's will but acted in a way deserving of a severe beating shall be beaten only lightly. Much will be required of the person entrusted with much, and still more will be demanded of the person entrusted with more.

Jesus: A Cause of Division. 49"I have come to set the earth on fire, and how I wish it were already blazing! 50There is a baptism with which I must be baptized, and how great is my anguish until it is accomplished! 51Do you think that I have come to establish peace on the earth? No, I tell you, but rather division. 52From now on a household of five will be divided, three against two and two against three; 53a father will be divided against his son and a son against his father, a mother against her daughter and a daughter against her mother, a mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law."

Signs of the Times. 54He also said to the crowds, "When you see [a] cloud rising in the west you say immediately that it is going to rain—and so it does; 55and when you notice that the wind is blowing from the south you say that it is going to be hot—and so it is. 56You hypocrites! You know how to interpret the appearance of the earth and the sky; why do you not know how to interpret the present time?

Settlement with an Opponent. 57"Why do you not judge for yourselves what is right? 58If you are to go with your opponent before a magistrate, make an effort to settle the matter on the way; otherwise your opponent will turn you over to the judge, and the judge hand you over to the constable, and the constable throw you into prison. 59I say to you, you will not be released until you have paid the last penny."

Regeneration of the Land. 36:1 As for you, son of man, prophesy to the mountains of Israel and say: Mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD! 2Thus says the Lord GOD: Because the enemy said about you, "Ha! the ancient heights have become our possession," 3therefore prophesy and say: Thus says the Lord GOD: because you have been ridiculed and hounded on all sides for becoming a possession for the remaining nations and have become a byword and a popular jeer, 4therefore, mountains of Israel, hear the word of the Lord GOD: Thus says the Lord GOD to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys, to the desolate ruins and abandoned cities, plundered and mocked by the nations remaining around you: 5therefore thus says the Lord GOD: Truly, with burning jealousy I speak against the remaining nations and against Edom; they all took possession of my land for plunder with wholehearted joy and utter contempt. 6Therefore, prophesy concerning the land of Israel and say to the mountains and hills, to the ravines and valleys: Thus says the Lord GOD: See! in my jealous fury I speak, because you endured the reproach of the nations. 7Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: I raise my hand and swear: the nations around you shall bear their own reproach.

8But you, mountains of Israel, you will sprout branches and bear fruit for my people Israel, for they are coming soon. 9Look! I am for you! I will turn my face toward you; you will be plowed and planted. 10Upon you I will multiply the whole house of Israel; cities shall be resettled and ruins rebuilt. 11Upon you I will multiply people and animals so they can multiply and be fruitful. I will resettle you as in the past, and make you more prosperous than at your beginning; then you shall know that I am the LORD.

12Upon you I will have them walk, my people Israel. They shall possess you, and you shall be their heritage. Never again shall you rob them of their children.

[13]Thus says the Lord GOD: Because they say of you, "You devour your own people, you rob your nation of its children," [14]therefore, you shall never again devour your people or rob your nation of its children—oracle of the Lord GOD. [15]I will no longer make you listen to the reproach of nations. You will never again endure insults from the peoples. Never again shall you rob your nation of its children—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Regeneration of the People. [16]The word of the LORD came to me: [17]Son of man, when the house of Israel lived in its land, they defiled it with their behavior and their deeds. In my sight their behavior was like the impurity of a woman in menstruation. [18]So I poured out my fury upon them for the blood they poured out on the ground and for the idols with which they defiled it. [19]I scattered them among the nations, and they were dispersed through other lands; according to their behavior and their deeds I carried out judgment against them. [20]But when they came to the nations, where they went, they desecrated my holy name, for people said of them: "These are the people of the LORD, yet they had to leave their land." [21]So I relented because of my holy name which the house of Israel desecrated among the nations to which they came. [22]Therefore say to the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord GOD: Not for your sake do I act, house of Israel, but for the sake of my holy name, which you desecrated among the nations to which you came. [23]But I will show the holiness of my great name, desecrated among the nations, in whose midst you desecrated it. Then the nations shall know that I am the LORD—oracle of the Lord GOD—when through you I show my holiness before their very eyes. [24]I will take you away from among the nations, gather you from all the lands, and bring you back to your own soil. [25]I will sprinkle clean water over you to make you clean; from all your impurities and from all your idols I will cleanse you. [26]I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. [27]I will put my spirit within you so that you walk in my statutes, observe my ordinances, and keep them. [28]You will live in the land I gave to your ancestors; you will be my people, and I will be your God. [29]I will deliver you from all your impurities. I will summon the grain and make it plentiful; I will not send famine against you. [30]I will increase the fruit on your trees and the crops in your fields so that you no longer endure reproach from the nations because of famine. [31]Then you will remember your evil behavior and your deeds that were not good; you will loathe yourselves for your sins and your abominations. [32]Not for your sake do I act—oracle of the Lord GOD. Let this be known to you! Be ashamed and humbled because of your behavior, house of Israel.

[33]Thus says the Lord GOD: When I cleanse you of all your guilt, I will resettle the cities and the ruins will be rebuilt. [34]The desolate land will be tilled—once a wasteland in the eyes of every passerby. [35]They will say, "This once-desolate land has become like the garden of Eden. The cities once ruined, laid waste and destroyed, are now resettled and fortified." [36]Then the surrounding nations that remain shall know that I, the LORD, have rebuilt what was destroyed and replanted what was desolate. I, the LORD, have spoken: I will do it. [37]Thus says the Lord GOD: This also I will be persuaded to do for the house of Israel: to multiply them like sheep. [38]Like sheep for sacrifice, like the sheep of Jerusalem on its feast days, the ruined cities shall be filled with flocks of people; then they shall know that I am the LORD.

Vision of the Dry Bones. 37:1 The hand of the LORD came upon me, and he led me out in the spirit of the LORD and set me in the center of the broad valley. It was filled with bones. [2]He made me walk among them in every direction. So many lay on the surface of the valley! How dry they were! [3]He asked me: Son of man, can these bones come back to life? "Lord GOD," I answered, "you alone know that." [4]Then he said to me: Prophesy over these bones, and say to them: Dry bones, hear the word of the LORD! [5]Thus says the Lord GOD to these bones: Listen! I will make breath enter you so you may come to life. [6]I will put sinews on you, make flesh grow over you, cover you with skin, and put breath into you so you may come to life. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. [7]I prophesied as I had been commanded. A sound started up, as I was prophesying, rattling like thunder. The bones came together, bone joining to bone. [8]As I watched, sinews appeared on them, flesh grew over them, skin covered them on top, but there was no breath in them. [9]Then he said to me: Prophesy to the breath, prophesy, son of man! Say to the breath: Thus says the Lord GOD: From the four winds come, O breath, and breathe into these slain that they may come to life. [10]I prophesied as he commanded me, and the breath entered them; they came to life and stood on their feet, a vast army. [11]He said to me: Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel! They are saying, "Our bones are dried up, our hope is lost, and we are cut off." [12]Therefore, prophesy and say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: Look! I am going to open your graves; I will make you come up out of your graves, my people, and bring you back to the land of Israel. [13]You shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves and make you come up out of them, my people! [14]I will put my spirit in you that you may come to life, and I will settle you in your land. Then you shall know that I am the LORD. I have spoken; I will do it —oracle of the LORD.

The Two Sticks. [15]Thus the word of the LORD came to me: [16]As for you, son of man, take one stick and write on it, "Judah and those Israelites associated with it." Then take another stick and write on it: "Joseph, Ephraim's stick, and the whole house of Israel associated with it." [17]Join the two sticks together so they become one stick in your hand. [18]When your people ask you, "Will you not tell us what you mean by all this?" [19]answer them: Thus says the Lord GOD: I will take the stick of Joseph, now in Ephraim's hand, and the tribes of Israel associated with it, and join to it the stick of Judah, making them one stick; they shall become one in my hand. [20]The sticks on which you write, you must hold in your hand in their sight. [21]Say to them: Thus says the Lord GOD: I will soon take the Israelites from among the nations to which they have gone and gather them from all around to bring them back to their land. [22]I will make them one nation in the land, upon the mountains of Israel, and there shall be one king for them all. They shall never again be two nations, never again be divided into two kingdoms.

[23]No longer shall they defile themselves with their idols, their abominations, and all their transgressions. I will deliver them from all their apostasy through which they sinned. I will cleanse them so that they will be my people, and I will be their God. [24]David my servant shall be king over them; they shall all have one shepherd. They shall walk in my ordinances, observe my statutes, and keep them. [25]They shall live on the land I gave to Jacob my servant, the land where their ancestors lived; they shall live on it always, they, their children, and their children's children, with David my servant as their prince forever. [26]I will make a covenant of peace with them; it shall be an everlasting covenant with them. I will multiply them and put my sanctuary among them forever. [27]My dwelling shall be with them; I will be their God, and they will be my people. [28]Then the nations shall know that I, the LORD, make Israel holy, by putting my sanctuary among them forever.

A Call to Repentance. 13:1 At that time some people who were present there told him about the Galileans whose blood Pilate had mingled with the blood of their sacrifices. [2]He said to them in reply, "Do you think that because these Galileans suffered in this way they were greater sinners than all other Galileans? [3]By no means! But I tell you, if you do not repent, you will all perish as they did! [4]Or those eighteen people who were killed when the tower at Siloam fell on them—do you think they were more guilty than everyone else who lived in Jerusalem? [5]By no means! But I tell you, if you do not repent, you will all perish as they did!"

The Parable of the Barren Fig Tree. [6]And he told them this parable: "There once was a person who had a fig tree planted in his orchard, and when he came in search of fruit on it but found none, [7]he said to the gardener, 'For three years now I have come in search of fruit on this fig tree but have found none. [So] cut it down. Why should it exhaust the soil?' [8]He said to him in reply, 'Sir, leave it for this year also, and I shall cultivate the ground around it and fertilize it; [9]it may bear fruit in the future. If not you can cut it down.' "

Cure of a Crippled Woman on the Sabbath. [10]He was teaching in a synagogue on the sabbath. [11]And a woman was there who for eighteen years had been crippled by a spirit; she was bent over, completely incapable of standing erect. [12]When Jesus saw her, he called to her and said, "Woman, you are set free of your infirmity." [13]He laid his hands on her, and she at once stood up straight and glorified God. [14]But the leader of the synagogue, indignant that Jesus had cured on the sabbath, said to the crowd in reply, "There are six days when work should be done. Come on those days to be cured, not on the sabbath day." [15]The Lord said to him in reply, "Hypocrites! Does not each one of you on the sabbath untie his ox or his ass from the manger and lead it out for watering? [16]This daughter of Abraham, whom Satan has bound for eighteen years now, ought she not to have been set free on the sabbath day from this bondage?" [17]When he said this, all his adversaries were humiliated; and the whole crowd rejoiced at all the splendid deeds done by him.

The Parable of the Mustard Seed. [18]Then he said, "What is the kingdom of God like? To what can I compare it? [19]It is like a mustard seed that a person took and planted in the garden. When it was fully grown, it became a large bush and 'the birds of the sky dwelt in its branches.' "

The Parable of the Yeast. [20]Again he said, "To what shall I compare the kingdom of God? [21]It is like yeast that a woman took and mixed [in] with three measures of wheat flour until the whole batch of dough was leavened."

The Narrow Door; Salvation and Rejection. [22]He passed through towns and villages, teaching as he went and making his way to Jerusalem. [23]Someone asked him, "Lord, will only a few people be saved?" He answered them, [24]"Strive to enter through the narrow door, for many, I tell you, will attempt to enter but will not be strong enough. [25]After the master of the house has arisen and locked the door, then will you stand outside knocking and saying, 'Lord, open the door for us.' He will say to you in reply, 'I do not know where you are from.' [26]And you will say, 'We ate and drank in your company and you taught in our streets.' [27]Then he will say to you, 'I do not know where [you] are from. Depart from me, all you evildoers!' [28]And there will be wailing and grinding of teeth when you see Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God and you yourselves cast out. [29]And people will come from the east and the west and from the north and the south and will recline at table in the kingdom of God. [30]For behold, some are last who will be first, and some are first who will be last."

Herod's Desire to Kill Jesus. [31]At that time some Pharisees came to him and said, "Go away, leave this area because Herod wants to kill you." [32]He replied, "Go and tell that fox, 'Behold, I cast out demons and I perform healings today and tomorrow, and on the third day I accomplish my purpose. [33]Yet I must continue on my way today, tomorrow, and the following day, for it is impossible that a prophet should die outside of Jerusalem.'

The Lament over Jerusalem. [34]"Jerusalem, Jerusalem, you who kill the prophets and stone those sent to you, how many times I yearned to gather your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, but you were unwilling! [35]Behold, your house will be abandoned. [But] I tell you, you will not see me until [the time comes when] you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.' "

First Prophecy Against Gog. 38:1 The word of the LORD came to me: [2]Son of man, turn your face against Gog of the land of Magog, the chief prince of Meshech and Tubal, and prophesy against him. [3]Say: Thus says the Lord GOD: See! I am coming against you, Gog, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. [4]I will turn you around and put hooks in your jaws to lead you out with all your army, horses and riders, all well armed, a great company, all of them with bucklers and shields, carrying swords: [5]Persia, Cush, and Put with them, all with shields and helmets; [6]Gomer and all its troops, Beth-togarmah from the recesses of Zaphon and all its troops—many nations will accompany you. [7]Prepare and get ready, you and the company mobilized for you, but in my service. [8]After many days you will be called to battle; in the last years you will invade a land that has survived the sword—a people gathered from many nations back to the long-deserted mountains of Israel, brought forth from the nations to dwell securely. [9]You shall come up like a sudden storm, covering the land like a cloud, you and all your troops and the many nations with you.

[10]Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day thoughts shall cross your mind, and you shall devise an evil plan. [11]You will say, "I will invade a land of open villages and attack a peaceful people who live in security—all of them living without city walls, bars, or gates"— [12]in order to plunder and pillage, turning your hand against resettled ruins, against a people gathered from the nations, a people whose concern is cattle and goods, dwelling at the center of the earth. [13]Sheba and Dedan, the merchants of Tarshish and all its "young lions" shall ask you: "Have you come here to plunder? Have you summoned your army for pillage, to carry off silver and gold, to take away cattle and goods, to seize much plunder?"

Second Prophecy Against Gog. [14]Therefore, prophesy, son of man, and say to Gog: Thus says the Lord GOD: On that day, when my people Israel dwell securely, will you not take action, [15]leaving your base in the recesses of Zaphon, you and many nations with you, all mounted on horses, a great company, a mighty army? [16]You shall rise up over my people Israel like a cloud covering the land. In those last days, I will let you invade my land so that the nations acknowledge me, when in their sight I show my holiness through you, Gog.

[17]Thus says the Lord GOD: About you I spoke in earlier times through my servants, the prophets of Israel, who prophesied at that time that I would let you invade them. [18]But on that day, the day Gog invades the land of Israel—oracle of the Lord GOD—my fury will flare up in my anger, [19]and in my jealousy, with fiery wrath, I swear on that day there will be a great earthquake in the land of Israel. [20]Before me will tremble the fish of the sea and the birds of the air, the beasts of the field and everything that crawls on the ground, and everyone on the face of the earth. Mountains will be overturned, terraces will collapse, and every wall will fall to the ground. [21]Against him I will summon every terror—oracle of the Lord GOD; every man's sword will be raised against his brother. [22]I will execute judgment on him: disease and bloodshed; flooding rain and hailstones, fire and brimstone, I will rain down on him, on his troops and on the many nations with him. [23]And so I will show my greatness and holiness and make myself known in the sight of many nations. Then they shall know that I am the LORD.

Third Prophecy Against Gog. 39:1 You, son of man, prophesy against Gog, saying: Thus says the Lord GOD: Here I am, Gog, coming at you, chief prince of Meshech and Tubal. [2]I will turn you around, even though I urged you on and brought you up from the recesses of Zaphon and let you attack the mountains of Israel. [3]Then I will strike the bow from your left hand and make the arrows drop from your right. [4]Upon the mountains of Israel you shall fall, you and all your troops and the peoples with you. I will give you as food to birds of prey of every kind and to wild beasts to be eaten. [5]In the open field you shall fall, for I have spoken—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[6]I will send fire against Magog and against those who live securely on the seacoast, and they will know that I am the LORD. [7]I will reveal my holy name among my people Israel, and I will never again allow my holy name to be defiled. Then the nations shall know that I am the LORD, the Holy One of Israel. [8]Yes, it is coming! It shall happen—oracle of the Lord GOD. This is the day I decreed.

[9]Everyone living in the cities of Israel shall go out and set fire to the weapons, buckler and shield, bows and arrows, clubs and spears; for seven years they shall make fires with them. [10]They will not need to bring in wood from the fields or cut down trees in the forests, for they will make fires with the weapons, plundering those who plundered them, pillaging those who pillaged them—oracle of the Lord GOD.

[11]On that day I will give Gog a place for his tomb in Israel, the Valley of Abarim, east of the sea. It will block the way of travelers. There Gog shall be buried with all his horde; it shall be called "Valley of Hamon-Gog." [12]For seven months the house of Israel shall bury them in order to cleanse the land. [13]All the people of the land shall take part in the burials, making a name for themselves on the day I am glorified—oracle of the Lord GOD. [14]Men shall be permanently assigned to pass through the land, burying those who lie unburied in order to cleanse the land. For seven months they shall keep searching. [15]When these pass through the land and see a human bone, they must set up a marker beside it, until the gravediggers bury it in the Valley of Hamon-Gog. [16]Also the name of the city is Hamonah. Thus the land will be cleansed.

[17]As for you, son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: Say to birds of every kind and to every wild beast: "Assemble! Come from all sides for the sacrifice I am making for you, a great slaughter on the mountains of Israel. You shall eat flesh and drink blood! [18]You shall eat the flesh of warriors and drink the blood of the princes of the earth: rams, lambs, and goats, bulls and fatlings from Bashan, all of them. [19]From the sacrifice I slaughtered for you, you shall eat fat until you are sated and drink blood until you are drunk. [20]At my table you shall be sated with horse and rider, with warrior and soldier of every kind—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Israel's Return. [21]Then I will display my glory among the nations, and all the nations will see the judgment I executed, the hand I laid upon them. [22]From that day forward the house of Israel shall know that I am the LORD, their God. [23]The nations shall know that the house of Israel went into exile because of its sins. Because they betrayed me, I hid my face from them, handing them over to their foes, so they all fell by the sword. [24]According to their defilement and their crimes I dealt with them, hiding my face from them.

[25]Therefore, thus says the Lord GOD: Now I will restore the fortunes of Jacob and take pity on the whole house of Israel; I am zealous for my holy name. [26]They will forget their shame and all the infidelities they committed against me when they live securely on their own land with no one to frighten them. [27]When I bring them back from the nations and gather them from the lands of their enemies, I will show my holiness through them in the sight of many nations. [28]Thus they shall know that I, the LORD, am their God, since I who exiled them among the nations will gather them back to their land, not leaving any of them behind. [29]I will no longer hide my face from them once I pour out my spirit upon the house of Israel—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Healing of the Man with Dropsy on the Sabbath. 14:1 On a sabbath he went to dine at the home of one of the leading Pharisees, and the people there were observing him carefully. [2]In front of him there was a man suffering from dropsy. [3]Jesus spoke to the scholars of the law and Pharisees in reply, asking, "Is it lawful to cure on the sabbath or not?" [4]But they kept silent; so he took the man and, after he had healed him, dismissed him. [5]Then he said to them, "Who among you, if your son or ox falls into a cistern, would not immediately pull him out on the sabbath day?" [6]But they were unable to answer his question.

Conduct of Invited Guests and Hosts. [7]He told a parable to those who had been invited, noticing how they were choosing the places of honor at the table. [8]"When you are invited by someone to a wedding banquet, do not recline at table in the place of honor. A more distinguished guest than you may have been invited by him, [9]and the host who invited both of you may approach you and say, 'Give your place to this man,' and then you would proceed with embarrassment to take the lowest place. [10]Rather, when you are invited, go and take the lowest place so that when the host comes to you he may say, 'My friend, move up to a higher position.' Then you will enjoy the esteem of your companions at the table. [11]For everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, but the one who humbles himself will be exalted." [12]Then he said to the host who invited him, "When you hold a lunch or a dinner, do not invite your friends or your brothers or your relatives or your wealthy neighbors, in case they may invite you back and you have repayment. [13]Rather, when you hold a banquet, invite the poor, the crippled, the lame, the blind; [14]blessed indeed will you be because of their inability to repay you. For you will be repaid at the resurrection of the righteous."

The Parable of the Great Feast. [15]One of his fellow guests on hearing this said to him, "Blessed is the one who will dine in the kingdom of God." [16]He replied to him, "A man gave a great dinner to which he invited many. [17]When the time for the dinner came, he dispatched his servant to say to those invited, 'Come, everything is now ready.' [18]But one by one, they all began to excuse themselves. The first said to him, 'I have purchased a field and must go to examine it; I ask you, consider me excused.' [19]And another said, 'I have purchased five yoke of oxen and am on my way to evaluate them; I ask you, consider me excused.' [20]And another said, 'I have just married a woman, and therefore I cannot come.' [21]The servant went and reported this to his master. Then the master of the house in a rage commanded his servant, 'Go out quickly into the streets and alleys of the town and bring in here the poor and the crippled, the blind and the lame.' [22]The servant reported, 'Sir, your orders have been carried out and still there is room.' [23]The master then ordered the servant, 'Go out to the highways and hedgerows and make people come in that my home may be filled. [24]For, I tell you, none of those men who were invited will taste my dinner.' "

Sayings on Discipleship. [25]Great crowds were traveling with him, and he turned and addressed them, [26]"If any one comes to me without hating his father and mother, wife and children, brothers and sisters, and even his own life, he cannot be my disciple. [27]Whoever does not carry his own cross and come after me cannot be my disciple. [28]Which of you wishing to construct a tower does not first sit down and calculate the cost to see if there is enough for its completion? [29]Otherwise, after laying the foundation and finding himself unable to finish the work the onlookers should laugh at him [30]and say, 'This one began to build but did not have the resources to finish.' [31]Or what king marching into battle would not first sit down and decide whether with ten thousand troops he can successfully oppose another king advancing upon him with twenty thousand troops? [32]But if not, while he is still far away, he will send a delegation to ask for peace terms. [33]In the same way, everyone of you who does not renounce all his possessions cannot be my disciple.

The Simile of Salt. [34]"Salt is good, but if salt itself loses its taste, with what can its flavor be restored? [35]It is fit neither for the soil nor for the manure pile; it is thrown out. Whoever has ears to hear ought to hear."

Sts. Andrew Dung-Lac and Companions

I'm certain of this: If my conscience were burdened with all the sins it's possible to commit, I would still go and throw myself into Our Lord's arms, my heart all broken up with contrition. I know what tenderness He has for any prodigal son of His who comes back to Him.

☐ EZEKIEL 40-41

The Man with a Measure. 40:1 In the twenty-fifth year of our exile, at the beginning of the year, on the tenth day of the month, fourteen years after the city had been captured, on that very day the hand of the LORD came upon me and brought me back there. [2]In a divine vision he brought me to the land of Israel, where he set me down on a very high mountain. In front of me, there was something like a city built on it. [3]He brought me there, and there standing in the gateway was a man whose appearance was like bronze! He held in his hand a linen cord and a measuring rod. [4]The man said to me, "Son of man, look carefully and listen intently. Pay strict attention to everything I show you, for you have been brought here so that I might show it to you. Then you must tell the house of Israel everything you see." [5]There an outer wall completely surrounded the temple. The measuring rod in the man's hand was six cubits long, each cubit being a cubit plus a handbreadth; he measured the width of the structure, one rod, and its height, one rod.

The East Gate. [6]Going to the gate facing east, he climbed its steps and measured the threshold of the outer gateway as one rod wide. [7]Each cell was one rod long and one rod wide, and there were five cubits between the cells; the threshold of the inner gateway adjoining the vestibule of the gate facing the temple was one rod wide. [8]He also measured the vestibule of the inner gate, [9]eight cubits, and its posts, two cubits each. The vestibule faced the inside. [10]On each side of the east gatehouse were three cells, all the same size; their posts were all the same size. [11]He measured the width of the gate's entryway, ten cubits, and the length of the gate itself, thirteen cubits. [12]The borders in front of the cells on both sides were one cubit, while the cells themselves measured six cubits by six cubits from one opening to the next. [13]Next he measured the gatehouse from the back wall of one cell to the back wall of the cell on the opposite side through the openings facing each other, a width of twenty-five cubits. [14]All around the courtyard of the gatehouse were posts six cubits high. [15]From the front of the gatehouse at its outer entry to the gateway of the porch facing inward, the length was fifty cubits. [16]There were recessed windows in the cells on all sides and in the posts on the inner side of the gate. Posts and windows were all around the inside, with palm trees decorating the posts.

The Outer Court. [17]Then he brought me to the outer court, where there were chambers and pavement laid all around the courtyard: thirty chambers facing the pavement. [18]The pavement lay alongside the gatehouses, the same length as the gates; this was the lower pavement. [19]He measured the length of the pavement from the front of the lower gate to the outside of the inner gate, one hundred cubits. He then moved from the east to the north side.

The North Gate. [20]He measured the length and width of the north gate of the outer courtyard. [21]Its cells, three on each side, its posts, and its vestibule had the same measurements as those of the first gate, fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [22]Its windows, its vestibule, and its palm decorations had the same proportions as those of the gate facing east. Seven steps led up to it, and its vestibule faced the inside. [23]The inner court had a gate opposite the north gate, just as at the east gate; he measured one hundred cubits from one gate to the other.

The South Gate. [24]Then he led me to the south. There, too, facing south, was a gate! He measured its posts and vestibule; they were the same size as the others. [25]The gate and its vestibule had windows on both sides, like the other windows, fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [26]Seven steps led up to it, its vestibule faced inside; and palms decorated each of the posts opposite one another. [27]The inner court also had a gate facing south. He measured it from gate to gate, facing south, one hundred cubits.

Gates of the Inner Court. [28]Then he brought me to the inner courtyard by the south gate, where he measured the south gateway; its measurements were the same as the others. [29]Its cells, posts, and vestibule were the same size as the others, fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [30]The vestibules all around were twenty-five cubits long and five cubits wide. [31]Its vestibule faced the outer court; palms decorated its posts, and its stairway had eight steps. [32]Then he brought me to the inner courtyard on the east and measured the gate there; its dimensions were the same as the others. [33]Its cells, posts, and vestibule were the same size as the others. The gate and its vestibule had windows on both sides, fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [34]Its vestibule faced the outer court, palms decorated the posts opposite each other, and it had a stairway of eight steps. [35]Then he brought me to the north gate, where he measured the dimensions [36]of its cells, posts, and vestibule; they were the same. The gate and its vestibule had windows on both sides, fifty cubits long and twenty-five cubits wide. [37]Its vestibule faced the outer court; palm trees decorated its posts opposite each other, and it had a stairway of eight steps.

Side Rooms. [38]There was a chamber opening off the vestibule of the gate where burnt offerings were washed. [39]In the vestibule of the gate there were two tables on either side for slaughtering the burnt offerings, purification offerings, and reparation offerings. [40]Two more tables stood along the wall of the vestibule by the entrance of the north gate, and two tables on the other side of the vestibule of the gate. [41]There were thus four tables on one side of the gate and four tables on the other side, eight tables in all, for slaughtering. [42]The four tables for burnt offerings were made of cut stone, one and a half cubits long, one and a half cubits wide, and one cubit high; the instruments used for slaughtering burnt offerings and other sacrifices were kept [43]on shelves the width of one hand, fixed all around the room; but on the tables themselves was the meat for the sacrifices. [44]Outside the inner gatehouse there were two rooms on the inner courtyard, one beside the north gate, facing south, and the other beside the south gate, facing north. [45]He said to me, "This chamber facing south is reserved for the priests who have charge of the temple area, [46]while this chamber facing north is reserved for the priests who have charge of the altar; they are the sons of Zadok, the only Levites who may come near to minister to the LORD." [47]He measured the courtyard, a square one hundred cubits long and a hundred cubits wide, with the altar standing in front of the temple.

The Temple Building. [48]Then he brought me into the vestibule of the temple and measured the posts, five cubits on each side. The gateway was fourteen cubits wide, its side walls three cubits. [49]The vestibule was twenty cubits long and twelve cubits wide; ten steps led up to it, and there were columns by the posts, one on each side.

41:1 Then he brought me to the nave and measured the posts; each was six cubits wide. [2]The width of the entrance was ten cubits, and the walls on either side measured five cubits. He measured the nave, forty cubits long and twenty cubits wide.

[3]Then he went inside and measured the posts at the other entrance, two cubits wide. The entrance was six cubits wide, with walls seven cubits long on each side. [4]Next he measured the length and width of the room beyond the nave, twenty cubits long and twenty cubits wide. He said to me, "This is the holy of holies."

[5]Then he measured the wall of the temple, six cubits wide, and the width of the side chambers stretching all around the temple, four cubits each. [6]There were thirty side chambers, chamber upon chamber in three stories; terraces on the outside wall of the temple enclosing the side chambers provided support, but there were no supports for the temple wall itself. [7]A broad passageway led up the side chambers, for the house was enclosed all the way up and all the way around. Thus the temple was widened by the ascent that went from the lowest story through the middle one to the highest story. [8]I saw a raised platform all around the temple, the foundation for the side chambers; the width of this terrace was a full rod, six cubits. [9]The width of the outside wall enclosing the side chambers was five cubits. There was an open space between the side chambers of the temple [10]and the other chambers that measured twenty cubits around the temple on all sides. [11]The side chambers had entrances to the open space, one entrance on the north and the other on the south. The width of the wall surrounding the open space was five cubits. [12]The building opposite the restricted area on the west side was seventy cubits long and ninety cubits wide, with walls five cubits thick all around it. [13]Thus he measured the temple, one hundred cubits long. The restricted area, its building and walls, measured a hundred cubits in length. [14]The temple facade, along with the restricted area to the east, was also one hundred cubits wide. [15]He then measured the building opposite the restricted area which was behind it, together with its terraces on both sides, one hundred cubits.

Interior of the Temple. The inner nave and the outer vestibule [16]were paneled; the windows had recesses and precious wood trim around all three sides except the sill. Paneling covered the walls from the floor up to the windows and even the window sections. [17]Even above the doorway and in the inner part of the temple and outside as well, around all the walls inside and out, [18]were figures of cherubim and palm trees: a palm tree between each pair of cherubim. Each cherub had two faces: [19]the face of a human being looked toward one palm tree and the face of a lion looked toward the other palm tree. Thus the figures covered all the walls around the temple. [20]From the floor to the lintel of the door, cherubim and palm trees decorated the walls. [21]The nave had a square door frame, and inside facing the holy place was something that looked like [22]a wooden altar, three cubits high, two cubits long, and two cubits wide. It had corners and a wooden base and sides. He said to me, "This is the table that stands before the LORD." [23]The nave had a double door, and the holy place [24]also had a double door; each door had two sections that could move; two sections on one door, and two on the other. [25]Cherubim and palm trees decorated the doors of the nave like the decoration on the walls. Outside a wooden lattice faced the vestibule. [26]There were recessed windows and palm trees on the side walls of the vestibule. The side chambers of the temple also had latticework.

☐ LUKE 15

The Parable of the Lost Sheep. 15:1 The tax collectors and sinners were all drawing near to listen to him, [2]but the Pharisees and scribes began to complain, saying, "This man welcomes sinners and eats with them." [3]So to them he addressed this parable. [4]"What man among you having a hundred sheep and losing one of them would not leave the ninety-nine in the desert and go after the lost one until he finds it? [5]And when he does find it, he sets it on his shoulders with great joy [6]and, upon his arrival home, he calls together his friends and neighbors and says to them, 'Rejoice with me because I have found my lost sheep.' [7]I tell you, in just the same way there will be more joy in heaven over one sinner who repents than over ninety-nine righteous people who have no need of repentance.

The Parable of the Lost Coin. [8]"Or what woman having ten coins and losing one would not light a lamp and sweep the house, searching carefully until she finds it? [9]And when she does find it, she calls together her friends and neighbors and says to them, 'Rejoice with me because I have found the coin that I lost.' [10]In just the same way, I tell you, there will be rejoicing among the angels of God over one sinner who repents."

The Parable of the Lost Son. [11]Then he said, "A man had two sons, [12]and the younger son said to his father, 'Father, give me the share of your estate that should come to me.' So the father divided the property between them. [13]After a few days, the younger son collected all his belongings and set off to a distant country where he squandered his inheritance on a life of dissipation. [14]When he had freely spent everything, a severe famine struck that country, and he found himself in dire need. [15]So he hired himself out to one of the local citizens who sent him to his farm to tend the swine. [16]And he longed to eat his fill of the pods on which the swine fed, but nobody gave him any. [17]Coming to his senses he thought, 'How many of my father's hired workers have more than enough food to eat, but here am I, dying from hunger. [18]I shall get up and go to my father and I shall say to him, "Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. [19]I no longer deserve to be called your son; treat me as you would treat one of your hired workers.'" [20]So he got up and went back to his father. While he was still a long way off, his father caught sight of him, and was filled with compassion. He ran to his son, embraced him and kissed him. [21]His son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you; I no longer deserve to be called your son.' [22]But his father ordered his servants, 'Quickly bring the finest robe and put it on him; put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. [23]Take the fattened calf and slaughter it. Then let us celebrate with a feast, [24]because this son of mine was dead, and has come to life again; he was lost, and has been found.' Then the celebration began. [25]Now the older son had been out in the field and, on his way back, as he neared the house, he heard the sound of music and dancing. [26]He called one of the servants and asked what this might mean. [27]The servant said to him, 'Your brother has returned and your father has slaughtered the fattened calf because he has him back safe and sound.' [28]He became angry, and when he refused to enter the house, his father came out and pleaded with him. [29]He said to his father in reply, 'Look, all these years I served you and not once did I disobey your orders; yet you never gave me even a young goat to feast on with my friends. [30]But when your son returns who swallowed up your property with prostitutes, for him you slaughter the fattened calf.' [31]He said to him, 'My son, you are here with me always; everything I have is yours. [32]But now we must celebrate and rejoice, because your brother was dead and has come to life again; he was lost and has been found.' "

St. Catherine of Alexandria

This covetous gathering and miserly keeping of wealth, with all the delight that we take in beholding it, is only a very gay and golden dream, in which we imagine we have great riches; and in the sleep of this life we are glad and proud of it. But when death has once awakened us, our dream shall vanish, and of all the treasure that we only dreamed about, we shall not find one penny left in our hand.

☐ EZEKIEL 42-43

Other Structures. 42:1 Then he led me north to the outer court, bringing me to some chambers on the north side opposite the restricted area and the north building. [2]They were a hundred cubits long on the north side and fifty cubits wide. [3]Built in rows at three different levels, they stood between the twenty cubits of the inner court and the pavement of the outer court. [4]In front of the chambers was a walkway ten cubits wide on the inside of a wall one cubit wide. The doorways faced north. [5]The upper chambers were shorter because they lost space to the lower and middle tiers of the building. [6]Because they were in three tiers, they did not have foundations like the court, but were set back from the lower and middle levels from the ground up. [7]The outside walls ran parallel to the chambers along the outer court, a length of fifty cubits. [8]The chambers facing the outer court were fifty cubits long; thus the wall along the nave was a hundred cubits. [9]At the base of these chambers, there was an entryway from the east so that one could enter from the outer court [10]where the wall of the court began.

To the south along the side of the restricted area and the building there were also chambers [11]with a walkway in front of them. They looked like the chambers on the north side in length and width, in their exits, their design, and their doorways. [12]At the base of the chambers on the south side there was an entry at the end of a walkway in front of the protective wall by which one could enter from the east. [13]He said to me, "The north and south chambers facing the restricted area are the chambers of the holy place where the priests who approach the LORD shall eat the most holy meals. Here they shall place the most holy offerings: the grain offerings, the purification offerings, and the reparation offerings; for the place is holy. [14]When the priests have entered, they must not go out again from the holy place into the outer court without leaving the garments in which they ministered because they are holy. They shall put on other garments before approaching the area for the people."

Measuring the Outer Court. [15]When he finished measuring the interior of the temple area, he brought me out by way of the gate facing east and measured all around it. [16]He measured the east side, five hundred cubits by his measuring rod. Then he turned [17]and measured the north side: five hundred cubits by his measuring rod. He turned [18]and measured the south side, five hundred cubits by his measuring rod. [19]He turned and measured the west side, also five hundred cubits by his measuring rod. [20]Thus he measured it on the four sides. It was surrounded by a wall five hundred cubits long and five hundred cubits wide, to separate the sacred from the profane.

The Glory of the Lord Returns. 43:1 Then he led me to the gate facing east, [2]and there was the glory of the God of Israel coming from the east! His voice was like the roar of many waters, and the earth shone with his glory. [3]The vision I saw was like the vision I had seen when he came to destroy the city and like the vision I had seen by the river Chebar—
I fell on my face. [4]The glory of the LORD entered the temple by way of the gate facing east. [5]Then the spirit lifted me up and brought me to the inner court. And there the glory of the LORD filled the temple! [6]I heard someone speaking to me from the temple, but the man was standing beside me. [7]The voice said to me: Son of man, do you see the place for my throne, and the place for the soles of my feet? Here I will dwell among the Israelites forever. The house of Israel, neither they nor their kings, will never again defile my holy name, with their prostitutions and the corpses of their kings at their death. [8]When they placed their threshold against my threshold and their doorpost next to mine, with only a wall between me and them, they defiled my holy name by the abominations they committed, and I devoured them in my wrath. [9]From now on, let them put their prostitution and the corpses of their kings far from me, and I will dwell in their midst forever.

The Law of the Temple. [10]As for you, son of man, describe the temple to the house of Israel so they are ashamed for their sins. Let them measure its layout. [11]If they are ashamed for all they have done, tell them about the layout and design of the temple, its exits and entrances, with all its regulations and instructions; write it down for them to see, that they may carefully observe all its laws and statutes. [12]This is the law for the temple: the entire area on top of the mountain all around will be a most holy place. This is the law for the temple.

The Altar. [13]These were the dimensions of the altar in cubits, a cubit being one cubit plus a handbreadth. The channel was one cubit deep by one cubit wide, and its rim had a lip one span wide all around it. The height of the altar itself was as follows: [14]from the channel at floor level up to the lower ledge was two cubits, with the ledge one cubit wide; from the lower ledge to the upper ledge, four cubits, with the ledge one cubit wide. [15]The altar hearth was four cubits high, and extending up from the top of the hearth were four horns. [16]The hearth was twelve cubits long and twelve cubits wide, a square with four equal sides. [17]The upper ledge was fourteen cubits long and fourteen cubits wide on all four sides. The rim around it was half a cubit, with a channel one cubit all around. The steps faced east.

[18]Then he said to me: Son of man, thus says the Lord GOD: These are the statutes for the altar when it is set up for sacrificing burnt offerings and splashing blood on it. [19]A young bull must be brought as a purification offering to the priests, the Levites descended from Zadok, who come near to serve me—oracle of the Lord GOD. [20]You shall take some of its blood and smear it on the four horns of the altar, and on the four corners of the ledge, and all around its rim. Thus you shall purify and purge it. [21]Then take the bull as purification offering and burn it in the appointed place outside the sanctuary. [22]On the second day present an unblemished male goat as a purification offering, to purify the altar as you did with the bull. [23]When you have completed the purification, you must bring an unblemished young bull and an unblemished ram from the flock [24]and present them before the LORD. The priests shall throw salt on them and sacrifice them as burnt offerings to the LORD. [25]Daily for seven days you shall give a male goat as a purification offering; and a young bull and a ram from the flock, all unblemished, shall be offered [26]for seven days. Thus they shall purge the altar, in order to cleanse and dedicate it. [27]And when these days are over, from the eighth day on, the priests shall sacrifice your burnt offerings and communion offerings on the altar. Then I will be pleased with you—oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Parable of the Dishonest Steward. 16:1 Then he also said to his disciples, "A rich man had a steward who was reported to him for squandering his property. [2]He summoned him and said, 'What is this I hear about you? Prepare a full account of your stewardship, because you can no longer be my steward.' [3]The steward said to himself, 'What shall I do, now that my master is taking the position of steward away from me? I am not strong enough to dig and I am ashamed to beg. [4]I know what I shall do so that, when I am removed from the stewardship, they may welcome me into their homes.' [5]He called in his master's debtors one by one. To the first he said, 'How much do you owe my master?' [6]He replied, 'One hundred measures of olive oil.' He said to him, 'Here is your promissory note. Sit down and quickly write one for fifty.' [7]Then to another he said, 'And you, how much do you owe?' He replied, 'One hundred kors of wheat.' He said to him, 'Here is your promissory note; write one for eighty.' [8]And the master commended that dishonest steward for acting prudently.

Application of the Parable. "For the children of this world are more prudent in dealing with their own generation than are the children of light. [9]I tell you, make friends for yourselves with dishonest wealth, so that when it fails, you will be welcomed into eternal dwellings. [10]The person who is trustworthy in very small matters is also trustworthy in great ones; and the person who is dishonest in very small matters is also dishonest in great ones. [11]If, therefore, you are not trustworthy with dishonest wealth, who will trust you with true wealth? [12]If you are not trustworthy with what belongs to another, who will give you what is yours? [13]No servant can serve two masters. He will either hate one and love the other, or be devoted to one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon."

A Saying against the Pharisees. [14]The Pharisees, who loved money, heard all these things and sneered at him. [15]And he said to them, "You justify yourselves in the sight of others, but God knows your hearts; for what is of human esteem is an abomination in the sight of God.

Sayings about the Law. [16]"The law and the prophets lasted until John; but from then on the kingdom of God is proclaimed, and everyone who enters does so with violence. [17]It is easier for heaven and earth to pass away than for the smallest part of a letter of the law to become invalid.

Sayings about Divorce. [18]"Everyone who divorces his wife and marries another commits adultery, and the one who marries a woman divorced from her husband commits adultery.

The Parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus. [19]"There was a rich man who dressed in purple garments and fine linen and dined sumptuously each day. [20]And lying at his door was a poor man named Lazarus, covered with sores, [21]who would gladly have eaten his fill of the scraps that fell from the rich man's table. Dogs even used to come and lick his sores. [22]When the poor man died, he was carried away by angels to the bosom of Abraham. The rich man also died and was buried, [23]and from the netherworld, where he was in torment, he raised his eyes and saw Abraham far off and Lazarus at his side. [24]And he cried out, 'Father Abraham, have pity on me. Send Lazarus to dip the tip of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am suffering torment in these flames.' [25]Abraham replied, 'My child, remember that you received what was good during your lifetime while Lazarus likewise received what was bad; but now he is comforted here, whereas you are tormented. [26]Moreover, between us and you a great chasm is established to prevent anyone from crossing who might wish to go from our side to yours or from your side to ours.' [27]He said, 'Then I beg you, father, send him to my father's house, [28]for I have five brothers, so that he may warn them, lest they too come to this place of torment.' [29]But Abraham replied, 'They have Moses and the prophets. Let them listen to them.' [30]He said, 'Oh no, father Abraham, but if someone from the dead goes to them, they will repent.' [31]Then Abraham said, 'If they will not listen to Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded if someone should rise from the dead.' "

St. Leonard of Port Maurice

Impress on yourself this great truth: Even if all hell's devils come after you to tempt you, you won't sin unless you want to — provided that you don't trust in your own powers, but in the assistance of God. He doesn't refuse help to those who ask it with a lively faith.

☐ EZEKIEL 44-45

The Closed Gate. 44:1 Then he brought me back to the outer gate of the sanctuary facing east, but it was closed. [2]The LORD said to me: This gate must remain closed; it must not be opened, and no one should come through it. Because the LORD, the God of Israel, came through it, it must remain closed. [3]Only the prince may sit in it to eat a meal in the presence of the LORD; he must enter through the vestibule of the gate and leave the same way.

Admission to the Temple. [4]Then he brought me by way of the north gate to the facade of the temple. I looked—and the glory of the LORD filled the LORD's house! I fell on my face. [5]The LORD said to me: Son of man, pay close attention, look carefully, and listen intently to everything I tell you about all the statutes and laws of the LORD's house. Pay close attention to the entrance into the temple and all the exits of the sanctuary. [6]Say to that rebellious house, the house of Israel: Thus says the Lord GOD: Enough of all your abominations, house of Israel! [7]You have admitted foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, into my sanctuary to profane it when you offered me food, the fat and blood. Thus you have broken my covenant by all your abominations. [8]Instead of caring for the service of my sanctuary, you appointed these foreigners to care for the service of my sanctuary. [9]Thus says the Lord GOD: No foreigners, uncircumcised in heart and flesh, shall ever enter my sanctuary: not even any of the foreigners who live among the Israelites.

Levites. [10]As for the Levites who went far away from me when Israel strayed from me after their idols, they will bear the consequences of their sin. [11]They will serve in my sanctuary only as gatekeepers and temple servants; they will slaughter burnt offerings and sacrifices for the people. They will stand before the people to serve them. [12]Because they used to serve them before their idols, thus becoming a stumbling block to the house of Israel, therefore I have sworn an oath against them, says the Lord GOD, and they will bear the consequences of their sin. 13They shall no longer come near to serve as my priests, nor shall they touch any of my sacred things or my most sacred offerings, for they must bear their shame, the abominations they committed. 14Instead I will make them responsible for the service of the temple and all its work, for everything that must be done in it.

Priests. 15As for the levitical priests, sons of Zadok, who took charge of my sanctuary when the Israelites strayed from me, they may approach me to serve me and stand before me to offer the fat and the blood—oracle of the Lord GOD. 16They may enter my sanctuary; they may approach my table to serve me and carry out my service. 17Whenever they enter the gates of the inner court, they shall wear linen garments; they shall not put on anything woolen when they serve at the gates of the inner court or within the temple. 18They shall have linen turbans on their heads and linen undergarments on their loins; they shall not gird themselves with anything that causes sweat. 19And when they go out to the people in the outer court, they shall take off the garments in which they served and leave them in the rooms of the sanctuary, and put on other garments so they do not transmit holiness to the people by their garments.

25They shall not make themselves unclean by going near a dead body; only for their father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or unmarried sister may they make themselves unclean. 26After he is again clean, he must wait an additional seven days; 27on the day he enters the inner court to serve in the sanctuary, he shall present a purification offering for himself—oracle of the Lord GOD. 28I will be their heritage: I am their heritage! You shall not give them any property in Israel, for I am their property! 29They shall eat grain offerings, purification offerings, and reparation offerings; anything under the ban in Israel belongs to them; 30all the choicest first fruits of every kind and all the best of your offerings of every kind shall belong to the priests; the best of your dough you shall also give to the priests to bring a blessing upon your house. 31The priests shall not eat anything, whether bird or animal, that died naturally or was killed by wild beasts.

The Holy Portion. 45:1 When you apportion the land heritage by heritage, you shall set apart a holy portion for the LORD, holier than the rest of the land—twenty-five thousand cubits long and twenty thousand cubits wide; the entire area shall be holy. 2Of this land a square plot, five hundred by five hundred cubits, shall be assigned to the sanctuary, with fifty cubits of free space around it. 3From this tract also measure off a length of twenty-five thousand cubits and a width of ten thousand cubits; on it the sanctuary, the holy of holies, shall stand. 4This shall be the sacred part of the land belonging to the priests, the ministers of the sanctuary, who draw near to minister to the LORD; it shall be a place for their homes and an area set apart for the sanctuary. 5There shall also be a strip twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand wide for the Levites, the ministers of the temple, so they have cities to live in. 6You shall assign a strip five thousand cubits wide and twenty-five thousand long as the property of the city parallel to the sacred tract; this shall belong to the whole house of Israel. 7A section shall belong to the prince, bordering both sides of the sacred tract and city combined, extending westward on the west side and eastward on the east side, corresponding in length to one of the tribal portions from the west boundary to the east boundary 8of the land. This shall be his property in Israel so that my princes will no longer oppress my people, but will leave the land to the house of Israel according to its tribes. 9Thus says the Lord GOD: Enough, you princes of Israel! Put away violence and oppression, and do what is just and right! Stop evicting my people!—oracle of the Lord GOD.

Weights and Measures. 10You shall have honest scales, an honest ephah, and an honest bath. 11The ephah and the bath shall be the same size: the bath equal to one tenth of a homer, and the ephah equal to one tenth of a homer; their capacity is based on the homer. 12The shekel shall be twenty gerahs. Twenty shekels plus twenty-five shekels plus fifteen shekels make up a mina for you.

Offerings. 13This is the offering you must make: one sixth of an ephah from each homer of wheat and one sixth of an ephah from each homer of barley. 14This is the regulation for oil: for every bath of oil, one tenth of a bath, computed by the kor, made up of ten baths, that is, a homer, for ten baths make a homer. 15Also, one sheep from the flock for every two hundred from the pasture land of Israel, for the grain offering, the burnt offering, and communion offerings, to make atonement on their behalf—oracle of the Lord GOD. [16]All the people of the land shall be responsible for these offerings to the prince in Israel. [17]It shall be the duty of the prince to provide burnt offerings, grain offerings, and libations on feast days, new moons, and sabbaths, on all the festivals of the house of Israel. He shall provide the purification offering, grain offering, burnt offering, and communion offerings, to make atonement on behalf of the house of Israel.

The Passover. [18]Thus says the Lord GOD: On the first day of the first month you shall take an unblemished young bull to purify the sanctuary. [19]The priest shall take some of the blood from the purification offering and smear it on the doorposts of the house, on the four corners of the ledge of the altar, and on the doorposts of the gates of the inner courtyard. [20]You shall repeat this on the seventh day of the month for those who have sinned inadvertently or out of ignorance; thus you shall purge the temple. [21]On the fourteenth day of the first month you shall observe the feast of Passover; for seven days unleavened bread must be eaten. [22]On that day the prince shall sacrifice, on his own behalf and on behalf of all the people of the land, a bull as a purification offering. [23]On each of the seven days of the feast he shall sacrifice, as a burnt offering to the LORD, seven bulls and seven rams without blemish, and as a purification offering he shall sacrifice one male goat each day. [24]As a grain offering he shall offer one ephah for each bull and one ephah for each ram and one hin of oil for each ephah.

The Feast of Booths. [25]In the seventh month, on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, on the feast day and for the next seven days, he shall make the same offerings: the same purification offerings, burnt offerings, grain offerings, and offerings of oil.

☐ LUKE 17

Temptations to Sin. 17:1 He said to his disciples, "Things that cause sin will inevitably occur, but woe to the person through whom they occur. [2]It would be better for him if a millstone were put around his neck and he be thrown into the sea than for him to cause one of these little ones to sin. [3]Be on your guard! If your brother sins, rebuke him; and if he repents, forgive him. [4]And if he wrongs you seven times in one day and returns to you seven times saying, 'I am sorry,' you should forgive him."

Saying of Faith. [5]And the apostles said to the Lord, "Increase our faith." [6]The Lord replied, "If you have faith the size of a mustard seed, you would say to [this] mulberry tree, 'Be uprooted and planted in the sea,' and it would obey you.

Attitude of a Servant. [7]"Who among you would say to your servant who has just come in from plowing or tending sheep in the field, 'Come here immediately and take your place at table'? [8]Would he not rather say to him, 'Prepare something for me to eat. Put on your apron and wait on me while I eat and drink. You may eat and drink when I am finished'? [9]Is he grateful to that servant because he did what was commanded? [10]So should it be with you. When you have done all you have been commanded, say, 'We are unprofitable servants; we have done what we were obliged to do.' "

The Cleansing of Ten Lepers. [11]As he continued his journey to Jerusalem, he traveled through Samaria and Galilee. [12]As he was entering a village, ten lepers met [him]. They stood at a distance from him [13]and raised their voice, saying, "Jesus, Master! Have pity on us!" [14]And when he saw them, he said, "Go show yourselves to the priests." As they were going they were cleansed. [15]And one of them, realizing he had been healed, returned, glorifying God in a loud voice; [16]and he fell at the feet of Jesus and thanked him. He was a Samaritan. [17]Jesus said in reply, "Ten were cleansed, were they not? Where are the other nine? [18]Has none but this foreigner returned to give thanks to God?" [19]Then he said to him, "Stand up and go; your faith has saved you."

The Coming of the Kingdom of God. [20]Asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God would come, he said in reply, "The coming of the kingdom of God cannot be observed, [21]and no one will announce, 'Look, here it is,' or, 'There it is.' For behold, the kingdom of God is among you."

The Day of the Son of Man. [22]Then he said to his disciples, "The days will come when you will long to see one of the days of the Son of Man, but you will not see it. [23]There will be those who will say to you, 'Look, there he is,' [or] 'Look, here he is.' Do not go off, do not run in pursuit. [24]For just as lightning flashes and lights up the sky from one side to the other, so will the Son of Man be [in his day]. [25]But first he must suffer greatly and be rejected by this generation. [26]As it was in the days of Noah, so it will be in the days of the Son of Man; [27]they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage up to the day that Noah entered the ark, and the flood came and destroyed them all. [28]Similarly, as it was in the days of Lot: they were eating, drinking, buying, selling, planting, building; [29]on the day when Lot left Sodom, fire and brimstone rained from the sky to destroy them all. [30]So it will be on the day the Son of Man is revealed. [31]On that day, a person who is on the housetop and whose belongings are in the house must not go down to get them, and likewise a person in the field must not return to what was left behind. [32]Remember the wife of Lot. [33]Whoever seeks to preserve his life will lose it, but whoever loses it will save it. [34]I tell you, on that night there will be two people in one bed; one will be taken, the other left. [35]And there will be two women grinding meal together; one will be taken, the other left." [36] [37]They said to him in reply, "Where, Lord?" He said to them, "Where the body is, there also the vultures will gather."

Sabbaths. 46:1 Thus says the Lord GOD: The gate of the inner court facing east shall remain closed throughout the six working days, but on the sabbath and on the day of the new moon it shall be open. [2]Then the prince shall enter from outside by way of the vestibule of the gate and remain standing at the doorpost of the gateway while the priests sacrifice his burnt offerings and communion offerings; then he shall bow down in worship at the opening of the gate and leave. But the gate shall not be closed until evening. [3]The people of the land also shall bow down in worship before the LORD at the opening of this gate on the sabbaths and new moons. [4]The burnt offerings which the prince sacrifices to the LORD on the sabbath shall consist of six unblemished lambs and an unblemished ram, [5]together with a grain offering of one ephah for the ram and whatever he pleases for the lambs, and a hin of oil for each ephah. [6]On the day of the new moon, he shall provide an unblemished young bull, six lambs, and a ram without blemish, [7]with a grain offering of one ephah for the bull and an ephah for the ram, and for the lambs whatever he can, and for each ephah a hin of oil.

Ritual Laws. [8]When the prince enters, he shall always enter and depart by the vestibule of the gate. [9]When the people of the land come before the LORD to bow down on the festivals, if they enter by the north gate they shall leave by the south gate, and if they enter by the south gate they shall leave by the north gate. They shall not go back by the gate through which they entered; everyone shall leave by the opposite gate. [10]When they come in, the prince shall be with them; he shall also leave with them. [11]On feasts and festivals, the grain offering shall be an ephah for a bull, an ephah for a ram, but for the lambs whatever they please, and a hin of oil with each ephah. [12]When the prince makes a freewill offering to the LORD, whether a burnt offering or communion offering, the gate facing east shall be opened for him, and he shall bring his burnt offering or peace offering as he does on the sabbath. Then he shall leave, and the gate shall be closed after his departure. [13]Every day you shall bring as a burnt offering to the LORD an unblemished year-old lamb; you shall offer it every morning, [14]and with it every morning a grain offering of one sixth of an ephah, with a third of a hin of oil to moisten the fine flour. This grain offering for the LORD is a perpetual statute. [15]The lamb, the grain offering, and the oil you must bring every morning as a perpetual burnt offering.

The Prince and the Land. [16]Thus says the Lord GOD: If the prince makes a gift of part of his heritage to any of his sons, it belongs to his sons; that property is their heritage. [17]But if he makes a gift of part of his heritage to one of his servants, it belongs to him until the year of release; then it reverts to the prince. Only the heritage given to his sons belongs to him. [18]The prince shall not seize any part of the heritage of the people by forcing them off their property. From his own property he shall provide heritage for his sons, so that none of my people will be driven off their property.

The Temple Kitchens. [19]Then he brought me through the entrance at the side of the gateway to the chambers reserved for the priests, which faced north. There I saw a place at the far west end, [20]about which he said to me, "This is the place where the priests cook the reparation offerings and the purification offerings and bake the grain offerings, so they do not have to bring them into the outer court and so transmit holiness to the people." [21]Then he led me into the outer court and had me cross to the four corners of the court, and there, in each corner, was another court! [22]In all four corners of the courtyard there were courts set off, each forty cubits long by thirty cubits wide, all four of them the same size. [23]A stone wall surrounded them on four sides, and ovens were built along the bottom of the walls all the way around. [24]He said to me, "These are the kitchens where the temple ministers cook the sacrifices of the people."

The Wonderful Stream. 47:1 Then he brought me back to the entrance of the temple, and there! I saw water flowing out from under the threshold of the temple toward the east, for the front of the temple faced east. The water flowed out toward the right side of the temple to the south of the altar. [2]He brought me by way of the north gate and around the outside to the outer gate facing east; there I saw water trickling from the southern side. [3]When he continued eastward with a measuring cord in his hand, he measured off a thousand cubits and had me wade through the water; it was ankle-deep. [4]He measured off another thousand cubits and once more had me wade through the water; it was up to the knees. He measured another thousand cubits and had me wade through the water; it was up to my waist. [5]Once more he measured off a thousand cubits. Now it was a river I could not wade across. The water had risen so high, I would have to swim—a river that was impassable. [6]Then he asked me, "Do you see this, son of man?" He brought me to the bank of the river and had me sit down. [7]As I was returning, I saw along the bank of the river a great many trees on each side. [8]He said to me, "This water flows out into the eastern district, runs down into the Arabah and empties into the polluted waters of the sea to freshen them. [9]Wherever it flows, the river teems with every kind of living creature; fish will abound. Where these waters flow they refresh; everything lives where the river goes. [10]Fishermen will stand along its shore from En-gedi to En-eglaim; it will become a place for drying nets, and it will abound with as many kinds of fish as the Great Sea. [11]Its marshes and swamps shall not be made fresh, but will be left for salt. [12]Along each bank of the river every kind of fruit tree will grow; their leaves will not wither, nor will their fruit fail. Every month they will bear fresh fruit because the waters of the river flow out from the sanctuary. Their fruit is used for food, and their leaves for healing."

Boundaries of the Land. [13]Thus says the Lord GOD: These are the boundaries of the land which you shall apportion among the twelve tribes of Israel, with Joseph having two portions. [14]You shall apportion it equally because I swore to give it to your ancestors as a heritage; this land, then, is your heritage. [15]These are the borders of the land: on the northern side, from the Great Sea in the direction of Hethlon, Lebo-hamath to Zedad, [16]Berothah, and Sibraim, along the frontiers of Damascus and Hamath, to Hazar-enon, on the border of Hauran. [17]Thus the border extends from the sea to Hazar-enon, north of the border of Damascus, the frontier of Hamath to the north. This is the northern boundary. [18]The eastern border shall be between Damascus and Hauran, while the Jordan will form the border between Gilead and the land of Israel down to the eastern sea as far as Tamar. This is the eastern boundary. [19]The southern border shall go southward from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh, on to the Wadi of Egypt, and into the Great Sea. This is the southern boundary. [20]The western border shall have the Great Sea as a boundary as far as a point opposite Lebo-hamath. This is the western boundary.

The Northern Portions. [21]You shall divide this land according to the tribes of Israel. [22]You shall allot it as heritage for yourselves and for the resident aliens in your midst who have fathered children among you. You shall treat them like native Israelites; along with you they shall receive a heritage among the tribes of Israel. [23]In whatever tribe the resident alien lives, there you shall assign his heritage—oracle of the Lord GOD.

48:1 These are the names of the tribes:

At the northern end, along the side of the way to Hethlon, Lebo-hamath, and Hazar-enon, the border of Damascus, and northward up to the frontier with Hamath, from the eastern border to the western: Dan, one portion. [2]Along the territory of Dan from the eastern border to the western border: Asher, one portion. [3]Along the territory of Asher from the eastern border to the western border: Naphtali, one portion. [4]Along the territory of Naphtali from the eastern border to the western border: Manasseh, one portion. [5]Along the territory of Manasseh from the eastern border to the western border: Ephraim, one portion. [6]Along the territory of Ephraim from the eastern border to the western border: Reuben, one portion. [7]Along the territory of Reuben from the eastern border to the western border: Judah, one portion.

The Sacred Tract. [8]Along the territory of Judah from the eastern border to the western border is the tract you shall set apart, twenty-five thousand cubits wide and as long as one of the portions from the eastern border to the western border. The sanctuary shall stand in the center of the tract. [9]The tract you set apart for the LORD shall be twenty-five thousand cubits long by twenty thousand wide. [10]The sacred tract will be given to the following: the priests shall have twenty-five thousand cubits on the north, ten thousand on the west, ten thousand on the east, and twenty-five thousand on the south. The sanctuary of the LORD shall be in its center. [11]The consecrated priests, the Zadokites, who fulfilled my service and did not stray with the Israelites as the Levites did, [12]shall have their own tract set apart, next to the territory of the Levites, separate from the most holy tract. [13]The Levites shall have territory corresponding to that of the priests, twenty-five thousand cubits long and ten thousand cubits wide. The whole tract shall be twenty-five thousand cubits long and twenty thousand wide. [14]They may not sell or exchange or transfer any of it, the best part of the land, for it is sacred to the LORD. [15]The remaining section, five thousand cubits long and twenty-five thousand cubits wide, is profane land, assigned to the city for dwellings and pasture. The city is at its center. [16]These are the dimensions of the city: the north side, forty-five hundred cubits; the south side, forty-five hundred cubits; the east side, forty-five hundred cubits; and the west side, forty-five hundred cubits. [17]The pasture land for the city extends north two hundred fifty cubits, south two hundred fifty cubits, east two hundred fifty cubits, and west two hundred fifty cubits. [18]The remaining section runs eastward along the sacred tract for ten thousand cubits and westward ten thousand cubits. Its produce shall provide food for the workers of the city. [19]The workers of the city, from all the tribes of Israel, shall cultivate it. [20]The entire sacred tract measures twenty-five thousand by twenty-five thousand cubits; as a square you shall set apart the sacred tract together with the city property.

[21]The remaining land on both sides of the sacred tract and the property of the city shall belong to the prince, extending eastward twenty-five thousand cubits up to the eastern boundary, and westward twenty-five thousand cubits to the western boundary. This portion belongs to the prince and corresponds to the tribal portions. The sacred tract and the sanctuary of the temple shall be in the middle. [22]Except for the Levites' property and the city's property, which are in the middle of the prince's property, the territory between the portion of Judah and the portion of Benjamin shall belong to the prince.

The Southern Portions. [23]These are the remaining tribes:

From the eastern border to the western border: Benjamin, one portion. [24]Along the territory of Benjamin from the eastern border to the western border: Simeon, one portion. [25]Along the territory of Simeon from the eastern border to the western border: Issachar, one portion. [26]Along the territory of Issachar from the eastern border to the western border: Zebulun, one portion. [27]Along the territory of Zebulun from the eastern border to the western border: Gad, one portion. [28]Along the territory of Gad shall be the southern border. This boundary shall extend from Tamar to the waters of Meribath-kadesh, and along the Wadi of Egypt to the Great Sea. [29]This is the land you shall apportion as a heritage among the tribes of Israel, and these are their portions—oracle of the Lord GOD.

The Gates of the City. [30]These are the exits from the city: On the north side, measuring forty-five hundred cubits —[31]the gates are named after the tribes of Israel—on the north, three gates: the gate of Reuben, one; the gate of Judah, one; and the gate of Levi, one. [32]On the east side, measuring forty-five hundred cubits, three gates: the gate of Joseph, one; the gate of Benjamin, one; and the gate of Dan, one. [33]On the south side, measuring forty-five hundred cubits, three gates: the gate of Simeon, one; the gate of Issachar, one; and the gate of Zebulun, one. [34]On the west side, measuring forty-five hundred cubits, three gates: the gate of Gad, one; the gate of Asher, one; and the gate of Naphtali, one. [35]The circuit of the city shall be eighteen thousand cubits. From now on the name of the city is "The LORD is there."

The Parable of the Persistent Widow. 18:1 Then he told them a parable about the necessity for them to pray always without becoming weary. He said, [2]"There was a judge in a certain town who neither feared God nor respected any human being. [3]And a widow in that town used to come to him and say, 'Render a just decision for me against my adversary.' [4]For a long time the judge was unwilling, but eventually he thought, 'While it is true that I neither fear God nor respect any human being, [5]because this widow keeps bothering me I shall deliver a just decision for her lest she finally come and strike me.' " [6]The Lord said, "Pay attention to what the dishonest judge says. [7]Will not God then secure the rights of his chosen ones who call out to him day and night? Will he be slow to answer them? [8]I tell you, he will see to it that justice is done for them speedily. But when the Son of Man comes, will he find faith on earth?"

The Parable of the Pharisee and the Tax Collector. [9]He then addressed this parable to those who were convinced of their own righteousness and despised everyone else. [10]"Two people went up to the temple area to pray; one was a Pharisee and the other was a tax collector. [11]The Pharisee took up his position and spoke this prayer to himself, 'O God, I thank you that I am not like the rest of humanity—greedy, dishonest, adulterous—or even like this tax collector. [12]I fast twice a week, and I pay tithes on my whole income.' [13]But the tax collector stood off at a distance and would not even raise his eyes to heaven but beat his breast and prayed, 'O God, be merciful to me a sinner.' [14]I tell you, the latter went home justified, not the former; for everyone who exalts himself will be humbled, and the one who humbles himself will be exalted."

Saying on Children and the Kingdom. [15]People were bringing even infants to him that he might touch them, and when the disciples saw this, they rebuked them. [16]Jesus, however, called the children to himself and said, "Let the children come to me and do not prevent them; for the kingdom of God belongs to such as these. [17]Amen, I say to you, whoever does not accept the kingdom of God like a child will not enter it."

The Rich Official. [18]An official asked him this question, "Good teacher, what must I do to inherit eternal life?" [19]Jesus answered him, "Why do you call me good? No one is good but God alone. [20]You know the commandments, 'You shall not commit adultery; you shall not kill; you shall not steal; you shall not bear false witness; honor your father and your mother.' " [21]And he replied, "All of these I have observed from my youth." [22]When Jesus heard this he said to him, "There is still one thing left for you: sell all that you have and distribute it to the poor, and you will have a treasure in heaven. Then come, follow me." [23]But when he heard this he became quite sad, for he was very rich.

On Riches and Renunciation. [24]Jesus looked at him [now sad] and said, "How hard it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God! [25]For it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God." [26]Those who heard this said, "Then who can be saved?" [27]And he said, "What is impossible for human beings is possible for God." [28]Then Peter said, "We have given up our possessions and followed you." [29]He said to them, "Amen, I say to you, there is no one who has given up house or wife or brothers or parents or children for the sake of the kingdom of God [30]who will not receive [back] an overabundant return in this present age and eternal life in the age to come."

The Third Prediction of the Passion. [31]Then he took the Twelve aside and said to them, "Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem and everything written by the prophets about the Son of Man will be fulfilled. [32]He will be handed over to the Gentiles and he will be mocked and insulted and spat upon; [33]and after they have scourged him they will kill him, but on the third day he will rise." [34]But they understood nothing of this; the word remained hidden from them and they failed to comprehend what he said.

The Healing of the Blind Beggar. [35]Now as he approached Jericho a blind man was sitting by the roadside begging, [36]and hearing a crowd going by, he inquired what was happening. [37]They told him, "Jesus of Nazareth is passing by." [38]He shouted, "Jesus, Son of David, have pity on me!" [39]The people walking in front rebuked him, telling him to be silent, but he kept calling out all the more, "Son of David, have pity on me!" [40]Then Jesus stopped and ordered that he be brought to him; and when he came near, Jesus asked him, [41]"What do you want me to do for you?" He replied, "Lord, please let me see." [42]Jesus told him, "Have sight; your faith has saved you." [43]He immediately received his sight and followed him, giving glory to God. When they saw this, all the people gave praise to God.

I knew nothing; I was nothing. For this reason God picked me out.

☐ DANIEL 1-2

The Food Test. 1:1 In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, King Nebuchadnezzar of Babylon came and laid siege to Jerusalem. 2The Lord handed over to him Jehoiakim, king of Judah, and some of the vessels of the temple of God, which he carried off to the land of Shinar and placed in the temple treasury of his god.

3The king told Ashpenaz, his chief chamberlain, to bring in some of the Israelites, some of the royal line and of the nobility. 4They should be young men without any defect, handsome, proficient in wisdom, well informed, and insightful, such as could take their place in the king's palace; he was to teach them the language and literature of the Chaldeans. 5The king allotted them a daily portion of food and wine from the royal table. After three years' training they were to enter the king's service. 6Among these were Judeans, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah. 7The chief chamberlain changed their names: Daniel to Belteshazzar, Hananiah to Shadrach, Mishael to Meshach, and Azariah to Abednego.

8But Daniel was resolved not to defile himself with the king's food or wine; so he begged the chief chamberlain to spare him this defilement. 9Though God had given Daniel the favor and sympathy of the chief chamberlain, 10he said to Daniel, "I am afraid of my lord the king, who allotted your food and drink. If he sees that you look thinner in comparison to the other young men of your age, you will endanger my life with the king." 11Then Daniel said to the guardian whom the chief chamberlain had put in charge of Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12"Please test your servants for ten days. Let us be given vegetables to eat and water to drink. 13Then see how we look in comparison with the other young men who eat from the royal table, and treat your servants according to what you see." 14He agreed to this request, and tested them for ten days; 15after ten days they looked healthier and better fed than any of the young men who ate from the royal table. 16So the steward continued to take away the food and wine they were to receive, and gave them vegetables.

17To these four young men God gave knowledge and proficiency in all literature and wisdom, and to Daniel the understanding of all visions and dreams. 18At the end of the time the king had specified for their preparation, the chief chamberlain brought them before Nebuchadnezzar. 19When the king had spoken with all of them, none was found equal to Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; and so they entered the king's service. 20In any question of wisdom or understanding which the king put to them, he found them ten times better than any of the magicians and enchanters in his kingdom. 21Daniel remained there until the first year of King Cyrus.

Nebuchadnezzar's Dream. 2:1 In the second year of his reign, King Nebuchadnezzar had a dream which left his spirit no rest and robbed him of his sleep. 2So he ordered that the magicians, enchanters, sorcerers, and Chaldeans be summoned to interpret the dream for him. When they came and presented themselves to the king, 3he said to them, "I had a dream which will allow my spirit no rest until I know what it means." 4The Chaldeans answered the king in Aramaic: "O king, live forever! Tell your servants the dream and we will give its meaning." 5The king answered the Chaldeans, "This is what I have decided: unless you tell me the dream and its meaning, you shall be cut to pieces and your houses made into a refuse heap. 6But if you tell me the dream and its meaning, you shall receive from me gifts and presents and great honors. Therefore tell me the dream and its meaning."

7Again they answered, "Let the king tell his servants the dream and we will give its meaning." 8But the king replied: "I know for certain that you are bargaining for time, since you know what I have decided. 9If you do not tell me the dream, there can be but one decree for you. You have conspired to present a false and deceitful interpretation to me until the crisis is past. Tell me the dream, therefore, that I may be sure that you can also give its correct interpretation."

10The Chaldeans answered the king: "There is not a man on earth who can do what you ask, O king; never has any king, however great and mighty, asked such a thing of any magician, enchanter, or Chaldean. 11What you demand, O king, is too difficult; there is no one who can tell it to the king except the gods, who do not dwell among people of flesh." 12At this the king became violently angry and ordered all the wise men of Babylon to be put to death. 13When the decree was issued that the wise men should be slain, Daniel and his companions were also sought out.

14Then Daniel prudently took counsel with Arioch, the chief of the king's guard, who had set out to kill the wise men of Babylon. 15He asked Arioch, the officer of the king, "What is the reason for this harsh order from the king?" When Arioch told him, 16Daniel went and asked for time from the king, that he might give him the interpretation.

17 Daniel went home and informed his companions Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 18 that they might implore the mercy of the God of heaven in regard to this mystery, so that Daniel and his companions might not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon. 19 During the night the mystery was revealed to Daniel in a vision, and he blessed the God of heaven:

20 "Blessed be the name of God forever and ever,
for wisdom and power are his.
21 He causes the changes of the times and seasons,
establishes kings and deposes them.
He gives wisdom to the wise
and knowledge to those who understand.
22 He reveals deep and hidden things and knows what is in the darkness,
for the light dwells with him.
23 To you, God of my ancestors,
I give thanks and praise,
because you have given me wisdom and power.
Now you have shown me what we asked of you,
you have made known to us the king's dream."

24 So Daniel went to Arioch, whom the king had appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon, and said to him,
"Do not put the wise men of Babylon to death. Bring me before the king, and I will tell him the interpretation of the dream." Arioch quickly brought Daniel to the king and said, 25 "I have found a man among the Judean exiles who can give the interpretation to the king." 26 The king asked Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, "Can you tell me the dream that I had and its meaning?" 27 In the king's presence Daniel made this reply:

"The mystery about which the king has inquired, the wise men, enchanters, magicians, and diviners could not explain to the king. 28 But there is a God in heaven who reveals mysteries, and he has shown King Nebuchadnezzar what is to happen in the last days; this was your dream, the visions you saw as you lay in bed. 29 To you in your bed there came thoughts about what should happen in the future, and he who reveals mysteries showed you what is to be. 30 To me also this mystery has been revealed; not that I am wiser than any other living person, but in order that its meaning may be made known to the king, that you may understand the thoughts of your own mind.

31 "In your vision, O king, you saw a statue, very large and exceedingly bright, terrifying in appearance as it stood before you. 32 Its head was pure gold, its chest and arms were silver, its belly and thighs bronze, 33 its legs iron, its feet partly iron and partly clay. 34 While you watched, a stone was hewn from a mountain without a hand being put to it, and it struck its iron and clay feet, breaking them in pieces. 35 The iron, clay, bronze, silver, and gold all crumbled at once, fine as the chaff on the threshing floor in summer, and the wind blew them away without leaving a trace. But the stone that struck the statue became a great mountain and filled the whole earth.

36 "This was the dream; the interpretation we shall also give in the king's presence. 37 You, O king, are the king of kings; to you the God of heaven has given dominion and strength, power and glory; 38 human beings, wild beasts, and birds of the air, wherever they may dwell, he has handed over to you, making you ruler over them all; you are the head of gold. 39 Another kingdom shall take your place, inferior to yours, then a third kingdom, of bronze, which shall rule over the whole earth. 40 There shall be a fourth kingdom, strong as iron; it shall break in pieces and subdue all these others, just as iron breaks in pieces and crushes everything else. 41 The feet and toes you saw, partly of clay and partly of iron, mean that it shall be a divided kingdom, but yet have some of the hardness of iron. As you saw the iron mixed with clay tile, 42 and the toes partly iron and partly clay, the kingdom shall be partly strong and partly fragile. 43 The iron mixed with clay means that they shall seal their alliances by intermarriage, but they shall not stay united, any more than iron mixes with clay. 44 In the lifetime of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed or delivered up to another people; rather, it shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and put an end to them, and it shall stand forever. 45That is the meaning of the stone you saw hewn from the mountain without a hand being put to it, which broke in pieces the iron, bronze, clay, silver, and gold. The great God has revealed to the king what shall be in the future; this is exactly what you dreamed, and its meaning is sure."

46Then King Nebuchadnezzar fell down and worshiped Daniel and ordered sacrifice and incense offered to him. 47To Daniel the king said, "Truly your God is the God of gods and Lord of kings and a revealer of mysteries; that is why you were able to reveal this mystery." 48He advanced Daniel to a high post, gave him many generous presents, made him ruler of the whole province of Babylon and chief prefect over all the wise men of Babylon. 49At Daniel's request the king made Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego administrators of the province of Babylon, while Daniel himself remained at the king's court.

Zacchaeus the Tax Collector. 19:1 He came to Jericho and intended to pass through the town. 2Now a man there named Zacchaeus, who was a chief tax collector and also a wealthy man, 3was seeking to see who Jesus was; but he could not see him because of the crowd, for he was short in stature. 4So he ran ahead and climbed a sycamore tree in order to see Jesus, who was about to pass that way. 5When he reached the place, Jesus looked up and said to him, "Zacchaeus, come down quickly, for today I must stay at your house." 6And he came down quickly and received him with joy. 7When they all saw this, they began to grumble, saying, "He has gone to stay at the house of a sinner." 8But Zacchaeus stood there and said to the Lord, "Behold, half of my possessions, Lord, I shall give to the poor, and if I have extorted anything from anyone I shall repay it four times over." 9And Jesus said to him, "Today salvation has come to this house because this man too is a descendant of Abraham. 10For the Son of Man has come to seek and to save what was lost."

The Parable of the Ten Gold Coins. 11While they were listening to him speak, he proceeded to tell a parable because he was near Jerusalem and they thought that the kingdom of God would appear there immediately. 12So he said, "A nobleman went off to a distant country to obtain the kingship for himself and then to return. 13He called ten of his servants and gave them ten gold coins and told them, 'Engage in trade with these until I return.' 14His fellow citizens, however, despised him and sent a delegation after him to announce, 'We do not want this man to be our king.' 15But when he returned after obtaining the kingship, he had the servants called, to whom he had given the money, to learn what they had gained by trading. 16The first came forward and said, 'Sir, your gold coin has earned ten additional ones.' 17He replied, 'Well done, good servant! You have been faithful in this very small matter; take charge of ten cities.' 18Then the second came and reported, 'Your gold coin, sir, has earned five more.' 19And to this servant too he said, 'You, take charge of five cities.' 20Then the other servant came and said, 'Sir, here is your gold coin; I kept it stored away in a handkerchief, 21for I was afraid of you, because you are a demanding person; you take up what you did not lay down and you harvest what you did not plant.' 22He said to him, 'With your own words I shall condemn you, you wicked servant. You knew I was a demanding person, taking up what I did not lay down and harvesting what I did not plant; 23why did you not put my money in a bank? Then on my return I would have collected it with interest.' 24And to those standing by he said, 'Take the gold coin from him and give it to the servant who has ten.' 25But they said to him, 'Sir, he has ten gold coins.' 26'I tell you, to everyone who has, more will be given, but from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. 27Now as for those enemies of mine who did not want me as their king, bring them here and slay them before me.' "

The Entry into Jerusalem. 28After he had said this, he proceeded on his journey up to Jerusalem. 29As he drew near to Bethphage and Bethany at the place called the Mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples. 30He said, "Go into the village opposite you, and as you enter it you will find a colt tethered on which no one has ever sat. Untie it and bring it here. 31And if anyone should ask you, 'Why are you untying it?' you will answer, 'The Master has need of it.' " 32So those who had been sent went off and found everything just as he had told them. 33And as they were untying the colt, its owners said to them, "Why are you untying this colt?" 34They answered, "The Master has need of it." 35So they brought it to Jesus, threw their cloaks over the colt, and helped Jesus to mount. 36As he rode along, the people were spreading their cloaks on the road; 37and now as he was approaching the slope of the Mount of Olives, the whole multitude of his disciples began to praise God aloud with joy for all the mighty deeds they had seen. 38They proclaimed:

"Blessed is the king who comes in the name of the Lord.
Peace in heaven and glory in the highest."

[39]Some of the Pharisees in the crowd said to him, "Teacher, rebuke your disciples." [40]He said in reply, "I tell you, if they keep silent, the stones will cry out!"

The Lament for Jerusalem. [41]As he drew near, he saw the city and wept over it, [42]saying, "If this day you only knew what makes for peace—but now it is hidden from your eyes. [43]For the days are coming upon you when your enemies will raise a palisade against you; they will encircle you and hem you in on all sides. [44]They will smash you to the ground and your children within you, and they will not leave one stone upon another within you because you did not recognize the time of your visitation."

The Cleansing of the Temple. [45]Then Jesus entered the temple area and proceeded to drive out those who were selling things, [46]saying to them, "It is written, 'My house shall be a house of prayer, but you have made it a den of thieves.' " [47]And every day he was teaching in the temple area. The chief priests, the scribes, and the leaders of the people, meanwhile, were seeking to put him to death, [48]but they could find no way to accomplish their purpose because all the people were hanging on his words.

The Fiery Furnace. 3:1 King Nebuchadnezzar had a golden statue made, sixty cubits high and six cubits wide, which he set up in the plain of Dura in the province of Babylon. [2]He then ordered the satraps, prefects, and governors, the counselors, treasurers, judges, magistrates and all the officials of the provinces to be summoned to the dedication of the statue which he had set up. [3]The satraps, prefects, and governors, the counselors, treasurers, judges, magistrates and all the officials of the provinces came together for the dedication and stood before the statue which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up. [4]A herald cried out: "Nations and peoples of every language, [5]when you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, zither, dulcimer, harp, double-flute, and all the other musical instruments, you must fall down and worship the golden statue which King Nebuchadnezzar has set up. [6]Whoever does not fall down and worship shall be instantly cast into a white-hot furnace." [7]Therefore, as soon as they heard the sound of the horn, pipe, zither, dulcimer, harp, double-flute, and all the other musical instruments, the nations and peoples of every language all fell down and worshiped the golden statue which King Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

[8]At that point, some of the Chaldeans came and accused the Jews [9]to King Nebuchadnezzar: "O king, live forever! [10]O king, you issued a decree that everyone who heard the sound of the horn, pipe, zither, dulcimer, harp, and double-flute, and all the other musical instruments should fall down and worship the golden statue; [11]whoever did not was to be cast into a white-hot furnace. [12]There are certain Jews whom you have made administrators of the province of Babylon: Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego; these men, O king, have paid no attention to you; they will not serve your god or worship the golden statue which you set up."

[13]Nebuchadnezzar flew into a rage and sent for Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who were promptly brought before the king. [14]King Nebuchadnezzar questioned them: "Is it true, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, that you will not serve my god, or worship the golden statue that I set up? [15]Now, if you are ready to fall down and worship the statue I made, whenever you hear the sound of the horn, pipe, zither, dulcimer, harp, double-flute, and all the other musical instruments, then all will be well; if not, you shall be instantly cast into the white-hot furnace; and who is the God who can deliver you out of my hands?" [16]Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered King Nebuchadnezzar, "There is no need for us to defend ourselves before you in this matter. [17]If our God, whom we serve, can save us from the white-hot furnace and from your hands, O king, may he save us! [18]But even if he will not, you should know, O king, that we will not serve your god or worship the golden statue which you set up."

[19]Nebuchadnezzar's face became livid with utter rage against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego. He ordered the furnace to be heated seven times more than usual [20]and had some of the strongest men in his army bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego and cast them into the white-hot furnace. [21]They were bound and cast into the white-hot furnace with their trousers, shirts, hats and other garments, [22]for the king's order was urgent. So huge a fire was kindled in the furnace that the flames devoured the men who threw Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego into it. [23]But these three fell, bound, into the midst of the white-hot furnace.

Prayer of Azariah. [24]They walked about in the flames, singing to God and blessing the Lord. [25]Azariah stood up in the midst of the fire and prayed aloud:

[26]"Blessed are you, and praiseworthy,
O Lord, the God of our ancestors,
and glorious forever is your name.
[27]For you are just in all you have done;
all your deeds are faultless, all your ways right,
and all your judgments proper.
[28]You have executed proper judgments
in all that you have brought upon us and upon Jerusalem, the holy city of our ancestors.
By a proper judgment you have done all this
because of our sins;
[29]For we have sinned and transgressed
by departing from you,
and we have done every kind of evil.
[30]Your commandments we have not heeded or observed,
nor have we done as you ordered us for our good.
[31]Therefore all you have brought upon us,
all you have done to us,
you have done by a proper judgment.
[32]You have handed us over to our enemies,
lawless and hateful rebels;
to an unjust king, the worst in all the world.
[33]Now we cannot open our mouths;
shame and reproach have come upon us,
your servants, who revere you.
[34]For your name's sake, do not deliver us up forever,
or make void your covenant.
[35]Do not take away your mercy from us,
for the sake of Abraham, your beloved,
Isaac your servant, and Israel your holy one, [36]To whom you promised to multiply their offspring
like the stars of heaven,
or the sand on the shore of the sea.
[37]For we are reduced, O Lord, beyond any other nation, brought low everywhere in the world this day
because of our sins.
[38]We have in our day no prince, prophet, or leader,

no burnt offering, sacrifice, oblation, or incense,
no place to offer first fruits, to find favor with you.
39 But with contrite heart and humble spirit
let us be received;
As though it were burnt offerings of rams and bulls,
or tens of thousands of fat lambs, 40 So let our sacrifice be in your presence today
and find favor before you;
for those who trust in you cannot be put to shame.
41 And now we follow you with our whole heart,
we fear you and we seek your face.
Do not put us to shame,
42 but deal with us in your kindness and great mercy.
43 Deliver us in accord with your wonders,
and bring glory to your name, O Lord:
44 Let all those be put to shame
who inflict evils on your servants;
Let them be shamed and powerless,
and their strength broken;
45 Let them know that you alone are the Lord God, glorious over the whole world."

46 Now the king's servants who had thrown them in continued to stoke the furnace with naptha, pitch, tow, and brush. 47 The flames rose forty-nine cubits above the furnace, 48 and spread out, burning the Chaldeans that it caught around the furnace. 49 But the angel of the Lord went down into the furnace with Azariah and his companions, drove the fiery flames out of the furnace, 50 and made the inside of the furnace as though a dew-laden breeze were blowing through it. The fire in no way touched them or caused them pain or harm. 51 Then these three in the furnace with one voice sang, glorifying and blessing God:

52 "Blessed are you, O Lord, the God of our ancestors,
praiseworthy and exalted above all forever;
And blessed is your holy and glorious name,
praiseworthy and exalted above all for all ages.
53 Blessed are you in the temple of your holy glory,
praiseworthy and glorious above all forever.
54 Blessed are you on the throne of your kingdom,
praiseworthy and exalted above all forever.
55 Blessed are you who look into the depths
from your throne upon the cherubim,
praiseworthy and exalted above all forever.
56 Blessed are you in the firmament of heaven,
praiseworthy and glorious forever.
57 Bless the Lord, all you works of the Lord,
praise and exalt him above all forever.
58 Angels of the Lord, bless the Lord,
praise and exalt him above all forever.
59 You heavens, bless the Lord,
praise and exalt him above all forever.
60 All you waters above the heavens, bless the Lord,
praise and exalt him above all forever.

[61]All you powers, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[62]Sun and moon, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[63]Stars of heaven, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[64]Every shower and dew, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[65]All you winds, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[66]Fire and heat, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[67]Cold and chill, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[68]Dew and rain, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[69]Frost and chill, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[70]Hoarfrost and snow, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[71]Nights and days, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[72]Light and darkness, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[73]Lightnings and clouds, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[74]Let the earth bless the Lord,
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[75]Mountains and hills, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[76]Everything growing on earth, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[77]You springs, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[78]Seas and rivers, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[79]You sea monsters and all water creatures, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[80]All you birds of the air, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[81]All you beasts, wild and tame, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[82]All you mortals, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[83]O Israel, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[84]Priests of the Lord, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[85]Servants of the Lord, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.

[86]Spirits and souls of the just, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[87]Holy and humble of heart, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
[88]Hananiah, Azariah, Mishael, bless the Lord;
praise and exalt him above all forever.
For he has delivered us from Sheol,
and saved us from the power of death;
He has freed us from the raging flame
and delivered us from the fire.
[89]Give thanks to the Lord, who is good,
whose mercy endures forever.
[90]Bless the God of gods, all you who fear the Lord;
praise and give thanks,
for his mercy endures forever."

Deliverance from the Furnace. [91]Then King Nebuchadnezzar was startled and rose in haste, asking his counselors, "Did we not cast three men bound into the fire?" "Certainly, O king," they answered. [92]"But," he replied, "I see four men unbound and unhurt, walking in the fire, and the fourth looks like a son of God." [93]Then Nebuchadnezzar came to the opening of the white-hot furnace and called: "Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, servants of the Most High God, come out." Thereupon Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego came out of the fire. [94]When the satraps, prefects, governors, and counselors of the king came together, they saw that the fire had had no power over the bodies of these men; not a hair of their heads had been singed, nor were their garments altered; there was not even a smell of fire about them. [95]Nebuchadnezzar exclaimed, "Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego, who sent his angel to deliver the servants that trusted in him; they disobeyed the royal command and yielded their bodies rather than serve or worship any god except their own God. [96]Therefore I decree for nations and peoples of every language that whoever blasphemes the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego shall be cut to pieces and his house made into a refuse heap. For there is no other God who can rescue like this." [97]Then the king promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego in the province of Babylon.

[98]King Nebuchadnezzar to the nations and peoples of every language, wherever they dwell on earth: May your peace abound! [99]It has seemed good to me to publish the signs and wonders which the Most High God has accomplished in my regard.

[100]How great are his signs, how mighty his wonders;
his kingship is an everlasting kingship,
and his dominion endures through all generations.

☐ LUKE 20

The Authority of Jesus Questioned. 20:1 One day as he was teaching the people in the temple area and proclaiming the good news, the chief priests and scribes, together with the elders, approached him [2]and said to him, "Tell us, by what authority are you doing these things? Or who is the one who gave you this authority?" [3]He said to them in reply, "I shall ask you a question. Tell me, [4]was John's baptism of heavenly or of human origin?" [5]They discussed this among themselves, and said, "If we say, 'Of heavenly origin,' he will say, 'Why did you not believe him?' [6]But if we say, 'Of human origin,' then all the people will stone us, for they are convinced that John was a prophet." [7]So they answered that they did not know from where it came. [8]Then Jesus said to them, "Neither shall I tell you by what authority I do these things."

The Parable of the Tenant Farmers. [9]Then he proceeded to tell the people this parable. "[A] man planted a vineyard, leased it to tenant farmers, and then went on a journey for a long time. [10]At harvest time he sent a servant to the tenant farmers to receive some of the produce of the vineyard. But they beat the servant and sent him away empty-handed. [11]So he proceeded to send another servant, but him also they beat and insulted and sent away empty-handed. [12]Then he proceeded to send a third, but this one too they wounded and threw out. [13]The owner of the vineyard said, 'What shall I do? I shall send my beloved son; maybe they will respect him.' [14]But when the tenant farmers saw him they said to one another, 'This is the heir. Let us kill him that the inheritance may become ours.' [15]So they threw him out of the vineyard and killed him. What will the owner of the vineyard do to them? [16]He will come and put those tenant farmers to death and turn over the vineyard to others." When the people heard this, they exclaimed, "Let it not be so!" [17]But he looked at them and asked, "What then does this scripture passage mean:

'The stone which the builders rejected
has become the cornerstone'?

[18]Everyone who falls on that stone will be dashed to pieces; and it will crush anyone on whom it falls." [19]The scribes and chief priests sought to lay their hands on him at that very hour, but they feared the people, for they knew that he had addressed this parable to them.

Paying Taxes to the Emperor. [20]They watched him closely and sent agents pretending to be righteous who were to trap him in speech, in order to hand him over to the authority and power of the governor. [21]They posed this question to him, "Teacher, we know that what you say and teach is correct, and you show no partiality, but teach the way of God in accordance with the truth. [22]Is it lawful for us to pay tribute to Caesar or not?" [23]Recognizing their craftiness he said to them, [24]"Show me a denarius; whose image and name does it bear?" They replied, "Caesar's." [25]So he said to them, "Then repay to Caesar what belongs to Caesar and to God what belongs to God." [26]They were unable to trap him by something he might say before the people, and so amazed were they at his reply that they fell silent.

The Question about the Resurrection. [27]Some Sadducees, those who deny that there is a resurrection, came forward and put this question to him, [28]saying, "Teacher, Moses wrote for us, 'If someone's brother dies leaving a wife but no child, his brother must take the wife and raise up descendants for his brother.' [29]Now there were seven brothers; the first married a woman but died childless. [30]Then the second [31]and the third married her, and likewise all the seven died childless. [32]Finally the woman also died. [33]Now at the resurrection whose wife will that woman be? For all seven had been married to her." [34]Jesus said to them, "The children of this age marry and are given in marriage; [35]but those who are deemed worthy to attain to the coming age and to the resurrection of the dead neither marry nor are given in marriage. [36]They can no longer die, for they are like angels; and they are the children of God because they are the ones who will rise. [37]That the dead will rise even Moses made known in the passage about the bush, when he called 'Lord' the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob; [38]and he is not God of the dead, but of the living, for to him all are alive." [39]Some of the scribes said in reply, "Teacher, you have answered well." [40]And they no longer dared to ask him anything.

The Question about David's Son. [41]Then he said to them, "How do they claim that the Messiah is the Son of David? [42]For David himself in the Book of Psalms says:

'The Lord said to my lord,
"Sit at my right hand
[43]till I make your enemies your footstool.'"

Denunciation of the Scribes. [45]Then, within the hearing of all the people, he said to [his] disciples, [46]"Be on guard against the scribes, who like to go around in long robes and love greetings in marketplaces, seats of honor in synagogues, and places of honor at banquets. [47]They devour the houses of widows and, as a pretext, recite lengthy prayers. They will receive a very severe condemnation."

In vain, then, do we attempt to compute definitely the years that may remain to this world, when we may hear from the mouth of the Truth himself that it is not for us to know this.

☐ DANIEL 4

Nebuchadnezzar's Madness. 4:1 I, Nebuchadnezzar, was at home in my palace, content and prosperous. 2I had a terrifying dream as I lay in bed, and the images and my visions frightened me. 3So I issued a decree that all the wise men of Babylon should be brought before me to give the interpretation of the dream. 4When the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and diviners had come in, I related the dream before them; but none of them could tell me its meaning. 5Finally there came before me Daniel, whose name is Belteshazzar after the name of my god, and in whom is a spirit of the holy gods. I repeated the dream to him: 6"Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, I know that a spirit of the holy gods is in you and no mystery is too difficult for you; this is the dream that I saw, tell me its meaning.

7"These were the visions I saw while in bed: I saw a tree of great height at the center of the earth. 8It was large and strong, with its top touching the heavens, and it could be seen to the ends of the earth. 9Its leaves were beautiful, its fruit abundant, providing food for all. Under it the wild beasts found shade, in its branches the birds of the air nested; all flesh ate of it. 10In the vision I saw while in bed, a holy watcher came down from heaven 11and cried aloud in these words:

'Cut down the tree and lop off its branches,
strip off its leaves and scatter its fruit;
Let the beasts flee from beneath it, and the birds from its branches, 12but leave its stump in the earth.
Bound with iron and bronze,
let him be fed with the grass of the field
and bathed with the dew of heaven;
let his lot be with the beasts in the grass of the earth.
13Let his mind be changed from a human one;
let the mind of a beast be given him,
till seven years pass over him.
14By decree of the watchers is this proclamation,
by order of the holy ones, this sentence;
That all who live may know that the Most High is sovereign over human kingship, Giving it to whom he wills,
and setting it over the lowliest of mortals.'

15"This is the dream that I, King Nebuchadnezzar, had. Now, Belteshazzar, tell me its meaning. None of the wise men in my kingdom can tell me the meaning, but you can, because the spirit of the holy gods is in you."

16Then Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, was appalled for a time, dismayed by his thoughts. "Belteshazzar," the king said to him, "do not let the dream or its meaning dismay you." "My lord," Belteshazzar replied, "may this dream be for your enemies, and its meaning for your foes. 17The tree that you saw, large and strong, its top touching the heavens, that could be seen by the whole earth, 18its leaves beautiful, its fruit abundant, providing food for all, under which the wild beasts lived, and in whose branches the birds of the air dwelt— 19you are that tree, O king, large and strong! Your majesty has become so great as to touch the heavens, and your rule reaches to the ends of the earth. 20As for the king's vision of a holy watcher, who came down from heaven and proclaimed: 'Cut down the tree and destroy it, but leave its stump in the earth. Bound with iron and bronze, let him be fed with the grass of the field, and bathed with the dew of heaven; let his lot be with wild beasts till seven years pass over him'— [21]here is its meaning, O king, here is the sentence that the Most High has passed upon my lord king: [22]You shall be cast out from human society and dwell with wild beasts; you shall be given grass to eat like an ox and be bathed with the dew of heaven; seven years shall pass over you, until you know that the Most High is sovereign over human kingship and gives it to whom he will. [23]The command that the stump of the tree is to be left means that your kingdom shall be preserved for you, once you have learned that heaven is sovereign. [24]Therefore, O king, may my advice be acceptable to you; atone for your sins by good deeds, and for your misdeeds by kindness to the poor; then your contentment will be long lasting."

[25]All this happened to King Nebuchadnezzar. [26]Twelve months later, as he was walking on the roof of the royal palace in Babylon, [27]the king said, "Babylon the great! Was it not I, with my great strength, who built it as a royal residence for my splendor and majesty?" [28]While these words were still on the king's lips, a voice spoke from heaven, "It has been decreed for you, King Nebuchadnezzar, that your kingship is taken from you! [29]You shall be cast out from human society, and shall dwell with wild beasts; you shall be given grass to eat like an ox, and seven years shall pass over you, until you learn that the Most High is sovereign over human kingship and gives it to whom he will." [30]At once this was fulfilled. Nebuchadnezzar was cast out from human society, he ate grass like an ox, and his body was bathed with the dew of heaven, until his hair grew like the feathers of an eagle, and his nails like the claws of a bird.

[31]When this period was over, I, Nebuchadnezzar, raised my eyes to heaven; my reason was restored to me, and I blessed the Most High, I praised and glorified the One who lives forever,

Whose dominion is an everlasting dominion,
and whose kingdom endures through all generations.
[32]All who live on the earth are counted as nothing;
he does as he wills with the powers of heaven
and with those who live on the earth.
There is no one who can stay his hand
or say to him, "What have you done?"

[33]At the same time my reason returned to me, and for the glory of my kingdom, my majesty and my splendor returned to me. My counselors and nobles sought me out; I was restored to my kingdom and became much greater than before. [34]Now, I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and exalt and glorify the King of heaven, all of whose works are right and ways just; and who is able to humble those who walk in pride.

☐ LUKE 21

The Poor Widow's Contribution. 21:1 When he looked up he saw some wealthy people putting their offerings into the treasury [2]and he noticed a poor widow putting in two small coins. [3]He said, "I tell you truly, this poor widow put in more than all the rest; [4]for those others have all made offerings from their surplus wealth, but she, from her poverty, has offered her whole livelihood."

The Destruction of the Temple Foretold. [5]While some people were speaking about how the temple was adorned with costly stones and votive offerings, he said, [6]"All that you see here—the days will come when there will not be left a stone upon another stone that will not be thrown down."

The Sign of the End. [7]Then they asked him, "Teacher, when will this happen? And what sign will there be when all these things are about to happen?" [8]He answered, "See that you not be deceived, for many will come in my name, saying, 'I am he,' and 'The time has come.' Do not follow them! [9]When you hear of wars and insurrections, do not be terrified; for such things must happen first, but it will not immediately be the end." [10]Then he said to them, "Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. [11]There will be powerful earthquakes, famines, and plagues from place to place; and awesome sights and mighty signs will come from the sky.

The Coming Persecution. [12]"Before all this happens, however, they will seize and persecute you, they will hand you over to the synagogues and to prisons, and they will have you led before kings and governors because of my name. [13]It will lead to your giving testimony. [14]Remember, you are not to prepare your defense beforehand, [15]for I myself shall give you a wisdom in speaking that all your adversaries will be powerless to resist or refute. [16]You will even be handed over by parents, brothers, relatives, and friends, and they will put some of you to death. [17]You will be hated by all because of my name, [18]but not a hair on your head will be destroyed. [19]By your perseverance you will secure your lives.

The Great Tribulation. [20]"When you see Jerusalem surrounded by armies, know that its desolation is at hand. [21]Then those in Judea must flee to the mountains. Let those within the city escape from it, and let those in the countryside not enter the city, [22]for these days are the time of punishment when all the scriptures are fulfilled. [23]Woe to pregnant women and nursing mothers in those days, for a terrible calamity will come upon the earth and a wrathful judgment upon this people. [24]They will fall by the edge of the sword and be taken as captives to all the Gentiles; and Jerusalem will be trampled underfoot by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

The Coming of the Son of Man. [25]"There will be signs in the sun, the moon, and the stars, and on earth nations will be in dismay, perplexed by the roaring of the sea and the waves. [26]People will die of fright in anticipation of what is coming upon the world, for the powers of the heavens will be shaken. [27]And then they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory. [28]But when these signs begin to happen, stand erect and raise your heads because your redemption is at hand."

The Lesson of the Fig Tree. [29]He taught them a lesson. "Consider the fig tree and all the other trees. [30]When their buds burst open, you see for yourselves and know that summer is now near; [31]in the same way, when you see these things happening, know that the kingdom of God is near. [32]Amen, I say to you, this generation will not pass away until all these things have taken place. [33]Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

Exhortation to be Vigilant. [34]"Beware that your hearts do not become drowsy from carousing and drunkenness and the anxieties of daily life, and that day catch you by surprise [35]like a trap. For that day will assault everyone who lives on the face of the earth. [36]Be vigilant at all times and pray that you have the strength to escape the tribulations that are imminent and to stand before the Son of Man."

Ministry in Jerusalem. [37]During the day, Jesus was teaching in the temple area, but at night he would leave and stay at the place called the Mount of Olives. [38]And all the people would get up early each morning to listen to him in the temple area.

The more we lack in this world, the more surely we discover the best thing the world has to offer us: the cross.

☐ DANIEL 5-6

The Writing on the Wall. 5:1 King Belshazzar gave a great banquet for a thousand of his nobles, with whom he drank. [2]Under the influence of the wine, he ordered the gold and silver vessels which Nebuchadnezzar, his father, had taken from the temple in Jerusalem, to be brought in so that the king, his nobles, his consorts, and his concubines might drink from them. [3]When the gold vessels taken from the temple, the house of God in Jerusalem, had been brought in, and while the king, his nobles, his consorts, and his concubines were drinking [4]wine from them, they praised their gods of gold and silver, bronze and iron, wood and stone.

[5]Suddenly, opposite the lampstand, the fingers of a human hand appeared, writing on the plaster of the wall in the king's palace. When the king saw the hand that wrote, [6]his face became pale; his thoughts terrified him, his hip joints shook, and his knees knocked. [7]The king shouted for the enchanters, Chaldeans, and diviners to be brought in. "Whoever reads this writing and tells me what it means," he said to the wise men of Babylon, "shall be clothed in purple, wear a chain of gold around his neck, and be third in governing the kingdom." [8]But though all the king's wise men came in, none of them could either read the writing or tell the king what it meant. [9]Then King Belshazzar was greatly terrified; his face became pale, and his nobles were thrown into confusion.

[10]When the queen heard of the discussion between the king and his nobles, she entered the banquet hall and said, "O king, live forever! Do not let your thoughts terrify you, or your face become so pale! [11]There is a man in your kingdom in whom is a spirit of the holy gods; during the lifetime of your father he showed brilliant insight and god-like wisdom. King Nebuchadnezzar, your father, made him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and diviners. [12]Because this Daniel, whom the king named Belteshazzar, has shown an extraordinary spirit, knowledge, and insight in interpreting dreams, explaining riddles and solving problems, let him now be summoned to tell you what this means."

[13]Then Daniel was brought into the presence of the king. The king asked him, "Are you the Daniel, one of the Jewish exiles, whom my father, the king, brought from Judah? [14]I have heard that the spirit of the gods is in you, that you have shown brilliant insight and extraordinary wisdom. [15]The wise men and enchanters were brought in to me to read this writing and tell me its meaning, but they could not say what the words meant. [16]But I have heard that you can give interpretations and solve problems; now, if you are able to read the writing and tell me what it means, you shall be clothed in purple, wear a chain of gold around your neck, and be third in governing the kingdom."

[17]Daniel answered the king: "You may keep your gifts, or give your presents to someone else; but the writing I will read for the king, and tell what it means. [18]The Most High God gave your father Nebuchadnezzar kingship, greatness, splendor, and majesty. [19]Because he made him so great, the nations and peoples of every language dreaded and feared him. Whomever he willed, he would kill or let live; whomever he willed, he would exalt or humble. [20]But when his heart became proud and his spirit hardened by insolence, he was put down from his royal throne and deprived of his glory; [21]he was cast out from human society and his heart was made like that of a beast; he lived with wild asses, and ate grass like an ox; his body was bathed with the dew of heaven, until he learned that the Most High God is sovereign over human kingship and sets over it whom he will. [22]You, his son, Belshazzar, have not humbled your heart, though you knew all this; [23]you have rebelled against the Lord of heaven. You had the vessels of his temple brought before you, so that you and your nobles, your consorts and your concubines, might drink wine from them; and you praised the gods of silver and gold, bronze and iron, wood and stone, that neither see nor hear nor have intelligence. But the God in whose hand is your very breath and the whole course of your life, you did not glorify. [24]By him was the hand sent, and the writing set down.

[25]"This is the writing that was inscribed: MENE, TEKEL, and PERES. These words mean: [26]MENE, God has numbered your kingdom and put an end to it; [27]TEKEL, you have been weighed on the scales and found wanting; [28]PERES, your kingdom has been divided and given to the Medes and Persians."

[29]Then by order of Belshazzar they clothed Daniel in purple, with a chain of gold around his neck, and proclaimed him third in governing the kingdom. [30]That very night Belshazzar, the Chaldean king, was slain:

6:1 And Darius the Mede succeeded to the kingdom at the age of sixty-two.

The Lions' Den. [2]Darius decided to appoint over his entire kingdom one hundred and twenty satraps. [3]These were accountable to three ministers, one of whom was Daniel; the satraps reported to them, so that the king should suffer no loss. [4]Daniel outshone all the ministers and satraps because an extraordinary spirit was in him, and the king considered setting him over the entire kingdom. [5]Then the ministers and satraps tried to find grounds for accusation against Daniel regarding the kingdom. But they could not accuse him of any corruption. Because he was trustworthy, no fault or corruption was to be found in him. [6]Then these men said to themselves, "We shall find no grounds for accusation against this Daniel except in connection with the law of his God." [7]So these ministers and satraps stormed in to the king and said to him, "King Darius, live forever! [8]All the ministers of the kingdom, the prefects, satraps, counselors, and governors agree that the following prohibition ought to be put in force by royal decree: for thirty days, whoever makes a petition to anyone, divine or human, except to you, O king, shall be thrown into a den of lions. [9]Now, O king, let the prohibition be issued over your signature, immutable and irrevocable according to the law of the Medes and Persians." [10]So King Darius signed the prohibition into law.

[11]Even after Daniel heard that this law had been signed, he continued his custom of going home to kneel in prayer and give thanks to his God in the upper chamber three times a day, with the windows open toward Jerusalem. [12]So these men stormed in and found Daniel praying and pleading before his God. [13]Then they went to remind the king about the prohibition: "Did you not sign a decree, O king, that for thirty days, whoever makes a petition to anyone, divine or human, except to you, O king, shall be cast into a den of lions?" The king answered them, "The decree is absolute, irrevocable under the law of the Medes and Persians." [14]To this they replied, "Daniel, one of the Jewish exiles, has paid no attention to you, O king, or to the prohibition you signed; three times a day he offers his prayer." [15]The king was deeply grieved at this news and he made up his mind to save Daniel; he worked till sunset to rescue him. [16]But these men pressed the king. "Keep in mind, O king," they said, "that under the law of the Medes and Persians every royal prohibition or decree is irrevocable." [17]So the king ordered Daniel to be brought and cast into the lions' den. To Daniel he said, "Your God, whom you serve so constantly, must save you." [18]To forestall any tampering, the king sealed with his own ring and the rings of the lords the stone that had been brought to block the opening of the den.

[19]Then the king returned to his palace for the night; he refused to eat and he dismissed the entertainers. Since sleep was impossible for him, [20]the king rose very early the next morning and hastened to the lions' den. [21]As he drew near, he cried out to Daniel sorrowfully, "Daniel, servant of the living God, has your God whom you serve so constantly been able to save you from the lions?" [22]Daniel answered the king: "O king, live forever! [23]My God sent his angel and closed the lions' mouths so that they have not hurt me. For I have been found innocent before him; neither have I done you any harm, O king!" [24]This gave the king great joy. At his order Daniel was brought up from the den; he was found to be unharmed because he trusted in his God. [25]The king then ordered the men who had accused Daniel, along with their children and their wives, to be cast into the lions' den. Before they reached the bottom of the den, the lions overpowered them and crushed all their bones.

[26]Then King Darius wrote to the nations and peoples of every language, wherever they dwell on the earth: "May your peace abound! [27]I decree that throughout my royal domain the God of Daniel is to be reverenced and feared:

"For he is the living God, enduring forever,
whose kingdom shall not be destroyed,
whose dominion shall be without end, [28]A savior and deliverer,
working signs and wonders in heaven and on earth,
who saved Daniel from the lions' power."

[29]So Daniel fared well during the reign of Darius and the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

☐ LUKE 22

The Conspiracy against Jesus. 22:1 Now the feast of Unleavened Bread, called the Passover, was drawing near,
[2]and the chief priests and the scribes were seeking a way to put him to death, for they were afraid of the people. [3]Then Satan entered into Judas, the one surnamed Iscariot, who was counted among the Twelve, [4]and he went to the chief priests and temple guards to discuss a plan for handing him over to them. [5]They were pleased and agreed to pay him money. [6]He accepted their offer and sought a favorable opportunity to hand him over to them in the absence of a crowd.

Preparations for the Passover. [7]When the day of the feast of Unleavened Bread arrived, the day for sacrificing the Passover lamb, [8]he sent out Peter and John, instructing them, "Go and make preparations for us to eat the Passover." [9]They asked him, "Where do you want us to make the preparations?" [10]And he answered them, "When you go into the city, a man will meet you carrying a jar of water. Follow him into the house that he enters [11]and say to the master of the house, 'The teacher says to you, "Where is the guest room where I may eat the Passover with my disciples?"' [12]He will show you a large upper room that is furnished. Make the preparations there." [13]Then they went off and found everything exactly as he had told them, and there they prepared the Passover.

The Last Supper. [14]When the hour came, he took his place at table with the apostles. [15]He said to them, "I have eagerly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer, [16]for, I tell you, I shall not eat it [again] until there is fulfillment in the kingdom of God." [17]Then he took a cup, gave thanks, and said, "Take this and share it among yourselves; [18]for I tell you [that] from this time on I shall not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes." [19]Then he took the bread, said the blessing, broke it, and gave it to them, saying, "This is my body, which will be given for you; do this in memory of me." [20]And likewise the cup after they had eaten, saying, "This cup is the new covenant in my blood, which will be shed for you.

The Betrayal Foretold. [21]"And yet behold, the hand of the one who is to betray me is with me on the table; [22]for the Son of Man indeed goes as it has been determined; but woe to that man by whom he is betrayed." [23]And they began to debate among themselves who among them would do such a deed.

The Role of the Disciples. [24]Then an argument broke out among them about which of them should be regarded as the greatest. [25]He said to them, "The kings of the Gentiles lord it over them and those in authority over them are addressed as 'Benefactors'; [26]but among you it shall not be so. Rather, let the greatest among you be as the youngest, and the leader as the servant. [27]For who is greater: the one seated at table or the one who serves? Is it not the one seated at table? I am among you as the one who serves. [28]It is you who have stood by me in my trials; [29]and I confer a kingdom on you, just as my Father has conferred one on me, [30]that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom;
and you will sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

Peter's Denial Foretold. [31]"Simon, Simon, behold Satan has demanded to sift all of you like wheat, [32]but I have prayed that your own faith may not fail; and once you have turned back, you must strengthen your brothers." [33]He said to him, "Lord, I am prepared to go to prison and to die with you." [34]But he replied, "I tell you, Peter, before the cock crows this day, you will deny three times that you know me."

Instructions for the Time of Crisis. [35]He said to them, "When I sent you forth without a money bag or a sack or sandals, were you in need of anything?" "No, nothing," they replied. [36]He said to them, "But now one who has a money bag should take it, and likewise a sack, and one who does not have a sword should sell his cloak and buy one. [37]For I tell you that this scripture must be fulfilled in me, namely, 'He was counted among the wicked'; and indeed what is written about me is coming to fulfillment." [38]Then they said, "Lord, look, there are two swords here." But he replied, "It is enough!"

The Agony in the Garden. [39]Then going out he went, as was his custom, to the Mount of Olives, and the disciples followed him. [40]When he arrived at the place he said to them, "Pray that you may not undergo the test." [41]After withdrawing about a stone's throw from them and kneeling, he prayed, [42]saying, "Father, if you are willing, take this cup away from me; still, not my will but yours be done." [[43]And to strengthen him an angel from heaven appeared to him.

[44]He was in such agony and he prayed so fervently that his sweat became like drops of blood falling on the ground.] [45]When he rose from prayer and returned to his disciples, he found them sleeping from grief. [46]He said to them, "Why are you sleeping? Get up and pray that you may not undergo the test."

The Betrayal and Arrest of Jesus. [47]While he was still speaking, a crowd approached and in front was one of the Twelve, a man named Judas. He went up to Jesus to kiss him. [48]Jesus said to him, "Judas, are you betraying the Son of Man with a kiss?" [49]His disciples realized what was about to happen, and they asked, "Lord, shall we strike with a sword?" [50]And one of them struck the high priest's servant and cut off his right ear. [51]But Jesus said in reply, "Stop, no more of this!" Then he touched the servant's ear and healed him. [52]And Jesus said to the chief priests and temple guards and elders who had come for him, "Have you come out as against a robber, with swords and clubs? [53]Day after day I was with you in the temple area, and you did not seize me; but this is your hour, the time for the power of darkness."

Peter's Denial of Jesus. [54]After arresting him they led him away and took him into the house of the high priest; Peter was following at a distance. [55]They lit a fire in the middle of the courtyard and sat around it, and Peter sat down with them. [56]When a maid saw him seated in the light, she looked intently at him and said, "This man too was with him." [57]But he denied it saying, "Woman, I do not know him." [58]A short while later someone else saw him and said, "You too are one of them"; but Peter answered, "My friend, I am not." [59]About an hour later, still another insisted, "Assuredly, this man too was with him, for he also is a Galilean." [60]But Peter said, "My friend, I do not know what you are talking about." Just as he was saying this, the cock crowed, [61]and the Lord turned and looked at Peter; and Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said to him, "Before the cock crows today, you will deny me three times." [62]He went out and began to weep bitterly. [63]The men who held Jesus in custody were ridiculing and beating him. [64]They blindfolded him and questioned him, saying, "Prophesy! Who is it that struck you?" [65]And they reviled him in saying many other things against him.

Jesus before the Sanhedrin. [66]When day came the council of elders of the people met, both chief priests and scribes, and they brought him before their Sanhedrin. [67]They said, "If you are the Messiah, tell us," but he replied to them, "If I tell you, you will not believe, [68]and if I question, you will not respond. [69]But from this time on the Son of Man will be seated at the right hand of the power of God." [70]They all asked, "Are you then the Son of God?" He replied to them, "You say that I am." [71]Then they said, "What further need have we for testimony? We have heard it from his own mouth."

The Beasts and the Judgment. 7:1 In the first year of King Belshazzar of Babylon, as Daniel lay in bed he had a dream, visions in his head. Then he wrote down the dream; the account began: [2]In the vision I saw during the night, suddenly the four winds of heaven stirred up the great sea, [3]from which emerged four immense beasts, each different from the others. [4]The first was like a lion, but with eagle's wings. While I watched, the wings were plucked; it was raised from the ground to stand on two feet like a human being, and given a human mind. [5]The second beast was like a bear; it was raised up on one side, and among the teeth in its mouth were three tusks. It was given the order, "Arise, devour much flesh." [6]After this I looked and saw another beast, like a leopard; on its back were four wings like those of a bird, and it had four heads. To this beast dominion was given. [7]After this, in the visions of the night I saw a fourth beast, terrifying, horrible, and of extraordinary strength; it had great iron teeth with which it devoured and crushed, and it trampled with its feet what was left. It differed from the beasts that preceded it. It had ten horns. [8]I was considering the ten horns it had, when suddenly another, a little horn, sprang out of their midst, and three of the previous horns were torn away to make room for it. This horn had eyes like human eyes, and a mouth that spoke arrogantly. [9]As I watched,

Thrones were set up and the Ancient of Days took his throne.
His clothing was white as snow,
the hair on his head like pure wool;
His throne was flames of fire,
with wheels of burning fire.
[10]A river of fire surged forth,
flowing from where he sat;
Thousands upon thousands were ministering to him,
and myriads upon myriads stood before him.

The court was convened, and the books were opened. [11]I watched, then, from the first of the arrogant words which the horn spoke, until the beast was slain and its body destroyed and thrown into the burning fire. [12]As for the other beasts, their dominion was taken away, but they were granted a prolongation of life for a time and a season. [13]As the visions during the night continued, I saw coming with the clouds of heaven

One like a son of man.
When he reached the Ancient of Days
and was presented before him, [14]He received dominion, splendor, and kingship;
all nations, peoples and tongues will serve him.
His dominion is an everlasting dominion
that shall not pass away,
his kingship, one that shall not be destroyed.

[15]Because of this, my spirit was anguished and I, Daniel, was terrified by my visions. [16]I approached one of those present and asked him the truth of all this; in answer, he made known to me its meaning: [17]"These four great beasts stand for four kings which shall arise on the earth. [18]But the holy ones of the Most High shall receive the kingship, to possess it forever and ever."

[19]Then I wished to make certain about the fourth beast, so very terrible and different from the others, devouring and crushing with its iron teeth and bronze claws, and trampling with its feet what was left; [20]and about the ten horns on its head, and the other one that sprang up, before which three horns fell; and about the horn with the eyes and the mouth that spoke arrogantly, which appeared greater than its fellows. [21]For, as I watched, that horn made war against the holy ones and was victorious [22]until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was pronounced in favor of the holy ones of the Most High, and the time arrived for the holy ones to possess the kingship. [23]He answered me thus:

"The fourth beast shall be a fourth kingdom on earth,
different from all the others;
The whole earth it shall devour, trample down and crush.
[24]The ten horns shall be ten kings
rising out of that kingdom;
another shall rise up after them,
Different from those before him,
who shall lay low three kings.
[25]He shall speak against the Most High and wear down the holy ones of the Most High,

intending to change the feast days and the law.
They shall be handed over to him
for a time, two times, and half a time.
[26]But when the court is convened,
and his dominion is taken away
to be abolished and completely destroyed, [27]Then the kingship and dominion and majesty of all the kingdoms under the heavens shall be given to the people of the holy ones of the Most High, Whose kingship shall be an everlasting kingship,
whom all dominions shall serve and obey."

[28]This is the end of the report. I, Daniel, was greatly terrified by my thoughts, and my face became pale, but I kept the matter to myself.

The Ram and the He-goat. 8:1 After this first vision, I, Daniel, had another, in the third year of the reign of King Belshazzar. [2]In my vision I saw myself in the fortress of Susa in the province of Elam; I was beside the river Ulai. [3]I looked up and saw standing by the river a ram with two great horns, the one larger and newer than the other. [4]I saw the ram butting toward the west, north, and south. No beast could withstand it or be rescued from its power; it did what it pleased and grew powerful.

[5]As I was reflecting, a he-goat with a prominent horn on its forehead suddenly came from the west across the whole earth without touching the ground. [6]It came to the two-horned ram I had seen standing by the river, and rushed toward it with savage force. [7]I saw it reach the ram; enraged, the he-goat attacked and shattered both its horns. The ram did not have the strength to withstand it; the he-goat threw the ram to the ground and trampled upon it. No one could rescue the ram from its power.

[8]The he-goat grew very powerful, but at the height of its strength the great horn was shattered, and in its place came up four others, facing the four winds of heaven. [9]Out of one of them came a little horn which grew and grew toward the south, the east, and the glorious land. [10]It grew even to the host of heaven, so that it cast down to earth some of the host and some of the stars and trampled on them. [11]It grew even to the Prince of the host, from whom the daily sacrifice was removed, and whose sanctuary was cast down. [12]The host was given over together with the daily sacrifice in the course of transgression. It cast truth to the ground, and was succeeding in its undertaking.

[13]I heard a holy one speaking, and another said to whichever one it was that spoke, "How long shall the events of this vision last concerning the daily sacrifice, the desolating sin, the giving over of the sanctuary and the host for trampling?" [14]He answered him, "For two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings; then the sanctuary shall be set right."

[15]While I, Daniel, sought the meaning of the vision I had seen, one who looked like a man stood before me, [16]and on the Ulai I heard a human voice that cried out, "Gabriel, explain the vision to this man." [17]When he came near where I was standing, I fell prostrate in terror. But he said to me, "Understand, O son of man, that the vision refers to the end time." [18]As he spoke to me, I fell forward unconscious; he touched me and made me stand up. [19]"I will show you," he said, "what is to happen in the last days of wrath; for it is for the appointed time of the end.

[20]"The two-horned ram you saw represents the kings of the Medes and Persians. [21]The he-goat is the king of the Greeks, and the great horn on its forehead is the first king. [22]The four that rose in its place when it was shattered are four kingdoms that will issue from his nation, but without his strength.

[23]"At the end of their reign,
when sinners have reached their measure,
There shall arise a king,
impudent, and skilled in intrigue.
[24]He shall be strong and powerful,

bring about fearful ruin,
and succeed in his undertaking.
He shall destroy powerful peoples;
[25]his cunning shall be against the holy ones,
his treacherous conduct shall succeed.
He shall be proud of heart
and destroy many by stealth.
But when he rises against the Prince of princes,
he shall be broken without a hand being raised.
[26]As for the vision of the evenings and the mornings,
what was spoken is true.
But you, keep this vision secret:
it is for the distant future."

[27]I, Daniel, was weak and ill for some days; then I arose and took care of the king's affairs. But the vision left me desolate, without understanding.

☐ LUKE 23

Jesus before Pilate. 23:1 Then the whole assembly of them arose and brought him before Pilate. [2]They brought charges against him, saying, "We found this man misleading our people; he opposes the payment of taxes to Caesar and maintains that he is the Messiah, a king." [3]Pilate asked him, "Are you the king of the Jews?" He said to him in reply, "You say so." [4]Pilate then addressed the chief priests and the crowds, "I find this man not guilty." [5]But they were adamant and said, "He is inciting the people with his teaching throughout all Judea, from Galilee where he began even to here."

Jesus before Herod. [6]On hearing this Pilate asked if the man was a Galilean; [7]and upon learning that he was under Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod who was in Jerusalem at that time. [8]Herod was very glad to see Jesus; he had been wanting to see him for a long time, for he had heard about him and had been hoping to see him perform some sign. [9]He questioned him at length, but he gave him no answer. [10]The chief priests and scribes, meanwhile, stood by accusing him harshly. [11][Even] Herod and his soldiers treated him contemptuously and mocked him, and after clothing him in resplendent garb, he sent him back to Pilate. [12]Herod and Pilate became friends that very day, even though they had been enemies formerly. [13]Pilate then summoned the chief priests, the rulers, and the people [14]and said to them, "You brought this man to me and accused him of inciting the people to revolt. I have conducted my investigation in your presence and have not found this man guilty of the charges you have brought against him, [15]nor did Herod, for he sent him back to us. So no capital crime has been committed by him. [16]Therefore I shall have him flogged and then release him." [17]

The Sentence of Death. [18]But all together they shouted out, "Away with this man! Release Barabbas to us." [19](Now Barabbas had been imprisoned for a rebellion that had taken place in the city and for murder.) [20]Again Pilate addressed them, still wishing to release Jesus, [21]but they continued their shouting, "Crucify him! Crucify him!" [22]Pilate addressed them a third time, "What evil has this man done? I found him guilty of no capital crime. Therefore I shall have him flogged and then release him." [23]With loud shouts, however, they persisted in calling for his crucifixion, and their voices prevailed. [24]The verdict of Pilate was that their demand should be granted. [25]So he released the man who had been imprisoned for rebellion and murder, for whom they asked, and he handed Jesus over to them to deal with as they wished.

The Way of the Cross. [26]As they led him away they took hold of a certain Simon, a Cyrenian, who was coming in from the country; and after laying the cross on him, they made him carry it behind Jesus. [27]A large crowd of people followed Jesus, including many women who mourned and lamented him. [28]Jesus turned to them and said, "Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me; weep instead for yourselves and for your children, [29]for indeed, the days are coming when people will say, ‘Blessed are the barren, the wombs that never bore and the breasts that never nursed.’ [30]At that time people will say to the mountains, ‘Fall upon us!’ and to the hills, ‘Cover us!’ [31]for if these things are done when the wood is green what will happen when it is dry?” [32]Now two others, both criminals, were led away with him to be executed.

The Crucifixion. [33]When they came to the place called the Skull, they crucified him and the criminals there, one on his right, the other on his left. [34][Then Jesus said, “Father, forgive them, they know not what they do.”] They divided his garments by casting lots. [35]The people stood by and watched; the rulers, meanwhile, sneered at him and said, “He saved others, let him save himself if he is the chosen one, the Messiah of God.” [36]Even the soldiers jeered at him. As they approached to offer him wine [37]they called out, “If you are King of the Jews, save yourself.” [38]Above him there was an inscription that read, “This is the King of the Jews.” [39]Now one of the criminals hanging there reviled Jesus, saying, “Are you not the Messiah? Save yourself and us.” [40]The other, however, rebuking him, said in reply, “Have you no fear of God, for you are subject to the same condemnation? [41]And indeed, we have been condemned justly, for the sentence we received corresponds to our crimes, but this man has done nothing criminal.” [42]Then he said, “Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom.” [43]He replied to him, “Amen, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise.”

The Death of Jesus. [44]It was now about noon and darkness came over the whole land until three in the afternoon [45]because of an eclipse of the sun. Then the veil of the temple was torn down the middle. [46]Jesus cried out in a loud voice, “Father, into your hands I commend my spirit”; and when he had said this he breathed his last. [47]The centurion who witnessed what had happened glorified God and said, “This man was innocent beyond doubt.” [48]When all the people who had gathered for this spectacle saw what had happened, they returned home beating their breasts; [49]but all his acquaintances stood at a distance, including the women who had followed him from Galilee and saw these events.

The Burial of Jesus. [50]Now there was a virtuous and righteous man named Joseph who, though he was a member of the council, [51]had not consented to their plan of action. He came from the Jewish town of Arimathea and was awaiting the kingdom of God. [52]He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. [53]After he had taken the body down, he wrapped it in a linen cloth and laid him in a rock-hewn tomb in which no one had yet been buried. [54]It was the day of preparation, and the sabbath was about to begin. [55]The women who had come from Galilee with him followed behind, and when they had seen the tomb and the way in which his body was laid in it, [56]they returned and prepared spices and perfumed oils. Then they rested on the sabbath according to the commandment.

The Seventy Weeks of Years. 9:1 It was the first year that Darius, son of Ahasuerus, of the race of the Medes, reigned over the kingdom of the Chaldeans; [2]in the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, perceived in the books the number of years the LORD had decreed to the prophet Jeremiah: Jerusalem was to lie in ruins for seventy years.

[3]I turned to the Lord God, to seek help, in prayer and petition, with fasting, sackcloth, and ashes. [4]I prayed to the LORD, my God, and confessed, “Ah, Lord, great and awesome God, you who keep your covenant and show mercy toward those who love you and keep your commandments and your precepts! [5]We have sinned, been wicked and done evil; we have rebelled and turned from your commandments and your laws. [6]We have not obeyed your servants the prophets, who spoke in your name to our kings, our princes, our ancestors, and all the people of the land. [7]Justice, O Lord, is on your side; we are shamefaced even to this day: the men of Judah, the residents of Jerusalem, and all Israel, near and far, in all the lands to which you have scattered them because of their treachery toward you. [8]O LORD, we are ashamed, like our kings, our princes, and our ancestors, for having sinned against you. [9]But to the Lord, our God, belong compassion and forgiveness, though we rebelled against him [10]and did not hear the voice of the LORD, our God, by walking in his laws given through his servants the prophets. [11]The curse and the oath written in the law of Moses, the servant of God, were poured out over us for our sins, because all Israel transgressed your law and turned aside, refusing to hear your voice. [12]He fulfilled the words he spoke against us and against those who ruled us, by bringing upon us an evil—no evil so great has happened under heaven as happened in Jerusalem. [13]As it is written in the law of Moses, this evil has come upon us. We did not appease the LORD, our God, by turning back from our wickedness and acting according to your truth, [14]so the LORD kept watch over the evil and brought it upon us. The LORD, our God, is just in all that he has done: we did not listen to his voice.

[15]"Now, Lord, our God, who led your people out of the land of Egypt with a strong hand, and made a name for yourself even to this day, we have sinned, we are guilty. [16]Lord, in keeping with all your just deeds, let your anger and your wrath be turned away from your city Jerusalem, your holy mountain. On account of our sins and the crimes of our ancestors, Jerusalem and your people have become the reproach of all our neighbors. [17]Now, our God, hear the prayer and petition of your servant; and for your own sake, Lord, let your face shine upon your desolate sanctuary. [18]Give ear, my God, and listen; open your eyes and look upon our desolate city upon which your name is invoked. When we present our petition before you, we rely not on our just deeds, but on your great mercy. [19]Lord, hear! Lord, pardon! Lord, be attentive and act without delay, for your own sake, my God, because your name is invoked upon your city and your people!"

[20]I was still praying to the LORD, my God, confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, presenting my petition concerning the holy mountain of my God— [21]I was still praying, when the man, Gabriel, whom I had seen in vision before, came to me in flight at the time of the evening offering. [22]He instructed me in these words: "Daniel, I have now come to give you understanding. [23]When you began your petition, an answer was given which I have come to announce, because you are beloved. Therefore, mark the answer and understand the vision.

[24]"Seventy weeks are decreed for your people and for your holy city:
Then transgression will stop and sin will end,
guilt will be expiated,
Everlasting justice will be introduced,
vision and prophecy ratified,
and a holy of holies will be anointed.
[25]Know and understand:
From the utterance of the word that Jerusalem was to be rebuilt Until there is an anointed ruler,
there shall be seven weeks.
In the course of sixty-two weeks
it shall be rebuilt,
With squares and trenches,
in time of affliction.
[26]After the sixty-two weeks
an anointed one shall be cut down
with no one to help him.
And the people of a leader who will come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary.
His end shall come in a flood;
until the end of the war, which is decreed,
there will be desolation.
[27]For one week he shall make a firm covenant with the many;

Half the week
he shall abolish sacrifice and offering;
In their place shall be the desolating abomination
until the ruin that is decreed is poured out upon the desolator."

An Angelic Vision. 10:1 In the third year of Cyrus, king of Persia, a revelation was given to Daniel, who had been named Belteshazzar. The revelation was certain: a great war; he understood this from the vision. [2]In those days, I, Daniel, mourned three full weeks. [3]I ate no savory food, took no meat or wine, and did not anoint myself at all until the end of the three weeks.

[4]On the twenty-fourth day of the first month I was on the bank of the great river, the Tigris. [5]As I looked up, I saw a man dressed in linen with a belt of fine gold around his waist. [6]His body was like chrysolite, his face shone like lightning, his eyes were like fiery torches, his arms and feet looked like burnished bronze, and the sound of his voice was like the roar of a multitude. [7]I alone, Daniel, saw the vision; but great fear seized those who were with me; they fled and hid themselves, although they did not see the vision. [8]So I was left alone to see this great vision. No strength remained in me; I turned the color of death and was powerless. [9]When I heard the sound of his voice, I fell face forward unconscious.

[10]But then a hand touched me, raising me to my hands and knees. [11]"Daniel, beloved," he said to me, "understand the words which I am speaking to you; stand up, for my mission now is to you." When he said this to me, I stood up trembling. [12]"Do not fear, Daniel," he continued; "from the first day you made up your mind to acquire understanding and humble yourself before God, your prayer was heard. Because of it I started out, [13]but the prince of the kingdom of Persia stood in my way for twenty-one days, until finally Michael, one of the chief princes, came to help me. I left him there with the prince of the kingdom of Persia, [14]and came to make you understand what shall happen to your people in the last days; for there is yet a vision concerning those days."

[15]While he was speaking thus to me, I fell forward and kept silent. [16]Then something like a hand touched my lips; I opened my mouth and said to the one standing before me, "My lord, I was seized with pangs at the vision and I was powerless. [17]How can my lord's servant speak with you, my lord? For now no strength or even breath is left in me." [18]The one who looked like a man touched me again and strengthened me, saying, [19]"Do not fear, beloved. Peace! Take courage and be strong." When he spoke to me, I grew strong and said, "Speak, my lord, for you have strengthened me." [20]"Do you know," he asked, "why I have come to you? Soon I must fight the prince of Persia again. When I leave, the prince of Greece will come; [21]but I shall tell you what is written in the book of truth. No one supports me against these except Michael, your prince, 11:1 and in the first year of Darius the Mede I stood to strengthen him and be his refuge.

The Hellenistic Age. 11:2 "Now I shall tell you the truth.

"Three kings of Persia are yet to appear; and a fourth shall acquire the greatest riches of all. Strengthened by his riches, he shall stir up all kingdoms, even that of Greece. [3]But a powerful king shall appear and rule with great might, doing as he wills. [4]No sooner shall he appear than his kingdom shall be broken and divided in four directions under heaven; but not among his descendants or in keeping with his mighty rule, for his kingdom shall be torn to pieces and belong to others.

[5]"The king of the south shall grow strong, but one of his princes shall grow stronger still and govern a domain greater than his. [6]After some years they shall become allies: the daughter of the king of the south shall come to the king of the north to carry out the alliance. But she shall not retain power: and his offspring shall not survive, and she shall be given up, together with those who brought her, her son, and her supporter in due time. [7]A descendant of her line shall succeed to his place, and shall come against the army, enter the stronghold of the king of the north, attack and conquer them. [8]Even their gods, with their molten images and their precious vessels of silver and gold, he shall carry away as spoils of war into Egypt. For years he shall have nothing to do with the king of the north. [9]Then the latter shall invade the land of the king of the south, and return to his own country.

[10]"But his sons shall be aroused and assemble a great armed host, which shall pass through like a flood and again surge around the stronghold. [11]The king of the south, enraged, shall go out to fight against the king of the north, who shall field a great host, but the host shall be given into his hand. [12]When the host is carried off, in the pride of his heart he shall bring down tens of thousands, but he shall not triumph. [13]For the king of the north shall raise another army, greater than before; after some years he shall attack with this large army and great resources. [14]In those times many shall resist the king of the south, and violent ones among your people shall rise up in fulfillment of vision, but they shall stumble.
[15]When the king of the north comes, he shall set up siegeworks and take the fortified city by storm. The forces of the south shall not withstand him, and not even his picked troops shall have the strength to withstand. [16]The invader shall do as he wills, with no one to withstand him. He shall stop in the glorious land, and it shall all be in his power. [17]He shall resolve to come with the entire strength of his kingdom. He shall make an alliance with him and give him a daughter in marriage in order to destroy him, but this shall not stand. [18]He shall turn to the coastland and take many prisoners, but a commander shall put an end to his shameful conduct, so that he cannot retaliate. [19]He shall turn to the strongholds of his own land, but shall stumble and fall, to be found no more. [20]In his stead one shall arise who will send a collector of tribute through the glorious kingdom, but he shall soon be destroyed, though not in conflict or in battle.

[21]"There shall arise in his place a despicable person, to whom the royal insignia shall not be given. He shall enter by stealth and seize the kingdom by fraud. [22]Armed forces shall be completely overwhelmed by him and crushed, even the prince of the covenant. [23]After making alliances, he shall treacherously rise to power with only a few supporters. [24]By stealth he shall enter prosperous provinces and do that which his fathers or grandfathers never did; he shall distribute spoil, plunder, and riches among them and devise plots against their strongholds. [25]He shall rouse his strength and courage to meet the king of the south with a great army; the king of the south shall go into battle with a very large and strong army, but he shall not stand because of the plots devised against him. [26]Even his table companions shall seek to destroy him, his army shall be overwhelmed, and many shall be struck down. [27]The two kings, resolved on evil, shall sit at table together and exchange lies, but they shall have no success, because the appointed end is not yet.

[28]"He shall turn back toward his land with great riches, his mind set against the holy covenant; he shall take action and return to his land. [29]At the time appointed he shall come again to the south, but this time it shall not be as before.
[30]When ships of the Kittim confront him, he shall lose heart and retreat. Then he shall rage against the holy covenant and take action; he shall again favor those who forsake the holy covenant. [31]Armed forces shall rise at his command and defile the sanctuary stronghold, abolishing the daily sacrifice and setting up the desolating abomination. [32]By his deceit he shall make some who were disloyal forsake the covenant; but those who remain loyal to their God shall take strong action. [33]Those with insight among the people shall instruct the many; though for a time the sword, flames, exile, and plunder will cause them to stumble. [34]When they stumble, they will be helped, but only a little; many shall join them, but out of treachery. [35]Some of those with insight shall stumble so that they may be tested, refined, and purified, until the end time which is still appointed to come.

[36]"The king shall do as he wills, exalting himself and making himself greater than any god; he shall utter dreadful blasphemies against the God of gods. He shall prosper only till the wrath is finished, for what is determined must take place. [37]He shall have no regard for the gods of his ancestors or for the one in whom women delight; for no god shall he have regard, because he shall make himself greater than all. [38]Instead, he shall give glory to the god of strongholds; a god unknown to his ancestors he shall glorify with gold, silver, precious stones, and other treasures. [39]He shall act for those who fortify strongholds, a people of a foreign god, whom he has recognized. He shall greatly honor them; he shall make them rule over the many and distribute the land as a reward.

[40]"At the end time the king of the south shall engage him in battle but the king of the north shall overwhelm him with chariots and horsemen and a great fleet, passing through the lands like a flood. [41]He shall enter the glorious land and many shall fall, except Edom, Moab, and the chief part of Ammon, which shall escape his power. [42]He shall extend his power over the land, and not even Egypt shall escape. [43]He shall control the riches of gold and silver and all the treasures of Egypt; Libya and Ethiopia shall be in his entourage. [44]When reports from the east and the north disturb him, he shall set out with great fury to destroy many, putting them under the ban. [45]He shall pitch the tents of his royal pavilion between the sea and the glorious holy mountain, but he shall come to his end with none to help him.

The Resurrection. 12:1 "At that time there shall arise Michael,
the great prince,

guardian of your people;
It shall be a time unsurpassed in distress
since the nation began until that time.
At that time your people shall escape,
everyone who is found written in the book.
[2]Many of those who sleep
in the dust of the earth shall awake;
Some to everlasting life,
others to reproach and everlasting disgrace.
[3]But those with insight shall shine brightly
like the splendor of the firmament,
And those who lead the many to justice
shall be like the stars forever.

[4]"As for you, Daniel, keep secret the message and seal the book until the end time; many shall wander aimlessly and evil shall increase."

[5]I, Daniel, looked and saw two others, one standing on either bank of the river. [6]One of them said to the man clothed in linen, who was upstream, "How long shall it be to the end of these appalling things?" [7]The man clothed in linen, who was upstream, lifted his hands to heaven; and I heard him swear by him who lives forever that it should be for a time, two times, and half a time; and that, when the power of the destroyer of the holy people was brought to an end, all these things should end. [8]I heard, but I did not understand; so I asked, "My lord, what follows this?" [9]"Go, Daniel," he said, "because the words are to be kept secret and sealed until the end time. [10]Many shall be refined, purified, and tested, but the wicked shall prove wicked; the wicked shall have no understanding, but those with insight shall. [11]From the time that the daily sacrifice is abolished and the desolating abomination is set up, there shall be one thousand two hundred and ninety days. [12]Blessed are they who have patience and persevere for the one thousand three hundred and thirty-five days. [13]Go, take your rest, you shall rise for your reward at the end of days."

☐ LUKE 24

The Resurrection of Jesus. 24:1 But at daybreak on the first day of the week they took the spices they had prepared and went to the tomb. [2]They found the stone rolled away from the tomb; [3]but when they entered, they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. [4]While they were puzzling over this, behold, two men in dazzling garments appeared to them. [5]They were terrified and bowed their faces to the ground. They said to them, "Why do you seek the living one among the dead? [6]He is not here, but he has been raised. Remember what he said to you while he was still in Galilee, [7]that the Son of Man must be handed over to sinners and be crucified, and rise on the third day." [8]And they remembered his words. [9]Then they returned from the tomb and announced all these things to the eleven and to all the others. [10]The women were Mary Magdalene, Joanna, and Mary the mother of James; the others who accompanied them also told this to the apostles, [11]but their story seemed like nonsense and they did not believe them. [12]But Peter got up and ran to the tomb, bent down, and saw the burial cloths alone; then he went home amazed at what had happened.

The Appearance on the Road to Emmaus. [13]Now that very day two of them were going to a village seven miles from Jerusalem called Emmaus, [14]and they were conversing about all the things that had occurred. [15]And it happened that while they were conversing and debating, Jesus himself drew near and walked with them, [16]but their eyes were prevented from recognizing him. [17]He asked them, "What are you discussing as you walk along?" They stopped, looking downcast. [18]One of them, named Cleopas, said to him in reply, "Are you the only visitor to Jerusalem who does not know of the things that have taken place there in these days?" [19]And he replied to them, "What sort of things?" They said to him, "The things that happened to Jesus the Nazarene, who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people, [20]how our chief priests and rulers both handed him over to a sentence of death and crucified him. [21]But we were hoping that he would be the one to redeem Israel; and besides all this, it is now the third day since this took place. [22]Some women from our group, however, have astounded us: they were at the tomb early in the morning [23]and did not find his body; they came back and reported that they had indeed seen a vision of angels who announced that he was alive. [24]Then some of those with us went to the tomb and found things just as the women had described, but him they did not see." [25]And he said to them, "Oh, how foolish you are! How slow of heart to believe all that the prophets spoke! [26]Was it not necessary that the Messiah should suffer these things and enter into his glory?" [27]Then beginning with Moses and all the prophets, he interpreted to them what referred to him in all the scriptures. [28]As they approached the village to which they were going, he gave the impression that he was going on farther. [29]But they urged him, "Stay with us, for it is nearly evening and the day is almost over." So he went in to stay with them. [30]And it happened that, while he was with them at table, he took bread, said the blessing, broke it, and gave it to them. [31]With that their eyes were opened and they recognized him, but he vanished from their sight. [32]Then they said to each other, "Were not our hearts burning [within us] while he spoke to us on the way and opened the scriptures to us?" [33]So they set out at once and returned to Jerusalem where they found gathered together the eleven and those with them [34]who were saying, "The Lord has truly been raised and has appeared to Simon!" [35]Then the two recounted what had taken place on the way and how he was made known to them in the breaking of the bread.

The Appearance to the Disciples in Jerusalem. [36]While they were still speaking about this, he stood in their midst and said to them, "Peace be with you." [37]But they were startled and terrified and thought that they were seeing a ghost. [38]Then he said to them, "Why are you troubled? And why do questions arise in your hearts? [39]Look at my hands and my feet, that it is I myself. Touch me and see, because a ghost does not have flesh and bones as you can see I have." [40]And as he said this, he showed them his hands and his feet. [41]While they were still incredulous for joy and were amazed, he asked them, "Have you anything here to eat?" [42]They gave him a piece of baked fish; [43]he took it and ate it in front of them. [44]He said to them, "These are my words that I spoke to you while I was still with you, that everything written about me in the law of Moses and in the prophets and psalms must be fulfilled." [45]Then he opened their minds to understand the scriptures. [46]And he said to them, "Thus it is written that the Messiah would suffer and rise from the dead on the third day [47]and that repentance, for the forgiveness of sins, would be preached in his name to all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem. [48]You are witnesses of these things. [49]And [behold] I am sending the promise of my Father upon you; but stay in the city until you are clothed with power from on high."

The Ascension. [50]Then he led them [out] as far as Bethany, raised his hands, and blessed them. [51]As he blessed them he parted from them and was taken up to heaven. [52]They did him homage and then returned to Jerusalem with great joy, [53]and they were continually in the temple praising God.

St. John of Damascus

A single opinion cannot overturn the unanimous tradition of the whole Church, which has spread to the ends of the earth.

— St. John of Damascus

☐ DANIEL 13-14

Susanna. 13:1 In Babylon there lived a man named Joakim, [2]who married a very beautiful and God-fearing woman, Susanna, the daughter of Hilkiah; [3]her parents were righteous and had trained their daughter according to the law of Moses. [4]Joakim was very rich and he had a garden near his house. The Jews had recourse to him often because he was the most respected of them all.

[5]That year, two elders of the people were appointed judges, of whom the Lord said, "Lawlessness has come out of Babylon, that is, from the elders who were to govern the people as judges." [6]These men, to whom all brought their cases, frequented the house of Joakim. [7]When the people left at noon, Susanna used to enter her husband's garden for a walk. [8]When the elders saw her enter every day for her walk, they began to lust for her. [9]They perverted their thinking; they would not allow their eyes to look to heaven, and did not keep in mind just judgments. [10]Though both were enamored of her, they did not tell each other their trouble, [11]for they were ashamed to reveal their lustful desire to have her. [12]Day by day they watched eagerly for her. [13]One day they said to each other, "Let us be off for home, it is time for the noon meal." So they went their separate ways. [14]But both turned back and arrived at the same spot. When they asked each other the reason, they admitted their lust, and then they agreed to look for an occasion when they could find her alone.

[15]One day, while they were waiting for the right moment, she entered as usual, with two maids only, wanting to bathe in the garden, for the weather was warm. [16]Nobody else was there except the two elders, who had hidden themselves and were watching her. [17]"Bring me oil and soap," she said to the maids, "and shut the garden gates while I bathe." [18]They did as she said; they shut the garden gates and left by the side gate to fetch what she had ordered, unaware that the elders were hidden inside.

[19]As soon as the maids had left, the two old men got up and ran to her. [20]"Look," they said, "the garden doors are shut, no one can see us, and we want you. So give in to our desire, and lie with us. [21]If you refuse, we will testify against you that a young man was here with you and that is why you sent your maids away."

[22]"I am completely trapped," Susanna groaned. "If I yield, it will be my death; if I refuse, I cannot escape your power. [23]Yet it is better for me not to do it and to fall into your power than to sin before the Lord." [24]Then Susanna screamed, and the two old men also shouted at her, [25]as one of them ran to open the garden gates. [26]When the people in the house heard the cries from the garden, they rushed in by the side gate to see what had happened to her. [27]At the accusations of the old men, the servants felt very much ashamed, for never had any such thing been said about Susanna.

[28]When the people came to her husband Joakim the next day, the two wicked old men also came, full of lawless intent to put Susanna to death. [29]Before the people they ordered: "Send for Susanna, the daughter of Hilkiah, the wife of Joakim." When she was sent for, [30]she came with her parents, children and all her relatives. [31]Susanna, very delicate and beautiful, [32]was veiled; but those transgressors of the law ordered that she be exposed so as to sate themselves with her beauty. [33]All her companions and the onlookers were weeping.

[34]In the midst of the people the two old men rose up and laid their hands on her head. [35]As she wept she looked up to heaven, for she trusted in the Lord wholeheartedly. [36]The old men said, "As we were walking in the garden alone, this woman entered with two servant girls, shut the garden gates and sent the servant girls away. [37]A young man, who was hidden there, came and lay with her. [38]When we, in a corner of the garden, saw this lawlessness, we ran toward them. [39]We saw them lying together, but the man we could not hold, because he was stronger than we; he opened the gates and ran off. [40]Then we seized this one and asked who the young man was, [41]but she refused to tell us. We testify to this." The assembly believed them, since they were elders and judges of the people, and they condemned her to death.

[42]But Susanna cried aloud: "Eternal God, you know what is hidden and are aware of all things before they come to be: [43]you know that they have testified falsely against me. Here I am about to die, though I have done none of the things for which these men have condemned me."

[44]The Lord heard her prayer. [45]As she was being led to execution, God stirred up the holy spirit of a young boy named Daniel, [46]and he cried aloud: "I am innocent of this woman's blood." [47]All the people turned and asked him, "What are you saying?" [48]He stood in their midst and said, "Are you such fools, you Israelites, to condemn a daughter of Israel without investigation and without clear evidence? [49]Return to court, for they have testified falsely against her."

[50]Then all the people returned in haste. To Daniel the elders said, "Come, sit with us and inform us, since God has given you the prestige of old age." [51]But he replied, "Separate these two far from one another, and I will examine them."

[52]After they were separated from each other, he called one of them and said: "How you have grown evil with age! Now have your past sins come to term: [53]passing unjust sentences, condemning the innocent, and freeing the guilty, although the Lord says, 'The innocent and the just you shall not put to death.' [54]Now, then, if you were a witness, tell me under what tree you saw them together." [55]"Under a mastic tree," he answered. "Your fine lie has cost you your head," said Daniel; "for the angel of God has already received the sentence from God and shall split you in two." [56]Putting him to one side, he ordered the other one to be brought. "Offspring of Canaan, not of Judah," Daniel said to him, "beauty has seduced you, lust has perverted your heart. [57]This is how you acted with the daughters of Israel, and in their fear they yielded to you; but a daughter of Judah did not tolerate your lawlessness. [58]Now, then, tell me under what tree you surprised them together." [59]"Under an oak," he said. "Your fine lie has cost you also your head," said Daniel; "for the angel of God waits with a sword to cut you in two so as to destroy you both."

60The whole assembly cried aloud, blessing God who saves those who hope in him. 61They rose up against the two old men, for by their own words Daniel had convicted them of bearing false witness. They condemned them to the fate they had planned for their neighbor: 62in accordance with the law of Moses they put them to death. Thus was innocent blood spared that day.

63Hilkiah and his wife praised God for their daughter Susanna, with Joakim her husband and all her relatives, because she was found innocent of any shameful deed. 64And from that day onward Daniel was greatly esteemed by the people.

Bel and the Dragon. 14:1 After King Astyages was gathered to his ancestors, Cyrus the Persian succeeded to his kingdom. 2Daniel was a companion of the king and was held in higher honor than any of the Friends of the King. 3The Babylonians had an idol called Bel, and every day they provided for it six bushels of fine flour, forty sheep, and six measures of wine. 4The king revered it and went every day to worship it; but Daniel worshiped only his God. 5When the king asked him, "Why do you not worship Bel?" Daniel replied, "Because I do not revere idols made with hands, but only the living God who made heaven and earth and has dominion over all flesh." 6Then the king continued, "You do not think Bel is a living god? Do you not see how much he eats and drinks every day?" 7Daniel began to laugh. "Do not be deceived, O king," he said; "it is only clay inside and bronze outside; it has never eaten or drunk anything." 8Enraged, the king called his priests and said to them, "Unless you tell me who it is that consumes these provisions, you shall die.
But if you can show that Bel consumes them, Daniel shall die for blaspheming Bel." 9Daniel said to the king, "Let it be as you say!"

There were seventy priests of Bel, besides their wives and children. 10When the king went with Daniel into the temple of Bel, 11the priests of Bel said, "See, we are going to leave. You, O king, set out the food and prepare the wine;
then shut the door and seal it with your ring. 12If you do not find that Bel has eaten it all when you return in the morning, we are to die; otherwise Daniel shall die for his lies against us." 13They were not perturbed, because under the table they had made a secret entrance through which they always came in to consume the food. 14After they departed the king set the food before Bel, while Daniel ordered his servants to bring some ashes, which they scattered through the whole temple; the king alone was present. Then they went outside, sealed the closed door with the king's ring, and departed.
15The priests entered that night as usual, with their wives and children, and they ate and drank everything.

16Early the next morning, the king came with Daniel. 17"Are the seals unbroken, Daniel?" he asked. And Daniel answered, "They are unbroken, O king." 18As soon as he had opened the door, the king looked at the table and cried aloud, "You are great, O Bel; there is no deceit in you." 19But Daniel laughed and kept the king from entering. He said,
"Look at the floor and consider whose footprints these are." 20"I see the footprints of men, women, and children!" said the king. 21In his wrath the king arrested the priests, their wives, and their children. They showed him the secret door by which they used to enter to consume what was on the table. 22The king put them to death, and handed Bel over to Daniel, who destroyed it and its temple.

23There was a great dragon which the Babylonians revered. 24The king said to Daniel, "You cannot deny that this is a living god, so worship it." 25But Daniel answered, "I worship the Lord, my God, for he is the living God. 26Give me permission, O king, and I will kill this dragon without sword or club." "I give you permission," the king said. 27Then Daniel took some pitch, fat, and hair; these he boiled together and made into cakes. He put them into the mouth of the dragon, and when the dragon ate them, he burst. "This," he said, "is what you revered."

28When the Babylonians heard this, they were angry and turned against the king. "The king has become a Jew," they said; "he has destroyed Bel, killed the dragon, and put the priests to death." 29They went to the king and demanded:
"Hand Daniel over to us, or we will kill you and your family." 30When he saw himself threatened with violence, the king was forced to hand Daniel over to them. 31They threw Daniel into a lions' den, where he remained six days. 32In the den were seven lions. Two carcasses and two sheep had been given to them daily, but now they were given nothing, so that they would devour Daniel.

33The prophet Habakkuk was in Judea. He mixed some bread in a bowl with the stew he had boiled, and was going to bring it to the reapers in the field, 34when an angel of the Lord told him, "Take the meal you have to Daniel in the lions' den at Babylon." 35But Habakkuk answered, "Sir, I have never seen Babylon, and I do not know the den!" 36The angel of the Lord seized him by the crown of his head and carried him by the hair; with the speed of the wind, he set him down in Babylon above the den. 37"Daniel, Daniel," cried Habakkuk, "take the meal God has sent you." 38"You have remembered me, O God," said Daniel; "you have not forsaken those who love you." 39So Daniel ate, but the angel of God at once brought Habakkuk back to his own place.

40On the seventh day the king came to mourn for Daniel. As he came to the den and looked in, there was Daniel, sitting there. 41The king cried aloud, "You are great, O Lord, the God of Daniel, and there is no other besides you!" 42He brought Daniel out, but those who had tried to destroy him he threw into the den, and they were devoured in a moment before his eyes.

☐ REVELATION 1

1:1 The revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him, to show his servants what must happen soon. He made it known by sending his angel to his servant John, 2who gives witness to the word of God and to the testimony of Jesus Christ by reporting what he saw. 3Blessed is the one who reads aloud and blessed are those who listen to this prophetic message and heed what is written in it, for the appointed time is near.

Greeting. 4John, to the seven churches in Asia: grace to you and peace from him who is and who was and who is to come, and from the seven spirits before his throne, 5and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead and ruler of the kings of the earth. To him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by his blood, 6who has made us into a kingdom, priests for his God and Father, to him be glory and power forever [and ever]. Amen.

7Behold, he is coming amid the clouds,
and every eye will see him,
even those who pierced him.
All the peoples of the earth will lament him.
Yes. Amen.

8"I am the Alpha and the Omega," says the Lord God, "the one who is and who was and who is to come, the almighty."

The First Vision. 9I, John, your brother, who share with you the distress, the kingdom, and the endurance we have in Jesus, found myself on the island called Patmos because I proclaimed God's word and gave testimony to Jesus. 10I was caught up in spirit on the Lord's day and heard behind me a voice as loud as a trumpet, 11which said, "Write on a scroll what you see and send it to the seven churches: to Ephesus, Smyrna, Pergamum, Thyatira, Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea." 12Then I turned to see whose voice it was that spoke to me, and when I turned, I saw seven gold lampstands 13and in the midst of the lampstands one like a son of man, wearing an ankle-length robe, with a gold sash around his chest. 14The hair of his head was as white as white wool or as snow, and his eyes were like a fiery flame. 15His feet were like polished brass refined in a furnace, and his voice was like the sound of rushing water. 16In his right hand he held seven stars. A sharp two-edged sword came out of his mouth, and his face shone like the sun at its brightest.

17When I caught sight of him, I fell down at his feet as though dead. He touched me with his right hand and said, "Do not be afraid. I am the first and the last, 18the one who lives. Once I was dead, but now I am alive forever and ever. I hold the keys to death and the netherworld. 19Write down, therefore, what you have seen, and what is happening, and what will happen afterwards. 20This is the secret meaning of the seven stars you saw in my right hand, and of the seven gold lampstands: the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.

☐ HOSEA 1-2

1:1 The word of the LORD that came to Hosea son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam, son of Joash, king of Israel.

Marriage of Hosea and Gomer. [2]When the LORD began to speak with Hosea, the LORD said to Hosea: Go, get for yourself a woman of prostitution and children of prostitution, for the land prostitutes itself, turning away from the LORD.

[3]So he went and took Gomer, daughter of Diblaim; and she conceived and bore him a son. [4]Then the LORD said to him: Give him the name "Jezreel," for in a little while I will punish the house of Jehu for the bloodshed at Jezreel and bring to an end the kingdom of the house of Israel; [5]on that day I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

[6]She conceived again and bore a daughter. The LORD said to him: Give her the name "Not-Pitied," for I will no longer feel pity for the house of Israel: rather, I will utterly abhor them. [7]Yet for the house of Judah I will feel pity; I will save them by the LORD, their God; but I will not save them by bow or sword, by warfare, by horses or horsemen.

[8]After she weaned Not-Pitied, she conceived and bore a son. [9]Then the LORD said: Give him the name "Not-My-People," for you are not my people, and I am not "I am" for you.

2:1 The number of the Israelites will be like the sand of the sea,
which can be neither measured nor counted.
Instead of being told,
"You are Not-My-People,"
They will be called,
"Children of the living God."
[2]Then the people of Judah and of Israel
will gather together;
They will appoint for themselves one head
and rise up from the land;
great indeed shall be the day of Jezreel!
[3]Say to your brothers, "My People,"
and to your sisters, "Pitied."

The Lord and Israel His Spouse. [4]Accuse your mother, accuse!
for she is not my wife,
and I am not her husband.
Let her remove her prostitution from her face.
her adultery from between her breasts,

[5]Or I will strip her naked,
leaving her as on the day of her birth;
I will make her like the wilderness,
make her like an arid land,
and let her die of thirst.
[6]I will have no pity on her children,
for they are children of prostitution.
[7]Yes, their mother has prostituted herself;
she who conceived them has acted shamefully.
For she said, "I will go after my lovers,
who give me my bread and my water,
my wool and my flax, my oil and my drink."
[8]Therefore, I will hedge in her way with thorns and erect a wall against her,
so that she cannot find her paths.

[9]If she runs after her lovers, she will not overtake them;
if she seeks them she will not find them.
Then she will say,
"I will go back to my first husband,
for I was better off then than now."

[10]She did not know that it was I who gave her
the grain, the wine, and the oil,
I who lavished upon her silver,
and gold, which they used for Baal, [11]Therefore I will take back my grain in its time,
and my wine in its season;
I will snatch away my wool and my flax,
which were to cover her nakedness.
[12]Now I will lay bare her shame
in full view of her lovers,
and no one can deliver her out of my hand.
[13]I will put an end to all her joy,
her festivals, her new moons, her sabbaths—
all her seasonal feasts.
[14]I will lay waste her vines and fig trees,
of which she said, "These are the fees
my lovers have given me";
I will turn them into rank growth
and wild animals shall devour them.
[15]I will punish her for the days of the Baals,
for whom she burnt incense,
When she decked herself out with her rings and her jewelry,
and went after her lovers—
but me she forgot—oracle of the LORD.
[16]Therefore, I will allure her now;
I will lead her into the wilderness
and speak persuasively to her.
[17]Then I will give her the vineyards she had,
and the valley of Achor as a door of hope.
There she will respond as in the days of her youth,
as on the day when she came up from the land of Egypt.

[18]On that day—oracle of the LORD—
You shall call me "My husband,"
and you shall never again call me "My baal."
[19]I will remove from her mouth the names of the Baals;
they shall no longer be mentioned by their name.

[20]I will make a covenant for them on that day,
with the wild animals,
With the birds of the air,
and with the things that crawl on the ground.
Bow and sword and warfare

I will destroy from the land,
and I will give them rest in safety.

21 I will betroth you to me forever:
I will betroth you to me with justice and with judgment,
with loyalty and with compassion;
22 I will betroth you to me with fidelity,
and you shall know the LORD.
23 On that day I will respond—oracle of the LORD—
I will respond to the heavens,
and they will respond to the earth;
24 The earth will respond to the grain, and wine, and oil,
and these will respond to Jezreel.
25 I will sow her for myself in the land,
and I will have pity on Not-Pitied.
I will say to Not-My-People, "You are my people,"
and he will say, "My God!"

☐ REVELATION 2:1-11

To Ephesus. 2:1 "To the angel of the church in Ephesus, write this:

" 'The one who holds the seven stars in his right hand and walks in the midst of the seven gold lampstands says this: 2 "I know your works, your labor, and your endurance, and that you cannot tolerate the wicked; you have tested those who call themselves apostles but are not, and discovered that they are impostors. 3 Moreover, you have endurance and have suffered for my name, and you have not grown weary. 4 Yet I hold this against you: you have lost the love you had at first. 5 Realize how far you have fallen. Repent, and do the works you did at first. Otherwise, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent. 6 But you have this in your favor: you hate the works of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate.

7 " "Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the victor I will give the right to eat from the tree of life that is in the garden of God.'"

To Smyrna. 8 "To the angel of the church in Smyrna, write this:

" 'The first and the last, who once died but came to life, says this: 9 "I know your tribulation and poverty, but you are rich. I know the slander of those who claim to be Jews and are not, but rather are members of the assembly of Satan. 10 Do not be afraid of anything that you are going to suffer. Indeed, the devil will throw some of you into prison, that you may be tested, and you will face an ordeal for ten days. Remain faithful until death, and I will give you the crown of life.

11 " "Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches. The victor shall not be harmed by the second death." ' "

St. Nicholas

Some have a wicked and deceitful way of flaunting the Name about, while acting in a way unworthy of God. They are mad dogs that bite secretly. You must be on your guard against them, for it is hard to heal their bite.

— St. Ignatius of Antioch

☐ HOSEA 3-4

Hosea and His Wife Reunited. 3:1 Again the LORD said to me:

Go, love a woman
who is loved by her spouse but commits adultery;
Just as the LORD loves the Israelites,
though they turn to other gods
and love raisin cakes.

[2]So I acquired her for myself for fifteen pieces of silver and a homer and a lethech of barley. [3]Then I said to her:

"You will wait for me for many days;
you will not prostitute yourself
Or belong to any man;
I in turn will wait for you."
[4]For the Israelites will remain many days
without king or prince,
Without sacrifice or sacred pillar,
without ephod or household gods.
[5]Afterward the Israelites will turn back and seek the LORD, their God,
and David, their king;
They will come trembling to the LORD
and to his bounty, in the last days.

Indictment of Israel. 4:1 Hear the word of the LORD, Israelites, for the LORD has a dispute
with the inhabitants of the land:
There is no fidelity, no loyalty,
no knowledge of God in the land.
[2]Swearing, lying, murder,
stealing and adultery break out;
bloodshed follows bloodshed.
[3]Therefore the land dries up,
and everything that dwells in it languishes:
The beasts of the field,
the birds of the air,
and even the fish of the sea perish.

Guilt of Priest and of People. [4]But let no one accuse, let no one rebuke;
with you is my dispute, priest!
[5]You will stumble in the day,
and the prophet will stumble with you at night;
I will make an end of your mother.
[6]My people are ruined for lack of knowledge!
Since you have rejected knowledge,
I will reject you from serving as my priest;
Since you have forgotten the law of your God,
I will also forget your children.

[7]The more they multiplied, the more they sinned against me,
I will change their glory into shame.

[8]They feed on the sin of my people,
and are greedy for their iniquity.
[9]Like people, like priest:
I will punish them for their ways,
and repay them for their deeds.
[10]They will eat but not be satisfied,
they will promote prostitution but not increase,
Because they have abandoned the LORD,
devoting themselves [11]to prostitution.
Aged wine and new wine
take away understanding.
[12]My people consult their piece of wood,
and their wand makes pronouncements for them,
For the spirit of prostitution has led them astray;
they prostitute themselves, forsaking their God.
[13]On the mountaintops they offer sacrifice
and on the hills they burn incense, Beneath oak and poplar and terebinth,
because of their pleasant shade.
Therefore your daughters prostitute themselves,
and your daughters-in-law commit adultery.
[14]I will not punish your daughters for their prostitution,
nor your daughters-in-law for their adultery,
Because the men themselves consort with prostitutes,
and with temple women they offer sacrifice!
Thus a people without understanding comes to ruin.

[15]Though you prostitute yourself, Israel,
do not let Judah become guilty!
Do not come to Gilgal,
do not go up to Beth-aven,
do not swear, "As the Lord lives!"
[16]For like a stubborn cow,
Israel is stubborn;
Will the LORD now pasture them,
like lambs in a broad meadow?
[17]Ephraim is bound to idols,
let him alone!
[18]When their drinking is over,
they give themselves to prostitution;
they love shame more than their honor.
[19]A wind has bound them up in its wings;
they shall be ashamed because of their altars.

☐ REVELATION 2:12-29

To Pergamum. 2:12 "To the angel of the church in Pergamum, write this:

" 'The one with the sharp two-edged sword says this: [13]"I know that you live where Satan's throne is, and yet you hold fast to my name and have not denied your faith in me, not even in the days of Antipas, my faithful witness, who was martyred among you, where Satan lives. [14]Yet I have a few things against you. You have some people there who hold to the teaching of Balaam, who instructed Balak to put a stumbling block before the Israelites: to eat food sacrificed to idols and to play the harlot. [15]Likewise, you also have some people who hold to the teaching of [the] Nicolaitans. [16]Therefore, repent. Otherwise, I will come to you quickly and wage war against them with the sword of my mouth.

[17]" "'Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the victor I shall give some of the hidden manna; I shall also give a white amulet upon which is inscribed a new name, which no one knows except the one who receives it.'"

To Thyatira. [18]"To the angel of the church in Thyatira, write this:

" 'The Son of God, whose eyes are like a fiery flame and whose feet are like polished brass, says this: [19]"I know your works, your love, faith, service, and endurance, and that your last works are greater than the first. [20]Yet I hold this against you, that you tolerate the woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess, who teaches and misleads my servants to play the harlot and to eat food sacrificed to idols. [21]I have given her time to repent, but she refuses to repent of her harlotry. [22]So I will cast her on a sickbed and plunge those who commit adultery with her into intense suffering unless they repent of her works. [23]I will also put her children to death. Thus shall all the churches come to know that I am the searcher of hearts and minds and that I will give each of you what your works deserve. [24]But I say to the rest of you in Thyatira, who do not uphold this teaching and know nothing of the so-called deep secrets of Satan: on you I will place no further burden, [25]except that you must hold fast to what you have until I come.

[26]" "'To the victor, who keeps to my ways until the end,
I will give authority over the nations.
[27]He will rule them with an iron rod.
Like clay vessels will they be smashed,

[28]just as I received authority from my Father. And to him I will give the morning star.

[29]" "'Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches.' "

St. Ambrose of Milan

The devil's snare doesn't catch you unless you're already nibbling on the devil's bait.

— St. Ambrose of Milan

☐ HOSEA 5:1-6:11A

Guilt of the Religious and Political Leaders. 5:1 Hear this, priests, Pay attention, house of Israel,
Household of the king, give ear!
For you are responsible for judgment.
But you have been a snare at Mizpah,
a net spread upon Tabor,
[2]a pit dug deep in Shittim.
Now I will discipline them all.

[3]I know Ephraim,
and Israel is not hidden from me:
Now, Ephraim, you have practiced prostitution,

Israel is defiled.
[4]Their deeds do not allow them
to return to their God;
For the spirit of prostitution is in them,
and they do not know the LORD.

[5]The arrogance of Israel bears witness against him;
Israel and Ephraim stumble because of their iniquity,
and Judah stumbles with them.
[6]With their flocks and herds they will go to seek the LORD, but will not find him;
he has withdrawn from them.
[7]They have betrayed the LORD,
for they have borne illegitimate children;
Now the new moon will devour them together with their fields.

Political Upheavals. [8]Blow the ram's horn in Gibeah,
the trumpet in Ramah!
Sound the alarm in Beth-aven:
"Look behind you, Benjamin!"
[9]Ephraim shall become a wasteland
on the day of punishment:
Among the tribes of Israel
I announce what is sure to be.
[10]The princes of Judah have become like those who move a boundary line;
Upon them I will pour out
my wrath like water.
[11]Ephraim is oppressed, crushed by judgment,
for he has willingly gone after filth!
[12]I am like a moth for Ephraim,
like rot for the house of Judah.
[13]When Ephraim saw his infirmity,
and Judah his sore, Ephraim went to Assyria,
and sent to the great king.
But he cannot heal you,
nor take away your sore.
[14]For I am like a lion to Ephraim,
like a young lion to the house of Judah;
It is I who tear the prey and depart,
I carry it away and no one can save it.

Insincere Conversion. [15]I will go back to my place until they make reparation
and seek my presence.
In their affliction, they shall look for me.

6:1 "Come, let us return to the LORD,
For it is he who has torn, but he will heal us;

he has struck down, but he will bind our wounds.
[2]He will revive us after two days;
on the third day he will raise us up,
to live in his presence.
[3]Let us know, let us strive to know the LORD;
as certain as the dawn is his coming.
He will come to us like the rain,
like spring rain that waters the earth."

[4]What can I do with you, Ephraim?
What can I do with you, Judah?
Your loyalty is like morning mist,
like the dew that disappears early.
[5]For this reason I struck them down through the prophets,
I killed them by the words of my mouth;
my judgment shines forth like the light.
[6]For it is loyalty that I desire, not sacrifice,
and knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings.

Further Crimes of Israel. [7]But they, at Adam, violated the covenant;
there they betrayed me.

[8]Gilead is a city of evildoers,
tracked with blood.
[9]Like brigands lying in wait
is the band of priests.
They murder on the road to Shechem,
indeed they commit a monstrous crime.
[10]In the house of Israel I have seen a horrible thing:
there is found Ephraim's prostitution,
Israel is defiled.
[11]For you also, Judah,
a harvest has been appointed!

☐ REVELATION 3:1-13

To Sardis. 3:1 "To the angel of the church in Sardis, write this:

" 'The one who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars says this: "I know your works, that you have the reputation of being alive, but you are dead. [2]Be watchful and strengthen what is left, which is going to die, for I have not found your works complete in the sight of my God. [3]Remember then how you accepted and heard; keep it, and repent. If you are not watchful, I will come like a thief, and you will never know at what hour I will come upon you. [4]However, you have a few people in Sardis who have not soiled their garments; they will walk with me dressed in white, because they are worthy.

[5]" "'The victor will thus be dressed in white, and I will never erase his name from the book of life but will acknowledge his name in the presence of my Father and of his angels.

[6]" "'Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches.'"

To Philadelphia. [7]"To the angel of the church in Philadelphia, write this:

" 'The holy one, the true,
who holds the key of David,

who opens and no one shall close,
who closes and no one shall open,

says this:

8“ “‘I know your works (behold, I have left an open door before you, which no one can close). You have limited strength, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name. 9Behold, I will make those of the assembly of Satan who claim to be Jews and are not, but are lying, behold I will make them come and fall prostrate at your feet, and they will realize that I love you. 10Because you have kept my message of endurance, I will keep you safe in the time of trial that is going to come to the whole world to test the inhabitants of the earth. 11I am coming quickly. Hold fast to what you have, so that no one may take your crown.

12“ “‘The victor I will make into a pillar in the temple of my God, and he will never leave it again. On him I will inscribe the name of my God and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down out of heaven from my God, as well as my new name.

13“ “‘Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches.” ’ ”

The Immaculate Conception of Our Lady

> We consecrate ourselves at one and the same time to the most holy Virgin and to Jesus Christ: to the most holy Virgin as to the perfect means that Jesus Christ himself has chosen by which to unite himself to us, and us to Him; and to Our Lord as to our Final End, to whom as our Redeemer and our God, we owe all we are.
>
> — St. Louis de Montfort

☐ HOSEA 6:11B-8:14

6:11B When I would have restored the fortunes of my people,
7:1when I would have healed Israel,
The guilt of Ephraim was revealed,
the wickedness of Samaria:
They practiced falsehood.
Thieves break in,
bandits roam outside.
2Yet they do not call to mind
that I remember all their wickedness.
Now their crimes surround them,
present to my sight.

Israel’s Domestic Politics. 3With their wickedness they make the king rejoice,
the princes too, with their treacherous deeds.
4They are all adulterers,
like a blazing oven,
Which the baker quits stoking,
after the dough’s kneading until its rising.
5On the day of our king,
they made the princes sick with poisoned wine;
he extended his hand to the scoffers.
6For they draw near in ambush

with their hearts like an oven.
All the night their anger sleeps;
in the morning it flares like a blazing fire.
[7]They are all heated like ovens,
and consume their rulers.
All their kings have fallen;
none of them calls upon me.

Israel's Foreign Politics. [8]Ephraim is mixed with the nations,
Ephraim is an unturned cake.
[9]Strangers have consumed his strength,
but he does not know it;
Gray hairs are strewn on his head,
but he takes no notice of it.
[10]The arrogance of Israel bears witness against him;
yet they do not return to the LORD, their God,
nor seek him, despite all this.
[11]Ephraim is like a dove,
silly and senseless;
They call upon Egypt,
they go to Assyria.
[12]When they go I will spread my net around them,
like birds in the air I will bring them down.
I will chastise them when I hear of their assembly.
[13]Woe to them, for they have strayed from me!
Ruin to them, for they have rebelled against me!
Though I wished to redeem them,
they spoke lies against me.
[14]They have not cried to me from their hearts
when they wailed upon their beds;
For wheat and wine they lacerated themselves;
they rebelled against me.
[15]Though I trained and strengthened their arms,
yet they devised evil against me.
[16]They have again become useless,
they have been like a treacherous bow.
Their princes shall fall by the sword
because of the insolence of their tongues;
thus they shall be mocked in the land of Egypt.

Corruption of Cult, Domestic and Foreign Politics. 8:1 Put the trumpet to your lips!
One like an eagle is over the house of the LORD!
Because they have violated my covenant,
and rebelled against my law,
[2]They cry out to me,
"My God! We know you!"
[3]But Israel has rejected what is good;
the enemy shall pursue him.

[4]They made kings, but not by my authority;
they established princes, but without my knowledge.

With their silver and gold
they made idols for themselves,
to their own destruction.
[5]He has rejected your calf, Samaria!
My wrath is kindled against them;
How long will they be incapable of innocence
in Israel?
[6]An artisan made it,
it is no god at all.
The calf of Samaria
will be dashed to pieces.

[7]When they sow the wind,
they will reap the whirlwind;
The stalk of grain that forms no head
can yield no flour;
Even if it could,
strangers would swallow it.
[8]Israel is swallowed up;
now they are among the nations,
like a useless vessel.
[9]For they went up to Assyria—
a wild ass off on its own—
Ephraim bargained for lovers.
[10]Even though they bargain with the nations,
I will now gather them together;
They will soon succumb
under the burden of king and princes.

[11]When Ephraim made many altars to expiate sin,
they became altars for sinning.
[12]Though I write for him my many instructions,
they are considered like a stranger's.
[13]They love sacrifice,
they sacrifice meat and eat it,
but the LORD is not pleased with them.
Now he will remember their guilt
and punish their sins;
they shall return to Egypt.
[14]Israel has forgotten his maker
and has built palaces.
Judah, too, has fortified many cities,
but I will send fire upon his cities,
to devour their strongholds.

☐ REVELATION 3:14-22

To Laodicea. 3:14 "To the angel of the church in Laodicea, write this:

" 'The Amen, the faithful and true witness, the source of God's creation, says this: [15]"I know your works; I know that you are neither cold nor hot. I wish you were either cold or hot. [16]So, because you are lukewarm, neither hot nor cold, I will spit you out of my mouth. [17]For you say, 'I am rich and affluent and have no need of anything,' and yet do not realize that you are wretched, pitiable, poor, blind, and naked. [18]I advise you to buy from me gold refined by fire so that you may be rich, and white garments to put on so that your shameful nakedness may not be exposed, and buy ointment to smear on your eyes so that you may see. [19]Those whom I love, I reprove and chastise. Be earnest, therefore, and repent.

[20]" "Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, [then] I will enter his house and dine with him, and he with me. [21]I will give the victor the right to sit with me on my throne, as I myself first won the victory and sit with my Father on his throne.

[22]" "Whoever has ears ought to hear what the Spirit says to the churches." "

St. Juan Diego

God is not dependent on anything for His beauty; His beauty is not limited to certain times or aspects; but He is beautiful by himself, through himself, and in himself. He is eternal beauty — not changing from one moment to the next — constantly the same beyond all change or alteration, increase or addition.

— St. Gregory of Nyssa

☐ HOSEA 9-10

From Days of Celebration to Days of Punishment. 9:1 Do not rejoice, Israel, do not exult like the nations!
For you have prostituted yourself, abandoning your God, loving a prostitute's fee
upon every threshing floor.
[2]Threshing floor and wine press will not nourish them,
the new wine will fail them.

[3]They will not dwell in the LORD's land;
Ephraim will return to Egypt,
and in Assyria they will eat unclean food.
[4]They will not pour libations of wine to the LORD,
and their sacrifices will not please him.
Their bread will be like mourners' bread,
that makes unclean all who eat of it;
Their food will be for their own appetites;
it cannot enter the house of the LORD.

[5]What will you do on the festival day,
the day of the LORD's feast?
[6]When they flee from the devastation,
Egypt will gather them, Memphis will bury them.
Weeds will overgrow their silver treasures,
and thorns, their tents.

[7]They have come, the days of punishment!
they have come, the days of recompense!
Let Israel know it!
"The prophet is a fool,
the man of the spirit is mad!"
Because your iniquity is great,
great, too, is your hostility.
[8]The watchman of Ephraim, the people of my God, is the prophet;
yet a fowler's snare is on all his ways,
hostility in the house of his God.
[9]They have sunk to the depths of corruption,
as in the days of Gibeah;
God will remember their iniquity
and punish their sins.

From Former Glory to a History of Corruption. [10]Like grapes in the desert,
I found Israel;
Like the first fruits of the fig tree, its first to ripen,
I looked on your ancestors.
But when they came to Baal-peor
and consecrated themselves to the Shameful One,
they became as abhorrent as the thing they loved.
[11]Ephraim is like a bird:
their glory flies away—
no birth, no pregnancy, no conception.
[12]Even though they bring up their children,
I will make them childless, until no one is left.
Indeed, woe to them
when I turn away from them!
[13]Ephraim, as I saw, was a tree planted in a meadow;
But now Ephraim will bring out
his children to the slaughterer!
[14]Give them, LORD!
give them what?
Give them a miscarrying womb,
and dry breasts!
[15]All their misfortune began in Gilgal;
yes, there I rejected them.
Because of their wicked deeds
I will drive them out of my house.
I will love them no longer;
all their princes are rebels.
[16]Ephraim is stricken,
their root is dried up;
they will bear no fruit.
Were they to bear children,
I would slay the beloved of their womb.
[17]My God will disown them
because they have not listened to him;

they will be wanderers among the nations.

Destruction of Idolatrous Cultic Objects. 10:1 Israel is a luxuriant vine whose fruit matches its growth.
The more abundant his fruit,
the more altars he built;
The more productive his land,
the more sacred pillars he set up.
[2]Their heart is false!
Now they will pay for their guilt:
God will break down their altars
and destroy their sacred pillars.
[3]For now they will say,
"We have no king!
Since we do not fear the LORD,
the king—what could he do for us?"
[4]They make promises,
swear false oaths, and make covenants,
While lawsuits sprout
like poisonous weeds in the furrows of a field!

[5]The inhabitants of Samaria are afraid
for the calf of Beth-aven;
Its people mourn for it
and its idolatrous priests wail over it,
—over its glory which has departed from it.
[6]It too will be carried to Assyria,
as an offering to the great king.
Ephraim will be put to shame,
Israel will be shamed by his schemes.

[7]Samaria and her king will disappear,
like a twig upon the waters.
[8]The high places of Aven will be destroyed,
the sin of Israel;
thorns and thistles will overgrow their altars.
Then they will cry out to the mountains, "Cover us!"
and to the hills, "Fall upon us!"

War Because of Israel's Wickedness. [9]Since the days of Gibeah
you have sinned, Israel.
There they took their stand;
will war not reach them in Gibeah?
Against a perverse people
[10]I came and I chastised them;
Peoples will be gathered against them
when I bind them to their two crimes.
[11]Ephraim was a trained heifer,
that loved to thresh;
I myself laid a yoke
upon her beautiful neck;

I will make Ephraim break ground, Judah must plow,
Jacob must harrow for himself:
12"Sow for yourselves justice,
reap the reward of loyalty;
Break up for yourselves a new field,
for it is time to seek the LORD,
till he comes and rains justice upon you."
13But you have plowed wickedness,
reaped perversity,
and eaten the fruit of falsehood.
Because you have trusted in your own power,
and in your many warriors, 14The clamor of war shall break out among your people and all your fortresses shall be ravaged
As Salman ravaged Beth-arbel on the day of war, smashing mothers along with their children.
15So it will be done to you, Bethel,
because of your utter wickedness:
At dawn the king of Israel will utterly disappear.

☐ REVELATION 4

Vision of Heavenly Worship. 4:1 After this I had a vision of an open door to heaven, and I heard the trumpetlike voice that had spoken to me before, saying, "Come up here and I will show you what must happen afterwards." 2At once I was caught up in spirit. A throne was there in heaven, and on the throne sat 3one whose appearance sparkled like jasper and carnelian. Around the throne was a halo as brilliant as an emerald. 4Surrounding the throne I saw twenty-four other thrones on which twenty-four elders sat, dressed in white garments and with gold crowns on their heads. 5From the throne came flashes of lightning, rumblings, and peals of thunder. Seven flaming torches burned in front of the throne, which are the seven spirits of God. 6In front of the throne was something that resembled a sea of glass like crystal.

In the center and around the throne, there were four living creatures covered with eyes in front and in back. 7The first creature resembled a lion, the second was like a calf, the third had a face like that of a human being, and the fourth looked like an eagle in flight. 8The four living creatures, each of them with six wings, were covered with eyes inside and out. Day and night they do not stop exclaiming:

"Holy, holy, holy is the Lord God almighty, who was, and who is, and who is to come."

9Whenever the living creatures give glory and honor and thanks to the one who sits on the throne, who lives forever and ever, 10the twenty-four elders fall down before the one who sits on the throne and worship him, who lives forever and ever. They throw down their crowns before the throne, exclaiming:

11"Worthy are you, Lord our God,
to receive glory and honor and power,
for you created all things;
because of your will they came to be and were created."

December 10

Blessed be He whom our mouth cannot adequately praise, because His Gift is too great for the skill of orators to tell; neither can human abilities adequately praise His goodness. For, praise Him as we may, it is too little. Yet since it is useless to be silent and constrain ourselves, may our feebleness excuse such praise as we can sing!

— St. Ephraem the Syrian

☐ HOSEA 11-12

The Disappointment of a Parent. 11:1 When Israel was a child I loved him, out of Egypt I called my son.
[2]The more I called them,
the farther they went from me, Sacrificing to the Baals
and burning incense to idols.
[3]Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk,
who took them in my arms;
but they did not know that I cared for them.
[4]I drew them with human cords,
with bands of love;
I fostered them like those who raise an infant to their cheeks;
I bent down to feed them.

[5]He shall return to the land of Egypt,
Assyria shall be his king,
because they have refused to repent.
[6]The sword shall rage in his cities:
it shall destroy his diviners,
and devour them because of their schemings.
[7]My people have their mind set on apostasy;
though they call on God in unison,
he shall not raise them up.

But Love Is Stronger and Restores. [8]How could I give you up, Ephraim, or deliver you up, Israel?
How could I treat you as Admah,
or make you like Zeboiim?
My heart is overwhelmed,
my pity is stirred.
[9]I will not give vent to my blazing anger,
I will not destroy Ephraim again;
For I am God and not a man,
the Holy One present among you;
I will not come in wrath.
[10]They shall follow the LORD,
who roars like a lion;
When he roars,
his children shall come frightened from the west, [11]Out of Egypt they shall come trembling, like birds,
like doves, from the land of Assyria;

And I will resettle them in their homes,
oracle of the LORD.

Infidelity of Israel. 12:1 Ephraim has surrounded me with lies,
the house of Israel, with deceit;
Judah still wanders about with gods,
and is faithful to holy ones.
[2]Ephraim shepherds the wind,
and pursues the east wind all day long.
He multiplies lies and violence:
They make a covenant with Assyria,
and oil is carried to Egypt.

[3]The LORD has a dispute with Judah,
and will punish Jacob for his conduct,
and repay him for his deeds.
[4]In the womb he supplanted his brother,
and in his vigor he contended with a divine being;
[5]He contended with an angel and prevailed,
he wept and entreated him.
At Bethel he met with him,
and there he spoke with him.
[6]The LORD is the God of hosts,
the LORD is his name!
[7]You must return to your God.
Maintain loyalty and justice and always hope in your God.

[8]A merchant who holds a false balance,
he loves to extort!
[9]Ephraim has said,
"How rich I have become;
I have made a fortune!"
All his gain will not suffice
for the guilt of his sin.
[10]I the LORD have been your God,
since the land of Egypt;
I will again have you live in tents,
as on feast days.
[11]I spoke to the prophets,
I granted many visions,
and through the prophets I told parables.
[12]In Gilead is falsehood, they have come to nothing;
in Gilgal they sacrifice bulls,
But their altars are like heaps of stones
in the furrows of the field.

[13]Jacob fled to the land of Aram,
and Israel served for a wife;
for a wife he tended sheep.
[14]But by a prophet the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt,

and by a prophet Israel was tended.
15 Ephraim has aroused bitter anger,
so his Lord shall cast his bloodguilt upon him and repay him for his scorn.

☐ REVELATION 5:1-10

The Scroll and the Lamb. 5:1 I saw a scroll in the right hand of the one who sat on the throne. It had writing on both sides and was sealed with seven seals. 2 Then I saw a mighty angel who proclaimed in a loud voice, "Who is worthy to open the scroll and break its seals?" 3 But no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll or to examine it. 4 I shed many tears because no one was found worthy to open the scroll or to examine it. 5 One of the elders said to me, "Do not weep. The lion of the tribe of Judah, the root of David, has triumphed, enabling him to open the scroll with its seven seals."

6 Then I saw standing in the midst of the throne and the four living creatures and the elders, a Lamb that seemed to have been slain. He had seven horns and seven eyes; these are the [seven] spirits of God sent out into the whole world. 7 He came and received the scroll from the right hand of the one who sat on the throne. 8 When he took it, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell down before the Lamb. Each of the elders held a harp and gold bowls filled with incense, which are the prayers of the holy ones. 9 They sang a new hymn:

"Worthy are you to receive the scroll and to break open its seals,
for you were slain and with your blood you purchased for God
those from every tribe and tongue, people and nation.
10 You made them a kingdom and priests for our God,
and they will reign on earth."

Pope St. Damasus I

> He who walking on the sea could calm the bitter waves, who gives life to the dying seeds of the earth; He who was able to loose the mortal chains of death, and after three days' darkness could bring Lazarus to the upper world again for his sister Martha: He, I believe, will make me rise again from the dust.

☐ HOSEA 13-14

The Death of Ephraim. 13:1 When Ephraim spoke there was terror;
he was exalted in Israel;
but he became guilty through Baal and died.

2 Now they continue to sin,
making for themselves molten images,
Silver idols according to their skill,
all of them the work of artisans.
"To these, offer sacrifice," they say.
People kiss calves!
3 Therefore, they will be like a morning cloud

or like the dew that vanishes with the dawn,
Like chaff storm-driven from the threshing floor or like smoke out of the window.

4I, the LORD, am your God,
since the land of Egypt;
Gods apart from me you do not know;
there is no savior but me.
5I fed you in the wilderness,
in the parched land.
6When I fed them, they were satisfied;
when satisfied, they became proud,
therefore they forgot me.
7So, I will be like a lion to them,
like a leopard by the road I will keep watch.
8I will attack them like a bear robbed of its young,
and tear their hearts from their breasts;
I will devour them on the spot like a lion,
as a wild animal would rip them open.

9I destroy you, Israel!
who is there to help you?
10Where now is your king,
that he may rescue you?
And all your princes,
that they may defend you?
Of whom you said,
"Give me a king and princes"?
11I give you a king in my anger,
and I take him away in my wrath.

12The guilt of Ephraim is wrapped up, his sin is stored away.
13The birth pangs will come for him,
but this is an unwise child,
Who, when it is time, does not present himself
at the mouth of the womb.
14Shall I deliver them from the power of Sheol?
shall I redeem them from death?
Where are your plagues, O death!
where is your sting, Sheol!
Compassion is hidden from my eyes.

15Though Ephraim may flourish among his brothers,
an east wind will come, a wind from the LORD,
rising from the wilderness,
That will dry up his spring,
and leave his fountain dry.
It will loot his treasury
of every precious thing.

14:1 Samaria has become guilty,
for she has rebelled against her God.
They shall fall by the sword,
their infants shall be dashed to pieces,
their pregnant women shall be ripped open.

Sincere Conversion and New Life. [2]Return, Israel, to the LORD, your God;
you have stumbled because of your iniquity.
[3]Take with you words,
and return to the LORD;
Say to him, "Forgive all iniquity,
and take what is good.
Let us offer the fruit of our lips.
[4]Assyria will not save us,
nor will we mount horses;
We will never again say, 'Our god,'
to the work of our hands;
for in you the orphan finds compassion."
[5]I will heal their apostasy,
I will love them freely;
for my anger is turned away from them.
[6]I will be like the dew for Israel:
he will blossom like the lily;
He will strike root like the Lebanon cedar,
[7]and his shoots will go forth.
His splendor will be like the olive tree
and his fragrance like Lebanon cedar.
[8]Again they will live in his shade;
they will raise grain,
They will blossom like the vine,
and his renown will be like the wine of Lebanon.

[9]Ephraim! What more have I to do with idols?
I have humbled him, but I will take note of him.
I am like a verdant cypress tree.
From me fruit will be found for you!

Epilogue. [10]Who is wise enough to understand these things?
Who is intelligent enough to know them?
Straight are the paths of the LORD,
the just walk in them,
but sinners stumble in them.

☐ REVELATION 5:11-14

5:11 I looked again and heard the voices of many angels who surrounded the throne and the living creatures and the elders. They were countless in number, [12]and they cried out in a loud voice:

"Worthy is the Lamb that was slain
to receive power and riches, wisdom and strength,

honor and glory and blessing."

13 Then I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and in the sea, everything in the universe, cry out:

"To the one who sits on the throne and to the Lamb be blessing and honor, glory and might,
forever and ever."

14 The four living creatures answered, "Amen," and the elders fell down and worshiped.

The weapon of the second Eve, the Mother of God, is prayer.

— Blessed John Henry Newman

☐ JOEL 1-2

1:1 The word of the LORD which came to Joel, the son of Pethuel.

2 Listen to this, you elders!
Pay attention, all who dwell in the land!
Has anything like this ever happened in your lifetime,
or in the lifetime of your ancestors?
3 Report it to your children.
Have your children report it to their children,
and their children to the next generation.
4 What the cutter left,
the swarming locust has devoured;
What the swarming locust left,
the hopper has devoured;
What the hopper left,
the consuming locust has devoured.
5 Wake up, you drunkards, and weep;
wail, all you wine drinkers,
Over the new wine,
taken away from your mouths.
6 For a nation invaded my land,
powerful and past counting,
With teeth like a lion's,
fangs like those of a lioness.
7 It has stripped bare my vines,
splintered my fig tree,
Shearing off its bark and throwing it away,
until its branches turn white.
8 Wail like a young woman dressed in sackcloth
for the husband of her youth.
9 Grain offering and libation are cut off from the house of the LORD;

In mourning are the priests,
the ministers of the LORD.
[10]The field is devastated;
the farmland mourns,
Because the grain is devastated,
the wine has dried up,
the oil has failed.
[11]Be appalled, you farmers!
wail, you vinedressers,
Over the wheat and the barley,
because the harvest in the field is ruined.
[12]The vine has dried up,
the fig tree has withered;
The pomegranate, even the date palm and the apple—
every tree in the field has dried up.
Joy itself has dried up
among the people.

Cry Out to the Lord. [13]Gird yourselves and lament, you priests!
wail, ministers of the altar!
Come, spend the night in sackcloth,
ministers of my God!
For the grain offering and the libation
are withheld from the house of your God.
[14]Proclaim a holy fast!
Call an assembly!
Gather the elders,
all who dwell in the land,
To the house of the LORD, your God,
and cry out to the LORD!
[15]O! The day!
For near is the day of the LORD,
like destruction from the Almighty it is coming!
[16]Before our very eyes
has not food been cut off?
And from the house of our God,
joy and gladness?
[17]The seed lies shriveled beneath clods of dirt;
the storehouses are emptied.
The granaries are broken down,
for the grain is dried up.
[18]How the animals groan!
The herds of cattle are bewildered!
Because they have no pasture,
even the flocks of sheep are starving.
[19]To you, LORD, I cry!
for fire has devoured the wilderness pastures,
flame has scorched all the trees in the field.
[20]Even the animals in the wild cry out to you;

For the streams of water have run dry,
and fire has devoured the wilderness pastures.

The Day Approaches. 2:1 Blow the horn in Zion, sound the alarm on my holy mountain!
Let all the inhabitants of the land tremble,
for the day of the LORD is coming!
Yes, it approaches,
[2]a day of darkness and gloom,
a day of thick clouds!
Like dawn spreading over the mountains,
a vast and mighty army!
Nothing like it has ever happened in ages past,
nor will the future hold anything like it,
even to the most distant generations.
[3]Before it, fire devours,
behind it flame scorches.
The land before it is like the garden of Eden,
and behind it, a desolate wilderness;
from it nothing escapes.
[4]Their appearance is that of horses;
like war horses they run.
[5]Like the rumble of chariots
they hurtle across mountaintops;
Like the crackling of fiery flames
devouring stubble;
Like a massive army
in battle formation.
[6]Before them peoples tremble,
every face turns pale.
[7]Like warriors they run,
like soldiers they scale walls,
Each advancing in line,
without swerving from the course.
[8]No one crowds the other;
each advances in its own track;
They plunge through the weapons;
they are not checked.
[9]They charge the city,
they run upon the wall,
they climb into the houses;
Through the windows
they enter like thieves.

[10]Before them the earth trembles;
the heavens shake;
Sun and moon are darkened,
and the stars withhold their brightness.
[11]The LORD raises his voice

at the head of his army;
How immense is his host!
How numerous those who carry out his command!
How great is the day of the LORD!
Utterly terrifying! Who can survive it?

Return to the Lord. [12]Yet even now—oracle of the LORD—
return to me with your whole heart,
with fasting, weeping, and mourning.
[13]Rend your hearts, not your garments,
and return to the LORD, your God,
For he is gracious and merciful,
slow to anger, abounding in steadfast love,
and relenting in punishment.
[14]Perhaps he will again relent
and leave behind a blessing, Grain offering and libation
for the LORD, your God.
[15]Blow the horn in Zion!
Proclaim a fast,
call an assembly!
[16]Gather the people,
sanctify the congregation;
Assemble the elderly;
gather the children,
even infants nursing at the breast;
Let the bridegroom leave his room,
and the bride her bridal tent.
[17]Between the porch and the altar
let the priests weep,
let the ministers of the LORD weep and say:
"Spare your people, LORD!
do not let your heritage become a disgrace,
a byword among the nations!
Why should they say among the peoples,
'Where is their God?' "

The Lord Relents. [18]Then the LORD grew jealous for his land and took pity on his people. [19]In response the LORD said to his people:

I am sending you
grain, new wine, and oil,
and you will be satisfied by them;
Never again will I make you
a disgrace among the nations.
[20]The northerner I will remove far from you,
driving them out into a dry and desolate land,
Their vanguard to the eastern sea,
their rearguard to the western sea,
And their stench will rise,
their stink will ascend,

What great deeds the Lord has done!
[21]Do not fear, O land!
delight and rejoice,
for the LORD has done great things!
[22]Do not fear, you animals in the wild,
for the wilderness pastures sprout green grass.
The trees bear fruit,
the fig tree and the vine produce their harvest.
[23]Children of Zion, delight and rejoice in the LORD, your God!
For he has faithfully given you the early rain,
sending rain down on you,
the early and the late rains as before.
[24]The threshing floors will be full of grain,
the vats spilling over with new wine and oil.
[25]I will repay you double
what the swarming locust has eaten,
The hopper, the consuming locust, and the cutter,
my great army I sent against you.
[26]You will eat until you are fully satisfied,
then you will praise the name of the LORD, your God,
Who acts so wondrously on your behalf!
My people will never again be put to shame.
[27]Then you will know that I am in the midst of Israel:
I, the LORD, am your God, and there is no other;
my people will never again be put to shame.

☐ REVELATION 6

The First Six Seals. 6:1 Then I watched while the Lamb broke open the first of the seven seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures cry out in a voice like thunder, "Come forward." [2]I looked, and there was a white horse, and its rider had a bow. He was given a crown, and he rode forth victorious to further his victories.

[3]When he broke open the second seal, I heard the second living creature cry out, "Come forward." [4]Another horse came out, a red one. Its rider was given power to take peace away from the earth, so that people would slaughter one another. And he was given a huge sword.

[5]When he broke open the third seal, I heard the third living creature cry out, "Come forward." I looked, and there was a black horse, and its rider held a scale in his hand. [6]I heard what seemed to be a voice in the midst of the four living creatures. It said, "A ration of wheat costs a day's pay, and three rations of barley cost a day's pay. But do not damage the olive oil or the wine."

[7]When he broke open the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature cry out, "Come forward." [8]I looked, and there was a pale green horse. Its rider was named Death, and Hades accompanied him. They were given authority over a quarter of the earth, to kill with sword, famine, and plague, and by means of the beasts of the earth.

[9]When he broke open the fifth seal, I saw underneath the altar the souls of those who had been slaughtered because of the witness they bore to the word of God. [10]They cried out in a loud voice, "How long will it be, holy and true master, before you sit in judgment and avenge our blood on the inhabitants of the earth?" [11]Each of them was given a white robe, and they were told to be patient a little while longer until the number was filled of their fellow servants and brothers who were going to be killed as they had been.

[12]Then I watched while he broke open the sixth seal, and there was a great earthquake; the sun turned as black as dark sackcloth and the whole moon became like blood. [13]The stars in the sky fell to the earth like unripe figs shaken loose from the tree in a strong wind. [14]Then the sky was divided like a torn scroll curling up, and every mountain and island was moved from its place. [15]The kings of the earth, the nobles, the military officers, the rich, the powerful, and every slave and free person hid themselves in caves and among mountain crags. [16]They cried out to the mountains and the rocks, "Fall on us and hide us from the face of the one who sits on the throne and from the wrath of the Lamb, [17]because the great day of their wrath has come and who can withstand it?"

St. Lucy

Those whose hearts are pure are the temples of the Holy Spirit.

— St. Lucy

☐ JOEL 3-4

The Day of the Lord. 3:1 It shall come to pass
I will pour out my spirit upon all flesh.
Your sons and daughters will prophesy,
your old men will dream dreams,
your young men will see visions.
[2]Even upon your male and female servants,
in those days, I will pour out my spirit.
[3]I will set signs in the heavens and on the earth,
blood, fire, and columns of smoke;
[4]The sun will darken,
the moon turn blood-red,
Before the day of the LORD arrives,
that great and terrible day.
[5]Then everyone who calls upon the name of the LORD will escape harm.
For on Mount Zion there will be a remnant,
as the LORD has said,
And in Jerusalem survivors
whom the LORD will summon.

The Lord's Case Against the Nations. 4:1 For see, in those days and at that time, when I restore the fortunes
of Judah and Jerusalem,
[2]I will gather all the nations
and bring them down to the Valley of Jehoshaphat.
There I will enter into judgment with them
on behalf of my people, my heritage, Israel;
Because they scattered them among the nations,
they divided up my land.
[3]For my people they cast lots,
trading a young boy for the price of a prostitute,
exchanging a young girl for the wine they drank.

[4]Moreover, what are you doing to me, Tyre and Sidon, and all the regions of Philistia? Are you paying me back for something? If you are, I will very quickly turn your deeds back upon your own head. [5]You took my silver and my gold and brought my priceless treasures into your temples! [6]You sold the people of Judah and Jerusalem to the Greeks, taking them far from their own country! [7]Look! I am rousing them from the place to which you sold them, and I will turn your deeds back upon your own head. [8]I will sell your sons and daughters to the Judahites who will sell them to the Sabeans, a distant nation. The LORD has spoken!

The Nations Destroyed. [9]Announce this to the nations:
Proclaim a holy war!
Alert the warriors!
Let all the soldiers
report and march!
[10]Beat your plowshares into swords,
and your pruning knives into spears;
let the weakling boast, "I am a warrior!"

[11]Hurry and come, all you neighboring peoples, assemble there!
Bring down, LORD, your warriors!
[12]Let the nations rouse themselves and come up to the Valley of Jehoshaphat;
For there I will sit in judgment
upon all the neighboring nations.

[13]Wield the sickle,
for the harvest is ripe;
Come and tread,
for the wine press is full;
The vats overflow,
for their crimes are numerous.
[14]Crowds upon crowds
in the Valley of Decision;
For near is the day of the LORD
in the Valley of Decision.
[15]Sun and moon are darkened,
and the stars withhold their brightness,
[16]The LORD roars from Zion,
and from Jerusalem raises his voice,
The heavens and the earth quake,
but the LORD will be a shelter for his people,
a fortress for the people of Israel.

A Secure Future for Judah. [17]Then you will know that I the LORD am your God, dwelling on Zion, my holy mountain;
Jerusalem will be holy,
and strangers will never again travel through her.
[18]On that day
the mountains will drip new wine,
and the hills flow with milk,
All the streams of Judah
will flow with water.

A spring will rise from the house of the LORD,
watering the Valley of Shittim.
[19]Egypt will be a waste,
Edom a desolate wilderness,
Because of violence done to the Judahites,
because they shed innocent blood in their land.
[20]But Judah will be inhabited forever,
and Jerusalem for all generations.
[21]I will avenge their blood,
and I will not acquit the guilt.
The LORD dwells in Zion.

☐ REVELATION 7:1-8

The 144,000 Sealed. 7:1 After this I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding back the four winds of the earth so that no wind could blow on land or sea or against any tree. [2]Then I saw another angel come up from the East, holding the seal of the living God. He cried out in a loud voice to the four angels who were given power to damage the land and the sea, [3]"Do not damage the land or the sea or the trees until we put the seal on the foreheads of the servants of our God." [4]I heard the number of those who had been marked with the seal, one hundred and forty-four thousand marked from every tribe of the Israelites: [5]twelve thousand were marked from the tribe of Judah, twelve thousand from the tribe of Reuben, twelve thousand from the tribe of Gad, [6]twelve thousand from the tribe of Asher, twelve thousand from the tribe of Naphtali, twelve thousand from the tribe of Manasseh, [7]twelve thousand from the tribe of Simeon, twelve thousand from the tribe of Levi, twelve thousand from the tribe of Issachar, [8]twelve thousand from the tribe of Zebulun, twelve thousand from the tribe of Joseph, and twelve thousand were marked from the tribe of Benjamin.

☐ AMOS 1-2

1:1 The words of Amos, who was one of the sheepbreeders from Tekoa, which he received in a vision concerning Israel in the days of Uzziah, king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam, son of Joash, king of Israel, two years before the earthquake. [2]He said:

The LORD roars from Zion,
and raises his voice from Jerusalem;
The pastures of the shepherds languish,
and the summit of Carmel withers.

Aram. [3]Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Damascus, and now four—
I will not take it back—

Because they threshed Gilead
with sledges of iron, 4I will send fire upon the house of Hazael,
and it will devour the strongholds of Ben-hadad.
5I will break the barred gate of Damascus;
From the Valley of Aven I will cut off the one enthroned,
And the sceptered ruler from Beth-eden;
the people of Aram shall be exiled to Kir, says the LORD.

Philistia. 6Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Gaza, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because they exiled an entire population,
handing them over to Edom, 7I will send fire upon the wall of Gaza,
and it will devour its strongholds;
8From Ashdod I will cut off the one enthroned and the sceptered ruler from Ashkelon;
I will turn my hand against Ekron,
and the last of the Philistines shall perish,
says the Lord GOD.

Tyre. 9Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Tyre, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because they handed over an entire population to Edom,
and did not remember their covenant of brotherhood, 10I will send fire upon the wall of Tyre,
and it will devour its strongholds.

Edom. 11Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Edom, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because he pursued his brother with the sword,
suppressing all pity, Persisting in his anger,
his wrath raging without end, 12I will send fire upon Teman,
and it will devour the strongholds of Bozrah.

Ammon. 13Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of the Ammonites, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because they ripped open pregnant women in Gilead,
in order to extend their territory,
14I will kindle a fire upon the wall of Rabbah,
and it will devour its strongholds

Amid war cries on the day of battle,
amid stormwind on the day of tempest.
15 Their king shall go into exile,
he and his princes with him, says the LORD.

Moab. 2:1 Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Moab, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because he burned to ashes
the bones of Edom's king, 2 I will send fire upon Moab,
and it will devour the strongholds of Kerioth;
Moab shall meet death amid uproar,
battle cries and blasts of the ram's horn.
3 I will cut off the ruler from its midst,
and all the princes I will slay with him, says the LORD.

Judah. 4 Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Judah, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because they spurned the instruction of the LORD,
and did not keep his statutes;
Because the lies which their ancestors followed
have led them astray,
5 I will send fire upon Judah,
and it will devour the strongholds of Jerusalem.

Israel. 6 Thus says the LORD:

For three crimes of Israel, and now four—
I will not take it back—
Because they hand over the just for silver,
and the poor for a pair of sandals;
7 They trample the heads of the destitute
into the dust of the earth,
and force the lowly out of the way.
Son and father sleep with the same girl,
profaning my holy name.
8 Upon garments taken in pledge
they recline beside any altar.
Wine at treasury expense
they drink in their temples.
9 Yet it was I who destroyed the Amorites before them,
who were as tall as cedars,
and as strong as oak trees.
I destroyed their fruit above
and their roots beneath.
10 It was I who brought you up from the land of Egypt,
and who led you through the desert for forty years,

to occupy the land of the Amorites;
[11]I who raised up prophets among your children,
and nazirites among your young men.
Is this not so, Israelites?—
oracle of the LORD.
[12]But you made the nazirites drink wine,
and commanded the prophets, "Do not prophesy!"
[13]Look, I am groaning beneath you,
as a wagon groans when laden with sheaves.
[14]Flight shall elude the swift,
and the strong shall not retain strength;
The warrior shall not save his life,
[15]nor shall the archer stand his ground;
The swift of foot shall not escape,
nor shall the horseman save his life.
[16]And the most stouthearted of warriors shall flee naked on that day—
oracle of the LORD.

☐ REVELATION 7:9-17

Triumph of the Elect. 7:9 After this I had a vision of a great multitude, which no one could count, from every nation, race, people, and tongue. They stood before the throne and before the Lamb, wearing white robes and holding palm branches in their hands. [10]They cried out in a loud voice:

"Salvation comes from our God, who is seated on the throne, and from the Lamb."

[11]All the angels stood around the throne and around the elders and the four living creatures. They prostrated themselves before the throne, worshiped God, [12]and exclaimed:

"Amen. Blessing and glory, wisdom and thanksgiving, honor, power, and might be to our God forever and ever. Amen."

[13]Then one of the elders spoke up and said to me, "Who are these wearing white robes, and where did they come from?" [14]I said to him, "My lord, you are the one who knows." He said to me, "These are the ones who have survived the time of great distress; they have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

[15]"For this reason they stand before God's throne
and worship him day and night in his temple.
The one who sits on the throne will shelter them.
[16]They will not hunger or thirst anymore,
nor will the sun or any heat strike them.
[17]For the Lamb who is in the center of the throne will shepherd them and lead them to springs of life-giving water,
and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes."

December 15

Do you think that God comes to you all by himself? You may be sure that such a King is not left alone by the attendants of His court; but they attend Him, praying to Him for us, and for our welfare, because they are full of love.

— St. Teresa of Ávila

☐ AMOS 3-4

First Summons. 3:1 Hear this word, Israelites, that the LORD speaks concerning you, concerning the whole family I brought up from the land of Egypt:
[2]You alone I have known,
among all the families of the earth;
Therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.

[3]Do two journey together
unless they have agreed?
[4]Does a lion roar in the forest
when it has no prey?
Does a young lion cry out from its den
unless it has seized something?
[5]Does a bird swoop down on a trap on the ground
when there is no lure for it?
Does a snare spring up from the ground without catching anything?
[6]Does the ram's horn sound in a city
without the people becoming frightened?
Does disaster befall a city
unless the LORD has caused it?

[7](Indeed, the Lord GOD does nothing without revealing his plan to his servants the prophets.)

[8]The lion has roared,
who would not fear?
The Lord GOD has spoken,
who would not prophesy?

[9]Proclaim this in the strongholds of Assyria,
in the strongholds of the land of Egypt:
"Gather on the mount of Samaria,
and see the great disorders within it,
the oppressions within its midst."
[10]They do not know how to do what is right—
oracle of the LORD—
Storing up in their strongholds
violence and destruction.
[11]Therefore thus says the Lord GOD:
An enemy shall surround the land,
tear down your fortresses,
and pillage your strongholds.
[12]Thus says the LORD:

As the shepherd rescues from the mouth of the lion
a pair of sheep's legs or the tip of an ear,
So shall the Israelites escape,
those who dwell in Samaria,
With the corner of a couch
or a piece of a cot.

13 Hear and bear witness against the house of Jacob—
an oracle of the Lord GOD, the God of hosts:
14 On the day when I punish Israel for its crimes,
I will also punish the altars of Bethel;
The horns of the altar shall be broken off
and fall to the ground.
15 I will strike the winter house
and the summer house;
The houses of ivory shall lie in ruin,
and their many rooms shall be no more—
oracle of the LORD.

Second Summons. 4:1 Hear this word, you cows of Bashan, who live on the mount of Samaria:
Who oppress the destitute
and abuse the needy;
Who say to your husbands,
"Bring us a drink!"
2 The Lord GOD has sworn by his holiness:
Truly days are coming upon you when they shall drag you away with ropes,
your children with fishhooks;
3 You shall go out through the breached walls
one in front of the other,
And you shall be exiled to Harmon—
oracle of the LORD.

4 Come to Bethel and sin,
to Gilgal and sin all the more!
Each morning bring your sacrifices,
every third day your tithes;
5 Burn leavened bread as a thanksgiving sacrifice,
proclaim publicly your voluntary offerings,
For so you love to do, Israelites—
oracle of the Lord GOD.

6 Though I made your teeth clean of food in all your cities,
and made bread scarce in all your dwellings,
Yet you did not return to me—
oracle of the LORD.
7 And I withheld the rain from you when the harvest was still three months away;
I sent rain upon one city

but not upon another;
One field was watered by rain,
but the one I did not water dried up;
[8]Two or three cities staggered to another to drink water but were not satisfied;
Yet you did not return to me—
oracle of the LORD.
[9]I struck you with blight and mildew;
locusts devoured your gardens and vineyards,
the caterpillar consumed your fig trees and olive trees;
Yet you did not return to me—
oracle of the LORD.
[10]I sent upon you pestilence like that of Egypt;
with the sword I killed your young men and your captured horses,
and to your nostrils I brought the stench of your camps;
Yet you did not return to me—
oracle of the LORD.
[11]I overthrew you
as when God overthrew Sodom and Gomorrah;
you were like a brand plucked from the fire,
Yet you did not return to me—
oracle of the LORD.
[12]Therefore thus I will do to you, Israel:
and since I will deal thus with you,
prepare to meet your God, O Israel!
[13]The one who forms mountains and creates winds,
and declares to mortals their thoughts;
Who makes dawn into darkness
and strides upon the heights of the earth,
the LORD, the God of hosts, is his name!

☐ REVELATION 8:1-5

The Seven Trumpets. 8:1 When he broke open the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour. [2]And I saw that the seven angels who stood before God were given seven trumpets.

The Gold Censer. [3]Another angel came and stood at the altar, holding a gold censer. He was given a great quantity of incense to offer, along with the prayers of all the holy ones, on the gold altar that was before the throne. [4]The smoke of the incense along with the prayers of the holy ones went up before God from the hand of the angel. [5]Then the angel took the censer, filled it with burning coals from the altar, and hurled it down to the earth. There were peals of thunder, rumblings, flashes of lightning, and an earthquake.

Blessed Mary of the Angels

O Lamb of God! Imprint on my heart such repentance that I may prefer to die rather than ever to offend You again.

— Blessed Mary of the Angels

☐ AMOS 5-6

Third Summons. 5:1 Hear this word which I utter concerning you,
this dirge, house of Israel:
2 She is fallen, to rise no more,
virgin Israel;
She lies abandoned on her land,
with no one to raise her up.
3 For thus says the Lord GOD
to the house of Israel:
The city that marched out with a thousand shall be left with a hundred, Another that marched out with a hundred shall be left with ten.
4 For thus says the LORD
to the house of Israel:
Seek me, that you may live,
5 but do not seek Bethel;
Do not come to Gilgal,
and do not cross over to Beer-sheba;
For Gilgal shall be led into exile
and Bethel shall be no more.
6 Seek the LORD, that you may live, lest he flare up against the house of Joseph like a fire that shall consume the house of Israel, with no one to quench it.

8 The one who made the Pleiades and Orion,
who turns darkness into dawn,
and darkens day into night;
Who summons the waters of the sea,
and pours them out on the surface of the earth;
9 Who makes destruction fall suddenly upon the stronghold and brings ruin upon the fortress,
the LORD is his name.

First Woe. 7 Woe to those who turn justice into wormwood
and cast righteousness to the ground, 10 They hate those who reprove at the gate
and abhor those who speak with integrity; 11 Therefore, because you tax the destitute
and exact from them levies of grain,
Though you have built houses of hewn stone,

you shall not live in them;
Though you have planted choice vineyards,
you shall not drink their wine.
12 Yes, I know how many are your crimes,
how grievous your sins:
Oppressing the just, accepting bribes,
turning away the needy at the gate.
13 (Therefore at this time the wise are struck dumb for it is an evil time.)

14 Seek good and not evil,
that you may live;
Then truly the LORD, the God of hosts,
will be with you as you claim.
15 Hate evil and love good,
and let justice prevail at the gate;
Then it may be that the LORD, the God of hosts,
will have pity on the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore, thus says the LORD,
the God of hosts, the Lord:
In every square there shall be lamentation,
and in every street they shall cry, "Oh, no!"
They shall summon the farmers to wail
and the professional mourners to lament.
17 And in every vineyard there shall be lamentation
when I pass through your midst, says the LORD.

Second Woe. 18 Woe to those who yearn for the day of the LORD!
What will the day of the LORD mean for you?
It will be darkness, not light!
19 As if someone fled from a lion
and a bear met him;
Or as if on entering the house
he rested his hand against the wall,
and a snake bit it.
20 Truly, the day of the LORD will be darkness, not light, gloom without any brightness!

21 I hate, I despise your feasts,
I take no pleasure in your solemnities.
22 Even though you bring me your burnt offerings and grain offerings
I will not accept them;
Your stall-fed communion offerings,
I will not look upon them.
23 Take away from me
your noisy songs;
The melodies of your harps,
I will not listen to them.
24 Rather let justice surge like waters,

and righteousness like an unfailing stream.
[25]Did you bring me sacrifices and grain offerings
for forty years in the desert, O house of Israel?
[26]Yet you will carry away Sukuth, your king,
and Kaiwan, your star-image,
your gods that you have made for yourselves, [27]As I exile you beyond Damascus,
says the LORD,
whose name is the God of hosts.

Third Woe. 6:1 Woe to those who are complacent in Zion, secure on the mount of Samaria,
Leaders of the first among nations,
to whom the people of Israel turn.
[2]Pass over to Calneh and see,
go from there to Hamath the great,
and down to Gath of the Philistines.
Are you better than these kingdoms,
or is your territory greater than theirs?
[3]You who would put off the day of disaster,
yet hasten the time of violence!
[4]Those who lie on beds of ivory,
and lounge upon their couches;
Eating lambs taken from the flock,
and calves from the stall;
[5]Who improvise to the music of the harp,
composing on musical instruments like David,
[6]Who drink wine from bowls,
and anoint themselves with the best oils,
but are not made ill by the collapse of Joseph;
[7]Therefore, now they shall be the first to go into exile,
and the carousing of those who lounged shall cease.

[8]The Lord GOD has sworn by his very self—an oracle of the LORD, the God of hosts:
I abhor the pride of Jacob,
I hate his strongholds,
and I will hand over the city with everything in it;
[9]Should there remain ten people
in a single house, these shall die.
[10]When a relative or one who prepares the body picks up the remains to carry them out of the house,
If he says to someone in the recesses of the house,
"Is anyone with you?" and the answer is, "No one,"
Then he shall say, "Silence!"
for no one must mention the name of the LORD.
[11]Indeed, the LORD has given the command to shatter the great house to bits,
and reduce the small house to rubble.
[12]Can horses run over rock,

or can one plow the sea with oxen?
Yet you have turned justice into gall,
and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood, 13 You who rejoice in Lodebar,
and say, "Have we not, by our own strength,
seized Karnaim for ourselves?"
14 Look, I am raising up against you, house of Israel—
oracle of the LORD, the God of hosts—
A nation that shall oppress you from Lebo-hamath even to the Wadi Arabah.

☐ REVELATION 8:6-13

The First Four Trumpets. 8:6 The seven angels who were holding the seven trumpets prepared to blow them.
7 When the first one blew his trumpet, there came hail and fire mixed with blood, which was hurled down to the earth. A third of the land was burned up, along with a third of the trees and all green grass.
8 When the second angel blew his trumpet, something like a large burning mountain was hurled into the sea. A third of the sea turned to blood, 9 a third of the creatures living in the sea died, and a third of the ships were wrecked.
10 When the third angel blew his trumpet, a large star burning like a torch fell from the sky. It fell on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water. 11 The star was called "Wormwood," and a third of all the water turned to wormwood. Many people died from this water, because it was made bitter.
12 When the fourth angel blew his trumpet, a third of the sun, a third of the moon, and a third of the stars were struck, so that a third of them became dark. The day lost its light for a third of the time, as did the night.
13 Then I looked again and heard an eagle flying high overhead cry out in a loud voice, "Woe! Woe! Woe to the inhabitants of the earth from the rest of the trumpet blasts that the three angels are about to blow!"

> There are four remedies against the fear of divine judgment. The first is good deeds. The second is confession and repentance of the evil done. The third is almsgiving, which cleanses us from all stains. The fourth is charity, namely, the love of God and our neighbor.

☐ AMOS 7-9

First Vision: The Locust Swarm. 7:1 This is what the Lord GOD showed me: He was forming a locust swarm when the late growth began to come up (the late growth after the king's mowing). 2 When they had finished eating the grass in the land, I said:

Forgive, O Lord GOD!
Who will raise up Jacob?
He is so small!

3 The LORD relented concerning this. "This shall not be," said the Lord GOD.
Second Vision: The Rain of Fire. 4 This is what the Lord GOD showed me: He was summoning a rain of fire. It had devoured the great abyss and was consuming the fields. 5 Then I said:

Cease, O Lord GOD!
Who will raise up Jacob?

He is so small!

[6]The LORD relented concerning this. "This also shall not be," said the Lord GOD.

Third Vision: The Plummet. [7]This is what the Lord GOD showed me: He was standing, plummet in hand, by a wall built with a plummet. [8]The Lord GOD asked me, "What do you see, Amos?" And I answered, "A plummet." Then the LORD said:

See, I am laying the plummet
in the midst of my people Israel;
I will forgive them no longer.
[9]The high places of Isaac shall be laid waste, and the sanctuaries of Israel made desolate;
and I will attack the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

Biographical Interlude: Amos and Amaziah. [10]Amaziah, the priest of Bethel, sent word to Jeroboam, king of Israel: "Amos has conspired against you within the house of Israel; the country cannot endure all his words. [11]For this is what Amos says:

'Jeroboam shall die by the sword,
and Israel shall surely be exiled from its land.' "

[12]To Amos, Amaziah said: "Off with you, seer, flee to the land of Judah and there earn your bread by prophesying! [13]But never again prophesy in Bethel; for it is the king's sanctuary and a royal temple." [14]Amos answered Amaziah, "I am not a prophet, nor do I belong to a company of prophets. I am a herdsman and a dresser of sycamores, [15]but the LORD took me from following the flock, and the LORD said to me, 'Go, prophesy to my people Israel.' [16]Now hear the word of the LORD:

You say: 'Do not prophesy against Israel,
do not preach against the house of Isaac.'
[17]Therefore thus says the LORD:
Your wife shall become a prostitute in the city,
and your sons and daughters shall fall by the sword.
Your land shall be parcelled out by measuring line,
and you yourself shall die in an unclean land;
and Israel shall be exiled from its land."

Fourth Vision: The Summer Fruit. 8:1 This is what the Lord GOD showed me: a basket of end-of-summer fruit. [2]He asked, "What do you see, Amos?" And I answered, "A basket of end-of-summer fruit." And the LORD said to me:

The end has come for my people Israel;
I will forgive them no longer.
[3]The temple singers will wail on that day—
oracle of the Lord GOD.
Many shall be the corpses,
strewn everywhere—Silence!

[4]Hear this, you who trample upon the needy
and destroy the poor of the land:
[5]"When will the new moon be over," you ask,
"that we may sell our grain,
And the sabbath,

that we may open the grain-bins?
We will diminish the ephah,
add to the shekel,
and fix our scales for cheating!
6We will buy the destitute for silver,
and the poor for a pair of sandals;
even the worthless grain we will sell!"
7The LORD has sworn by the pride of Jacob:
Never will I forget a thing they have done!
8Shall not the land tremble because of this,
and all who dwell in it mourn?
It will all rise up and toss like the Nile,
and subside like the river of Egypt.
9On that day—oracle of the Lord GOD—
I will make the sun set at midday
and in broad daylight cover the land with darkness.
10I will turn your feasts into mourning
and all your songs into dirges.
I will cover the loins of all with sackcloth
and make every head bald.
I will make it like the time of mourning for an only child,
and its outcome like a day of bitter weeping.

11See, days are coming—oracle of the Lord GOD—
when I will send a famine upon the land:
Not a hunger for bread, or a thirst for water,
but for hearing the word of the LORD.
12They shall stagger from sea to sea and wander from north to east
In search of the word of the LORD,
but they shall not find it.

13On that day, beautiful young women and young men shall faint from thirst, 14Those who swear by Ashima of Samaria, and who say, "By the life of your god, O Dan,"
"By the life of the Power of Beer-sheba!"
They shall fall, never to rise again.

Fifth Vision: The Destruction of the Sanctuary. 9:1 I saw the Lord standing beside the altar. And he said:

Strike the capitals
so that the threshold shakes!
Break them off on the heads of them all!
Those who are left I will slay with the sword.
Not one shall get away,
no survivor shall escape.
2Though they dig down to Sheol,
even from there my hand shall take them;
Though they climb to the heavens,

even from there I shall bring them down.
[3]Though they hide on the summit of Carmel,
there too I will hunt them down and take them;
Though they hide from my gaze at the bottom of the sea,
there I will command the serpent to bite them.
[4]Though they go into captivity before their enemies,
there I will command the sword to slay them.
I will fix my gaze upon them
for evil and not for good.

[5]The Lord GOD of hosts,
Who melts the earth with his touch,
so that all who dwell on it mourn,
So that it will all rise up like the Nile,
and subside like the river of Egypt;
[6]Who has built his upper chamber in heaven,
and established his vault over the earth;
Who summons the waters of the sea
and pours them upon the surface of the earth—
the LORD is his name.

[7]Are you not like the Ethiopians to me,
O Israelites?—oracle of the LORD—
Did I not bring the Israelites from the land of Egypt
as I brought the Philistines from Caphtor and the Arameans from Kir?
[8]See, the eyes of the Lord GOD are on this sinful kingdom, and I will destroy it from the face of the earth—
But I will not destroy the house of Jacob completely—
oracle of the LORD.
[9]For see, I have given the command to sift the house of Israel among all the nations,
As one sifts with a sieve,
letting no pebble fall to the ground.
[10]All sinners among my people shall die by the sword,
those who say, "Disaster will not reach or overtake us."

[11]On that day I will raise up
the fallen hut of David;
I will wall up its breaches,
raise up its ruins,
and rebuild it as in the days of old, [12]That they may possess the remnant of Edom,
and all nations claimed in my name—
oracle of the LORD, the one who does this.
[13]Yes, days are coming—
oracle of the LORD—
When the one who plows shall overtake the one who reaps
and the vintager, the sower of the seed;
The mountains shall drip with the juice of grapes,
and all the hills shall run with it.

[14]I will restore my people Israel,
they shall rebuild and inhabit their ruined cities,
Plant vineyards and drink the wine,
set out gardens and eat the fruits.
[15]I will plant them upon their own ground;
never again shall they be plucked
From the land I have given them—
the LORD, your God, has spoken.

☐ REVELATION 9:1-11

The Fifth Trumpet. 9:1 Then the fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star that had fallen from the sky to the earth. It was given the key for the passage to the abyss. [2]It opened the passage to the abyss, and smoke came up out of the passage like smoke from a huge furnace. The sun and the air were darkened by the smoke from the passage. [3]Locusts came out of the smoke onto the land, and they were given the same power as scorpions of the earth. [4]They were told not to harm the grass of the earth or any plant or any tree, but only those people who did not have the seal of God on their foreheads. [5]They were not allowed to kill them but only to torment them for five months; the torment they inflicted was like that of a scorpion when it stings a person. [6]During that time these people will seek death but will not find it, and they will long to die but death will escape them.

[7]The appearance of the locusts was like that of horses ready for battle. On their heads they wore what looked like crowns of gold; their faces were like human faces, [8]and they had hair like women's hair. Their teeth were like lions' teeth, [9]and they had chests like iron breastplates. The sound of their wings was like the sound of many horse-drawn chariots racing into battle. [10]They had tails like scorpions, with stingers; with their tails they had power to harm people for five months. [11]They had as their king the angel of the abyss, whose name in Hebrew is Abaddon and in Greek Apollyon.

> If God turns nations' poisonous joys into bitterness, if He corrupts their pleasures, and if He scatters thorns along the path of their riot, the reason is that He loves them still. And this is the holy cruelty of the Physician, who, in extreme cases of sickness, makes us take most bitter and most horrible medicines. The greatest mercy of God is not to let those nations remain in peace with each other who are not at peace with Him.

☐ OBADIAH

Edom's Fall Decreed.1 The vision of Obadiah.
Thus says the Lord GOD concerning Edom:
We have heard a message from the LORD,
and a herald has been sent among the nations:
"Rise up, so we may go to war against it!"
[2]Now I make you least among the nations;
you are utterly contemptible.
[3]The pride of your heart has deceived you—
you who dwell in mountain crevices,
in your lofty home,
Who say in your heart,

"Who will bring me down to earth?"
[4]Though you soar like the eagle,
and your nest is set among the stars,
From there I will bring you down—
oracle of the LORD.
[5]If thieves came to you, robbers by night
—how you have been destroyed!—
would they not steal merely till they had enough?
If grape pickers came to you,
would they not leave some gleanings?
[6]How Esau has been searched out,
his treasures hunted down!
[7]To the border they have driven you—
all your allies;
Your partners have deceived you,
they have overpowered you;
Those who eat your bread
will replace you with foreigners,
who have no understanding.

Edom's Betrayal of Judah. [8]On that day—oracle of the LORD—will I not make the wise disappear from Edom,
and understanding from Mount Esau?
[9]Teman, your warriors will be terror-stricken,
so that everyone on Mount Esau will be cut down.
[10]Because of violence to your brother Jacob,
disgrace will cover you,
you will be done away with forever!
[11]On the day you stood by,
the day strangers carried off his possessions,
And foreigners entered his gates and cast lots for Jerusalem,
you too were like one of them.

[12]Do not gloat over the day of your brother,
the day of his disaster;
Do not exult over the people of Judah
on the day of their ruin;
Do not speak haughtily
on the day of distress!
[13]Do not enter the gate of my people
on the day of their calamity;
Do not gloat—especially you—over his misfortune
on the day of his calamity;
Do not lay hands upon his possessions
on the day of his calamity!
[14]Do not stand at the crossroads
to cut down his survivors;
Do not hand over his fugitives
on the day of distress!

Edom's Fall and Judah's Restoration. [15]Near is the day of the LORD against all the nations!
As you have done, so will it be done to you,
your conduct will come back upon your own head; [16]As you drank upon my holy mountain,
so will all the nations drink continually.
Yes, they will drink and swallow,
and will become as though they had not been.
[17]But on Mount Zion there will be some who escape;
the mountain will be holy,
And the house of Jacob will take possession of those who dispossessed them.
[18]The house of Jacob will be a fire,
the house of Joseph a flame,
and the house of Esau stubble.
They will set it ablaze and devour it;
none will survive of the house of Esau,
for the LORD has spoken.

[19]They will take possession of the Negeb, Mount Esau, the Shephelah, and Philistia, possess the countryside of Ephraim, the countryside of Samaria, Benjamin, and Gilead. [20]The exiles of this Israelite army will possess the Canaanite land as far as Zarephath, and the exiles of Jerusalem who are in Sepharad will possess the cities of the Negeb. [21]And deliverers will ascend Mount Zion to rule Mount Esau, and the kingship shall be the LORD's.

☐ REVELATION 9:12-21

9:12 The first woe has passed, but there are two more to come.

The Sixth Trumpet. [13]Then the sixth angel blew his trumpet, and I heard a voice coming from the [four] horns of the gold altar before God, [14]telling the sixth angel who held the trumpet, "Release the four angels who are bound at the banks of the great river Euphrates." [15]So the four angels were released, who were prepared for this hour, day, month, and year to kill a third of the human race. [16]The number of cavalry troops was two hundred million; I heard their number. [17]Now in my vision this is how I saw the horses and their riders. They wore red, blue, and yellow breastplates, and the horses' heads were like heads of lions, and out of their mouths came fire, smoke, and sulfur. [18]By these three plagues of fire, smoke, and sulfur that came out of their mouths a third of the human race was killed. [19]For the power of the horses is in their mouths and in their tails; for their tails are like snakes, with heads that inflict harm.

[20]The rest of the human race, who were not killed by these plagues, did not repent of the works of their hands, to give up the worship of demons and idols made from gold, silver, bronze, stone, and wood, which cannot see or hear or walk. [21]Nor did they repent of their murders, their magic potions, their unchastity, or their robberies.

☐ JONAH

Jonah's Disobedience and Flight. 1:1 The word of the LORD came to Jonah, son of Amittai: [2]Set out for the great city of Nineveh, and preach against it; for their wickedness has come before me. [3]But Jonah made ready to flee to Tarshish, away from the LORD. He went down to Joppa, found a ship going to Tarshish, paid the fare, and went down in it to go with them to Tarshish, away from the LORD.

[4]The LORD, however, hurled a great wind upon the sea, and the storm was so great that the ship was about to break up. [5]Then the sailors were afraid and each one cried to his god. To lighten the ship for themselves, they threw its cargo into the sea. Meanwhile, Jonah had gone down into the hold of the ship, and lay there fast asleep. [6]The captain approached him and said, "What are you doing asleep? Get up, call on your god! Perhaps this god will be mindful of us so that we will not perish."

[7]Then they said to one another, "Come, let us cast lots to discover on whose account this evil has come to us." So they cast lots, and the lot fell on Jonah. [8]They said to him, "Tell us why this evil has come to us! What is your business?
Where do you come from? What is your country, and to what people do you belong?" [9]"I am a Hebrew," he replied; "I fear the LORD, the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land."

[10]Now the men were seized with great fear and said to him, "How could you do such a thing!"—They knew that he was fleeing from the LORD, because he had told them. [11]They asked, "What shall we do with you, that the sea may calm down for us?" For the sea was growing more and more stormy. [12]Jonah responded, "Pick me up and hurl me into the sea and then the sea will calm down for you. For I know that this great storm has come upon you because of me."

[13]Still the men rowed hard to return to dry land, but they could not, for the sea grew more and more stormy. [14]Then they cried to the LORD: "Please, O LORD, do not let us perish for taking this man's life; do not charge us with shedding innocent blood, for you, LORD, have accomplished what you desired." [15]Then they picked up Jonah and hurled him into the sea, and the sea stopped raging. [16]Seized with great fear of the LORD, the men offered sacrifice to the LORD and made vows.

Jonah's Prayer. 2:1 But the LORD sent a great fish to swallow Jonah, and he remained in the belly of the fish three days and three nights. [2]Jonah prayed to the LORD, his God, from the belly of the fish:

[3]Out of my distress I called to the LORD,
and he answered me;
From the womb of Sheol I cried for help,
and you heard my voice.
[4]You cast me into the deep, into the heart of the sea,
and the flood enveloped me;
All your breakers and your billows passed over me.
[5]Then I said, "I am banished from your sight!
How will I again look upon your holy temple?"
[6]The waters surged around me up to my neck;
the deep enveloped me;
seaweed wrapped around my head.
[7]I went down to the roots of the mountains;
to the land whose bars closed behind me forever,
But you brought my life up from the pit,
O LORD, my God.

[8]When I became faint,
I remembered the LORD;
My prayer came to you
in your holy temple.
[9]Those who worship worthless idols
abandon their hope for mercy.

[10]But I, with thankful voice,
will sacrifice to you;
What I have vowed I will pay:
deliverance is from the LORD.

[11]Then the LORD commanded the fish to vomit Jonah upon dry land.

Jonah's Obedience and the Ninevites' Repentance. 3:1 The word of the LORD came to Jonah a second time: [2]Set out for the great city of Nineveh, and announce to it the message that I will tell you. [3]So Jonah set out for Nineveh, in accord with the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an awesomely great city; it took three days to walk through it. [4]Jonah began his journey through the city, and when he had gone only a single day's walk announcing, "Forty days more and Nineveh shall be overthrown," [5]the people of Nineveh believed God; they proclaimed a fast and all of them, great and small, put on sackcloth.

[6]When the news reached the king of Nineveh, he rose from his throne, laid aside his robe, covered himself with sackcloth, and sat in ashes. [7]Then he had this proclaimed throughout Nineveh: "By decree of the king and his nobles, no man or beast, no cattle or sheep, shall taste anything; they shall not eat, nor shall they drink water. [8]Man and beast alike must be covered with sackcloth and call loudly to God; they all must turn from their evil way and from the violence of their hands. [9]Who knows? God may again repent and turn from his blazing wrath, so that we will not perish." [10]When God saw by their actions how they turned from their evil way, he repented of the evil he had threatened to do to them; he did not carry it out.

Jonah's Anger and God's Reproof. 4:1 But this greatly displeased Jonah, and he became angry. [2]He prayed to the LORD, "O LORD, is this not what I said while I was still in my own country? This is why I fled at first toward Tarshish. I knew that you are a gracious and merciful God, slow to anger, abounding in kindness, repenting of punishment. [3]So now, LORD, please take my life from me; for it is better for me to die than to live." [4]But the LORD asked, "Are you right to be angry?"

[5]Jonah then left the city for a place to the east of it, where he built himself a hut and waited under it in the shade, to see what would happen to the city. [6]Then the LORD God provided a gourd plant. And when it grew up over Jonah's head, giving shade that relieved him of any discomfort, Jonah was greatly delighted with the plant. [7]But the next morning at dawn God provided a worm that attacked the plant, so that it withered. [8]And when the sun arose, God provided a scorching east wind; and the sun beat upon Jonah's head till he became faint. Then he wished for death, saying, "It is better for me to die than to live."

[9]But God said to Jonah, "Do you have a right to be angry over the gourd plant?" Jonah answered, "I have a right to be angry—angry enough to die." [10]Then the LORD said, "You are concerned over the gourd plant which cost you no effort and which you did not grow; it came up in one night and in one night it perished. [11]And should I not be concerned over the great city of Nineveh, in which there are more than a hundred and twenty thousand persons who cannot know their right hand from their left, not to mention all the animals?"

☐ REVELATION 10

The Angel with the Small Scroll. 10:1 Then I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven wrapped in a cloud, with a halo around his head; his face was like the sun and his feet were like pillars of fire. [2]In his hand he held a small scroll that had been opened. He placed his right foot on the sea and his left foot on the land, [3]and then he cried out in a loud voice as a lion roars. When he cried out, the seven thunders raised their voices, too. [4]When the seven thunders had spoken, I was about to write it down; but I heard a voice from heaven say, "Seal up what the seven thunders have spoken, but do not write it down." [5]Then the angel I saw standing on the sea and on the land raised his right hand to heaven [6]and swore by the one who lives forever and ever, who created heaven and earth and sea and all that is in them, "There shall be no more delay. [7]At the time when you hear the seventh angel blow his trumpet, the mysterious plan of God shall be fulfilled, as he promised to his servants the prophets."

[8]Then the voice that I had heard from heaven spoke to me again and said, "Go, take the scroll that lies open in the hand of the angel who is standing on the sea and on the land." [9]So I went up to the angel and told him to give me the small scroll. He said to me, "Take and swallow it. It will turn your stomach sour, but in your mouth it will taste as sweet as honey." [10]I took the small scroll from the angel's hand and swallowed it. In my mouth it was like sweet honey, but when I had eaten it, my stomach turned sour. [11]Then someone said to me, "You must prophesy again about many peoples, nations, tongues, and kings."

> It is frequently in pain of the body, amid the very hands of persecutors, that Christ is really found. In a little while, in a brief moment, when you have escaped the hands of your persecutors, and have not given in to the ways of the world, Christ will meet you and will not allow you to be tempted further.

☐ MICAH 1-3

1:1 The word of the LORD which came to Micah of Moresheth in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

[2]Hear, O peoples, all of you,
  give heed, O earth, and all that is in it!
Let the Lord GOD be witness against you,
  the Lord from his holy temple!
[3]For see, the LORD goes out from his place and descending, treads upon the heights of the earth.
[4]The mountains melt under him
  and the valleys split open,
Like wax before the fire,
  like water poured down a slope.
[5]All this is for the crime of Jacob,
  for the sins of the house of Israel.
What is the crime of Jacob? Is it not Samaria?
And what is the sin of the house of Judah?
  Is it not Jerusalem?
[6]So I will make Samaria a ruin in the field,
  a place to plant vineyards;
I will throw its stones into the valley,
  and lay bare its foundations.
[7]All its carved figures shall be broken to pieces,
  all its wages shall be burned in the fire,
  and all its idols I will destroy.
As the wages of a prostitute it gathered them,
  and to the wages of a prostitute they shall return.

[8]For this I will lament and wail,
  go barefoot and naked;
I will utter lamentation like the jackals,
  mourning like the ostriches, [9]For her wound is incurable;

it has come even to Judah.
It has reached to the gate of my people,
even to Jerusalem.

[10]Do not announce it in Gath,
do not weep at all;
In Beth-leaphrah
roll in the dust.
[11]Pass by,
you who dwell in Shaphir!
The inhabitants of Zaanan
do not come forth from their city.
There is lamentation in Beth-ezel.
It will withdraw its support from you.
[12]The inhabitants of Maroth hope for good,
But evil has come down from the LORD
to the gate of Jerusalem.
[13]Harness steeds to the chariots,
inhabitants of Lachish;
You are the beginning of sin
for daughter Zion,
For in you were found
the crimes of Israel.
[14]Therefore you must give back the dowry
to Moresheth-gath;
The houses of Achzib are a dry stream bed
to the kings of Israel.
[15]Again I will bring the conqueror to you,
inhabitants of Mareshah;
The glory of Israel shall come
even to Adullam.
[16]Make yourself bald, cut off your hair,
for the children whom you cherish;
Make yourself bald as a vulture,
for they are taken from you into exile.

2:1 Ah! you plotters of iniquity,
who work out evil on your beds!
In the morning light you carry it out for it lies within your power.
[2]You covet fields, and seize them;
houses, and take them;
You cheat owners of their houses,
people of their inheritance.

[3]Therefore thus says the LORD:
Look, I am planning against this family an evil
from which you cannot free your necks;
Nor shall you walk with head held high,
for it will be an evil time.

4 On that day you shall be mocked,
and there will be bitter lament:
"Our ruin is complete,
our fields are divided among our captors,
The fields of my people are measured out,
and no one can get them back!"
5 Thus you shall have no one in the assembly of the LORD to allot to you a share of land.

6 "Do not preach," they preach,
"no one should preach of these things!
Shame will not overtake us."
7 How can it be said, house of Jacob,
"Is the LORD short of patience;
are these the Lord's deeds?"
Do not my words promise good to the one who walks in justice?
8 But you rise up against my people as an enemy:
you have stripped off the garment from the peaceful,
From those who go their way in confidence,
as though it were spoils of war.
9 The women of my people you drive out
from their pleasant houses;
From their children you take away forever the honor I gave them.

10 "Get up! Leave,
this is no place to rest";
Because of uncleanness that destroys with terrible destruction.
11 If one possessed of a lying spirit speaks deceitfully, saying,
"I will preach to you wine and strong drink,"
that one would be the preacher for this people.

12 I will gather you, Jacob, each and every one,
I will assemble all the remnant of Israel;
I will group them like a flock in the fold,
like a herd in its pasture;
the noise of the people will resound.

13 The one who makes a breach goes up before them;
they make a breach and pass through the gate;
Their king shall go through before them,
the LORD at their head.

3:1 And I said:
Hear, you leaders of Jacob,
rulers of the house of Israel!
Is it not your duty to know what is right,

[2]you who hate what is good, and love evil?
You who tear their skin from them,
and their flesh from their bones;
[3]Who eat the flesh of my people,
flay their skin from them,
and break their bones;
Who chop them in pieces like flesh in a kettle,
like meat in a pot.
[4]When they cry to the LORD,
he will not answer them;
He will hide his face from them at that time,
because of the evil they have done.

[5]Thus says the LORD regarding the prophets:
O you who lead my people astray,
When your teeth have something to bite
you announce peace,
But proclaim war against the one who fails to put something in your mouth.
[6]Therefore you shall have night, not vision,
darkness, not divination;
The sun shall go down upon the prophets,
and the day shall be dark for them.
[7]Then the seers shall be put to shame,
and the diviners confounded;
They shall all cover their lips,
because there is no answer from God.
[8]But as for me, I am filled with power,
with the spirit of the LORD,
with justice and with might;
To declare to Jacob his crimes
and to Israel his sins.

[9]Hear this, you leaders of the house of Jacob,
you rulers of the house of Israel!
You who abhor justice,
and pervert all that is right;
[10]Who build up Zion with bloodshed,
and Jerusalem with wickedness!
[11]Its leaders render judgment for a bribe,
the priests teach for pay,
the prophets divine for money,
While they rely on the LORD, saying,
"Is not the LORD in the midst of us?
No evil can come upon us!"
[12]Therefore, because of you,
Zion shall be plowed like a field,
and Jerusalem reduced to rubble,
And the mount of the temple
to a forest ridge.

☐ REVELATION 11

The Two Witnesses. 11:1 Then I was given a measuring rod like a staff and I was told, "Come and measure the temple of God and the altar, and count those who are worshiping in it. [2]But exclude the outer court of the temple; do not measure it, for it has been handed over to the Gentiles, who will trample the holy city for forty-two months. [3]I will commission my two witnesses to prophesy for those twelve hundred and sixty days, wearing sackcloth." [4]These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord of the earth. [5]If anyone wants to harm them, fire comes out of their mouths and devours their enemies. In this way, anyone wanting to harm them is sure to be slain.
[6]They have the power to close up the sky so that no rain can fall during the time of their prophesying. They also have power to turn water into blood and to afflict the earth with any plague as often as they wish.

[7]When they have finished their testimony, the beast that comes up from the abyss will wage war against them and conquer them and kill them. [8]Their corpses will lie in the main street of the great city, which has the symbolic names
"Sodom" and "Egypt," where indeed their Lord was crucified. [9]Those from every people, tribe, tongue, and nation will gaze on their corpses for three and a half days, and they will not allow their corpses to be buried. [10]The inhabitants of the earth will gloat over them and be glad and exchange gifts because these two prophets tormented the inhabitants of the earth. [11]But after the three and a half days, a breath of life from God entered them. When they stood on their feet, great fear fell on those who saw them. [12]Then they heard a loud voice from heaven say to them, "Come up here." So they went up to heaven in a cloud as their enemies looked on. [13]At that moment there was a great earthquake, and a tenth of the city fell in ruins. Seven thousand people were killed during the earthquake; the rest were terrified and gave glory to the God of heaven.

[14]The second woe has passed, but the third is coming soon.

The Seventh Trumpet. [15]Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet. There were loud voices in heaven, saying, "The kingdom of the world now belongs to our Lord and to his Anointed, and he will reign forever and ever." [16]The twenty-four elders who sat on their thrones before God prostrated themselves and worshiped God [17]and said:

"We give thanks to you, Lord God almighty,
who are and who were.
For you have assumed your great power
and have established your reign.
[18]The nations raged,
but your wrath has come,
and the time for the dead to be judged,
and to recompense your servants, the prophets,
and the holy ones and those who fear your name,
the small and the great alike,
and to destroy those who destroy the earth."

[19]Then God's temple in heaven was opened, and the ark of his covenant could be seen in the temple. There were flashes of lightning, rumblings, and peals of thunder, an earthquake, and a violent hailstorm.

St. Peter Canisius

Let the world indulge its madness, for it cannot endure and passes like a shadow. It is growing old and is, I think, in its last decrepit stage. But we, buried deeply in the wounds of Christ, why should we be dismayed?

— St. Peter Canisius

☐ MICAH 4-7

4:1 In days to come
the mount of the LORD's house
Shall be established as the highest mountain;
it shall be raised above the hills,
And peoples shall stream to it:
[2]Many nations shall come, and say,
"Come, let us climb the LORD's mountain,
to the house of the God of Jacob,
That he may instruct us in his ways,
that we may walk in his paths."
For from Zion shall go forth instruction,
and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
[3]He shall judge between many peoples and set terms for strong and distant nations;
They shall beat their swords into plowshares,
and their spears into pruning hooks;
One nation shall not raise the sword against another,
nor shall they train for war again.
[4]They shall all sit under their own vines,
under their own fig trees, undisturbed;
for the LORD of hosts has spoken.
[5]Though all the peoples walk,
each in the name of its god,
We will walk in the name of the LORD,
our God, forever and ever.

[6]On that day—oracle of the LORD—
I will gather the lame,
And I will assemble the outcasts,
and those whom I have afflicted.
[7]I will make of the lame a remnant,
and of the weak a strong nation;
The LORD shall be king over them on Mount Zion,
from now on and forever.

[8]And you, O tower of the flock,
hill of daughter Zion!
To you it shall come:
the former dominion shall be restored,
the reign of daughter Jerusalem.

[9]Now why do you cry out so?
Are you without a king?
Or has your adviser perished,
That you are seized with pains
like a woman in labor?
[10]Writhe, go into labor,
O daughter Zion,
like a woman giving birth;

For now you shall leave the city
and camp in the fields;
To Babylon you shall go,
there you shall be rescued.
There the LORD shall redeem you from the hand of your enemies.

11 And now many nations are gathered against you!
They say, "Let her be profaned,
let our eyes see Zion's downfall!"
12 But they do not know the thoughts of the LORD,
nor understand his plan:
He has gathered them
like sheaves to the threshing floor.
13 Arise and thresh, O daughter Zion;
your horn I will make iron
And your hoofs I will make bronze,
that you may crush many peoples;
You shall devote their spoils to the LORD,
their riches to the Lord of the whole earth.

14 Now grieve, O grieving daughter!
"They have laid siege against us!"
With the rod they strike on the cheek
the ruler of Israel.

5:1 But you, Bethlehem-Ephrathah least among the clans of Judah,
From you shall come forth for me
one who is to be ruler in Israel;
Whose origin is from of old,
from ancient times.
2 Therefore the Lord will give them up, until the time
when she who is to give birth has borne,
Then the rest of his kindred shall return to the children of Israel.
3 He shall take his place as shepherd
by the strength of the LORD,
by the majestic name of the LORD, his God;
And they shall dwell securely, for now his greatness
shall reach to the ends of the earth:
4 he shall be peace.
If Assyria invades our country
and treads upon our land,
We shall raise against it seven shepherds,
eight of royal standing;
5 They shall tend the land of Assyria with the sword,
and the land of Nimrod with the drawn sword;
They will deliver us from Assyria,
when it invades our land,
when it treads upon our borders.

[6]The remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many peoples,
Like dew coming from the LORD,
like showers on the grass,
Which wait for no one,
delay for no human being.
[7]And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the nations,
in the midst of many peoples,
Like a lion among beasts of the forest,
like a young lion among flocks of sheep;
When it passes through it tramples;
it tears and no one can rescue.
[8]Your hand shall be lifted above your foes,
and all your enemies shall be cut down.

[9]On that day—oracle of the LORD—
I will destroy the horses from your midst
and ruin your chariots;
[10]I will destroy the cities of your land
and tear down all your fortresses.
[11]I will destroy the sorcery you practice,
and there shall no longer be soothsayers among you.
[12]I will destroy your carved figures
and the sacred stones from your midst;
And you shall no longer worship
the works of your hands.
[13]I will tear out the asherahs from your midst,
and destroy your cities.
[14]I will wreak vengeance in anger and wrath upon the nations that have not listened.

6:1 Hear, then, what the LORD says:
Arise, plead your case before the mountains,
and let the hills hear your voice!
[2]Hear, O mountains, the LORD's case,
pay attention, O foundations of the earth!
For the LORD has a case against his people;
he enters into trial with Israel.
[3]My people, what have I done to you?
how have I wearied you? Answer me!
[4]I brought you up from the land of Egypt,
from the place of slavery I ransomed you;
And I sent before you Moses,
Aaron, and Miriam.
[5]My people, remember what Moab's King Balak planned,
and how Balaam, the son of Beor, answered him.
Recall the passage from Shittim to Gilgal,
that you may know the just deeds of the LORD.
[6]With what shall I come before the LORD,
and bow before God most high?

Shall I come before him with burnt offerings,
with calves a year old?
7 Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams,
with myriad streams of oil?
Shall I give my firstborn for my crime,
the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?
8 You have been told, O mortal, what is good,
and what the LORD requires of you:
Only to do justice and to love goodness,
and to walk humbly with your God.
9 The LORD cries aloud to the city
(It is prudent to fear your name!):
Hear, O tribe and city assembly,
10 Am I to bear criminal hoarding
and the accursed short ephah?
11 Shall I acquit crooked scales,
bags of false weights?
12 You whose wealthy are full of violence,
whose inhabitants speak falsehood
with deceitful tongues in their mouths!
13 I have begun to strike you with devastation because of your sins.
14 You shall eat, without being satisfied,
food that will leave you empty;
What you acquire, you cannot save;
what you do save, I will deliver up to the sword.
15 You shall sow, yet not reap,
tread out the olive, yet pour no oil, crush the grapes, yet drink no wine.
16 You have kept the decrees of Omri,
and all the works of the house of Ahab,
and you have walked in their counsels;
Therefore I will deliver you up to ruin,
and your citizens to derision;
and you shall bear the reproach of the nations.

7:1 Woe is me! I am like the one who gathers summer fruit, when the vines have been gleaned;
There is no cluster to eat,
no early fig that I crave.
2 The faithful have vanished from the earth,
no mortal is just!
They all lie in wait to shed blood,
each one ensnares the other.
3 Their hands succeed at evil;
the prince makes demands,
The judge is bought for a price,
the powerful speak as they please.
4 The best of them is like a brier,
the most honest like a thorn hedge.

The day announced by your sentinels!
Your punishment has come;
now is the time of your confusion.
[5]Put no faith in a friend,
do not trust a companion;
With her who lies in your embrace
watch what you say.
[6]For the son belittles his father,
the daughter rises up against her mother,
The daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law,
and your enemies are members of your household.

[7]But as for me, I will look to the LORD,
I will wait for God my savior;
my God will hear me!
[8]Do not rejoice over me, my enemy!
though I have fallen, I will arise;
though I sit in darkness, the LORD is my light.
[9]I will endure the wrath of the LORD
because I have sinned against him, Until he pleads my case,
and establishes my right.
He will bring me forth to the light;
I will see his righteousness.
[10]When my enemy sees this,
shame shall cover her:
She who said to me,
"Where is the LORD, your God?"
My eyes shall see her downfall;
now she will be trampled underfoot,
like mud in the streets.
[11]It is the day for building your walls;
on that day your boundaries shall be enlarged.
[12]It is the day when those from Assyria to Egypt
shall come to you,
And from Tyre even to the River,
from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain; [13]And the earth shall be a waste
because of its inhabitants,
as a result of their deeds.

[14]Shepherd your people with your staff,
the flock of your heritage,
That lives apart in a woodland,
in the midst of an orchard.
Let them feed in Bashan and Gilead,
as in the days of old;
[15]As in the days when you came from the land of Egypt,
show us wonderful signs.
[16]The nations will see and will be put to shame,

in spite of all their strength;
They will put their hands over their mouths;
their ears will become deaf.
17 They will lick the dust like a snake,
like crawling things on the ground;
They will come quaking from their strongholds;
they will tremble in fear of you, the LORD, our God.
18 Who is a God like you, who removes guilt
and pardons sin for the remnant of his inheritance;
Who does not persist in anger forever,
but instead delights in mercy,
19 And will again have compassion on us,
treading underfoot our iniquities?
You will cast into the depths of the sea all our sins;
20 You will show faithfulness to Jacob,
and loyalty to Abraham,
As you have sworn to our ancestors
from days of old.

☐ REVELATION 12

The Woman and the Dragon. 12:1 A great sign appeared in the sky, a woman clothed with the sun, with the moon under her feet, and on her head a crown of twelve stars. 2 She was with child and wailed aloud in pain as she labored to give birth. 3 Then another sign appeared in the sky; it was a huge red dragon, with seven heads and ten horns, and on its heads were seven diadems. 4 Its tail swept away a third of the stars in the sky and hurled them down to the earth. Then the dragon stood before the woman about to give birth, to devour her child when she gave birth. 5 She gave birth to a son, a male child, destined to rule all the nations with an iron rod. Her child was caught up to God and his throne. 6 The woman herself fled into the desert where she had a place prepared by God, that there she might be taken care of for twelve hundred and sixty days.

7 Then war broke out in heaven; Michael and his angels battled against the dragon. The dragon and its angels fought back, 8 but they did not prevail and there was no longer any place for them in heaven. 9 The huge dragon, the ancient serpent, who is called the Devil and Satan, who deceived the whole world, was thrown down to earth, and its angels were thrown down with it. 10 Then I heard a loud voice in heaven say:

"Now have salvation and power come,
and the kingdom of our God
and the authority of his Anointed.
For the accuser of our brothers is cast out,
who accuses them before our God day and night.
11 They conquered him by the blood of the Lamb
and by the word of their testimony;
love for life did not deter them from death.
12 Therefore, rejoice, you heavens,
and you who dwell in them.
But woe to you, earth and sea,
for the Devil has come down to you in great fury,
for he knows he has but a short time."

[13]When the dragon saw that it had been thrown down to the earth, it pursued the woman who had given birth to the male child. [14]But the woman was given the two wings of the great eagle, so that she could fly to her place in the desert, where, far from the serpent, she was taken care of for a year, two years, and a half-year. [15]The serpent, however, spewed a torrent of water out of his mouth after the woman to sweep her away with the current. [16]But the earth helped the woman and opened its mouth and swallowed the flood that the dragon spewed out of its mouth. [17]Then the dragon became angry with the woman and went off to wage war against the rest of her offspring, those who keep God's commandments and bear witness to Jesus. [18]It took its position on the sand of the sea.

☐ NAHUM

1:1 Oracle concerning Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum of Elkosh.

God's Terrifying Appearance. [2]A jealous and avenging God is the LORD,
an avenger is the LORD, full of wrath;
The LORD takes vengeance on his adversaries,
and rages against his enemies;
[3]The LORD is slow to anger, yet great in power;
the LORD will not leave the guilty unpunished.
In stormwind and tempest he comes,
and clouds are the dust at his feet;
[4]He roars at the sea and leaves it dry,
and all the rivers he dries up.
Laid low are Bashan and Carmel,
and the bloom of Lebanon withers;
[5]The mountains quake before him,
and the hills dissolve;
The earth is laid waste before him,
the world and all who dwell in it.
[6]Before his wrath, who can stand firm,
and who can face his blazing anger?
His fury is poured out like fire,
and boulders break apart before him.
[7]The LORD is good to those who wait for him,
a refuge on the day of distress,
Taking care of those who look to him for protection,
[8]when the flood rages;
He makes an end of his opponents,
and pursues his enemies into darkness.

Nineveh's Judgment and Judah's Restoration. [9]What do you plot against the LORD,
the one about to bring total destruction?
No opponent rises a second time!
[10]Like a thorny thicket, they are tangled,

and like drunkards, they are drunk;
like dry stubble, they are utterly consumed.
[11]From you has come
one plotting evil against the LORD,
one giving sinister counsel.
[12]Thus says the LORD:
though fully intact and so numerous,
they shall be mown down and disappear.
Though I have humbled you,
I will humble you no more.
[13]Now I will break his yoke off of you,
and tear off your bonds.

[14]The LORD has commanded regarding you:
no descendant will again bear your name;
From the house of your gods I will abolish
the carved and the molten image;
I will make your grave a dung heap.

2:1 At this moment on the mountains
the footsteps of one bearing good news,
of one announcing peace!
Celebrate your feasts, Judah,
fulfill your vows!
For never again will destroyers invade you;
they are completely cut off.

The Attack on Nineveh. [2]One who scatters has come up against you;
guard the rampart,
Watch the road, brace yourselves,
marshal all your strength!
[3]The LORD will restore the vine of Jacob,
the honor of Israel,
Because ravagers have ravaged them
and ruined their branches.
[4]The shields of his warriors are crimsoned,
the soldiers clad in scarlet;
Like fire are the trappings of the chariots
on the day he prepares for war;
the cavalry is agitated!
[5]The chariots dash madly through the streets
and wheel in the squares, Looking like torches,
bolting like lightning.
[6]His picked troops are called,
ranks break at their charge;
To the wall they rush,
their screen is set up.
[7]The river gates are opened,
the palace is washed away.
[8]The mistress is led forth captive,

and her maidservants led away,
Moaning like doves,
beating their breasts.
9 Nineveh is like a pool
whose waters escape;
"Stop! Stop!"
but none turns back.
10 "Plunder the silver, plunder the gold!"
There is no end to the treasure,
to wealth in every precious thing!

11 Emptiness, desolation, waste;
melting hearts and trembling knees,
Churning in every stomach,
every face turning pale!
12 Where is the lionesses' den,
the young lions' cave,
Where the lion went in and out,
and the cub, with no one to disturb them?
13 The lion tore apart enough for his cubs,
and strangled for his lionesses;
He filled his lairs with prey,
and his dens with torn flesh.
14 I now come against you—
oracle of the LORD of hosts—
I will consume your chariots in smoke,
and the sword will devour your young lions;
Your preying on the land I will bring to an end,
the cry of your lionesses will be heard no more.

3:1 Ah! The bloody city,
all lies,
Full of plunder,
whose looting never stops!
2 The crack of the whip,
the rumbling of wheels;
Horses galloping,
chariots bounding,
3 Cavalry charging,
the flash of the sword,
the gleam of the spear;
A multitude of slain,
a mass of corpses,
Endless bodies
to stumble upon!
4 For the many debaucheries of the prostitute,
a charming mistress of witchcraft,
Who enslaved nations with her prostitution,
and peoples by her witchcraft:
5 I now come against you—

oracle of the LORD of hosts—
and I will lift your skirt above your face;
I will show your nakedness to the nations,
to the kingdoms your shame!
[6]I will cast filth upon you,
disgrace you and make you a spectacle;
[7]Until everyone who sees you runs from you saying,
"Nineveh is destroyed;
who can pity her?
Where can I find
any to console you?"

Nineveh's Inescapable Fate. [8]Are you better than No-amon that was set among the Nile's canals, Surrounded by waters,
with the river for her rampart
and water for her wall?
[9]Ethiopia was her strength,
and Egypt without end;
Put and the Libyans
were her allies.
[10]Yet even she became an exile,
and went into captivity;
Even her little ones were dashed to pieces
at the corner of every street;
For her nobles they cast lots,
and all her great ones were put into chains.
[11]You, too, will drink of this;
you will be overcome;
You, too, will seek
a refuge from the foe.
[12]But all your fortresses are fig trees,
bearing early figs;
When shaken, they fall
into the devourer's mouth.
[13]Indeed your troops
are women in your midst;
To your foes are open wide
the gates of your land,
fire has consumed their bars.

[14]Draw water for the siege,
strengthen your fortresses;
Go down into the mud
and tread the clay,
take hold of the brick mold!
[15]There the fire will consume you,
the sword will cut you down;
it will consume you like the grasshoppers.

Multiply like the grasshoppers,
multiply like the locusts!
[16]You have made your traders more numerous than the stars of the heavens;
like grasshoppers that shed their skins and fly away.
[17]Your sentries are like locusts,
and your scribes like locust swarms Gathered on the rubble fences
on a cold day!
Yet when the sun rises, they vanish,
and no one knows where they have gone.

[18]Your shepherds slumber,
O king of Assyria,
your nobles have gone to rest;
Your people are scattered upon the mountains,
with none to gather them.
[19]There is no healing for your hurt,
your wound is fatal.
All who hear this news of you
clap their hands over you;
For who has not suffered under your endless malice?

☐ REVELATION 13

The First Beast. 13:1 Then I saw a beast come out of the sea with ten horns and seven heads; on its horns were ten diadems, and on its heads blasphemous name[s]. [2]The beast I saw was like a leopard, but it had feet like a bear's, and its mouth was like the mouth of a lion. To it the dragon gave its own power and throne, along with great authority. [3]I saw that one of its heads seemed to have been mortally wounded, but this mortal wound was healed. Fascinated, the whole world followed after the beast. [4]They worshiped the dragon because it gave its authority to the beast; they also worshiped the beast and said, "Who can compare with the beast or who can fight against it?"

[5]The beast was given a mouth uttering proud boasts and blasphemies, and it was given authority to act for forty-two months. [6]It opened its mouth to utter blasphemies against God, blaspheming his name and his dwelling and those who dwell in heaven. [7]It was also allowed to wage war against the holy ones and conquer them, and it was granted authority over every tribe, people, tongue, and nation. [8]All the inhabitants of the earth will worship it, all whose names were not written from the foundation of the world in the book of life, which belongs to the Lamb who was slain.

[9]Whoever has ears ought to hear these words.
[10]Anyone destined for captivity goes into captivity.
Anyone destined to be slain by the sword shall be slain by the sword.

Such is the faithful endurance of the holy ones.

The Second Beast. [11]Then I saw another beast come up out of the earth; it had two horns like a lamb's but spoke like a dragon. [12]It wielded all the authority of the first beast in its sight and made the earth and its inhabitants worship the first beast, whose mortal wound had been healed. [13]It performed great signs, even making fire come down from heaven to earth in the sight of everyone. [14]It deceived the inhabitants of the earth with the signs it was allowed to perform in the sight of the first beast, telling them to make an image for the beast who had been wounded by the sword and revived.

[15]It was then permitted to breathe life into the beast's image, so that the beast's image could speak and [could] have anyone who did not worship it put to death. [16]It forced all the people, small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to be given a stamped image on their right hands or their foreheads, [17]so that no one could buy or sell except one who had the stamped image of the beast's name or the number that stood for its name.

[18]Wisdom is needed here; one who understands can calculate the number of the beast, for it is a number that stands for a person. His number is six hundred and sixty-six.

St. John of Kanty

All the wealth of the world cannot be compared with the happiness of living together happily united.
— St. Marguerite d'Youville

☐ HABAKKUK

1:1 The oracle which Habakkuk the prophet received in a vision.

Habakkuk's First Complaint. [2]How long, O LORD, must I cry for help and you do not listen?
Or cry out to you, "Violence!"
and you do not intervene?
[3]Why do you let me see iniquity?
why do you simply gaze at evil?
Destruction and violence are before me;
there is strife and discord.
[4]This is why the law is numb
and justice never comes,
For the wicked surround the just;
this is why justice comes forth perverted.

God's Response. [5]Look over the nations and see!
Be utterly amazed!
For a work is being done in your days
that you would not believe, were it told.
[6]For now I am raising up the Chaldeans,
that bitter and impulsive people,
Who march the breadth of the land
to take dwellings not their own.
[7]They are terrifying and dreadful;
their right and their exalted position are of their own making.
[8]Swifter than leopards are their horses,
and faster than desert wolves.
Their horses spring forward;
they come from far away;
they fly like an eagle hastening to devour.
[9]All of them come for violence,
their combined onslaught, a stormwind
to gather up captives like sand.

[10]They scoff at kings,
ridicule princes;
They laugh at any fortress,
heap up an earthen ramp, and conquer it.
[11]Then they sweep through like the wind and vanish—
they make their own strength their god!

Habakkuk's Second Complaint. [12]Are you not from of old, O LORD,
my holy God, immortal?
LORD, you have appointed them for judgment,
O Rock, you have set them in place to punish!
[13]Your eyes are too pure to look upon wickedness,
and the sight of evil you cannot endure.
Why, then, do you gaze on the faithless in silence
while the wicked devour those more just than themselves?
[14]You have made mortals like the fish in the sea,
like creeping things without a leader.
[15]He brings them all up with a hook,
and hauls them away with his net;
He gathers them in his fishing net,
and then rejoices and exults.
[16]Therefore he makes sacrifices to his net,
and burns incense to his fishing net;
For thanks to them his portion is rich,
and his meal lavish.
[17]Shall they, then, keep on drawing his sword
to slaughter nations without mercy?

2:1 I will stand at my guard post,
and station myself upon the rampart;
I will keep watch to see what he will say to me,
and what answer he will give to my complaint.

God's Response. [2]Then the LORD answered me and said:
Write down the vision;
Make it plain upon tablets,
so that the one who reads it may run.
[3]For the vision is a witness for the appointed time,
a testimony to the end; it will not disappoint.
If it delays, wait for it,
it will surely come, it will not be late.
[4]See, the rash have no integrity;
but the just one who is righteous because of faith shall live.

Sayings Against Tyrants. [5]Indeed wealth is treacherous;
a proud man does not succeed.
He who opens wide his throat like Sheol,
and is insatiable as death,
Who gathers to himself all the nations,
and collects for himself all the peoples—[6]Shall not all these take up a taunt against him,

and make a riddle about him, saying:

Ah! you who store up what is not yours
—how long can it last!—
you who load yourself down with collateral.
7 Will your debtors not rise suddenly?
Will they not awake, those who make you tremble?
You will become their spoil!
8 Because you plundered many nations,
the remaining peoples shall plunder you;
Because of the shedding of human blood,
and violence done to the land,
to the city and to all who live in it.

9 Ah! you who pursue evil gain for your household, setting your nest on high
to escape the reach of misfortune!
10 You have devised shame for your household,
cutting off many peoples, forfeiting your own life;
11 For the stone in the wall shall cry out,
and the beam in the frame shall answer it!

12 Ah! you who build a city by bloodshed,
and who establish a town with injustice!
13 Is this not from the LORD of hosts:
peoples toil for what the flames consume,
and nations grow weary for nothing!
14 But the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the LORD's glory,
just as the water covers the sea.

15 Ah! you who give your neighbors
the cup of your wrath to drink, and make them drunk,
until their nakedness is seen!
16 You are filled with shame instead of glory;
drink, you too, and stagger!
The cup from the LORD's right hand shall come around to you,
and utter shame shall cover your glory.
17 For the violence done to Lebanon shall cover you,
and the destruction of the animals shall terrify you;
Because of the shedding of human blood,
and violence done to the land,
to the city and to all who live in it.

18 Of what use is the carved image,
that its maker should carve it?
Or the molten image, the lying oracle,
that its very maker should trust in it,
and make mute idols?
19 Ah! you who say to wood, "Awake!"
to silent stone, "Arise!"

Can any such thing give oracles?
It is only overlaid with gold and silver,
there is no breath in it at all.
[20]But the LORD is in his holy temple;
silence before him, all the earth!

Hymn About God's Reign. 3:1 Prayer of Habakkuk, the prophet. According to Shigyonot.

[2]O LORD, I have heard your renown,
and am in awe, O LORD, of your work.
In the course of years revive it,
in the course of years make yourself known;
in your wrath remember compassion!

[3]God came from Teman,
the Holy One from Mount Paran.

His glory covered the heavens,
and his praise filled the earth;
[4]his splendor spread like the light.
He raised his horns high,
he rejoiced on the day of his strength.
[5]Before him went pestilence,
and plague followed in his steps.
[6]He stood and shook the earth;
he looked and made the nations tremble.
Ancient mountains were shattered,
the age-old hills bowed low,
age-old orbits collapsed.

[7]The tents of Cushan trembled,
the pavilions of the land of Midian.
[8]Was your anger against the rivers, O LORD?
your wrath against the rivers,
your rage against the sea,
That you mounted your steeds,
your victorious chariot?
[9]You readied your bow,
you filled your bowstring with arrows.

You split the earth with rivers;
[10]at the sight of you the mountains writhed.
The clouds poured down water;
the deep roared loudly.
The sun forgot to rise,
[11]the moon left its lofty station,
At the light of your flying arrows,
at the gleam of your flashing spear.

[12]In wrath you marched on the earth,
in fury you trampled the nations.

[13]You came forth to save your people,
to save your anointed one.
You crushed the back of the wicked,
you laid him bare, bottom to neck.

[14]You pierced his head with your shafts;
his princes you scattered with your stormwind,
as food for the poor in unknown places.
[15]You trampled the sea with your horses
amid the churning of the deep waters.

[16]I hear, and my body trembles;
at the sound, my lips quiver.
Decay invades my bones,
my legs tremble beneath me.
I await the day of distress
that will come upon the people who attack us.

[17]For though the fig tree does not blossom,
and no fruit appears on the vine,
Though the yield of the olive fails
and the terraces produce no nourishment, Though the flocks disappear from the fold
and there is no herd in the stalls, [18]Yet I will rejoice in the LORD and exult in my saving God.
[19]GOD, my Lord, is my strength;
he makes my feet swift as those of deer
and enables me to tread upon the heights.

For the leader; with stringed instruments.

☐ REVELATION 14

The Lamb's Companions. 14:1 Then I looked and there was the Lamb standing on Mount Zion, and with him a hundred and forty-four thousand who had his name and his Father's name written on their foreheads. [2]I heard a sound from heaven like the sound of rushing water or a loud peal of thunder. The sound I heard was like that of harpists playing their harps. [3]They were singing [what seemed to be] a new hymn before the throne, before the four living creatures and the elders. No one could learn this hymn except the hundred and forty-four thousand who had been ransomed from the earth. [4]These are they who were not defiled with women; they are virgins and these are the ones who follow the Lamb wherever he goes. They have been ransomed as the firstfruits of the human race for God and the Lamb. [5]On their lips no deceit has been found; they are unblemished.

The Three Angels. [6]Then I saw another angel flying high overhead, with everlasting good news to announce to those who dwell on earth, to every nation, tribe, tongue, and people. [7]He said in a loud voice, "Fear God and give him glory, for his time has come to sit in judgment. Worship him who made heaven and earth and sea and springs of water." [8]A second angel followed, saying:

"Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great,
that made all the nations drink
the wine of her licentious passion."

[9]A third angel followed them and said in a loud voice, "Anyone who worships the beast or its image, or accepts its mark on forehead or hand, [10]will also drink the wine of God's fury, poured full strength into the cup of his wrath, and will be tormented in burning sulfur before the holy angels and before the Lamb. [11]The smoke of the fire that torments them will rise forever and ever, and there will be no relief day or night for those who worship the beast or its image or accept the mark of its name." [12]Here is what sustains the holy ones who keep God's commandments and their faith in Jesus.

[13]I heard a voice from heaven say, "Write this: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on." "Yes," said the Spirit, "let them find rest from their labors, for their works accompany them."

The Harvest of the Earth. [14]Then I looked and there was a white cloud, and sitting on the cloud one who looked like a son of man, with a gold crown on his head and a sharp sickle in his hand. [15]Another angel came out of the temple, crying out in a loud voice to the one sitting on the cloud, "Use your sickle and reap the harvest, for the time to reap has come, because the earth's harvest is fully ripe." [16]So the one who was sitting on the cloud swung his sickle over the earth, and the earth was harvested.

[17]Then another angel came out of the temple in heaven who also had a sharp sickle. [18]Then another angel [came] from the altar, [who] was in charge of the fire, and cried out in a loud voice to the one who had the sharp sickle, "Use your sharp sickle and cut the clusters from the earth's vines, for its grapes are ripe." [19]So the angel swung his sickle over the earth and cut the earth's vintage. He threw it into the great wine press of God's fury. [20]The wine press was trodden outside the city and blood poured out of the wine press to the height of a horse's bridle for two hundred miles.

Christmas Eve

> In this night of reconciliation, let none be angry or gloomy. In this night that stills everything, let nothing threaten or disturb. This night belongs to the sweet One; let nothing bitter or harsh be in it. In this night that belongs to the meek One, let there be nothing high or haughty. In this day of pardoning, let us not exact punishments for trespasses.

☐ ZEPHANIAH

1:1 The word of the LORD which came to Zephaniah, the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hezekiah, in the days of Josiah, the son of Amon, king of Judah.

The Day of the Lord: Judgment on Judah. [2]I will completely sweep away all things
from the face of the land—oracle of the LORD.
[3]I will sweep away human being and beast alike,
I will sweep away the birds of the sky,
and the fish of the sea.
I will make the wicked stumble;
I will eliminate the people
from the face of the land—oracle of the LORD.
[4]I will stretch out my hand against Judah,
and against all the inhabitants of Jerusalem;
I will eliminate from this place
the last vestige of Baal,
the name of the idolatrous priests.
[5]And those who bow down on the roofs
to the host of heaven,
And those who bow down to the LORD

but swear by Milcom;
[6]And those who have turned away from the LORD,
and those who have not sought the LORD,
who have not inquired of him.

[7]Silence in the presence of the Lord GOD!
for near is the day of the LORD,
Yes, the LORD has prepared a sacrifice,
he has consecrated his guests.
[8]On the day of the LORD's sacrifice
I will punish the officials and the king's sons,
and all who dress in foreign apparel.
[9]I will punish, on that day,
all who leap over the threshold,
Who fill the house of their master
with violence and deceit.
[10]On that day—oracle of the LORD—
A cry will be heard from the Fish Gate,
a wail from the Second Quarter,
loud crashing from the hills.
[11]Wail, O inhabitants of Maktesh!
for all the merchants are destroyed,
all who weigh out silver, done away with.

[12]At that time,
I will search Jerusalem with lamps,
I will punish the people
who settle like dregs in wine,
Who say in their hearts,
"The Lord will not do good,
nor will he do harm."
[13]Their wealth shall be given to plunder
and their houses to devastation;
They will build houses,
but not dwell in them;
They will plant vineyards,
but not drink their wine.
[14]Near is the great day of the LORD,
near and very swiftly coming.
The sound of the day of the LORD! Piercing—there a warrior shrieks!
[15]A day of wrath is that day,
a day of distress and anguish,
a day of ruin and desolation,
A day of darkness and gloom,
a day of thick black clouds, [16]A day of trumpet blasts and battle cries
against fortified cities,
against lofty battlements.
[17]I will hem the people in till they walk like the blind,

because they have sinned against the LORD;
And their blood shall be poured out like dust,
and their bowels like dung.
[18]Neither their silver nor their gold will be able to save them.
On the day of the LORD's wrath,
in the fire of his passion,
all the earth will be consumed.
For he will make an end, yes, a sudden end,
of all who live on the earth.

2:1 Gather, gather yourselves together,
O nation without shame!
[2]Before you are driven away,
like chaff that disappears;
Before there comes upon you
the blazing anger of the LORD;
Before there comes upon you
the day of the LORD's anger.
[3]Seek the LORD,
all you humble of the land,
who have observed his law;
Seek justice,
seek humility;
Perhaps you will be sheltered
on the day of the LORD's anger.

Judgment on the Nations. [4]For Gaza shall be forsaken,
and Ashkelon shall be a waste,
Ashdod they shall drive out at midday,
and Ekron shall be uprooted.
[5]Ah! You who dwell by the seacoast,
the nation of Cherethites,
the word of the LORD is against you!
O Canaan, land of the Philistines,
I will leave you to perish without an inhabitant!
[6]You shall become fields for shepherds,
and folds for flocks.
[7]The seacoast shall belong to the remnant of the house of Judah;
by the sea they shall pasture.
In the houses of Ashkelon
they shall lie down in the evening.
For the LORD their God will take care of them,
and bring about their restoration.

[8]I have heard the taunts uttered by Moab,
and the insults of the Ammonites,
When they taunted my people
and made boasts against their territory.

[9]Therefore, as I live—
oracle of the LORD of hosts—
the God of Israel,
Moab shall become like Sodom,
the Ammonites like Gomorrah:
A field of weeds,
a salt pit,
a waste forever.
The remnant of my people shall plunder them,
the survivors of my nation dispossess them.
[10]This will be the recompense for their pride, because they taunted and boasted against
the people of the LORD of hosts.
[11]The LORD shall inspire them with terror
when he makes all the gods of earth waste away;
Then the distant shores of the nations,
each from its own place,
shall bow down to him.

[12]You too, O Cushites,
shall be slain by the sword of the LORD.
[13]He will stretch out his hand against the north,
to destroy Assyria;
He will make Nineveh a waste,
dry as the desert.
[14]In her midst flocks shall lie down,
all the wild life of the hollows;
The screech owl and the desert owl
shall roost in her columns;
The owl shall hoot from the window,
the raven croak from the doorway.
[15]Is this the exultant city
that dwelt secure,
That told itself,
"I and there is no one else"?
How it has become a waste,
a lair for wild animals!
Those who pass by it
hiss, and shake their fists!

Jerusalem Reproached. 3:1 Ah! Rebellious and polluted, the tyrannical city!
[2]It listens to no voice,
accepts no correction;
In the LORD it has not trusted,
nor drawn near to its God.
[3]Its officials within it
are roaring lions;
Its judges are desert wolves
that have no bones to gnaw by morning.

[4]Its prophets are reckless,
treacherous people;
Its priests profane what is holy,
and do violence to the law.
[5]But the LORD in its midst is just,
doing no wrong;
Morning after morning rendering judgment
unfailingly, at dawn;
the wicked, however, know no shame.

[6]I have cut down nations,
their battlements are laid waste;
I have made their streets deserted,
with no one passing through;
Their cities are devastated,
with no one dwelling in them.
[7]I said, "Surely now you will fear me,
you will accept correction;
They cannot fail to see all I have brought upon them."
Yet the more eagerly they have done
all their corrupt deeds.

The Nations Punished and Jerusalem Restored. [8]Therefore, wait for me—oracle of the LORD—
until the day when I arise as accuser;
For it is my decision to gather nations,
to assemble kingdoms,
In order to pour out upon them my wrath,
all my blazing anger;
For in the fire of my passion
all the earth will be consumed.

[9]For then I will make pure
the speech of the peoples,
That they all may call upon the name of the LORD,
to serve him with one accord;
[10]From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia
and as far as the recesses of the North,
they shall bring me offerings.

[11]On that day
You will not be ashamed
of all your deeds,
when you rebelled against me;
For then I will remove from your midst
the proud braggarts,
And you shall no longer exalt yourself
on my holy mountain.
[12]But I will leave as a remnant in your midst
a people humble and lowly,
Who shall take refuge in the name of the LORD—

[13]the remnant of Israel.
They shall do no wrong
and speak no lies;
Nor shall there be found in their mouths
a deceitful tongue;
They shall pasture and lie down
with none to disturb them.
[14]Shout for joy, daughter Zion!
sing joyfully, Israel!
Be glad and exult with all your heart,
daughter Jerusalem!
[15]The LORD has removed the judgment against you,
he has turned away your enemies;
The King of Israel, the LORD, is in your midst,
you have no further misfortune to fear.
[16]On that day, it shall be said to Jerusalem:
Do not fear, Zion,
do not be discouraged!
[17]The LORD, your God, is in your midst,
a mighty savior,
Who will rejoice over you with gladness,
and renew you in his love,
Who will sing joyfully because of you,
[18]as on festival days.

I will remove disaster from among you,
so that no one may recount your disgrace.
[19]At that time I will deal with all who oppress you;
I will save the lame,
and assemble the outcasts;
I will give them praise and renown
in every land where they were shamed.
[20]At that time I will bring you home,
and at that time I will gather you;
For I will give you renown and praise,
among all the peoples of the earth,
When I bring about your restoration
before your very eyes, says the LORD.

☐ REVELATION 15

The Seven Last Plagues. 15:1 Then I saw in heaven another sign, great and awe-inspiring: seven angels with the seven last plagues, for through them God's fury is accomplished.

[2]Then I saw something like a sea of glass mingled with fire. On the sea of glass were standing those who had won the victory over the beast and its image and the number that signified its name. They were holding God's harps, [3]and they sang the song of Moses, the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb:

"Great and wonderful are your works,
Lord God almighty.

Just and true are your ways,
O king of the nations.
[4]Who will not fear you, Lord,
or glorify your name?
For you alone are holy.
All the nations will come
and worship before you,
for your righteous acts have been revealed."

[5]After this I had another vision. The temple that is the heavenly tent of testimony opened, [6]and the seven angels with the seven plagues came out of the temple. They were dressed in clean white linen, with a gold sash around their chests. [7]One of the four living creatures gave the seven angels seven gold bowls filled with the fury of God, who lives forever and ever. [8]Then the temple became so filled with the smoke from God's glory and might that no one could enter it until the seven plagues of the seven angels had been accomplished.

☐ HAGGAI

Prophetic Call to Work on the Temple. 1:1 On the first day of the sixth month in the second year of Darius the king, the word of the LORD came through Haggai the prophet to the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and to the high priest Joshua, son of Jehozadak: [2]Thus says the LORD of hosts: This people has said: "Now is not the time to rebuild the house of the LORD."

[3]Then the word of the LORD came through Haggai the prophet: [4]Is it time for you to dwell in your paneled houses while this house lies in ruins?

[5]Now thus says the LORD of hosts:
Reflect on your experience!
[6]You have sown much, but have brought in little;
you have eaten, but have not been satisfied;
You have drunk, but have not become intoxicated;
you have clothed yourselves, but have not been warmed;
And the hired worker labors for a bag full of holes.

[7]Thus says the LORD of hosts:

Reflect on your experience!
[8]Go up into the hill country;
bring timber, and build the house
that I may be pleased with it,
and that I may be glorified, says the LORD.
[9]You expected much, but it came to little;
and what you brought home, I blew away.

Why is this?—oracle of the LORD of hosts—
Because my house is the one which lies in ruins,
while each of you runs to your own house.
10 Therefore, the heavens withheld the dew,
and the earth its yield.
11 And I have proclaimed a devastating heat
upon the land and upon the mountains,
Upon the grain, the new wine, and the olive oil,
upon all that the ground brings forth;
Upon human being and beast alike,
and upon all they produce.

Response of Leaders and People. 12 Then Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and the high priest Joshua, son of Jehozadak, and all the remnant of the people obeyed the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, since the LORD their God had sent him; thus the people feared the LORD. 13 Then Haggai, the messenger of the LORD, proclaimed to the people as the message of the LORD: I am with you!—oracle of the LORD.

14 And so the LORD stirred up the spirit of the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and the spirit of the high priest Joshua, son of Jehozadak, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people, so that they came to do the work in the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, 15 on the twenty-fourth day of the sixth month in the second year of Darius the king.

Assurance of God's Presence. 2:1 On the twenty-first day of the seventh month, the word of the LORD came through Haggai the prophet: 2 Speak to the governor of Judah, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, and to the high priest Joshua, son of Jehozadak, and to the remnant of the people:

3 Who is left among you who saw this house in its former glory?
And how do you see it now?
Does it not seem like nothing in your eyes?
4 Now be strong, Zerubbabel—oracle of the LORD—
be strong, Joshua, son of Jehozadak, high priest, Be strong, all you people of the land—oracle of the LORD—and work! For I am with you—oracle of the LORD of hosts.
5 This is the commitment I made to you when you came out of Egypt.
My spirit remains in your midst;
do not fear!

6 For thus says the LORD of hosts:

In just a little while,
I will shake the heavens and the earth,
the sea and the dry land.
7 I will shake all the nations,
so that the treasures of all the nations will come in.
And I will fill this house with glory—
says the LORD of hosts.

8 Mine is the silver and mine the gold—oracle of the LORD of hosts.

9 Greater will be the glory of this house

the latter more than the former—says the LORD of hosts;
And in this place I will give you peace—
oracle of the LORD of hosts.

Priestly Ruling with Prophetic Interpretation. [10]On the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month in the second year of Darius, the word of the LORD came to Haggai the prophet: [11]Thus says the LORD of hosts: Ask the priests for a ruling: [12]If someone carries sanctified meat in the fold of a garment and the fold touches bread, soup, wine, oil, or any other food, do they become sanctified? "No," the priests answered. [13]Then Haggai asked: "If a person defiled from contact with a corpse touches any of these, do they become defiled?" The priests answered, "They become defiled." [14]Then Haggai replied:

So is this people, and so is this nation
in my sight—oracle of the LORD—
And so is all the work of their hands;
what they offer there is defiled.

[15]Now reflect, from this day forward—before you set stone to stone in the temple of the LORD, [16]what was your experience?

When one went to a heap of grain for twenty ephahs,
there were only ten;
When one went to a vat to draw fifty ephahs,
there were only twenty.
[17]I struck you, and all the work of your hands,
with searing wind, blight, and hail,
yet you did not return to me—oracle of the LORD.

[18]Reflect from this day forward, from the twenty-fourth day of the ninth month. From the day on which the temple of the LORD was founded, reflect!

[19]Is there still seed in the storehouse?
Have the vine, the fig, the pomegranate,
and the olive tree still not borne fruit?
From this day, I will bless you.

Future Hope. [20]The word of the LORD came a second time to Haggai on the twenty-fourth day of the month: [21]Speak to Zerubbabel, the governor of Judah:

I will shake the heavens and the earth;
[22]I will overthrow the thrones of kingdoms,
and destroy the power of the kingdoms of the nations.
I will overthrow the chariots and their riders,
and the riders with their horses
will fall by each other's swords.

[23]On that day—oracle of the LORD of hosts—I will take you, my servant, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel—oracle of the LORD—and I will make you like a signet ring, for I have chosen you—oracle of the LORD of hosts.

☐ REVELATION 16

The Seven Bowls. 16:1 I heard a loud voice speaking from the temple to the seven angels, "Go and pour out the seven bowls of God's fury upon the earth."

[2]The first angel went and poured out his bowl on the earth. Festering and ugly sores broke out on those who had the mark of the beast or worshiped its image.

[3]The second angel poured out his bowl on the sea. The sea turned to blood like that from a corpse; every creature living in the sea died.

[4]The third angel poured out his bowl on the rivers and springs of water. These also turned to blood. [5]Then I heard the angel in charge of the waters say:

"You are just, O Holy One,
who are and who were,
in passing this sentence.
[6]For they have shed the blood of the holy ones and the prophets,
and you [have] given them blood to drink;
it is what they deserve."

[7]Then I heard the altar cry out,

"Yes, Lord God almighty,
your judgments are true and just."

[8]The fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun. It was given the power to burn people with fire. [9]People were burned by the scorching heat and blasphemed the name of God who had power over these plagues, but they did not repent or give him glory.

[10]The fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast. Its kingdom was plunged into darkness, and people bit their tongues in pain [11]and blasphemed the God of heaven because of their pains and sores. But they did not repent of their works.

[12]The sixth angel emptied his bowl on the great river Euphrates. Its water was dried up to prepare the way for the kings of the East. [13]I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come from the mouth of the dragon, from the mouth of the beast, and from the mouth of the false prophet. [14]These were demonic spirits who performed signs. They went out to the kings of the whole world to assemble them for the battle on the great day of God the almighty. [15]("Behold, I am coming like a thief." Blessed is the one who watches and keeps his clothes ready, so that he may not go naked and people see him exposed.) [16]They then assembled the kings in the place that is named Armageddon in Hebrew.

[17]The seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air. A loud voice came out of the temple from the throne, saying, "It is done." [18]Then there were lightning flashes, rumblings, and peals of thunder, and a great earthquake. It was such a violent earthquake that there has never been one like it since the human race began on earth. [19]The great city was split into three parts, and the gentile cities fell. But God remembered great Babylon, giving it the cup filled with the wine of his fury and wrath. [20]Every island fled, and mountains disappeared. [21]Large hailstones like huge weights came down from the sky on people, and they blasphemed God for the plague of hail because this plague was so severe.

☐ ZECHARIAH 1-3

Call for Obedience. 1:1 In the second year of Darius, in the eighth month, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo: [2]The LORD was very angry with your ancestors. [3]Say to them: Thus says the LORD of hosts, Return to me—oracle of the LORD of hosts—and I will return to you, says the LORD of hosts. [4]Do not be like your ancestors to whom the earlier prophets proclaimed: Thus says the LORD of hosts: Turn from your evil ways and from your wicked deeds. But they did not listen or pay attention to me—oracle of the LORD.—[5]Your ancestors, where are they? And the prophets, can they live forever? [6]But my words and my statutes, with which I charged my servants the prophets, did these not overtake your ancestors? Then they repented and admitted: "Just as the LORD of hosts intended to treat us according to our ways and deeds, so the LORD has done."

First Vision: Horses Patrolling the Earth. [7]In the second year of Darius, on the twenty-fourth day of Shebat, the eleventh month, the word of the LORD came to the prophet Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo:

[8]I looked out in the night, and there was a man mounted on a red horse standing in the shadows among myrtle trees;
and behind him were red, sorrel, and white horses. [9]I asked, "What are these, my lord?" Then the angel who spoke with me answered, "I will show you what these are." [10]Then the man who was standing among the myrtle trees spoke up and said, "These are the ones whom the LORD has sent to patrol the earth." [11]And they answered the angel of the LORD, who was standing among the myrtle trees: "We have been patrolling the earth, and now the whole earth rests quietly." [12]Then the angel of the LORD replied, "LORD of hosts, how long will you be without mercy for Jerusalem and the cities of Judah that have felt your anger these seventy years?" [13]To the angel who spoke with me, the LORD replied favorably, with comforting words.

Oracular Response. [14]The angel who spoke with me then said to me, Proclaim: Thus says the LORD of hosts:

I am jealous for Jerusalem
  and for Zion intensely jealous.
[15]I am consumed with anger toward the complacent nations;
When I was only a little angry,
  they compounded the disaster.
[16]Therefore, thus says the LORD:
I return to Jerusalem in mercy;
  my house will be rebuilt there—oracle of the LORD of hosts—
  and a measuring line will be stretched over Jerusalem.
[17]Proclaim further: Thus says the LORD of hosts:
My cities will again overflow with prosperity;
  the LORD will again comfort Zion,
  and will again choose Jerusalem.

Second Vision: The Four Horns and the Four Smiths. 2:1 I raised my eyes and looked and there were four horns.
[2]Then I asked the angel who spoke with me, "What are those?" He answered, "Those are the horns that scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem."

[3]Then the LORD showed me four workmen. [4]And I said, "What are these coming to do?" And the LORD said,
"Those are the horns that scattered Judah, so that none could raise their heads any more; and these have come to terrify them—to cut down the horns of the nations that raised their horns to scatter the land of Judah."

Third Vision: The Man with the Measuring Cord. [5]I raised my eyes and looked, and there was a man with a measuring cord in his hand. [6]I asked, "Where are you going?" And he said, "To measure Jerusalem—to see how great its width is and how great its length."

[7]Then the angel who spoke with me advanced as another angel came out to meet him [8]and he said to the latter,
"Run, speak to that official: Jerusalem will be unwalled, because of the abundance of people and beasts in its midst. [9]I will be an encircling wall of fire for it—oracle of the LORD—and I will be the glory in its midst."

Expansion on the Themes of the First Three Visions. [10]Up! Up! Flee from the land of the north—oracle of the LORD;—For like the four winds of heaven I have dispersed you—oracle of the LORD. [11]Up, Zion! Escape, you who dwell in daughter Babylon! [12]For thus says the LORD of hosts after the LORD's glory had sent me, concerning the nations that have plundered you: Whoever strikes you strikes me directly in the eye. [13]Now I wave my hand over them, and they become plunder for their own servants. Thus you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me. [14]Sing and rejoice, daughter Zion! Now, I am coming to dwell in your midst—oracle of the LORD. [15]Many nations will bind themselves to the LORD on that day. They will be my people, and I will dwell in your midst. Then you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. [16]The LORD will inherit Judah as his portion of the holy land, and the LORD will again choose Jerusalem. [17]Silence, all people, in the presence of the LORD, who stirs forth from his holy dwelling.

Prophetic Vision: Joshua the High Priest. 3:1 Then he showed me Joshua the high priest standing before the angel of the LORD, while the adversary stood at his right side to accuse him. [2]And the angel of the LORD said to the adversary, "May the LORD rebuke you, O adversary; may the LORD who has chosen Jerusalem rebuke you! Is this not a brand plucked from the fire?"

[3]Now Joshua was standing before the angel, clad in filthy garments. [4]Then the angel said to those standing before him, "Remove his filthy garments." And to him he said, "Look, I have taken your guilt from you, and I am clothing you in stately robes." [5]Then he said, "Let them put a clean turban on his head." And they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with the garments while the angel of the LORD was standing by. [6]Then the angel of the LORD charged Joshua: [7]"Thus says the LORD of hosts: If you walk in my ways and carry out my charge, you will administer my house and watch over my courts; and I will give you access to those standing here."

Supplementary Oracle. [8]"Hear, O Joshua, high priest! You and your associates who sit before you! For they are signs of things to come! I will surely bring my servant the Branch. [9]Look at the stone that I have placed before Joshua. On this one stone with seven facets I will engrave its inscription—oracle of the LORD of hosts—and I will take away the guilt of that land in one day. [10]On that day—oracle of the LORD of hosts—you will invite one another under your vines and fig trees."

☐ REVELATION 17

Babylon the Great. 17:1 Then one of the seven angels who were holding the seven bowls came and said to me, "Come here. I will show you the judgment on the great harlot who lives near the many waters. [2]The kings of the earth have had intercourse with her, and the inhabitants of the earth became drunk on the wine of her harlotry." [3]Then he carried me away in spirit to a deserted place where I saw a woman seated on a scarlet beast that was covered with blasphemous names, with seven heads and ten horns. [4]The woman was wearing purple and scarlet and adorned with gold, precious stones, and pearls. She held in her hand a gold cup that was filled with the abominable and sordid deeds of her harlotry. [5]On her forehead was written a name, which is a mystery, "Babylon the great, the mother of harlots and of the abominations of the earth." [6]I saw that the woman was drunk on the blood of the holy ones and on the blood of the witnesses to Jesus.

Meaning of the Beast and Harlot. When I saw her I was greatly amazed. [7]The angel said to me, "Why are you amazed? I will explain to you the mystery of the woman and of the beast that carries her, the beast with the seven heads and the ten horns. [8]The beast that you saw existed once but now exists no longer. It will come up from the abyss and is headed for destruction. The inhabitants of the earth whose names have not been written in the book of life from the foundation of the world shall be amazed when they see the beast, because it existed once but exists no longer, and yet it will come again. [9]Here is a clue for one who has wisdom. The seven heads represent seven hills upon which the woman sits. They also represent seven kings: [10]five have already fallen, one still lives, and the last has not yet come, and when he comes he must remain only a short while. [11]The beast that existed once but exists no longer is an eighth king, but really belongs to the seven and is headed for destruction. [12]The ten horns that you saw represent ten kings who have not yet been crowned; they will receive royal authority along with the beast for one hour. [13]They are of one mind and will give their power and authority to the beast. [14]They will fight with the Lamb, but the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and king of kings, and those with him are called, chosen, and faithful."

[15]Then he said to me, "The waters that you saw where the harlot lives represent large numbers of peoples, nations, and tongues. [16]The ten horns that you saw and the beast will hate the harlot; they will leave her desolate and naked; they will eat her flesh and consume her with fire. [17]For God has put it into their minds to carry out his purpose and to make them come to an agreement to give their kingdom to the beast until the words of God are accomplished. [18]The woman whom you saw represents the great city that has sovereignty over the kings of the earth."

☐ ZECHARIAH 4-6

Fourth Vision: The Lampstand and the Two Olive Trees. 4:1 Then the angel who spoke with me returned and aroused me, like one awakened from sleep. [2]He said to me, "What do you see?" I replied, "I see a lampstand all of gold, with a bowl on top of it. There are seven lamps on it, with seven spouts on each of the lamps that are on top of it. [3]And beside it are two olive trees, one on the right of the bowl and one to its left." [4]Then I said to the angel who spoke with me, "What are these things, my lord?" [5]And the angel who spoke with me replied, "Do you not know what these things are?" I said, "No, my lord."

An Oracle. [6]Then he said to me: "This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might, and not by power, but by my spirit, says the LORD of hosts. [7]Who are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you become a plain. He will bring forth the first stone amid shouts of 'Favor, favor be upon it!' "

[8]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [9]The hands of Zerubbabel have laid the foundations of this house, and his hands will finish it. Thus you shall know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. [10]For whoever has scorned such a day of small things will rejoice to see the capstone in the hand of Zerubbabel.

Resumption of the Vision: Explanation of Lamps and Trees. "These seven are the eyes of the LORD that range over the whole earth." [11]I then asked him, "What are these two olive trees, on the right of the lampstand and on its left?" [12]A second time I asked, "What are the two streams from the olive trees that pour out golden oil through two taps of gold?" [13]He said to me, "Do you not know what these are?" I answered, "No, my lord." [14]Then he said, "These are the two anointed ones who stand by the Lord of the whole earth."

Fifth Vision: The Flying Scroll. 5:1 Then I raised my eyes again and saw a flying scroll. [2]He asked me, "What do you see?" I answered, "I see a flying scroll, twenty cubits long and ten cubits wide." [3]Then he said to me: "This is the curse which is to go forth over the whole land. According to it, every thief and every perjurer will be expelled. [4]I will send it forth—oracle of the LORD of hosts—so that it will come to the house of the thief, and into the house of the one who swears falsely by my name. It shall lodge within each house, consuming it, timber and stones."

Sixth Vision: The Basket of Wickedness. [5]Then the angel who spoke with me came forward and said to me, "Raise your eyes and look. What is this that comes forth?" [6]I said, "What is it?" And he answered, "This is the basket that is coming." And he said, "This is their guilt in all the land." [7]Then a leaden cover was lifted, and there was a woman sitting inside the basket. [8]He said, "This is Wickedness," and he thrust her inside the basket, pushing the leaden weight into the opening.

[9]Then I raised my eyes and saw two women coming forth with wind under their wings—they had wings like the wings of a stork—and they lifted the basket into the air. [10]I said to the angel who spoke with me, "Where are they taking the basket?" [11]He replied, "To build a temple for it in the land of Shinar. When the temple is constructed, they will set it there on its base."

Seventh Vision: Four Chariots. 6:1 Again I raised my eyes and saw four chariots coming out from between two mountains; and the mountains were of bronze. [2]The first chariot had red horses, the second chariot black horses, [3]the third chariot white horses, and the fourth chariot dappled horses—all of them strong horses. [4]I asked the angel who spoke with me, "What are these, my lord?" [5]The angel answered me, "These are the four winds of the heavens, which are coming forth after presenting themselves before the LORD of all the earth. [6]The one with the black horses is going toward the land of the north, and the white horses go toward the west, and the dappled ones go toward the land of the south." [7]These strong horses went out, eager to set about patrolling the earth, for he said, "Go, patrol the earth!" So they patrolled the earth. [8]Then he cried out to me and said, "See, those who go forth to the land of the north provide rest for my spirit in the land of the north."

The Crowning. [9]Then the word of the LORD came to me: [10]Take from the exiles—Heldai, Tobijah, Jedaiah—and go the same day to the house of Josiah, son of Zephaniah. (These had come from Babylon.) [11]You will take silver and gold, and make crowns; place one on the head of Joshua, son of Jehozadak, the high priest. [12]And say to him: Thus says the LORD of hosts: There is a man whose name is Branch — and from his place he will branch out and he will build the temple of the LORD. [13]He will build the temple of the LORD, and taking up the royal insignia, he will sit as ruler upon his throne. The priest will be at his right hand, and between the two of them there will be peaceful understanding. [14]The other crown will be in the temple of the LORD as a gracious reminder to Heldai, Tobijah, Jedaiah, and the son of Zephaniah. [15]And they who are from afar will come and build the temple of the LORD, and you will know that the LORD of hosts has sent me to you. This will happen if you truly obey the LORD your God.

□ REVELATION 18

The Fall of Babylon. 18:1 After this I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, and the earth became illumined by his splendor. [2]He cried out in a mighty voice:

"Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great.
  She has become a haunt for demons.
She is a cage for every unclean spirit,
  a cage for every unclean bird,
  [a cage for every unclean] and disgusting [beast].
[3]For all the nations have drunk
  the wine of her licentious passion.
The kings of the earth had intercourse with her,
  and the merchants of the earth grew rich from her drive for luxury."

[4]Then I heard another voice from heaven say:

"Depart from her, my people,
  so as not to take part in her sins
  and receive a share in her plagues, [5]for her sins are piled up to the sky,
  and God remembers her crimes.
[6]Pay her back as she has paid others.
  Pay her back double for her deeds.
  Into her cup pour double what she poured.
[7]To the measure of her boasting and wantonness repay her in torment and grief;
for she said to herself,
  'I sit enthroned as queen;
  I am no widow,
  and I will never know grief.'

[8]Therefore, her plagues will come in one day, pestilence, grief, and famine;
she will be consumed by fire.
For mighty is the Lord God who judges her."

[9]The kings of the earth who had intercourse with her in their wantonness will weep and mourn over her when they see the smoke of her pyre. [10]They will keep their distance for fear of the torment inflicted on her, and they will say:

"Alas, alas, great city,
Babylon, mighty city.
In one hour your judgment has come."

[11]The merchants of the earth will weep and mourn for her, because there will be no more markets for their cargo: [12]their cargo of gold, silver, precious stones, and pearls; fine linen, purple silk, and scarlet cloth; fragrant wood of every kind, all articles of ivory and all articles of the most expensive wood, bronze, iron, and marble; [13]cinnamon, spice, incense, myrrh, and frankincense; wine, olive oil, fine flour, and wheat; cattle and sheep, horses and chariots, and slaves, that is, human beings.

[14]"The fruit you craved has left you.
All your luxury and splendor are gone,
never again will one find them."

[15]The merchants who deal in these goods, who grew rich from her, will keep their distance for fear of the torment inflicted on her. Weeping and mourning, [16]they cry out:

"Alas, alas, great city,
wearing fine linen, purple and scarlet,
adorned [in] gold, precious stones, and pearls.
[17]In one hour this great wealth has been ruined." Every captain of a ship, every traveler at sea, sailors, and seafaring merchants stood at a distance

[18]and cried out when they saw the smoke of her pyre, "What city could compare with the great city?" [19]They threw dust on their heads and cried out, weeping and mourning:

"Alas, alas, great city,
in which all who had ships at sea
grew rich from her wealth.
In one hour she has been ruined.
[20]Rejoice over her, heaven,
you holy ones, apostles, and prophets.
For God has judged your case against her."

[21]A mighty angel picked up a stone like a huge millstone and threw it into the sea and said:

"With such force will Babylon the great city be thrown down,
and will never be found again.
[22]No melodies of harpists and musicians,
flutists and trumpeters,
will ever be heard in you again.
No craftsmen in any trade
will ever be found in you again.

No sound of the millstone
will ever be heard in you again.
[23]No light from a lamp
will ever be seen in you again.
No voices of bride and groom
will ever be heard in you again.
Because your merchants were the great ones of the world,
all nations were led astray by your magic potion.
[24]In her was found the blood of prophets and holy ones
and all who have been slain on the earth."

The Holy Innocents

I give thanks to Almighty God that He has not considered me unworthy to be the mother of a child admitted into the heavenly kingdom. Having left the world in the white robe of his innocence, he will rejoice in the presence of God through all eternity.

☐ ZECHARIAH 7-9

A Question About Fasting. 7:1 In the fourth year of Darius the king, the word of the LORD came to Zechariah, on the fourth day of the ninth month, Kislev. [2]Bethelsarezer sent Regem-melech and his men to implore the favor of the LORD [3]and to ask the priests of the house of the LORD of hosts, and the prophets, "Must I weep and abstain in the fifth month as I have been doing these many years?" [4]Then the word of the LORD of hosts came to me: [5]Say to all the people of the land and to the priests: When you fasted and lamented in the fifth and in the seventh month these seventy years, was it really for me that you fasted? [6]When you were eating and drinking, was it not for yourselves that you ate and for yourselves that you drank?

[7]Are these not the words which the LORD proclaimed through the earlier prophets, when Jerusalem and its surrounding cities were inhabited and secure, when the Negeb and the Shephelah were inhabited? [8]The word of the LORD came to Zechariah: [9]Thus says the LORD of hosts: Judge with true justice, and show kindness and compassion toward each other. [10]Do not oppress the widow or the orphan, the resident alien or the poor; do not plot evil against one another in your hearts. [11]But they refused to listen; they stubbornly turned their backs and stopped their ears so as not to hear. [12]And they made their hearts as hard as diamond so as not to hear the instruction and the words that the LORD of hosts had sent by his spirit through the earlier prophets. So great anger came from the LORD of hosts: [13]Just as when I called out and they did not listen, so they will call out and I will not listen, says the LORD of hosts. [14]And I will scatter them among all the nations that they do not know. So the land was left desolate behind them with no one moving about, and they made a pleasant land into a wasteland.

Seven Oracles: Judah and Zion Restored. 8:1 Then the word of the LORD of hosts came: [2]Thus says the LORD of hosts:

I am intensely jealous for Zion,
stirred to jealous wrath for her.

[3]Thus says the LORD:

I have returned to Zion,

and I will dwell within Jerusalem;
Jerusalem will be called the faithful city,
and the mountain of the LORD of hosts, the holy mountain.

[4]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Old men and old women will again sit in the streets of Jerusalem, each with staff in hand because of old age. [5]The city will be filled with boys and girls playing in its streets.
[6]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Even if this should seem impossible in the eyes of the remnant of this people in those days, should it seem impossible in my eyes also?—oracle of the LORD of hosts.
[7]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
I am going to rescue my people from the land of the rising sun, and from the land of the setting sun. [8]I will bring them back to dwell within Jerusalem. They will be my people, and I will be their God, in faithfulness and justice.
[9]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Let your hands be strong, you who now hear these words which were spoken by the prophets when the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid for the building of the temple. [10]For before those days, there were no wages for people, nor hire for animals. Those who came and went were not safe from the enemy, for I set neighbor against neighbor. [11]But now I will not deal with the remnant of this people as in former days—oracle of the LORD of hosts.

[12]For there will be a sowing of peace:
the vine will yield its fruit,
the land will yield its crops,
and the heavens will yield their dew.

I will give all these things to the remnant of this people to possess. [13]Just as you became a curse among the nations, O house of Judah and house of Israel, so will I save you that you may be a blessing. Do not fear; let your hands be strong.
[14]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
Just as I intended to harm you when your ancestors angered me—says the LORD of hosts—and I did not relent, [15]so again in these days I intend to favor Jerusalem and the house of Judah; do not fear! [16]These then are the things you must do: Speak the truth to one another; judge with honesty and complete justice in your gates. [17]Let none of you plot evil against another in your heart, nor love a false oath. For all these things I hate—oracle of the LORD.
Three Oracles: Judah and the Nations. [18]The word of the LORD of hosts came to me:
[19]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
The fast days of the fourth, the fifth, the seventh, and the tenth months will become occasions of joy and gladness, and happy festivals for the house of Judah. So love faithfulness and peace!
[20]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
There will yet come peoples and inhabitants of many cities; [21]and the inhabitants of one city will approach those of another, and say, "Come! let us go to implore the favor of the LORD and to seek the LORD of hosts. I too am going." [22]Many peoples and strong nations will come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem and to implore the favor of the LORD.
[23]Thus says the LORD of hosts:
In those days ten people from nations of every language will take hold, yes, will take hold of the cloak of every Judahite and say, "Let us go with you, for we have heard that God is with you."

Restoration of the Land of Israel. 9:1 An oracle: the word of the LORD is against the land of Hadrach, and Damascus is its destination,
For the cities of Aram are the LORD's,
as are all the tribes of Israel.
[2]Hamath also on its border,
Tyre too, and Sidon, no matter how clever they be.
[3]Tyre built itself a stronghold,

and heaped up silver like dust,
and gold like the mud of the streets.
[4]But now the Lord will dispossess it,
and cast its wealth into the sea,
and it will be devoured by fire.
[5]Ashkelon will see it and be afraid;
Gaza too will be in great anguish;
Ekron also, for its hope will wither.
The king will disappear from Gaza,
Ashkelon will not be inhabited,
[6]and the illegitimate will rule in Ashdod.
I will destroy the pride of the Philistines
[7]and take from their mouths their bloody prey,
their disgusting meat from between their teeth.
They will become merely a remnant for our God,
and will be like a clan in Judah;
Ekron will be like the Jebusites.
[8]I will encamp at my house,
a garrison against invaders;
No oppressor will overrun them again,
for now I have seen their affliction.

The King's Entry into Jerusalem. [9]Exult greatly, O daughter Zion!
Shout for joy, O daughter Jerusalem!
Behold: your king is coming to you,
a just savior is he,
Humble, and riding on a donkey,
on a colt, the foal of a donkey.
[10]He shall banish the chariot from Ephraim,
and the horse from Jerusalem;
The warrior's bow will be banished,
and he will proclaim peace to the nations.
His dominion will be from sea to sea,
and from the River to the ends of the earth.

Restoration of the People. [11]As for you, by the blood of your covenant,
I have freed your prisoners from a waterless pit.
[12]Return to a fortress,
O prisoners of hope;
This very day, I announce
I am restoring double to you.
[13]For I have bent Judah as my bow,
I have set Ephraim as its arrow;
I will arouse your sons, O Zion,
against your sons, O Yavan,
and I will use you as a warrior's sword.
[14]The LORD will appear over them,
God's arrow will shoot forth as lightning;
The Lord GOD will sound the ram's horn,
and come in a storm from the south.

15 The LORD of hosts will protect them;
they will devour and conquer with sling stones,
they will drink and become heated as with wine;
they will be full like bowls—like the corners of the altar.
16 And the LORD their God will save them:
the people, like a flock on that day;
For like gemstones of a crown
they will shine on the land.
17 Then how good and how lovely!
Grain will make the young men flourish,
and new wine the young women.

☐ REVELATION 19

19:1 After this I heard what sounded like the loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, saying:

"Alleluia!
Salvation, glory, and might belong to our God,
2 for true and just are his judgments.
He has condemned the great harlot
who corrupted the earth with her harlotry.
He has avenged on her the blood of his servants."

3 They said a second time:

"Alleluia! Smoke will rise from her forever and ever."

4 The twenty-four elders and the four living creatures fell down and worshiped God who sat on the throne, saying, "Amen. Alleluia."

The Victory Song. 5 A voice coming from the throne said:

"Praise our God, all you his servants,
[and] you who revere him, small and great."

6 Then I heard something like the sound of a great multitude or the sound of rushing water or mighty peals of thunder, as they said:

"Alleluia!
The Lord has established his reign,
[our] God, the almighty.
7 Let us rejoice and be glad
and give him glory.
For the wedding day of the Lamb has come,
his bride has made herself ready.
8 She was allowed to wear
a bright, clean linen garment."

(The linen represents the righteous deeds of the holy ones.)

[9]Then the angel said to me, "Write this: Blessed are those who have been called to the wedding feast of the Lamb." And he said to me, "These words are true; they come from God." [10]I fell at his feet to worship him. But he said to me, "Don't! I am a fellow servant of yours and of your brothers who bear witness to Jesus. Worship God. Witness to Jesus is the spirit of prophecy."

The King of Kings. [11]Then I saw the heavens opened, and there was a white horse; its rider was [called] "Faithful and True." He judges and wages war in righteousness. [12]His eyes were [like] a fiery flame, and on his head were many diadems. He had a name inscribed that no one knows except himself. [13]He wore a cloak that had been dipped in blood, and his name was called the Word of God. [14]The armies of heaven followed him, mounted on white horses and wearing clean white linen. [15]Out of his mouth came a sharp sword to strike the nations. He will rule them with an iron rod, and he himself will tread out in the wine press the wine of the fury and wrath of God the almighty. [16]He has a name written on his cloak and on his thigh, "King of kings and Lord of lords."

[17]Then I saw an angel standing on the sun. He cried out [in] a loud voice to all the birds flying high overhead, "Come here. Gather for God's great feast, [18]to eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of military officers, and the flesh of warriors, the flesh of horses and of their riders, and the flesh of all, free and slave, small and great." [19]Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth and their armies gathered to fight against the one riding the horse and against his army. [20]The beast was caught and with it the false prophet who had performed in its sight the signs by which he led astray those who had accepted the mark of the beast and those who had worshiped its image. The two were thrown alive into the fiery pool burning with sulfur. [21]The rest were killed by the sword that came out of the mouth of the one riding the horse, and all the birds gorged themselves on their flesh.

St. Thomas Becket

In this world sow seeds of righteousness, and in the resurrection gather them in.

☐ ZECHARIAH 10-12

The Lord Strengthens Judah and Rescues Ephraim. 10:1 Ask the LORD for rain in the spring season,
the LORD who brings storm clouds, and heavy rains,
who gives to everyone grain in the fields.
[2]For the teraphim have spoken nonsense,
the diviners have seen false visions;
Deceitful dreams they have told,
empty comfort they have offered.
This is why they wandered like sheep,
wretched, for they have no shepherd.
[3]My wrath is kindled against the shepherds,
and I will punish the leaders.
For the LORD of hosts attends to the flock, the house of Judah,
and will make them like a splendid horse in battle.
[4]From them will come the tower,
from them the tent peg,
from them the bow of war,
from them every officer.
[5]Together they will be like warriors,
trampling the mud of the streets in battle.
They will wage war because the LORD is with them,

and will put the horsemen to shame.
[6]I will strengthen the house of Judah,
the house of Joseph I will save;
I will bring them back, because I have mercy on them;
they will be as if I had never cast them off,
for I am the LORD their God, and I will answer them.
[7]Then Ephraim will be like a hero,
and their hearts will be cheered as by wine.
Their children will see and rejoice—
their hearts will exult in the LORD.
[8]I will whistle for them and gather them in;
for I will redeem them
and they will be as numerous as before.
[9]I sowed them among the nations,
yet in distant lands they will remember me;
they will bear their children and return.
[10]I will bring them back from the land of Egypt,
and gather them from Assyria.
To the land of Gilead and to Lebanon I will bring them,
until no room is found for them.
[11]I will cross over to Egypt and smite the waves of the sea,
and all the depths of the Nile will dry up.
The pride of Assyria will be cast down,
and the scepter of Egypt disappear.
[12]I will strengthen them in the LORD,
in whose name they will walk—oracle of the LORD.

The Cry of Trees, Shepherds, and Lions. 11:1 Open your doors, Lebanon, that fire may devour your cedars!
[2]Wail, cypress trees,
for the cedars are fallen,
the mighty are destroyed!
Wail, oaks of Bashan,
for the dense forest is cut down!
[3]Listen! the wailing of shepherds,
their glory has been destroyed.
Listen! the roaring of young lions,
the thickets of the Jordan are destroyed.

The Shepherd Narrative. [4]Thus says the LORD, my God: Shepherd the flock to be slaughtered. [5]For they who buy them slay them and are not held accountable; while those who sell them say, "Blessed be the LORD, I have become rich!" Even their own shepherds will not pity them. [6]For I will no longer pity the inhabitants of the earth—oracle of the LORD.—Yes, I will deliver them into each other's power, or into the power of their kings; they will crush the earth, and I will not deliver it out of their power.

[7]So I shepherded the flock to be slaughtered for the merchants of the flock. I took two staffs: one I called Delight, and the other Union. Thus I shepherded the flock. [8]In a single month, I did away with the three shepherds, for I wearied of them, and they disdained me. [9]"I will not shepherd you," I said. "Whoever is to die shall die; whoever is to be done away with shall be done away with; and those who are left shall devour one another's flesh."

[10]Then I took my staff Delight and snapped it in two, breaking my covenant which I had made with all peoples. [11]So it was broken on that day. The merchants of the flock, who were watching me, understood that this was the word of the LORD. [12]Then I said to them, "If it seems good to you, give me my wages; but if not, withhold them." And they counted out my wages, thirty pieces of silver. [13]Then the LORD said to me, Throw it in the treasury—the handsome price at which they valued me. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the treasury in the house of the LORD. [14]Then I snapped in two my second staff, Union, breaking the kinship between Judah and Israel.

[15]The LORD said to me: This time take the gear of a foolish shepherd. [16]For I am raising up a shepherd in the land who will take no note of those that disappear, nor seek the strays, nor heal the injured, nor feed the exhausted; but he will eat the flesh of the fat ones and tear off their hoofs!

Oracle to the Worthless Shepherd. [17]Ah! my worthless shepherd who forsakes the flock!
May the sword fall upon his arm
and upon his right eye;
His arm will surely wither,
and his right eye surely go blind!

Oracles Concerning the Nations and Judah. 12:1 An oracle: The word of the LORD concerning Israel—oracle of the LORD, who spreads out the heavens, lays the foundations of the earth, and fashions the human spirit within: [2]See, I will make Jerusalem a cup of reeling for all peoples round about. Judah will be besieged, even Jerusalem. [3]On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all peoples. All who attempt to lift it will injure themselves badly, though all the nations of the earth will gather against it. [4]On that day—oracle of the LORD—I will strike every horse with fright, and its rider with madness. But over the house of Judah I will keep watch, while I strike blind all the horses of the peoples. [5]Then the clans of Judah will say to themselves, "The inhabitants of Jerusalem have their strength in the LORD of hosts, their God." [6]On that day I will make the clans of Judah like a brazier of fire in the woodland and like a burning torch among sheaves, and they will devour right and left all the surrounding peoples; but Jerusalem will again inhabit its own place.

[7]The LORD will save the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem may not be exalted over Judah. [8]On that day the LORD will shield the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the weakest among them will be like David on that day; and the house of David will be like God, like the angel of the LORD before them.

[9]On that day I will seek the destruction of all nations that come against Jerusalem. [10]I will pour out on the house of David and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of mercy and supplication, so that when they look on him whom they have thrust through, they will mourn for him as one mourns for an only child, and they will grieve for him as one grieves over a firstborn.

Catalogue of Mourners. [11]On that day the mourning in Jerusalem will be as great as the mourning for Hadadrimmon in the plain of Megiddo. [12]And the land shall mourn, each family apart: the family of the house of David, and their women; the family of the house of Nathan, and their women; [13]the family of the house of Levi, and their women; the family of Shimei, and their women; [14]and all the rest of the families, each family apart, and the women apart.

☐ REVELATION 20

The Thousand-year Reign. 20:1 Then I saw an angel come down from heaven, holding in his hand the key to the abyss and a heavy chain. [2]He seized the dragon, the ancient serpent, which is the Devil or Satan, and tied it up for a thousand years [3]and threw it into the abyss, which he locked over it and sealed, so that it could no longer lead the nations astray until the thousand years are completed. After this, it is to be released for a short time.

[4]Then I saw thrones; those who sat on them were entrusted with judgment. I also saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, and who had not worshiped the beast or its image nor had accepted its mark on their foreheads or hands. They came to life and they reigned with Christ for a thousand years. [5]The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were over. This is the first resurrection.

[6]Blessed and holy is the one who shares in the first resurrection. The second death has no power over these; they will be priests of God and of Christ, and they will reign with him for [the] thousand years.

[7]When the thousand years are completed, Satan will be released from his prison. [8]He will go out to deceive the nations at the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them for battle; their number is like the sand of the sea. [9]They invaded the breadth of the earth and surrounded the camp of the holy ones and the beloved city. But fire came down from heaven and consumed them. [10]The Devil who had led them astray was thrown into the pool of fire and sulfur, where the beast and the false prophet were. There they will be tormented day and night forever and ever.

The Large White Throne. [11]Next I saw a large white throne and the one who was sitting on it. The earth and the sky fled from his presence and there was no place for them. [12]I saw the dead, the great and the lowly, standing before the throne, and scrolls were opened. Then another scroll was opened, the book of life. The dead were judged according to their deeds, by what was written in the scrolls. [13]The sea gave up its dead; then Death and Hades gave up their dead. All the dead were judged according to their deeds. [14]Then Death and Hades were thrown into the pool of fire. (This pool of fire is the second death.) [15]Anyone whose name was not found written in the book of life was thrown into the pool of fire.

December 30

> God always was, and is, and will be; or better, He always is: "Was" and "will be" are portions of time as we reckon it, and are of a changing nature. He, however, is ever existing. He gathers in himself the whole of being, because He neither has beginning nor will He have an end. He is like some great Sea of Being, limitless and unbounded, transcending every conception of time and nature.

☐ ZECHARIAH 13-14

Oracles Concerning the End of False Prophecy. 13:1 On that day a fountain will be opened for the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to purify from sin and uncleanness.

[2]On that day—oracle of the LORD of hosts—I will destroy the names of the idols from the land, so that they will be mentioned no more; I will also remove the prophets and the spirit of uncleanness from the land. [3]If any still prophesy, their father and mother who bore them will say, "You will not live, because you have spoken a lie in the name of the LORD." Their father and mother who bore them will thrust them through when they prophesy.

[4]On that day, all prophets will be ashamed of the visions they prophesy; and they will not put on the hairy mantle to mislead, [5]but each will say, "I am not a prophet. I am a tiller of the soil, for I have owned land since my youth." [6]And if anyone asks, "What are these wounds on your chest?" each will answer, "I received these wounds in the house of my friends."

The Song of the Sword. [7]Awake, O sword, against my shepherd, against the one who is my associate
—oracle of the LORD of hosts.
Strike the shepherd
that the sheep may be scattered;
I will turn my hand against the little ones.
[8]In all the land—oracle of the LORD—
two thirds of them will be cut off and perish,
and one third will be left.
[9]I will bring the one third through the fire;
I will refine them as one refines silver,
and I will test them as one tests gold.

They will call upon my name, and I will answer them;
I will say, "They are my people,"
and they will say, "The LORD is my God."

Devastation and Rescue of Jerusalem. 14:1 A day is coming for the LORD when the spoils taken from you will be divided in your midst. 2And I will gather all the nations against Jerusalem for battle: The city will be taken, houses will be plundered, women raped; half the city will go into exile, but the rest of the people will not be removed from the city.
3Then the LORD will go forth and fight against those nations, fighting as on a day of battle. 4On that day God's feet will stand on the Mount of Olives, which is opposite Jerusalem to the east. The Mount of Olives will be split in two from east to west by a very deep valley, and half of the mountain will move to the north and half of it to the south. 5You will flee by the valley between the mountains, for the valley between the mountains will reach to Azal. Thus you will flee as you fled because of the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah. Then the LORD, my God, will come, and all his holy ones with him.

Jerusalem Restored. 6On that day there will no longer be cold or frost. 7There will be one continuous day—it is known to the LORD—not day and night, for in the evening there will be light. 8On that day, fresh water will flow from Jerusalem, half to the eastern sea, and half to the western sea. This will be so in summer and in winter. 9The LORD will be king over the whole earth; on that day the LORD will be the only one, and the LORD's name the only one. 10All the land will turn into a plain, from Geba to Rimmon, south of Jerusalem, which will stand exalted in its place—from the Gate of Benjamin to the place of the first gate, to the Corner Gate and from the Tower of Hananel to the king's wine presses. 11The city will be inhabited; never again will it be doomed. Jerusalem will dwell securely.

The Fate of Jerusalem's Foes. 12And this will be the plague with which the LORD will strike all the peoples that have fought against Jerusalem: their flesh will rot while they stand on their feet, and their eyes will rot in their sockets, and their tongues will rot in their mouths. 13On that day a great panic from the LORD will be upon them. They will seize each other's hands, and their hands will be raised against each other. 14Even Judah will fight against Jerusalem. The riches of all the surrounding nations will be gathered together—gold, silver, and garments—in great abundance. 15Like
the plague on human beings will be the plague upon the horses, mules, camels, donkeys, and upon all the beasts that are in those camps.

The Future: Jerusalem, Judah, and the Nations. 16Everyone who is left of all the nations that came against Jerusalem will go up year after year to bow down to the King, the LORD of hosts, and to celebrate the feast of Booths.
17Should any of the families of the earth not go up to Jerusalem to bow down to the King, the LORD of hosts, then there will be no rain for them. 18And if the family of Egypt does not go up or enter, upon them will fall the plague, with which the LORD strikes the nations that do not go up to celebrate the feast of Booths. 19This will be the punishment of Egypt and the punishment of all the nations that do not go up to celebrate the feast of Booths.

20On that day, "Holy to the LORD" will be written on the horses' bells. The pots in the house of the LORD will be as the basins before the altar. 21Every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah will be holy to the LORD of hosts. All who come to sacrifice will take them and cook in them. No longer will there be merchants in the house of the LORD of hosts on that day.

☐ REVELATION 21

The New Heaven and the New Earth. 21:1 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth. The former heaven and the former earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. 2I also saw the holy city, a new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. 3I heard a loud voice from the throne saying,
"Behold, God's dwelling is with the human race. He will dwell with them and they will be his people and God himself will always be with them [as their God]. 4He will wipe every tear from their eyes, and there shall be no more death or mourning, wailing or pain, [for] the old order has passed away."

5The one who sat on the throne said, "Behold, I make all things new." Then he said, "Write these words down, for they are trustworthy and true." 6He said to me, "They are accomplished. I [am] the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. To the thirsty I will give a gift from the spring of life-giving water. 7The victor will inherit these gifts, and I shall be his God, and he will be my son. 8But as for cowards, the unfaithful, the depraved, murderers, the unchaste, sorcerers, idol-worshipers, and deceivers of every sort, their lot is in the burning pool of fire and sulfur, which is the second death."

The New Jerusalem. [9]One of the seven angels who held the seven bowls filled with the seven last plagues came and said to me, "Come here. I will show you the bride, the wife of the Lamb." [10]He took me in spirit to a great, high mountain and showed me the holy city Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God. [11]It gleamed with the splendor of God. Its radiance was like that of a precious stone, like jasper, clear as crystal. [12]It had a massive, high wall, with twelve gates where twelve angels were stationed and on which names were inscribed, [the names] of the twelve tribes of the Israelites. [13]There were three gates facing east, three north, three south, and three west. [14]The wall of the city had twelve courses of stones as its foundation, on which were inscribed the twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

[15]The one who spoke to me held a gold measuring rod to measure the city, its gates, and its wall. [16]The city was square, its length the same as [also] its width. He measured the city with the rod and found it fifteen hundred miles in length and width and height. [17]He also measured its wall: one hundred and forty-four cubits according to the standard unit of measurement the angel used. [18]The wall was constructed of jasper, while the city was pure gold, clear as glass. [19]The foundations of the city wall were decorated with every precious stone; the first course of stones was jasper, the second sapphire, the third chalcedony, the fourth emerald, [20]the fifth sardonyx, the sixth carnelian, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoprase, the eleventh hyacinth, and the twelfth amethyst. [21]The twelve gates were twelve pearls, each of the gates made from a single pearl; and the street of the city was of pure gold, transparent as glass.

[22]I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God almighty and the Lamb. [23]The city had no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the glory of God gave it light, and its lamp was the Lamb. [24]The nations will walk by its light, and to it the kings of the earth will bring their treasure. [25]During the day its gates will never be shut, and there will be no night there. [26]The treasure and wealth of the nations will be brought there, [27]but nothing unclean will enter it, nor any[one] who does abominable things or tells lies. Only those will enter whose names are written in the Lamb's book of life.

Pope St. Sylvester I

You will no sooner have resolved to give yourself to God than hell will send out its forces against you. Don't be discouraged. Remember that the prize for which you are striving is worth more than all you can ever give to purchase it.

☐ MALACHI

1:1 An oracle. The word of the LORD to Israel through Malachi.

Israel Preferred to Edom. [2]I love you, says the LORD;
but you say, "How do you love us?"
[3]Was not Esau Jacob's brother?—oracle of the LORD.
I loved Jacob, but rejected Esau;
I made his mountains a waste,
his heritage a desert for jackals.
[4]If Edom says, "We have been crushed,
but we will rebuild the ruins,"
Thus says the LORD of hosts:
They indeed may build, but I will tear down,
And they shall be called "territory of wickedness,"

the people with whom the LORD is angry forever.
[5]Your own eyes will see it, and you will say,
"Great is the LORD, even beyond the territory of Israel."

Offense in Sacrifice and Priestly Duty. [6]A son honors his father,
and a servant fears his master;
If, then, I am a father,
where is the honor due to me?
And if I am a master,
where is the fear due to me?
So says the LORD of hosts to you, O priests,
who disdain my name.
But you ask, "How have we disdained your name?"
[7]By offering defiled food on my altar!
You ask, "How have we defiled it?"
By saying that the table of the LORD may be disdained!
[8]When you offer a blind animal for sacrifice,
is there no wrong in that?
When you offer a lame or sick animal,
is there no wrong in that?
Present it to your governor!
Will he be pleased with you—or show you favor?
says the LORD of hosts.
[9]So now implore God's favor, that he may have mercy on us!
You are the ones who have done this;
Will he show favor to any of you?
says the LORD of hosts.
[10]Oh, that one of you would just shut the temple gates to keep you from kindling fire on my altar in vain!
I take no pleasure in you, says the LORD of hosts;
and I will not accept any offering from your hands!
[11]From the rising of the sun to its setting,
my name is great among the nations;
Incense offerings are made to my name everywhere,
and a pure offering;
For my name is great among the nations,
says the LORD of hosts.
[12]But you profane it by saying that the LORD's table is defiled,
and its food may be disdained.
[13]You say, "See what a burden this is!"
and you exasperate me, says the LORD of hosts;
You bring in what is mutilated, or lame, or sick;
you bring it as an offering!
Will I accept it from your hands?
says the LORD.
[14]Cursed is the cheat who has in his flock an intact male, and vows it, but sacrifices to the LORD a defective one instead;
For a great king am I, says the LORD of hosts,
and my name is feared among the nations.

2:1 And now, priests, this commandment is for you:
If you do not listen,
[2]And if you do not take to heart
giving honor to my name, says the LORD of hosts,
I will send a curse upon you and your blessing I will curse.
In fact, I have already cursed it,
because you do not take it to heart.
[3]I will rebuke your offspring;
I will spread dung on your faces,
Dung from your feasts,
and will carry you to it.
[4]You should know that I sent you this commandment
so that my covenant with Levi might endure,
says the LORD of hosts.
[5]My covenant with him was the life and peace which I gave him,
and the fear he had for me,
standing in awe of my name.
[6]Reliable instruction was in his mouth,
no perversity was found upon his lips;
He walked with me in integrity and uprightness,
and turned many away from evil.
[7]For a priest's lips preserve knowledge,
and instruction is to be sought from his mouth,
because he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.
[8]But you have turned aside from the way,
and have caused many to stumble by your instruction;
You have corrupted the covenant of Levi,
says the LORD of hosts.
[9]I, therefore, have made you contemptible
and base before all the people,
For you do not keep my ways,
but show partiality in your instruction.

Marriage and Divorce. [10]Have we not all one father?
Has not one God created us?
Why, then, do we break faith with each other,
profaning the covenant of our ancestors?
[11]Judah has broken faith; an abominable thing has been done in Israel and in Jerusalem.
Judah has profaned the LORD's holy place, which he loves,
and has married a daughter of a foreign god.
[12]May the LORD cut off from the man who does this both witness and advocate from the tents of Jacob, and anyone to bring an offering to the LORD of hosts!
[13]This also you do: the altar of the LORD you cover with tears, weeping, and groaning, Because the Lord no longer takes note of your offering or accepts it favorably from your hand.
[14]And you say, "Why?"—

Because the LORD is witness between you and the wife of your youth
With whom you have broken faith,
though she is your companion, your covenanted wife.
15 Did he not make them one, with flesh and spirit?
And what does the One require? Godly offspring!
You should be on guard, then, for your life,
and do not break faith with the wife of your youth.
16 For I hate divorce,
says the LORD, the God of Israel,
And the one who covers his garment with violence,
says the LORD of hosts.
You should be on guard, then, for your life,
and you must not break faith.

Purification and Just Judgment. 17 You have wearied the LORD with your words, yet you say, "How have we wearied him?"
By saying, "All evildoers
are good in the sight of the LORD,
And he is pleased with them,"
or "Where is the just God?"

The Messenger of the Covenant. 3:1 Now I am sending my messenger—
he will prepare the way before me;
And the lord whom you seek will come suddenly to his temple;
The messenger of the covenant whom you desire—
see, he is coming! says the LORD of hosts.
2 But who can endure the day of his coming?
Who can stand firm when he appears?
For he will be like a refiner's fire,
like fullers' lye.
3 He will sit refining and purifying silver,
and he will purify the Levites, Refining them like gold or silver,
that they may bring offerings to the LORD in righteousness.
4 Then the offering of Judah and Jerusalem will please the LORD,
as in ancient days, as in years gone by.
5 I will draw near to you for judgment,
and I will be swift to bear witness Against sorcerers, adulterers, and perjurers,
those who deprive a laborer of wages,
Oppress a widow or an orphan,
or turn aside a resident alien,
without fearing me, says the LORD of hosts.

Gifts for God, Blessings for the People. 6 For I, the LORD, do not change, and you, sons of Jacob, do not cease to be.
7 Since the days of your ancestors you have turned aside from my statutes and have not kept them.
Return to me, that I may return to you,

says the LORD of hosts.
But you say, "Why should we return?"
[8]Can anyone rob God? But you are robbing me!
And you say, "How have we robbed you?"
Of tithes and contributions!
[9]You are indeed accursed,
for you, the whole nation, rob me.
[10]Bring the whole tithe
into the storehouse,
That there may be food in my house.
Put me to the test, says the LORD of hosts,
And see if I do not open the floodgates of heaven for you,
and pour down upon you blessing without measure!
[11]I will rebuke the locust for you
so that it will not destroy your crops,
And the vine in the field will not be barren,
says the LORD of hosts.
[12]All the nations will call you blessed,
for you will be a delightful land,
says the LORD of hosts.

The Need To Serve God. [13]Your words are too much for me, says the LORD.
You ask, "What have we spoken against you?"
[14]You have said, "It is useless to serve God;
what do we gain by observing God's requirements,
And by going about as mourners
before the LORD of hosts?
[15]But we call the arrogant blessed;
for evildoers not only prosper
but even test God and escape."
[16]Then those who fear the LORD spoke with one another, and the LORD listened attentively;
A record book was written before him
of those who fear the LORD and esteem his name.
[17]They shall be mine, says the LORD of hosts,
my own special possession, on the day when I take action.
And I will have compassion on them,
as a man has compassion on his son who serves him.
[18]Then you will again distinguish between the just and the wicked, Between the person who serves God,
and the one who does not.
[19]For the day is coming, blazing like an oven,
when all the arrogant and all evildoers will be stubble,
And the day that is coming will set them on fire,
leaving them neither root nor branch,
says the LORD of hosts.
[20]But for you who fear my name, the sun of justice will arise with healing in its wings;
And you will go out leaping like calves from the stall

[21]and tread down the wicked;
They will become dust under the soles of your feet,
on the day when I take action, says the LORD of hosts.

Moses and Elijah. [22]Remember the law of Moses my servant,
whom I charged at Horeb
With statutes and ordinances
for all Israel.
[23]Now I am sending to you
Elijah the prophet,
Before the day of the LORD comes,
the great and terrible day;
[24]He will turn the heart of fathers to their sons,
and the heart of sons to their fathers,
Lest I come and strike
the land with utter destruction.

☐ REVELATION 22

22:1 Then the angel showed me the river of life-giving water, sparkling like crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb [2]down the middle of its street. On either side of the river grew the tree of life that produces fruit twelve times a year, once each month; the leaves of the trees serve as medicine for the nations. [3]Nothing accursed will be found there anymore. The throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants will worship him. [4]They will look upon his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. [5]Night will be no more, nor will they need light from lamp or sun, for the Lord God shall give them light, and they shall reign forever and ever.

[6]And he said to me, "These words are trustworthy and true, and the Lord, the God of prophetic spirits, sent his angel to show his servants what must happen soon." [7]"Behold, I am coming soon." Blessed is the one who keeps the prophetic message of this book.

[8]It is I, John, who heard and saw these things, and when I heard and saw them I fell down to worship at the feet of the angel who showed them to me. [9]But he said to me, "Don't! I am a fellow servant of yours and of your brothers the prophets and of those who keep the message of this book. Worship God."

[10]Then he said to me, "Do not seal up the prophetic words of this book, for the appointed time is near. [11]Let the wicked still act wickedly, and the filthy still be filthy. The righteous must still do right, and the holy still be holy."

[12]"Behold, I am coming soon. I bring with me the recompense I will give to each according to his deeds. [13]I am the Alpha and the Omega, the first and the last, the beginning and the end."

[14]Blessed are they who wash their robes so as to have the right to the tree of life and enter the city through its gates. [15]Outside are the dogs, the sorcerers, the unchaste, the murderers, the idol-worshipers, and all who love and practice deceit.

[16]"I, Jesus, sent my angel to give you this testimony for the churches. I am the root and offspring of David, the bright morning star."

[17]The Spirit and the bride say, "Come." Let the hearer say, "Come." Let the one who thirsts come forward, and the one who wants it receive the gift of life-giving water.

[18]I warn everyone who hears the prophetic words in this book: if anyone adds to them, God will add to him the plagues described in this book, [19]and if anyone takes away from the words in this prophetic book, God will take away his share in the tree of life and in the holy city described in this book.

[20]The one who gives this testimony says, "Yes, I am coming soon." Amen! Come, Lord Jesus!

[21]The grace of the Lord Jesus be with all.
